Mr. Francis—I think General Clavering's Proposal in every Respect reasonable and expedient. If the Instructions which we may receive by the Eagle Packet should make no Alterations in the Circumstances or Measures of this Government, it will always be open to the Governor General to pursue his present Plan; the Difference of Time cannot be considerable; but if such Instructions as this Board have some Reason to expect should arrive, they cannot but produce the immediate Reversal of the present Resolution; and in that case it will have served no Purpose whatsoever, either public or private.

Governor General—I would willingly wait for the Arrival of the Eagle Packet, if I thought it was probable that she was on her Road; I have already waited to this Time, in the Expectation of decisive Advices from England; but I repeat, that, charged as I am, pointedly charged, with the Responsibility of Public Affairs, it is my Duty to avail myself of such Means as may enable me to conduct them for the Public Good and my own Credit. I have Intelligence which convinces me, that no Public Measure of any Consequence respecting this Government, could have taken place in England so late as the Month of June last; this News, though not of official Authority, is come to me sufficiently authenticated for my own internal Conviction. I must therefore object to the General's Motion.

Mr. Barwell—The Governor General having declined to withdraw his Motion, and the Opinion I have already given being direct to the Governor's Motion, it precludes my saying any Thing to the General.

General Clavering—I am concerned that a Motion which I have made to prevent the daily Alteration of Measures, which is a Disgrace to all Governments, should not have been accepted, particularly when the Object of it was to learn the clear and decisive Opinion of the Court of Directors, as well on the Subject now before the Board as on many others of the highest Importance to this Government; it is therefore sufficient that I declare my Dissent to the Removal of Mr. Bristow; and I cannot agree to the Appointment of Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, till he has acknowledged the Authority of this Government, in submitting to give up the Papers which were before required of him; as this is a positive Order of the Court of Directors, a Refusal from him can no longer be admitted.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to ask the Governor General, at what Time he received his latest Intelligence from England?

Governor General—About the Middle of August; I believe 14th of August.

Mr. Francis—I took the Liberty of asking this Question, because the Governor General has said, that he has waited to this Time in the Expectation of decisive Advices from England; that Expectation must have been founded on the Intelligence which he received on the 14th August, and as he has not received any Advices since that Period, I do not comprehend what new Motive or Consideration induces him to give up the Expectation of those decisive Advices for which he has hitherto waited. If he has hitherto expected the Arrival of the Eagle Packet, or of Intelligence by any other Channel, there is no apparent Reason why he should not still expect them.

Governor

Governor General—I have not expected the Eagle Packet; and I think the Season is now too far advanced for Intelligence to be received for some Months yet to come, by the Route through which I received my last Letters from England, which was by the Port of Suez, and through the Red Sea.

Some Arguments arising, respecting the Regularity of the previous Question proposed by General Clavering, for suspending the Consideration of the Governor General's Motion;

Governor General—To bring the General's Motion more regularly before the Board, I desire that the Question may be put, Whether my Motion shall be deferred till the Arrival of the Eagle Packet?

Mr. Francis—The General's Motion cannot be more regularly put than it was by himself. I entirely approve of it.

Mr. Barwell—I look upon this in the Light of a previous Question, Whether the Governor General's Question shall be put, or not? I have already acquiesced to its being put, and must therefore put a Negative upon this Motion.

General Clavering agrees to the Motion.

Governor General—I again object to it.

Resolved, That the Board do not agree to General Clavering's Proposition, for deferring the Consideration of the Governor General's Motion until the Arrival of the Eagle Packet.

General Clavering—The Court of Directors having been pleased, in the 28th Paragraph of their Letter of the 15th December 1775, to declare that Mr. Nathaniel Middleton's Correspondence with the late President, should have been addressed to the President and Council, or speedily and unreservedly laid before them by the President, and to express their Disapprobation, that any Part thereof had been withheld from the Perusal of the Supreme Council, I move, that before the Consent of this Board be obtained for the Appointment of Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Vizier's Court, that the Orders, or at least the plain and direct Intentions of the Court of Directors, be complied with.

Mr. Francis—If any Respect be due to the Sense of our Superiors, or if we expect Submission to our Authority hereafter, the Propriety of this Motion, I conceive, cannot possibly be disputed. The Court of Directors, and a General Court of Proprietors, have unanimously resolved that the Whole of Mr. Middleton's Correspondence with the Governor General ought to have been laid before the Board; and the Court of Directors express their strongest Disapprobation of the Refusal to communicate such Correspondence entire to us. As long as no Proposition was made for employing Mr. Middleton, and as the Public Service did not longer require that we should receive that Communication for our Guidance, it was needless to renew the Requisition to Mr. Middleton. I would now have it renewed upon the single Ground of the Obedience he owes to Government; and I should think that the Governor General himself, although he might have Reasons to avoid insisting upon it at that Time, when the Requisition only proceeded from General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and myself, will now see the Necessity of enforcing it, as a Duty imposed upon this Board by the whole Authority of the East India Company.

Mr. Barwell—This is the Second previous Question that has been put upon the Governor General's Motion; it comes indeed in a new Dress, but still it is the previous Question, for if it was not to restore Mr. Middleton to his Rights, and the Governor General did not think it incumbent on him so to do, I apprehend the Motion would not have been made. I acquiesce with Mr. Francis, that there would have been no Necessity for calling upon Mr. Middleton for his Correspondence at this Juncture, if the Governor had not proposed to employ him; as is evident, from the Length of Time that has elapsed since the Receipt of the Company's Letter, and the Call now proposed to be made upon Mr. Middleton, the Company have disapproved of the Governor General's not giving his Correspondence entire, although what he did submit contained the Whole of the Public Transactions; but as they throughout cautiously avoid imputing the least Blame to Mr. Middleton, I do not see that the Governor's Conduct can be a Bar to any Appointment that may be proposed for that Gentleman, I regard the Motion as a Second previous Question, and put my Negative upon it.

General Clavering agrees to the Motion.

Governor General—I object to the Question, upon the single Ground of its being directly contrary to the manifest Intentions both of the Court of Directors and the General Court of Proprietors. Neither of these Courts have ordered that Mr. Middleton's Correspondence with me should be laid before the Board. This, together with the Recall of Mr. Middleton and the Appointment of Mr. Bristow, were the first Subjects which were referred to their Decision. Their Opinions, though solemnly given, express neither Approbation or Disapprobation of the Recall of Mr. Middleton or the Appointment of Mr. Bristow, but leave those Subjects open to any Change which might afterwards be proposed respecting either. Upon my Refusal to deliver up Mr. Middleton's Correspondence, the Court of Directors have expressed their Disapprobation that any Part thereof had been withheld from the Perusal of the Supreme Council; but though it should obviously follow, if such was their Intention, that I should, on Receipt of their Orders, deliver up the Correspondence which I had before improperly withheld, yet no such Order, nor Intimation of such an Order, appears in any Part of the General Letter quoted by the General; and the Court of Proprietors, in express Terms, confine their Approbation of the Opinion delivered by the Court of Directors to the Time past; they too agree with the Opinion of the Court of Directors, that the whole Correspondence between the Governor General and Mr. Middleton should have been laid before the Members of the Supreme Council, adding, as the Reason, the following Words, "who ought to have received every Information respecting the Transactions of the Company's Agents at Sujah Dowla's Court, in order to regulate their Conduct at that critical Period." Forgetfulness may be imputed to Individuals, but but it is impossible to suppose that Twenty Men, of known Abilities and Experience in Business, should have omitted so necessary an Order, or left it to be gathered by Implication from an Opinion given upon a Subject past; much less can such an Inadvertency be imputed to the whole Body of Proprietors.—I object to the Motion.

The following Motion of General Clavering's is resolved in the Negative; viz.

“ That before the Consent of this Board be obtained for the Appointment of Mr. Middleton to the Vizier's Court, that the Orders, or at least the plain and direct Intentions, of the Court of Directors be complied with; viz. that Mr. Nathaniel Middleton's Correspondence with the late President should be speedily and unreservedly laid before the Board.”

Resolved, That Mr. John Bristow be recalled to the Presidency from the Court of the Nabob of Oude, and that Mr. Nathaniel Middleton be restored to the Appointment of Resident at that Court, subject to the Orders and Authority of the Governor General and Council, conformably to the Motion of the Governor General.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to enter my Dissent from the Resolution of the Board, for the following Reasons:

1st. Mr. Bristow's Removal is not founded on any Plea of Necessity or of Advantage to the Public Service, but solely on the particular Confidence which the Governor reposes in Mr. Middleton.

2<sup>d</sup>. It is not founded on any Plea of Incapacity or Demerit in Mr. Bristow, or even of superior Qualifications in the Person who is to succeed him.

3<sup>d</sup>. It is in effect a Disavowal of, and Contradiction to, the unanimous Declarations which the Board have repeatedly made, as well to himself as to the Court of Directors, of the high Sense we all entertain of his Services to the Company, and which I am happy to find is not yet diminished in any of us. The following Passages from the Records will shew, that, however we might differ, as we did on many other Questions, Mr. Bristow's Conduct united every Opinion in his Favour.

In our Letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> August 1775, we informed the Court of Directors, that “ Mr. Bristow's Conduct in negotiating and bringing to a happy Conclusion, the important Business committed to him, notwithstanding the Difficulties which were at first thrown in the Way, was very meritorious; and that, as the signal Service he rendered the Company, in the Acquisition of so great an additional Revenue, afforded us the Means of acknowledging his Services without any Charge on their ancient Fund, we determined to reward him by a Present of One Lack of Rupees.”

While such distinguished Testimonials accompany Mr. Bristow's Dismissal, the present Resolution touches nothing but the Honour of the Board, and the Consistency of their Proceedings. Our Letter to Mr. Bristow himself, demonstrates still more strongly the Board's unanimous Approbation of his Conduct; we told him,

“ We entirely approve of every Article in the Treaty, and of the Negotiation of it.”

We said, that “ In ratifying a Treaty so highly honourable and advantageous to the Company, as that which you have had the Honour of concluding with the Nabob, we cannot, in Justice to your distinguished Zeal and Assiduity in the Course of this important Negotiation, omit expressing to you the highest Approbation of your Conduct, and returning you our Thanks for the Service you have rendered to the Company. The Terms you have obtained are so complete and satisfactory, that they equal our warmest Expectations; and you may be assured, that we shall not fail to represent the Whole of your Conduct since your Appointment, to the Honourable Court of Directors, in that favourable Light in which it appears to us, and in which we do not doubt it will be received by the Company.”

“ As a further Mark of Favour and Approbation, we have agreed to order a Bond to be made out in your Favour, for One Lack of Rupees, bearing Interest at Five per Cent. from the 21st May, being the Date of the Signature of the Treaty; subject however to the final Approval of the Honourable the Court of Directors, to whom we shall recommend it, as a just Reward of your Services.”

The intended Reward however has not been received by Mr. Bristow. It would not be improper to insert in this Place, a Copy of the whole Treaty of Fyzabad, since there is not a Line of it that does not in Effect arraign the Justice of the present Resolution. I shall however only mention those Two Articles in Favour of the Company, in which a less faithful Servant, and a less honourable Man, might have used the Latitude allowed him by his Instructions, and easily have compounded for Abatements, yet still have preserved the Credit of having rendered an essential Service to his Employers: I mean the Acquisition of a Net Revenue of Twenty-three Lacks, with all the Rights of the Nabob over the Country of Benares, and of Six Lacks a Year in Addition to the Subsidy. The Company, I trust, will long preserve the Possession of these Acquisitions, as well as a grateful Sense of the Ability and Integrity to which they owe it.

4th. At a Time when the Establishment of our Ally the Nabob of Oude is represented to be insecure, and when some extraordinary Measures are recommended for protecting his Dominions against a Foreign Invasion, I deem it in the highest Degree hazardous to the Welfare of his Government, and of course to our own, to remove a Man, thoroughly acquainted with the Affairs of that Country, and with the political Interests, Views, and Connections of all the Indian Powers that surround it; and that that if the Measure were otherwise defensible, many Circumstances, which peculiarly belong to the present Conjuncture, ought to have deterred the Board from adopting it.

5th. The present Resolution appears to me an Attack on the Authority of the Company themselves; who are informed of Mr. Bristow's Appointment, who have left it unreserved, and who have expressly adopted and confirmed the Principles on which Mr. Middleton was recalled.

6th. Supposing the present Majority not to be bound, by any Obligation of Public Duty, to maintain an Uniformity of Councils in the Eyes of the Indian Powers, and to preserve some Appearance of Dignity and Consistency in the Operations of this Government; and supposing that the Governor General and Mr. Barwell have no Rule to consult, but the Extent of their present Power, to direct them in the Use of it; still I affirm, that, on any Principles they can possibly avow, the Recall of Mr. Middleton is not a Precedent to justify that of Mr. Bristow: The Records will shew, that the Motives on which the late Majority acted, were solely of a Public Nature. We deemed it a Violation of the Constitution of this, or any Government not vested in a single Person, that the chief Member of it, who is no more than First among his Equals, should transact the Affairs of the Government through the Channel of a private Agent, receiving Instructions from him alone, and answerable to him alone for the Execution of them. The Honourable Court of Directors themselves tell us, "that the Conduct of the late Council in this Respect was very improper;" they expressly order, "that no such independent or separate Authority be ever delegated to any Governor or Member of Council, or to any other Person whatever;" and they declare, "that Mr. Middleton's Correspondence should have been addressed to them, or speedily and unreservedly laid before them by the President."

If the Public Principle on which we professed to act, be now clear and incontrovertible, it will appear, from the strongest presumptive Evidence, that we did not assume it to cover any secret, unwarrantable Purpose. The Governor General himself will acquit us of partial Views to the Establishment of any other Person at the Expence of Mr. Middleton; he cannot but recollect that General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and myself, made him a Tender of continuing Mr. Middleton as the Public Resident of the Company; which the Governor thought fit to decline. With respect to Mr. Bristow, I most solemnly declare, that his Name for this Appointment was not, to my Knowledge, in Contemplation with any Member of the Board, till a considerable Time after Mr. Middleton's Arrival in Calcutta. If vindicative Measures were in any Case capable of a Justification, it could only arise from a Comparison with other Measures of the same Temper; but even on this Principle, the Removal of Mr. Bristow has no Plea to support it.

Extract of Letter from the Governor General and Council to Mr. Bristow.

Having thought proper to recall you to the Presidency, and to restore Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Station of Resident at the Vizier's Court, we direct, that on his Arrival at the said Court, you immediately deliver up to him the Charge of that Appointment, and repair to Calcutta.

Par. 5. We beg Leave to refer you to the Consultation of the 2d Instant, for our Proceedings upon a Motion proposing the Recall of Mr. Bristow from the Vizier's Court, and the Restoration of Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Post of Resident at that Court, under the Orders and Authority of the Governor General and Council. The Motion, after some Debate, was carried in the Affirmative; and Mr. Middleton has accordingly been restored to that Appointment.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 4th July 1777.

Par. 11. Upon the most careful Perusal of your Proceedings of the 2d of December 1776, relative to the Recall of Mr. Bristow from the Court of the Nabob of Oude, and the Appointment of Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to that Station, we must declare our strongest Disapprobation of the Whole of that Transaction.

Par. 12. We observe, that the Governor General's Motion for the Recall of Mr. Bristow, includes that for the Restoration of Mr. Nathaniel Middleton; but as neither of those Measures appear to us necessary, or even justifiable, they cannot receive our Approbation.

Par. 13. With respect to Mr. Bristow, we find no Shadow of Charge against him. It appears that he has executed the Orders of the Board to the entire Satisfaction even of those Members of Council who did not concur in his Appointment. You have unanimously recommended him to our Notice.

Attention to your Recommendation has induced us to afford him Marks of our Favour, and to re-annex the Emoluments affixed by you to his Appointment, which had been discontinued by our Order. And as we must be of Opinion that a Person of acknowledged Abilities, whose Conduct has thus gained him the Esteem of his Superiors, ought not to be degraded without just Cause, we do not hesitate to interpose in his Behalf; and therefore direct, that Mr. Bristow do forthwith return to his Station of Resident at Oude, from which he has been so improperly removed.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Public Department, the 22d May 1780.

Read the following Letter from Mr. Bristow:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I beg Leave to represent to your Honourable Board, that I arrived at the Presidency on the 16th February last. Not having yet been put in Possession of the Office of Resident at the Vizier's Court, in which I had the Honour of being re-instated, agreeable to the Orders of the Court of Directors, dated the 4th of July 1777, and the 23d December 1778, I think it my Duty to address your Honourable Board, with an humble Request to carry the abovesaid Orders into Execution. I make this Application in consequence of my Solicitations to the different Members of the Board, to move for my Re-instatement, having been repeatedly refused by every Member individually; and it being now incumbent on me to make a public Claim of my Right.

In Justification of my Conduct, in not having immediately on my Arrival requested to be forthwith put in Possession, I humbly represent, that I understood my Re-instatement ought to have been moved by a Member of the Board. Under other Circumstances my Conduct might be deemed premature; but, situated as I am, after Three Months Solicitation in vain, I hope, our Honourable Superiors will do me the Justice to consider the Delay in my Application a Point of Delicacy to your Honourable Board, and no Want of Attachment to them, or Zeal for their Service. I have never given my Consent to being held out of my Office; and I mean by this Address, to efface any bad Impressions that might be entertained of me in thus long suspending a Claim grounded upon the highest Authorities.

I also beg Leave to represent, I was removed from my Office the 2d of December 1776, after having for Two Years successively received the unanimous Approbation of your Honourable Board. Our Honourable Superiors have since likewise been pleased to favour me with Marks of their Approbation; notwithstanding which I am treated with Neglect by your Honourable Board; and the Members individually have positively refused to do me the Justice I have every Right to claim. In order to discharge my Duty to our Honourable Superiors, I humbly solicit that it may be recorded upon your Proceedings, I have neither directly nor indirectly consented to my Right having been thus long withheld from me.

In Justice to Sir Eyre Coote, I take the Liberty of mentioning, that I have the Honour of a Letter from him, under Date the 3d of last Month; in which he declares his Determination of supporting the Orders of the Court of Directors in my Favour.

Fort William,
11th May 1780.

I have the Honour, &c.
(Signed) John Bristow.

Ordered, That it be circulated to the different Members of the Board.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 2d October 1780.

Mr. Francis moves, That the 11th, 12th, and 13th Paragraphs of the Company's General Letter of the 18th July 1777, and the 149th Paragraph of the General Letter of the 23d December 1778, be now read.

Read the above-mentioned Paragraphs of the Company's General Letters of the 18th July 1777, and 23d December 1778.

Mr. Francis moves, That in Obedience to the Company's Orders, Mr. Bristow be forthwith appointed and directed to return to his Station of Resident at Oude; and that Mr. Pulting be ordered to deliver over Charge of the Office to Mr. Bristow, immediately on his Arrival, and return himself forthwith to the Presidency.

Also, that the Governor General be requested to furnish Mr. Bristow with the usual Letter of Credence to the Nabob Vizier.

The Governor General—Before the Board enter into the Consideration of this extraordinary Motion, I must beg Leave to offer some Observations upon it. Were the most inveterate and determined Adversary of the British Nation to possess, by whatever Means, a Share in the Administration, he could not devise a Measure in itself so pernicious, or time it so effectually for the Ruin of the British Interests in India, as that now introduced to the Board. Mr. Francis alone is conscious of his own Motives and Intentions; I can speak only to their Tendency. We are at this Instant involved in a new War with perhaps the most powerful of all the States in India; which has opened with a Calamity so dreadful, as to require the most immediate and vigorous Exertions of this Government to prevent what must otherwise be the Consequence, the total and speedy Loss of the Carnatic, and of all the British Establishments and Possessions in that Part of India. To ward off this impending Danger we have, besides immediate Preparations of War, resolved to offer a Peace, on their own Terms, to the Marattas, with whom we have been, during the past Two Years, engaged in a hazardous, though hitherto successful War. At such a Time to proclaim an entire Subversion of the Influence of this Government (for such must be the Effect, whether it be or be not the Intention, of the present Question) will be to defeat every End of the Measures on which we have lately resolved; to give Encouragement to our Enemies, by the Prospect of an inverted, fluctuating, or divided Government; and discourage those to whom the Advances of this Government are made, when they see the Person in whose Name they are offered, and to whom alone they look as the representative Instrument of the British Nation in India, treated at the same Instant with Contempt, and disarmed of the Power of fulfilling the Engagements, and maintaining the Faith of the Treaties offered by him for their Acceptance. I will ask, who is Mr. Bristow, that a Member of the Administration should, at such a Time, hold him forth as an Instrument for the Degradation of the First executive Member of this Government? What are the professed Objects of his Appointment? What are the Merits and Services, or what the Qualifications, which entitle him to such an uncommon Distinction? Is it for his superior Integrity, or from his eminent Abilities, that he is to be dignified at such Hazards of every Consideration that ought to influence the Members of this Administration? Of the former I know no Proofs; I am sure it is not an Evidence of it, that he has been enabled to make himself the Principal in such a Competition; and for the Test of his Abilities, I appeal to the Letter which he has dared to write to this Board, and which I am ashamed to say we have suffered. I desire that a Copy of it may be inserted in this Day's Proceedings, that it may stand before the Eyes of every Member of the Board when he shall give his Vote upon a Question for giving their Confidence to a Man, their Servant, who has publicly insulted them, his Masters, and the Members of the Government to whom he owes his Obedience; who, assuming an Association with the Court of Directors, and erecting himself into a Tribunal, has arraigned them for Disobedience of Orders, passed Judgment upon them, and condemned or acquitted them, as their Magistrate and Superior. Let the Board consider, whether a Man possessed of so independant a Spirit, who has already shewn such a Contempt of their Authority, who has shewn himself so wretched an Advocate for his own Cause, and Negotiator for his own Interest, is fit to be trusted with the Guardianship of their Honour, the Execution of their Measures, and as their confidential Manager and Negotiator with the Princes of India?—As the Motion has been unaccompanied by any Reasons which should induce the Board to pass their Acquiescence in it, I presume that the Motion which preceded it, for reading the Orders of the Court of Directors, was intended to serve as an Argument for it, as well as an Introduction to it. The last of those Orders was dictated the 23d December 1778, almost Two Years past. They were dictated at a Time when, I am sorry to say, the Court of Directors were in the Habit of casting Reproach upon my Conduct, and heaping Indignities on my Station; at a Time when their Affairs in every Part of India wore the Aspect of Prosperity; at a Time too when the Renewal of the Company's Charter was in Contemplation, and a new Settlement of Government was required for the Administration of these Provinces. It was certainly their Intention or Expectation, that I should be immediately removed from this Government, and some other Person substituted in my Place. To what Causes the Suspension of this this Design is to be ascribed, I shall not enquire; but since they themselves have thought it proper to continue me in the chief Administration of their Affairs, I shall not offer so gross an Insult to their Understandings, or Impeachment of their Integrity, as to suppose that they could ever think it consistent with the Interests and Security of their Constituents to deprive me of those Authorities and Sources of Influence which can alone enable me to fulfil the Duties they have assigned me, and on the Foundation of which so heavy a Responsibility rests on me particularly. The relative Situation of the Governor General and of the other Members of the Council, has not indeed been defined by the Act of Parliament which has constituted their collective Authority; but in all Instances in which that Act has been silent, the Powers and Practice of the former Government were declared by the Act itself to subsist unchanged. By the ancient and immemorial Constitution of the Company, the executive Authority of every Presidency was committed to the First Member of it; He was declared the immediate and sole Agent in all Negotiations and Transactions with the Country Powers, and his Name alone was announced to them as the Representative of the Government; as the Government, let it then be considered how far the Principles and obvious Design of this Prerogative are generally connected with the Question now before the Board, independantly of the peculiar Circumstances which attended it. ~~The Removal of Mr. Middleton~~, my Agent at the Court of the Nabob of Oude, was the first Act of a Majority of this Administration in the Year 1774, to proclaim the Annihilation of my Authority; and the Effect most completely answered that Intention; for from that Moment I was considered, both at the Court of Oude, and in every other Court which had any Connection with this Government, in no other Light than as the constrained Instrument of exercising an Authority which had been established on the Ruins of my own. Such must be the evident Effect of the present Question if it shall be carried against me. I will not carry this Argument to the further Lengths or Conclusions to which it would warrantably lead me; but I do most solemnly adjure the other Members of the Board, that, unless they think me totally unqualified to execute the Functions of my Station, they will not give their Sanction to a Measure which must reduce me to the State of a nominal Member of it, which shall take the Reins of Administration from my Hands to place them in those of Mr. Francis, and which, by subverting the natural Order of the Constitution, must deprive it of its Vigour by whomsoever it may be occasionally held. While they pay that Obedience and Respect which I am as ready as they are to yield to the Orders of the Court of Directors, let them compare the Situation of Things as they stood at the Time when these Orders were issued with the present, and let them imagine what Orders the Court of Directors would at such a Period as this pass on such a Question. If they think, but it is impossible to suppose it, that a Body of Men, so respectable in their Characters and in their Rank of Life, would, at a Time like this, consent to degrade and disarm the First Instrument of their Authority, let them give their Votes for the Question; if not, let them act by their strongest Conviction of what would be the Orders of the Company in the present Case, not what it is, applied to one which it was impossible for the Company to have foreseen. I again call upon them most solemnly to support my Authority, and at the same Time their own Rights and their Reputation, which are connected with it both in its immediate Effect and its remoter but inevitable Consequences.

Mr. Francis—I believe no Man living will seriously attribute to me the Character of a determined and inveterate Adversary of the British Nation. It is well known to every Man in India, that if Mr. Wheeler's Advice and mine, for these Three Years past, had been regarded, or if our unremitted Efforts had availed any Thing, this Government would not have been in the distressing Situation to which it is reduced by a Series of other Measures, adopted and pursued in Opposition to our Sentiments. But I have done with Controversy. If the Company's Orders are not binding on this Government, if they convey no positive Right to Mr. Bristow, his Pretensions fall to the Ground. If the contrary be true, the Question is simply, whether the Orders shall be obeyed, or not? In the Governor's Minute, I see no Connection between the Premises and the Conclusion; I see no Proportion between the Mischiefs supposed to follow from Mr. Bristow's Re-appointment, and the Cause which is to produce them. The other Members will judge for themselves; but I foresee many Mischiefs and Dangers of the first Magnitude, from this Government contracting a Habit of disobeying the Company's Orders. Their Authority is the only Link by which this Dominion is held by Great Britain; if that Authority be not binding on us, or if we may wave it when we think fit, I know not through what other lawful Medium the superior State can exercise its Jurisdiction over the Inferior.

The Question applied personally to Mr. Bristow, might, with equal Reason and Propriety, be applied to Mr. Middleton, Mr. Hosea, Mr. Purling, or any other Gentleman in the Company's Service. The Paragraphs of the Company's Letters which have been read, contain a compleat Answer to them; and if they do not, I am not bound to take any Part in such Questions, since I rest my Proposition on the Grounds of the Company's positive and repeated Orders.

Governor General—I pass Mr. Francis's Minute, availing myself of it, only to assert my own Pretensions on the very Ground on which he supports his Question; and on this Occasion Mr. Wheeler will pardon me, if I address myself in a more particular and pointed Manner to him. He was my Superior at the Time I held this Government under another System; he was, during some Part of that Time, the Chairman of the Court of Directors; and on him I venture to call, as an Evidence of the implicit and effectual Obedience which I paid to the Commands of the Court of Directors in every Instance in which they thought it proper to put my Fidelity to the Trial. For this, my Reputation, my Ambition, my Interest, and private Feelings, were severally taxed; yet in all that Period I never suffered any Consideration to prevail for a Moment in Opposition to my Duty, and to the Confidence which they generally reposed in me. In Return, I claim from him that Portion at least which he can bestow, of the Reward which was due to such Services performed with such Sacrifices; and as he once did me the Honour to think me deserving of his Applause, I hope that now I shall receive his Support. He will well remember the Instances to which I allude, and the Belief entertained by many at the Time in which those Orders were issued, that I should either refuse or evade the Execution of them.

Mr. Wheeler—The high Sense which the Court of Directors entertained of the peculiar Merits and Abilities of the Governor General, at a Period alluded to in the foregoing Minute, were more conspicuously marked by their Choice and Appointment of him to the exalted Station which he now holds, than they can possibly be by any particular Instance at this Time recited by me; a general Compliance with the Company's Orders, I am persuaded constituted no small Part of those Merits which at that Time met with the unanimous Reward of the Court of Directors. I am equally desirous to support the Authority of the Governor General at this Period, as I was when in a different Situation, happy in promoting those Ends which I thought most conducive to his Honour, and to the general Interest of the Company's Affairs; but in the present Contest I cannot effect it without a Sacrifice of that Power, from whence I conceive he derives his Authority. The Orders of the Court of Directors are too pointed and strong to leave me a Choice. I must therefore give my Assent to the Motion in Support of them.

Sir Eyre Coote—At a Time when I am so engaged in the Public Concern, I little expected that any Question of a private Nature would be agitated at this Board, that could possibly interrupt the Harmony of it, and that at a Time when that Harmony is so necessary for carrying on of the Public Service. The Question to me is of so much Magnitude that I must beg Leave to defer giving my Opinion on it till To-morrow.

The Governor General informs the Board, That for the Purpose of concluding this Debate, he shall request their Attendance in this Department again To-morrow Morning.

Deferred the further Consideration of Mr. Francis's Motion until To-morrow Morning.

( L )

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 3d October 1780.

Renewed the Consideration of Mr. Francis's Motion, recorded on Yesterday's Proceedings.

Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute:

After having created the Board the Trouble of a Second Meeting on the Question which formed the Subject of Yesterday's Debate, and for which I trust its Importance, my own Situation at this Juncture, and my being without any previous Knowledge until I arrived in Town in the Morning, that such a Business was likely to come before us, will plead Excuse; it is not my Intention to encroach further on their Time by tedious Argument or Discussion.

Whilst I am bound in Honour by my Opinion, recorded on the Proceedings of this Board on a former Occasion, to support all Orders received from the Court of Directors subsequent to my Arrival in this Country; I nevertheless hold it a Duty equally incumbent upon me as a Member of this Administration, appointed under the Authority of an Act of Parliament, and to which Tribunal of the British Constitution we are ultimately responsible for the due Execution of the important Trust committed to our Charge, the Care of the Interests of the English Nation in India, to judge how far in following such Orders I am likely to injure that First Object of our Attention.

The late Requisition made of me by this Board, to take upon me the Command of the Army at Madras, and the Grounds upon which that Requisition was made, render it altogether unnecessary for me to bring forward on this Occasion, Arguments in Proof of the very critical State of the Interests of the Company and the English Nation in India; our unanimous Agreement on the Measure, and our subsequent Resolutions to carry it into Force, evince its Expediency, and which I flattered myself had been the Result of a disinterested Conviction in the Mind of every Member of this Board, and of a Determination to allow no Objects to interpose, which could have a Tendency to obstruct the successful Execution thereof. That the Restoration of Mr. Bristow at this Time, to the Charge of the Residency at Lucknow, will produce Effects highly prejudicial thereto, I have not a Doubt of, as it will generate in the Minds of every Power of Hindostan, that the Governor General is carrying on Treaties with them which he has not the Power to ratify; and will produce on their Part, Consequences destructive to all Negotiation, Indecision and Procrastination. The Necessity of avoiding every Step that can give Rise to such Impediments, at the very Time the Governor General is negotiating, under the Sanction of this Board, Terms of Peace with the Marattas, I am persuaded is too obvious to every Member of it to require Elucidation; and that they see it as a Conduct highly inseparable from the real Purpose of their Resolves, to give him every possible Support both in Word and Action, for the Accomplishment of a Business in which the Interests of the Public are so essentially concerned.

In short, although my former Declarations, added to the Rule I had laid down for my Conduct in in all Cases where I could have the Orders of the Court of Directors for my Guide, obliges me to give my Voice in Favour of Mr. Francis's Motion; I nevertheless see, and am so thoroughly convinced, of the great Necessity there is, in the present critical Conjunction of our Affairs in India, of supporting the Governor General, as the First Instrument of our Administration, that I here declare I will most heartily join with him in any Measure he can devise, whereby the ill Effects of the Change at Lucknow may be obviated, and the World in general be convinced that he is still in Possession of that Authority in the Administration of the Public Business, so absolutely requisite for the Support of our Government.

In urging these Sentiments, I am naturally led to reflect on what may be my own Situation in the Execution of that Duty which I am on the Eve of undertaking; the Operations of which may be materially injured by any Measure which in the least impede the Negotiations set on Foot by the Marattas. I therefore, as a Duty I owe myself and the Public Welfare, call upon every Member of this Board to give me such Testimony of their Determination to support me in the Prosecution of a Service so important in itself and in its Consequences, as that, when once entered on, I may not be exposed to the Apprehension of Failure, from a Doubt of not receiving that ample Assistance from them which the Nature of the Undertaking renders so indispensably necessary, and which they alone can afford.

(Signed)

Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis's Motion carried in the Affirmative.

Mr. Francis—If the Commander in Chief will state on what specific Points he wishes to obtain from me a Testimony of my Determination to support him in the Prosecution of the Service which he is going to undertake, I dare say I shall be able, as I am sure I am desirous, to give him every Satisfaction he can desire. If the Request be left generally, I can only answer it by a general Assurance to him, that it is my Determination to support him. The Reinforcement of Men, and the great Supply of Money, which he will carry with him, will empower him to act for a considerable Time at least; and if there be any thing else he wishes for, I only beg it may be stated.

Mr. Wheeler—I have already given my feeble Support to all the Measures that have yet been proposed for the Restoration of our Affairs in the Carnatic, by the Governor General, with the Concurrence of the Commander in Chief. I am ready to go yet further, and to remove every Interruption to the General's Measures in a Quarter where I apprehend they might possibly be opposed. I doubt not but I am understood.

The Governor General—It is unnecessary for me to give Assurances to the General of my particular Support, after having been the Mover of the Measures which so essentially require his Personal Execution of them, and of the Request made to him so urgently by this Board, to undertake the Conduct of them. I regard the Interest, and eventually perhaps the Existence of this Government, to be dependent on the Success of his Operations; and declare I will, at all Hazards, make this my first and invariable Object.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute.

I cannot, consistently with what I consider due to the Dignity and Authority of my Public Station, and to my own Character and Feelings as a Man, consent to affix my Signature to the Letters of Credence or Instructions of Mr. Bristow, as Resident at the Court of Oude. The Court of Directors, after having in their first Instructions to this Government, expressly enjoined every Member of the Board not only to be guided by the Voice of the Majority, but also to subscribe to all Letters, Orders, Acts, and Measures, resulting from the Decisions of such Majority, have since thought proper to compliment General Clavering and Mr. Francis upon their Departure from this Rule, in Instances where their Sentiments have not accorded with those of the other Members of the Board. This will be a Justification to me in the Resolution I have taken; for whatever Law is binding on one Member of the Administration must certainly be so to the Whole; and although it is a Latitude I neither approve, or should in general wish to avail myself of, yet in this very particular Instance I trust I shall stand acquitted not only to my Employers but to the whole World. I must therefore desire, that the Board will devise some other Means of notifying Mr. Bristow's Appointment to the Vizier; and as they have thought it incumbent on them, as a Point of official Duty, to receive and put in Force an antiquated Order of the Court of Directors in Favour of Mr. Bristow, which, for the Reasons assigned in my Minute of Yesterday, will necessarily be considered by all the Country Powers as a Supercession of my Authority, I am yet willing to hope, that the Board will not only listen to but afford me their Support in a Motion which I shall beg Leave to make, with a View to repair the Injury which I conceive my Public Station has sustained; and avert in some Degree the prejudicial Effects which this Measure cannot fail to produce on our Affairs.

I propose, That Mr. Bristow's Appointment be limited solely to the Conduct of such Political Negotiations, Correspondence, and Transactions, as this Government may now, or at any future Period, be engaged in with the Vizier, and in no Shape whatever to interfere in any Matters respecting our pecuniary Engagements with his Excellency; that a separate Agent be appointed by us to that Trust, whose Duty it shall be to receive, collect, and manage, the Tuncaws or Assignments which have been or may hereafter be granted by the Nabob for the Liquidation of the Claims of this Govern-

Government upon him; that he be intrusted with the Adjustment of all Accounts relative to those Claims with the Nabob and his Ministers, with all Disbursements to the Paymasters of the Company's Troops stationed in the Dominions of the Vizier, as also to his Excellency's own Military Establishment under British Officers, &c. remitting the Residue of his Collections immediately to us; and that he be directly amenable to our Authority and Orders, and in no Respect whatever dependent on or connected with the Office of the Resident. And as Mr. Purling cannot continue with a diminished Commission, and as it now becomes, more than ever, necessary that I should have a Person in Station in those Provinces, not only in whom I can confide, but who is publicly known to be attached to me, I propose Mr. Middleton for the above Office, hoping to meet with the Concurrence and Support of the Board.

Sir Eyre Coote—I agree to the Governor General's Proposal, of the Appointment of Mr. Middleton to the Office mentioned, not because Mr. Purling may not continue at Lucknow with a diminished Commission, but because Mr. Nathaniel Middleton is a Person publicly known to be attached to the Governor General. The Necessity of the Times requires an Appearance of that Kind.

Mr. Wheler—I object to the Question.

Mr. Francis—The Office described in the Motion is the same which Mr. Bristow held before, and which has been held since by Mr. Middleton and Mr. Purling. I know no Reason why it should be diminished and so materially altered when it is given to Mr. Bristow: I therefore cannot consent to the Proposition. At the same Time, it is a Matter of Indifference to me, by whom the Duties, proposed to be vested in Mr. Middleton, are exercised.

The Governor General's Motion carried in the Affirmative.

Resolved accordingly, That Mr. Bristow's Appointment be limited solely to the Conduct of such Political Negotiations, Correspondence, and Transactions, as this Government may now, or at any other Period, be engaged in with the Vizier; and that he in no Shape whatever interfere in any Matters respecting our pecuniary Engagements with his Excellency.

Resolved, That Mr. Nathaniel Middleton be appointed Agent on the Part of this Government, for receiving, collecting, and managing the Tuncaws or Assignments which have been, or may hereafter be granted by the Nabob for the Liquidation of the Claims of this Government upon him; that he be entrusted with the Adjustment of all Accounts relative to these Claims with the Nabob and his Ministers, with all Disbursements to the Paymasters of the Company's Troops stationed in the Dominions of the Vizier, as also to his Excellency's own Military Establishments under British Officers, &c. remitting the Residue of his Collections immediately to us; and that he be directly answerable to our Authority and Orders, and in no Respect whatever dependant on or connected with the Office of Resident.

Mr. Francis moves, That as the Governor General declines signing the Letter of Credence for Mr. Bristow, Mr. Bristow's Appointment may be communicated to Mr. Purling by the Board, with Directions to make it known to the Vizier.

Agreed to.

Ordered, That Mr. Charles Purling be directed to deliver over Charge of all the Papers hitherto held by him, which have Relation to the Office to which Mr. Bristow has been appointed, to Mr. Bristow; and that he be directed to deliver over Charge to Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, of all the Papers and Accounts of the Office hitherto held by him, which have a Relation to the Office to which Mr. Middleton is appointed, together with the Balance of Cash in his Hands.

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Purling.

To Mr. Purling.

Sir,

Having, in consequence of the Commands of the Honourable Court of Directors, thought proper to appoint Mr. John Bristow Resident at his Excellency the Vizier's Court, we direct, that on Receipt of these Orders you make the same known to the Vizier; and that on Mr. Bristow's Arrival at Lucknow, you deliver over Charge to him of all public Papers in your Possession, relative to the Management and Conduct of the Political Negotiations, Correspondence, and Transactions between this Government and his Excellency. And having been pleased to appoint Mr. Nathaniel Middleton our Agent to receive, collect, and manage the Tuncaws or Assignments, which have been or may hereafter be granted by the Nabob for the Liquidation of the Claims of this Government upon him; to adjust all Accounts relative to these Claims with the Nabob and his Ministers, and to make the requisite Disbursements to the Paymasters of the Company's Troops stationed in the Vizier's Dominions, as also to his Excellency's own Military Establishment under British Officers, &c. we direct, that on Mr. Middleton's Arrival at Lucknow, you deliver over Charge to him of such Papers in your Possession as relate to these Offices: And after the Execution of these Orders, we require that you forthwith return to the Presidency.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 26th October 1780.

The Governor General recommends the following Instructions to Mr. Middleton :

To Mr. Nathaniel Middleton, Collector, &c. of the Vizier's Assignments to the Honourable Company.

Sir,

Having thought proper to appoint you Agent on the Part of this Government, for receiving, collecting, and managing the Tuncaws or Assignments which have been, or may be hereafter granted by the Nabob of Oude, for the Liquidation of the several Claims of the Company upon him, and for the Adjustment in general of all Accounts now depending, or which may hereafter occur between this Government and the Nabob, relative to our pecuniary Engagements with him, we give you the following Instructions for your Guidance in the Execution of that Trust.

Immediately on your Arrival at Lucknow, to which Place we require you to proceed with all convenient Expedition, you will receive from Mr. Purling, or from whoever may be in Charge of the Office of Resident at the Vizier's Court, a general Statement of his Excellency's Account with the Company; a Jumma Wasseel Backey of the Assignments which may have been granted on the present Year's Revenue, and a particular Estimate of the several Claims and Demands which these Assignments are intended to satisfy; including the Balance of the Vizier's Account current with the Company, the estimated Demand for the Maintenance of our Two Brigades and Cavalry stationed for the Defence of his Excellency's Dominions, as well as for his own Troops under the Command of British Officers for the current Year, and, in general, every other Disbursement which may heretofore have passed officially through the Hands of the Resident, with every necessary Information respecting them: And should you find upon comparing these Two Accounts, that Assignments for the full Amount of the several Demands have not been obtained, you will immediately state the Deficiency to the Vizier and his Ministers, and require that it be made good. And as we rely on you for the realizing of his Excellency's Engagements to us, we shall expect that you make the most minute Investigation of the real Value of such Tuncaws as may be given you, rejecting those you find not likely to yield the Amount for which they are granted, and demanding such others, by immediate Application to the Vizier himself and his Ministers, as you deem perfectly satisfactory. And the more effectually to enable you to secure the Collections amidst those Tumults and Disorders which too frequently disturb the Vizier's Government, especially in the remote Provinces, you will apply to his Excellency, whenever you may find it necessary, for the Assistance of such Troops, under British Officers as well as others, maintained by him for the Service of the Collections; and when these should, in your Judgment, prove inadequate to the Service required, which we understand hath frequently been the Case, we authorize you to apply, in Conjunction with the Vizier, to the Commanding Officer at the nearest Station of our Troops, who shall be instructed to furnish you with such Reinforcements as you may require, and he may, with a due Regard to the Safety of his Station, be able to afford you.

We hope that Emergencies which require the Aid of our Troops will not often occur, as we do not approve of their being detached from their Station; or generally employed in the Service of the Vizier's Revenue; and whenever you may find it absolutely necessary to call upon them, we expect to be informed of the Circumstances which may have created that Necessity, and a full Explanation of the Nature and Extent of the Services they are to perform, that we may be enabled to judge of the Expediency of your Application ; and you will take especial Care that the Company's Troops; whenever thus employed, are not detained from their Station longer than the Service for which they may have been called upon, shall indispensably require.

With respect to your official Accounts, in which we require you to be very punctual, you will continue the same Form as may have heretofore been observed by the Resident, subject however to such future Regulations as may be sent you by us, or the Accomptant General.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 2d November 1780.

Read the following Address from Mr. John Bristow :

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I have the Honour to acknowledge the Receipt of a Letter from your Acting Secretary, informing me of my Appointment to the Station of Resident at the Court of his Excellency the Vizier, for the Purpose of conducting Political Negotiations; and at the same Time acquainting me, this Appointment does not empower me to interfere, in any Shape whatever, in any Matters relative to the pecuniary Engagements with the Vizier.

As a Servant of the Company, it is certainly my Duty to execute the Orders of your Honourable Board: And after having made this Declaration, I shall not, I hope, be deemed guilty of Disrespect, if I take the Liberty to express my Sentiments on the Appointment you have conferred upon me; that it does not correspond with the Intentions of the Court of Directors, who were pleased to re-instate me in the Office I formerly held in Oude. The Prospect of receiving actual Possession of this Office as soon as I could arrive in India, on the Terms mentioned by the Court of Directors, was the Motive which induced me to return; yet, on my Arrival at this Presidency in the Month of February last, it was my Misfortune to find my Hopes disappointed. And if, after the Anxiety of Expectation during a Period of Nine Months, I am at last directed to undertake the Charge of an Office totally different from that to which the Court of Directors were pleased to re-appoint me, I may, I hope, without passing the Bounds of Respect, expostulate upon what I cannot but deem a Grievance of the most cruel Nature to my Feelings. What I myself experience from Disappointments on this Occasion, by the Loss of Time and Diminution of Fortune, both in my Voyage from England and Residence in this Country, without Office, Salary, or Employment, is a Consideration which applies personally to me alone. There is another, however, of more Consequence to me; the Degradation in the Eyes of the Public and of my Friends; which, in Justice to myself, I am more anxious to explain.

This Task, however, I cannot enter upon without Reluctance, as it obliges me to speak of my own Conduct in Terms which may be censured as the Effect of Self-applause: The Necessity of doing it must be my Apology.

When

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 3. (O) (P)

When I formerly held the Office of Resident at the Court of Owde, the Business entrusted to my Management was of the greatest Importance. I had the good Fortune to conclude the Treaty now in Force with the Nabob; and on this, and every other Occasion, my Conduct was uniformly honoured with your Approbation, as well as an unanimous Vote of a Lack of Rupees Reward, and a Recommendation of me to the Notice of the Court of Directors. I appeal to your Records for the Facts. I should not recall them to your Remembrance, unless they suggested to me the unpleasing Reflection of the confined Trust now placed under my Charge, and the very flattering Marks of Confidence and Approbation which I then received.

The immediate Advantages accruing to the Company by this Treaty, were the Cession of the Zemindary of Benares, and an Increase of Subsidy, altogether amounting to an additional annual Revenue of Two hundred and Eighty thousand Pounds Sterling to the Company; the Expulsion of the French from the Nabob of Owde's Dominions; and an offensive and defensive Alliance.

The successive Advantages were the Acquisition of a large Body of the Vizier's Troops, not less than Ten thousand effective Men having been put under the Command of British Officers, which in Reality rendered them the Troops of the Company; and the Reduction of the Nabob's Power to such Limits, that, instead of entertaining Apprehensions of him as a formidable Enemy, he was considered as a useful Ally.

I claim the Merit of having been the successful Instrument of executing your Plans with strict Obedience and Integrity; in the Course of which I was often exposed to personal Danger and embarrassing Situations, in which my own Endeavours could alone operate with Effect.

I cannot avoid mentioning, that after enjoying the Office of Resident at Owde for Two Years, during the Whole of which I had constantly been honoured with the unanimous Approbation of your Board, I was recalled, contrary to the Standing Orders of the Court of Directors. I may venture to assert, that no Part of my Conduct had afforded Grounds for my Recall, which would have been the Punishment had I been guilty of Offence; and that on this Occasion, as there was no Allegation against me, I was not called upon for Defence. Although you were pleased to think my Services merited a Recompence, and actually did me the Honour unanimously to pass a Vote in my Favour for One Lack of Rupees, yet I received less than a Third of it; a Gratification in itself honourable, though in a pecuniary Light but moderate. This is the only Public Reward I ever received for my Services, and which, in Comparison of my Recall, I cannot but deem inconsiderable. On any other Occasion I should not have recurred to this Event; as a Testimony in favour of my Public Conduct I cannot omit it. Permit me to trespass upon your Time, by adding, that the Approbation with which the Court of Directors were pleased to distinguish me, and their Re-appointment of me to my former Station, was founded upon the Grounds of the unanimous Recommendations I received from your Board. The Nature of the Office I am now directed to take Charge of, so different in Point of Importance and Responsibility from that which I formerly held in Owde, must afford a general Conviction, that I have lost that Approbation which was formerly so voluntarily and publicly conferred upon my Conduct. The Reasons which have induced this Change in your Sentiments and Resolutions are to me unknown: I can only flatter myself, that I have done nothing to occasion them: The Consequence to me is however severe.

I shall only add, that my Zeal for the Welfare of the Company is undiminished; and I have still the same Inclination I ever possessed, to serve them to the utmost of my Abilities.

Fort William,
31st October 1780.

I have the Honour, &c.
(Signed) John Bristow.

Proceedings respecting Mr. Francis Fowke.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Department, dated the 16th August 1775.

At a Council, P R E S E N T,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
General Clavering,
Colonel Monson,
Mr. Barwell,
Mr. Francis.

GENERAL Clavering moves, That a Company's Servant be sent up to Benares, to carry with him the Sunnuds of Investiture to the Rajah from the Company; and to inform himself of the Nature of the Mint, the Species of Rupees that are coined in it, how much the Person who farmed it paid to the Soubah of Oude, or to his Ministers, in Presents; as likewise with the Nature of the Cutwally, and what the Advantages of it were to the Person who farmed it; in order to make such a Settlement with the Rajah as may be equally advantageous to him and the Company.

Mr. Francis agrees to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I looked upon the Motion to be carried by the last Resolution of the Board, and that the Choice of a Person remains only to be determined. The Company, in the extra Charges to which they have already been put, may have Occasion to complain; and as Economy and Dispatch may be equally promoted, I beg Leave to mention Colonel Muir, the Officer commanding at Chunar, as the most eligible Person. Little or no Charges will be incurred by his just moving from Chunar to Benares, and besides, he is the best qualified from his local Knowledge.

Colonel Monson agrees to the Motion of General Clavering.

The Governor General objects to this Motion.

SEL. COM. REP. V.

R

Resolved,

A P P E N D I X, N° 4. (A) (B)

Resolved, A Covenanted Servant be appointed to go to Benares, to take the Sunnuds of Investiture to the Rajah, &c. also to make the Investigations necessary to enable the Board to come to a final Settlement with the Rajah for that Zemindary.

General Clavering moves, That Mr. Francis Fowke be appointed to execute this Service; a young Man exceedingly well qualified, from his Knowledge in the Persian Tongue and his unexceptionable good Character.

Mr. Francis—I believe Mr. Francis Fowke to be perfectly qualified for the Service proposed; and I agree to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—The unhappy Differences that have prevailed at the Board, the particular Part which Mr. Joseph Fowke has acted since the Commencement of the new Government, the particular Predicament in which he stands at present, I am sorry to observe, makes Mr. Francis Fowke, his Son, the most improper Nomination for a Commission of this Kind that could have been thought of. Nor can I conceive why it should have been thought of, unless for the express Purpose of lowering the Governor General in the Eyes of the Rajah of Benares as well as of all India, by the Selection of this Gentleman. I have no other Objection to Mr. Francis Fowke. Was it in my Power I would serve him, but not at the Expence or in Degradation of the first Character of the State. I therefore wish Mr. Francis Fowke's Nomination may not be carried.

Colonel Monson—I do not comprehend Mr. Barwell's Chain of Reasoning, that the employing an unexceptionable Company's Servant can be any Degradation to the Governor General's Consequence or Honour, or lower his Dignity in the Eyes of the Public: Had Mr. Francis Fowke been an exceptionable Character, there might have been some Degree of Justness in Mr. Barwell's Observation; but as Mr. Barwell himself declares he wishes to serve him, I do not comprehend why he will not on this Occasion testify to Mr. Fowke this Inclination. I believe Mr. Fowke to be qualified for this Appointment; and therefore approve of the Nomination.

General Clavering is for his own Nomination.

The Governor General—I am not surprized at the Motion now before the Board: I expected it at the Time in which it was resolved, in Contradiction to the former Opinion of the Board, to permit Mr. Joseph Fowke to return to Benares. I consider the present Appointment as the Appointment not of Mr. Francis Fowke but of Mr. Joseph Fowke, whose Influence over his Son will reduce the Authority of the latter to a mere Shadow: I therefore disapprove of the Motion; I protest against it.

Agreed, That Mr. Francis Fowke be appointed to proceed to Benares for the Purposes already resolved on.

Ordered, That Instructions be prepared for him accordingly, with a Letter of Credence to Rajah Cheyt Sing.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council in Bengal, in their Secret Department, to the Court of Directors of the East India Company; dated 11th September 1775.

Par. 10. In our Letter of the 3d August, of which you will receive a Duplicate by this Ship, you are advised of the Acquisition of the Territories of Rajah Cheyt Sing to the Company, and of the Steps which we had then taken towards settling with him for that Zemindary.—On the 16th of that Month we again took this Subject into Consideration, and called the Vackeel before us, who had received an Answer from his Master to our First Offer; but not being able to ascertain from him the Fineness and Quantity of the Silver of the Gourhay Rupees, in which Coin the Tribute from the Rajah is to be paid, nor the exact Amount which the late Farmers of the Mint and Cutwally at Benares, and the Cutwally at Juanpore, had paid annually to the Nabob and his Officers for the Grant of those Articles, we judged it necessary to appoint a Person to proceed to Benares, to make sundry local Investigations into these and other Points, to enable us to come to a final Adjustment with the Rajah; and we accordingly appointed Mr. Francis Fowke. In the mean Time we agreed that the Rajah should continue to pay at Benares the exact Sum, and in the same Species of Rupees, as he had paid to the late and present Nabobs of Oude; that is to say, 23,72,656.12 Gourhay Rupees, exclusive of the Mint, Cutwally, and other Articles which the Nabob held in his own Right.

Extract of Proceedings of Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Secret Department, of the 2d December 1776.

At a Council; P R E S E N T,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
General Clavering,
Mr. Barwell,
and
Mr. Francis.

The Governor General also moves, That Mr. Francis Fowke be recalled from Benares and his Commission annulled; the express Purposes thereof having been accomplished.

Mr. Francis—I need not bring my Opinion in Writing upon either of these Motions. To the First I make no Objection; but as to the Recall of Mr. Francis Fowke, I know no Motive for it; on the contrary, I am satisfied that his Presence at Benares has been of signal Use in preventing the Delays of the Remittance of the Tribute; and to my Knowledge he has done nothing to incur the Displeasure of the Board: I cannot therefore consent to his Recall.

Mr. Barwell—The express Purposes to which Mr. Fowke was first appointed, were, the Investiture of the Rajah, and the settling a Mode for the Remittance of his Tribute; his Commission ceased the Instant the Object of it was accomplished, and Mr. Fowke ought then to have been remanded to Calcutta; he holds no Appointment, and therefore it cannot properly be styled a Removal: I assent therefore to Mr. Fowke's being called to the Presidency.

General Clavering.—In regard to the Recall of Mr. Fowke and the annulling of his Office, I cannot help considering it as a vindictive Measure, couched under the Appearance of Public Service; and therefore dissent to the Motion.

Governor General—I agree to the Motion.

Resolved, That the Motion proposed by the Governor General, be carried in the Affirmative.

The following Letter is accordingly written to Mr. Fowke.

To Mr. Francis Fowke.

Sir,

The Objects proposed by your Appointment to proceed to Benares being now accomplished, we have thought it necessary to annul the Commission which was given you for that Purpose: We therefore direct that you return to this Presidency immediately on Receipt hereof.

We are, &c.

Extract of a Letter from General Clavering to the Court of Directors, dated 5th December 1776.

The Restraint that I had laid on myself not to infringe further on the Rules of the Service than was necessary, for the Explanation of my Conduct in the Part I am obliged to take, gives Way again to the Obligation I feel myself under in the strict Discharge of my Duty, to acquaint you with some of the last Transactions of the Council after the Departure of the Nassau; as their being undertaken precisely at that Juncture, seems calculated to conceal, as long as possible, the Information of them from your Notice.

The first Subject is the Removal of Mr. Bristow from the Post of Resident with the Vizier, and the Re-appointment of Mr. Middleton. The next is, the Recall of Mr. Francis Fowke from Benares.

Having annexed the entire Consultation on both Subjects, I will forbear to make any Reflections on the Proceedings, leaving it to your Honourable Board to decide how far the Good of your Service has been consulted in removing Two Gentlemen who have each distinguished themselves; the First, in obtaining for the Company an Addition of Thirty Lacks a Year to their former Revenue; and the Second, in re-establishing the Coinage of Benares, by Means of which the exact Amount of the Subsidy is ascertained, and then fixing the Rate of the Remittance on the most advantageous Terms to the Company. As to Mr. Middleton's Re-appointment, you yourselves, Gentlemen, as well as the Proprietors, are too much interested in the Support of your own Dignity, and too sensibly wounded in the Step taken to restore him to an Office from which he had been dismissed, after the solemn Condemnation which you had given on his Conduct, for not submitting his Correspondence to the Supreme Council, for me to mention and lay a Stress on the little Regard the Chief of a Council shews to the Honour of a Government over which he presides, to recommend a Servant to fill any Post till he has made the Satisfaction required of him, not only to the Government in which he serves, but to his Masters and Superiors on whom he ultimately depends.

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President;
General Clavering,
Mr. Barwell,
and
Mr. Francis.

The Governor General moves, That a Civil Servant of the Company be appointed to reside at Benares, on the Part of this Government, for the Purpose of transacting any occasional Business which may arise between this Government and the Rajah of Benares; and that Mr. Thomas Graham may be nominated to this Office, and Mr. Daniel Barwell to be his Assistant.

Mr. Francis—If a Civil Servant was necessary for the Purpose described in the Motion, I conceive that Mr. Francis Fowke was perfectly well qualified for that Office. I have no Objection, however, to either of the Gentleman recommended by the Governor General.

Mr. Barwell agrees to the Motion.

General Clavering—I object to it, and leave the Responsibility of the Measure with the Governor General, who must answer for it.

Resolved, That a Civil Servant of the Company be appointed to reside at Benares on the Part of this Government, for the Purpose of transacting any occasional Business which may arise between this Government and the Rajah of Benares.

Agreed, That Mr. Thomas Graham be nominated to this Office, and that Mr. Daniel Barwell be appointed his Assistant.

Par. 11. We have thought it proper to appoint a Company's Servant to reside at Benares, for the Purpose of transacting any occasional Business that may arise between this Government and Rajah Cheyt Sing. This Appointment has been given to Mr. Thomas Graham; and Mr. D. O. Barwell has been nominated his Assistant.

Extract of the General Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated 30th January 1778.

Par. 65. In your Secret Letter of the 19th of December 1776, you inform us, that the Purposes for which Mr. Francis Fowke was appointed to proceed to Benares being fully accomplished, you had annulled his Commission, and ordered him to the Presidency; but it appears, by your Letter of the 6th of January 1777, that in less than Twenty Days you thought proper to appoint Mr. Thomas Graham to reside at Benares, and Mr. Daniel Octavus Barwell to be his Assistant.

66. If it were possible to suppose that a Saving to the Company had been your Motive for annulling Mr. Fowke's Commission, we should approve your Proceedings; but when we find find Two Persons appointed immediately afterwards, with Two Salaries, to execute an Office which had been filled with Reputation by Mr. Fowke alone, and that Mr. Graham enjoys all the Emoluments annexed to the Office of Mr. Fowke, we must be of Opinion that Mr. Fowke was removed without just Cause, to make room for Mr. Graham; and that the Addition of Mr. Barwell's Salary is a clear Loss of Three hundred Rupees per Month to the Company.

Par. 67. As it was not pretended that Mr. Fowke's Conduct had been exceptionable; as he had executed, with the greatest Punctuality and Exactness, the like Office to which you have now appointed Mr. Graham; and as the Dissent of Mr. Francis and the Protest of General Clavering on the Occasion had no Effect, we think it proper to interfere; and therefore direct that Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately re-instated in his Office of Resident and Paymaster at Benares. We, however, think proper to declare, That though we mean by this Order to do an Act of public Justice, we by no Means intend it as a Mark of Disapprobation of the Conduct of Mr. Graham, whom we believe to be a very deserving Servant of the Company.

At a Council; P R E S E N T,

Richard Barwell,
Phillip Francis,
and
Edward Wheler, } Esquires.

Read the General Letter, dated 30th January last, received from the Honourable the Court of Directors by the Grosvenor and Osterly.

Agreed, That the Paragraphs belonging to the different Departments of the Service, be distributed.

64, 65, 66, and 67. Governor General—I must request that the Board will suspend the Execution of this Order—The Spirit and Intention of it is evident, and publicly known both in England and here. With these Considerations in View, my Consent to the Recall of Mr. Graham would be adequate to my own Resignation of the Service, because it would inflict such a Wound in my Authority and Influence, that I could not maintain it. In the Course of a few Days we may expect to hear of the Resolutions which have been taken by our Superiors, and of the Appointments which have been made to fill the Vacancy occasioned in this Government by the Death of the late Sir John Clavering: These will be likewise decisive of my own Situation in the Service. I need not say more to urge the Propriety of suspending the Execution of this Order of the Court of Directors. Mr. Thompson, in his Letter from Marseilles, dated the 18th of April, mentions that a Packet, containing the News of the General's Death, had been dispatched to London from that Port, from His Majesty's Agent there, Seven Days before, and it is probable that the Swallow carried this Intelligence earlier; we may therefore expect that the Caranja, which was to depart from Suez immediately on Receipt of the Confirmation of the War, will bring us those decisive Orders which I look for; and these may arrive To-morrow, or in the Course of a very few Days.

Mr. Francis—The Court of Directors order Mr. Francis Fowke to be immediately re-instated in his Office. To suspend the Execution of such an Order, is to disobey it. In another Part of the same Letter (Par. 41) they say, "We can on no Account permit our Orders to be disobeyed, and our Authority disregarded." When the Company's Orders to me are clear and positive, I do not deem myself at Liberty to withhold my Obedience to them on any Consideration whatever; unless a new Situation of Affairs, unknown to and unforeseen by the Court of Directors, should make it impracticable or dangerous to carry them into Execution: I am therefore against the Motion.

Mr. Wheler—I am of Opinion that the Order should be immediately carried into Execution.

Mr. Barwell—While Mr. Hastings is in the Government, the Respect and Dignity of his Station should be supported; in these Sentiments I must decline an Acquiescence in any Order which has a Tendency to bring the Government into Disrepute. As the Company have the Means and the Power of forming their own Administration in India, they may at their Pleasure place whom they please at the Head; but, in my Opinion, they are not authorized to treat a Person in that Post with Indignity.

Resolved, That the Execution of this Order be suspended.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to enter my Dissent to this Resolution.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Francis Fowke to the Governor General and Council in Bengal:

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Superior Council of Fort William.

Honourable Sirs,

I acknowledge, with great Thankfulness, your Condescension in conveying to me, through Mr. Secretary Auriol, the Resolution you have passed to suspend the Execution of the Company's Order, dated 30th January 1778, directing that "Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately re-instated in his Office of Resident and Paymaster at Benares." By this Indulgence, I have an Opportunity afforded me of humbly remonstrating against the Severity of your Sentence, which is nearly equal to Dismissal from the Service.

An Order of the Court of Directors, made public only a few Days ago, positively forbids any Covenanted Servant to return to England, under any Pretence of obtaining Redress there for Injuries received here, without first making an Appeal to them through the Channel of the President and Council Abroad. The Existence of this Order necessarily supposes that no Covenanted Servant can be dismissed or suspended from his Offices in India without some previous Trial, at least some Charge, or some Accusation to which he may be suffered to reply: On any other Supposition the Court of Directors can have no Materials lying before them to conduct their Judgment of his Merits. I stand exactly in this Predicament, and submit to your Candour to determine, whether the Case be not a hard one. I see a simple Resolution which suspends me from my Offices, and am left to guess at the Causes which influence it. In such a Situation I cannot be free from Anxiety. Conscious of my own Innocence and Integrity, I will hope that your Justice will relieve me. If there are any Accusations laid against me, let my Accusers stand forth, let me answer them Face to Face: I must believe there are some, because I am confident your Justice would not permit me to be condemned on no Grounds, however you might have mistaken them.

I am sensible that my Situation obliges me to the most perfect Submission to your Orders; yet, as my own Honour, and that of my Family, will not allow me to sit silent under a Disgrace, it was a Duty incumbent upon me to defend my Reputation. In the Offices I have filled, I have strictly adhered to my Duty, and cannot charge myself with having ever been deficient in Respect to my Superiors. The same Conduct I shall ever observe. If you find, on a candid Examination, that the Merit I lay claim to is my Due, I trust that your Honourable Board will be pleased to carry into Execution the Honourable the Court of Directors Orders for my immediate Re-appointment to the Offices of Resident and Paymaster at Benares.

Calcutta,
12th August 1778.

I remain, with the greatest Respect,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your most faithful and most obedient Servant,
Francis Fowke.

At a Council; PRESENT,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General; President;
Mr. Barwell,
Mr. Francis,
and
Mr. Wheler:

Read a Letter from Mr. Fowke.

Mr. Francis—I move, that the Secretary may be directed to inform Mr. Francis Fowke, that the Board have no Reason to be dissatisfied with any Part of his Conduct in the Company's Service; and that no Charge has been preferred against him to the Board.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—The Board having already denied to Mr. Fowke the Satisfaction he required, by ordering simply the Resolution of the Board to be furnished by the Secretary, I move the previous Question.

Mr. Wheler and Mr. Francis against the Motion.

Governor General—I am for the previous Question. All Applications of this Kind are irregular; the Board are not accountable to Mr. Fowke for their Resolution respecting him—The Reasons for suspending the Execution of the Orders of the Court of Directors contain no Charge, nor the slightest Imputation of a Charge, against Mr. Fowke; but I see no Reason why the Board should condescend to tell him so.

The previous Question being carried,
Resolved, That Mr. Francis's Question be not put:

Extract of Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Fort William in Bengal, in their Public Department, of 1st April 1779.

Mr. Francis—I move, that the 65th, 66th, and 67th Paragraphs of the Company's General Letter of the 30th of January 1778, and the Proceedings of this Board of the 20th July 1778, be now read.

Mr. Francis—I move, that the Company's Orders, contained in the preceding Paragraphs, be carried into Execution; that Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately re-instated in his Office of Resident and Paymaster at Benares, and that Mr. Thomas Graham be ordered to deliver over Charge of those Offices forthwith to Mr. Francis Fowke.

A P P E N D I X N° 4. (O)

The Governor General—I have expected this Motion, and I expect many more of a similar Nature to be introduced by Mr. Francis, for the Purpose of forcing the new Member of this Government to declare himself a Party in Disputes in which he has no Concern, and in which, I will venture to express my Belief that it is not his Wish to be involved. The Order of the Company which has been read, was addressed to this Administration before Sir Eyre Coote was a Member of it; it was also read, and a Resolution passed upon it, before Sir Eyre Coote's Appointment: I presume therefore to say, that it is irregularly brought before the Board at this Time; for though his Voice may now be required, and may be given upon the Motion, yet as it respects the Act of a former Administration, and an Act already done, the Responsibility of that Act rests only with those who constitutionally passed it, and ought not to be thrown upon him unless he himself is desirous that it should be revised, and that he may participate in it. If our Records are to undergo a new Scrutiny, and every Measure which they contain, to be examined by the Scale of the Company's Orders, or by the Judgment of the present Administration, the Time of the Board will not suffice, even in a Daily Meeting of it, for so multiplied a Research, and for the Debates which must necessarily accompany it. If this Retrospect is not to affect all the Resolutions and all the Measures of the First Government, on what Principle is a Selection made of a Question which has its Basis in a Party Distinction, and is determinable only by Party Principles. The Resolution for suspending the Execution of the Company's Orders on the 20th July 1778, was notified to the Court of Directors in our Dispatches by the Eagle Packet, dated the 17th August: Their Answer may be received, and ought to be expected, before the Period which the Act of Parliament has prescribed for the Duration of this Government: To prevent their Orders, by an intermediate Decision of a Point of such Magnitude, referred to them, is neither, in my Judgment, consistent with the Respect which is due to their Authority, nor with the actual State of this Government, already oppressed with Difficulties which demand the strenuous and united Exertion of all its Powers, and which it tends to throw into utter Confusion: And for what, let the Person who made the Motion say. What is the Object of it? Is the Re-instatement, as it is called, of Mr. Francis Fowke, to an Office which he never held, of such weighty Consequence to the Interest of the East India Company, and of the British Nation in India, that for this the First executive Member of their First Government must be treated with Insult, and either keep his Seat to be a Partaker of a Scene of Anarchy and Confusion during the short but momentous Interval which remains of the Power which we unitedly hold, or leave it, and a Government embarrassed with new and perhaps greater Distractions?

I desire that the Paragraphs of the General Letter, and the Extracts of our Proceedings which have been read, may be entered after the First Motion made by Mr. Francis: I most earnestly recommend them to the serious Attention and Reflection of the other Members of this Board, and to those of the Commander in Chief most especially. I hope that the Decision on this Question will not be precipitated; that the Consequences of it may be weighed before an Act so critical and decisive be irrevocably passed. I came unprepared for it, not ignorantly, indeed, that it would be brought on at an early Time, for the Public Voice has loudly announced it; but I did not expect to be surprized with it on a Day, and in a Department devoted to Business, from which this is entirely foreign: I therefore hope and request that the other Members will suspend their Decision until the next Meeting of the Board in the General Department.

Mr. Francis—The present Question does not properly lie between the Governor General and me, but between this Board and that Authority which the Legislature has placed over us. The Propriety of waiting for further Orders, when we have positive Orders before us, may at any Time be pleaded with equal Reason as at present, and may as easily defeat any future Orders, however peremptory, in Confirmation of the past, as those which we have already received. The personal Appeal made to Sir Eyre Coote obliges me to take this Opportunity of assuring him, that I will never bring any Question of this Nature forward, in which it will be possible for a Member of this Board to take Part against me, without at the same Time taking Part against the Court of Directors; as for the rest, I shall content myself with saying, that the Governor General has formed a very erroneous Judgment of my Intentions.

If the Public Voice has already announced my Design to introduce the present Motion, it is a strong presumptive Proof of the Public Expectation, and, as I think, of their Judgment, upon the Resolution which I propose to have reversed: As for myself, I declare upon my Honour, and if there be that Man living who can contradict me let him come forward, that I never, directly or indirectly, or by the most distant Intimation, acquainted any Person not a Member of this Board, of my Design to move the present Question. As the Governor General expected it, and as the Question itself is of a very plain and simple Nature, I think there is no Ground for deferring the Decision of it; at all Events I have done my Duty, and shall give the Board no further Trouble.

Sir Eyre Coote—Being called upon by my King and Country to fill a Post in this Part of the World of the highest Importance to the State, it was with the greatest Diffidence I undertook that Service, well knowing the great Difficulties I had to encounter from the unfortunate Differences which had arisen among the Members of the Supreme Council: I therefore determined not to take a Part in those Differences, it being in my Opinion the surest Method that I could devise of putting an End to them; and conceiving that any Kind of Retrospect would prove fatal to my Wishes, was determined to prevent them as much as lay in my Power, by bringing forward no Matter, the Decision of which I was not immediately answerable for the Consequences of; paying at the same Time implicit Obedience to the Orders of the Court of Directors, which I am determined to adhere to for my Line of Conduct. I agree to suspend the Decision of the Question till the next Meeting of the Council in the General Department.

Mr. Wheler—It cannot be considered precipitate in me to give an immediate Opinion upon the present Question, my Sentiments being already recorded; I therefore, to prevent the Implication of giving an hasty Opinion, desire Leave to record my further Sentiments at this Meeting of the Board.

Mr. Barwell—I feel much concerned on the present Occasion. The forcing on a Question on a Matter that has passed Judgment, and which if decided must be a Confirmation or Reversion of that Judgment, independent of the Authority to which it is submitted, will, I fear, not tend to conciliate the Differences of the Board, which I flattered myself might have drawn to a Period. The Consequences are very obvious. I hope, however, the Temper and Moderation of Sir Eyre Coote will decide for terminating the Distractions which have hitherto prevailed. It is with great Pleasure I observe, in the Delivery of Sir Eyre Coote's Sentiments, a Resolution so decidedly expressed of consulting alone the Honour and Interest of the Government, and fixing our Councils, if possible, to that particular Point only. I am so well aware of the Consequences to result from hastily deciding on an Act of the Administration, under the present Change in its Circumstances, in the Arrival of Sir Eyre Coote, that I entirely concur in the Wish expressed by the Governor General, to suspend the Question.

Mr. Wheler—As the Members of the Board have not objected to my Request of entering my Opinion upon the main Question, I beg Leave to do it in the following Words: That as I cannot discover, either in the Minute entered by the Governor General, or in the 25th Paragraph of our General Letter to the Court of Directors of the 17th August, by the Eagle Packet, the Shadow of an Argument that can induce me to alter my former Opinion, much less justify me in the Disobedience of a positive Order from the Court of Directors, I am for the Question.

Resolved, That the Decision of the Question proposed by Mr. Francis be suspended until the next Meeting of the Board in this Department.

( P )

Extract of Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Fort William in Bengal, in their Public Department, 5th April 1779.

Mr. Francis's Motion, recorded in the last Consultation, being now again taken into Consideration;

Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute:

Since the last Meeting of the Board in this Department, I have had Time to reflect very maturely upon the Nature and Tendency of the Question now depending.

In my former Minute upon the Subject, I declared the Two ruling Principles of my Conduct to be, the Desire of avoiding every Kind of Retrospect, and a firm Resolution to pay an implicit Obedience to the Orders of the Company.

And however difficult it may seem to reconcile an Adherence to both under the present Circumstances; since by passing an Opinion on the Question, I should seem to swerve from the one, and by declining it, to lose Sight of the other; I yet flatter myself, that the Conduct which agrees with my own Feelings, will also meet the Approbation of this Board.

I declare therefore, that had I had the Honour of a Seat here, at the Time the Company's Instructions, respecting Mr. Fowke were received, I should certainly have joined most heartily with those Gentlemen who were for putting them into immediate Execution, as I shall ever do in regard to any future Orders which may be given by the Company while I remain in the Service.

But as the Whole of this Transaction passed before my Arrival, and as the Result of the last Proceedings thereupon now lay before the Directors for their ultimate Decision, I desire to wave the giving any present Opinion upon it, and to reserve my Vote till their Orders are received, when I shall most assuredly give it in Support of them.

Calcutta, 5th March 1779.

Eyre Coote.

Mr. Francis—The Question is, Whether a positive Order of the Court of Directors shall or shall not be obeyed? I suppose it is hardly necessary for me to say what my Opinion is: I act in Conformity to it in giving my Vote for the Question.

Mr. Barwell—Mr. Francis must excuse me if I cannot receive the Question as it stands explained by him. I apprehend no one who shall take the whole Subject into his Consideration, will allow it to be so compendious. It is not a Question on the Company's Orders; however, I am willing to suppress the Reflections that arise in my Mind, to the Harmony of our future Councils. I am against the Question.

The Governor General—It is unnecessary to express any further Sense, either of the Question or the Manner in which it has been concluded: I shall therefore only say, that I am against the Question.

Mr. Francis's Question resolved in the Negative.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to enter my Dissent and Protest against the Resolution.

( V ) Extract

Extract from Bengal Secret Consultations of the 14th of January 1781.

Governor General—While this Government is charged with such extensive Concerns, and hath to contend with Difficulties equal perhaps to those in which even the Supreme Administration of the British Empire is at this Moment involved, it may at least claim as a Right, which, under any other System of Government that hath ever yet existed, would be conferred on it as an indispensable Obligation, to employ and exercise the Powers which are inherent in its Constitution, and which are immediately necessary to the Support, and eventually to the Existence, of those essential Interests which it holds in Charge. On this Principle, I claim the Right of nominating the Agent of my own Choice to the Residency of Benares. It is a representative Station, and cannot, without a Contradiction, be the Charge of a Man not preferably chosen to it by the Members of the actual Government, and holding it by an Authority independent of theirs. Speaking for myself alone, it may be sufficient to affirm that Mr. Francis Fowke is not my Agent; that I cannot give him my Confidence; that while he continues at Benares, he stands as a Screen between the Rajah and this Government, instead of an Instrument of Controul; and that the Rajah himself, and every Chief in Indostan, will regard it as the Pledge and Foundation of his Independence.

To Mr. Fowke himself I have no personal Objection; I approve his Conduct, I esteem his Character; and I believe I might depend upon his exact and literal Obedience and Fidelity in the Execution of the Functions annexed to it. My Objection is stated above, and it is insuperable.

The Person whom I have chosen to succeed him, I consider as standing in the same Degree of Confidence and Estimation with Mr. Wheeler as myself. I adopted him (if I may so express myself) from his Family and Patronage, and assigned him an Office of the highest Trust near my own Person, with Mr. Wheeler's Approbation; and from a Foresight of the Event which has since made us the Copartners of this Government, and which suggested to me the Propriety of employing such Agents as would be agreeable to him, while they possessed the other Requisites for my own Confidence.

I therefore think him, on every Consideration, the fittest to fill the Office in question. I therefore move, that Mr. Francis Fowke be immediately removed from the Residency of Benares; and that Mr. Markham may be appointed to it in his stead.

While I thus acquit myself of what I conceive to be a Public Duty, it is my Desire at the same Time to indemnify Mr. Fowke from the Consequences personally attending it towards him. I therefore move, That he be at the same Time invested with the Appointment of Agent for all Boats to be employed for the Military Service of this Establishment, with an Allowance of a Commission of 15 per Cent. upon all his Disbursements in this Office; that the executive Charge thereof take place from the Period of the Expiration of Colonel Morgan's present Contract; and that till that Time, and for Three Months following it, he be allowed to draw his present Allowance of 1000 Rupees per Month.

I propose this Method in Preference to a Contract, because I am convinced from Experience that the Service will be better performed by this Alteration, although it is liable to One material Objection in its natural Influence in his Expences. This is a Defect which can only be corrected by the Probity of the Person who is intrusted with so important a Charge; and I am willing to have it understood as a Proof of the Confidence which I repose in Mr. Fowke, that I have proposed his Appointment, in Opposition to a general Principle, to a Trust so constituted.

Mr. Wheeler—I accede to the Propriety of the Governor General's Arguments, and think them particularly applicable to the present State of this Government. I am also highly flattered by the Choice the Governor General has made of a Gentleman to fill this important Station, who was formerly under my Patronage, and who is still in my Confidence. But as Mr. Fowke has not yet signified his Willingness to accept of the Compensation proposed to him in Exchange for his present Appointment, I must decline giving my Assent to his immediate Removal.

The Governor General's Motion being agreed to, Resolved, That Mr. William Markham be accordingly appointed Resident at Benares, and Mr. Benn his Assistant.

Resolved, That Mr. Francis Fowke be invested with the Appointment of Agent for the Provision of all Boats to be employed for the Military Services of this Establishment, with an Allowance of a Commission of 15 per Cent. upon all his Disbursements in this Office; the executive Charge of which is to take place from the Period of the Expiration of Colonel Morgan's Contract, and that to that Time, and for Three Months following it, he be permitted to draw the present Allowance of 1,000 Rupees per Month.

Extract of General Letter to Bengal, dated 3d March 1775.

Par. 39. WE have examined the separate Consultations of our President and Council respecting Mahomed Reza Cawn, and embrace the present Opportunity of testifying our Approbation of their Conduct during the Whole of that Enquiry. And although the particular Informations transmitted us against Mahomed Reza Cawn, and those general and alarming Accounts of Oppressions with which the Records of our Presidency of Fort William abounded, must have rendered it our indispensable Duty to have his Administration scrutinized ; we are nevertheless well pleased on finding him able to exculpate himself from all Charges brought against him to the Satisfaction of our Servants, notwithstanding they on the Spot had deemed them so well founded as to entertain no Doubt of fixing on him Facts sufficient to justify our Censure, and to warrant his Dismission from Public Employment.

40. These being the Sentiments of our President and Council relative to Mahomed Reza Cawn's general Conduct, we cannot but notice also, that their Ideas respecting the Arrears due from him to the Circar, were nearly similar to our own, as appears by their Letter of the 10th December 1772 ; wherein they inform us, that they had great Reason to believe, on a Scrutiny into Mahomed Reza Cawn's

SEL. COM. REP. V. U

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 6. (A) (B)

Cawn's Dacca Accounts, a Balance would appear against him of upwards of Seventeen Lacks of Rupees.

41. If our Governor and Council at Fort William had Reason to be of Opinion, that the Result of an Enquiry would issue as above mentioned, we cannot but conclude, there must have been such public and general Appearances of Mal-administration, as warranted the particular Information communicated to us, and rendered it absolutely necessary for us to use the most speedy and effectual Means in our Power for delivering the Natives from apparent Tyranny and Oppression, and for recovering to the Nabob, or to the Company, the Amount of all Monies supposed to have been embezzled or misapplied by Mahomed Reza Cawn, or outstanding in his Hands on Account of the Revenues.

It was on these Grounds we directed an Enquiry to be made; and though it has not been proved that Mahomed Reza Cawn was intentionally oppressive in collecting Grain, or that he reaped pecuniary Advantages from that Article in the Time of the Famine; yet to those Persons who suffered by his Measures, the Interference of him and his Agents was at Times a real Grievance, and a sufficient Ground for their Complaint; ignorant as they must have been of the Directions of the Governor and Council to Mahomed Reza Cawn, to use his utmost Endeavour to procure Grain for the Use of the City of Moorshedabad, and for the Subsistence of the Troops.

In regard to the Dacca Revenue, we have already declared that the different Reports of our Governor and Council, from Time to Time, have been unsatisfactory to us; and we are far from being convinced, by the Materials now before us, that Mahomed Reza Cawn is not indebted to the Circar in a very considerable Sum, or that he ought not to be compelled to fulfil the Engagements entered into for the Chucklah of Dacca. The general Words under the Handwriting of Meer Jaffier, supposing both the Papers authentic, are of little Importance, and can never be construed to annul the positive Agreement which appears under the Seal of Mahomed Reza Cawn; and as to his Plea of having executed that Instrument by Compulsion, merely to gain Time and to save his Life, it wants every necessary Proof to render it effectual.

44. Under these Circumstances, and because we find the Nabob, Meer Jaffier, at the Time of his Death, indebted to the Company in the Sum of Rupees 16,69,758, we cannot deem ourselves warranted to cancel the Obligation in question; but in Consideration of the Inconveniences which Mahomed Reza Cawn may have experienced during the Time of his Examination, we direct that you suspend our Claim for the Arrear of the Dacca Revenue.

45. After declaring ourselves thus favourably on the Case of Mahomed Reza Cawn, we have only to add, that as we wish him to remain under no other Obligations to us than those of Gratitude, we therefore can have no Objection to his total Enlargement.

46. The Conduct of Nundcomar, in the Part he has taken against Mahomed Reza Cawn, appears to us so very inconsistent and unworthy, that we feel a Repugnance to the Continuance of his Son in the high Office of Roy Royan of the Province. And as the Acquittal of Mahomed Reza Cawn warrants us again to employ him, we direct that, if he can with Propriety accept of that Office under the Regulations and Restrictions established by our President and Council, and with the Salary granted to Raja Gourdas for executing the same, he be forthwith appointed thereto, and receive a proper Khelaut, and such other Marks of Distinction as are usually conferred on Natives on like Occasions. We mean not by this Appointment to restore Mahomed Reza Cawn to any improper Degree of Power, but merely to testify our Satisfaction on finding his former Conduct has been so much better than we expected.

47. And in regard to Raja Gourdas, though we cannot consent to his remaining Roy Royan of the Province, yet, in Consideration of the favourable Character we have received of him, we have no Objection to his being appointed to any Office of less Importance, if you shall be of Opinion that his Behaviour has entitled him to such a Mark of our Indulgence.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 16th October 1775.

Read the 39th to the 47th Paragraphs of the General Letter from the Court of Directors, dated the 3d March 1775.

As it is evident from these Paragraphs, that the Court of Directors were not aware of the Nature of Raja Gourdas's Appointment when they supposed that he was Roy Royan of the Provinces, whereas in fact the Appointment which he received from the late President and Council, or rather from the Begum through their Recommendation, was that of Duan of the Nizamut and Bhela, or Offices of the Nabob's Household, the Office of Roy Royan having been conferred much about the same Time on Mharaja Rajabullub by the late President and Council, and both since confirmed by the Court of Directors.

The Governor General desires that the Opinion of the Board may be taken, in what Sense the Orders of the Court of Directors, contained in this Paragraph, shall be received, both with respect Raja Gourdas and Mahomed Reza Cawn; and that Orders may be issued accordingly.

Mr. Francis—I am by no Means clear in the exact Sense to be affixed to this Paragraph; it seems to me to be liable to a Question, Whether, conformably to the Intentions of the Court of Directors, Mahomed

A P P E N D I X, N° 6. (B) (C)

Mahomed Reza Cawn should be Roy Royan, or whether he should be appointed to the Post actually held by Raja Gourdas? I do not think that it is absolutely necessary to determine this Question immediately; and could wish that the Decision of it might be deferred for a few Days. In the mean Time, I see no Reason why the Paragraphs relating to Mahomed Reza Cawn may not be communicated to him. Mr. Francis therefore moves, That the Consideration of the Governor General's Motion be deferred till the next Board Day.

Agreed, That the Consideration of the Paragraphs relative to Mahomed Reza Cawn be deferred until the next Council Day.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 18th October 1775.

Resumed the Consideration of the Paragraphs 39 to 47 of the General Letter from the Court of Directors, dated the 3d March, and the Governor General's Motion, recorded on the 16th Instant.

General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis having drawn up their Sentiments on this Subject, deliver them in the following Minute, which is now read :

After an attentive Consideration of the Company's Orders relative to Mahomed Reza Cawn and Raja Gourdas, contained in the 39th and Eight following Paragraphs of the General Letter of the 3d of March 1775, we agree with the Governor General, in thinking that the Court of Directors have mistaken the Office actually held by the Raja Bullub for that which the late Administration conferred on Raja Gourdas. This Mistake, with the Consequences drawn from the Facts supposed by the Court of Directors, produces an Ambiguity in their Orders, which makes it difficult for us to determine in what precise Sense they are to be understood; or by what Resolution of ours we can with Certainty carry their Intentions into Effect. On one Side they express a Repugnancy to the Continuance of Raja Gourdas in the high Office of Roy Royan, and direct us to appoint Mahomed Reza Cawn to it, if we can accept of it with Propriety under the Regulations and Restrictions established by the late President and Council; on the other it is to be observed, that Raja Gourdas is not Roy Royan, and that the Office is by no Means of such a Rank or Consequence as could possibly restore Mahomed Reza Cawn to any improper Degree of Power.

The Roy Royan is no more than principal Mutesuddie, or Clerk of the Khalsa; whose Duty it is to attend at the Meetings of the Board of Revenue, to make Reports, to answer to all Enquiries, and to receive occasional Instructions. It appears to us, that such an Office conveys no Degree of Dignity whatever; the inconsiderable Share of Power annexed to it, is immediately under the Controul of the Revenue Board. It must also be remarked, that the Roy Royan is a Hindoo Office, consequently not to be exercised by a Mussulman; and that for this Reason Mahomed Reza Cawn could not accept of it with Propriety.

With this View of the Instructions before us, and considering that they do not prescribe to us such a clear and determinate Line of Conduct as would preclude any Difference of Opinion, and leave nothing to our own Discretion; we apprehend that the present Sense and Intentions of the Court of Directors cannot be better ascertained than by recurring to the Plan which they originally adopted for the Regulation of the Country Government, when they received Advice of the Accession of the present Nabob to the Musnud. We find it stated, in their Letter of the 28th of August 1771, in Terms too clear and precise to admit of any Misrepresentation; and we do not doubt that, upon due Consideration of the Subject, it will be found much more judicious, and better adapted to the respective Circumstances of this Country, and of the Company, than that which the late President and Council, of their own Authority, thought proper to substitute in its Place. In our Minute of the 15th of September we have already observed, that the Appointment of Munny Begum, Raja Gourdas, and Raja Bullub, and the Distribution of the Salary among those Three Persons, which the Court of Directors had appropriated to a single Office, was a direct Disobedience of their Orders. It is our Opinion, taken on the most mature Deliberation, that the Board should now revert to those Orders, and endeavour to carry them into Execution, as far as our present Circumstances will permit. On the Removal of Mahomed Reza Cawn, it was evidently the Company's Intention to substitute a single Minister in his Place, to transact the political Affairs of the Sircar; they instruct their Servants "to select, for that Purpose, some Person well qualified for the Affairs of Government, and of whose Attachment to the Company's Interest they were well assured; and to recommend him to the Nabob to succeed Mahomed Reza Cawn as Minister of the Government, and Guardian of the Nabob's Minority." The mischievous Consequences of departing from this System, have been such as the late President and Council might easily have foreseen. For Want of a Person of Credit and Abilities to fill the Station of Minister, and who, supported by our Influence, and subject to our Controul, might represent and act for the Nizam during his Minority, the Country Government, which it has been the constant Policy of the Company to support, has been reduced to such a State of Weakness and Insignificance, as not even to carry the Appearance of a Government, either to its own Subjects or to Foreigners. All Differences and Discussions with the foreign Factories, in which it is not the true Interest of the Company to appear as Parties, and which ought properly properly to have been referred to the Nabob or his Ministers, have been taken up directly by the Representatives of the Company as Principals: The Company of course, without Necessity, and contrary to their own political System, are made responsible to the Nation for all the Consequences which may attend any Acts of Force or Hostility exercised by their Servants in checking the Encroachments of the foreign Factories on the Rights and Authority of the Country Government. In this View alone, the Expediency of supporting an ostensible Authority in the Nabob, is too obvious to be disputed: At the same Time his positive Rights are founded on a specific Treaty, and cannot, in our Opinion, be invaded by the Company's Servants, without a Violation of every Principle of Justice and good Faith.

The Consequence of reducing the just and constitutional Powers of the Nizamut to their present feeble State, have not been confined to the political Interests of the Company.

Every Member of this Board must know, and we believe that no Man feels it more sensibly than the Governor General himself, that since the Transfer of the Lands from the original Owners to the present Farmers, and since the Abolition of the local Jurisdictions exercised by the Zemindars in their respective Zemindaries, which followed that Transfer, the internal Government of the Country has fallen into a most alarming State of Confusion.

By the Constitution of Bengal, the Zemindar presided in the Criminal Court of his Districts, pronounced and executed Sentences on all Offences less than capital, and was answerable to the Nizam for the Peace and good Order of the Country, as far as his Jurisdiction extended. An Institution of this Nature might undoubtedly be liable to Abuses; but it was conformable to the Manners and Prejudices of the People, who looked up to their Chiefs alone for Justice and Protection. It made an essential Part of the Constitution of the Country, and could not be abolished without breaking that regular Chain of Subordination and Dependence, by which the Government and the People were united in One political Body. Mr. Hastings himself admits these Consequences, and declares, "That by the Removal of the Zemindary Jurisdictions, the Confidence of the Decoits was increased; and that no Method had been substituted for giving Intelligence to Government of such Events as related to the Peace of the Country." Abuses will find their Way into the Practice of the wisest Institutions; but they ought to be corrected by a steady and vigorous Administration, not by rashly forcing the accumulated Wisdom and Experience of Ages to yield to the crude Ideas of a few Foreigners (for such the English are in Bengal) on a Subject, which they can hardly be supposed to have understood, even if they had had the Welfare of the Country ever so sincerely at Heart.

The Annihilation of the judicial Powers formerly exercised by the Zemindars, was however a necessary Consequence of dispossessing them of their Lands. The Revenues could not easily be collected by the Farmers, if a Power had been reserved to the Zemindars, to which the Ryots might have Recourse against the Oppression of their new Masters.

It became necessary therefore to form a new Plan for the Administration of Criminal Justice: A Court of Fouzdarry Adawlut was accordingly established in each District, for the Trial of all Crimes and Misdemeanors; a Supreme Court of Fouzdarry Adawlut was established at Calcutta, under the especial Care of the President, with Power to confirm all Sentences from the Subordinate Courts, except Capital, which were referred to the Nizam.

It was soon found by Experience, that the Institution of these Courts had not "produced the Benefits expected from them, and that the Public Tranquillity could not be secured without the Extension of other and extraordinary Means."

What Benefit indeed could be derived from the new Courts of Justice, when even the Regularity and Precision, introduced into their Proceedings, are assigned by Mr. Hastings, "as One Cause of the Increase of Robbers."

No stronger Proof can be produced, that they were not founded on Principles reconcileable to the Genius and Temper of the People.

As a Remedy for this and many other Evils which the Establishment of the Phouzdarry Courts had either created or not removed, particularly the Want of Ministerial Officers for the Apprehension of Offenders, which the new System had not provided for, the late President, in his Minute of 19th April 1774, proposes the farther Institution of several Fouzdars, or Officers of Police, to be stationed in the Districts, with Power to apprehend Decoits and other Offenders, and bring them to Justice. Even this Expedient has failed of its proposed Effect. We have too much Reason to believe, that the Fouzdars themselves, with their numerous Followers, have, in many Instances, either screened the Decoits, or joined with them, and that upon all Occasions they have made Use of their Power to plunder and oppress the People whom they were sent to protect. The Governor General has repeatedly represented to this Board the deplorable State of the Provinces with respect to the Administration of Justice; he has desired to be relieved of the Superintendence of the Fouzdarry Court, and Controul of the Fouzdars, as of a Burthen to which he is unequal; and has requested us to take the Subject generally into our Consideration.

It seemed necessary to enter thus far into the internal State of the Country and Government, not only that the Measures which we mean to recommend to the Board might be regularly introduced, but that the Governor General and Mr. Barwell might be able to determine at one View, whether those Measures are conformable to the Spirit of our Instructions, and adapted to our actual Situation.

It is now the clear unquestionable Determination of the Court of Directors to support an ostensible and active Power in the Country Government. The Nabob himself, from Youth, Inexperience, and the the total Neglect of his Education, is incapable of exercising this Power. The executive Authority of the Nizam must be delegated to a Minister, who, acting in his Master's Name, may nevertheless be sensible that he owes his Appointment solely to our Recommendation, and that his Continuance in Office depends upon his Attachment and Gratitude to the Company.

We are convinced there is no Man in the Provinces in every Respect so well qualified for this important Post, as Mahomed Reza Cawn; and we think the Declarations now made in his Favour by the Court of Directors, entitle us to replace him in it.

We offer it therefore as our Opinion, that the Board should recommend him to the Nabob to be Minister of the Government, and Guardian of his Highness's Minority, with Authority to transact the political Affairs of the Sircar. He should be instructed to superintend the Nabob's Education, to chuse proper Servants and Companions for him, and to endeavour to recover him from the dishonourable State of Ignorance and Dissipation in which we fear he is still immersed. He should be particularly impowered and directed to reduce and regulate the Expences of the Nabob's Household in such a Manner as to enable him to extricate his Highness from his Debts and Incumbrances, without calling upon the Company for an Increase of his present Income.

After the Appointment of a Minister at the Durbar, it will be equally unnecessary and inexpedient for this Board, whether as Principals or Parties, to enter into any Discussions with the Foreign Factories on Questions touching the Rights and Authority of the Country Government, in which, as Representatives of the East India Company, we have strictly no Concern. Every Question of that Nature may be immediately referred to the Nabob and his Ministers, who understanding the Constitution of the Country, and the Extent of the Privileges originally enjoyed by the Foreign Factories, will probably be better able than we are to answer any Arguments produced by those Factories in Support of their Pretensions. If ultimately it should be found necessary to maintain the Authority of the Country Government by Force, the Nabob will call upon us for that Assistance which we are bound by Treaty to afford him, and which may be effectually employed in his Name. In the mean Time we shall be relieved from the Burthen and Odium of many Discussions with the Foreign Factories, in which, though not strictly Parties, they affect to consider us as Principals. Another, and most important Branch of the Minister's Duty, should be, to examine into the actual State of the Fouzdarry Courts and Conduct of the Fouzdars, and to take a general Review of the Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Country; he should have full Authority given him either to enforce the Operation of these Courts upon the present Establishment, or to new-model and correct them. If neither of these Measures should be found practicable, it will be his Duty to form and propose some other Plan better accommodated to the State of the Country and the Manners of the People, and which at the same Time may not be incompatible with the System on which the Lands are actually farmed. In short, as Ministers of the Nizam, the Criminal Justice of the Country, with all the Courts and Officers belonging to that Branch of Government, is properly under his Care, and he should be made responsible for the due Administration of it. The Office established under the Control and Authority of the late President, for receiving and registering all Reports from the Fouzdars, and issuing Orders to them, should be transferred to Muxadabad, and placed under his Direction.

It is our Opinion that he should be allowed a Salary of Two Lacks Forty thousand Rupees, which, though inadequate to the Dignity of his Station, and to the Services expected from him, is, we apprehend, the utmost the Board can allow him out of Three Lacks appropriated for this Office by the Court of Directors, the Remainder being reserved for the Roy Royan.

We are now to consider in what Manner it may be proper to carry the Company's Instructions in Favour of Raja Gourdas into Execution. The Court of Directors say, that "in Consideration of the favourable Character they have received of him, they have no Objection to his being appointed to any Office of less Importance (than that which they supposed him to be in Possession of) if we should be of Opinion that his Behaviour has entitled him to such a Mark of their Indulgence."

We cannot refuse Raja Gourdas our Testimony in his Favour; and we know of no Employment, in any Degree proportioned to his Rank and Station, of less Importance than that of Roy Royan: The Office is merely ministerial, and the Salary annexed to it less by Two Fifths than that he at present enjoys. We must in this Place declare ourselves totally unacquainted with the Merit or Services of Raja Bullub: His original Appointment was unauthorized; and, supposing such an Office to have been ever so necessary, we think it should not have been entrusted to a very young Man, who certainly had no Experience, and could not be supposed to possess any Knowledge of the Business of the Revenues.

We therefore feel no Scruple or Reluctance whatever in advising the Dismissal of Raja Bullub, and the Appointment of Raja Gourdas to succeed him.

(Signed) J. Clavering,
Geo. Monson,
P. Francis.

Mr. Barwell — The Orders of the Company are, in my Opinion, clear and explicit; they direct that the Station to which Raja Gourdas was advanced, during the Investigation ordered into Mahomed Reza Cawn's Conduct, shall be vacated; they direct that Mahomed Reza Cawn shall be placed in his room; they declare the Conduct of Nundcomar appears to them inconsistent and unworthy, and that they feel a Repugnance to the Continuance of his Son in the high Office of Roy

Roy Royan of the Province (this can mean nothing more than the high Office he at present holds) or any other that may speak their Approbation of the Conduct of Nundcomar, in the Honours conferred, or to be conferred, by this Government on his Son. They direct, conceiving the Office of Roy Royan to be blended with the Trust that Gourdaſs has hitherto diſcharged, that he ſhall no longer act in that Office; but, in Conſideration of the favourable Character they have received of him, they have no Objection to his being employed in Offices of leſs Importance, if this Government ſhall be of Opinion he is entitled to ſuch a Mark of the Company's Indulgence. The Word "Objection" ſtrongly marks the Sentiments of the Court of Directors reſpecting the Son of Nundcomar, that they were unwilling, by any public Honours to be granted to him, to convey to the Minds of the Natives their Approbation of any Services rendered by the Father; but if any particular Merits of the Son might, independently, entitle him to Favour, their Governor and Council are merely permitted to conſider them. The Words of the Company cannot be too often repeated; they ſay "they have no Objections." If they meant in any Reſpect to recommend the Son of a Perſon whom they have declared to be notoriously obnoxious in their Eye, it would certainly have been done in expreſs Words; in the Manner in which his Name is now noticed, the Company have pointedly declared, that under no Conſideration whatever do they allow the Government to employ Gourdaſs, the Son of Nundcomar, unleſs ſome particular Services rendered to the Company, and the Merits of the Man, give him Claim to Favour; and then they only ſay, "ſuppoſing ſome ſpecific Services and Merits, we have no Objections to his being employed." The Company have repeatedly confirmed Rajah Raje Bullub, both on account of his ſuppoſed perſonal Knowledge in the Revenue, having been from his Infancy employed in the Khaltā Department under his Father Rajah Dolubram, the Dewan of theſe Provinces, and likewise on the Score of his Father's Services rendered to the Company, to fill the Station of Roy Royan. It will be both partial and contradictory to the Intentions of the Company, to place Gourdaſs in Competition with this Man, who never had any Employment in the State, from which it was poſſible for him to acquire the moſt trifling Knowledge of the Interests of theſe Provinces in the Adjustment of their Rents and Revenues. It is plain that the Company did not deſign to leave it in the Option of this Board, to purſue any particular Aim in favour of Gourdaſs to the Detriment of an Officer fixed in his Station by themſelves. The moſt that can be underſtood, from the Company's obviously miſtaking the Roy Royan's Office to be blended with Raja Gourdaſs's, is, to interpret this Miſtake in favour of Mahomed Reza Cawn, as he is expreſsly pointed out by their Orders to fill the Station in which Raja Gourdaſs has been no more than a Pageant; I ſay a Pageant, becauſe it is notoriously known that he has neither Acuteness of Parts, Knowledge, or Talents; that he has been the mere Inſtrument in the Hands of his Father, and muſt ever remain an Inſtrument in the Hands of ſome one; and though he may appear oſtenſibly to act, I make no Doubt in the Courſe of Time it will appear, that European or Native Influence has been the Spring of every Tranſaction of Importance he ſhould ſeem to engage in. In theſe Sentiments I diſſent to the Opinion delivered by the Majority on the Senſe of the Company's Letter from Paragraph 39 to Paragraph 47, fully perſuaded the Conſtruction is equally forced and unnatural; that the ſame Biās which our Public Proceedings in various Sheets ſhew to the Father, has interpreted the Orders of the Company in favour of the Son.

The Company have ordered Mahomed Reza Cawn, in my Opinion, to be placed in the Station now occupied by Raja Gourdaſs: They have ordered Raja Gourdaſs to be removed to make room for him: They have not ordered (as the Majority preſume) the employing Raja Gourdaſs in any other Station; they have only ſaid, they have no Objection, provided he has Merit and ſpecific Services to plead. I beg Leave to explain the Grounds upon which I have now ſaid the Company enjoin, that unleſs Raja Gourdaſs has particular Merit and ſpecific Services to plead to their Indulgence, that he ſhall not be employed; their own Words are, "If you ſhall be of Opinion that his Behaviour has entitled him to ſuch a Mark of our Indulgence, we have no Objection to his being appointed to any Office of leſs Importance."

Mr. Francis — I think Mr. Barwell allows himſelf a very conſiderable Latitude, when he interprets the Word Behaviour, into Raja Gourdaſs's having Merit and ſpecific Services to plead.

The Governor General. — I diſſent from every Reſolution of the Majority, as contradictory to the Orders of the Company, and inconfiſtent even from thoſe which they are profeſſed to carry into Execution; and I hereby enter my Proteſt againſt them, and all the Conſequences which may enſue from them. I have too much to ſay upon the Subject to be dictated in a verbal Minute at this Board; I will deliver in my Reaſons in Writing at another Time. I meant to have contented myſelf with this ſhort Diſſent to the Reſolutions already formed, conceiving my Opinion to be unneceſſary, and precluded from any poſſible Effect by thoſe Reſolutions; underſtanding, of courſe, the Recommendations of the Majority delivered in ſo formal and decided a Manner as the Reſolutions of the Board: But as I perceive that it is expected of me to give an Opinion in the Terms of my own Queſtion, I will comply with the Form required of me in a few Words. It is my Opinion, then, that the Company's Orders require that Raja Gourdaſs ſhould be removed from the Appointment which was granted to him under the Sanction of the laſt Adminiſtration, and, a fortiori, from every Addition ſince made to it; and that Mahomed Reza Cawn be appointed Dewan to the Nabob's Houſehold in his Stead.

Reſolved, That the Board recommend Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Nabob, to be Miniſter of the Government and Guardian of his Minority, with the Powers and Authorities as deſcribed in the Minute delivered in by General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint Mahomed Reza Cawn, that the Honourable the Court of Directors

Directors have been pleased to approve of the Proceedings of the late Board, on the Investigation of his Conduct, by which he was acquitted of the Accusations laid to his Charge, excepting the Amount due to the Company on Account of the Dacca Revenues, which Sum, however, they have suspended their Claim to, in Consideration of the Inconveniencies which he may have suffered during the Time of his Examination; and wishing that he should remain under no Obligation to them than that of Gratitude, they consent to his total Enlargement: And that he be further acquainted, that the honourable the Governor General and Council have therefore been pleased to recommend him to the Nabob Mobarek O' Dowla, to be Naib Soubah, or Minister, of the Sircar, and Guardian of his Minority, with Authority to transact the Political Affairs of the Sircar, to superintend the Fouzdarry Courts, and the Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Country, and to enforce the Operation of the same on the present Establishment; or to new model and correct it: And as the Board wish that he shall have full Controul of the Officers of the Criminal Courts in the Character of Naib Soubah, they propose to remove the Nizamut Adawlut, now at Calcutta, to be held in future at Moorshedabad.

Resolved also, That Raja Gourdas be appointed to the Office of Roy Royan in the room of Raja Raje Bullub.

Ordered, That Notice be sent to the Board of Revenue of the foregoing Appointments, that Raja Raje Bullub may be acquainted of his Dismissal from that Board: And

Resolved, That the following Letter be written to the Resident at the Durbar.

Sir,

The Honourable the Court of Directors having considered the Proceedings of the Investigation into the Conduct of the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn, they have approved of his Acquittal from the Charges which had been alleged against him, excepting the Debt due to the Company on account of the Dacca Revenues; the Claim for which they have, however, been pleased to suspend, in Consideration of the Inconveniencies he may have suffered during his Examination.

As they also think proper that he should again be employed, we beg Leave to recommend him to the Nabob to be appointed Naib Soubah, or Minister of his Government, and Guardian of his Minority, with Authority to transact the Political Affairs of the Sircar, to superintend the Fouzdarry Courts and the Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Country, and to enforce the Operation of the same upon the present Establishment, or to new model and correct it; also, to attend to the Education and Instruction of his Excellency, and to regulate the Expences of his Household. And as the Regulation of Criminal Justice will be entirely under his Controul, we mean to remove the Office of Nizamut Adawlut, established at the Presidency under the late President, to Moorshedabad.

As the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn will supersede the Office now held by Raja Gourdas, you will acquaint the Nabob that we have appointed him to the Post of Roy Royan.

We are, &c.

Read a Letter from Mahomed Reza Cawn, as follows:

Copy of a Letter from the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn.

On the 23d Shabana (19th October) I received a Letter from Mr. Auriol, the Secretary to the Council, to the following Purport (here he quotes the Secretary's Letter, agreeable to the Board's Resolution of the 18th Instant.)

I beg Leave to represent to you, Gentlemen, that from the Time when I was first honoured with an Employment in the Company's Affairs, I never took any Step but for the Interest of the Company; to promote which I exerted myself with so much Assiduity, in Conjunction with the Company's Administration, that in various Instances I gained great Applause. It therefore afforded me the highest Pleasure to hear that the Company approved of the Decree declaring my Innocence, and that they were satisfied of the Injustice of the Accusations falsely laid to my Charge. And as my being again received into Employment will make known the Approbation, and will tend to raise my Character and Reputation, I shall therefore accept, with the greatest Pleasure, an Appointment, which the Governor General and Council having been so kind as to fix on for me, have recommended to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla to bestow on me: By the Blessing of God, when it is approved, I shall exert my utmost Abilities in the same Manner as I have ever done in the Execution of the Trust. But I beg of you, Gentlemen, to reflect, that considering of my former Salary, Station, and the important Office to be now entrusted to me, the Salary of 2,40,000 Rupees, which you fixed on, is not sufficient to defray the Expences which by the Usage of the Country

Country I must be at. I had also flattered myself, after the extreme Disgrace which I, a faithful Adherent of the Company, had suffered from the false Accusations brought against me; that when the Company were informed of my Innocence and good Character, they would have given me greater Marks of their Favour than they had even formerly done. As you, Gentlemen, have shewn me so much Regard, and engaged so heartily in my Favour, whatever therefore you determine, considering it as for my Interest and Advantage, I shall agree thereto; but I am hopeful, that when you are thoroughly acquainted with the Distresses I have suffered, you will honour me with the same Powers in the Administration of the Affairs of the Sircar as I formerly enjoyed; and thereby enable me to manifest my Fidelity and Attachment to the Company.

Read a Letter from the Nabob Mobarek ul Dowla, approving of the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn, recorded in the Persian Correspondence, and received the 29th Instant.

Agreed that the following Letter be written to Mr. Martin, Resident at the Durbar :

Sir,

The Nabob Mobarek ul Dowla having in a Letter to the Governor General signified his Approbation of the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to be Naib Soubah, which we had recommended to him, we desire that you will obtain from the Nabob a proper Sunnud for the Investiture of his Office, and transmit it to us, that it may be duly presented to him.

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 6th November 1775.

Read the following Representations from Mahomed Reza Cawn :

Received the 6th November 1775.

Enclosed I transmit you a List of Articles relating to the Niabut of the Nizamut Foujedarry, &c. and am hopeful that for the Regulation of the Affairs of the Niabut, and for the Administration of the Affairs of the Foujedarry, the Signature of the Council may be affixed to the Purport of the said Articles, and their Orders sent to the creditable Zemindars and principal Farmers.

Articles relating to the Niabut of the Nizamut Foujedarry, &c.

1st. The Governor General and Council have been pleased to appoint me, Sied Mahomed Reza Cawn, Mozuffer Jung, to the Office of Naib Soubah, which I formerly held, with the Superintendence of the Foujedarry and Adawlut, the Cauzyship, the Administration of Criminal Justice, and the Regulation of Weights and Measures, with Authority to adjust and correct the Method on which the Business has been conducted; it is necessary that my Seal and Signature be likewise authentic in all Matters relative to the above Offices.

2dly. Let the Council issue an Order that the Nabob's stipulated Salary be paid monthly; that it may be received from the Khallā Treasury, and deposited in that of the Nizamut.

3dly. For the Regulation of the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla's Affairs, it will be necessary to augment the Salaries of some, and to decrease those of others; and also to make some Appointments and Dismissions. It will likewise be necessary to make some Changes in the Officers of the Foujedarry, &c. without this it will be impossible to effect a Regulation.

4thly. The Nizamut Sircar is very greatly in Arrears to the Servants of the Government on Account of their Salaries, and those who have any Claims will make a Demand of them. From whence are these Arrears to be paid?

5thly. It is the Design of the Board in appointing me to the Foujedarry to bring Thieves to Punishment, and to root out all Robbers and Murderers: This requires the greatest Vigilance and Attention. Whenever any Circumstance occurs, and I address the Board thereon, I am hopeful that they will immediately apply a Remedy.

In the same Manner the Foujedars in the Mofussil will have continual Occasion to write to me, and it will in many Cases be necessary for me to enquire the Particulars from the Vackeels of the Zemindars and Farmers, and it will likewise be necessary for the Zemindars and Farmers to represent a Variety of Causes to the Sudder Cutcherry at Moorsshedabad; this makes it requisite that a

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 6. ( E ) ( F )

Vackeel should remain at the Sudder Cutcherry on the Part of every creditable Zemindar and Farmer. Let an Order therefore be issued to them by the Board for that Purpose, and that every Zemindar and Farmer deliver to the Foujedar a List of the Number of Zemindarry Tannahs in his District, together with the Names of the Persons stationed in them; and strictly enjoining them that they pay implicit Obedience to the Orders of the Foujedars in all Matters relating to the Foujedarry.

6thly. Let an Order of the Board be issued to the Chiefs of the several Districts, that whenever their Assistance is required by the Foujedars stationed in the Tannahs, for the Apprehension of Robbers and Murderers, or for any other Business of the Foujedarry, they are to pay Attention to their Representations, and to afford them their Assistance for the Accomplishment of such Business; and that whenever I write to them on any Affair relating to the Foujedarry, &c. or to the Cauzies, Musties, and other Officers of the Adawlut, they are to comply therewith.

7thly. How many Tannahs shall be established throughout the Districts of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa; how many Men with the Foujedars and Officers shall be stationed in each; what Salaries shall they receive; and at what particular Places shall the Tannahs be fixed?

8thly. There are at present stationed at different Places in the Districts of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, Officers of the Adawlut, and Cauzies, and Musties. Let an Order of the Board be issued to whomsoever has the Seristah in his Possession, to give me an Account of the Number of them and the Salaries they receive.

9thly. It is the Custom with the People here, to pay Respect and Obedience to the Person from whose Hands they receive their Wages. This being the Case, if the Officers of the Adawlut and Foujedarry receive their Salaries from me, the Affairs of the Sircar will be regulated on the best Footing.

Ordered, That the Secretary wait on Mahomed Reza Cawn, to desire his Attendance at the Board on Thursday Morning next; and at the same Time, that he learn from him what Kind of a Khelaut he received in his former Appointment, and that he provide a similar one for this Occasion.

( F )

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 9th of November 1775.

Mahomed Reza Cawn attending agreeably to the Board's Requisition, signified to him by the Secretary in consequence of the Order of the 6th Instant, is invested with a Khelaut and the proper Jewels: His Two Sons attending also, are clothed in proper Dresses and Jewels, which had been prepared for them.

The Nabob's Attendants being ordered to withdraw, the Honourable the Governor General acquaints him of the Orders and Opinions of the Court of Directors upon the late Enquiry into his Conduct; also, the particular Instructions upon the different Offices assigned him, as follows:

To Mahomed Reza Cawn.

You have already been informed, in a Letter from the Secretary, of the Approbation expressed by the Honourable the Court of Directors, of the Proceedings of the late President and Council in their Examination of your Conduct, and of the Terms upon which that Honourable Court have adjudged you acquitted of the several Charges upon which you were tried.

This Board is now happy to be the Instrument of the more favourable Orders and Intentions of the Company, and of publicly manifesting their Regard and Confidence in you, in the Appointment which has been lately bestowed upon you. At the same Time, they deem it proper to recommend the following Points to your Attention, in the different Occupations which you now hold.

1st. In the Office assigned you, of Guardian to the Nabob and Superintendant of his Household, the Board expect that you pay the strictest Attention to Frugality in the Nabob's Expences, and that you conform to the Orders of the Company, which direct, that an Annual Account of them be transmitted through the Resident of the Durbar, for the Inspection of this Board; and a translated Copy of their Orders on this Head accompanies this. This Duty the Company, as the proper Guardians of the Nabob, have a Right to exact from you. The Payments of the Nizamut are much in Arrears; and the strictest Attention to Economy is the only Means by which you can raise a Fund for the Discharge of his Debts.

2dly. The Board recommend, that you pay great Attention to the Education and Morals of the young Nabob: That you set apart certain Portions of the Day for the different Studies which may be necessary to cultivate his Understanding, and for his Appearance in his Durbar: That you cause as much of the Official Duties and Public Transactions as possible, to pass under his Inspection, to habituate him to the Practice, and instruct him in the Knowledge of Business: That you carefully guard him from dissolute and bad Company, and place only such Persons about him as, by an approved Attachment to his Family, by a proper Behaviour and discreet Conduct, may both merit his Confidence and improve him by their Example.

3dly. We shall apply to you, as Naib of the Nizamut, for the Interposition of the Name and Authority of the Nizam in all Disputes which may happen between this Government and the other European Settlements, whether in Matters of Revenue, Commerce, or such as regard the Peace and good Order of the Country: And in all such Occasions we shall expect from you an instant and cautious Attention both to the Rights of the Company and of the Government you serve, as well as a speedy, peremptory, and steady Conduct in the Support of them.

The Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Country being now entirely under your Superintendence and Controul, the Board desire you will take Care that the several Courts be composed of Men who are qualified by their Learning and Integrity for those Trusts; that they be not appointed by partial Recommendations; and that their Places be not occupied by Deputies, but that they personally attend to the Duties of their respective Offices, and conform literally to the Rules enjoined them; that they transmit their Proceedings Monthly to the Sudder, where you will cause them to be expeditious in revising them, and in passing the Futwas, and that you issue the Warrants of Execution without Delay.

The Foujedarry Chucklas have yet only been in Part established; those which have been fixed are at the Chucklas of Houghley, Catwa, Mirzanagur, and Boofna. Copies of the Plans of these Establishments, and of such other Plans as have been formed or recommended, will be delivered to you; and you will confirm such of them as you shall approve, and propose any Alterations and Amendments which in your Judgment may tend to improve the System, and make it more likely to preserve the Peace of the Country; but in all these Establishments, and in whatever new ones you may find it necessary to recommend, we desire you will observe the greatest Economy.

(Signed) Warren Hastings,
&c. Council.

Agreed, That Mahomed Reza Cawn be furnished with the above in the Persian Language.

The following Letter from the Resident at the Durbar, with its Contents, is now communicated to Mahomed Reza Cawn:

Gentlemen,

I am favoured with your Letter of the 30th ultimo; and have now the Pleasure of transmitting you the Nabob's Sunnud, confirming the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Superintendancy of the Foujedarry Court of Adawlut. He has however declined giving his Sunnud for the Office of Naib Soubah, as a Thing not customary, and which he informs me was never done by any of his Predecessors; he is nevertheless perfectly satisfied with the Appointment; and if it should be your Pleasure to require such a Grant from him as materially necessary for the Investiture of that Office, I make no Doubt of his ready Compliance.

I am, with the greatest Respect, &c.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 6th December 1775.

Received the following Letter from the Resident at the Durbar:

Gentlemen,

I have now the Pleasure to acquaint you, that Mahomed Reza Cawn, agreeable to his Appointment, has this Day taken Charge of the Nabob's Household, and the Management of his Affairs.

I remain, &c.

Moorshedabad;
2d December 1775.

(Signed)

W. B. Martin,
Resident.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Opinions, which have been given upon the Articles proposed by Mahomed Reza Cawn, and recorded in Consultation 6th November.

1st. The Governor General and Council have not appointed Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Soubah, but have recommended him to the Nabob for that Appointment: He has added Two Offices to those assigned him by the Board, namely, the Cauzyship and the Regulation of Weights and Measures. These Offices he cannot hold without the express Appointment of the Board, and the Nature of them ought to be very minutely explained before they can be conferred upon him.

The Nabob's Seal and Signature should be used in all permanent Acts of the Nizamut, but the current Transactions may be properly authenticated by the Naib alone. This, upon the Principle established for his Appointment, must be the Act of the Nabob, not of the Board.

2d. Is very proper.

3d. I disapprove of any Power that may be given to Mahomed Reza Cawn to augment Salaries, or to make new Appointments, without the Concurrence of the Board previously obtained; for this principal Reason, among others, that the Accounts of the Nizamut are represented to be greatly in Arrears, which can only be cleared off by Savings in the Expences.

4th. From Savings in the Expences.

5th. All proper, but the Article of Vackeels; they are not necessary, and will be a heavy Expence to the Farmers, and of course to Government. Most of the Informations which he requires, so far as the Fouzdarry Establishment has hitherto been carried, may be furnished from that Office.

6th. All proper, but the Requisition of Assistance to the Cauzies and Musties; which seems to allude to some Powers intended to be vested in those Offices, which I hope the Board will not allow them.

7th. The Plan of the Fouzdarry Establishments, which has been already adopted, and the other Plans recommended by the Provincial Councils, may be put into his Hands; and it will rest with him to recommend such an Establishment, whether any of these, or one more expedient of his own Formation, to the Board.

8th. Proper.

9th. Let the principal Officers of the Adawlut and Fouzdarry receive their Wages from him, and the inferior Officers from the Principal.

(Signed) W. H.

A P P E N D I X, N° 6. ( G )

1st. We have only recommended Mahomed Reza Cawn, not appointed him. As Representative of the Nazim, I conceive the Cauzyship will devolve to him of course, and I think it very proper that the Regulation of Weights and Measures should be committed to his Care.

In all Matters relative to the Business of his Offices, his Seal and Signature should be authentic.

2d. Agreed. *

3d. Provided that upon the Whole, he reserves One-fourth at least, for the Liquidation of Debts; I would leave the Distribution of the Remainder to his Discretion, supposing always that he renders an Account of such Distribution to the Board.

4th. From Savings.

5th. Agreed, except that I suspend my Consent to the Article of the Vackeels, until I know whether it be absolutely necessary.

6th. Agreed.

7th. He should take the present Establishment into Consideration, and propose Alterations if he thinks them necessary.

8th. Agreed.

9th. Agreed, as the Governor General proposes.

(Signed) P. F.
J. C.

All agreed to with the Reservations made by Mr. Francis.

(Signed) G. M.

Agreeably to these Opinions the Secretary has prepared an Answer to Mahomed Reza Cawn, which he begs Leave to lay before the Board for their Approval, as follows.

The Honourable the Governor General and Council have received and considered your Address to them of the 6th Instant, containing Nine different Articles, which you proposed as requisite to be established, contingent to the Offices of Naib of the Nizamut and Superintendant of the Foujedarry Courts; and the Board have been pleased to come to the following Determinations upon them. To the 1st. It is necessary to observe, that the Board have not appointed you to your present Offices; they only recommended you to the Nabob for that Purpose. Neither the Cauzyship nor the Yetesaul were expressly named in the Appointment recommended by the Board. The former will of course be under your Controul; and if you shall judge it necessary to place this Office on its original, or any better Footing, or to restore the Office of Yatesaul, which was abolished Three Years ago in consequence of the Regulations which were made at that Time, we expect that you previously advise us of your Sentiments, and lay before us the Plan which you shall have formed for the better Regulation of these Offices, that they may receive our Concurrence to their being carried into Execution.

2d. Agreed to.—An Order will be issued to Mr. Martin to pay the Nabob's Stipend by regular monthly Kists.

3d. The Stipend of the Nabob will be entrusted to your Management, provided, upon the Whole, you reserve One-fourth of the Amount for the Liquidation of his Debts; the Distribution of the Remainder will be left to your Prudence and Discretion. It is expected, however, that you deliver Annual Accounts of the same to the Board, in the Manner required by their Instructions.

4th. The Arrears of the Nizamut Sircar can only be discharged by Savings in the Nabob's Expences.

5th. The Board will always pay a proper Attention to any Representation you may find it requisite to make to them on the Nature and Duties of your Offices. The Zemindars and Farmers will be ordered to deliver to the several Foujedars an Account of the Number of Zemindarry Tannahs in their Districts, with the Names of Persons by whom they are held, and will be strictly enjoined to obey the Foujedar in all Matters relating to his Jurisdiction; but the Board cannot give their Consent to the expensive Syllem of Vackeels being stationed, on the Part of the Zemindars and Farmers, at the Suddler, unless that Measure shall appear to them absolutely necessary.

6th. Orders have been sent to all the Provincial Councils, to afford you, or the Officers of the Foujedarry Courts, all proper Assistance in the Execution of their Functions.

7th. This has been answered by the Instructions of the Board, with which you are furnished, with the Plans of the present Establishments; and desired to propose any Alterations that you may judge necessary.

8th. Orders will be issued accordingly to the proper Officers.

9th. The principal Officers of the Adawluts and Foujedarry may receive their Salaries from you; but the inferior Officers should receive them immediately from their Principals.

Ordered, That the foregoing Letter be translated in the Persian Language, and sent to Mahomed Reza Cawn.

Read the following Letter and Account from Mahomed Reza Cawn, which had been circulated, with an Extract of the Secret Department Consultation of the 3d June 1774, to the Members of the Board, for their Opinions.

A P P E N D I X, N° 6, (G) (H)

From the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn, addressed to the Governor General and Council: Received the 13th November 1775.

I take the Liberty to represent to the Governor General and Council, that I formerly applied to the Board for an Order for the Payment of a Sum of Money, due to me from the Company on Account of the Arrears of my Salary before I was called down to Calcutta. The Board replied, that till an Answer was received to the Decree, they could not comply with my Request. A favourable Answer having been, by the Blessing of God, received from the Company, expressive of Regard to me, I am hopeful that you will be pleased to give an Order for the Payment of the said Arrears. As I have at present the most pressing Occasion for Money, if you are so kind to grant me the Payment of this, I shall esteem myself highly obliged.

An Account of the Arrears of Salary due to me from the Company to the 18th of Byzaak, in the Bengal Year 1179, or 28th April 1772, when I was removed from their Employment; which I am hopeful may be now discharged, that I may employ it for my necessary Expences. As I am to leave Calcutta on Friday, I again repeat my Application on this Subject.

Read also, the following Opinions of the Members of the Board, received back with the foregoing Letter.

I cannot consent to the Payment of so large a Sum without some Authority from the Company, especially as they have been silent upon it, on an Occasion in which they have decided at large on the various Points of his Conduct which had been referred to them, and have declared him their Debtor in a much greater Amount than the Balance of his former Stipend.
(Signed) W. H.

If the Balance which Mahomed Reza Cawn claims, be a Debt which the Accountant of the Treasury acknowledges to be justly due to him, I think it ought to be paid to him. The Company has acquitted him of the Charge of which he was accused, and directed, that the specific Sum of Eighteen Lack, claimed by them, shall stand suspended. If the Company had intended, that the above Sum should have been liquidated from the Money that was due to Mahomed Reza Cawn, they would not have failed to have ordered it to have been detained for that Purpose. The Company were informed that Arrears of Pay were due to him.
(Signed) J. C.

I agree with General Clavering { P. F.
R. B.

As the late Administration did not think proper to pay Mahomed Reza Cawn the Arrears of his Stipend, due before his Order for Confinement, I cannot consent to its being paid until we hear from the Directors on the Subject. The Demand is just, and I have not the smallest Doubt but the Company will order the Payment of it. It should be represented to them in our present Letter.
(Signed) G. M.

A Majority of the Board being of Opinion that the Amount of Arrears due to Mahomed Reza Khan, should be paid to him;

Ordered, That the Accountant to the Revenue Department be required to examine the Account delivered in as above; and that the Balance which he may acknowledge to be justly due to Mahomed Reza Khan, be discharged at the Treasury.

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 7th December 1775.

Reply to the Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, entered in Consultation of the 18th October 1775.

I have already entered my Protest against the Resolution of the Majority, for the Appointments of Mahomed Reza Khan and Rajah Gourda's, and the Dismission of Maha Rajah Bullub, in the Consultation of the 18th of October.

A P P E N D I X, N° 6. (H)

On a Revival of the Minute delivered on that Day by Mr. Barwell, I find the Subject of those Appointments so fully discussed as to leave little for me to add in Elucidation of it: Indeed, to attempt a deliberate and minute Refutation of the Arguments which have been made use of by the Majority for the Justification of their Conduct on this Occasion, would be to allow them more Weight than in my Opinion they can justly claim; since a plain Recital of the Company's Orders, and of the Measures professedly taken in Obedience to them, will be sufficient to shew their total Incongruity. The following is a clear State of both.

The Words of the General Letter are as follows: "Par. 46. The Conduct of Nundcomar in the Part he has taken against Mahomed Reza Cawn, appears to us so very inconsistent and unworthy, that we feel a Repugnance to the Continuance of his Son in the high Office of Roy Royan of the Province; and as the Acquittal of Mahomed Reza Cawn warrants us again to employ him, we direct, that if he can with Propriety accept of that Office, under the Regulations and Restrictions established by our President and Council, and with the Salary granted to Rajah Gourdahs for executing the same, he be forthwith appointed thereto, and receive a proper Khellaut and such other Marks of Distinction as are usually conferred on Natives on like Occasions. We mean not by this Appointment to restore Mahomed Reza Cawn to any improper Degree of Power, but merely to testify our Satisfaction on finding his former Conduct has been so much better than we expected."

"Par. 47. And in regard to Rajah Gourdahs, though we cannot consent to his remaining Roy Royan of the Province, yet, in Consideration of the favourable Character we have received of him, we have no Objection of his being appointed to any Office of less Importance, if you shall be of Opinion that his Behaviour has entitled him to such a Mark of our Indulgence."

The plain and evident Meaning of these Orders is, that they disapprove of the Continuance of Rajah Gourdahs in the Office which had been assigned him, as an Incitement and Gratification of his Father's Services, whose Conduct they condemn; that they therefore direct him to be dismissed of it, and Mahomed Reza Cawn to be appointed in his stead. They add, in Explanation of their Intentions respecting both, that the Dismissal of Gourdahs for his Father's Demerits, was not to disqualify him for any Office of less Importance to which he might be entitled by his own Behaviour, nor Mahomed Reza Cawn restored to any improper Degree of Power, but employed in such a Manner only, as might serve to publish his Restoration to their Favour.

Unfortunately, in specifying the Office held by Rajah Gourdahs, they have mistaken it for that of Roy Royan, which he never possessed, but which had been given to Mahraja Rajebullub; and this they direct to be transferred from Gourdahs to Mahomed Reza Cawn.

It would have been consistent with the Respect which is due from the Servants of the Company to their Superiors, to have drawn a Veil over any Errors which, in the Variety and Intricacy of their Affairs, are sometimes unavoidable; and to have adopted the Spirit of their Commands where the Letter differed from the Facts upon which they were formed. Instead of this Rule, the Majority have given an Ecclat to a Mistake, which was in itself of no Consequence, by making it the Foundation of Measures diametrically opposite, both in Spirit and Letter, to those which had been enjoined. They have conferred on Mahomed Reza Cawn, the Dignity of Naib Soubah, with all the Appendages of that high Office which had been abrogated by the late President and Council, with the subsequent Approbation of the Court of Directors; by which, all the Powers of the Magistracy, and of the Courts of Criminal Justice, throughout the Provinces, center in the Person of Mahomed Reza Cawn alone, without a Check or Controul. This, certainly, was not such an Appointment as the Honourable Court of Directors alluded to, when they said they meant "not by it to restore Mahomed Reza Cawn to any improper Degree of Power, but merely to testify their Satisfaction on finding his former Conduct had been so much better than they expected."

As a Preparative to this Measure, Rajah Gourdahs was divested of the Offices which he unworthily filled in the Nizamut; and because the Court of Directors had been pleased to declare, that "they had no Objection to his being appointed to any Office of less Importance than that of Roy Royan," he was appointed to that of Roy Royan, from which they had expressly enjoined his Removal.

Mahraja Rajebullub, who lay under no Disqualification, who had held the Office of Roy Royan by an Appointment long since confirmed by the general Approbation of the Court of Directors, whose Father had an equal Share with the Nabob Jaffier Ally Cawn in the Negotiations which laid the Foundation of the British Empire in India, was abruptly and ignominiously dismissed, to make room for Rajah Gourdahs, and to expiate, in his stead, the Inconsistency and Unworthiness of his Father, Maha Rajah Nundcomar.

One Cause indeed they have assigned for the Dismissal of Mahraja Rajebullub, which is implied in their Objection to his original Appointment, viz. his extreme Youth and Inexperience. If these are Disqualifications, the Gentlemen of the Majority have been very unfortunate in the Choice which they have made of Rajah Gourdahs to supply his Place. Mahraja Rajebullub is at this Time Thirty-one Years of Age, and had acted in the Character of Roy Royan before his Appointment by the late President and Council: Rajah Gourdahs is at this Time but Twenty-four Years of Age, was never employed in the Business of the Revenues, and, I will venture to say, is incapable, by any Practice, of acquiring a competent Knowledge of it. This Opinion of Gourdahs is not of late Adoption; it will be found both in my Minutes and in one of Mr. Middleton's, in the Proceedings of of the Committee of Circuit, at the Time in which he was proposed for the Dewanny of the Nizamut, and assigned as the principal Reason for giving him that Appointment.

I have Reason to believe that the Court of Directors, in the Orders which have been above quoted, considered them as strictly conformable to the Sentiments which I had myself entertained, and even expressed to them, upon the Subjects to which they refer; and will hear perhaps with Surprise, that these have been made use of to cast a Reproach on my Conduct, and to ground on them the Repeal of the Measures of the past Administration, which have already had their repeated Applause and fullest Confirmation.

I hope therefore I shall stand sufficiently excused to them, if I decline to enter again into a Field of superfluous Argument to prove the Propriety of those Arrangements, or to convince those from whom I have received the most honourable Testimonies of their Satisfaction with my Conduct, that it was not, as the Gentlemen of the Majority are pleased to affirm, "a direct Disobedience of their Orders;" yet, as the Minute of the Majority contains many Misrepresentations, Misquotations, and Conclusions which, according to my Conceptions, do not justly follow from their Premises, I shall beg Leave to extract such Passages of it as appear liable to those Objections, and insert my Replies in the opposite Column to them.

The mischievous Consequences of departing from this System have been such, as the late President and Council might easily have foreseen. For want of a Person of Credit and Abilities to fill the Station of Minister, and who, supported by our Influence, and subject to our Controul, might represent and act for the Nizam during his Minority; the Country Government, which it has been the constant Policy of the Company to support, has been reduced to such a State of Weakness and Insignificance, as not even to carry the Appearance of a Government, either to its own Subjects or to Foreigners.

The mischievous Consequences intended by the Paragraph, ought to be pointed out. I know of none which were produced by the Abolition of the Office of Naib Soubah, or the Appointment of Munny Begum to be the Minister of the Nabob's Government. It is of little Consequence whether Rajah Gourdass, or Mahomed Reza Cawn; whether with the Title of Guardian or Dewan, or of Naib Soubah, be made use of as the Instrument of authenticating the Acts of Government, which affect the foreign European Nations. All the Arts of Policy cannot conceal the Power by which these Provinces are ruled, nor can all the Arts of Sophistry avail to transfer the Responsibility of them to the Nabob, when it is as visible as the Light of the Sun, that they originate from our own Government; that the Nabob is a mere Pageant, without the Shadow of Authority, and even his most consequential Agents receive their Appointment from the Recommendation of the Company, and the express Nomination of their Servants. Even the Orders of the Court of Directors of the 28th August 1771, which direct the Appointment of an ostensible Minister to the Nabob, and under which the late Arrangements are professedly formed, appear in the printed Proceedings of the House of Commons; and are open to the View of every Nation in Europe.

If more shall be thought necessary for the Elucidation of a Subject of such self-evident Conviction, I beg Leave to refer to the Minutes of the Committee of Circuit, entered on their Proceedings of the 11th and 28th of July 1772, and to my Minute of the 31st of July last, which went a Number in the Northumberland's Packet; in which the Mode of Conduct to be observed with the Foreign European Settlements, and the Consequences of the Pretences which have been held out to them by this Government, are very fully discussed.

Every Member of this Board must know, and we believe that no Man feels it more sensibly than the Governor General himself, that since the Transfer of the Lands from the original Owners to the present Farmers, and since the Abolition of the local Jurisdiction exercised by the Zemindars in their respective Zemindaries, which followed that Transfer, the internal Government of the Country has fallen into a most alarming State of Confusion.

I cannot subscribe to the Opinion which is quoted as mine in this Paragraph. In the Plan which I delivered in to the late Board of Revenue, on the 19th of April 1774, and to which I suppose it alludes, I mentioned, as one Cause of the Encrease of Robbers, "the Removal of that Claim which the Public, by immemorial Usage, before possessed, to the Restitution of all Damages and Losses sustained by Robbers on the Zemindars of the Country." It was not "the Abolition of the local Jurisdiction exercised

By the Constitution of Bengal, the Zemindar presided in the Criminal Court of his District, pronounced and executed Sentences on all Offences less than Capital, and was answerable to the Nizam for the Peace and good Order of the Country, as far as his Jurisdiction extended.—An Institution of this Nature might undoubtedly be liable to Abuses, but it was conformable to the Manners and Prejudices of the People, who looked up to their Chiefs alone for Justice and Protection. It made an essential Part of the Constitution of the Country, and could not be abolished without breaking that regular Chain of Subordination and Dependence, by which the Government and the People were united in one Political Body.

“ exercised by the Zemindars,” but of the Disuse of the Penalty to which I, in Part, attributed those Disorders. The Farmers possessed the same Powers which the Zemindars had exercised before, but the Penalty was not exacted from them, because, as I have stated it in the same Minute, it would have ultimately fallen on the Government itself; and so it would, if the Zemindars had been left in Possession, and the Penalty exacted from them, unless such a Share of the Rents had been allowed them as was retained by the Zemindars when they held their Lands, in a less Degree of Dependence on the Government; which has not been the Case for many Years before I returned to this Country, or even before the Acquisition of the Dewanny.

The Nature of the Jurisdiction which the Constitution of Bengal allowed to the Zemindars, as it is explained in the opposite Paragraph, differs very widely from the Idea which I have always entertained of it. I venture to pronounce, with Confidence, that, “ by the Constitution of Bengal the Zemindar neither presided in the Criminal Court of his District, nor pronounced nor executed Sentence on all Offences less than Capital;” nor on any Offences whatever except the Non-payment of the Rents. “ He was answerable ” (it is true) “ for the Peace and good Order of the Country, as far as his Jurisdiction extended,” but only as the subordinate Instrument of a larger System. The Land Servants, or the ancient Militia of the Country, were under his immediate Charge, and being distributed throughout the Zemindarry, enables the Zemindar both to watch over its internal Quiet and to obtain Information of whatever passed in any Part of it; and so far the Foujdarry Jurisdiction is inherent in the Zemindar. In the Exercise of it he was subject to a Fouzdar, who had the Superintendance of a District comprehending many Zemindarries; and had the Tannahs or inferior Stations under the Charge of Affairs, and armed Men dependant on him, besides a Part of the Land Servants of each Zemindarry, the rest being employed to guard the Villages and enforce the Collections.

It was the Zemindar's Duty to give constant Intelligence to the Nabob, through the Roy Royan, and to assist the Fouzdar in the Apprehension of Robbers, and in executing the Measures which were required of him for preserving the Peace of the Country; but this Duty first and immediately belonged to the Fouzdar, who was the Representative of the Nizam, and “ to him the People looked up for Justice and Protection even against their Chiefs.” The Fouzdar was the Check even upon the Zemindars, who were often, and those of the Dacca District always, the Patrons and Abettors of Decoys, whose Haunts and Practices it was their especial Duty to detect. In effect, the Law or Custom which made the Zemindar responsible for all Robberies committed in his District, whatever might have been the Purpose of its original Institution; operated, and was regarded under the Mahomedan Government, rather as a Punishment for Connivance than a Fine for Neglect. Many Instances may be quoted of Zemindars who exercised exercised other Powers, and particularly in the oppressive Custom which they had assumed of levying unlimited Fines from their Ryots on Accusations of Fornication, and a Variety of other Pretences. Such is the Case in all despotic Governments, especially in those which have undergone frequent Revolutions; but I believe, and I have Authority for believing, that the constitutional Powers, of which the general Police of Bengal was composed, will be found to have been exactly as I have described them. The Abuses which were exercised by the Zemindars, and others in Authority, are enumerated amongst other Evils by the Committee of Circuit, in a Letter to the Board, dated the 15th August 1772, in these Words: "The Zemindars, Farmers, Shudras, and other Officers of the Revenue assuming that Power, for which no Provision is made by the Law of the Land," &c. &c. This is a clear Demonstration that the Zemindars were at that Time regarded by myself, and by the Committee of Circuit, as possessing no Right to exercise a judicial Authority; and being written on an Occasion on which we could not be suspected of any Bias, will be admitted by every candid Judge as a Proof that the Zemindars really did not possess that Right. The Zemindar of Burdwan was allowed the Exercise of a Fouzdarry Jurisdiction by a special Sunnud from the Nizam. I believe there is not another Instance; and this is rather a Proof of the Existence of the System which I have described, than an Exception to it, otherwise an especial Sunnud would have been unnecessary.

Mr. Hastings himself admits these Consequences, and declares, that by the Removal of the Zemindarry Jurisdictions the Confidence of the Decoys was increased, &c.

Abuses will find their Way into the Practice of the wisest Institutions; but they ought to be corrected by a steady and vigorous Administration, not by rashly forcing the accumulated Wisdom and Experience of Ages to yield to the crude Ideas of a few Foreigners (for such the English are in Bengal) on a Subject which they can hardly be supposed to have understood, even if they had had the Welfare of the Country ever so seriously at Heart.

This is a Mis-quotation, which, by substituting one Word for another entirely changes the original Sense. It was not by the Removal of the Zemindarry Jurisdictions, "but of the Fouzdarry," that I declared that the Confidence of the Decoys was increased, &c. and it was for that Reason I recommended the Restoration of the Fouzdarries.

Men who treat with Contempt the Opinions of others, ought to be very well grounded in their own. The simple Construction of this Paragraph does not point out with Precision whom it intends by "the few Foreigners who have rashly forced the accumulated Wisdom and Experience of Ages to yield to their crude Ideas;" but as the Censures of the Gentlemen of the Majority have never been carried further back than the Period of the late Administration in which I presided in it, I conclude that it is meant to charge me and my former Colleagues with having abolished the ancient Constitution of Bengal, and introduced Innovations formed on our own crude Ideas in its stead.

To obviate any Imputation which might be made by such an Imputation, I am glad of this Occasion to declare, that all the Measures of the late Administration, to which the Minute now before me has any Reference, were no more than the Forms of Government which belonged to the ancient Constitution of Bengal, revived with such Modifications, and such only, as were absolutely necessary to accommodate it to the Genius and Principles of our own. The Fouzdarry Jurisdiction was abolished long before the Commencement of my Government; the Custom by which the Zemindars were compellable to make Restitution for Stolen Goods, was become obsolete; and the Courts of Justice had fallen into Disorder many Years, even before the Company acquired the Dewanny. These Changes and Corruptions were the natural Effects of a disordered System, and the usurped Power of Individuals, under the frequent Revolutions to which the Country had been subject, during the Course of the last Twenty Years; and it was the Labour of the late Administration to eradicate and correct them, not by inventing new Expedients, but by endeavouring to adopt those which the accumulated Wisdom of Ages had already prepared. Conformably to this Rule, the Courts of Justice were re-established with little other Variation besides the entire Separation of the Criminal from the Civil Judicature, and the Admission of the authorized Jurisprudence of the Hindoo's, which the Bigotry of the Mahometan Rulers permitted, but without an acknowledged Right, to the Exercise of it. On the same Principles an Attempt was made to restore the Fouzdarry Establishment, but not universally, because we were fearful of hazarding their Effects at once over the whole Face of the Country, till some Experience had convinced us of their Utility.

The Revenues could not easily be collected by the Farmers, if a Power had been reserved to the Zemindars, to which the Ryots might have Recourse against the Oppression of their new Masters.

It became necessary therefore to form a new Plan for the Administration of Criminal Justice; a Court of Fouzdarry Adawlut was accordingly established in each District, for the Trial of all Crimes and Misdemeanors.

What Benefit indeed could be derived from the new Courts of Justice, when even the Regularity and Precision introduced into their Proceedings are assigned by Mr. Hastings * as one Cause of the Increase of Robbers. No stronger Proof can be produced, that they were not founded on Principles reconcileable to the Genius and Temper of the People.

* Vide Mr. Hastings Minute of the 17th April 1774.

This is a very strange Reason assigned for the Establishment of the Fouzdarry Adawluts, and is so peculiarly inapplicable to their Institution, that the Oppressions which the Farmers exercise over the Ryots are not even cognizable in the Fouzdarry Courts. Those who candidly read the Plan which was formed by the Committee of Circuit for the Administration of Justice, will conceive very different and more liberal Sentiments of the Motives and Design of the Courts, both of Civil and Criminal Judicature; which, unless I am deceived by my Advices, have obtained universal Applause in England, and have been productive of the most beneficial Effects in Bengal.

It is difficult to reply to a Reasoning of this Kind, which consists only in a superficial State of the Argument which it is intended to refute, without a direct Conclusion from it.

In the Plan which was proposed for the Institution of Fouzdarries, Four principal Reasons were assigned for the Increase of Robbers, one of which was, the "Regularity and Precision" which had been introduced into the new "Courts of Justice;" because the Mahometan Law required the positive Testimony of Two Witnesses for the Conviction of capital Offenders, and the Decoyts carrying on their Designs in the Night and under Disguise, could only be convicted by presumptive Proofs, by the Notoriety of their Characters, or by their own Confession. I know not by what Connection this is said to be a Proof that the Fouzdarry Courts were not founded on Principles reconcileable to the Genius and Temper of the People. The Law was introduced into Bengal with the First Mahometan Conquest, and is as old as the Roman Civil Law, from which it is probably derived. It has never been found to be repugnant to the Genius and Temper of the People; and its Effects have been

As a Remedy for this and many other Evils, which the Establishment of the Foujdarry Courts had either created or not removed, particularly the Want of Ministerial Officers for the Apprehension of Offenders, which the new System had not provided for, the late President, in his Minute of the 19th April 1774, proposes the farther Institution of several Foujdars or Officers of Police, to be stationed in the Districts, with Power to apprehend Decoyts and other Offenders, and bring them to Justice.

We have too much Reason to believe, that the Phoufdars themselves, with their numerous Followers, have, in many Instances, either screened the Decoyts or joined with them; and that upon all Occasions they have made Use of their Power to plunder and oppress the People whom they were sent to protect.

The Governor General has repeatedly represented to this Board, the deplorable State of the Provinces with respect to the Administration of Justice. He has desired to be relieved of the Superintendence of the Phoufdarry Courts, and Controul of the Phoufdars, as of a Burden to which he is unequal; and has requested us to take the Subject generally into our Consideration.

such as every Nation, however civilized, must have experienced, where Justice was administered with a scrupulous Exactness. To this Defect, which is the Defect only of the best Institutions, the Mahometan Law has provided one effectual Remedy, by allowing a Power in the Magistrate to interpose an extraordinary Authority for the Punishment of such Offences as the Law in its ordinary Course could not reach. In such Cases, if the Guilt was enormous, and the Proofs amounted to an internal Conviction, it was usual, and the Law enjoined it, to punish the Offender with Death, for an Example and Terror to others; and this Practice I ventured to recommend, because it was the Law of the Country, because it was reconcileable to the Genius and Temper of the People, and because I knew that the Peace of the Country could not be preserved without it. More I presume need not be said, to prove that the Defects of the Foujdarry Courts, if such can be called Defects, were not owing to any Form given them by the late Government, but were inherent in their original Constitution, and inseparable from it.

The Gentlemen of the Majority very unfairly pass over the real Causes which were assigned for the Institution of the Foujdar or Officer of the Police, and confine it solely to one which had no original Share in it.

The Foujdars were recommended to be appointed for the Guard of the Country, because, since their former Abolition no other, or at least no effectual Means, had been provided for securing the Peace of the Country; because many of the Land Servants, who were the constitutional Guards of the Country, had been dismissed; and because the Farmers and Zemindars being no longer answerable for Robberies, either neglected or encouraged them. The Encouragement afforded to public Robbers by the scrupulous Exactness of the Foujdarry Courts of Justice, is mentioned for the Purpose of recommending another Remedy as above explained, with which the Office of the Foujdars has no Kind of Relation.

Affirmations are no Proofs. I have Reason to believe, that the Foujdars, instead of screening the Decoyts, as the Gentlemen of the Majority suppose, did very effectually contribute to suppress them; and produce, as a Proof of this, the Petition of the Ryots of Buzergomedpoor, which is entered in the Revenue Proceedings of the 7th of April last, for the Appointment of a similar Jurisdiction in that District, expressly grounding their Request on the Effects which had been produced in the neighbouring Districts from that of Mirzanagur.

This has no immediate Connection with the preceding Subject, nor do I know why it is introduced in this Progression. I shall reply to it as it stands, without Regard to any other Conclusion to which it may point, except the everlasting Theme of the Impropriety of every Measure which was formed by the last Administration. It is true, that I have frequently represented the deplorable State of the Provinces with respect to the Administration of Justice, and desired to be relieved from the Superintendence of the Foujdarry Courts, and the Controul of the Foujdars. But

I beg Leave to assign in this Place my Reasons for the one, and my Motive for the other: The Courts of Justice were regularly conducted till the Accession of the present Council; from that Date the Dewanny Courts have been neglected; the Sudder Dewanny, to which all Appeals were made from the inferior Courts, has been dissolved, and since totally abolished. From the same Period may be dated the disordered State of the Foujdarry Courts. To these I used formerly to give a large Portion of my Time: But neither in the Superintendance of these Courts, nor in the Controul of the Foujdars, could I venture any longer to act, when I saw myself deprived of the Confidence and Support which had formerly enabled me to execute so delicate a Trust, and when every Occasion was seized by my Associates in the Government, to weaken my Authority and to blacken my Conduct.

He should be instructed to superintend the Nabob's Education, to chuse proper Servants and Companions for him, and to endeavour to recover him from the dishonourable State of Ignorance and Dissipation in which we fear he is still immersed.

The implied Sense of this Sentence is, that the Nabob's Education has been greatly neglected by Munny Begum. I believe the Charge is without Foundation. When I met him at Plassey in June 1772, I found him in a State of extreme Meanness, and deficient in Language, Sentiment, and even of the most ordinary Forms of Civility. I met him at the same Place the next Year, with a Retinue suitable to his Dignity, and his Manners and Language totally changed. He was about 14 Years of Age when he was placed under the Tuition of Munny Begum; and I believe it is generally allowed, that the Bent of Genius and Habits of Inclination, which have taken Possession of the Mind at that Period, are seldom to be eradicated by any subsequent Precept or Example, but decide the future Character of a Man through Life.

Another and most important Branch of the Minister's Duty, should be to examine into the actual State of the Foujdarry Courts and Conduct of the Foujdars; and to take a general Review of the Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Country. He should have full Authority given him, either to enforce the Operation of these Courts upon the present Establishment, or to new-model and correct them.

From this Sentence, and from other Passages in the Minute of the Gentlemen of the Majority, in which they seem to confound the Foujdarry Courts and Foujdars, I am afraid, from the Similitude of the Name, which was perhaps too scrupulously retained in the Institution of the latter, others, who have less Means of being informed of the Nature of those Establishments, may be misled to understand them as being connected, or as bearing some mutual Relation. It may be proper therefore to obviate the Misconstruction, by a brief Explanation of the Nature of both.

The Foujdarry Courts are Courts instituted for the Trial of all Crimes and Misdemeanours. The Foujdars are Officers appointed to guard the Peace of the Country, and to seize all Offenders against it. They have no Power to judge or to punish; but are to consign such Persons as they have apprehended, to the Foujdarry Courts, where they are to undergo their Trial. This Transfer is the only Connection which one Office has with the other; the Proceedings and their Authority being totally distinct and independent. Both will, I hope, be continued, and the Foujdarry, or the Establishment of the Police, extended to every Part of the Country, according to the Design of its first Institution. I am still of Opinion, that better Plans cannot be devised for the Satisfaction of the People, and their Protection from the worst of Oppression.

Extract of Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, dated 21st November 1775.

8th. The Motives on which we have restored Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Soubah, have been clearly explained. To recover the Country Government from the State of Feebleness and Insignificance to which it was Mr. Hastings's avowed Policy to reduce it, was no easy Task. According to the Governor General's Plan, we should have confined the only Man perhaps of real Abilities and extensive Knowledge in the Country, to the unimportant Office of Steward of the Nabob's Household, at a Time when a Minister of the Government was wanted, and when the Administration of Criminal Justice through the Country was at a stand. The Measure seems to us indispensably necessary, and promises Success. In recommending Mahomed Reza Cawn to his present Post, we presume to think that we have rendered an essential Service to the Company.

Extract of General Letter to Bengal, dated 24th December 1776.

Par. 35. The easy Prey which the Nabob has been made to his menial Servants, and their utter Want of Ability, Integrity, and Attention, to render him in any Degree respectable, even in the Eyes of the Natives, are Circumstances that had led us to reconsider our Instructions to our late President and Council respecting Mahomed Reza Cawn. We were always of Opinion, that an able ostensible Minister, during the Minority of the Nabob, would be necessary ; and late Events have but too strongly confirmed us in such Opinion : And as the Abilities of Mahomed Reza Cawn have been sufficiently manifested ; as official Experience qualifies him for so high a Station in a more eminent Degree than any other Native with whom the Company has been connected ; and as no Proofs of Mal-administration have been established against him, either during the strict Investigation of his Conduct, or since his Retirement ; we cannot, under all Circumstances, but approve your Recommendation of him to the Nabob, to constitute him his Naib : We are well pleased that he has received that Appointment, and authorize you to assure him of our Favour, so long as a firm Attachment to the Interest of the Company, and a proper Discharge of the Duties of his Station, shall render him worthy of our Protection.

36. We are by no Means prepared to decide upon that Part of your Instructions which commits the Administration of Criminal Justice entirely to the Superintendence of Mahomed Reza Cawn, nor of his Plan for carrying the same into Execution ; we observe it has had your Approbation, and therefore suppose it is at present operating in the Country ; but whether, in the present State of Things, such Authority could be legally conferred on Mahomed Reza Cawn, or whether his Instructions to his inferior Phouddarry Officers will clash with the Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court established by His Majesty's Charter, are Questions of too great Importance for us to hazard an hasty Opinion thereon. We have already laid before His Majesty's Ministers a Collection of such Papers as must explain our Embarrassments, occasioned by the extensive Operation of the Authority and Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Judicature over Natives not in the Service of the Company : And if any Alterations should be made in consequence of our Application, or otherwise, you will of course receive Information. In the mean Time, Copies of your Instructions to Mahomed Reza Cawn, and of his Plan for the Execution of Criminal Justice, shall be laid before the most eminent Counsel in this Kingdom, in order to obtain their Opinions, whether any Objections arise thereto in Point of Law, which Opinions we shall transmit to you by the earliest Opportunity for your Information and future Guidance.

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 23d February 1778.

The Governor General desires that the following Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla may be read.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla : Received 12th February.

I have already address'd repeated Letters to your Excellency, stating very fully the Trouble and Uneasiness I suffer from the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn's being invested with the Office of the Naibship of the Nizamut, with the Management of the Affairs of the Country, and of the several Offices of my Household, the Administration of the Business of the Adawlut and Phoufdarry within the Soubahs, and of all the Affairs of the Nizamut, as well as of my domestic Concerns, and the Superintendence of myself and Family; because the said Nabob, regarding only his own Benefit, and the Increase of his Greatness in future, pays no Regard or Attention to my Interest or Advantage.

The Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn is neither connected with me by the Ties of near Relationship, nor of sincere Attachment; that he should be invested with such a Degree of Power, is highly oppressive and dishonourable to my Family. I am now, by the Favour of God, come to Years of Maturity, and to that Age when, by the Precept of our holy Law, and the Usage of Mahomedanism, I ought to take Charge and Management of my own Affairs; and by the Blessing of the Almighty, I am not so devoid of Understanding as to be incapable of conducting them. I am therefore hopeful, from your Favour and Regard to Justice, that you will deliver me from the Authority of the aforefaid Nabob, and give your Permission that I take on myself the Management of the Adawlut and Phoufdarry of the Soubahs, as well as of my own Household, and of the Business of the Nizamut, which is my Right.

The Company who have acquired so great Authority in this Country, and raised themselves to their present Degree of Greatness and Dominion, are indebted for the Advantages solely to the warm Support of my Ancestors; and you know what Degree of Authority I am at present possessed of. I therefore ask nothing more than my Right; and should the Company, disregarding the Situation and Rights of this Family, refuse their Approbation to my Request, which is perfectly just and right, it will be highly inequitable.

I am hopeful that, maturely weighing this Matter, your Excellency will give me the Management of the Affairs of the Nizamut, of my own Household, and the Offices attached thereto, together with the Administration of the Adawlut and Phoufdarry within the Soubahs, which are my Right. This will be an Act of the highest Justice in the Gentlemen, and will engage my Gratitude, and that of all the helpless Dependents of this Family.

Governor General—I move, that the Opinions of the Members of the Board may be taken, Whether the Requisitions contained in the above Letter shall be complied with, or denied? It is late, nor would I wish the Board to form any decided Resolution upon a Subject of this Nature, without the fullest Deliberation; I desire, therefore, that the Secretary may send the Letter and Question round to the different Members of the Board, that their Opinions may be taken at the next Meeting of Council.

Ordered, That the Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla be accordingly circulated with the above Question to the Members of the Board, for their Opinions thereon.

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 2d March 1778.

Re-considered the Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, received the 12th, and recorded the 23d ultimo.

Mr. Wheler delivers in the following Minute:

Mr. Wheler—After having very maturely considered the 40th Paragraph of the General Letter from this Presidency to the Court of Directors, dated the 20th November 1775, particularly that Part of it which mentions the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Naibship of the Nizamut, for the Support of that ostensible and active Power in the Nizamut which the Nabob, from Youth and Neglect of Education, was judged incapable to exercise; and having likewise perused the the 35th Paragraph of the General Letter from the Court of Directors, dated 24th December 1776, wherein they highly approve, for the Reasons above quoted, of the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn; I am of Opinion, that the Request now presented to this Board by his Highness, consistently with those Orders, cannot be complied with here; but that it will be proper to submit the same to the Determination of the Court of Directors, together with such Remarks as may serve to apprise them of the Consequence, whether beneficial or otherwise, that may probably result from complying with his Highness's Request. And I am further inclined to this Mode, from a Belief that, although his Highness was under Age when placed under the Guardianship of Mahomed Reza Cawn, it was well known to the Court of Directors that, previous to the Date of their Letter approving Mahomed Reza Cawn's Appointment, or to its Arrival in India, his Highness either had or would shortly attain the Years of Maturity.

Mr. Francis delivers in a Minute containing his Opinion, as follows :

Mr. Francis—I could have wished, that before I had been called upon to deliver my Opinion on the present Question, the Merits of it had been stated to us by the Governor General, and regularly debated at the Board. The Institution of a Council supposes a reciprocal Communication of Opinions, and that no Resolutions shall be formed without a previous Debate. Reserving, therefore, to myself the Right of altering or qualifying the Answer I now deliver in, according to the Lights and Information I may receive from the other Members of the Board, I must declare, that I think we have but one Course to pursue.

The Letter received from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla should be referred to the Court of Directors. I do not myself see any one Motive that should press this Government to take upon themselves the hazardous Resolution of complying with the Requisitions contained in it; especially at a Time when Measures of the greatest Importance to the Welfare of India already divide our Councils, and ought to engross our Attention. The Subject is delicate in its Nature, and I wish to speak of it with Caution and Reserve. The Board will consider maturely what Consequences the Compliance required of us may lead to; with what Demands upon the Company it may be followed; in what Manner it may affect the internal Government of these Provinces, and how far it may coincide with or embarrass Arrangements at this Moment probably under the Consideration of the Legislature for the permanent Settlement of Bengal.

With respect to the Removal of Mahomed Reza Cawn, I shall only observe at present, that the Court of Directors have approved of our Recommendation of him to the Nabob, to constitute him his Naib; that they are well-pleased that he has received that Appointment, and that they have authorized us to assure him of their Favour. I trust that no Member of this Board would recommend or approve of the Dismissal of a Man whom the Court of Directors themselves consider as qualified for the high Station he holds, in a more eminent Degree than any other Native with whom the Company has been connected, without their express Authority, or unless some Crime had been proved against him.

Mr. Wheler and I having delivered our Opinions on the Question brought before the Board by the Governor General, I must request that the Governor will be pleased to favour the Board with his Opinion upon it.

Governor General—I did not expect that my Opinion would be required until those of the other Members had been regularly taken in Succession; nor was this Day appointed for collecting the Opinions upon the Subject. Mr. Barwell's has not been received; he is absent; I shall therefore decline to give my Opinion at this Day's Consultation, unless the Majority of the Board now assembled shall require it.

Mr. Francis—On this Day Sevensnight the Governor General moved, that the Opinions of the Members of the Board might be taken on the Subject of the Nabob's Letter. The Motion states, that their Opinions may be taken at the next Meeting of the Council; and the Question was brought forward again this Day, I presume, with the Governor's Approbation, at least, it was not called for by any other Member of the Board; I believe therefore I am perfectly regular in Point of Form, in requesting his Opinion may follow those of the Members present: I therefore beg Leave to repeat my Request in the Form of a Motion; but am ready, if the Governor General approves of it, to put off the Consideration of this Question until this Day Fortnight.

The Governor General—I desire the Secretary to declare, whether he had any Directions from me to bring this Matter before the Board?—This is properly the Consultation following that in which the Question was first brought before the Board; as the Meetings on Thursdays, though held in this Chamber, belong only to the Department of Inspection, and are held by a Summons issued by the Secretary to that Department. It was probably my Intention to have brought on the Question for Decision this Morning, but I apprehend it cannot be done with Regularity, as one of the Members of the Board, whose Opinion I presume will be essentially necessary, is at this Time absent. It will rest with the Majority of the Board assembled, to let the Question take its due Course, or to force it to an immediate Decision, subject to a regular Confirmation or Repeal at the next Meeting. I cannot consent to the Compromise proposed by Mr. Francis; it is inconsistent with the Demand for an instant Decision.

The Secretary begs Leave to acquaint the Board, that he did not receive any Orders whatsoever for bringing on the Consideration of the Nabob's Letter this Morning, but that he introduced it as a Subject depending before the Board in the regular Course of Business.

Mr. Francis—In proposing to defer the Question to this Day Fortnight, I have explained myself to mean, that we should wait for the Receipt of the Company's Letter now on board one of the Ships at Madras, and which we may probably receive in that Time; since that is not approved by the Governor General, I adhere to my First Motion, being perfectly sure that I proceed not only with the strictest Observance of the Forms of the Board, but with the utmost Candour and Consideration.

The Governor General—From the Whole which has passed in this Debate, which hitherto has been confined to Mr. Francis and myself, it is very evident that Mr. Francis persists in his Motion on the Presumption of a superior Influence, occasionally over-ruling me at this Day's Meeting, otherwise it is impossible to conceive any Reason why he should insist on an instant Decision of the general Question proposed by me on last Monday, when he at the same Time proffers the Suspension of it for a Fortnight, and the Time in which I would propose to suspend it will necessarily form a Part of that Interval, and of Course come nearer to his own Proposition than an immediate Determination. I forbear to say more upon the Subject: It will rest with Mr. Wheler to determine whether the original Question shall be determined immediately, or wait until the Assembly of the Board is complete.

Mr. Francis—If the Board will not unanimously agree to wait for the Receipt of the Company's Instructions, now upon their Way probably to this Place, it is not in my Power to assign a Reason why the Board should not decide the Question now. The Motive imputed to me for urging such Decision at present, though in fact I have not done so, will, I believe, in the Mind of every impartial Judge, be full as applicable to the Desire intimated by the Governor, that Mr. Barwell's Presence should be waited for. Considerations of that Kind are irregular, and, as I think, not fit to be insisted on of either Side. I beg the Question may be put.

The Governor General—I believe I know Mr. Barwell's Sentiments upon the general Question, as I know Mr. Wheler's; but the Question now before the Board is of a different Nature, and is most undoubtedly an Advantage taken of the present Composition of the Board; it may, however, prove an instructive Experiment, and I shall not be very sorry that it is made. If Mr. Francis knows that the Company's Instructions, which he says are probably now on their Way to this Place, relate to the general Subject now under Consideration, I will readily agree to postpone it; but if he has no such Knowledge, and there is the strongest Reason to believe that they contain nothing which bears the most distant Allusion to it, I know not why I should be required to support the Credit of such a Suggestion.

Mr. Francis—I am not acquainted with the Contents of the Company's expected Letter; but I do believe, on the Authority of the Court of Directors themselves, expressed in their Letter to the late Sir John Clavering, that it contains some general Arrangements concerning the Affairs of this Country and the Government. They positively promised him to send out such Instructions by their next Dispatches.

The Governor General—I believe the Court of Directors will regret their ever having given such a Promise, when they know that it has been circulated to every Part of the Provinces, and even beyond the Dominions of our Ally the Nabob of Oude, for the Purpose of weakening the Influence of the present Administration, and defeating its Measures: It therefore becomes me, whilst I hold the Place I possess in this Government, to use every Means that may be requisite for obviating the Effects of so dangerous a Policy. This alone would be a sufficient Reason for me to refuse to protract the present or any other Question, until the Arrival of the Company's Orders, on the Supposition that they will contain the Confirmation of a Belief so industriously propagated.

The Question proposed by Mr. Francis being put,

Mr. Wheler—Of the Two Propositions made by Mr. Francis, I prefer the postponing the further Consideration of this Question for Fourteen Days; but as that is disapproved by the Governor General, I think it highly necessary that we should come to an immediate Decision, and I only regret that that Decision will probably not be final.

Governor General—I submit, and shall deliver my Opinion as nearly as I can in the Terms of the Question. It is my Opinion, that the Requisitions contained in the Letter from the Nabob Mobarck ul Dowla, entered in the Consultation of last Monday, be complied with.

Mr. Francis—I move, that it be resolved, in Conformity to the Opinions of a Majority of the Board, that the Nabob's Letter be referred to the Decision of the Honourable the Court of Directors; and that no Resolution be taken here upon the Subject of the Requisitions contained therein, without their special Orders and Instructions.

Mr. Wheler agrees.

Mr. Francis agrees.

Governor General—I object and protest both against this and the preceding Resolution.

Resolved, That the Nabob's Letters, recorded the 23d ultimo, be referred to the Decision of the Honourable the Court of Directors; and that no Resolution be taken here on the Subject of the Requisitions contained therein, without their special Orders and Instructions.

Extract of Fort William Secret Consultations, 5th March 1778.

Governor General—I move, that the Resolution passed in the last Consultation, to wit, “ That the Nabob’s Letter be referred to the Decision of the Honourable the Court of Directors, and that no Resolution be taken here on the Subject of the Requisitions contained therein, without their special Orders and Instructions,” be repealed, and that the Question proposed by me in Consultation 23d ultimo, namely, “ That the Opinions of the Members of the Board may be taken, whether the Requisitions contained in the Nabob’s Letter, recorded in that Day’s Proceedings, shall be complied with or denied,” may be reconsidered.

I must here observe, that the preceding Question was in a special Manner referred to the Consideration of every Member of the Board, and that Mr. Barwell’s Opinion upon it had not been received at the last Consultation, in which the preceding Resolution was passed. I desire my Minute, in which the original Question was proposed, may be entered in this Place.

Governor General—I move that the Opinions of the Members of the Board may be taken, whether the Requisitions contained in the above Letter shall be complied with or denied? It is late, nor would I wish the Board to form any decided Resolution upon a Subject of this Nature without the fullest Deliberation; I desire therefore that the Secretary may send the Letter and Question round to the different Members of the Board, that their Opinions may be taken at the next Meeting of the Council.”

Mr. Wheeler—As the Governor General has assigned no other Reason for bringing this Question again before the Board, except the Absence of one of the Members, which might have been urged and accepted as a Motive for deferring the Question to the Time proposed by Mr. Francis, I am against rescinding the former Resolution, and reconsidering the Question now.

Mr. Francis—It is not affirmed or suggested that the Resolution taken at the last Consultation was not regular in Point of Form, or valid in Point of Law; neither has it been affirmed that sufficient Time was not given to the Members of the Board, to form their Opinions upon the original Question, or that the Consideration of it was brought forward by either of those Gentlemen whose Votes constituted the Resolution. We had a Week to consider it. The Day was fixed by the Governor’s own Motion, and the Debate was introduced by the Secretary’s reading the Nabob’s Letter, with the Governor’s Consent and Approbation, and without any Motion from Mr. Wheeler or me. After Mr. Wheeler’s Opinion and mine were read, we proceeded to other Business, and waited above Two Hours in Expectation of Mr. Barwell’s Arrival. From these Facts I presume it follows that the Objection now made to the Resolution on the Score of Mr. Barwell’s Absence, is not in any Sense valid; and the Governor General suggests no other for repealing that Resolution: I am left therefore without any Arguments proposed to counterbalance those on which my Opinion was founded. But if Arguments are even now offered against the Propriety of the Resolution itself, I shall be ready to enter into the Consideration of them. When no Arguments whatsoever are offered to justify the rescinding of a solemn Act of Government, I should think myself not only highly criminal, but, as a Man acting blindly and without Reason, if I consented to repeal it.

Mr. Barwell—Could I regard the Resolution of the 2d Instant as a solemn regular Act of Government, I should decline including my Opinion at this late Period; but when a Question has been proposed to be decided upon, the Sentiments that may be delivered by every Member of the Council, and the Right of every Member to deliver his Opinion, is not only acknowledged by the unanimous Admission of the Mode in which the Question was proposed, but by such Admission each Member is bound to deliver his Opinion, and each to allow the Weight carried by a Majority of such Opinions. I have no Option, nor can I submit to be excluded from a Right which the unanimous Reception of the Question in the Form it appears the 23d February, gives me. No subsequent Resolution could deprive me of the Privilege of a Vote on the present Subject, nor no Resolution independent of that Vote, I apprehend, can be an Act of Government, while Two Members only, without the Concurrence of one or both of the other Members, under such Circumstances, are pleased to call their Votes an Act of Government. The Manner in which the Question was proposed, and left for Decision, I must again observe in this Place, precluded a Decision, if any Difference of Opinion prevailed among the other Members, without mine being also delivered. For these Reasons I approve the Governor General’s present Motion as regular and proper to restore to me those Rights on the present Subject which were given me on the first Admission of the Question by the Board, and cancelled by the Resolution of the 2d Instant.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to call upon Mr. Barwell for an Explanation of those Words in which, as I understand, he affirms or intimates, that a Resolution taken by the major Part of the Members present in Council on Monday last, is not an Act of Government. The Meeting of that Day was summoned by the Governor General; and the Law declares, “ That in all Cases whatsoever, the Governor General and Council shall be bound and concluded by the Opinion and Decision of the major Part of those present.”

Mr. Barwell—I really am at a Loss to express my Meaning in Terms clearer than those in which which it already appears. I pretend not to deny that a Majority of the Council General constitutes an Act of Government : I simply point out, that the Admission of a Question for my Opinion, allows not the Council an Option to cancel the Privilege such Admission conferred, nor leaves it in my Power to decline a Vote on the present Subject. If any further Explanation is necessary, I must refer to the Company what I have already said ; and flatter myself they will judge it both clear and explicit.

Mr. Francis—I submit it to the Judgment of our Superiors, whether the Words used by Mr. Barwell do or do not amount to a Denial of the Legality of the Resolution passed last Monday, from the Principles on which he now votes for repealing it? I apprehend it would follow, that any Member of this Board might, by absenting himself from Council in parallel Circumstances, prevent the Decision of any Question whatsoever.

Mr. Barwell—I apprehend Mr. Francis is wrong in construing my Denial of any Vote precluding my Opinion, under Circumstances such as I have already described, to amount to an Affirmation that the Votes of a Majority do not constitute an Act of Government : So far from it, that if it affirms any Thing, it is the contrary, that a Minority of any Question may not assume the Appearance of a Majority.

Resolved, That the Resolution, passed in the last Council, viz. “ That the Nabob's Letter, recorded 23d ultimo, be referred to the Decision of the Honourable the Court of Directors ; and “ that no Resolution be taken here on the Subject of the Requisitions contained therein, without “ their special Orders and Instructions,” be repealed.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave in this Place to enter my Dissent, and protest against this Resolution for the following Reasons :

1st. Because it reverses a regular and formal Resolution of a former Board, without any one Argument being urged against the Propriety of that Resolution.

2d. Because it deprives the Court of Directors of their Jurisdiction over a Question of the utmost Importance to their Affairs, and to the good Order of this Government, without any one Reason why the Decision of that Question should be pressed at this Time, and not referred to their Judgment.

Mr. Wheeler—I likewise beg Leave to enter my Dissent, for the Reasons already assigned by Mr. Francis.

The Second Motion contained in the Governor General's Motion being put, Agreed, That the Question proposed by the Governor General 23d ultimo, viz. That the Opinions of the Members of the Board may be taken, whether the Requisitions contained in the Nabob's Letter, recorded on that Day, shall be complied with or denied ? may be reconsidered.

Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Francis having given their Opinions on the original Question in the last Consultation,

Mr. Barwell proceeds to deliver his Sentiments as follow :

Mr. Barwell—I am of Opinion, that as the Nabob is pleased to demand and assert the positive Rights of his Office as Nizam of the Provinces, and as he has been invariably acknowledged such by the Company and this Government, I do not see upon what Ground we can deny his Request. A Reference at this Time for the Orders of the Company would be an Evasion reflecting on their Honour, and unbecoming the Justice of the Government.

Governor General—The Nabob's Demands are grounded on positive Rights, which will not admit of a Discussion.

He has an incontestable Right to the Management of his own Household.

He has an incontestable Right to the Nizamut ; it is his by Inheritance : The Dependents of the Nizamut Adawlut, and of the Fouzdarry, have been repeatedly declared by the Company, and by this Government, to appertain to the Nizamut.

For these Reasons I am of Opinion, that the Requisitions contained in the Nabob's Letter, entered in Consultation 23d ultimo, ought to be complied with.

Mr. Francis—Since it has been resolved that the Consideration of the original Question should be resumed, I desire that the Secretary will read to the Board the repeated Letters already addressed to the Governor General by the Nabob on this Subject previous to the last, as they will probably throw Lights upon it which are not before us at present.

Governor General—I must beg Mr. Francis's Pardon for objecting to the present Motion, as it does not arise out of any new Matter produced at this Meeting ; and as these Letters, if they are supposed to contain any additional Lights, ought to have been considered by him before he gave his Opinion, I have no Objection to their being produced. The Letter Book, containing the Persian Correspondence, ought always to be before the Board ; and this is the only Day in which I recollect that they were not lying upon the Table. My Objection goes only to the Loss of Time which will be consumed in tracing the Nabob's Letters which may have been written on the Subject, and in reading them to the Board. The Letter Books are now produced : I desire that the Assistant Secretary will examine them, and shew Mr. Francis such Letters as he finds contained in them from the Nabob. This I apprehend will answer all the Purposes for which he can require them, and the Time of the Board will be spared.

Mr. Francis—I understood the original Question was resumed de novo. In delivering my former Opinion, I referred to myself a Right to alter it, according to the Arguments which might be stated in the Course of the Debate. The Letters in question, if they are entered on the Persian

Correspondence,

Correspondence, might have been read while we have been talking upon the Subject. I generally have examined the Persian Correspondence, but do not recollect to have seen any Letter from the Nabob, stating, as he says, very fully the Trouble and Uneasiness he suffers, from the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn's being invested with the Offices he now holds. From what I have heard of his Conduct, and of those Persons who are most in his Confidence, and have the greatest Influence with him, I can easily believe that Mahomed Reza Cawn's Authority is a Restraint over him. When that Restraint is removed, I do not doubt that he will immediately become what he was before, "an easy Prey to his menial Servants, whose utter Want of Ability, Integrity, and Attention to render him in any Degree respectable, even in the Eyes of the Natives, are well known to the Court of Directors." When the Rights of the Nabob to the Management of his Household, and to the Exercise of the great Offices dependent on the Nizamut, are so peremptorily declared, I should have conceived that his Ability to judge and act for himself, and his Capacity to execute Offices of such essential Importance to the Welfare of the Country, would also have been considered by a prudent Government. I know with Certainty, that he is in his own Person utterly incapable of executing any of these Offices; nor does it follow, from any Acknowledgment of his Rights, that it should not be the Duty of this Government to recommend to him wise and able Men, and such as the Company themselves are known to confide in, to support and carry on that Part of the Public Business which is still left, or supposed to be left, with the Nizam. The Company will judge of the real Motives and Object of the Requisitions brought before us in his Name, and how far such an Address from him will justify the Removal of a Minister, whose Appointment has been expressly, and in the highest Terms, approved by them on the 24th December 1776. The Secretary has yet pointed out to me but One Letter from the Nabob; which appears to have been received on the 17th November. In that Letter he says, "I am hopeful you will not keep me longer in this painful Suspence, but will be kindly pleased to write immediately to the Munny Begum, that she take on herself the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut, which is in fact her own Family, without the Interference of any other Person whatsoever: By this you will give me compleat Satisfaction." The Way then to give this young Prince complete Satisfaction, if we can suppose such Letters are really dictated by him, is to restore Munny Begum to the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut, without the Interference of any other Person whatsoever. By this Request it appears how little he thought himself qualified Three Months ago to take upon himself the Offices which he now desires to be invested with. I do not doubt that the Object of the present Measure is to restore Munny Begum in fact, if not in form, to the Power of which she was divested by a former Act of this Government. The Merits of this Lady are well known to the Company; but it may be proper to repeat in this Place what the Court of Directors have with great Reason thought fit to say of her: "Notwithstanding such vast Sums have been carried to the Nabob's Account, over and above his Stipend, in so short a Space of Time, we observe, that in May 1775 there was not a Rupee in his Treasury, though there were Demands upon him to a large Amount. This Circumstance alone, were there no other Improprieties in the Conduct of Munny Begum, would justify her Removal from the Office of Guardian to the Nabob, because it is evident, that under her immediate Superintendence great Part of his Allowance must have been embezzled, or very grossly misapplied."

Resolved, That the Requisitions contained in the Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, entered in Consultation 23d February, be complied with.

Mr. Francis—I dissent from and protest against this Resolution, because, in Addition to all the other Reasons expressed by me, it is a direct and positive Disobedience of the Orders of the Court of Directors, expressed in their high Approbation of the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to his present Employment; and because this important Resolution is taken without any one Reason being assigned in Support of the Necessity or Expediency of it.

Mr. Wheler—I accede to every Objection pointed out by Mr. Francis, and likewise join with him in his Dissent and Protest. Further, as the Nabob has thought proper at this Period to demand his positive Rights, and as those Rights may probably prove much more extensive than appears from the Question now before the Board; I am confirmed in my former Opinion, that his Highness's Request ought to be referred to the deliberate Decision of the Court of Directors, and not at present receive the Sanction and hasty Determination of this Board.

Governor General—I now move, that a Letter be addressed to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, informing him that the Board have agreed to comply with the Requisitions contained in his Letter; but that he be requested to permit the present Judges and Officers of the Nizamut Adawlut, and of the Fousdarry, to continue in Office until he shall have formed a new Arrangement of those Officers, and shall have advised the Board of the same through the regular Channel of the Governor General. I move also, that the Substance of the preceding Resolution be communicated to Mahomed Reza Cawn.

Mr. Wheler—I object to the Letter, for the same Reasons that I have objected to the general Question.

Mr. Francis—I agree with Mr. Wheler.

Mr. Barwell—I agree to both the above Motions.

Resolved, That a Letter be addressed to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, informing him, that the Board have complied with the Requisitions contained in his Letter, and that he be requested to permit the present Judges and Officers of the Nizamut Adawlut, and of the Phouldarry, to continue in their present Appointments until he shall have formed a new Arrangement of those Officers, Resolved, also, That the Substance of the preceding Resolution be communicated to Mahomed Reza Cawn.

Extract of Secret Letter from Bengal, dated 20th March 1778.

Par. 15. On the Receipt of a Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, addressed to the Governor General, in which he remonstrates against the sole Management and Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut, the Foudarry, and the domestic Concerns of his own Household, being continued in the Person of Mahomed Reza Cawn, as Naib Soubah, after he was of Age to conduct them himself; asserting also his Right to execute these Branches of his own Authority, since he had attained the Age of Maturity both by the Mahomedan and Christian Laws; and desiring that Mahomed Reza Cawn might be removed from the Trust with which he was invested; a Proposition was made for the Consideration of the Board, and delivered to each of the Members, signifying, that their separate Opinions might be delivered on the next Council Day.

2d March.

16. When we assembled again, the Letter from the Nabob was read, with the Proposition upon it; and it was determined, by a Resolution of a Majority of the Members then present, to refer the Application to your Decision.

5 March.

At the next Meeting of the Board, a Motion was made for reconsidering the Subject of our former Debates, as one of the Members to whom the Proposition had been delivered was absent from the preceding Council, and had not given his Sentiments upon it. In consequence of his Opinion, the Resolution of the Day before was rescinded; and as we regarded the Nabob's Claim in the Light of a positive and incontestable Right, which we could not in Justice deny him the Enjoyment of, we resolved to comply with his Demand.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Department, the 4th May 1778.

Governor General—I move, That the last Letter, received from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, may be entered in this Place, and that the Board do agree to comply with the Requisitions contained therein; but as it is too late to consider this Question To-day, I desire that it may remain till next Meeting of the Board in this Department; and that in the mean Time the Nabob's Letter be sent to the Members of the Board.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla.

The Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn, having been formerly appointed to the Office of Naib Nizam, transacted all the Business of the Nizamut, &c. by his own Authority, in such Manner as he pleased, without consulting or advising with me; and although you have lately given the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut Adawlut and Foudarry to me, yet he has not to this Time relinquished the Business, but still continues to act in the Nizamut, &c. as formerly. This is discreditable to me, and of the greatest Disadvantage: I therefore wish to remove the said Nabob from this Business, and to transact the Affairs of the Nizamut, &c. myself; and have made Choice of Sudder ul Hoc Khân, who has been long attached to me, and is a Man of great Integrity and Worth, to fill the Station of the Naib of my Adawlut and Foudarry, and of Rajah Gourdas, who is a Man of Abilities, and likewise an ancient and zealous Servant, for the Office of the Dewanny of the Nizamut. As I know you to be heartily attached to my Interest, I communicate my Sentiments and Wishes to you, and hope, if you approve them, you will be kindly pleased to dispatch the aforesaid Khân and Rajah to me immediately, that they may receive Khelauts, and be invested with the Offices aforesaid; and I will, with their Advice, make an Adjustment of the Affairs of the Nizamut Foudarry and Adawlut, and transmit it to you for your Information. The Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn received a Salary of 20,000 Rup' per Month, or 2,40,000 R' per Annum; of this Sum, in Consideration of the great Expence of the Munny Begum, who has

Numbers of the Family and Dependants of the deceased Nabob my Father to support, and is under very heavy Charges, I have appointed her a Monthly Stipend of 6,000 Rup<sup>s</sup>, or 72,000 per Annum; and as my honoured Mother the Baboo Begum is likewise straitened in the same Manner in her Allowances, I have fixed for her the Sum of 3,000 Rupees per Month, or 36,000 per Annum: The Salary of Sudder ul Hoc Khân I have likewise settled at 6,500 Rupees per Month, or 78,000 per Annum; and that of Rajah Gourda's at 6,000 per Month, or 72,000 per Annum. All these Sums together amount to 2,58,000 Rupees, by which my Income would undergo a Diminution of 18,000 Rupees per Annum; I am therefore hopeful that you will be kindly pleased to grant 1,500 Rupees per Month, which is 18,000 per Annum, on Account of the Salary of Sudder ul Hoc Khân, who formerly held the Branch of the Office of Naib Nizam, exclusive of the Sum of 2,40,000 Rupees, that there may be no Failure in my Income.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Department, the 11th May 1778.

Considered the Governor General's Motion, made at the last Meeting.
Read the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla's Letter, entered on that Consultation.
Mr. Wheler delivers in his Opinion on this Subject, as follows:

Mr. Wheler—Having already given my Opinion on the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla's Request to be declared of Age, and on the several Requisitions made by him in his Letter, received 12th February, and recorded in Consultation 23d, and declared for many Reasons, I think, a Question of so much Importance ought to be referred to the Court of Directors for their Decision; it becomes, in a great Measure, unnecessary for me to enter into any further Discussion of the present Question, at least so far as regards the Nabob's Rights as Nizam. But I must confess my Surprise to see a Letter from him produced at this Board, in which he assumes a Right to dispose of the Company's Money to his own Family, and appoints People to Offices whose Conduct may affect the Welfare of all the Inhabitants of these Provinces, and whose Salary is to be paid by the Company; and this without the least Interference on our Part, or advising with this Board, in whom the governing, ordering, and managing the Territorial Revenue, (and consequently the Care and Protection of the Inhabitants of these Provinces) is vested by Law; whether such Persons are fit for the high Trust to which he has appointed them; and whether their Appointment meet with our Approbation.

The 2,40,000 Rupees allowed to Mahomed Reza Khân, and which the Nabob has thus disposed of, is Part of Three Lacks of Rupees per Annum, ordered by the Company for the Support of a political Minister of the Circar; whom they direct shall be recommended by us to the Nabob: And this having already been done in the Person of Mahomed Reza Khân, his Appointment confirmed by the Nabob, and since reported to and approved by the Company, I see no reasonable Ground at present for removing him to substitute other Persons.

Munny Begum and Baboo Begum have already ample Allowances from the Nabob's Stipend, as Part of his Family; and I see no Cause, either from their Circumstances or Situation, that requires our disposing of the Company's Property to them. On the above Grounds, I dissent to the Motion made by the Governor General; viz. "That the Board do agree to comply with the Requisitions contained in the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla's Letters, now before the Board."

Mr. Francis also delivers in his Opinion as follows:

7th May 1778.

Mr. Francis—By the Governor General's Letters to the Nabob and to Mahomed Reza Khân of the 7th of March, it appears that the latter was dismissed from his several Offices because the Nabob was arrived at Years of Maturity; in Consideration of which, the Board resolved to place the Controul of his Household, and of the Courts dependent on the Nizamut and Fouzdarry, in his own Hands. He now desires that another Naib may be appointed to execute these Offices; and, so far is he from thinking himself capable of conducting the Business of the Nizamut, that he even desires the Assistance of Raja Gourda's to manage his Household. On this Proposal I shall only observe, that if Naibs are necessary, the Reason for removing Mahomed Reza Khân is groundless, and used only as a Pretence for carrying that Point.

The Nabob is also pleased to recommend, that out of Mahomed Reza Khân's Salary, 72,000 Rupees a Year shall be given to Munny Begum, on account of her great Expences; and 36,000 to his Mother, who is said to be straitened in her Allowances. These Ladies are liberally provided for already: But the Nabob may increase their Allowances if he thinks proper; he has no Right to increase his Bounty at the Company's Expence.

Not content with distributing the whole of Mahomed Reza Khân's Salary among these Persons, he desires that the Company will add 18,000 Rupees more to it, in order that there may be no Failure in his own Income. Whatever may be the Fate of the other Arrangements proposed in this Letter, I hope hope the Board will not consent to purchase the Removal of Mahomed Reza Khan with an additional Expence to the Company; as Trustees to the Company we have no discretionary Power to give away their Property.

The proposed Allotment of the Salary itself, without any Addition to it, is liable to a very weighty Objection. By the Company's General Letter of the 28th August 1771, the Annual Sum of Three Lacks, of which the above Salary makes a Part, was expressly appropriated to the Support of a Minister, who should be appointed to transact the Political Affairs at the Sircar. It is the Salary which the Company intended for the Minister of the Country Government: It is the Company's Property, and the Nabob has nothing to do with it. When they hear it is no longer applied to the Use for which it was granted, they will naturally conclude that it has been made a Saving in their Treasury. They will never think it possible, until Advice of the Resolution of this Day shall reach them, that the Salary which they granted and appropriated to the Support of a Minister of the Government, should be taken from a Man whose Appointment to that Station they had expressly approved of, and divided between Two old Women, an old Man whom they never heard of, and the Son of Nund-comar.

I hope these Considerations will have Weight with the Board. If not, I have done my Duty, and am satisfied the Company will think so. (Signed) Philip Francis.

Mr. Barwell—I assent to the Governor-General's Motion.

Resolved, That the Nabob's Requisitions, which are as follow, be complied with:

That Sudder-ul-huck-Cawn, and Rajah Gourdahs be directed to repair to Moorshedabad, to receive Charge of the Offices intended for them by the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, and to be invested with Khelauts on the Occasion of their Appointment.

That Sudder-ul-huck-Cawn be allowed 6,500 per Menssem, or 78,000 per Annum, out of the Salary of 2,40,000 per Annum, lately annexed to the Station of Naib Soubah. That Rajah Gourdahs be allowed 6,000 Rupees per Menssem, or 72,000 Rupees per Annum, from the same Fund: That an Allowance of 6,000 Rupees per Menssem, or 72,000 per Annum, be made to Munny Begum from the same Fund, for the Support of her Expences: That an Allowance of 3,000 Rupees per Menssem, or 36,000 Rupees per Annum, be also made to the Nabob's Mother, the Baboo Begum, from the same Fund:—But as this Fund will be insufficient to defray all the above Charges, Resolved, That 1,500 Rupees per Menssem, or 18,000 Rupees per Annum, be added thereto.

Ordered, That these Resolutions be notified to the Chief and Council at Moorshedabad, and to the Resident at the Durbar, and that the Governor General be requested to reply accordingly to the Nabob's Letter.

The following Letters are accordingly written to the Resident at the Durbar, and to the Chief and Council at Moorshedabad:

To William Byam Martin, Esquire.

Extract of Letter from the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Department, to the Court of Directors; dated 25th May 1778.

Par. 12. The Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla has proposed an Arrangement for conducting the Business of the Nizamut and Foudarry, to which we have given our Concurrence. We beg Leave to refer you to the Consultations for the Particulars of his Requisitions, and our Opinions upon them; remarking only in this Place, that they are in Substance as follow: 4th May.
11th May.

Sudder ul Huck Cawn is appointed Naib of the Adawlut and Fouzdarry Departments, with a Salary of Rupees Seventy-eight thousand per Annum: Raja Gourdas is stationed in the Office of Naib of the Nizamut, with a Salary of Rupees Seventy-two thousand per Annum: The Allowances of Munny Begum, for the Support of the Family of the late Nabob Jaffier Ally Cawn, are increased by the Addition of Seventy-two thousand Rupees per Annum; and those of Baboo Begum by the Sum of Thirty-six thousand Rupees per Annum.

13. As these Disbursements exceed the Amount of the Salary lately allowed to Mahomed Reza Cawn, by the Sum of Eighteen thousand Rupees a Year, we have ordered that Difference to be granted for the Purposes to which the Nabob has been pleased to propose the Application of it.

( S )

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla: Received 25th August.

The Excellency of that Policy by which her Highness the Begum (may her Shadow be far extended!) formerly, during the Time of her Administration, transacted the Affairs of the Nizamut in the very best and most advantageous Manner, was, by Means of the Delusions of Enemies, disguised under the Appearance of Friends, hidden from me. Having lately seriously reflected on my own Affairs, I am convinced that it was the Effect of maternal Affection, was highly proper and for my Interest; and that except the said Begum is again invested with the Administration, the Regulation and Prosperity of this Family, which is in Fact her own, cannot be effected: For this Cause, from the Time of her Suspension till now, I have passed my Time, and do so still, in great Trouble and Uneasiness. As all Affairs, and particularly the Happiness and Prosperity of this Family, depend on your Pleasure, I now trouble you, in Hopes that you likewise concurring in this Point, will be so kind as to write in fit and proper Terms to her Highness the Begum, that she will always, as formerly, employ her Authority in the Administration of the Nizamut and the Affairs of this Family: This will be productive of the greatest Benefit, and will confer the highest Obligation on me.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla: Received 30th August 1777.

Knowing it for my Interest and Advantage that the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut should be restored to her Highness the Munny Begum, I have already troubled you with my Request, that regarding my Situation with an Eye of Favour, you will approve of this Measure.

I am credibly informed that some one of my Enemies, from selfish Views, has, for the Purpose of oversetting this Measure, written you that the said Begum procured from me, by Artifice, the Letter I wrote you on this Subject: This causes me the greatest Astonishment. Please to consider, that Artifice and Delusion are confined to Cheats and Impostors, and can never proceed from a Person of such exalted Rank, who is the Head and Patron of all the Family of the deceased Nabob my Father; and that to be deluded, being a Proof of Weakness and Folly, can have no Relation to me, except the Inventor of this Report considers me as void of Understanding, and has represented me to the Gentlemen as a Blockhead and an Idiot. God knows how harshly such Expressions appear to me; but as the Truth or Falshood has not yet been fully ascertained, I have therefore suspended my Demand of Satisfaction: Should it be true, be so kind as to inform me of it, that the Person may be made to answer for it. At all Events it is the Duty of Friendship and Wisdom to disregard the Representations of my slanderous Enemies, and to write very fully and expressly to the Begum, that she always, as formerly, conduct, by her own Authority, the Affairs of the Nizamut, which is in Fact her Family.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla : Received 3d September.

Knowing it both for my own Interest and that of all the Connections of the deceased Nabob, as well as for the Prosperity of my Family, that the Munny Begum should be placed at the Head of the Nizamut, I have already repeatedly addressed myself to you for your Approbation of this Measure : In what Light, except Unkindness, can I consider your total Inattention thereto ?

Do me the Justice to reflect, that this Measure is calculated entirely for the Promotion of my Interest ; and no possible Disadvantage can accrue therefrom to the Company, to induce you to oppose or disapprove of it. With what Justice therefore can you refuse your Compliance with this Measure, and leave the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut in the Hands of a Stranger, with whom I am much discontented, instead of placing it in the Hands of the Begum, who is the Head and Patroness of my Family ? I hope that, turning your Attention to my Happiness, you will be so kind as to give your speedy Consent to this Measure, and write to the Begum that she take on herself the sole Administration of all the Affairs of the Nizamut, which are in Fact her own, as long as I continue on the Musnud.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla : Received 17th November 1777.

I have already repeatedly written you, that I can on no Account be satisfied that the Administration of the Nizamut Affairs should be vested in Mozuffur Jung, whilst her Highness the Munny Begum, who is the Head and Patroness of the Family of my deceased Father, is living ; yet you have nevertheless neglected to pay Attention to my Situation, and have left my Family under the Management of the aforesaid Person ; which is not only dishonourable and disgraceful to me, but highly detrimental to my Affairs.

For Instance, Mozuffur Jung has lately told every Body, in a Strain of Irony, “ Let him (meaning me) first secure the Point concerning which he has written Letters to the Governor, and then take on himself the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut ; but till this happens the Power is in my Hands.”

Reflect, my Patron, how great Uneasiness such Speeches must occasion to me. Before this, he has also frequently made use of Expressions in the highest Degree insufferable, which I have informed you of ; but I am at a Loss to conceive on what Principles of Justice you consent to my Dishonour and Detriment, in an Affair wherein your Compliance with my Desire could not be in the least Degree hurtful to the Company, and would be of Advantage to me, and prefer the Satisfaction of Mozuffur Jung.

I am hopeful you will not keep me longer in this painful Suspence, but will be kindly pleased to write immediately to the Munny Begum, that she take on herself the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut, which is in Fact her own Family, without the Interference of any other Person whatever : By this you will give me complete Satisfaction.

To the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla : Written 7th March 1778.

I have received your Letter, containing your Desire to take on yourself the Management of your own Affairs ; which having been laid before the Board for their Consideration, it has been agreed, your Excellency being now arrived at Years of Maturity, that in future the Controul of your own Household, of the Courts dependent on the Nizamut and Foujedarry, be placed in your Hands. Intimation of this Resolution has been transmitted to Mahomed Reza Khân, who will accordingly resign his Authority to you. But as an immediate Change might be attended with dangerous Consequences to the Peace and good Order of the Country, I request that you will permit all the present Judges and Officers of the Nizamut and Foujedarry Adawluts, and of the Foujedarry, to continue in Office until you shall have formed a Plan for a new Arrangement of those Offices ; which, when finished, I request your Excellency will send to me for my Information, and allow me to offer my Sentiments upon it before it be carried into Execution.

To Mahomed Reza Khân : Written 7th March 1778.

It having been resolved by the Board, in consequence of repeated Applications from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, and Consideration of his being arrived at Years of Maturity, to place the Controul of his Household, and of the Courts dependent on the Niza nut, and of the Foujedarry, in his own Hands, you will be pleased to resign your Authority to him.

The Nabob will of course continue you and all the present Judges and Officers of the Nizamut and Foujedarry Adawluts, and of the Foujedarry, in your respective Offices, until a new Arrangement of those Offices is formed; and you will continue to attend to the Duties of your Station as formerly.

To the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla : Written 17th March.

As the Management and Controul of the Business of the Nizamut and Foujedarry is now vested in your Highness, Mr. Martin, who has resided on the Part of the Company at the Durbar, will attend your Highness in this Capacity, I request that your Highness will consider him my Representative, and confer with him, without Reserve, on such Circumstances as may occur; and that you will commit to him such Matters as your Highness may not have Occasion to write yourself, that he may impart them to me. This Gentleman possesses my Friendship, and I hope he will enjoy, as he deserves, yours.

Extract of General Letter to Bengal ; dated 4th February 1779.

Par. 8. We by no Means approve your late Proceedings on the Application of the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, for the Removal of the Naib Soubadar. The Requisition of Mobareck ul Dowla was improper and unfriendly; because he must have known, that the late Appointment of Mahomed Reza Khan to the Office of Naib Soubadar, had been marked with the Company's special Approbation; and that the Court of Directors had assured him of their Favour, so long as a firm Attachment to the Company's Interest, and a proper Discharge of the Duties of his Station, should render him worthy of their Protection. We therefore repeat our Declaration, that to require the Dismission of a Prime Minister thus circumstanced, without producing the smallest Proof of his Infidelity to the Company, or venturing to charge him with one Instance of Mal-administration in the Discharge of his Public Duty, was improper, and inconsistent with the Friendship subsisting between the Nabob of Bengal and the Company.

9. Admitting the Nabob's Complaint, that Mahomed Rezah Khân is not connected with him by relative Ties, to be well founded, it by no Means follows, that he has been deficient in Duty or sincere Attachment to him, or that his Power is oppressive and dishonourable to the Nabob and his Family; nor can Assertions of this Nature, unattended by Proof, have any Weight with us.

10. In regard to the Nabob's Claim, to take Charge of his own Affairs merely because he is of Age, and thinks himself capable of conducting them; we find it declared by one of your Members, and not contradicted, that he knew with Certainty, that the Nabob is in his own Person utterly incapable of executing any of those Offices which were deemed of essential Importance to the Welfare of the Country; and we are sorry to find, that neither this Declaration, nor the Protefts of Two Members of the Council, seem to have been thought worthy of an Answer, or even of Consideration, by the Majority of the Board.

A P P E N D I X, : N<sup>o</sup> 6. (A a)

11. The Nabob hopes, from your Favour and Regard to Justice, to be delivered from the Authority of Mahomed Reza Khân; he ventures to declare the Company solely indebted to the warm Support of his Ancestors, for their present Greatness and Advantages: He claims the Management and Administration of the Soubahdarrie as his Right; and says, it will be highly inequitable in the Company to refuse their Approbation to his Request.

12. We pass over these extraordinary Suggestions of the Nabob without Reply; only observing, that in Justice to him and ourselves, we must take the best Care in our Power of the Peace and internal good Government of the Country; and we are not disposed to hazard the Effects which might be occasioned, by committing the entire Management thereof to his Inexperience, without enjoining him to accept such Assistance, and to employ such Ministers about his Person, as may be deemed necessary on the Part of the East India Company.

13. The 23d February we find that the Nabob's Letter, and a Question thereon, were circulated to the different Members of the Board, for their Opinions, to be taken at the next Meeting of Council; which Meeting happened on the 2d of March; but one of the Members being indisposed, did not attend at the Board.

14. We have carefully noticed your Debates on the Subject. The Resolution of Council of that Day, that the Nabob's Letters should be referred to the Decision of the Court of Directors, and that no Resolution should be taken in Bengal on his Requisitions, without our special Orders and Instructions, appears to us very proper; we must therefore express our Disapprobation on finding the said Resolution rescinded, on the frivolous Pleas urged by the Majority of the Board, Three Days afterwards.

15. If the Absence of a Member of Council were sufficient to preclude the Discussion of any Subject, which might have been referred for Consideration by a former Board, or to invalidate Resolutions taken during such Absence, it would be in the Power of any Member effectually to defeat the Ends proposed by the Institution of a Council, and to put a total Stop to Public Business, whenever he thinks proper. We shall not waste Time in refuting Claims of Privilege advanced on this Occasion, because they appear to us unworthy of Consideration, and beneath all Argument.

16. The Nabob having intimated that he had repeatedly stated the Trouble and Uneasiness which he had suffered from the Naibship of the Nizamut being vested in Mahomed Reza Khan, we observe one of the Members of your Board desired the Nabob's repeated Letters on the Subject might be read; but this reasonable Request was overruled, on a Plea of saving the Board's Time; which we can by no Means admit as a sufficient Objection.

17. The Nabob's Letters of the 25th and 30th of August, of the 3d of September, and 17th of November, leave us no Doubt of the true Design of this extraordinary Business being to bring forward Munny Begum, and again to invest her with improper Power and Influence; notwithstanding our former Declaration, that so great a Part of the Nabob's Allowance had been embezzled or misapplied under her Superintendance.

18. Instead of your declaring, that the Nabob's Demands were grounded on positive Rights which will not admit of Discussion, that the Nizamut is his Inheritance, that the Dependents of the Nizamut Adawlut and Foujedarry appertain to that Inheritance; that, as he is pleased to demand and assert the positive Rights of his Office, as Nizam of the Provinces, there is no Ground for denying his Request; and that a Reference to the Company would be an Evation unbecoming the Honour of Government;—the Nabob might have been reminded, that a Naib Soubadar was appointed, and the Office continued without Interruption or Objection, during the Government of his Ancestors, who must have been supposed more capable of governing the Provinces than a Youth of 20 Years of Age.

19. You have requested this unexperienced young Man to permit all the present Judges and Officers of the Nizamut and Foujedarry Adawluts, or Courts of Criminal Justice, and also all the Foujedaries or Officers appointed to guard the Peace of the Country, to continue in Office until he the Nabob shall have formed a Plan for a new Arrangement of those Officers: And it is with equal Surprise and Concern, that we observe this Request introduced, and the Nabob's ostensible Rights so solemnly asserted at this Period, by our Governor General, because on a late Occasion, to serve a very different Purpose, he has not scrupled to declare it as visible as the Light of the Sun, that the Nabob is a mere Pageant, and without even the Shadow of Authority. No Circumstance has happened since that Declaration was made, to render the Nabob more independant, nor to give him any additional Degree of Power or Consequence: You must therefore have been well apprized that your late Concessions to Mobareck ul Dowla were unnecessary, and as such unwarrantable.

20. As we deem it for the Welfare of the Country, that the Office of Naib Soubadar be for the present continued, and that this high Office should be filled by a Person of Wisdom, Experience, and of approved Fidelity to the Company, and as we have no Reason to alter the Opinion given of Mahomed Reza Khan, in our Letter of the 24th of December 1776, we positively direct that you forthwith signify to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla our Pleasure, that Mahomed Reza Khan be immediately restored to the Office of Naib Soubadar; and we further direct, that Mahomed Reza Khan be again assured of the Continuance of our Favour, so long as a firm Attachment to the Interest of the Company, and a proper Discharge of the Duties of his Station, shall render him worthy of our Protection.

Extract of General Letter to Bengal, dated 27th May 1779.

Par. 31. In the 20th Paragraph of our Letter of the 4th February 1779, we ordered, that Mahomed Reza Khan should be immediately restored to the Office of Naib Soubadar; and it is our Pleasure, that the Allowance enjoyed by Mahomed Reza Khan at the Time of his late Removal from his Office, be continued and paid to him from the Day of the Arrival of our said Order of the 4th of February 1779.

36. In the 17th Paragraph of our Letter of the 4th of February 1779, we signified our Apprehension, that the Removal of Mahomed Reza Khan was intended in order to bring forward Munny Begum; the Event has justified the Supposition; but having ordered Mahomed Reza Khan to be restored, and his Salary to commence on the Day of the Arrival of our Letter of the 4th February at Fort William, we now direct, and it is our positive Order, that the Salary of 78,000 Rupees per Annum granted by you to Sudder Ul Huck Khan, of 72,000 R<sup>s</sup> per Annum granted to Rajah Gourdals as Naib of the Nizamut, and the Increase or additional Amount of 72,000 R<sup>s</sup> per Annum granted to Munny Begum, also of 36,000 Rupees per Annum added to the Allowance of Baboo Begum, be entirely struck off and discontinued from the Day of the Arrival of our said Letter of the 4th February 1779; and that you do not, on any Account or Pretence whatever, make any additional Allowances or Payments to any of the above Persons, or to any Person or Persons to be employed in the Nabob's Household or about his Person, or to transact the Affairs of his Excellency, contrary to the Letter and Spirit of these our Instructions.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Public Department, 22d November 1779.

Read again the General Letters from the Honourable the Court of Directors, received at the last Meeting.

Ordered, That the Paragraphs be distributed in the following Manner:

Par. 8 to 20. Respecting the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and Mahomed Reza Cawn.

Mr. Francis—I move, that the Company's Orders for the immediate Re-instatement of Mahomed Reza Cawn in the Office he held in January 1778, be carried into Execution; and that a Copy of the last Paragraph of the Company's Letter of the 4th February 1779, together with an exact Persian Translation thereof, be transmitted to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and to Mahomed Reza Cawn, with a Requisition on the Part of the Governor General and Council to the Nabob, to conform to the Injunctions of the Court of Directors expressed in that Paragraph. This Motion, of course, supposes that the Governor General shall be requested to signify the Resolution of the Board on this Subject, in the usual Manner, by Letter to the Nabob.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to the Motion.

Governor General—I must beg Leave to decline an immediate Answer to the Motion, which I will deliver at our next Meeting, which it has been agreed shall be held To-morrow Morning.

Mr. Francis—I must beg that a formal Resolution on the Motion may be taken now. It could not be unexpected, and the more so as I particularly requested Mr. Barwell to stay; I cannot therefore be suspected of Want of Candour in pressing for the Resolution now: I come determined to agitate it.

Governor General—Since Mr. Francis, taking an Advantage of the Absence of one of the Members, has insisted on an immediate Decision of the Question, I am compelled to give my Affirmative or Negative to it; I have declared that I am not so prepared to deliver my Opinion upon a Subject of so much Delicacy, and involving so many Consequences. I should have been glad to have been allowed some Time to consider the Nature and Tendency of the Order, and to have accommodated the Execution of it to all the Circumstances which ought to be taken into Consideration in the Determination upon it. The Time that I have required is but the short Interval between this Hour of Three in the Afternoon and the Hour of Ten To-morrow Morning; however, as the Privilege is now denied me, I shall in this Place, and at this Time, simply content myself with delivering my Negative to the Motion, in the Terms in which it is made.

Mr. Francis—I could have no Idea of availing myself of Mr. Barwell's Absence; every Gentleman at the Board, I believe, heard me solicit him to stay; much less could I have a View of surprising the Governor General on a Subject on which he might be unprepared. The Company's Letter was received on Saturday the 13th Instant, though it has happened that I myself did not see it till Friday last.

Resolved that the Company's Orders for the immediate Re-instatement of Mahomed Reza Cawn, in the Offices he held in January 1778, be carried into Execution; and that a Copy of the last Paragraph of the Company's Letter of the 4th February 1779, together with an exact Persian Translation thereof, be transmitted to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and to Mahomed Reza Cawn, with a Requisition on the Part of the Governor General and Council to the Nabob, to conform to the Injunctions of the Court of Directors expressed in that Paragraph.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Public Department, the 23d November 1779.

The Governor General moves, That the 8th, &c. to 20th Paragraphs of the General Letter by the General Barker, dated 4th February 1779, with Mr. Francis's Motion, and the Resolution of the Board thereon, be again read.

Read the said Paragraphs, Motion, and Resolution.

The Governor General moves, That the Opinions of the Members of the Board be taken, whether the above Resolution shall be approved?

Mr. Wheeler—I should be glad to ask the Governor General, Whether he makes this Motion upon the Principles of confirming the Minutes of the former Council, or on Account of the Absence of Mr. Barwell at the Time this Question was debated.

Governor General—I have put the Question conformably to the Constitutional and actually existing Rule of this Government, that all Acts and Orders passed at any Meeting of the Board, shall be approved in the succeeding Council to give them their Sanction; and I avail myself of this Right on Account of the Advantage which was Yesterday taken of Mr. Barwell's Absence.

Mr. Wheeler—I am very sorry to be under the Necessity of observing, that although I have had the Honour of sitting at this Board near Two Years, it is, to the best of my Recollection, the very first Instance that the Order necessary to give a Sanction to our Proceedings, as described by the Governor General, has been complied with; and in the Sense I believe it is now meant, I see no Occasion for the present Question, and therefore am against it.

Governor General—It is not necessary that this Form should be observed in every Instance. It is always supposed, when the Members of the Board tacitly agree to the Omission of it, the formular Preface of every Consultation being sufficient to imply it.

Mr. Wheeler—The Minutes of every Board or Public Assembly that I have had the Honour to attend, are constantly read at a subsequent Meeting of such Board or Assembly, in order that each Member may be fully satisfied that what he has said, or entered upon the Records of the former Meeting, is faithfully represented and transcribed; but I know not a single Instance when the Minutes of any Board or Assembly have been read at a subsequent Meeting, with a View to overset the Resolution of a former Meeting: If that was admitted in numerous Assemblies, no Question could ever be finally decided. The Objection, in my Opinion of it, is so meant, holds equally strong, and I am convinced will be treated with equal Disgust by our Superiors, as they have already treated an Act not very dissimilar to this.

Mr. Francis—The Resolution taken Yesterday was legal and compleat: It wants no Confirmation, though it may be reversed. The official Form observed in the Proceedings of the former Government, and continued under ours, is merely a Form; and so little is it ever regarded, that the Orders of one Council are constantly executed, if the Time permits, before the Meeting of the next. Mr. Wheeler has assigned the true and only Reason for the Observance of such a Form. Whatever Use or Convenience there may be in continuing to observe it against a positive Provision of an Act of Parliament, made since the Form in question was first instituted, and which of course supercedes it, if in Reality it had ever had the Effect and Operation which the Governor General now attributes to it, the Law says, "That in all Cases whatsoever wherein any Difference of Opinion shall arise upon any Question proposed in any Consultation, the said Governor General and Council shall be bound and concluded by the Opinion and Decision of the major Part of those present." The Conclusion by which the Council is bound, is instant and absolute; there is no Reference to the Confirmation of a subsequent Meeting. I am sorry the Governor General should repeat an Objection already, as I think, completely answered: I am not to blame if Mr. Barwell, notwithstanding my urgent Request to the contrary, left the Board Yesterday at an early Hour: I should have been much better pleased that he had staid; because I should then have the Labour of One Debate only, instead of Two. On this Part of the Subject I need say nothing more, since the Court of Directors themselves have taken it up in a similar Instance, and given their Opinion decidedly upon it, in the 15th Paragraph of the Letter now before us. I am against the Question.

Mr. Barwell—Had the Resolution simply gone to the Execution of the Company's Order, from the Sentiments delivered by the Governor General at the last Meeting, the present Question would not have been agitated; his Objections to Mr. Francis's Motion strike me as confined to the Mode that Motion prescribes for carrying these Orders into Execution. Mr. Francis's Motion, in my Opinion, conveys such Sentiments as are not authorized by the Company's Letter. In the Body of the Motion tion I said these Words; "With the Requisition of the Governor General and Council to the Nabob to conform to the Injunctions of the Court of Directors." I know of no Injunctions that the Company have laid on the Nabob; and I imagine the Use of any offensive Terms, or improper Management, on a Subject of so delicate a Nature, would be highly reprehensible; I therefore vote for rescinding the Resolution of the last Council, so far as regards the Mode of executing the Orders of the Company, but no farther; I agree to the Motion, that the Order be executed, but am for leaving the Manner of doing it to the Discretion of the Governor General. From nothing that the Governor General has urged in the Course of the Debate of Yesterday, do I perceive the least Disposition in him to decline the Instructions which the Company have been pleased to give, relative to the Naib Souba.

A P P E N D I X, N° 6. (D a)

Governor General—With all the Respect and Submission which I owe and feel for the Authority of the Court of Directors, I must declare, that I shall not yield even to that Authority in any Instance in which it shall require my Concession of the Rights which I hold under an Act of Parliament. Those Rights are formal Obligations, with which I am not permitted to dispense; neither can I optionally relinquish my own Claim to a Practice which was followed by Mr. Francis himself, when he formed one of a Majority of the Council, and which received the Approbation of the Court of Directors themselves. I acknowledge the Obligation which I owe to Mr. Francis, for the Trouble he has taken in helping me to One Instance, in Consultation 14th September 1775, in which a Resolution passed at the preceding Consultation, which was contrary to the Sense and general Tenor of the Measures proposed by the ruling Members of the Board, was rescinded by a Motion introduced by the following Motion, formally made by myself; viz. "The Governor General moves, that the Subject be re-considered; and that the Opinion of the Board be taken, whether the Orders written to the Commanding Officer of the 2d Brigade, shall be confirmed or repealed."

If this Mode is illegal or irregular, it was equally so at that Time; but Mr. Francis then made no Objection to it; but in the Opinion delivered upon my Motion, simply said, he thought the Order should be repealed. I recollect that similar Motions were made, either by Mr. Francis or by the other Members of the Majority in concert with him, for reading and confirming the Proceedings held by them during the Absence of Mr. Barwell and myself, both in this and in the Revenue Department; I will not take up the Time of the Board in looking out for the Instances, but shall desire the Secretary to annex them to this Minute. The evident Intent of these Motions was to authenticate all the Acts which were considered by the Members of the Majority as the legal Acts of the Board, but disputed and disavowed by Mr. Barwell and myself, and by obtaining such a formal Approbation of them, to remove the Objections which had been made, or which might be, against their Validity. Respecting the Question now before the Board, I disapprove of the Resolution as not being warranted by the Orders of the Court of Directors, and I think it would be disingenuous and unjust in this Board, to exceed the positive Orders of the Company, in annulling a Concession made by them to the Nabob and acknowledged as his Due.

Instances quoted in the foregoing Minute.

Revenue Department Proceedings, 17th and 21st March, and 1st April, 1775.

Mr. Francis—The Governor General has very fully proved a Proposition, which has never been disputed, That a Resolution taken at one Board may be reversed at the next: I must have lost my Memory and my Senses if I had denied it. I do not make Profession of such extraordinary Candour as to furnish an Opponent with Arguments against myself. In pointing out to the Governor General the Consultation the 14th September 1775, I meant to give him an Instance in Point, which I thought established a Conclusion directly the Reverse of that which he has drawn from it. The Court of Directors will find, in the Proceedings of that Day, that I entered a Dissent and Protest against a Resolution taken at the preceding Council, but that I neither disputed its Validity, nor proposed to reverse, or even to re-consider it: The Proposition for that Purpose came from the Governor General himself, and was strictly regular and legal. It would have been in Point to prove, that in the Case in question I insisted that the Resolution of the preceding Day wanted the Confirmation of the next, and that on that Ground I had proposed to re-consider it: With respect to the present Question, the Instance proves nothing. In the other Examples quoted by the Governor General, and which I perfectly remember, the Fact was this: The Legality of the separate Meetings held by General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and myself, was itself expressly and formally denied; that Reason alone, I presume, induced General Clavering to propose to Colonel Monson and myself, to agree, that the Resolutions taken in such separate Meetings should be confirmed at the next full Meeting of the Board; whether such Confirmation was necessary or not, the Example does not support the Governor General's Argument. The Question now is, Whether Acts done at a Meeting of the Board, confessedly regular and legal, require any subsequent Confirmation? not, whether such Meeting itself was or was not legal? But setting aside this Sort of Argument, no Precedents prove any thing against a positive Right, especially when that Right itself is not in Issue: We may go on for any Length of Time, by Negligence or Argument, in following Forms which nobody regards. The Question is not fairly in Issue, until they are formally insisted upon and denied, and some important Use attempted to be made of them. If the Motion I made Yesterday did not correspond with the Governor General's Idea of the Sense of the Company's Orders, I should have held myself indebted to him for any Amendment he might have thought fit to propose, and assuredly I should have given it the most respectful Attention. The profound Silence he observed made it impossible for one to judge whether his Objections went to the Whole of the Motion, to any Part of it, or merely to the Form proposed of carrying the Company's Orders into Execution.

Governor General—Whatever Doubts were entertained of the Legality of the Acts done by a Part of the Board after my Declaration of the Dissolution of the actual Meeting, these Doubts were not entertained by Mr. Francis, who declared the Acts to be legal; therefore, with respect to them, the subsequent Motion and Order, to read and approve these Proceedings, could not be construed as intended to give them that Legality which they wanted, though they might be covertly so intended, by the Application of an ancient constitutional Form to that Effect. But I will here close my Part of the Argument, since I perceive that we dispute only on Words. Mr. Francis admitting that a Resolution taken at one Board may be revoked at the next, I offer to his Option the Motion which I have already made, or the Motion which I now make, That the former Resolution be reversed; and here declare my Opinion for reversing the former Resolution: Mr. Barwell has already done it in Terms. I confess that in this Proposal I am irregular, but I had rather incur that Imputation than suffer the Time of the Board to be any longer wasted by a fruitless and a verbal Debate.

In this Place I shall beg Leave to contrast my own Conduct with Mr. Francis's; that since I have been a Member of this, or any other Government, I have never, in One single Instance, if I may trust to my own Memory and the fullest Conviction of what I assert, descended to a Practice which I should have held unworthy of my own Principles, of which I have had too frequent Occasion to complain in Mr. Francis, by taking the Advantage of an occasional and accidental Majority, to carry any Measure contrary to the Sense of the ruling Members: Even in the First Instance which I have quoted, introduced a Question for the Sake of giving Consistency to the Orders of the Board, although it was productive and intended of the Repeal of a Resolution of the Board, which had received my Concurrence at the former Meeting of it.

Mr. Francis—I object to both the Motions, though for different Reasons: I object to reversing the Resolution, because I deem it a most unwarrantable Exercise of a Power, the Existence of which I am obliged to admit; no specific Reason is yet assigned for it. To the latter Part of the Governor General's last Minute, I shall only say, that I hope I shall not always suffer in a Comparison between his Principles of Action and mine, if he has had too frequent Reason to complain of my taking Advantage of accidental Majorities. The Word "frequent" must refer to more Instances than Two. It will rest with him to produce more Instances, if there are any; I myself know of none in which he has lost any Question by Mr. Barwell's Absence, but that at present before us, and the former one of the 2d March 1778, on the same Subject.

The Resolution which the Governor General proposed to have re-considered on the 14th September 1775, interrupted a Series of Measures formed upon a different Principle. I think he did right in proposing to re-consider it. This is a single Act, which has no Connection with any thing else.

Resolved, That the Resolution of Yesterday, viz. "That the Company's Orders for the immediate Re-instatement of Mahomed Reza Cawn in the Offices he held in January 1778, be carried into Execution; and that a Copy of the last Paragraph of the Company's Letter of the 4th February 1779, together with an exact Persian Translation thereof, be transmitted to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and to Mahomed Reza Cawn, with a Requisition, on the Part of the Governor General and Council to the Nabob, to conform to the Injunctions of the Court of Directors, expressed in that Paragraph," be reversed.

The Governor General moves, That the Pleasure of the Court of Directors, signified in the 20th Paragraph of the General Letter of the 4th February last, and the Assurance therein directed to be given to Mahomed Reza Cawn, be communicated to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and to Mahomed Reza Cawn, in the Words of the General Letter.

Mr. Francis—I have no Objection to the Motion, as far as it goes; but if the Communication of the Company's Intentions be not accompanied by a formal Requisition from this Government, it is not impossible that they may be defeated. I therefore move the following Addition to the Motion, That the Governor General be requested to signify to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, in the usual Form, the Requisition of the Governor General and Council for his immediate Compliance with the Pleasure of the Court of Directors.

Mr. Wheler—I agree to the Motion, and likewise to the Amendment.

Mr. Barwell—I agree to the Motion. I cannot be a Judge of the Terms that Mr. Francis would have used in the Letter proposed to be written by the Governor General to the Nabob, from the general Terms in which his Amendment is expressed. The Governor General can have no Objection to submit the Terms in which he makes the Communication of the Company's Sentiments to the Nabob and Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Board, before the Letters shall be sent. If those are at all defective, such Additions may be proposed to them as in the Judgments of any of the Members may appear necessary. I think Mr. Francis is premature in following the Governor General's Motion with another: It seems to speak some Pre-knowledge of the Difficulties to which our Government is subjected, and that no small Degree of Coercion must necessarily support the Recommendation of the Company. I give my Vote simply for the Governor General's Motion; reserving my Opinion for any Amendments that may be offered to the Letters proposed to be written, when such such are offered in precise Terms, as essential to answer the Intentions of the Company, and consistent with those Intentions.

Governor General—I agree to the Motion : I object to the Amendment. My Reasons have been assigned in the preceding Minutes ; I will not therefore repeat them.

Mr. Francis—The Motion is confined to a bare Communication of the Company's Orders : How it may operate I do not know ; but as this Government is the Medium through which the Company's Orders are carried into Execution, it seems to me unusual at least to leave them in this single Instance to execute themselves. As for the rest, I have no Distrust of the Nabob, and hope he will comply.

Resolved, That the Pleasure of the Court of Directors, signified in the 20th Paragraph of their General Letter, dated the 4th February last, and the Assurance therein directed to be given to Mahomed Reza Cawn, be communicated to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and to Mahomed Reza Cawn, in the Words of the General Letter.

At a Council ; P R E S E N T,
The Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, President,
Richard Barwell, } Esquires.

Edward Wheler, }

Read the following Letters from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and from Mahomed Reza Khan :

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, inclosed in a Letter from the Resident at the Durbar ; dated the 10th, and received the 12th of December.

I have been favoured with your friendly Letter, under Date the 21st of Jehadar.

You write, that a Letter has lately been received from the Court of Directors, expressing their Pleasure that the Nabob Mahomed Reza Khan be restored to the Office of Naib Soubah. My Patron ! When the aforesaid Nabob was just appointed to the Naib Soubahship, it was entirely on this Account ; that, by Reason of my tender Age, I could not transact my own Affairs in Person, but requested the Assistance of a Naib. When I became of Age, there was no further Occasion for a Naib ; and I accordingly wrote to you on the Subject, and informed you that I would take on myself the Management of my own Affairs, and had no further Use for a Naib. And as this was perfectly reasonable, you in Council gave your Sanction thereto, and favoured me with a Letter, authorizing me to take the Administration on myself, and to dismiss the said Nabob ; which was accordingly done ; and, from that Time to the present, the Affairs of the Nizamut, Fouzdarry, and Adawlut depending on the Nizamut, have been conducted on that Plan by my Authority.—The Letter received from the Court of Directors, signifying their Pleasure that the said Nabob be restored to the Naib Soubahship, fills me with the greatest Astonishment ; nor can I penetrate the Motive of it. Perhaps the Circumstance of my being arrived at Years of Maturity have not yet reached the Ears of the Court of Directors in Europe ; and, notwithstanding the Number of Children and Dependants which I have, they still reckon me an Infant ; otherwise, would they have determined to place my Family under the Authority of another, and written you for that Purpose ? In a Word, it was necessary that I should inform you of my Situation, which I formerly did ; and it depended on you to transmit such Information to the Court of Directors.

It is notorious, that the meanest of the People will not admit of the Authority of a Stranger in their Families ; how can it then be expected of me ? In a Word, I administer the Affairs of the Nizamut, which are in fact the Affairs of my own Family, by my own Authority, and shall do so ; and I can never, on any Account, agree to the Appointment of the said Nabob to the Naib Soubahship, which would bring the greatest Dishonour, Disgrace, and Contempt on me. I will never, of my own Consent, admit the said Nabob to any Authority in the Affairs of the Nizamut, Fouzdarry, and Adawlut dependent on the Nizamut ; and from Motives of Justice I expect, regarding the Rights which my late Father is allowed to have had on the Company, you will never consent that any Compulsion be put in question ; and that you will use every Means for the Preservation of my Credit, Honour, and Dignity.

From Mahomed Reza Cawn, addressed to the Governor General 14th November.

Your gracious Letter, informing me that you had received a Letter from the Court of Directors, signifying their Pleasure that I shall be restored to the Office of Naib Soubah, and to be assured, that as long as I shall merit their Favour, by my Attachment to the Company and a faithful Discharge of the Duties of that Office, their Protection will be continued to me; honoured me by its Arrival on the 24th Jehauder (3d December.) My Tongue has been ever since employed in expressing my Thankfulness to the Company for their great Kindness to me, and my Heart is deeply impressed with Gratitude for your Favours; and from the Abundance of your Bounty and Regard to me, I am hopeful that, taking Compassion upon my unfortunate Situation, you will restore me to the Station which I held before, and make me ever grateful to you for such mighty Obligations.

I was always, from the Bottom of my Heart, attached to the Company, and kept their Interest in View; and shall now continue to shew my Attachment to them, and to execute the Business belonging to that Station with all my Abilities. Meir Seid Aly is at your Presence; I hope he will meet with your Favour; whatever you are pleased, at any Time, to direct him to do, shall be performed.

From the same to the Council.

Your gracious Letter, &c. &c. honoured me by its Arrival on the 24th of Zekadar (3d December.) I have ever since been employed in returning Thanks for the Kindness of the Company, and the Protection of the Governor General and the Gentlemen of the Council. From the Greatness of your Bounty I am hopeful, that being favourably inclined to me, you will restore me to my former Station. I have always been faithfully attached to the Interests of the Company, and shall ever continue to shew my Attachment to them, and to perform the Duties of that Station.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute:

Mr. Francis—I must request the Attention of the Board to a short Recapitulation of the principal Steps taken, and Declarations made, by the Nabob, and by this Government, in relation to the Removal of Mahomed Reza Cawn, and to the succeeding Distribution of the several Offices held by him.

In a Letter received from the Nabob on the 17th November 1777, he desires, “That Munny Begum may be allowed to take on herself the Administration of the Affairs of the Nizamut, without the Interference of any other Person whatever;” and adds, “that by this the Governor will give him complet Satisfaction.”

In the next Letter, received 12th February 1778, he desires that Mahomed Reza Cawn may be removed, and expresses his Hope that, “as he himself is now come to Years of Maturity, and by the Blessing of God is not so devoid of Understanding as to be incapable of conducting his own Affairs,” the Governor will give him the conducting of the Affairs of the Nizamut, and of his own Household, together with the Administration of the Adawlut and Fouzdarry.

As the Court of Directors themselves have fully discussed the Claims and Pretensions stated in this Letter, I shall not attempt to add any Thing to their Observations thereupon.

On the 7th of March 1778, a Letter from the Governor informs the Nabob, that it had been agreed, “that his Excellency being now arrived at Years of Maturity, the Controul of his own Household, and of the Courts dependent on the Nizamut and Phouzdarry, should be placed in his Hands;” and Mahomed Reza Cawn was directed at the same Time to resign his Authority to the Nabob.

In a Letter received from the Nabob the 4th May 1778, he says, “he has made Choice of Sudder ul Hoc Khan to fill the Station of Naib of his Adawlut and Phouzdarry, and of Rajah Gourdas for the Office of the Nizamut;” and desires that “Mahomed Reza Cawn’s Salary may be divided between these Two Persons and the Two Begums.” On the Requests contained in the Letter, and immediately complied with, I have nothing to add to the Remarks stated in my Minute of 7th May 1778, except, that there could not be a grosser Contradiction than, first to remove Mahomed Reza Cawn on Pretence of the Nabob’s executing the several Offices himself, and immediately afterwards to appoint other Persons to execute those Offices, and at the same Time to give a considerable Portion of the Salary annexed to them to the Two Begums.

Sudder ul Hoc Khan, in a Letter received 1st September 1778, says, “His Highness himself is not deficient in Regard for me, but certain bad Men have gained an Ascendancy over his Temper, by whose Instigation he acts.” After complaining of the Sights he receives from the Nabob, he adds: “Thus they cause the Nabob to treat me, sometimes with Indignity, at others with Kindness, just as they think proper to advise him; their View is, that by compelling me to Displeasure at such unworthy Treatment, they may force me either to relinquish my Station, or to join with them and act by their Advice, and appoint Creatures of their Recommendation to the different Offices, from which they might draw Profit to themselves.”

In a subsequent Letter to the Governor, Sudder ul Hoc Khan says, “The Begum’s Ministers, before my Arrival, with the Advice of their Counsellors, caused the Nabob to sign a Receipt; in consequence of which they received, at Two different Times, near 50,000 Rupees, in the Name of the Officers of the Adawlut, Fouzdarry, &c. from the Company’s Circar; and having drawn up an Account current in the Manner they wished, they got the Nabob to sign it, and then sent it to me.” In the same Letter he asserts, “that these People have the Nabob entirely in their Power.”

On the 1st of September 1778, the Government informs the Nabob, that “it is highly expedient that Sudder ul Hoc Khan should have full Controul in all Matters relative to his Office, and the

A P P E N D I X, N° 6. (E a)

“ sole Appointment and Dismission of the Sudder and Mofussil Officers; and that his Seal and Signature should be authentic to all Papers having Relation to the Business entrusted to him; — I therefore intimate to you, that he should appoint and dismiss all the Officers under him, and that your Excellency should not interfere in any one.”

The Nabob, in a Letter to the Governor, received 3d September 1778, says, “ Agreeably to your Pleasure, I have relinquished all Concern with the Affairs of the Phouldarry and Adawlut, leaving the entire Management in Sudder ul Hoc Khan’s Hands.”

Sudder ul Hoc Khan, in a Letter received 30th September, says, “ Yatibar Ally Cawn (Munny Begum’s chief Eunuch) from the Amount Salaries of the Officers of the Adawlut and Phouldarry, which before my Arrival he had received for Two Months from the Sircar, made Disbursements according to his own Pleasure; he had therefore caused the Sum of 7,400 Rupees, on Account of the Price of mine and my Paislicar’s Kellauts, to be carried to Account, and now continually sends a Man to demand from me Four thousand Three hundred and odd Rupees, as the Balance of the Price of Kellauts, and constantly presses me to take it from the Amount of the Salaries of the Officers of the Adawlut and Fouzdarry, and send it to him; and I shall be under the Necessity of complying: I mention this for your Information.”

The Governor General’s Letter to the Nabob, dated the 10th of October 1778, contains a Representation so pointed, and so very just, of the fatal Effects which had attended the Nabob’s interfering in the Administration of Justice, that I shall insert it entire, but without any Comment; in fact, it speaks too plainly to require one.

“ At your Excellency’s Request, I sent Sudder ul Hoc Khan to take on him the Administration of the Affairs of the Adawlut and Fouzdarry, and hoped by that Means not only to have given Satisfaction to your Excellency, but that through his Abilities and Experience, these Affairs would have been conducted in such Manner as to have secured the Peace of the Country and the Happiness of the People; and it is with the greatest Concern I learn that this Measure is so far from being attended with the expected Advantages, that the Affairs both of the Fouzdarry and Adawlut are in the greatest Confusion imaginable, and daily Robberies and Murders are perpetrated throughout the Country.

“ This is evidently owing to the Want of a proper Authority in the Person appointed to superintend them; I therefore addressed your Excellency on the Importance and Delicacy of the Affairs in question, and of the Necessity of lodging full Power in the Hands of the Person chosen to administer them; in Reply to which, your Excellency expressed Sentiments coincident with mine: Notwithstanding which, your Dependents and People, actuated by selfish and avaricious Views, have by their Interference so impeded the Business as to throw the whole Country into a State of Confusion, from which nothing can retrieve it but an unlimited Power lodged in the Hands of the Superintendent. I therefore request that your Excellency will give the strictest Injunctions to all your Dependents, not to interfere in any Manner with any Matter relative to the Affairs of the Adawlut and Phouldarry; and that you will yourself relinquish all Interference therein, and leave them entirely to the Management of Sudder ul Hoc Khan. This is absolutely necessary to restore the Country to a State of Tranquillity; and if your Excellency has any Plan to propose for the Management of the Affairs in future, be pleased to communicate it to me, and every Attention shall be paid to give your Excellency Satisfaction; in the mean Time I have given Directions to Sudder ul Hoc Khan to take the sole Management of them into his own Hands, and to apply assiduously to the Restoration of Tranquillity and good Order in the Country; and I must request that your Excellency will confirm them by similar Orders to him; otherwise a Measure which I adopted at your Excellency’s Request, and with a View to your Satisfaction, and the Benefit of the Country, will be attended with quite contrary Effects, and bring Discredit on me.”

From the preceding Correspondence I think it appears beyond Dispute, that the Nabob himself has hitherto been a mere Cypher through the whole Transaction, or rather an Instrument in the Hands of Munny Begum, and others employed by them, and for their Purposes only, to accomplish the Removal of Mahomed Reza Cawn. That these People have made a most dangerous and iniquitous Use of the Nabob’s Name and Authority, while they had both at their Disposal, and that the Governor General himself was convinced that the Interference of the Nabob, or of those who acted for him, in the Affairs of the Nizamut, had been attended with the most ruinous Consequences, which he accordingly endeavoured to obviate, by directing him not to concern himself in any Shape in the Conduct of the Business entrusted to the Naib Soubadar.

With respect to the Nabob, I shall only observe that his Letters involve him in a very disgraceful Dilemma; if I could believe it possible, that freely, and of his own mere Motion, he could recommend “ That Munny Begum should take on herself the Management of the Affairs of the Nizamut, without the Interference of any other Person;” that he should in one Letter desire to conduct the Affairs of the Nizamut himself, and in the next that a Naib should be appointed to conduct them for him; I should give little Credit to the Assertion with which these Requests are accompanied, viz. That he is not devoid of Understanding. He may arrive at Years of Maturity; but if at the Age of Twenty-one he does not perceive the Folly and Absurdity of such Propositions and such Contradictions, I should despair of his ever arriving at Years of Discretion. On the other Hand, if these Letters are written for him, which I am thoroughly satisfied is the Case; if he has no Will of his own; and if the Rights and Authorities demanded in his Name are in Reality to devolve to Munny Begum, to her chief Eunuch, and to the other Persons of whose Misconduct the late Naib Soubadar made so many Complaints to the Governor, what Opinion are we to entertain of his Excellency’s Understanding standing and Veracity? or on what Ground can we commit the Management of such important Affairs to a young Man so dependent on Munny Begum, and evidently so incapable of judging or acting for himself.

I now proceed to the last Orders of the Court of Directors. They consider the whole Subject in the same Light that I do; they acknowledge no Rights of Inheritance in the Nabob; they understand every ostensible Accession to his Power as a real one to that of Munny Begum; they deem it for the Welfare of the Country, that the Office of Naib Soubadar should be continued, and they positively direct us forthwith to signify to the Nabob their Pleasure, that Mahomed Reza Cawn be immediately restored to it.

But notwithstanding they had a thorough Knowledge of the Facts, and were perfectly acquainted with all the Characters, they certainly were not aware of the Possibility of such a Case as now exists, or they would have provided against it: They did not foresee that their positive Orders would not be enforced by this Government, or that such Orders would be disobeyed. When they read the Nabob's late Letters, the false and frivolous Pretences on which he endeavours to counteract and defeat an Arrangement which the Company have deemed necessary for the Welfare of the Country, will astonish them no less than our Acquiescence in such Pretences.

First he says, that he had formerly written to the Governor, that he had no further Occasion for a Naib, and would himself conduct his own Affairs; and he asserts, that since the Dismissal of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the present Time, the Business had been conducted under his own immediate Direction. Is it possible that he should forget, that in consequence of Sudder ul Hoc Khan's Appointment, the Governor had expressly required him not to interfere; and that the Nabob had thereupon relinquished all Concern with the Affairs of the Fouzdarry and Adawlut, and left the entire Management of them to the Hands of the Naib?—In his next Letter he talks of the Rights of his deceased Father as well as his own, as if the Office of Nazim was hereditary. He talks of his Claims on the Company as if he held by some other Title than their Friendship and Protection, or as if either he or his Father had any Right in the Soubahdary beyond what they derived from the voluntary Acts of the Company, or of their Representatives. He says, he never will admit Mahomed Reza Cawn to possess any Degree of Authority in his Family; and that as Sudder ul Hoc Cawn is dead, he shall take upon himself the Management of the Business. In his last Letter, he observes that Mahomed Reza Cawn was at first appointed on account of his the Nabob's tender Age, which required the Assistance of a Naib; forgetting, that not only a Naib Soubadar was appointed, and the Office executed without Objection, during the Government of his Predecessors, but that he himself had submitted about a Year ago to the Appointment of Sudder ul Hoc Cawn, and that the latter continued to execute his several Offices till his Death, with Powers totally and unavowedly independent on the Nabob. He forgets, or perhaps he does not know, that the Treaty of March 1770, by which alone his Rights, whatever they may be, were created, provides for the Appointment of a Naib of the Provinces, to be invested with the Management of Affairs; and that this Naib was appointed at the Instance of the Governor and the Gentlemen of the Council. In the same Letter the Nabob declares, that he administers the Affairs of the Nizamut by his own Authority, and shall do so; and that he never can, on any Account, agree to the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Naib Soubahship.

The Governor General's Letter of the 10th October 1778, will shew the Company, not only in what Manner this important Business is likely to be conducted, and what Opinion the Governor General himself entertains of the Nabob's Capacity, but, that neither were his supposed Rights nor the Maturity of his Age attended to at that Time, nor his personal Inclination consulted; notwithstanding all his Claims to the Fouzdarry and Adawlut, the Governor's Pleasure divested him of both, and left him without an Option. These however are not the first and immediate Objects of Consideration; a new and unexpected Question is now before us. The Company's Orders are disobeyed on pretended Principles, which suppose the Existence of an Authority in these Provinces, independent of the Authority of Great Britain over them. That of the Court of Directors is the only Medium by which the Subjection of Bengal to Great Britain is held and secured: In Opposition to it, the Nabob declares, that he acts by his own Authority, and shall continue to do so. I do not know what Name the Law will give to the Disobedience of the Company's lawful Orders by this Board, or whether such Disobedience, directly avowed by ourselves, would not be less criminal, and in its Consequences less dangerous, than under the Form which it now assumes; but every Man must see which Way the present Example leads, and what Use may be made of it. If some vigorous Measures be not immediately taken by the Company to disarm the Nabob of all Means of Resistance, or at least to deter him from attempting it again, their Dominion over Bengal is not secure. I am sorry this unexperienced young Man should have been so unhappily advised: He does not know on what dangerous Ground he treads: He forgets himself too grossly when he disobeys the Company's positive Orders, and in the same Breath tells the Governor General, "You are the Master and my Patron, and I can take no Measure without first communicating it to you."

The Company will consider whether this avowed Distinction between them and their local Representative, be not something more than disrespectful; or whether their Injunctions would have been slighted, if they had been accompanied by the usual and proper Requisition on the Part of the Governor General and Council, which I repeatedly recommended without Success. Other and more alarming Reflections will naturally succeed. The ostensible Shadow of the Nabob's Authority may in Time find a Substance to support it. If the Spirit of Party and Faction, which prevails through every Department of Government, and through every other Rank of Life, should reach to the Sepoys, it would be a painful, but not a difficult Task, to count the few remaining Steps which lead inevitably from that State of Things to final Dissolution. At whatever Distance that Danger may appear to be; yet, if the Course we are in, point directly to it, I trust that the Wisdom of the Company will not deem it unworthy of their instant Consideration. The same Measures by which a great and eminent Mischief might have been prevented, will not be sufficient to correct or retrieve it.

I now move, that it may be resolved, that the preceding Letter from the Nabob is highly dissatisfactory to the Board; and that the Governor General be requested to signify the same to him, and to demand, in our Name, his immediate Compliance with the Orders of the Company.

Mr. Wheeler—I agree to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—If any Advantage was stated to derive to the Company by controuling the Will of the Nabob, it might be a Question with me how far the Occasion would vindicate the Compulsion proposed; but when no National Benefit can accrue, nor is stated, I cannot give my Assent to a very exceptionable Measure.

Governor General—I shall take another Occasion to deliver my Sentiments at large on the Subject of this Motion. For the present I shall content myself with declaring, that I have gone to the utmost Lengths prescribed to me by the Company's Orders, and by my Sense of my Duty, and that I will not go beyond them.

Mr. Francis's Motion resolved in the Negative.

Mr. Francis—Since it is resolved that the Board will not insist on the Nabob's Compliance with the Company's Orders, nothing is left for me, but to move, as I now do, that the Salary allotted by the Company out of their Revenues, for the Support of the Office of Naib Souba, amounting to Three Lacks of Rupees per Annum, or so much of it as was divided between Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, Rajah Gourdahs, and Sudder ul hoc Cawn, may cease, and be made a Saving in the Company's Treasury, from the Day when Sudder ul hoc Cawn died. It is the Company's Property; and if it be not employed in the Manner they direct, it should not at least be applied to any other Purpose.

Mr. Wheeler—I agree to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I must desire that the Fund from which this Payment is made to the Ministers of the Nabob, be stated by the Accountant General before I give my Opinion on the Motion.

Governor General—I object to the Question in the Terms of it, but I consent to wait for the Information required by Mr. Barwell.

Ordered, That the Accountant General to the Revenue Department be directed to furnish the Account desired by Mr. Barwell.

Agreed, That the further Consideration of this Subject be deferred till the Receipt of the above-mentioned Account.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 20th December 1779.

Read the following Letter from the Accountant General to the Revenue Department.

To J. P. Auriol, Esquire, Secretary.

Sir,

In answer to your Letter of the 15th Instant, requiring a State of the Fund from which the Salary allotted by the Company for the Support of the Office of the Naib Soubah, or so much of it as was divided between Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, and Sudder ul hoc Cawn, is paid, and what the present Situation of it is, I take the Liberty to inform you, that there is no Fund from whence those Salaries are defrayed; they are paid from the Treasury of the Resident at the Durbar, in the same Manner as the other Expences of Government under his Department.

I am, &c.

(Signed) Charles Crofts,
S. T.

Considered the Motion made by Mr. Francis in the last Consultation, viz. "That the Salary allotted by the Company out of their Revenues for the Support of the Office of Naib Souba, amounting to Three Lacks of Sicca Rupees per Annum, or so much of it as was divided between Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, Rajah Gourdahs, and Sudder ul hoc Cawn, may cease, and be made a Saving in the Company's Treasury, from the Day when Sudder ul hoc Cawn died."

Mr. Barwell—By the Letter received from Mr. Crofts, the Charge of the Nizamut Allowance appears to be defrayed by the Company; there was, I find, a certain Fund, under the Name of The Sinking Fund, established upon the Orders of the Company, limiting the personal Charges of the Nabob to the Sum of 16 Lacks, and reserving Sicca Rupees 15,81,860 per Annum; and to this Fund were charged certain Demands against the Mogul Government, which have since been totally liquidated, as will appear more particularly by a State of the Fund, which I have just now received from Mr. Crofts. If it was incumbent on the Nabob to discharge out of the Allowances made to him by our Government, the different Claims which appear to be stated in this Account, I do not see any Reason why the Company should continue burthened with ~~certain~~ Expences which arise solely on the Score of his Government, while those Means which he has ~~on~~ providing for the Whole from his established Allowances, remain unapplied. By the present Method, it appears to me, the Savings stated in the Sinking Fund are made totally at the Expence of the Company; because the Charges of the Nizamut, or Country Government dependent on the Souba, ~~instead of being~~ disbursed from the Sum allotted for the Souba's Government, are disbursed from the Company's Means, and the Claim on the Score of the Allowances fixed for the Charges of the Souba's Government, suffered to accumulate to the exorbitant Sum of 90,04,188. 7. 4. as a Debt due from the Company; this being the Case, there appears to me to be an absolute Necessity to correct an Error, which has led Mr. Francis into the Idea that the Disbursement which is made by the Company, is made by them out of their Revenues, for the Support of the Office of Naib Souba, amounting to Three Lacks of Rupees per Annum. While the Company hold this Fund of 15,81,860 Rupees per Annum, of the Sum of 31,81,860, which by Treaty they expressly stipulate to pay for the Support of the Souba's Government, it is not just that they should be charged with any Expence to be disbursed on that Account. I therefore move, that all Expences that have been incurred, or shall in future be incurred, on account of the Nizamut, or Country Government dependent on the Souba, be set off against the Claims of the Souba, for such Part of the Stipend or Salary allotted for the Support of his Government as has been retained by Government, for this and other express Purposes directed by the Company. I understand the Motion made by Mr. Francis to have for its Object, the compelling the Nabob to accept of Mahomed Reza Cawn for his Minister, or to reserve the Sum which is allotted as the Due of Mahomed Reza Cawn, to be disposed of by the Order of the Company. This Motion being made on the Presumption that the Nizamut Officers are the Officers of the Company, and in the Pay of the Company, can only be supported upon that Principle. I am therefore against the Motion.

Mr. Francis's Motion resolved in the Negative.

Considered the Motion contained in the preceding Minute of Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Wheler—I am against Mr. Barwell's Motion.

Mr. Francis—If I understand the preceding Minute, the Savings from which the Sinking Fund therein mentioned was constituted, viz. 15,81,860 Sicca Rupees per Annum (accruing since the Time when the Pension of the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla; as settled by a Treaty highly disapproved by the Company, was reduced to 16 Lacks by their positive Orders) do not belong to the Company, and that something will be gained by charging that Fund with the Amount of the Salary allotted by the Company out of their own Revenues for the Support of the Naib Souba. It is indifferent to me, and I believe perfectly immaterial to the Company, in what Way the Account is stated. The Charge, if disbursed, comes out of the Company's Treasury: It is immediately paid out of the Collections of the Division of Moorsheadabad, as the Company will see, by referring to our Letter to Mr. Martin, of the 11th May 1778. Am I to understand, that Mr. Barwell means to make the Company Debtor to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, for the Amount of the above Savings? If he does, I wish it to be declared so in plain Terms. They would by this Time amount, as I believe, to 112 Lacks of Sicca Rupees. If he does not, I cannot possibly discover the Meaning or Application of his Motion. As for myself, I deny the Fact, and all Consequences pretended to be derived from it.—On the Remainder of Mr. Barwell's Minute, there is but little to be said. Supposing it true, that a real effective Country Government now existed, and that the Affairs of the Nizamut did of Right fall under the immediate Administration of Mobareck ul Dowla (all which is so manifestly contrary to the Fact, that it will not bear an Argument) still it would not follow, that my last Motion ought to be rejected. The Sum which I propose to be reserved, is not divided among the Officers of the Nizamut: Mr. Barwell surely did not consider in what Manner it is actually distributed. Neither do I admit, that my last Motion had for its Object the compelling the Nabob to accept of Mahomed Reza Cawn for his Minister: It could not possibly have that Effect: The Point was already decided by a preceding Resolution. And if, as I conclude, the sole Object of the Nabob be to keep the Amount of Mahomed Reza Cawn's Salary, and to distribute it among his Family and Dependents, our taking the Money from him will not tend to compel him to re-instate Mahomed Reza Cawn, by which he would equally lose it. If that were the only Alternative proposed to him, he would certainly prefer the Measure which freed him from the Check of Mahomed Reza Cawn's Authority, and left every Thing in his own Hands.

I have said, the Mode of stating the Account proposed by Mr. Barwell, is a Matter of Indifference in itself; but as it implies a Conclusion in which I do not concur, I am against the Motion.

(Signed) Philip Francis.

Governor General—Mr. Barwell's Motion is literally conformable to the Orders of the Court of Directors of the 10th April 1771, which first directed the Suspension of One Moiety of the Nabob's Stipend, and which I desire the Secretary for that Reason, and for the strongest Justification of it, to enter after this Minute. I agree to the Motion:

Extract of the General Letter from the Court of Directors, dated 10th April 1771:

"Par. 38. Convinced as we are, that an Allowance of Sixteen Lacks per Annum will be sufficient for the Support of the Nabob's State and Rank while a Minor, we must consider every Addition thereto as so much to be wasted on a Herd of Parasites and Sycophants, who will continually surround him; or at least to be hoarded up; a Consequence still more pernicious to the Company: You are therefore, during the Non-age of the Nabob, to reduce his Annual Stipend to Sixteen Lacks of Rupees; and this we have the greater Reason to require, as we find ourselves subjected to the Payment of large Sums, due from the Revenues of the Dewanny before the Company became possessed thereof, on Account of the Navy Donation, and the Arrears of that to the Army; the Balance due for Restitution to Europeans, Colonel Munro's Demand for Two Lacks, the Debt due to Belackydah, and the Annual Sum of One Lack for Ten Years, which we have agreed to pay to Jugget Seat; all which press on us with such united Force, that our Treasury will be unable to satisfy these several Demands without wounding our Commerical Interests, and endangering our Possessions in Bengal. Being once relieved from this Load of Incumbrances, the Savings, we may expect from this Reduction, will properly become a Fund for Military Exigencies; which Fund, being solely applicable to the Defence of the Provinces, will contribute no less to the Nabob's future Benefit than to that of the Company.

"Par. 39. At a Time when every justifiable Measure should be adopted for availing the Public and the Company of all the Advantages we had in Prospect from our Possession of the Dewanny, we cannot but reflect on the Dissipation of a considerable Part thereof, by the Allowances to the Nabob's Ministers."

Ordered, That all the Expences which have been incurred, or which shall in future be incurred, on Account of the Nizamut, or Country Government dependant on the Souba, be set off against the Claims of the Souba for such Part of the Stipend or Salary allotted for the Support of his Government, as has been retained by Government for this and other express Purposes, directed by the Company in their Letter of the 10th April 1771.

Extract of General Letter from Bengal, dated 14th January 1780.

15 December. Par. 54. On Receipt of your Orders of the 4th February last, for the Restoration of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Soubah, we caused an Extract from them to be translated into the Persian Language, and transmitted, through the usual Channel, to the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla. By his Answer you will observe, that he has not thought proper to comply with your Requisition. For the Reasons on which he has grounded his Refusal, and our Debates and Proceedings in Consequence, we beg Leave to refer to our Consultations, and to request your attentive Perusal of them.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Public Department, 24th February 1780.

The Governor General lays before the Board a Letter from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, containing his Assent to the most essential Parts of the Company's late Order for the Restoration of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Soubah. The Governor General informs the Board, that he has urged to him the Necessity of a full Compliance, and that he considers this as already effected: He therefore proposes, that the Resident at the Durbar be directed to inform Mahomed Reza Cawn, that he is re-instated in all and every Part of the Authority vested in him by the Resolution of the Board of the 18th October 1775, and to receive the Salary of Sicca Rupees 2,40,000 per Annum, annexed to his Office by the above Resolution, from the 13th November 1779; from which Day the several Salaries and Allowances granted to Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, Rajah Gourda's, and the late Sudder ul Hoc Cawn, by the Resolution of the Board of the 11th of May 1778, are to cease and determine; and that he be authorized to prepare Khelauts, and invest Mahomed Reza Cawn with the same, in the Name of this Government, and that the Nabob be requested to bestow on him the same Marks of his Favour.

From the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, received 22d February 1780.

Your gracious Letter, informing me, that you had received repeated and positive Orders from the Company, about the Restoration of the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn, Bahadre, Mozuffer Jung, to the Office of Naib Soubah; and also respecting the withdrawing the Pension of the Two Begums, which had been assigned to them in the Month of January 1778, and containing your Advice on this Subject, is arrived, and I am acquainted with all the Particulars of it.

Sir! what Uneasiness and Sorrow I felt on learning the Contents of your Letter, are foreign to my present Letter. Before this I have made you acquainted with my Wishes on the Subject of the said Nabob's Restoration, and I have not yet altered my Desire on this Head: But as the Company's Orders are so positive, and since you, whom I have always considered, and still consider, as the Support of myself and my Family, advise me to comply with them, I am left without Remedy. As I have at all Times conducted my Affairs agreeable to your Advice, although it should not coincide with my Wishes, I have accordingly determined to obey the Orders of the Company respecting the Restoration of the Nabob Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Soubah, and to re-instate him accordingly in all the Rights of that Office; but will not suffer him to have any Authority in my Household Matters, which depend solely upon myself; and besides, I hope from your Friendship, that positive Directions may be given to him at the Time of his Appointment, that he act in all Matters by my Advice; and that my Signature be put to all Papers. Although I, from the Necessity of the Times, and in Compliance with your Advice, have agreed to a Thing which is full of Detriment to my Rights and those of my Family, and contrary to the Expectations which I had from the Company and the English Nation; yet, reflecting on the Justice and Equity of the English Gentlemen, I am confident, that whenever the Company shall send out Orders by which my Rights can be impaired, and should direct me to be put under the Authority of a Person who has no Right in the least to it, you will, upon receiving full Information of it, do me Justice, and restore me to my Rights, that no Disgrace and Dishonour may come upon me. In short, I trust all my Concerns to your Friendship, and hope that you will explain them in such a Manner to the Company, that Justice may be done to me. Further Particulars will be made known to you by the Letter of Sir John D'Oyley, who is my true Friend, and in whom I put entire Confidence. Whatever he shall write, consider as coming directly from me.

Agreed to the Governor General's Proposition; and resolved, That the following Letter be written to the Resident at the Durbar.

Sir,

The Nabob having assented to the Execution of the Orders from the Honourable the Court of Directors, in favour of Mahomed Reza Cawn, we desire you will inform him, that he is re-instated in all and every Part of the Authority vested in him by the Resolution of the Board of the 18th October ber 1775, and to receive the Salary of Sicca Rupees 2,40,000 per Annum, annexed to his Office by the above Resolution, from the 13th November 1779; from which Day the Salaries and Allowances granted to Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, Rajah Gourdahs, and the late Sudder ul Hoc Cawn, by the Resolution of the Board of the 11th of May 1778, are to cease and determine.

As it is proper that a Khelaut should be presented to Mahomed Reza Cawn, in the Name of this Government, on the Occasion of his Appointment, we direct, that you accordingly invest him with one; and make it our Request to the Nabob, that he will likewise bestow the same Mark of his Favour upon him.

Par. 12. We have the Pleasure to inform you, that the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla having signified his Assent to the Execution of your Orders, in favour of Mahomed Reza Cawn, by a Letter to the Governor General, we accordingly re-instated him in all and every Part of the Authority vested in him by the Resolution of the Board of the 18th October 1775, with the Salary of Sicca Rupees, 2,40,000, annexed to the Office by that Resolution, from the 13th November 1779; from which Day the several Salaries and Allowances granted to Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, Rajah Gourdahs, and the late Sudder ul Hoc Cawn, are to cease and determine.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Public Department, 23d March 1780.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have been honoured with your Letter of the 24th February; and in Compliance with your Orders, having previously settled all Points of Ceremony between the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and the Nabob Mozuffer Jung, I invested the latter with a Khelaut, in the Name of the English Government; and informed him, that he was re-instated in all and every Part of the Authority vested in him by a former Resolution of the Board of the 18th of October 1775, and that he was to receive the Salary of 2,40,000 Sicca Rupees, to commence from the 13th November 1779.

There is one Point which, as I could not settle, I must take the Liberty to refer to your Determination. You direct, that I shall request of the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, that he will bestow a Khelaut on the Nabob Mozuffer Jung, as a Mark of his Favour. I accordingly made the Request, and the Nabob would very willingly have complied; but as Mozuffer Jung could by no Means be induced to accept of it, I thought it better to let the Matter rest till you should decide upon it, than to subject the Nabob to the Disgrace of having it refused when offered. The Nabob Mozuffer Jung's Arguments were, that he had never before received a Khellaut from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla; and that to far from being a Mark of Honour to him, which he is convinced was meant by the Board, it would have a contrary Tendency: It was therefore agreed between them, to leave the Point undetermined till your Pleasure should be known.

Should it appear to your Honourable Board necessary that the Nabob Mozuffer Jung should receive a Khellaut from the Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla, permit me to request that you will inform me thereof, and also signify your Pleasure on this Subject to the Nabob Mozuffer Jung.

I must likewise request your further Orders respecting the Salaries of the Munny Begum, Baboo Begum, &c. ~~as they having received the full Amount of their respective Allowance, as settled by the Board on the 11th of May 1778, to the End of January of the present Year.~~

I have communicated to them your Orders, and demanded of them the Overplus, received since the Date on which you determined they should cease; but can gain no other Answer than that they shall address the Honourable the Governor General on the Subject, and wait the Decision.

I have the Pleasure to inform you, that the Whole of the Transaction was conducted in such a Manner as to give apparent Satisfaction to all Parties. The Nabob Mobareck ul Dowla and the Nabob Mozuffer Jung shewed every Degree of Respect and Attention to each other.

I could have wished to have had fuller Instructions from your Honourable Board, respecting the Mode of conducting this Business; but as I had not, I judged it best, and most likely to give general Satisfaction, to conform in every Respect to what had been formerly practised on similar Occasions; and I flatter myself that my Conduct will meet with your Approbation.

I have the Honour, &c.

PROCEEDINGS of the Governor General and Council at Fort William in Bengal, relative to pecuniary Allowances granted to Sir Eyre Coote in 1779 : Also, The Court's Orders of 18th October 1780 on the Subject.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Board of Inspection at Fort William in Bengal, the 12th April 1779.

READ the following Propositions of Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, referred from the Council to this Department.

Propositions from Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, referred to the Board of Inspection.

4. That the  $5\frac{1}{2}$  Shares of the Revenue do devolve upon Sir Eyre Coote, as Commander in Chief, from his Arrival at Fort William on the 23d of March; and that General Stibbert do only share as eldest Colonel from that Time.
5. That the 3,000 Rupees per Month, lately granted to General Stibbert for Contingent Expences in the Field, do devolve on General Coote from the 31st of March, as Commander in Chief.
6. That the 16,000 Rupees per Annum, for Secret Intelligence, do devolve on General Sir Eyre Coote, from the 31st of March.

(Signed) W. Bruere,
Acting Secy.

Sir Eyre Coote delivers in the following Minute :

The Reference I made to the Board on the Subject of General Stibbert's Allowances, which exceed mine by 82,750 Rupees per Annum, proceeded from an Idea that they were granted to him as Commander in Chief under this Presidency; and as on my Arrival at Fort William he could be no longer considered in that Capacity, whatever he drew under such a Denomination must necessarily be discontinued to him.

An Examination of the Minutes of Council has rendered me Master of the several Reasons assigned for granting him those Allowances; and my Researches on this Occasion have led me also to a Knowledge of the Sentiments which have been expressed by the Members of the Board in general, respecting the Insufficiency of the Salary allowed by the Court of Directors to their Commander in Chief in India.

From a long Experience of the Service, I am thoroughly convinced of the Justice of this Opinion, and I am equally certain, that the Court of Directors never meant I should suffer in my private Fortune by carrying on the Public Service.

You will please, therefore, Gentlemen, to adopt such Measures as may prevent any unnecessary Expence from falling upon the Company, and which will at the same Time enable me to execute the Duties incumbent upon me as their Commander in Chief, to visit the several Stations of the Troops, or to take the Field, if necessary, without involving myself in Expences which I should be unable to support.

(Signed) E. Coote.

Mr. Francis—I have prepared my Opinion on the Commander in Chief's Propositions, and beg leave to lay it before the Board.

My Opinion on the Amount of General Stibbert's Allowances is very fully stated in the Consultations of the 14th of May 1778, and I adhere to it in every Particular; I think they should now be reduced to the Establishment at which they stood during General Clavering's Command. This Establishment was formally referred to the Company, and confirmed by them in their Letter of the 24th of December 1776, Paragraph 49. I cannot consent to any Variation from the Allowances fixed for and enjoyed by General Clavering, without the Company's Orders. The very last which they have given us, and which Sir Eyre Coote brought out with him, direct "That Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote do receive the same Pay, as Commander in Chief of their Forces in India, as was received

A P P E N D I X, N. 8.

“ received by Lieutenant General Sir John Clavering.” If all the Allowances stated in the Propositions are agreed to, the present Commander in Chief will receive Eighty-two thousand Two hundred Current Rupees per Annum more than was received by his Predecessor.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Mr. Barwell—As I expect in a short Time the Orders of the Company on the additional Allowances drawn by Brigadier General Stibbert, there does not appear any urgent Necessity to proceed in the Regulation of such Allowances until the Arrival of the Company's Instructions. The Court of Directors, in fixing the established Salary for a Commander of all their Forces in India, have expressed it as a Salary; they therefore certainly intended it to be drawn free and disburthened from all Disbursements to be incurred in the immediate Execution of their Military Service. They certainly did not intend to put the Commander in Chief of all their Military Forces upon a meaner Establishment than the Provincial Commander in Chief at the other Presidencies, or General Stibbert, whose Allowance (the 49th Paragraph of their Letter of the 24th December 1776) is reckoned at 82,000 Rupees. These Facts are so very striking, that I cannot doubt of our having full Authority to regulate an Establishment for Sir Eyre Coote while in the Field, as may be suitable to his high Rank, and bear some Proportion to the Allowances made to the Subordinate Field Officers of this Government. I am for the Question, that a Field Establishment be formed for Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, Commander in Chief of all the Company's Forces, while in the Field.

Governor General—The Allowance of  $5\frac{1}{2}$  Shares of the Commission on the Revenues was not an Emolument annexed to his Station, but a Bounty specially and personally granted to General Stibbert by the Orders of the Court of Directors, in the 31st Paragraph of their General Letter of the 16th April 1777: It cannot therefore be taken from him but by the same Authority.

The Allowance of 3,000 Rupees per Month for Contingent Expences in the Field, was granted to General Stibbert by a separate Act of this Board. Though their Resolutions upon this Subject have been various, yet the Opinions of the different Members, respecting the Necessity of such an Allowance, have been generally the same, as may be seen by the Proceedings of the Board of the 29th February 1776, when this Subject was first brought under the Consideration of the Board, and for other Reasons rejected. For the Truth of this, I appeal particularly to the Opinions of General Clavering and Colonel Monson.

This was never meant as an Allowance annexed to the Station of Commander in Chief; for when it was first proposed, General Stibbert was not considered as invested with that Character; but to defray the unavoidable Expences attendant on the Command in the Field.

As the Resolution of the Board upon this Subject has been long since referred to the Court of Directors, with another relative Circumstance, which must force their Attention to it, and draw from them a clear Decision upon it; and as that Decision may be expected with the first Dispatches of the Season, I think it would be improper and irregular to make any Alteration in it at this Time.

I do not recollect any Order which authorizes General Stibbert to draw a fixed Sum for Secret Service. This is an Expence in its Nature variable; and the Court of Directors, in their Letter of the 24th December 1776, have expressly directed, that it shall not be fixed, but that “Colonel Stibbert” (that is, the Commander in the Field) “shall be paid such Expences as shall appear to us to have been necessarily incurred by him, from Time to Time, on that Account.”

I apprehend that this is a Service which will properly and exclusively belong to the Commander in Chief, whenever his Situation will enable him to assume the Charge of it; and that General Stibbert should be accordingly directed to conform to his Orders respecting it.

Respecting the incidental Charges of the Commander in Chief when he is in the Field, or, which in this Point will be equivalent, when he is absent from the Presidency, I shall premise the following Observations.

1st. The present Allowances drawn by Brigadier General Stibbert are as follows:

Pay as Brigadier General, £. 750 per Annum, or	—	—	7,500
Table Expences in the Field.	—	—	60,000
Contingent Expences in the Field	—	—	36,000

I do not reckon the Allowance for Secret Service, because I regard it as a Public Charge, in which he has no Interest or other Concern than faithfully to disburse what he draws.

2d. Of the above Establishment the following Sums have been allotted to General Stibbert by the express Appointment of the Court of Directors:

Pay as Brigadier General	—	—	7,500
Table Charges in the Field	—	—	60,000
Commission on the Revenues at that Time, as I find it computed in Mr. Francis's Minute of the 14th May 1778, C <sup>d</sup> 24,486, or	—	—	22,059

3d. The Salary allowed to the Commander in Chief, by the fundamental Regulations of this Government, is £. 6,000 per Annum, or Rupees 60,000.

4th. This Sum is expressed to be in lieu of all Charges and Contingencies in the Field; but the Court of Directors have since granted to their First Colonel on this Establishment, as I have remarked above, an annual Stipend of 89,559 Rupees; a Sum exceeding that of the Commander in Chief by nearly 50 per Cent.

But it cannot be supposed that the Court of Directors ever meant to invert the Order of the Service; and that in so great a Degree, as to make so partial and unjust a Distinction between an Officer, placed, not by Selection, but by casual Succession, at the Head of a single Establishment, and the Commander in Chief of all the British Forces in India: Therefore, when they passed these Grants to Colonel, now General Stibbert, they virtually established a Precedent for a proportionate Augmentation of the Allowances of the Commander in Chief; for it cannot be disputed, that his unavoidable Expences in the Discharge of the various Duties annexed to his Station, must greatly exceed those of General Stibbert in a limited Command; and I will presume, that had it been at the same Time proposed to ascertain the Allowances of the Commander in Chief, they would have augmented them proportionably.

On the premises Ground I move,

1st, That the Commander in Chief be allowed to draw for the Expences of his Table when he is in the Field, the Monthly Sum of 7,500 Sonaut Rupees, or 90,000 Rupees per Annum.

2d, That the Commander in Chief be authorized to draw for the following Establishment for himself and his Staff when he is in the Field, in lieu of travelling and all incidental Charges whatever, when in the Field.

Establishment for General Coote and his Staff.

12 Budgerows	—	150	—	1,800
30 Boats	—	40	—	1,200
10 Elephants	—	75	—	750
200 Coolies	—	5	—	1,000
28 Hircarrahs	—	7	—	196
1 Head Ditto	—	30	—	30
1 Naib	—	15	—	15
50 Lascars	—	8	—	400
1 Serang	—	20	—	20
2 Tindals	—	15	—	30
4 Hackeries	—	30	—	120
2 Gurrymen	—	778	—	15
2 Writers	—	—	—	150
Stationary	—	—	—	200

The Sums which I have annexed to the Establishment, are added merely to shew the computed Amount of it, but are not taken from any correct Authority, nor meant to be a Part of the Proposition. If this Motion shall be agreed to, it will be the Province of the Commissary General to affix the Rates of Expence to each Article; and I shall propose, that they be referred to him for that Purpose.

Mr. Francis—On the Principles on which the Opinion I have already given was founded, I have much more Reason to object to the Establishment now proposed, than to the Commander in Chief's first Propositions. All the Allowances granted to General Stibbert, as Commander in Chief or otherwise, and which I have constantly objected to as excessive, are to be continued, and at the same Time a totally new Establishment created, amounting to the Monthly Charge of Current Rupees 15302. 7. 3. or 1,83,629. 7. 0. per Annum. I am against the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I cannot concur in Opinion with Mr. Francis, that the proposed Establishment is a double one. I do not understand these Allowances are to be drawn upon any other Occasion than that for which it is expressed, for the General's Expences in the Field. There is no immediate Call, that I know of, upon the Commander in Chief to leave the Presidency; and before a Month is passed, we shall, in all Probability, receive the Orders of the Court of Directors, whether Brigadier General Stibbert is to draw the Allowances which he is now entitled to receive, or whether they are to cease: In either Case, the Necessity of the Establishment now proposed for the Commander in Chief of all the Company's Forces, is but a single Establishment. Nor is this a Monthly Establishment, or, if it was, is it of the Extent stated: It is an Establishment only to be drawn when the Public Service calls the Commander in Chief from the Presidency. That it will be drawn, I admit, but it is not probable it will be drawn through the whole Year: Besides, it is a Charge limited to a specific Sum, but does not necessarily include the Expenditure of the whole Amount. I agree to the Proposition.

Governor General—I agree to the Proposition.

Resolved, That the Commander in Chief of the Company's Forces in India be allowed to draw for the the Expences of his Table when he is in the Field, the Monthly-Sum of Seven thousand Five hundred Sonaut Rupees, or Ninety thousand Rupees per Annum.

Resolved, That the Commander in Chief of the Company's Forces in India, be allowed to draw for the following Monthly Establishment for himself and his Staff when he is in the Field, in lieu of travelling and all incidental Charges whatever, when in the Field :

- 12 Budgerows,
- 30 Boats,
- 10 Elephants,
- 200 Coolies,
- 28 Hircarrahs,
- 1 Head D<sup>o</sup>,
- 1 Naib,
- 50 Lascars,
- 1 Serang,
- 2 Tindals,
- 4 Hackerics,
- 2 Gurrymen,
- 2 Writers,
- Stationary,
- 12 Horses.

Ordered, That this Establishment be referred to the Commissary General, with Directions to affix the Rates of Expence to each Article specified therein.

Mr. Wheler having delivered the following Minute, on the foregoing Proceedings being shewn to him by the Secretary, it is entered in this Place for the Sake of Connection :

16th April 1779.

Mr. Wheler—The Arguments made use of by the Governor General, to evince the Necessity of an Augmentation of Allowances to the Commander in Chief when in the Field, are by no Means sufficient to obviate those Objections which, from a perfect Knowledge of the Regulations alluded to, suggest themselves to my Mind.

In the first Place, the Allowance to the Commander in Chief, by the fundamental Regulations of this Government, was not an Act of the Court of Directors, but of the Proprietary at large, convened together for that Purpose, and by their Orders communicated to their Servants in Bengal by the executive Part of their Constitution, the Court of Directors: Thence it appears to me neither optional in the Court of Directors to increase or diminish an Allowance voted to their Commander in Chief by a General Court of Proprietors; for if it was, with the same Degree of Propriety that the Court of Directors could revoke the Orders of their Constituents, by augmenting an Allowance fixed as above, to their Commander in Chief, they might revoke any and every Act of the Proprietors at large.

It naturally follows, that the Court of Directors do not in themselves possess the Power of altering the Allowance fixed to the Office of Commander in Chief; and it is equally conclusive with me, that no such Power can possibly be vested in our Board.

But, even admitting their Power, it is plain, from the Fifth Paragraph of their General Letter, dated 7th May 1778, by the Stafford, that it was not their Intention to deviate from the established Allowance granted to their late Commander in Chief.

Without entering therefore into the Detail of this Business, or expressing my Disapprobation of the Enormity of each particular Article of Increase, I shall content myself with objecting to any further Allowances being made to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, than the Court of Directors have, in the 6th Paragraph of their General Letter, dated 29th March 1774, directed to be paid to Lieutenant General Sir John Clavering; an Extract of which I shall here subjoin.

“ And that there be paid to him the Sum of Six thousand Pounds Sterling per Annum, in full for his Services as Commander in Chief, and in lieu of travelling Charges, and of all other Advantages and Emoluments whatever, except his Salary of Ten thousand Pounds per Annum, established by Law, and ordered to be paid him as one of the Council at Fort William in Bengal.”

Extract of the Proceedings of the Board of Inspection at Fort William in Bengal, the 22d April 1779.

Governor General—As strong Objections have been made to the Allowances which were granted, in the Consultation of the 12th Instant, to the Commander in Chief when in the Field; and as the Court of Directors may be desirous of forming their Judgment on the Propriety of this Resolution, on a Comparison of the Amount of these limited Appointments with the various Articles of fixed and contingent Allowances drawn by his Predecessors in the chief Command of the Military Establishment of this Presidency when in the Field; I move, that the Military Paymaster General be directed to compile, and lay before the Board, Abstract Accounts of all the Allowances and contingent Charges, of whatever Nature, which were drawn by the respective Commanders in Chief, since the Year 1763 to the Commencement of General Stibbert's Command; specifying the gross Amount of each Article drawn drawn by each Commander in Chief respectively, the Time for which it was drawn, and the Amount of such Parts of the general Charges of the Army as were appropriated to the particular Use of the Commander in Chief, as Elephants, Camels, Bullocks, Coolies, &c. appropriated to the Service of the Commander in Chief.

A P P E N D I X, N° 8.

Mr. Wheler—Agreed.

Mr. Francis—The Governor General's Motion for extra Allowances to the Commander in Chief, does not confine them to the Field; but expressly states, his being absent from the Presidency as equivalent, in this Point, to his being in the Field. I deem the present Motion superfluous; because no Conclusion in favour of the Allowances granted to Sir Eyre Coote can be drawn from a Comparison of them with the Abuses of former Times. A View and Consideration of those Abuses, I presume, induced the Company to fix a precise Limitation to the Pay and Emoluments of their Commander in Chief. The whole legislative Authority of the Company was resorted to and exerted in determining General Clavering's Appointments: It is not a Question of Money merely, but of lawful Authority and Obedience; and however it may be determined here, must necessarily be resumed and re-agitated in England.

Mr. Barwell—Very proper; agreed to.

Resolved, That the Military Paymaster General be directed to compile, and lay before the Board, Abstract Accounts of all the Allowances and contingent Charges, of whatever Nature, which were drawn by the respective Commanders in Chief, from the Year 1763 to the Commencement of Brigadier General Stibbert's Command; specifying the gross Amount of each Article drawn by each Commander in Chief respectively, the Time for which it was drawn, and the Amount of such Parts of the general Charges of the Army as were appropriated to the particular Use of the Commander in Chief, as Elephants, Camels, Bullocks, Coolies, &c. appropriated to the Service of the Commander in Chief.

Extract of the General Letter from Bengal, dated the 22d April 1779.

Par. 20. Our Proceedings held in this Department on the 12th Instant, contain the Opinions of the Members of the Board upon several Propositions which were laid before us by Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, respecting the Allowances enjoyed by Brigadier General Stibbert, and a Representation of the Insufficiency of his own Salary as Commander in Chief of the Company's Forces in India, for particular Duties annexed to that Station; and recommending to us to adopt such Measures as might prevent any unnecessary Expence from falling on the Company, and which would at the same Time enable him to execute the Duties incumbent upon him as their Commander in Chief, to visit the several Stations of the Troops, or to take the Field if necessary, without involving himself in Expences which he would be unable to support.

21. Referring you to those Proceedings for the Arguments used both for and against the Question, we shall only inform you in this Place, that it has been resolved to allow the Commander in Chief to draw for the Expences of his Table when he is in the Field, the Monthly Sum of 7,500 Sonaut Rupees, and an Establishment for himself and his Staff when he is in the Field, in lieu of travelling and all incidental Charges when in the Field, computed at Sonaut Rupees 6,634. 8. which Sum is not to be exceeded. And as the Articles of which this Establishment is composed are particularized on our Proceedings, it is almost unnecessary for us to remark, that the Contingent Bills which under this Establishment the Commander in Chief is authorized to draw, do not necessarily include every Article of Expence expressed, and that only such will be charged as are actually incurred for the Service.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Board of Inspection at Fort William in Bengal, the 20th May 1779.

The Military Paymaster General sends in the following Letter, and Account of Allowances drawn by the Commander in Chief, from the Year 1763 to the Year 1778.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, and Members of the Board of Inspection.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have the Honour to enclose you an Abstract Account of all the Allowances and contingent Charges, &c. which have been drawn by the respective Commanders in Chief since the Year 1763, as required in your Secretary's Letter, dated the 22d of April 1779.

I should have prepared this Account sooner, but the Perusal of the Books for Sixteen Years back, rendered it a tedious Task.

Calcutta,
the 8th May 1779.

I am,
with great Respect,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your most obedient Servant,
(Signed) William Pawson,

Governor General—This Account is evidently false throughout; not one of the Articles of Expence, which were enumerated in the Order to the Military Paymaster General, being fully inserted in it, or following in each Month's Expences, and many of them totally omitted. Many Months Expence were wholly omitted, and Advances which were made to the Commanders in Chief inserted as Articles of Expence; as for Instance, in the Account of August 1768 the Sum of 87,700 Rupees is set down as advanced to the Commander in Chief. I have selected the Period which I suppose to include the Expences of General Smith when he was Commander in Chief, which begin with the Month of July 1767, and end with the Month of December 1769. If the Expences of his Command, which ceased on the 14th November 1769, extended to that Period, the whole Amount set down to his Account by the Military Paymaster General is no more than Rupees 94,032. 10. 5. from which if the Sum of 87,700 Rupees be deducted, which is an Advance and not an Expence, the whole Sum of the Expences of the Commander in Chief during the Period of 28 Months was only 6,332. 10. 5. or about 226 Rupees per Month. As a further Proof of the Falsity of this Account,
I beg Leave to insert in this Place an Account Current, delivered in by General Smith himself in Consultation the 14th of November 1769; in which he states Advances made to him by the Paymaster of the Second Brigade, exclusive of his Drafts, amounting to 3,60,000 Rupees, and Disbursements amounting to 3,46,104. 10. 6. none of which appear in the Paymaster General's Account. I will not waste Time with further Comments on such a Performance: It would be an Absurdity to send it back for Correction. I shall forbear at this Time to take any further Notice of the Conduct of the Paymaster General in this Instance; but since he has shewn either such an Unwillingness or Incapacity to execute the Orders of the Board, I move, That Mr. Carmichael his Deputy be ordered to prepare the Account: And to prevent further Mistakes, I move, That in Addition to the Orders, he be required to add the Amount of Profits received by the Commanders in Chief from the Monopoly of Salt, and Commission on the Revenues; the former may be obtained from Mr. Killican, and the latter from the Accomptant General: And that he be likewise directed to specify the Period of each Commander in Chief's Expences, mentioning them by Name.

Extract Consultation, the 14th November 1769.

General Smith delivers in an Account of his Expences since he has had the Command of the Army.
Ordered, That the Account be entered after the Consultation; and that the Military Paymaster General pay the Balance.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Gentlemen of the Board of Inspection.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

In Obedience to the Orders of the Board, signified to me by your Secretary's Letter of the 20th, and received by me the 22d Instant, I have the Pleasure to inclose herewith a general Abstract of the Allowances drawn, and Expences incurred, by the several Commanders in Chief, from the 1st May 1763 to the 1st September 1777, when the Command devolved to Brigadier General Stibbert, by the Decease of Sir John Clavering; also Abstracts containing the particular Expences of each, as extracted from the Military Paymaster General's Books, with an Account of the Commission upon the Revenues as drawn by them from the first Institution of that Fund to the Period above-mentioned; with Abstracts of the Profits which arose to General Carnac from his Share, as Commander in Chief, in the Monopoly of Salt, as furnished me by Mr. Killican, Accomptant of that Concern.

I must remark, that from the vague Manner in which the Disbursements of the Army were entered in the Military Books previous to the Year 1766, many Charges must have undoubtedly escaped my Observation, from not having the particular Service for which they were incurred specified by the Paymasters in their Entries; and as the Commissaries of Boats who proceeded Mr. Cobham, have not distinguished those employed by the Commander in Chief, it is impossible to ascertain the Expence of that Article before the Month of February 1771; nor has the Contractor for Elephants, Camels, and Bullocks, throughout the whole Time for which the Account is compiled, ever made a particular Charge for those attendant upon the Commander in Chief, though it is well known that a large Complement was always allotted for his Service.

The Honourable Board will observe, that in the Abstracts N° 1, 3, 4, and 6, though I have made Estimates of the Pay and Batta to Majors Adams, Carnac, and Munro, and to Brigadier General Carnac (which does not appear to have been received by them separately, but which I suppose pose they have drawn in the Rolls of their respective Corps) yet I have not included the Amount thereof, being Current Rupees 52,768. 12. 8. in the General Abstract.—The Sums of Current Rupees 86,032. 12. 3. and Current Rupees 3,46,104. 10. 6. distinguished in the Abstract of General Smith's Expences by an Asterisk, besides other Charges, contain many Articles presented to different Princes as Nazirs: Whether they ought or ought not to be considered as foreign to this Account, the Honourable Board will judge. The Bill of Exchange for Current Rupees 1,00,000, drawn by Sir Robert Barker in favour of Soujah Dowla, was placed by the Military Paymaster General to the Debit of the Commander in Chief in September 1771. The Books of that Year not being found, I am at a Loss to know in what Manner it was balanced, and have therefore inserted it without Particulars.

The Board will take Notice, that from the 15th September 1765 to 27th January 1767, no Charge appears for the Commander in Chief; Lord Clive being Governor as well as Commander in Chief, most probably drew his Allowances from the Buxey.

Before I conclude, it may be proper to observe, that previous to Brigadier General Stibbert's coming to the Command of the Army by the Death of General Clavering, he drew considerable Allowances as Commander in Chief in the Field, which might with Propriety be united to those drawn by General Clavering during the same Time; however, as the Secretary's Letter only specifies the Allowance of the Commander in Chief, not those of the Commander in Chief in the Field, they are not inserted in the accompanying Account.

Other Articles might be added to this Abstract, such as the Sums charged in the Revenue Accounts for Bearers for them and the Staff, &c. &c. but as those Charges are not mentioned in the Secretary's Letter, they are not included.

I have the Honour to be,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your most obedient Servant,
(Signed) John Carmichael,
D<sup>y</sup> M<sup>y</sup> P<sup>y</sup> Maf<sup>t</sup> General.

Sir Eyre Coote—I agree entirely with the Governor General's Resolution:

Mr. Wheler—I think the Sums advanced by the different Commanders for the following Purposes, are improperly introduced in the Accounts before me, as they make no Part of the Allowances drawn by them, or of the Expences incurred on their Accounts; viz.

Payment for Secret Intelligence, for Dawk Charges, for Nuzzar Anas.

I have no Reference to General Clavering's Account, but by the Sum carried to his Debit in the General Abstract, the Charge of House Rent seems to be omitted.

Mr. Francis—I have not looked into the Particulars of these Accounts, nor do I think them at all material to the clearing-up of any Question that may occur at present respecting the Commander in Chief's Allowances. But as the Account drawn up by the Deputy Paymaster amounts to more than double that of the Account delivered in by the Paymaster General, I think the latter should be called upon to defend and explain his Account.

Mr. Barwell—I have not the least Objection to Mr. Francis's Proposition. The fullest Information that can be given on the Subject, will render it better understood by the Company, and place the Rights of the different Commanders in Chief in their just Point of View.

Governor General—I agree to Mr. Francis's Proposition, and shall reserve what further I may have to say on the Subject, to the Time in which it shall be again brought before the Board.

Resolved, That the Military Paymaster General be called upon to defend and explain the Account accompanying his Letter of the 8th of May, recorded on the Proceedings of the 20th of that Month.

Ordered, That the Accounts delivered in by the Deputy Paymaster General, be entered after this Day's Consultation.

No Charge for the Commander in Chief appears after the 15th September 1765; until General Smith took the Command the 27th January 1767; Lord Clive being Governor as well as Commander in Chief, most probably drew no Allowances from the Civil List; but though no Military Charge was made for the Commander in Chief during that Interval, yet General Carnac received his Share, as Commander in Chief, from the Profit upon the Monopoly of Salt for the Year 1766.

It is to be observed, that in the foregoing Abstract there is no Charge made for the large Complement of Lascars and Coolies usually allotted for the Service of the Commander in Chief. And as the Contractors Charges for Elephants and Camels do not mention the Service upon which they are sent, it is impossible to ascertain the Number employed by General Smith. No Charge of any Consequence appears for his Camp Equipage, from which I suppose the Article is included in the Military Store-keeper's Accounts. The Boat Bills are entered in such a vague Manner, that there is the greatest Reason to suppose many Charges for Budgerows, &c. which were actually upon Account for the Commander in Chief, have been overlooked, as the Service for which they were hired is not particularly specified.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Board of Inspection at Fort William in Bengal, the 19th August 1779.

Read the following Letter from the Military Paymaster General.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, and the other Members of the Board of Inspection.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I was honoured with your Commands, transmitted me by your Secretary in a Letter I received from him, dated the 17th June, calling upon me to defend and explain the Account of the Allowances and Contingent Charges of the different Commanders in Chief, which I laid before you in my Address of the 8th of May last, as you had observed that the Accounts prepared by my Deputy, similar to those you had required of me on the 22d of April last, amounted to more than double that of the Accounts which I had delivered in to you.

In Compliance with your Orders, I have carefully perused and examined the Two Accounts, and have formed an Account of Adjustment which will point out to you, how so considerable a Difference has arisen.

I also beg Leave to enclose you the following Accounts of Particulars referred to in that Adjustment.

First, An Account of sundry Sums omitted to be inserted in the Account of the Allowances, &c. drawn by the Commanders in Chief, prepared in my Office, inclosed in my Letter to your Secretary, dated the 8th of May last.

Secondly, An Account of sundry Sums entered in that Account, which does not appear to belong to it.

Thirdly, An Account of sundry Sums omitted by Mr. John Carmichael, Deputy Military Paymaster General, in the Accounts of the Commander in Chief's Allowances and Contingent Charges, which he drew out.

Fourthly, An Account of sundry Sums he entered in that Account, which do not belong to it.

Having now fully accounted to you for the Difference, I beg Leave to lay before you another Account of the General's Allowances and Contingent Charges, which you required, as I think it ought to stand. Your Honourable Board must determine how far it is right or not, as I have found it from the Adjustment above-mentioned, rejecting all the Articles which were liable to Objection, and including such as had been left out in the former Accounts.

I am extremely sorry, Gentlemen, that the Account I at first delivered in to you, proved so very imperfect and unsatisfactory; and the only Excuse I have to urge in my own Vindication, is, that when I was favoured with your Orders upon that Subject, I was engaged in other Branches of the Business, which required all my Attention, and I could not spare that Time that was necessary, for the Performance of so laborious and voluminous a Task, as the Perusal of the Disbursements of this Office for upwards of 14 Years past; and I naturally looked upon it as the Duty of the Accountant, being the fittest Person under me to undertake Business of that Nature; but could I have possibly conceived that such a Darkness and Confusion had run through great Part of the Records of those Days, and that the Task had been so extremely difficult and intricate, I would most undoubtedly have done it myself.

The new Accounts which I have the Honour to enclose you, consist of a General Abstract of the Allowances drawn by the Commander in Chief, from the 1st of January 1763 to the 1st of September 1777, with 8 Accounts of Particulars drawn by each Commander in Chief.

I have the Honour to be, with the greatest Respect,

Calcutta,
the 4th August 1779.

Your most obedient Servant,

Ordered, That the above Letter, with the Accounts accompanying it, be sent in Circulation to the Members of the Board; and that Copies of the latter be entered after this Day's Proceedings.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 1st November 1779.

The Governor General moves, That the Resident at the Vizier's Court may be furnished with an Account of all the Extra Allowances and Charges of the Commander in Chief when in the Field, with Orders to add the same to the Debit of the Vizier's Account, as a Part of his General Subsidy. The Charge to commence from the Day on which the General shall pass the Carumnassa, and to continue till his Return to the same Line.

Mr. Francis—The specific Amount of the Vizier's Subsidy is fixed by the Treaty, and cannot be increased without his Consent. It is true, we may extort from him the Sum now proposed, or any other Sum we think proper, but it is against Justice, and I am sure will never be approved of by the Company; though it is proposed, I imagine, with a View of appearing to relieve them from the immediate Expence of those extraordinary Allowances, which the Governor General and Mr. Barwell have given to Sir Eyre Coote, against their positive Orders, and against Law. The Vizier has not invited Sir Eyre Coote into his Country, nor do I know of any Service which his Presence there can produce to the Vizier, which alone could furnish a Pretence for demanding any additional Subsidy from him. I am therefore against the Motion.

Governor General—This is strange Language, and what, though not unprecedented at this Board, I did not expect on the present Occasion, and with so little Provocation. When a Member of this Board shall take upon him to reprobate a Motion, either from the Head of this Department, who is compelled to propose what he thinks the Necessities of the Service require, and has not an Option to withhold it, or from any of the other Members of it, with Terms of Reproach and Obloquy, and to charge him with Extortion and Artifice, he ought at least to be certain of the Facts on which he grounds such severe Charges. The Ground assigned for those in the preceding Minute, is, that “the specific Amount of the Vizier's Subsidy is fixed by the Treaty.” I will not descend to copy Mr. Francis's Language or Manners in my Reply to this Assertion; but I will desire the Board to recollect, that the Subsidy, the specific Amount of which is fixed by the Treaty, appertains only to the Brigade stationed in the Province of Owde, and that an additional Force has since been joined to this, for the Defence of the Nabob's other Dominions; the Whole of which has been, and continues to be, borne by the Nabob with his Agreement. I know not how to distinguish between that Portion of the Expence attending the Command of these Forces, and that of the regular Brigade, since they are now blended in One Command by the Regulations lately formed; and as this whole Force is stationed there solely for the Service of the Nabob of Owde, the Expence ought, in my Opinion, to be solely his.

Mr. Francis—When the Weight of an Argument is felt, there is some Relief in cavilling about Terms. As to Language and Manners, I allow that the Governor General is perfect Master of both, whenever he is Master of himself. I leave the Style of the Two preceding Minutes to be compared and judged of by others. In Reply to the last, I shall only say, that I think my Objection is not answered. The Subsidy for the Brigade in the Field is fixed by Treaty; that, I presume, we are agreed, cannot be increased at our Discretion; but if we can increase the Vizier's Expence on Account of the other Troops commanded by British Officers in his Service, according to our Judgment, I imagine it amounts to the same Thing. We create new Establishments, of which he is not apprized; we send Officers into his Country whom he has not invited thither; and we tell him, that all this is done for his Service, and that he must pay for it. I know not by what Limits that discretionary Power, if exercised by us in one Instance, especially of such Magnitude as the present, can be restrained; the Vizier certainly, who is the principal Person concerned, has no Voice in the Question.

Mr. Wheeler—I am against the Question.

Mr. Barwell—I am for the Question. I have impartially considered the Arguments for and against it, and I am convinced that it will both have the Approbation of the Company, and be vindicated by the obvious Necessity that requires the Presence of the Commander in Chief in the Vizier's Dominions. Some Regulations and Orders that the Board have issued, have indeed, in their Operation, checked a few material Defects in the First Plan suggested, for giving the Nabob's Troops to British Officers uncontrouled in their Charges. These Orders have reduced them to our present Establishment, have totally annihilated those Contracts for Horses, for Bullocks, and the Liberty of charging Batta upon the Receipts of Money and our Tuncaws, as licensed by the Minister of our Government, at that Period. The great Relaxation which has been, proceeded from that Irregularity and Want of Command which the First System could not fail to produce, can never be effectually remedied by any Superintendence and Controul, at the Distance of 900 Miles; but I flatter myself that a local and spirited Discharge of that Duty which the Commander in Chief seems determined to execute, will effect the salutary Reform so much needed.

Agreed to the Governor General's Motion.

The following Letter is accordingly written to the Resident at the Vizier's Court.

Sir,

The Commander in Chief having thought it necessary to visit the different Stations of the Army we judge it proper that his Extra Allowances and Travelling Charges should be defrayed by the Vizier

Vizier, from the Period when he shall cross the River Carumnassa until the Date of his Return to the same. We therefore enclose an Account of the Establishment fixed for the Extra Disbursements of the Commander in Chief, while in the Field, and direct that you add the Amount thereof to the Debit of the Vizier's monthly Account of Military Charges, as a Part of his general Subsidy during the above Period.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, at Fort William in Bengal, in their Public Department, 20th December 1779.

Read a Letter from Mr. Purling, as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I have been this Day honoured with your Letter of the Instant, directing me to include in the Vizier's Account Current, the Allowances to the General after his passing the River Carumnassa.

The Nabob being with me on the Arrival of the Letter, I made him acquainted with your Directions. He made no Manner of Objection to it; but on the contrary said, it was what he had always been used to allow to other Officers, commanding in his Provinces, in a more liberal Manner than was now prescribed to him on the General's Account; he regretted, that it was not left to him, as he would have made it double.

Resolved, That the following Reply be written to Mr. Purling:

Sir,

We have received your Letter of the 23d ultimo, in which we observe you say, that the Nabob informed you, "It was what he had always been used to allow to other Officers, commanding in his Provinces, in a more liberal Manner than was now prescribed to him on the General's Account." We desire you will ascertain and report to us, what the Nabob alludes to by this Assertion, as no Demand of this Nature was ever made upon him by our Authority, nor any such Payment or Receipt entered in his Accounts. We also desire to know the particular Allowances which he has made to Officers in that Station, and the specific Amount of each nominally.

Extract of the General Letter from Bengal, dated the 14th January 1780.

Par 59. General Sir Eyre Coote deeming it necessary to visit the different Stations of the Army, in order to form such Military Arrangements as the Service may require, and to attend to the Introduction of a new Plan of Regulations for the Improvement of your Forces on this Establishment, which has been recommended by him, revised by us in the Military Department, and proclaimed by our Authority, left the Presidency for that Purpose in September last, and is now at Allahabad or Lucknow.

60. As the Presence of the Commander in Chief will be mostly confined to the grand Posts of the Army in the Dominions of the Vizier, we thought it but just to include the Field Allowances and travelling Charges which had been annexed to his Station by our Resolution in the Inspection Department in our Demands upon the Vizier, from the Date of his passing the Carrumnassa, as the Vizier, exclusive of the fixed Subsidy for One Brigade stationed for the Defence of his guaranteed Dominions, is bound to discharge the actual Expences of all the Troops employed for the Protection of the Countries lying beyond that Line. We therefore wrote to the Resident to this Effect, and he has acquainted us with the Vizier's ready Assent to his Proposal.

112. Strong Objections having been made to the Allowances, which we informed you in our Address of the 2d of April last, had been allotted for the Commander in Chief when in the Field; and as you may be desirous of forming your Judgment of the Propriety of them on a Comparison of their Amount with the various Articles of fixed and contingent Allowances drawn by his Predecessors in the chief Command of the Military Establishment of this Presidency when in the Field, the Governor General proposed, and it was ordered, that Abstract Accounts should be compiled by the Military Paymaster General, of all the Allowances and contingent Charges, of whatever Nature, which had been drawn by the different Commanders in Chief since the Year 1763 to the Commencement of Brigadier General Stibbert's Command; specifying the gross Amount of each Article drawn by each ~~Commander in Chief respectively~~, the Time for which it was drawn, and the Amount of such Parts of the general Charges of the Army, as were appropriated to the particular Rise of the ~~Commander in Chief~~. Our Opinions on the Governor General's Motion are recorded in the same Day's Consultation.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council at Fort William, in their Secret Department, 3d April 1780.

Read the following Letter and Enclosures from Mr. Purling.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I have been duly honoured by the Receipt of your Letter of the 20th ultimo, requiring that I will ascertain and report to your honourable Board, what the Nabob alluded to by his Assertion that, "he had made more liberal Allowances to other Officers commanding in his Provinces, than was now prescribed him on the General's Account."

Enclosed I have the Honour to transmit you Copy of my Letter to the Nabob upon the above Subject, and his Answer, in which he accounts for the Delay which has happened in obtaining it.

Enclosures in a Letter from Mr. Purling.

N<sup>o</sup> 1. Copy of a Letter from the Nabob Ummeer ul Dowla, Cutubul Moulk, Mr. Purling, Behadre, to the Nabob Vizier, dated the 23d Zeheija, 2d January 1780.

I wrote you on the Subject of the Expences of the Nabob Inseem ul Dowla, General Sir Eyre Coote, Behadre, at the Time I received Orders from the Council, that from the Time of the General's crossing the Carumnaffa, his Expences should be written in your Highness's Accounts; and you said in Answer, that if the Council had written in these Terms to your Highness about the General's Expences, and had left the Power of it to you, you would even have given him more for his Expences than the Council should have directed, as you do to other Gentlemen. I am entirely ignorant of the Purport of your Answer, and request your Highness will be pleased to explain it to me.

N<sup>o</sup> 2. Letter from the Nabob to Mr. Purling.

I have received your Letter informing me, &c. (repeating Mr. Purling's Letter.)

Sir, I said that it was unnecessary for the Gentlemen of the Council to write thus about the Allowance to the General, as they never before had done it in any Instance. As the Friendship between me and the English Gentlemen is very intimate, I should of my own Accord have supplied the General with every Thing necessary. What you write that I should inform you of other Particulars, is not proper; but on the contrary, very improper. I never gave any thing to the English Gentlemen, and if I had given any thing I should never mention it. The Enquiry into these Matters is very improper in you. I have been long in answering your Letter, on account of the Fast of the Mohurram.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, 18th October 1780.

Par. 4. Your Proceedings relative to several extra Allowances granted to Sir Eyre Coote, have been but a few Days before us; by an early Opportunity we shall give you our Sentiments and Instructions fully upon that Subject. At present we only observe, that these Allowances appear to us in a Light so very extraordinary, and so repugnant to the Spirit of a Resolution of the General Court of Proprietors, respecting the Allowance made to General Clavering, that we positively direct that they be discontinued immediately, and no Part thereof paid after the Receipt of this Letter.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 10.

Extract of Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council at Fort William; dated 28th November 1777.

Par. 49. IN the 31st Article of our Instructions, dated the 29th March 1774, we recommended the strictest Frugality in your Approval of Salaries to be paid by the Company to the Officers of the Supreme Court of Judicature. Upon the Receipt of your Advices, specifying the Amount of Fees and Salaries appointed and annexed to the said Officers, we expressed our Opinion, that they were very high, but acquiesced therein for the present; suggesting, however, our Hopes, that in case any Alteration should take place, you would not agree to any Plan that should not be formed with more Economy, until you should have transmitted the same to us for our final Determination.

Par. 50. The 11th Paragraph of your Letter of the 12th of February 1777 informs us, that the Judges had sent you a List of additional Offices, and a Proposal to encrease the Fees to other particular Offices already established; and, to our Astonishment, we find that you have approved the Proposal of the Court, and granted your Consent to the Encrease of Fees and additional Establishments.

Par. 51. And here we have to lament, that the same Majority of Council, whose Conduct we have so highly censured, have again exercised their Authority in manifest Disregard of the Intimations given in our Instructions, and in Opposition to the most unanswerable Arguments urged to the contrary by General Clavering and Mr. Francis; who had also protested against the unreasonable and excessive Salaries and Emoluments, as established by the Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature for the Officers of that Court at its first Institution.

Par. 52. We observe it stated by Mr. Francis, that the Salaries of the Officers of the Court, exclusive of the Judges themselves, as they stood before the late Addition, amount to Current Rupees 1,23,436, besides their Fees; to this must be added House Rent, at the Rate of Current Rupees 4,428 per Annum, and contingent Charges, which are indefinite. It is now proposed to hire another House, which he concludes will not be done for less than 500 Rupees a Month; and he states the Expence of the new Officers Salaries at upwards of Thirty-two thousand Rupees per Annum, besides the additional Allowance of Fees.

Par. 53. When we consider this Profusion of Expence, we cannot but express our Concern, that the Power of granting away our Property in Perpetuity, should have devolved upon Persons whose Compliance to the Court has, in our Opinion, exceeded their Attention to the Interest of the Company.

P R O C E E D I N G S of the Governor General and Council, in consequence of the Court's Orders of 4th March 1778, for commencing a Suit against Mr. Barwell.

Copy of the 97th Paragraph of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 4th March 1778.

As Mr. Barwell has acknowledged that the Salt Mahls of Savagepore and Selimabad belonged to him, that he relet them to Kojah Kaworke, in the Names of Bussunt Roy and Kissen Deb, on Condition of his accounting with him (Mr. Barwell) for the Profits to a certain Amount; as he has also declared, that if a Wish of adding to his Fortune has warped his Judgment, he will nevertheless submit all his Rights in the Salt Contracts to the Court of Directors; and that, if in our Opinion such Rights vest in the Company, he will account to us for the last Shilling, and abide implicitly by our Judgment; we therefore think it probable that Mr. Barwell, on being acquainted with our peremptory Orders for commencing a Prosecution, may be desirous of paying his Share of Profits on the Salt Transactions at Dacca into our Treasury; but should this be the Case, you must be well advised before you agree to receive the Money, that the Acceptance of any particular Share of the said Profits for the Use of the Company, will not prejudice their Claims upon any of the other Persons or Parties concerned, for the Remainder of the said Profits.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 5th October 1778.

The Secretary informs the Board, That he has caused the Paragraphs of the General Letter from the Honourable the Court of Directors, dated the 4th March 1778, to be distributed to the other Departments, as follows.

To the Board of Revenue, Paragraphs, 77, 78, 79, 92.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 11th January 1779.

Mr. Barwell delivers in the following Minute.

Mr. Barwell—My Silence on the Orders of the Court of Directors, as far as those relate to myself, has hitherto been influenced by the same Candour that led me to instruct my Agents in England to bring the Question forward, relative to the Right of the Company to the Advantages I am charged to have drawn from manufacturing the Salt at Dacca, while Chief at that Subordinate. Sir John Day, whose Arrival was daily expected, I wished to wait for, in order to avoid the Appearance of participating this Question to a legal Decision. A few Days now must either land Sir John Day in Bengal, or bring certain Intelligence that he has been intercepted in his Passage, and is not to be expected, having failed in the Southampton in Company with the Nassau, Ten Days before the Besborough left the Coast, which last Ship has been arrived here upwards of Twelve Days.

To continue silent any longer might be interpreted a Wish in me to decline the Trial that, through my Agents in England, I have demanded; a Wish the most distant from my Thoughts, for I desire nothing more ardently. Confident, that whether the Right of the Company to claim from me shall or shall not be established, it affords me the only Opportunity I can have to vindicate my Fame, and dispel the Cloud Artifice has thrown over this Transaction.

Was I to answer the Claim of the Company, it would indeed relieve me from the Trouble of vexatious Litigation, but the End would not be answered by my Compliance; so far from it, the very Compliance would be urged as a Confession of Delinquency on my Part, and to proceed from Conviction of my having usurped on the Rights of the Company. Though I would with Pleasure sacrifice my whole Fortune to insure the good Opinion of the World, I would not, to purchase Ease to myself, forfeit that Opinion. If I have encroached on the Rights of the Company; if I have benefited myself at their Expence, the Fact will be easy to establish. I have no Choice left (for as no Merit has been given me for the Offer I made to submit myself to the Company, and as a most unjustifiable Advantage has been attempted to be made of that Offer, by first declining it and descending to Abuse, and then giving Orders upon it as if it had not been rejected, when called upon by me, in the Person of my Agent, to bring Home the Charge of Delinquency) but to appeal to the Laws of my Country; those, I flatter myself, will decide the Question unequivocally; and should their Decision deduct from my Fortune, I am satisfied they will likewise do Justice to my Character, which has been both unfairly and injuriously treated.

As the State of my Health has long since rendered it necessary for me to return to Europe, I have waited only for a proper Opportunity. The Season is now far advanced, and will not allow me much longer Time to take my Resolution (essentially as I ought to consider myself concerned in whatever Arrangement may have been made for the Constitution of the new Government.) I could therefore wish the Claim made upon me by the Court of Directors, in their Letter of the 4th March 1778, brought as speedily to Issue as the Forms of a Court of Justice will admit; and in consequence move, That it be immediately submitted to the Company's Lawyers, and that they be properly instructed to prosecute upon it.

Mr. Francis—The same Motive which appears to have had Weight with Mr. Barwell, has hitherto restrained me from moving to carry the Company's Orders into Execution; I mean the Absence of the Company's Advocate General, whose Advice and Assistance we are expressly referred to. I can have no Objection to the Motion; hoping still that Sir John Day will arrive Time enough to take Charge of the Proceedings. As an Amendment, or rather an Addition, to Mr. Barwell's Motion, I beg beg Leave to move, That it be extended to all the Persons mentioned in the Company's Orders above quoted.

Mr. Barwell—I could wish Mr. Francis to decline his Amendment, and to allow my Motion to stand simply as proposed; and I am willing to flatter myself with his Acquiescence. I do not imagine he thinks there is any urgent Necessity to induce him to insist upon it.

Governor General—I agree to Mr. Barwell's Motion. That introduced by Mr. Francis, I consider as a new Question, totally foreign from the original one; and I object to it for the following Reasons: The Prosecution cannot be conducted, either so ably or effectually, under the present Constitution of our Law Department, as by the Advocate General appointed by the Company. Should any material Defect or Omission be found in the First Process, I much fear, from the Prejudices with which the Acts of Part of this Administration have been examined at Home, that they will be impured to Design. Besides, I cannot agree to involve Mr. Barwell's Prosecution with that of others, and to make him the ostensible Instrument of them, by ordering them, in consequence of a Proposal made by him. Many Suits commenced at the same Time, under our present Want of Knowledge in legal Forms, would only serve to embarrass, and give Occasion for the Defects of which I have expressed an Apprehension. I do not think that it is so likely to prove the Case if the Suit against Mr. Barwell be singly undertaken; and before much Progress can have been made in it, it is very likely that the Board will be furnished with the Relief and Aids expected from Sir John Day's Arrival. His Passage has not yet been unusually long for the Season of the Year in which he embarked. Whenever he arrives, I will promise to be the first, if I am permitted, to renew the Motion now made by Mr. Francis.

Extract of Diary of the Commissioner of Law Suits at Calcutta, the 22d January 1779.

In Consequence of the Letter from the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, of the 19th Instant, gave the following Instructions to the Company's Attorney:

Mr. Naylor.

Sir,

The Honourable Governor General and Council having resolved, "that the Claim made by the Court of Directors on Mr. Barwell, in their Letter of the 4th March 1778 (Extract of which goes enclosed) be immediately submitted to the Company's Lawyers, and that a Prosecution be forthwith commenced against Mr. Barwell, in the Supreme Court of Judicature," I now transmit to you the Proceedings of the Board, and other Papers relative to this Claim, agreeable to the enclosed List, as Materials for instituting a Suit in pursuance of the Orders of the Court of Directors, and the Honourable Board.

I am, &c. &c.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Public Department, the 15th March 1779.

Mr. Barwell—I have already expressed my Wish, that the Claim made upon me by the Court of Directors, in their Letter of the 4th March 1778, might be brought as speedily to Issue as the Forms of a Court of Justice would admit; and on the 11th January last it was resolved and ordered, that a Prosecution should be immediately commenced to establish the Rights of the Company. As a Delay proves vexatious to me, in the greatest Degree, I think it necessary, after having waited Two Months, to remind the Board of their Resolution of the 11th of January, and to desire that it may be repeated, both to the Attorney at Record, and Sir John Day, the Advocate General.

Resolved, In the Terms of Mr. Barwell's Motion.

The Governor General—I move, that Copies of the 77th, 78th, and 79th Paragraphs of the General Letter of the 4th of March, together with the Report of the Company's Solicitor General, of the be delivered to our Advocate General; and that he be directed to conduct the Prosecution ordered by the former; and that the Secretary to the Revenue Department do furnish him with all the Evidences contained in the Consultations of his Department, which may serve to establish the Company's Claims on the several Persons who are the Objects of them, and at this Time subject to the Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

Resolved according to the Governor General's Motion. The Secretary is therefore directed to issue the necessary Orders to the Advocate General, and to the Secretary of the Revenue Department.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Letter, which he has received from the Company's Attorney.

To Geo. Hodgson, Esquire, Secretary.

Sir,

I must request that you will inform the Honourable Board, that in the Suit which I have lately been directed to institute against Mr. Barwell, it is the Opinion of the Advocate General that it cannot with Propriety be instituted against Mr. Barwell alone, but must be brought against all the Gentlemen pointed out, as well by Mr. Smith, the Company's Solicitor in England, in his Report, as by the General Letter of the Honourable the Court of Directors. It would not be sufficient that Mr. Barwell would stand forth, and take upon himself the whole Responsibility, if other Persons appear to be interested. It is a Principle in Equity, that all interested Parties must be before the Court, or otherwise they will not make a Decree. The Court will, in all such Cases, know who were the Parties engaged, and judge who ought to be the responsible ones. I beg therefore to be favoured with the Resolutions of the Honourable Board, whether I am to file the Bill against all these Gentlemen now in Bengal, who appear to have been concerned in the Transaction.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Revenue Department; dated 30th July 1779.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Letter, which he has received from the Company's Attorney.

To Geo. Hodgson, Esquire, Secretary to the Honourable Board of Revenue.

Sir,

The Bill for the Recovery of the Monies received by the Servants of the Honourable Company from the Salt Farms in the Province of Dacca, being now prepared agreeable to the Instructions of the Advocate General, and in Conformity to the Report of the Solicitor at Home, includes no less than Seventeen Persons as Parties, most of them resident at different Parts of the Provinces, and some of them Natives of inconsiderable Note; in serving the Process of the Court on whom, great Difficulty and Delay may reasonably be expected. And as I am induced to collect, from the original Instructions of the Honourable and the Directions which I have since received to expedite the Suit, that it is not only their Wish, but their Expectation, speedily to receive a Decision thereon, I think it my Duty to apprize the Honourable Board of the above Circumstances before the Bill is filed, and some of the Parties served with Process to answer.

We beg Leave to point out to your Perusal, the Minutes noted in the Margin; by these you will be informed that Mr. Barwell, after having waited long in Expectation of the Arrival of Sir John Day, moved, that the Suit which you had ordered to be instituted against him, might no longer be delayed, as the State of his Health had long since rendered it necessary for him to return to Europe, and the Season being far advanced, did not allow him much longer Time to take his Resolution. The Governor General deeming it of the most essential Consequence to the Success of the Measures undertaken with Mr. Barwell's Sanction and Concurrence, to engage his Stay for the Support of them, earnestly intreated him to lay aside his Intention of going to Europe; which in Consequence he has accordingly done.

Copy of a Letter from the Governor General and Council to Brigadier General Goddard, dated 20th April 1780.

Sir,

WE now transmit you our Sentiments on the Subject of your Letter of the 29th January and 17th of February, which have not been replied to.

We are much concerned to observe, that your Conduct, which has been so deserving in general of our warmest Approbation, should, in some Instances, be less satisfactory to us.

Our Orders respecting the Pension you had granted to Ragoba, were positive and peremptory, and we expected you would have literally obeyed them; but we are concerned to find, by your Letters of 17th of February, that you even intended to advance him 50,000 R<sup>s</sup> for the Month of March. We now therefore repeat our Orders, and positively direct, that not a Rupee shall be advanced in future from your Treasury for the Supply of Ragoba. We informed you, in our Letter of 29th November 1779, that it was with the utmost Difficulty we are enabled to furnish Supplies for your necessary and unavoidable Expences; and we still hope, that on reconsidering this Part of our Letter, you have determined to pay a strict Obedience to our Orders.

We are pleased to observe that you have proposed to make certain Regulations for the Diminution of your Expences: Your Example and determined Resolution to check every unnecessary Charge, will, we hope, produce the desired Effect.

Our Resources are no longer equal to the Payment of your Army, without draining Bengal entirely of its Specie; nor can any Acquisition on the other Side of India compensate for the Distresses which a Continuance of the War, at the present Expence, would bring upon the Company; we therefore most earnestly recommend to you to observe the strictest Economy in your future Disbursements; and we shall point to you such Savings as we think may be made without Injury to the Service.

The 1st Regiment of Cavalry is kept up at a very heavy Expence, which we think has not been compensated for by any Services which it has performed, or to be expected from it in future; we therefore authorize and positively direct you to reduce this Regiment.

The Commander in Chief has communicated to us your Letter of the 4th of March, by which we find that Major Fullarton, with Eight Companies of Sepoys, was in Garrison at Ahmadabad. We direct, direct, if this has not been already done, that Futtu Sing be called upon to fix a Subsidy for the full Expence of these Troops, and of any other of our Forces which may be detached for the Defence of the Countries ceded to him, independent of the general Plan of the Campaign.

A P P E N D I X, N° II. (A) (B)

We wish you to return a Part or the Whole of the Fort Saint George Detachment, as soon as the Season will permit, and you can dispense with their Services, as the whole Expence of the different Corps will fall upon this Government, which is (as we must repeat) unequal to so accumulated a Charge.

We are, &c.

Extract of Secret Consultation, the 29th of May 1780.

P R E S E N T,
The Governor General,
Mr. Francis,
and
Mr. Wheler.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute :

The Commander in Chief has repeatedly declared, That the Detachment now at Ghode, under the Command of Captain Popham, is unequal to the Services in which it has been employed, and of course much more unequal to that in which the Rana is desirous of engaging it; such has also been the declared Opinion of the Board. It is in its present Form, as it has already been observed, irreconcilable with the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Ghode; which apportions the Rate of the Subsidy which he is to pay for such Military Aid as is afforded him by this Government to Battalions of Sepoys on their present Establishment.

It will be recollected, that Captain Popham's Detachment was formed for a very different Service from that in which it is now employed, consisting of 2,000 Drafts, 40 European Artillery, a small Party of Horse, with Four light 6 Pounders, and a Howitzer. This Force was extremely well calculated for the Service originally intended to have been performed by it, and as ill calculated for the present. Instead of Four regular Battalions of 800 Rank and File, each with 8 Guns, the Rana has been furnished with 4 weak Corps of 600 Men each, 4 Guns, and a Howitzer, and a Body of Horse, which he neither wanted nor applied for, and which he will probably object to admit into the Account of his Subsidy.

On a Requisition from the Four Captains who commanded the Drafts in Ghode, to be permitted to encrease their present Corps to Battalions, the General observes to us, "that those Sepoy Drafts are supernumerary to the Establishment; and presumes Government has no Idea of augmenting their Number by completing them to the Strength of Four regular Battalions." From those Reasons, and from a Desire to contract our Expences by every reasonable Means, I submit to the Board the following Propositions :

1st. That Captain Popham's Detachment be relieved by Four regular Battalions of Sepoys with the Guns, &c. &c. viz. Three Battalions from Cawnpore, and the Battalion of Light Infantry from Chuckey.

2d. That Captain Popham, when relieved, shall march to Cawnpore; the Sepoys to be incorporated into such of our Battalions as may be in want of Men; the Cavalry to join their Corps; the Artillery to be disposed of as the Commander in Chief shall judge proper; and the Officers belonging to the Army in Guzerat to join it by such Routes as they shall judge most practicable.

3d. That the Staff Officers of Captain Popham's Detachment shall be ordered to do Duty, and to hold their present Appointments, in the Detachment which shall relieve them.

4th. That the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Brown, be ordered to march immediately to Ghode.

5th. That Major Camac be ordered to proceed immediately to Ghode, or wheresoever the Detachment may be which is to relieve Captain Popham, and to take the Command of it.

6th. That the Bullocks attached to the Guns of the Battalion and Stores, and to the 18 Pounders ordered to join Captain Popham's Detachment, be furnished by the Contractor from his present Establishment.

7th. That as a considerable Time will be lost if the Resolution of the Board respecting Major Camac and the Battalion of Light Infantry are carried into Effect through the official Channel of the Commander in Chief, who did not propose leaving Lucknow until the Commencement of the Rains; agreed, that the Orders to Major Camac and Captain Brown be immediately sent from the Board, and issued in General Orders.

8th. That a Copy of these Resolutions be immediately transmitted to the Commander in Chief, and that he be requested to issue the necessary Orders for forming the Detachment at Cawnpore, which is to relieve Captain Popham's.

I shall now beg Leave to offer a few Remarks on the Propositions.

By relieving Captain Popham's Detachment with Four regular Battalions, we strictly comply with the Terms of the Treaty and the Rana's Acquisition. It will prove a Reduction of our Expences, as the Battalions now proposed are at present upon a War Establishment, and the Subsidy will, or ought to defray every Expence of the Detachment. By employing Captain Brown's Battalion on this Service, we render a Corps formed for actual Service of real Use; at present it is in Cantonments, as the Purpose for which it was originally raised has been long since accomplished, and the Districts to which it principally appertained have been placed under the Controul of the Collector of Boglepore. Captain Crawford's Corps, which by the Regulations is to be completed to the Strength of a Battalion, which it may by a Part of the Drafts ordered now to be relieved from Ghode, will be fully sufficient for the Protection of Ramgur and the Jungleterry of Chucky.

With respect to Major Camac, I shall briefly observe, that I have recommended him for the Command of the Detachment which is to be employed in Ghode, because he belongs to the Brigade which is to furnish the principal Force of which it is to consist; because I know him to be peculiarly qualified for a Service of this Nature, to which such Requisites are essential, and because I believe the other Members of the Board entertain a similar Opinion of him.

Agreed to the Proposition recommended by the Governor General; and that the following Letter be written to the Commander in Chief.

Sir,

We have received your Letters of the 5th, 11th, and 15th Instant.

We agree with you in Opinion, that the Detachment now at Ghode under the Command of Captain Popham, is not equal to the Service on which it has been employed, and yet less to that in which the Rana is desirous of engaging it. From these Reasons, and from a Desire to contract our Expences as much as possible, we have resolved,

First. That Captain Popham's Detachment be relieved by Four regular Battalions of Sepoys with their Guns, &c. viz. Three Battalions from Cawnpore, and the Battalion of Light Infantry at Chucky.

Second. That Captain Popham when relieved shall march to Cawnpore; the Sepoys to be incorporated into such of our Battalions as may be in want of Men; the Cavalry to join their Corps; the Artillery to be disposed of as the Commander in Chief shall judge proper: and the Officers belonging to the Army in Guzzerat, to join it by such Routes as they shall judge most practicable.

Third. That the Staff Officers of Captain Popham's Detachment shall be ordered to do Duty, and to hold their present Appointments, in the Detachment which shall relieve them.

Fourth. That the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Brown, be ordered to march immediately to Ghode.

Fifth. That Major Camac be ordered to proceed immediately to Ghode, or wheresoever the Detachment may be which is to relieve Captain Popham, and to take the Command of it.

Sixth. That the Bullocks attached to the Guns of the Battalion and Stores, and to the 18 Pounders ordered to join Captain Popham's Detachment, be furnished by the Contractor from his present Establishment.

And we desire that you will be pleased to give the necessary Instructions for carrying these our Resolutions into immediate Effect; but as a considerable Time would be lost, were the Orders to Major Camac and to Captain Brown commanding the Battalion of Light Infantry, to pass through you, we have directed our Secretary to communicate them immediately to those Officers.

Extract of Minute of the Governor General, entered in Consultation of 12th June 1780.

Governor General—The Members of the Board have been furnished with Copies of the Letters which have been written by Moodajee Boosla and his Dewan, to Beneram Pundit, their Vackeel or Minister at this Government; containing, in a very long Detail, the Motives and Views of the Government of Berar. These I think improper to be entered on our Records, but I recommend them to the Attention of the Board, in their Consideration of the Conduct which we are to observe towards that Government.

From the Declarations made in these Letters, and from other Advices, it appears, that, urged by the Demands of the Administration at Poona, and the Menaces of the Nabob Nizam-ul Mullock, the Rajah hath levied a considerable Force, said to consist of 50,000 Horse, ostensibly destined to co-operate with the Peishwa, by invading Bengal and the Dominions of our Ally the Nabob of Oude. That One Division of 30,000 Horse, commanded by Chimnaje Boosla, the Rajah's second Son, has been accordingly dispatched to our Frontier by the Road of Cuttack, and has been some Time since arrived in the Neighbourhood of that City, where it is proposed that it shall canton during the Rainy Season.

The Rajah and his Dewan both profess the most steady Attachment to the Company, and a Resolution to preserve the Peace and good Understanding which have subsisted between that Government and the English, since the Period in which the latter first obtained a Share in the Political Concerns of these Provinces.

These Professions have been repeated in all their Letters, and sanctified by the most solemn Attestations. However suspicious such voluntary Protestations may generally appear, there can be no valid Reason for refusing a certain Degree of Credit to them on the present Occasion, as they are perfectly consistent with what we know to be the Interest of the Boosla Family, and with the Conduct which it has invariably observed towards the Government of Bengal, from the Accession of Jannoojee to the present Time. Its natural Enemies are the Chiefs whose Dominions border immediately upon the Districts of Berar, and lie in many Places intermixed with them; that is to say, the Peishwa, Nizam Ally Cawn, and Mahadajee Scindia. The Company cannot be regarded in the same Light, because the Line of Country which joins their Possessions to Berar, is so wild and uncultivated, that no Cause of Competition can arise respecting it; and the Territories of each in those Parts, yield little Advantage to the Proprietors. The Claim of the Berar Government to the Chout of these Provinces is so antiquated, that though it might be revived as a Pretext, it could never operate as an Inducement to invade them, on any other Principles than those which are the Grounds of original Conquests; nor could such an Enterprize be formed without great and certain Hazards, a Length of Hostilities, and a proportionate Expence, to which the Resources of Berar are inadequate, and the Exposure of its own internal Possessions to the Ambition and Rapacity of its Neighbours.

The Habits of a long Intercourse of Friendship, and the Benefits which are mutually and equally derived by both Governments, from a Continuance of the same Degree of Union, may likewise be assumed as Arguments of the favourable Disposition of that Government towards this, even under the present Appearances; yet the contrary, notwithstanding the strong Grounds which appear for this Conclusion, may be the Case; and even with the best Intentions, the Steps through which the Berar Government, in the Accommodation of an ostensible Plan to its own secret Wishes, may be insensibly led, may terminate in Hostilities against us.

From the Whole of this Review, it appears to be the proper Policy of this Government, to consider and treat that of Berar in the Character which it professes, but to guard against the Possibility of its becoming hostile to us.

This Policy, at the same Time fortunately coincides with the present Views of that Government, and may be made to promote them. The Rajah and his Minister have, from the Beginning, expressed the strongest Desire to become the Mediators of Peace between us and the Marattas; and this Desire is more strenuously urged in their last than in any of their former Letters; which may be accounted for on good Grounds; for it is certainly their Interest to be the Instruments of bringing the War to a Termination, by Means which must enhance their Consequence, and relieve them from certain Difficulties and Expence. The Rajah informs us, that he has written to the Paishwa, and offered his Intercession to accommodate Matters with us, confiding in the Assurances given him by this Government of its Willingness to agree to Peace through his Mediation, and to his Guarantee for the Maintenance of it; and has proposed that his Dewan shall come to Balalore or Benares, with Credentials and full Powers from the Paishwa, to negotiate and conclude a Treaty of Peace. Let us avail ourselves of this favourable Disposition; let his Mediation be accepted, and his Dewan invited to come for that Purpose to Calcutta. I am firmly of Opinion, that Peace can only be accomplished by this, or some other Mode that shall put the Negotiations for it within the Reach and immediate Controul of this Government: The Seat of War is not the Soil adapted by Nature for the Growth of Peace. Yet while every Means are employed to promote this End, we must not slacken in those which may give us an Advantage in the War, if our Hopes of a speedy Termination of it should be frustrated. On the contrary, this Season, and these Hopes, require a redoubled Exertion on our Part in the Prosecution of the War, as a necessary Concurrence with the Measures which we may take for the Conclusion of it. For this Reason I recommend, that the Order lately passed for the Reduction of Captain Popham's Detachment, be suspended; that the Sepoys of the Detachment be immediately formed into Three regular Battalions, and added to the Detachment allotted to Major Camac. Let it be given in Instructions to Major Camac, if he shall find it practicable, to march his Detachment, in Conjunction with the Forces which the Rana by his Treaty will be obliged in such a Case to furnish, directly to Ugein, the Capital of the Territory dependant on Madge Scindia. This cannot fail to divert him from the War in Guzerat, and by bringing it home to his own Interests, which have hitherto been wholly exempt from it, induce him to be an equal Solicitor for Peace, to which at this Time he appears to be the only Impediment. In effect, all Advices confirm the Information contained in the Berar Letters, of the Opposition of Scindia's Wishes to those of the Minister in this particular Instance. The only Obstacle to this Design, is the Force which the Maratta Government actually possesses in Calpee and Bundelcund. A discretionary Power should be given to Major Camac, to remove this by any Means, either by Negotiation or Force, which he shall judge necessary, and which shall not be likely to detain him from his main Object. From all the Intelligence which has been lately received from that Quarter, this appears to be no difficult Work, as the Maratta Power in that Country is not in itself very considerable, and those who possess it are disaffected to the Government on which they depend. The Purpose of undertaking this Expedition, and its Motives, may be communicated to Moodajee Boosla. He cannot disapprove it, nor is it likely to give such Offence to the Minister of Poona, whose Jealousy of Mhadajee Scindia is well known, as to excite in his Mind any new Objection to a Pacification.

By the proposed Plan of Operations, the Subsidy which we have hitherto received from the Rana of Ghode will cease; all that we can require of him will be, to join our Forces with the Quota of his Troops stipulated by the Treaty. It will therefore become necessary to provide a Military Fund for the Payment of this Detachment: I propose to the Board, as the Season is now approaching in which our Demand upon Raja Cheyt Sing, for the Payment of his Annual Contribution towards the Expences of the War, should be made, we do immediately instruct our Resident at Benares, to apply to him for the Sum of Five Lacks of Rupees; which Sum I propose shall be appropriated solely to the Payment of Major Camac's Detachment.

If the Board agree to this Plan, it will be necessary to make some Alterations in our late Orders, and these I shall reduce to distinct Propositions.

- 1st. That the Order for the Return of Captain Popham's Detachment be countermanded.
- 2d. That the Sepoy Drafts of that Detachment be immediately formed into Three regular Battalions.
- 3d. That the Three Senior Captains now with the Detachment be appointed to the Command of these Battalions, and that the Commander in Chief be requested to issue the necessary Orders for completing them with Subaltern and Native Officers.
- 4th. That to compleat these Battalions with their Proportion of Ordnance, Two 6 Pounders be added to the Guns now with Captain Popham's Detachment.
- 5th. That these Battalions be added to the Detachment already ordered to be put under the Command of Major Camac; and the Whole formed into a separate Corps, during the Continuance of the present Service.
- 6th. That in Addition to the Guns attached by the Regulation to each Battalion of Sepoys upon Service, Two 12 Pounders, the Howitzer now with Captain Popham's Detachment, and Two Cohorns, be ordered to join Major Camac's Detachment.
- 7th. That the Board of Ordnance be requested to issue Orders for supplying Major Camac's Detachment with the above-mentioned Ordnance, and the Proportion of Ammunition and Stores, agreeable to the Establishment, either from Cawnpore, or either of the Military Stations contiguous to it.
- 8th. That a Brigade Major and an Aid de Camp be added to the Staff of Major Camac's Detachment, in consequence of the additional Strength of it.
- 9th. That the Secretary be directed to draw out Instructions for Major Camac, from the preceding Minute.

I intreat the Board to give me their Support in the Prosecution of this Plan. If they have been from its Commencement averse to the War, let them join with me in prosecuting it with Vigour to its speedy Termination. If they consider themselves as free from the Responsibility of it, let them allow me to acquit myself of mine. I wish I could venture my Life upon the Consequences. I know the Man who is to conduct it, and am certain that if the Design is practicable, he will execute it to its fullest Effect; nor am I fearful of the Inference which this Declaration may draw upon me for the future Event of it.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

Minute from Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Francis, entered in Consultation of 15th June 1780.

Convinced, as we are, of the indispensable Necessity of bringing the present War, if possible, to a speedy Conclusion, we shall heartily join in the Support of every Measure which appears to have Peace for its Object, and which carries with it ~~any~~ reasonable Prospect of Success. On this Principle we agree with the Governor General, that it may be advisable to avail ourselves of the favourable Disposition of the Berar Government, and to invite the Rajah's Dewan to come for that Purpose to Calcutta. The Motives assigned for his late Conduct, and for the March of a Body of his Troops to Cuttack, are plausible at least, and appear to be confirmed by the Delays with which it has been attended, and by their present Inactivity. The Desire he professes of becoming the Mediator of Peace between us and the Marattas, seems likely to be sincere; because we believe it to be founded in the Consideration of his own Interest, and because it is conformable to the Language which he has uniformly held to us. We do not mean to say that Evidence of this Nature is to be implicitly depended on; but it is now so essentially our Interest to secure the Friendship of Moodajee Boosla, or at least to prevent his acting against us, that we should think it imprudent to discover any Doubt of his Sincerity. It cannot be very difficult to maintain the Appearances of the most perfect Confidence in his good Faith, without suffering it to mislead us, or neglecting any of these Precautions which our Situation dictates, and which are never more necessary perhaps than in the Midst of Security. We therefore agree with the Governor General in this Part of his Minute. But we find, with extreme Concern, that it is impossible for us to give our Assent to the subsequent Proposition. The Reasons for which we object to it shall be stated briefly, without reviving former Arguments, or reflecting on any thing that is past. Taking our Situation as it stands, we declare it to be our most deliberate Opinion, that a Peace is indispensably necessary to save the India Company, and every Interest connected with theirs, from the greatest Distress, if not from certain Ruin; and that at whatever Distance this Object may be, it is not practicable for us to continue the War on any Terms, without a very considerable Reduction in the Expence of conducting it. In the former of these Opinions we have never varied; in the latter we are sure of the Governor General's Concurrence. On this general Ground we object to the proposed Measure,

1st. Because it reverses a Resolution very lately past with the unanimous Approbation of the Board, for recalling and reducing Captain Popham's Detachment, the extra Expence of which, beyond our regular Establishment, amounting to C<sup>r</sup> R<sup>s</sup> 91,332 a Month, would be saved, and their Place supplied by Four regular Battalions.

2d. Because, by the proposed Plan of Operations, the Subsidy to be paid by the Rana of Ghode, and of which we believe no Part has hitherto been received, is to cease, and our Resources so far forth diminished.

3d. Because, at a Time when it is admitted that the War cannot be continued without a very considerable Reduction of Expence, we cannot, consistently with that Principle, engage in a Measure which supposes the contrary to be true, and which in our Judgment leads to an Addition of Expence which we cannot limit when once it is begun, and which we are very sure this Government is not in a Condition to support. We have seen into what enormous Charges we have been drawn by the Detachment under General Goddard, the Strength of which does not exceed that proposed to be placed under Major Camac. We have seen the Expence of a Detachment of only Two thousand Drafts, under Captain Popham, swelled to more than Ninety-one thousand Rupees a Month; and we firmly believe it to be an Evil inseparable from distant Military Operations in this Country, that the Charge of them can neither be limited nor controuled. We do not mean to dispute the Propriety of the Governor's personal Confidence in Major Camac; but in our Minds, such implicit Confidence cannot exist without Experience, much less in Opposition to that with which the Conduct of similar Expeditions has already furnished us. In this Observation we allude only to the Expence that attends them.

4th. Because the proposed Anticipation of the Demand of Five Lacks from the Rajah of Benares, and the sole Appropriation of it to this Service, is no Relief of Expence, or Increase of Resource, since the above Five Lacks make Part of our general Estimate of Resources for the Service of the current Year; and if applied to any Service not provided for in the same Estimate, will leave a Deficiency which must be made good out of some other Fund.

5th. Because it appears to us, that the State of our Treasury is not in any Degree equal to the existing and increasing Demands which press upon this Government. The apparent Balance on Monday last, including the Deposit in the New Fort (without which we should consider ourselves as totally unprovided for Measures of immediate Defence, if such should become necessary) amounted to no more than C<sup>r</sup> R<sup>s</sup> 42,09,443. Deduct the Deposit in the New Fort, and let the Account be stated as it will then stand, and as it ought to stand!

Deposits of private Property —	14,87,958	Remainder, after deducting the Sum
Amount of Orders unpaid —	20,86,949	in the New Fort — — 6,13,453
Bills drawn by General Goddard, unpaid — —	1,73,999	Balance, or actual Debt against the Treasury — — — 31,35,453
Balance	31,35,453

This View of our Situation undoubtedly leads to other important Conclusions. That to which we mean to confine it at present, is, that we are in no Condition to undertake new Expences; nor, if our Treasury were better supplied than it is, should we think it prudent to expose ourselves to the Demands of another Expedition, in the Plan of which we see no essential Difference from that which still exists under General Goddard.

6th. Because, admitting that all the preceding Objections on the Head of Expence could be answered or removed, we are not satisfied that the Plan itself would either end where it professes to be directed, or that this is the Season in which it ought to be attempted on its own avowed Principles. The declared Purpose of the Expedition is, to invade Madajee Scindia's Country, and to attack his Capital, Ugein, in order to divert him from the War in Guzerat, to the Defence of his own Territories. We understand and admit the Force of this Argument, though in our Judgment overbalanced by other Considerations; independent of which, we should only object to the Time chosen for the Expedition, and to the unnecessary Charge of keeping up Captain Popham's Detachment. If it be meant to withdraw Madajee Scindia from the War in Guzerat, and to distract his Force and Attention from that Country to his own, it seems to us that the Attempt should be made as soon as possible after October, when General Goddard might be at Liberty to co-operate with it, and to favour its Success by a similar Diversion on his Side;—not in the Midst of the Rains, when General Goddard's Army is in Cantonments, and unable to take the Field. The manifest Advantage of having the Two Armies acting in concert, and dividing the Attention of the Enemy between them, would be lost, if they were not both in the Field at the same Time. But this, and every other Objection to the Measure, is in fact removed by the Instructions which immediately follow it, and which in our Opinion are wholly inconsistent with the first proposed Object. Major Camac is to be intrusted with a discretionary Power to remove the Force which the Maratta Government possesses in Calpee or Bundelcund (and which is said to be the only Obstacle to the main Design) by any Means, either by Negotiation or Force. If it be true, as we are sure it is, "that the Maratta Power in that Country is not very considerable, and that they who possess it are disaffected to the Government on which they depend," such a Power can form no Obstacle to the Execution of the main Design; nor can we ever admit of the Validity of such a Pretence for invading Bundelcund, which we conclude would be the first, if not the only Effect of the Expedition. At all Events, the Latitude given to Major Camac leaves him at Liberty to pursue whatever Plan he thinks proper. But if, instead of proceeding towards Madajee Scindia, the March of this Detachment should once be directed, by the opposite Route, to the Capital of Bundelcund, he will naturally conclude that the Possession of this Country is our true and only Object; of course he will have no Apprehension for the Safety of his own.

For these Reasons we are of Opinion, that the Resolution of the Board, of the 29th of May, for the Recall and Reduction of Captain Popham's Detachment, &c. should not be suspended.

Minute of the Governor General, entered in Consultation 19th of June 1780.

Governor General—The Majority of the Board having rejected all the Propositions which were contained in my Minute of the 12th Instant, excepting the 6th and 7th, which do not appear to have been included in their Exception to the general Propositions, I now beg Leave to repeat them; and as it appears from the accompanying Letter from Captain Brown, that he has left his Field Pieces and Tumbrils behind him, I shall propose, 1st. That Captain Brown's Battalion, on its Arrival at Cawnpore, be compleated with its Proportion of Field Pieces, Ammunition, and Stores, from the Ordnance at that Station.

2d. That,

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> II. (E) (F)

2d. That, in Addition to the Guns attached to the Battalions of Major Camac's Detachment by the Regulations, Two 12 Pounders, the Howitzer with Captain Popham's Detachment, and Two Cohorns, be ordered to join it.

3d. That the Board of Ordnance be requested to issue Orders for supplying Major Camac's Detachment with the above-mentioned Ordnance, and their Proportion of European Artillery, Lascars, Ammunition, and Stores, agreeable to the Establishment, either from Cawnpore or the Military Stations contiguous to it.

Agreed.

Instructions proposed by the Governor General, 19th June 1780.

To Major Camac.

Sir,

Having appointed you to the Command of a Detachment ordered to be formed of Four Battalions of Sepoys, Three of which are to be furnished from the Army stationed at Cawnpore, and the Fourth, the Battalion of Light Infantry commanded by Captain James Brown, we direct you to proceed to Cawnpore, or to the Station of that Detachment wherever it may be, and to conduct it without Loss of Time into the Dominions of the Ranna of Ghohid, there to relieve the Corps now under the Command of Captain Popham in that Quarter.

The Ranna of Ghohid having, in virtue of a Treaty lately concluded between him and this Government, required the Aid of a Military Force on the Part of this Government, for the Defence of his Country against the Marattas, who had invaded it, Captain Popham was appointed to this Service; and to this you now succeed. We therefore direct, that you comply with such Requisitions as shall be made to you by the Ranna for this, and for such other Conditions as he is entitled to demand by the Treaty, and shall be practicable with the Force under your Command.

Whenever the Ranna shall have no further Service for the Detachment, and shall dismiss it in the Manner prescribed by the Treaty, and no Occasion shall present itself for the Employment of the Detachment in promoting the general Success of the War in which we are engaged with the Maratta State, you are forthwith to return with it into the Dominions of the Nabob of Owd, and there wait for further Orders; and if, before your March into Ghohid, you shall receive an Intimation from him in Writing, that he shall not require the Assistance of your Detachment, you will in like Manner suspend your March, and wait for further Orders.

But as the first Design of this Government in the Alliance lately formed with the Ranna of Ghohid, was to distress the Maratta State, by a Diminution of their Power, Revenue, and Influence, and, by uniting with other Powers in Enmity with them, to divert and weaken their Operations; and as the Maratta Dominions which lie contiguous to Ghohid, appertain to Mahajee Sindea and Tuccooje Hoolkar, the Two principal Rulers of that State, and the Leaders of the Army employed to oppose General Goddard, we authorize and instruct you, in case you shall judge it practicable and expedient, to carry the War immediately into that Quarter, requiring from the Ranna the Proportion of Cavalry stipulated by the Treaty to be furnished by him for such a Service; or in case of his Inability, whether from the Season of the Year, or from whatever other Cause, to fulfil this Condition in its compleat Extent, to require and accept from him such other Aid, in furnishing Provisions, and in forming Magazines of Grain, and other Means of Subsistence and Communication, as you shall judge equivalent to it.

For your Guidance in maintaining the Relation of your Command to the Ranna of Ghohid, we herewith deliver to you a Copy of the Treaty executed with him; and we require and enjoin you to conform to it with the most scrupulous and literal Exactness.

If any Case shall occur, for which we have not provided by these Instructions, and which shall not be contrary to them, we empower you to act therein according to your own Judgment; in all others, these Instructions are positive, and must be implicitly obeyed.

The Commissary General having drawn out an Establishment for your Detachment, which meets with our Approbation, we transmit it to you, desiring at the same Time that you do not on any Account suffer the smallest Alteration or Deviation to be made in it.

We are, &c.

Minute from Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheeler, entered in Consultation of 19th June 1786.

The First, Second, and Third Paragraphs of the proposed Instructions to Major Camac, being conformable to the Treaty concluded with the Rana of Ghode, we acquiesce therein. But we think it should be added, that, before our Troops depart from the Rana's Country, the full Amount of the Subsidy due for their Pay, should be demanded and received. But we cannot consent to vest Major Camac with the Powers mentioned in the 4th Paragraph; viz. "To carry the War immediately into the Dominions of Tuccajee and Scindia, if he shall judge it practicable and expedient; and to accept of such other Aid from the Rana of Ghode, as he shall judge equivalent to the Body of Ten thousand Horse, which the Rana is obliged by Treaty to furnish." The Latitude given in the First Article, leaves it in Effect to Major Camac to carry the Company's Arms wherever he thinks proper. The Second impowers him to annul the most important and apparently the most useful Article of the Treaty. In both Instances the Government relinquishes its Controul over a Measure, which may lead us much farther than we are aware of, and be attended with the most serious Consequences. We have already observed, that an Attempt to invade Scindia's Country, if advisable, should be made at a Time when General Goddard can co-operate with it, and support it. This cannot be done till towards the Conclusion of the Rains; consequently there is Time sufficient to concert a Plan of Operations with the Rana of Ghode, and to ascertain what Assistance may be depended on from him. The Board will then have proper Materials before themselves, to judge how far it may be safe or expedient to embark in the Measure, supposing that a Peace, which is our first Object, should not be effected in the Interim. For these Reasons we cannot assent to the Propositions contained in the 4th Paragraph.

We acquiesce in the 5th.

The Powers mentioned in the 6th, seem to fall under the same Observations which have occurred to us on those contained in the 4th.

Instructions resolved on by the Majority of the Board 19th June 1780.

To Major Camac.

Sir,

Our Secretary has already notified to you, your Appointment to the Command of a Detachment ordered on Service with the Rana of Ghode. This Detachment is to be formed of Three Battalions of Sepoys from the 2d Brigade, stationed at Cawnpore, the Battalion of light Infantry commanded by Captain Brown, and a Party of Artillery, to consist of Half a Company of Europeans and Half a Battalion of Lascars.

In Addition to the Guns attached to the above Battalions by the Regulations of the Army, we have ordered that your Detachment should be supplied with Two 12 Pounders, a Howitzer, Two Cohorns, and a proper Quantity of Ammunition and Stores.

We direct that you immediately proceed to Cawnpore, or to the Station of your Detachment wherever it may be, and forthwith conduct it into the Dominions of the Rana of Ghode, there to relieve the Corps now under the Command of Captain Popham in that Quarter.

The Rana of Ghohud having, in virtue of a Treaty lately concluded between him and this Government, required the Aid of a Military Force on our Part for the Defence of his Country against the Marattas, who had invaded it, Captain Popham was appointed to this Service; and to this you now succeed. We therefore direct, that you comply with such Requisitions as shall be made to you by the Rana for this, and for such other Conditions as he is entitled to demand by the Treaty, and you shall deem practicable with the Force under your Command.

Whenever the Rana shall notify to you that he has no further Service for the Detachment under your Command, and shall dismiss it in the Manner prescribed by Treaty, and no Occasion shall present itself for the Employment of it, in promoting the general Success of the War in which we are engaged with the Maratta State, you are to signify to him in Writing, your Intention to depart from his Country, demanding the full Amount of the Subsidy that may be due; which having received, you will immediately return with your Detachment into the Territories of the Nabob of Oude, and there wait for further Orders; but in case of a Refusal on his Part to discharge the Subsidy agreeable to the Terms of the Treaty, we desire that you will immediately signify the same to us, and not depart until you receive our Answer.

A P P E N D I X, N° II. (H) (I)

If before your march into Ghohud you shall receive any Information from the Rana, that he shall not require the Assistance of your Detachment, you will in like Manner suspend your March, and wait our further Instructions.

For your Guidance in maintaining the Relation of your Command to the Rana of Ghode, we herewith deliver to you a Copy of the Treaty executed with him, and we require and enjoin you to conform to it with the most scrupulous and literal Exactness.

The Commissary General having drawn out an Establishment for your Detachment, which meets with our Approbation, we transmit it to you, desiring at the same Time that you do not on any Account suffer the smallest Alteration or Deviation to be made in it.

Copy of a Minute delivered in by the Governor General, and recorded in Consultation 26th of June 1780.

Governor General—Two Minutes have been lately delivered by Messrs. Francis and Wheler, bearing their joint Signatures, in answer to Propositions made by me to the Board.

It is not my Intention to follow these Minutes through every Assertion of Facts, and every Deduction of Argument. I shall only reply to such Points as have a Relation to my present Purpose, which is, still to insist on the Necessity of carrying on the War into the Districts appertaining to Mahadagee Sindia; and to this I entreat the Board to give me their Attention.

Except the Article of Expence, I can scarcely collect the Objections which are made to it.

It never was my Intention to employ Major Camac in an Invasion of Boondelcund, nor suffer, if it were attempted on the Grounds of his Instructions, such a Waste of the Time required for the first and essential Object of his Operations.

The Ends proposed by this Expedition are Two immediate: First, to divide the Maratta Strength, and divert it from General Goddard; Second, to make the principal Agent of the War the principal Sufferer by it; and One ultimately, Peace. To this it is objected, that “the manifest Advantage of having Two Armies acting in concert, and dividing the Attention of the Enemy between them, would be lost, if they were not both in the Field at the same Time.” This is by no Means a fair Conclusion; because it supposes the Enemy to keep the Field, and our principal Army to be inactive. The Reverse is the most probable, and my Purpose will be equally answered, whether both remain in Quarters, and Major Camac be suffered to prosecute the Plan assigned him without Opposition; or whether the whole Force of the Enemy be directed against him, and General Goddard left at Liberty to act in the Prosecution of his. The Rainy Season is no Impediment to our Troops, but a great one to the Maratta, which consist only of Cavalry; and if the Measure which I have proposed be even now agreed to, I should hope to bound it with that Season, or to effect every material Purpose of it within the Rains.

The Design of the proposed Instructions to Major Camac has been misunderstood, and the intended Sense of it inverted. It is not meant “to give Major Camac a Latitude to carry the Company’s Arms wherever he thinks proper;” but to order him to carry the Company’s Arms to a prescribed Scene of Action unless he thinks it improper.

The Objection made to the Expence is a material one; but a vigorous Exertion cannot be made without Expence; nor can the War be either concluded honourably, or prosecuted successfully, without such an Exertion. Feeble Measures, and Advances for Peace, will but add to the Strength and Presumption of our Adversaries, discourage our Friends, and perhaps induce them to become Parties against us. The Resources of this Government, exhausted as they are, and withheld from it by its internal Imbecillity, are yet equal to every probable Contingency of the present War, if it is conducted on a consistent Plan, and that not varied by desultory Votes of Council on every Measure required for its Prosecution.

I must here take Notice, that the Expence of Captain Popham’s Detachment has been greatly over-rated. It is asserted, that the Expence of a Detachment of only 2,000 Drafts, under Captain Popham, has been swelled to more than 91,000 Rupees per Month; and in another Place this Sum is stated as a fixed Amount.

The Truth is, that the Expence of this Detachment has exceeded its due Bounds; yet not in the Degree imputed to it, which would be indeed enormous: The Detachment, besides the Two thousand Drafts (they are in Fact 2,400) consists of Artillery and Cavalry. The Monthly Expence of the Whole was on a Medium about 82,000 Rupees; of this Sum the making both together 21,111; and this Sum deducted from the Total, leaves 61,000 Rupees for the Drafts, including the Staff and Contingencies of Four Battalions into which they were formed, though the Number was equal only to Three.

Cavalry alone produce	—	—	12,811	and the Artillery	—	—	8,300

The Part which this Government has hitherto borne in the War is mine, and has been made exclusively mine; the other Members having repeatedly disclaimed their Share in the Responsibility attending attending it. It is hard, that while they load me with the Weight of such a Charge, they should bind my Hands, and deny me the Means of supporting it.

A P P E N D I X, N° 11. (I) (K)

If Mr. Francis (I am compelled to speak thus plainly) thinks that he can better and more effectually conduct the War to the Termination, which we both profess to aim at, and that he can in Honour deprive me of the Right which I claim, to dictate the Means of accomplishing it, let him avowedly take the Lead; but if I am to be charged with the Consequences of it, or if the Right which I claim be justly mine, let him allow me to possess and exercise it. It is impossible to combine the Principles of Enterprize and Inaction in the same general Measure, and as impossible for his Sentiments and mine to be brought into Agreement on the Subject of the Maratta War. I have in vain laboured to accommodate them, by a studied Attention to his Opinions, in every Measure which I have ventured to propose in the Course of the last Fifteen Months, and have restrained myself from urging others, which, however proper and necessary for the Occasion, exclusively considered, were inconsistent with the actual State and Temper of this Government.

I now revert to my Proposition, and request the Board to reconsider their Objections to the Instructions which I have proposed to be given to Major Camac: I have not the Presumption to expect that they will be influenced by any Reasonings which I have used, having had too much Experience of the Insufficiency of official Argument to overcome a decided, and much less a confederate Opposition: But, as the Expence which will attend the Measure which I have recommended, is the only formal Objection made to it, I hope I may be allowed to remove it, by offering to exonerate the Company from it, and to take it upon myself. That this Proposition may not be misunderstood, and that I may not bind myself by Engagements which may exceed my Power to fulfil them, I will explain myself.

The regular Pay and Batta of the Troops which are to form Major Camac's Detachment, constitute no Part of the Expence of it, since these would be the same in their Amount, although the Battalions remained in their original Quarters; neither ought the Suspension of the Subsidy to be charged to the Expedition, since it is probable, and I regard it as certain, that the Rana having no further Call for our Aid within his Country for the sole Defence of it, will be glad to be relieved from the Expence attending it, and because it is proposed in the last of the Minutes of Messrs. Francis and Wheler to withdraw it: The Contingencies of the Detachment are therefore the only Expence that can be reasonably charged to the Expedition. These I rate far below Two Lacks of Rupees; that Sum I offer to contribute to this Disbursement: I have already deposited it, within a small Amount, in the Hands of the Sub-treasurer, and I beg that the Board will permit it to be accepted for that Service.

(Signed)

Warren Hastings.

Minute from Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler, entered in Consultation 27th June 1780.

After an attentive Consideration of the Governor General's Minute, delivered in to the Board Yesterday, we adhere to the Reasons which have induced us to withhold our Consent to the proposed Expedition into Malva. To this, for the present, we shall only add the following short Remarks, in Reply to some Assertions in the Governor General's Minute, which appear to us to be gratuitous.

1. The actual Expence of Captain Popham's Detachment for the Months of November, December, and January last, is stated by the Commissary General at Cur. R<sup>y</sup> 2,73,996 (vide his Letter recorded on the 1st of May;) and we have no Reason to think that the Expence has decreased since the Detachment has been on Service.

2. We know not to what Passage in either of our Minutes the Governor General alludes, when he says, "That it is proposed in the last of the Minutes of Messrs. Francis and Wheler to withdraw the Aid granted to the Rana of Gohid." Notwithstanding our original Disapprobation of the Treaty, and though none of the good Effects which were promised from it, appear to us to have been accomplished, we have not proposed to depart from the Conditions by which this Government has been bound to the Rana: All we insist on is, that the Subsidy should be paid. The Governor General has not informed us, whether any Part of it has been discharged.

3. It is said that the Rainy Season is no Impediment to our Troops, though a great one to the Marattas. The same Opinion was insisted on at the Time when Colonel Leslie marched, and when the Governor's Confidence in him was not inferior to that which he now reposes in Major Camac, and which we do not mean to say is ill-founded: But Colonel Leslie's Letters contain repeated Declarations of the Impossibility of marching amidst the Torrents of Rain with which the Country was deluged: On this Point our Conviction remains unaltered. They who have not seen the Rains of India, can have no Idea of their Violence, nor how entirely the whole Surface of the Country is changed by them. In a few Days we mean to record our Sentiments more at large on the Remainder of the Governor's Minute, and on the general Situation of this Government. We could have wished, indeed, that the Governor's Plan had been more completely before us than it is, that we might have been able to compare the Whole of the Object with the Whole of the Means. Peace, he declares, his ultimate Object; but he has not given us even a general Idea of the Terms on which he would make it: He has not intimated to us what would be the final Extent of his Demands on the Marattas, or what Concessions he would make to them. Before this Point is fixed, we have no solid Basis either for Action or Deliberation: The First may be indefinite and unconnected, as it hitherto has been; the Second must be guided from Day to Day by Events. In this Uncertainty we cannot presume to decide, whether his Object be or be not attainable; but we promise to enter into the Consideration of it with the utmost Candour, and with all the Attention which such a Subject deserves, when it is laid before us.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> II. (K) (L)

Minute from Mr. Francis and Mr. Wheler, entered in Consultation of 29th June 1780.

In our Minute of the 27th we meant only to give an immediate Answer to the Propositions before us: We shall now enter more particularly into the Reasonings and Assertions with which it was introduced. The Terms and Tendency of the Governor General's Minute make this Task, however painful it may be, essentially necessary for the Information of those who are to judge of our Conduct, and of course to our own Reputation and Safety.

The Governor General says, that "except the Article of Expence, he can scarcely collect the "Objections made to the Measure;" and again, that "the Expence is the only formal Objection "made to it:" Yet some Pains are taken to answer another, which attacks the Measure on its own Principles, and which undoubtedly must have been felt by the Governor General, or he would not have attempted to remove it, by supposing a Fact so material to the Question, as that our principal Army is not in Cantonments and inactive, and that it must not continue so till the End of the Rains. The Truth is, that General Goddard's Army, or the major Part of it, is actually in Cantonments at Surat, and we hear that he himself is at Bombay. Last Year he did not take the Field until December: Perhaps he might now move a Month sooner; but we are satisfied, as well by his own Letters as by every Information we have been able to obtain, that it is impossible for him to act before November. That the Rains would be no Impediment to our Infantry, incumbered with Baggage, Tents, Stores, Ammunition, and a Train of Artillery, but that it would be a great one to a Body of Maratta Cavalry, seems to us a most extraordinary Proposition: Hitherto it has been contradicted by Experience, and we find no Arguments advanced to support it. If one of the Objects of the Expedition be to divide the Maratta Strength, and to divert it from General Goddard's Army, it is essential to that Object, that General Goddard's Army should be at the same Time in the Field, otherwise the Maratta Force is not divided, nor can there be a Diversion on one Side, unless some Operations exist on the other, in Favour of which the Diversion is to be made. But we say that General Goddard's Army is in Cantonments, and must remain inactive till November; consequently the undivided Force and Strength of the Marattas, if they think it necessary, may be turned entirely to Major Camac.

The Second Object is said to be, to make Madajee Scindia, "the principal Agent of the War, the "principal Sufferer by it." Hitherto we have been told, that Nana Furnese was the Chief most attached to the French Interest, and most hostile to ours, and that Scindia was disposed to cultivate our Friendship; and it must be confessed he gave us a Proof of it, which ought not to be forgotten, when he suffered the Bombay Army to retire from Wargaum. Admitting nevertheless that we ought now to consider Scindia as our principal Opponent, it does not follow that this Expedition, in the Way it is planned, will be the Cause of much Distress to him, if any: In our Opinion, we are much more likely to suffer by it than he is. If every material Purpose of it is to be effected within the Rains, what can they be, but to make a hasty IncurSION into his Country, to plunder it, and to leave it? If General Goddard were in Motion at the same Time, we see a Possibility, in Speculation at least, that Scindia might be distracted between them, and prevented from turning his whole Force, or the principal Part of it, to the Defence of his Dominions: As this is not the Case, Major Camac must act without the Support of a Diversion on the other Side, against whatever Force Scindia may think fit to bring against him. They who are unacquainted with the Geography of India, can know nothing even of the Distance from our Frontier to Eugene, the Capital of Malva, much less of the Difficulties that are likely to attend such a March; the Distance, however, is evidently so great, that in case of a Check, we see no Likelihood of securing a Retreat: But if, whether with or without an immediate Repulse, the Retreat of the Detachment should be cut off, we know what the Consequences must be; another Body of Troops will be called for, and the Necessity of sending them insisted on to support the First Measure, or to disengage us from the Effects of it. No Man can say to what Distress and Difficulties a Series of such Steps may finally lead us: It may happen, that while we are stripping Bengal of the Force which ought to be reserved for its Defence, while we are sending our best Troops and our best Officers on these distant Expeditions, these Provinces may be invaded from different Quarters, and our Establishment hazarded, where it ought to be our principal Care to render it secure. In our Opinion, nothing essential to the Interests of the Company and of the Nation in India can be lost as long as Bengal is safe; but if this Country should once be in Danger, or if by the Loss or Waste of its Resources it should no longer be able to support itself, and to return a regular Tribute to Great Britain, no Conquests or Acquisitions in any other Part of India will ever compensate in the smallest Degree for the Distress to which Bengal may be reduced, and for the Consequences that must attend it at Home. The Supposition of such a Case will not appear wild or unwarrantable to those who have a perfect View of our Situation: We are much afraid that it is little known, and less understood, in England.

The War with the Marattas, at more than Two Years after its Commencement, and after every Rupee we had reserved in our Treasury, or have since been able to collect, has been spent in the Support of it, is at this Day as far from a Conclusion as ever: New Expeditions are proposed, to answer the same Effects which were promised from former Measures of the same Nature, and, as it appears to us, with no better Prospect of Success; of such Success at least as would be likely to make any further Efforts unnecessary.

The Governor General talks of Friends who may be discouraged, and who perhaps may be induced to become Parties against us: We wish that the Names of these Friends had been mentioned. We do not know that this Government has a single Friend or Ally in India, in the true Sense of Friendship and Alliance; which supposes the Power of giving Assistance, and a Disposition to give it.

The Condition to which we have reduced the Vizier's Country makes that Connection rather a Burthen than Advantage to this State. We have now to defend the extended Frontier of a ruined Country, which at present barely pays the Troops that defend it, and which, according to all Appearance, will not do even that much longer. As for the Vizier himself, he is a Cypher, and has no Choice.

The Rana of Gohid is too inconsiderable to be mentioned; and if he were more powerful than he is, it is plain enough, that either his original Purpose is answered, or that he has other Reasons for being weary of the Presence of our Army. Though the Board have not heard from Captain Popham, we conjecture, from what the Governor General has let fall, that the Rana intends to dismiss Captain Popham, and that he will not require Major Camac to come into his Country.

On the other Hand, we see the principal Powers of India either armed or ready to arm against us. The Marattas have united, as we foresaw they would do, in the common Defence of their Country: Hyder Ally, their natural Enemy, has concluded an Alliance with them, the Effects of which, though hitherto suspended, are not averted. We know, by many Proofs, what his Disposition is towards us; and we ought to conclude, since it is a Case against which we ought to be provided, that he means to act against us at the first favourable Moment; that is, when our Arms may have suffered another Check, or when our Strength and Resources may be exhausted by a Continuance of the present War.

It is true, our Endeavours have hitherto succeeded in preventing the Nizam from taking an open Part with our Enemies: It depends on the Gentlemen at Madras, whether the Concession we have thought proper to make him shall take Effect or not. If it should, we have still no positive Security that he will be contented with it, or that his other Claims upon the Company will not furnish him with a Pretence for joining our Enemies, whenever he sees an Opportunity of doing it to Advantage. This Disposition towards us, and the Confidence he reposes in his own Strength, may be plainly collected from his Declarations to Mr. Holland.

The Rajah of Berar seems lately, if not originally, to have adopted that sort of Policy, which leaves it open to him to be guided by Events, and to pursue any Course he thinks proper: We have no Security that it will be favourable to this Government. He professes to wish for an Accommodation between us and the Paishwa; he offers his Mediation; and, apparently to support his Offer, he sends a considerable Army to the Frontier of these Provinces. The Strength of this Army is unknown to the Board: Various Reports state it from 20 to 30,000 Horse. Against their future Operations we ought to be as carefully provided, as if we had no Dependence on their Friendship: We ought to treat them as Friends, and we ought to be prepared against them as Enemies.

In this Situation, we can never admit that the Resources of this Government, exhausted as they are, and withheld from it by its internal Imbecillity, are yet equal to every probable Contingency of the present War: On the contrary, we think that the present War, in whatever Manner it may be conducted, is liable to Contingencies, to which all our Resources, if they were yet unimpaired, would not be equal, and that in our present Circumstances we have no Choice.

We deny that this War has hitherto been conducted on a consistent Plan, or any Plan at all; of which we need not give a more decisive and striking Proof, than that the Expedition under Colonel Goddard did not co-operate with that from Bombay against Poona: That the Authority, formerly given to the Presidency of Bombay over that Army, was withdrawn in favour of another Measure, of which they had no Information; and that General Goddard's final March to Surat was merely Matter of Accident, and absolutely contrary to the Governor General's Wishes and Intentions. On the 4th of March 1779, he declared, "He wished equally with Mr. Francis for the Return of the Detachment to Berar, and equally dreaded to bear of its proceeding to the other Coast."

But, if the Reverse were true, and if the War had really been conducted on a consistent Plan, we deny that it has been varied by desultory Votes of Council on every Measure required for its Prosecution. We do not know or believe, that there is a single Instance of any Question concerning the War, being carried against the Opinion of the Governor General, except that now immediately before us; and even this, we presume, was not in Contemplation with the Governor a Month ago, when the Resolution was taken of recalling and reducing Captain Popham's Detachment with common Consent; and, as we thought, with the Governor's entire Satisfaction.

It is not denied, "That feeble Measures and Advances for Peace may give Strength and Presumption to our Adversaries, and discourage our Friends; or that the Principles of Enterprize and Inaction are not to be combined in the same general Measure." But we do not admit, that these general Propositions are applicable to our Situation. Our Opinion is, that we are in no Condition to continue the War, on any Terms which suppose the Continuance of the present Expence, or even with a considerable Diminution of it. Whether our Resources be exhausted, or whether they be withheld from us, it is equally true, that there is no Money in our Treasury. We hope, that in such critical Circumstances, it will not be proposed to take the Deposit out of the New Fort. We know not how near we are to the Extremity for which it was provided. But, even supposing our immediate Wants were relieved by that little Supply, let us consider where it would leave us, after discharging the instant Demands upon the Treasury. Our former Statements shew what a very inconsiderable Portion of it would remain in our Hands, while the Credit and Advantage of possessing such a Reserve in Specie, against an extraordinary Emergency, would be lost. In effect, we should publicly avow, that the Distress against which the Deposit was reserved, had actually fallen upon us.

We never meant to propose feeble Measures, which necessarily defeat themselves; nor yet do we approve of vigorous Measures, in the Sense in which Vigour has been hitherto understood; because we are convinced, that this Government is unable to support them; and if they could be supported a small Time longer, they would not bring us nearer to our Object. Before the Commencement of the War, we foresaw and foretold the principal Consequences that would attend it. We now judge of it by its Effects, which we hope will be considered, though every other Sort of Argument should continue to be disregarded. We have seen the Event of Two Years Military Operations, and of a Succession of Enterprizes, which, in Point of Effort and Expence, were as vigorous as any Thing we could now undertake.

The Expedition to Poona ended in a Disgrace, which, but for the Generosity or Forbearance of the Marattas, might have left Bombay defenceless. We know not the Expence of this Measure; but we believe the Company will find it enormous.

The March of the Army under Colonel Leslie had all the Appearances of an active and vigorous Resolution, and had produced as much Success as could reasonably be expected. It has conquered an open Country; which, at some future Day, and if even the promised Collections from it should be made, is to return Thirty Lacks of Rupees a Year to the Company. Against this Acquisition, the permanent Expence of an Encrease of Establishment to regulate and defend it, must be placed, and the Value of the Remainder compared with the Charge of the Expedition: The Company will then know at what Price they have acquired a new Territory on the Malabar Coast. At the End of February last, the Sums remitted to this Detachment alone, amounted to almost Seventy-six Lacks of Current Rupees; and we are convinced, that we are much within Bounds in computing, that a Crore of Rupees will not clear it to the End of October.

The March of a Detachment from the Coast, and of another from Bombay, to strengthen General Goddard, has yet produced no Effect that we know of, but to raise their Pay to a Level with that of the Bengal Troops; which of itself is no slight Inconvenience.

The Detachment under Major Camac, which was ordered about the Beginning of last Year, to join Colonel Goddard, after costing the Company Current Rupees 4,36,793, returned without Effect.

Many Advantages were promised from the Treaty with the Rana of Ghode; particularly that of dividing the Strength and Attention of the Marattas. If it has really produced that or any other Effect that deserves the Name of an Advantage, or that can be placed in Comparison with the Expence of the Measure, we wish to see it stated. We are informed by the Commissary General, that the total Expence of Captain Popham's Detachment to the End of April last, amounted to CR<sup>a</sup> 5,55,953. At this Rate, the present Expence must amount to Current Rupees 7,41,271.

With these discouraging Experiments in our View, we are called upon to embark in another Enterprize, for the avowed Purpose of supporting that of General Goddard; yet the Governor's Expectation of Success from this new Effort, cannot be greater than those which he professed to entertain of the former: Even after the Delay in Bundelcund, he always considered Colonel Leslie's Detachment as capable of accomplishing the Ends of its Formation, and professed the strongest Conviction, that under a proper Conduct, the Effects would still answer his most sanguine Hopes.*

It is true, that the Part which this Government has hitherto borne in the War, belongs to the Governor, and that we have no Share in the Responsibility attending it: But it is equally true, that in the future Measures of this Government we must take our Part. We cannot transfer the Responsibility, though we might relinquish the Powers incident to our Station: In many Cases, we may find ourselves compelled not to interrupt the Operation of Acts already resolved on against our Opinion; especially when the Government or its Representatives are once engaged in the Execution of them: In such Circumstances we have no Choice: But a Defence of this Sort will not apply to new Measures or new Plans, which cannot be resolved on without our Consent. For these and their Consequences, we must of Necessity be answerable jointly with the Governor; therefore cannot divest ourselves of the Right of judging of both. If, on the present Occasion, we are mistaken in our Judgment, it will not add to the Load with which the Governor General may be charged. We rather think he derives a visible Advantage from the Part we are forced to take in this Question. There is no Difficulty in displaying the possible Benefits, which might have resulted from a Measure untried; while the Burthen of proving that such Benefits were unattainable, together with the ideal Loss of them, will be thrown upon the opposite Party.

We have as little Faith as the Governor can have in the Sufficiency of official Argument to overcome decided Opinions. What we have said is meant to stand for our Vindication at Home. We heartily wish it might have more Weight, than we fear it will have, in this Place. We wish to co-operate heartily and sincerely with the Governor General in effecting a Peace on reasonable Terms. Means of Negotiation are in his Power, which are not within ours. To accomplish a Peace ourselves, against his Inclination, we know to be impossible. Till very lately our Hopes nearly amounted to Conviction, that we were all agreed on this Point, and that the Season of the Rains, in which Hostilities must cease on both Sides, would have been employed in effecting a Pacification. On this Principle we consented to the Proposition for accepting the Mediation of Moodajee Boosla. We wish to know if any and what Steps have been taken in Consequence. As this Measure has no Connection with the proposed Expedition, we hope it will not be deserted. Without making improper Advances to the Marattas, other Means might be taken to the same End; but we are perfectly sensible that none can succeed in which the Governor General will not take an active Part. If after all a formal Peace is not to be obtained, we do not think it follows that an offensive War must necessarily be continued. A general Outline of the Plan we allude to has been suggested to the Governor General. We do not think it advisable to enter into it in this Place; but we are ready to submit our Thoughts to him on the Subject, whenever he thinks proper.

Mr. Francis—I beg leave to add a few Words to the preceding Minute, in reply to the personal Appeal made to me by the Governor General. I persuade myself he would not propose an Alternative to me which he thought I could not accept of with Honour. But, as I understand it, there is no Point of Honour in question. I think it belongs to the Governor General to propose and recommend such Measures, as he thinks fit, to the Approbation of the Board; and, circumstanced as we now are, it must be some very essential Consideration that can induce me to oppose him. I would neither attempt to take that Lead out of his Hands, nor yet engage implicitly to submit to his Opinions. Every View to my own Ease and Happiness would incline me to wish that the Constitution of the Government permitted him to dictate, or to resolve and act without me. But I am vested with a Public Trust, from the Duties of which I cannot be exempted while I hold the Station that creates it.

I believe the Governor General yielded to my Opinion, in resolving to recall and reduce Captain Popham's Detachment; but this was a Concession to which he did not long adhere. That he should have "laboured to accommodate his Sentiments to mine, by a studied Attention to my Sentiments in every Measure which he had ventured to propose in the Course of the last Fifteen Months," is a Fact with which I declare most solemnly I was utterly unacquainted.

Extract of a Letter from General Goddard, dated the 20th of June 1780; and received the 24th August.

I had the Honour to address you the 27th ultimo, acquainting you with the Enemy's Forces having desisted from further Attempts to make any Impression upon the Guzerat Province; and that, from every Intelligence I could learn, it was Scindia's Intention to relinquish the Country altogether, and march either towards Eugene or the Decan. A few Days subsequent to the Date of that Letter, my Hircarrahs brought me Accounts of Scindia's having removed with his whole Army towards Ugein. These Reports have been since confirmed, and it is now generally and confidently believed, that if he has laid aside the Design it was supposed he had formed, of visiting the Decan, and purposes to pass the rainy Season at Ugein. Holkar has accompanied him, and will reside at Indore, a principal City in the Neighbourhood of Eugene, and the Chief Residence of his Family.

In Consequence of the Departure of Scindia from the Neighbourhood of Guzerat, and the near Approach of the Rains, which did not admit of any Delay, I re-crossed the Narbuddee, and directed my March to Surat, where I arrived with the greatest Part of the Army the 8th Instant.

Extract Secret Consultations, 20th July 1780.

The Governor General—Notwithstanding the ill Success which my former Motions have met relative to Major Camac's Detachment, I must again revert to the Proposition made by me to the Board on the 19th ultimo, for the Extension of the Powers to be given to Major Camac in the Manner expressed in my proposed Draft of his Instructions, delivered in on that Day. I accordingly now move, That those Instructions be granted to him.

I have little to say in Addition to the former Arguments which I have urged in support of the principal Measure presented in them, but that it appears to me more necessary at this Time to create such a Diversion, by the Declaration lately made by Hyder Ally Cawn, or at least too strongly implied to admit a Doubt of its intended Construction, in his Letter recorded in the last Consultation. Every Accumulation of Difficulty requires an additional Exertion. For the same Reason I move, that the Order for reducing Captain Popham's Detachment, be repealed, and that it be formed into Three regular Battalions, to be commanded by the Three senior Captains now with that Corps; but as I understand the Commander in Chief left Lucknow on the 6th Instant, and is proceeding with all possible Expedition to the Presidency, I do not think it necessary to follow this Motion with any Proposal for the Disposition of this Corps until his Arrival.

Mr. Wheeler—No Arguments are used by the Governor General, in his late Proposition, in Addition to those which were stated in his former Minutes upon this Subject, to induce me to alter my Opinion respecting the First Instructions to Major Camac. I must therefore adhere to it.

I must confess the Governor General's Second Proposition is accompanied with a forcible Argument to support it. Times of War and public Calamity are certainly not the Times for diminishing our Military Force, particularly when we have every Reason to believe (both from the late Declarations which Hyder Ally has made, and also from the particular Measures which that Chief has lately pursued in relation to us) that an open Rupture betwixt him and the Company is not very distant.

For these Reasons I most readily coincide with the Governor General in repealing the Orders for reducing Captain Popham's Detachment, and that it "be formed into Three regular Battalions, to be commanded by the Three senior Captains, now with that Corps."

Minute of the Governor General, dated the 3d July, and communicated to Mr. Francis in a private Note on the Night of the 14th August 1780.

Governor General—Why Mr. Wheeler has thus repeatedly chosen to join his Name to Mr. Francis's, in the Minutes lately delivered by them to the Board, I can neither conjecture, nor seek to know. I can easily conceive Mr. Francis's Intention in obtaining this Association: But as the Rectitude of these Acts in Mr. Francis is to be judged upon very different Principles from those in which he has a common Concern with Mr. Wheeler, I shall consider them solely as his, and reply to them accordingly. Indeed I have no Doubt of their being all the intire Composition of Mr. Francis. They are not the less his by this apparent Division of the Property; and his Name affixed to them gives me the Right of regarding them as intirely his.

I did hope that the Intimation conveyed in my last Minute would have awakened in Mr. Francis's Breast, if it were susceptible of such Sensations, a Consciousness of the faithless Part which he was acting towards me. I have been disappointed, and must now assume a plainer Style, and louder Tone. In a Word, my Objections do not lie to the special Matter of his Minutes, to which I shall separately reply, but to the Spirit of Opposition which dictated them. I have lately offered various Plans for the Operations of the War. These have been successively rejected as I have successively amended, and endeavoured to accommodate them to Mr. Francis's Objections. I had a Right to his implicit Acquiescence. I have lastly proposed a Service, requiring immediate Execution, and I have freed it from the only Objection formally made to it. In answer, he says, that he adheres to the Reasons which had before induced him to withhold his Consent, and composedly invites me to lay before the Board a complete Detail of the Plan for conducting the War, a comparative State of the whole of the Object with the whole of the Means of attaining it, and the final Extent of my Demands on the Marattas, or what Concessions I would make to them; and he promises to enter into the Consideration of these Points with the utmost Candour. If his Design in this Inquiry was simply to gain Information, I might refer him to the large and confidential Discussions in which I have laid all my Views open to him, with all the Grounds on which they were formed. If his Purpose was to enable him to form a more clear or competent Judgment of the Plans which I have proposed, its Object would would be lost in the Time required for the Deliberation. But, in Truth, I do not trust to his Promise of Candour, convinced that he is incapable of it, and that his sole Purpose and Wish are to embarrass and defeat every Measure which I may undertake, or which may tend even to promote the Public Interests, if my Credit is connected with them. Such has been the Tendency, and such the manifest Spirit of all his Actions from the Beginning. Almost every Measure proposed by me has for that Reason had his Opposition to it. When carried against his Opposition, and too far engaged to be withdrawn, yet even then, and in every Stage of it, his Labours to overcome it have been unremitted; every Disappointment and Misfortune have been aggravated by him, and every fabricated Tale of Armies devoted to Famine or to Massacre, have found their first and ready Way to his Office, where it was known they would meet the most welcome Reception. To the same Design may be attributed the Annual Computations of declining Finances, and an exhausted Treasury, Computations which though made in the Time of Abundance must verge to Truth at last, from the Effect of a discordant Government, not a constitutional Decay. To the same Design shall I attribute the Policy of accelerating the booted Event, and creating an artificial Want, by keeping up an useless Hoard of Treasure, and withholding it from a temporary Circulation.

I am aware of the Answer which will be made to these Imputations, and I will anticipate it. Mr. Francis may safely deny them, for they are incapable of positive Evidence. He may complain of the Injustice and Indecency of assuming the Interpretation of his Thoughts, and assigning Intentions to him upon the Reality of which he alone can pronounce with Certainty. He may claim an equal Right to recriminate upon me, and to pass the same free Judgment upon the Motives which have influenced my Public Actions. Against such Conclusions I trust that my Character will be sufficient to defend me, unless some known Instance of it can be produced as a Warrant for them, and such I am certain do not exist either known or unknown.

My Authority for the Opinions which I have declared concerning Mr. Francis depends upon Facts, which have passed within my own certain Knowledge. I judge of his public Conduct by my Experience of his private, which I have found to be void of Truth and Honour. This is a severe Charge, but temperately and deliberately made, from the firm Persuasion that I owe this Justice to the Public and to myself, as the only Redress to both for Artifices of which I have been a Victim, and which threaten to involve their Interests with Disgrace and Ruin. The only Redress for a Fraud for which the Law has made no Provision is the Exposure of it.

I proceed to the Proofs of my Allegation.

In the latter End of the Month of February last, Mr. Francis concluded with me an Engagement, of which One Article alone is necessary to the present Occasion. It is as follows:

“ Mr. Francis will not oppose any Measures which the Governor General shall recommend for the Prosecution of the War in which we are supposed to be engaged with the Marattas, or for the general Support of the present political System of this Government: Neither will he himself either propose or vote with any other Member who shall propose any Measure that shall be contrary to the Governor General's Opinion on these Points.”

By the Sanction of this Engagement, and the liberal Professions which accompanied it, I was seduced to part with the Friend to whose generous and honourable Support, steadfastly yielded in a Course of Six Years, I am indebted for the Existence of the little Power which I have ever possessed in that long and disgraceful Period, to throw myself on the Mercy of Mr. Francis, and on the desperate Hazard of his Integrity. It was impossible to afford a stronger Demonstration of the good Faith with which I entered into this Accommodation, nor of my Confidence in him, than thus consenting to deprive myself of the Means of breaking the Engagement on my Part, and of preventing the Breach of it on his; and surely this Difference in our relative Situations ought to have impressed him with a Sense of what he owed to the Delicacy attending it, and have made him dread even an Approach towards the precise Line of his Obligations, by the slightest Advantage taken of my Inability to repel it; and how much more ought it to have restrained him from the direct Transgression of it.

I must now revert to the Article of Mr. Francis's Engagement, which I have recited above, and to the Minutes lately delivered to the Board, under the Signatures of Messrs. Francis and Wheeler. On these I rest the Proofs which I have promised of the Charge herein preferred against Mr. Francis.

If it shall appear on a fair Comparison of these Evidences that Mr. Francis has faithfully adhered to his Engagements, I have wrongfully accused him. If on the contrary it shall appear, that in Violation of these Engagements he has opposed any Measures which I have recommended for the Prosecution of the War in which we are engaged with the Marattas, or for the general Support of the present Political System of this Government, or that he has either himself proposed or joined with another Member in proposing a Measure contrary to my Opinion in these Points, my Charge is established. I wish to avoid a Repetition of the Terms of it.

(P)

Minute of Mr. Francis, entered in Consultation 11th September 1780.

Mr. Francis—The main Question between Mr. Hastings and me can be referred to no other Test but the Public Opinion of our respective Characters: I appeal cheerfully to that Test, and am ready to abide by the Event of it. On the Point in Issue I can only declare, as I do now in the most solemn Manner, that I never was Party to the Engagement stated by Mr. Hastings, or had a Thought of being bound by it. In one of our Conversations in February last, he desired me to read a Paper of Memorandums, among which I presume this Article was inserted. I returned it to him the Moment I had read it, with a Declaration that I did not agree to, or hold myself bound by, the Contents of it, or to that Effect. From that Time I have never seen the Paper: I never had a Copy of it, nor have I a positive Recollection of any thing it contained. The Agreement I meant to enter into with respect to the Maratta War, was to prosecute the Operations actually existing on the Malabar Coast, which, since the Campaign was begun, and General Goddard had already taken the Field, I thought should be pushed as vigorously as possible. I have no direct Evidence to produce in support of this Declaration; but I imagine it will be strengthened in some Degree by the following Considerations: It is not said that the Plan of another Expedition from the Upper Country into Malva, or any other Part of the Maratta Dominions on that Side of India, had ever been suggested to me. The Resolutions of the 29th of May last, formed on the Governor General's own Propositions, constitute, as I think, a strong Presumption, that up to that Period the Governor General had not had that Measure in Contemplation, or that he must then have abandoned all Thoughts of it. On that Day it was unanimously resolved, that Captain Popham's Detachment should be recalled and reduced, and that he should be relieved by Four Battalions under Major Camac. In this Arrangement nothing appears to have been in the View of the Board, but to diminish the public Expence without departing from the Terms of the Treaty with the Rana of Ghode. But Letters of the 20th of April to the Presidency of Bombay, to Brigadier General Goddard, and to the Commander in Chief, express the unanimous Opinion of the Board, that our Resources were no longer equal to the Payment of General Goddard's Army, without draining Bengal entirely of its Specie, and that no Acquisition on the other Side of India could compensate for the Distresses which a Continuance of the War, at the present Expence, would bring upon the Company. This indeed has been invariably my Opinion; but the Governor concurred in it, and drew up the Letters himself. The Evidence I appeal to is public and authentic; it is not for me to determine how far it ought to be deemed conclusive. The Observations which I must now proceed to offer on some Passages in the Governor General's Minute, shall be as short and moderate as I can make them: I mean to lead the Reflections of others from fair Presumptions to probable Conclusions, which is all that the Case will admit of, and by no means to engage myself or the Governor in any further Controversy.

I am not acquainted with the Governor General's Plan for carrying on the War, from what Funds it is to be supported, or on what Terms he would make Peace. It seems to me, that the Demand from Two Members of the Board was regular and in its Place. A very few Words would have been sufficient, to tell us what were to be the final Objects of the War. I would not venture to state the loose Discourses of a private Conversation, if I recollected them, on a Subject of such very great Importance; nor can I agree, that the Object of the Question would be lost in the Time required for Deliberation.

2d. The Governor General's Minute of the 28th of last Month, and the Letter from the Board of Trade of the 22d, are sufficient to shew, that my Annual Computations of declining Finances and an exhausted Treasury were well founded. Every Department of the Public Service is, and has been for several Months, in Arrear. As to the Deposit in the New Fort, it was placed there at my Motion, but long after Colonel Monson's Death, and with the Governor's Consent and Approbation. In the Secret Consultation of the 21st of May 1778, he speaks of it as a Fund which we have appropriated for our own extraordinary Occasions, and which we should not break in upon for any other Service. I cannot conceive that I am hostile to Mr. Hastings, in adhering to the Opinion which I have constantly and uniformly delivered on this Subject.

3d. The Evidence of the Charge against me is drawn from a Paper written by the Governor himself, of which I never had a Copy; though from the Manner in which the Quotation is introduced, it might naturally be taken for an Article in some formal Treaty between us: This is said to be the Proof of his Allegation; that is, the Charge and the Proof stand on the same Ground. In another Place he admits that his Imputations are incapable of positive Evidence: I submit to Judgment, whether it even be presumptive, except of his own Thoughts or Intentions, which I do not mean to question. How would he receive, or how would he answer, an Accusation against himself, no better supported than this?

4th. I submit to Judgment, whether the Engagement, as stated by Mr. Hastings, does not prove too much against me? Under the Terms of it, I must have consented to the March of every Battalion on the Bengal Establishment to the Malabar Coast, if Mr. Hastings had thought fit to propose it, or to any other Measure whatsoever, without Exception or Limitation, which he might have recommended recommended for the Support and Continuance of the War; from the Date of the Agreement I at once renounce all my former Declarations and Opinions, and all Choice, Will, and Judgment, for the future. Some Men perhaps may think me capable of such an Act; I hope and believe they are not many; but no Man, who knows any thing of the World, will think it possible that I could sacrifice myself in so gross a Manner without some secret adequate Compensation, if any Compensation could be equal to it. On this Head I have no other Evidence to appeal to, and I desire no better, than Mr. Hastings himself. If any thing was done or proposed by me for my Advantage, directly or indirectly, or if any thing was done or proposed for the Advantage of any other Person whatsoever, beyond what was publicly known and avowed (I mean the Re-instatement of Mahomed Reza Khan, Mr. Fowke, and Mr. Britlow, in Conformity to the Company's Orders) I call upon him to declare it: That of Mr. Britlow was the only Point of the Three which I yielded to suspend until the Month of October, or until the First Advices of the Season from the Court of Directors. In the actual Situation of Affairs here, and with the alarming and calamitous Accounts we had then lately received from England, I thought that some Agreement between Mr. Hastings, Mr. Wheeler, and myself, was essentially necessary to the Public Safety; I therefore met Mr. Hastings, with a sincere Disposition to come to an Agreement, and to forward it by every possible Facility on my Part. During the whole Course of the Transaction, nothing of any Moment was said or done without Mr. Wheeler's Knowledge and Participation.

With respect to Mr. Barwell's Departure, and the Inferences drawn from it, it is a Subject of which no Man at Home can judge so well as they who are on the Spot, and see what passes: The little I shall say of it is offered as Matter of Opinion, not Evidence. I believe it, for Instance, to be the Opinion of many well-informed Persons in this Settlement, as it is now firmly my own, that Mr. Barwell was determined to go Home last Season at all Events, and that the Swallow was kept for several Months on purpose for him: If so, Mr. Hastings gained something, and could lose nothing by his Agreement with me. But as Mr. Barwell's going Home was never demanded by me, nor ever entered into the Agreement, I have no Concern in Mr. Hastings's Motives for consenting to it.

If I deserved the Character attributed to me, I should not acknowledge, as I do, the Force of an Argument, deduced by Mr. Hastings from the defenceless Condition in which he was supposed to be left by Mr. Barwell's Departure: It is such an Argument as can only be felt by a Man of Honour. I admit the Principle laid down by Mr. Hastings, as far as it can be urged with any Colour of Justice or Reason: Whether I have departed from it or not is a Question of Fact; let it only be observed, that such a Principle is as liable to be abused on one Side, as to be violated on the other. Push the Inferences from it as far as they will go, and who does not see that a Tyranny may be created by it over the Mind of a Man of nice Sensibility and fearful of Reproach? With such a Weapon, so exercised, Mr. Hastings would possess a Power, which he assuredly never had while Mr. Barwell was in the Country. The Whole of this unfortunate Question between Mr. Hastings and me must some time or other appear before the Public: I do not wish to prejudice the Mind of any Man against him. My Conduct perhaps may be condemned on other Ground, but I do not see how it can be fairly imputed to base or interested Views. The Cause which I have hitherto endeavoured to maintain is not mine; I have no greater personal Concern in it than any other Member of the Community. After all, what is it to me more than to any other Man, whether there be a Maratta War or not, or in what Manner it is conducted?

View of Dispute between the Council and Select Committee at Bengal.

Select, Letter from, 31st Aug. 1770, Par. 18, to the End.

THE Select Committee; viz. the President, and Messieurs Claud Russell and Charles Floyer, advise the Court of Directors, that the Council has infringed the Powers of the Select Committee.

That the Committee have, however, the Satisfaction of their Sentiments being confirmed by their absent Members.

They urge the Necessity there is, that the Court of Directors be very explicit, how far the Line, drawn in January 1768, stands in Force, and renders the Select Committee independent of the Council; because, until that is determined, they say, there can be no Stability of Measures; and an undetermined Authority may be attended with very serious Consequences to the Affairs of the Company.

Letter from, 11th Sept. 1770, Par. 8.

The Select Committee repeat their Opinion, that great and important Inconveniences may arise to the Company, from the present embarrassing Situation of the Select Committee.

The

A P P E N D I X, N° 12.

The Council, in their Secret Department, observe, that having lost all Expectations of seeing the Commissioners, they judged it improper any longer to delay those Objects of Reform and Regulation respecting the Dewannee Revenues, to which the Court had directed their Attention, in their Commands per Lapwing.

Letter from,
8th Sept. 1770,
Par. 7, 8, and 9.

They therefore agree to take the Subject into Consideration; and to have it determined, how far the Authority of the Board and of the Select Committee do extend.

Secret Conf.

June 27th,

Mr. Russell dissents from the above Resolution of the Board; because he deems a Discussion of the Powers of the Select Committee to be foreign to the Business of the Council. He refers to the Company's Letter, 12th January 1768, for an Explanation of the Powers of the Council, and of the Select Committee.

Whereupon the President deems it his Duty to summon a Select Committee, to inform them of the Purport of the Matter; and to deliberate on the Propriety of the late Determination of the Council. He then lays the Resolutions of the said Committee before the Council, and protests against the Council's Proceedings.

Secret Conf.
27th June 1770,

He expresses his Surprise at the Motion lately made in Council; and alludes to the Company's Letter of 12th January 1768, Paragraph the 9th, which confirms the Select Committee; and to Paragraph 10th, which particularly marks their Powers; one of which Powers is, * "To superintend the Collection of the Revenues arising from the Dewannee."

The President says, That no future Letters from the Company have directly broke the Line drawn in the above Letter of the 12th January; nor can such Intention be inferred by fair Implication, unless in the Appointment of Commissioners. And that, in case of Accident having happened to those Commissioners, it is not the Company's Intention for the Plan of Reformation, in the Mode of collecting the Revenues, to fall under any other Part of their Administration than the Select Committee; for if such had been the Case, the Court would in express Terms have withdrawn the Select Committee's Power; therefore, he cannot consent that any other Persons should share an Authority, which, in his Opinion, was never intended by the Company.

Mr. Floyer's Opinion—Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, That the said Letter of the Court of Directors, has fixed the Line of Duty both of Council and Select Committee; and observes, that although the Company has thought fit to transmit, in their General Letter, the greatest Part of their Orders respecting the Select Committee's Department; yet the Distinction has ever been deemed so conspicuous, that the Council have always transmitted to the Select Committee those Paragraphs of the General Letters, which fall under the Cognizance of the said Committee; by which Means, the Powers of the Select Committee have been always exercised, without any Prejudice to the Authority of the Board.

That if the Court of Directors intended that the Management of the Dewannee Revenues should be under the Council at large, there would be no Necessity for having continued so independent an Authority as that of the Select Committee; because the Collection of the Revenues is by far the most important Branch of the Government.

That in regard to the Point in question, so far are the Council from being authorized to carry it into Execution, that they are expressly told, that it would be given in charge to the Commissioners. This Assertion cannot be fully warranted by the Records. The Measure in question was indeed mentioned in the Commissioners Instructions; who are therein told, that a single Person at the Durbar is not sufficient, but that a Resident and Council, at the chief Places of Collection, seems a more eligible Measure; but the Particulars of the Plan were alone transmitted to the Governor and Council. That as the Power hath never been granted to the Council, it ought to remain with the Select Committee until the Arrival of the said Commissioners; and that should their Arrival be prevented by any unforeseen Accident, the Management of the Dewannee Revenues must still be vested in the Committee only. That if the superintending Power over the Revenues was intended to have been vested in the Council, the Commissioners would have been directed to consult that Board, and not the Select Committee, on a Subject of so much Importance to the Government.

That it was his Opinion, the Council had not the Power of entering upon a Discussion of the Committee's Authority; nor could the said Committee be justified in giving up any Part of their Authority to the Council.

Mr. Russell conceives, that the late Resolution of the Council is irregular and unprecedented; and that a Discussion of the Powers of the Select Committee, is foreign to the Business of the Council:

Page 25.

That by Letters from England of 12th January 1768 and March 1769, so late as Three Months only before the Lapwing's Departure, the Court had provided for a Succession to Vacancies in the Select Committee; and as no Repeal of their Orders had been transmitted, they must be still understood to remain in Force, beyond the Discussion or Controul of the Council:

That if the Court of Directors had meant to abridge, or revoke, the Powers of the Select Committee, they would have been explicit, and not have left any thing to be decided by Implication:

That the Lapwing's Letter implies no such Intention, as an Abridgment of the Select Committee's Power: That many Instances may be produced wherein the Council have been immediately addressed, Orders conveyed to them, and Censures passed on their Conduct, when in Fact, the said Orders and Censures could only be applicable to the Select Committee; and that the Company's Letter per Lapwing only conveys their Sentiments at large, and leaves it to the Board and Committee to separate what relates to each Department, according to the Line formerly drawn between them:

Pages 26 and 27.

Secret Conf.
27 June 1770.
Pages 26 and 27.

That it is very improbable that the Company meant to revoke, in Whole or in Part, the Powers of the Select Committee at Bengal, at a Time when they were establishing similar Committees at their other Presidencies; and when they had, by their last Letters, expressly commanded the Select Committee to assist the Commissioners: That the Powers of the Select Committee remain as they were fixed in 1768; and that, as before observed, the Letter per Lapwing implies nothing to the contrary: That the Board cannot, without perverting the Meaning of the Company's Orders, consider the Plan of Revenues as addressed to them; and that it is not meant, that the Measure should be carried into Execution, either by the Council or * Select Committee, but by the Commissioners only; and further, that the Committee ought to remonstrate against, and warn the Council of the evil Tendency of their late Attempt.

The Select Committee being unanimous, that the Resolution of the Council is irregular, and having deliberated on the Nature and Tendency thereof, resolve and determine, 1st. That the Powers of the Select Committee are precise, and that they have not been, directly or indirectly, altered, revoked, or abridged, either by Expression, or by the most distant Implication.

3d. That in regard to Arguments being drawn from the Stile of the Lapwing's Advice to the Council, on the Subject of the Revenue, in Prejudice of the Powers of the Select Committee, they are hasty and inconclusive; because it is usual for the Court of Directors to address the Committee through the Channel of the Board, without any Intention to diminish the Power of the Select Committee, leaving to the Council and said Committee, to regulate and separate what belongs to each Department.

That the Council themselves have always put such Construction on the Company's Orders, and selected, and sent to the Committee, such Paragraphs as peculiarly relate to their Department.

4th. That the very Existence of the Select Committee is affected by this Motion of the Council; because the Question of the Committee's Right may be applied to all political Transactions whatever.

5th. That the Orders respecting the Reformation in question, do neither regard the Council, nor the Select Committee; but the Commissioners only: And should they never arrive, it rests with the Select Committee alone to execute those Orders:

6th. That it is contrary to all Form and Rule to suppose, that the Court could intend an Abridgment of the Select Committee's Powers, and leave their Sentiments, on a Subject so delicate and important, to be collected from loose unconnected Hints, scattered up and down in their Letter, without expressly declaring their Pleasure concerning it:

7th. That the Select Committee is not amenable to the Council:

8th. Nor can they concede to the Council any of the Powers mentioned in those Letters, which vest them in the Select Committee; but they declare, that they will uphold and maintain the same, notwithstanding any Proceedings of the Board to the contrary.

Page 30.

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, that the Subject to be considered is not the Powers of the Select Committee, but how far Individuals are responsible for the Execution of Orders, transmitted by the Court of Directors to the whole Body of the Council; and in what Degree the Court may deem the Members of Council responsible, should they acquiesce in an Authority, assumed by the Select Committee, to debate upon the Propriety of enforcing, or not enforcing, the Company's Orders:

That it is absurd to suppose the Court would issue Orders of the greatest Moment to the Council at large, if such Orders were to be executed by the Select Committee alone:

That the Intentions of the Company, by the Measure in question, appear too strongly pointed out to be mistaken by the Board: He concludes with asking, Who is to execute the Court's Orders, sent to their Governor and Council? Upon which,

The President proposes a previous Question; viz.

Whether, after the Protest of the Select Committee against the Council, the Board shall enter upon the Subject at all?

Mr. Barwell gives it as his Opinion, That the Protest of the Select Committee cannot affect the Deliberations of the Board.

Mr. Reed is of Opinion, That it was unanimously agreed at their last Meeting, to take the Matter into their Consideration; therefore, he conceives that the President only means to caution the Board not to attempt to pass the Line drawn by the Company; and he desires it may be understood, that it is far from his Wish to intrude on the Province of the Select Committee; all he requests is, to take the Sentiments of the Board upon the Intentions of the Court of Directors, respecting the Powers vested in the Council by the late Orders addressed to the Governor and Council.

Mr. Russell answers, That Mr. Reed is mistaken: That the Board was not unanimous in their late Resolution. To which Mr. Reed replies, That there appeared no Dissent therefrom at that Time; which is the true State of the Case.

Messrs. Hare, Jekyll, and Lane, concur with Messrs. Barwell and Reed, that the Protest of the Select Committee ought not to impede the Deliberations of the Council.

Agreed, by the Majority, That the Subject be debated.

* Mr. Russell expressly contradicts his own Words, in Page 62; and owns, that the Measure should be carried into Execution by the Select Committee.

Secret Conf.
27th June 1770.

But previous therunto, the President proposeth another Question; viz, Whether the Powers of the Select Committee, as contained in their General Letter of 1768, stand repealed by any succeeding Letters to the Governor and Council?

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, That the Question of the President is foreign to the Subject; and that the Powers of the Select Committee, be they what they may, cannot subvert the Company's Orders, addressed immediately to their Governor and Council.

Mr. Lane is of Opinion, The Select Committee's Powers are not repealed.

Mr. Jekyll is also of Opinion, They are not repealed.

Mr. Hare believes, They are not repealed; but that it can be no Argument against the Board's exercising the Powers vested in them by the Company's Orders.

Mr. Reed says, That although the Select Committee's Orders do not appear formally repealed; yet if subsequent Commands counteract former Orders, he is of Opinion the latter should be adhered to.

Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, They are not repealed; and that no subsequent Orders received can possibly be construed into a Diminution of their Authority.

Page 31.

Mr. Russell declares, They are neither repealed, nor abridged.

The President concurs with Messrs. Floyer and Russell.

The Majority are of Opinion, That they are not repealed.

Mr. Barwell observes, That his Intention is by no Means to question the Powers of the Select Committee; but he only desires to receive Information on Points relative to his Duty as a Member of the Board. He therefore proposes a Question to this Effect:

How far is every Member of the Board responsible for Orders transmitted by the Court of Directors to the Governor and Council? or in what Degree reprehensible, for acquiescing in an Authority assumed by the Select Committee, to debate upon the Propriety of enforcing, or not enforcing, the said Orders?

Mr. Barwell's Opinion is, That Orders from Masters to Servants imply an Expectation of Obedience: That Servants will be deemed blameworthy, should Complaisance to Fellow Servants induce them to refer the Execution of the Company's Orders to Persons not intrusted therewith by the Company.

Mr. Lane concurs with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Jekyll's Opinion is, That every Member is responsible for all Orders addressed to the Governor and Council.

Page 34.

Mr. Hare's Opinion is, That every Member is responsible for the Execution of all Orders, which are not particularly addressed to the Select Committee.

Mr. Reed's Opinion is, That every Member is responsible; and that Inattention to Orders of so great Importance as the Subject in Debate, would draw upon the Board the severest Displeasure of their Employers.

Mr. Floyer's Opinion is, That a Member of the Council is only responsible for the Execution of such Orders as are pointed out by the Court of Directors to be within his Department; and that it is the Duty of the Board, to refer all Orders to the Select Committee, which are within the Line prescribed by the Company's General Letter, 12th of January 1768, Paragraphs 9 and 10.

Mr. Russell's Opinion is, That every Member is responsible; but that it being customary for the Company to convey Orders through the Channel of their General Letter, which, nevertheless, fall immediately under the Select Committee's Department, the Council cannot be deemed responsible for the Execution of such Orders, which evidently do not relate to their own Department.

Mr. Cartier's Opinion is, That no Servant is responsible for Orders which have no Reference to his particular Department.

The Opinion of the Majority being collected, it is, That every Member is responsible for Orders addressed to the Governor and Council.

Mr. Barwell proposeth a Second Question:

Whether it be not improbable, that the Company would issue precise and positive Orders, of the greatest Moment, to the Council at large, and yet suppose that the Select Committee alone should execute those Orders, independent of the Council?

Mr. Barwell's Opinion is, That it cannot be supposed the Company would issue Orders to their Servants in Council, when they must know, at the same Time, that those Servants had it not in their Power to obey their Masters Orders.

Mr. Lane agrees with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Jekyll's Opinion is, That the Court of Directors, in their Letters, have Respect to the different Departments, and, in consequence, give their Orders to those, by whom they expect them to be executed.

Mr. Hare's Opinion is, That the Orders of the Court of Directors are too clear to admit a Doubt by whom they should be carried into Execution.

Mr. Reed cannot conceive, That the full and particular Orders in question would have been sent by the Company to the Council, on the most important Subjects, if the Council were not intended to execute those Orders; and observing especially, that the Court of Directors have not at all addressed the Select Committee on that Occasion.

Page 36.

Mr. Floyer only refers to his former Opinion, already delivered in to the Board.

Mr. Russell thinks the Question is answered by the Determination of the Board, that the Court's Orders to the Select Committee stand unrepealed.

Mr.

Secret Conf.
27th June 1770.
Page 36.

Mr. Cartier refers to Examples, wherein the Company reply, in their General Letters, to such Transactions as respect the Select Committee only, and sees no Contradiction in understanding the present Orders in that Light.

The Opinion of Majority being, That all Orders addressed to the Board should be executed by the Governor and Council;

A Third Question was proposed by Mr. Barwell:

Whether the Board ought to act conformably to what appears to be the Intention of the Company? which Intention, he observes, is too strongly pointed out for the Board to mistake it.

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, That it is the Duty of the Board to fulfil the Company's Expectations, and not to object against the Mode by which they are expressed.

Mr. Lane concurs with Mr. Barwell; and

Mr. Jekyll does the same; unless, from a thorough Conviction, the Board should be satisfied, that a Deviation from what appears to be the Company's Intentions, would be more for the Company's Interest.

Page 37.

Mr. Hare is of Opinion, that the Board ought to pay a strict Regard to what appears the Intention of the Company, and to act as near to the Spirit of their Commands as possible.

Mr. Reed agrees in Opinion with Mr. Jekyll.

Mr. Floyer does not think the Board justified in putting their own Constructions on any Part of the Company's Letters, when positive Orders are opposed thereto *.

Page 38.

Mr. Russell is of Opinion, that the Council ought to confine themselves to the Company's Positive Orders †, and not exceed the Line drawn in January 1768.

The President is of Mr. Russell's Opinion.

Upon a Collection of Voices, the Majority are of Opinion, That the Board ought to act agreeably to what appears to be the Intention of the Company.

Whereupon a Fourth Question is immediately put; viz,

Who is to execute the Company's Orders to their Governor and Council?

Mr. Barwell's Opinion—The Governor and Council.

Mr. Lane's—The Governor and Council.

Mr. Jekyll—The Persons to whom the Orders are addressed.

Mr. Reed—The Governor and Council, in all Cases where they are not expressly referred to any other Department.

Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, That the Court of Directors have anticipated an Answer to that Question, by appointing a Council and Committee to perform the Duties of their several Departments.

Mr. Barwell wishes Mr. Floyer would be more full and explicit.

The Board deem Mr. Floyer's Answer sufficient.

Page 39.

Mr. Russell is of Opinion, that such Orders as relate to the Board should be executed by the Council; and that the same Rule should be observed by the Select Committee.

Mr. Cartier is of Mr. Russell's Opinion; and that the Rule of their Conduct be the Line which was drawn in January 1768, by the Court of Directors.

Mr. Barwell objects to these Opinions, as insufficient, and not directly to the Question:

The Board over-rule Mr. Barwell's Objections, and deem the Answers sufficient.

The Majority agree, That the Company's Orders to the Governor and Council ought to be executed by that Board.

Whereupon Mr. Barwell proposeth a Fifth Question.

Whether, upon the supervising Power being withdrawn from the Select Committee, it be abolished, or conferred on the Governor and Council?

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, That of Necessity a general supervising Power must exist in the Government; and that being withdrawn from the Select Committee, it devolves again on the Board of Course.

Page 40.

Messrs. Lane, Jekyll, Hare, and Reed, concur with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, that a general superintending Power being withdrawn from the Committee by the Court of Directors, is not vested in the Council, nor is it intended by the Court of Directors to exist at all; but that each Department enjoys its own particular superintending Power.

Mr. Russell is of Opinion, that the Board has a superintending Power in all Things, excepting those relative to the Select Committee; who are in all Matters relative to their own Department, entirely independent of the Council, except in Cases where the Committee is directed to obtain the Council's Approval.

The President concurs with Mr. Floyer.

The Majority are of Opinion, that as the general supervising Power is withdrawn from the Committee, it becomes vested in the Council of course.

Mr. Reed proposeth a Question—Whether it doth not appear to be the Meaning of the Court of Directors, that the Comptrollers of the Dewannee Revenues be appointed by, and continue under, the Directions of the Governor and Council?

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, That the Orders per Lapwing are too explicit to be mistaken; that a Committee of Revenue be appointed, and that they be under the Directions of the Board at large.

* It is not easy to conceive what Mr. Floyer's Meaning can be in the Expression; because, if taken literally, the Company's positive Orders are in direct Opposition to Mr. Floyer's avowed Sentiments, repeatedly expressed in the Course of this Debate.

† The same Observation occurs also on Mr. Russell's using the same Words.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 12.

Mr. Lane's Opinion is, That by the Tenor of the Lapwing's Letter, it is intended, that the Appointments and Transactions relative to the Dewannee Revenue, should be through the Channel of the Governor and Council.

Messrs. Jekyll and Hare concur with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Reed is of Opinion, That the Company's Commands are so express and clear, that they are not easily to be misunderstood, and that it is thereby intended; that the Comptrollers of the Dewannee Revenue should be appointed by the Board, and continue under its Direction.

Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, that the Company's Intention was to vest a sole Power in the Commissioners, to appoint Comptrollers of the Revenue, and to adopt a new Plan for the Management of the Collections: That in case the Commissioners should not arrive, the Consideration of the Court of Directors Plan would devolve upon the Select Committee; and that if the Select Committee should deem Councils of Revenue at Moorshedabad and at Patna necessary, the Appointment of Persons to compose those Boards of Revenue, should be made by the Governor and Council.

Mr. Russell's Opinion is, that if the Council of Revenue should be immediately under the Board at large, it would annex the Revenue Branch to the Council's Department; and that such a Regulation would be contrary to those Orders which constitute the Committee: And as the Board have determined that those Orders, which give Power to the Committee, are not repealed; such Determination of the Board is in itself an Answer to the Question:

Mr. Cartier concurs with Mr. Russell.

The Majority are of Opinion, that it is the Meaning of the Court of Directors, that the Governor and Council do execute their Orders relative to the Appointment of Comptrollers to the Dewannee Revenues, and that such Comptrollers be under the Direction of the Governor and Council.

Page 43.

Mr. Barwell submits another Question to the Board; viz.

Whether the Sentiments of the Majority are to be adopted, and the Minority to comply therewith?

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, that Government cannot exist if the Minority be permitted, at Pleasure, to controul the Sentiments of the Majority.

Messrs. Hare, Lane, and Reed, concur with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Jekyll also, provided the Sentiments of the Majority be not repugnant to the Orders of the Court of Directors.

Mr. Floyer's Opinion is, That the Majority of Voices in the Council should direct the Operations of Government, so far only as such Operations come under their Department; but that such Majority ought not in the least to influence the Committee, whilst they confine themselves within the Line prescribed by the Court of Directors.

Mr. Russell declares, That a Majority must sway in all Matters which come under the Council's Department.

The President is of Opinion, that the Power of the Council respects the Disbursements of Money upon extraordinary Emergencies, and the Approval or Ratification of Treaties: That all other Proceedings of the Committee are foreign to the Council, and laid before the Council rather for their Information than their Controul.

The Voices being collected, the Majority are of Opinion, That all Matters submitted to the Judgment of the Board, are to be determined by a Majority of Voices.

The Orders of the Court of Directors, upon which has arisen so great an Altercation between the Members of the Council and Select Committee at Bengal, were transmitted in a General Letter to the Governor and Council; and the Lapwing Snow was bought on Purpose, and dispatched Express, that no Time might be lost in conveying the said Orders to that Presidency; and there was not any Letter at all sent per that Conveyance to the Select Committee.

The Paragraphs, which are more immediately connected with the Subject contain these Words; viz. *
" Par. 15. A Plan of Reformation, of so extensive a Nature, cannot be effected by One Man; it must be the constant Attention of many; and for this Purpose, we have resolved to establish a Committee, of some of our ablest Servants, for the Management of the Dewannee Revenues at Muxadavad, for the Bengal Province, and at Patna for that of Bahar.

" 16. The Gentlemen to be so appointed shall be Comptrollers for the Management of the Dewannee Revenues, under your Direction; and they are to have so many other of our Junior Covenanted Servants for Assistants, as from Time to Time may be found necessary to be sent into the several Provinces; to correct Abuses, and maintain the intended Reformation.

" 17. The Object of this Council must be; first, to inform themselves of the real State of the Collections in every Part; that is to say, what Rents are at this Time actually paid by the Tenants, and what was paid formerly? What is the Nature of the Cultivation, and what the chief Produce of each District; and whether, in that Respect, there seems a Prospect of Improvement. They are next to inform themselves of the Amount of the Charges of Collection for some Years past, in as particular a Manner as possible; and you are then to judge how many of the Aumils, and other Officers, among whom those immense Sums have been divided, may be spared. This Saving, as far as it can reasonably be carried, at the same Time that it will be a Profit to the Company in Point of Revenue, will likewise be a Relief to the Tenant; for it cannot be doubted, but that these numerous Instruments of Power lay the Inhabitants under Contribution, in various secret Ways, over and above what appears upon the Face of Accounts.

* Compare these with Par. 5, 6, 13, to 20.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 12.

" 18. In this Reformation you are to proceed with a moderate, steady, and persevering Spirit of Enquiry; looking rather to the Prevention of Frauds for the future, than the Punishment of those Offences which have already passed; and which, if not justified, are at least much palliated, by the immemorial Custom of the Moorish Government."

Secret Conf.
3d July 1770.
Page 45.

Mr. Reed, in a Minute, observes, That the above quoted Orders are full, positive, and explicit. That he cannot conceive it was intended by the Court of Directors, that Matters of so great Moment should be delayed till the Arrival of the Commissioners, the Time of whose Departure was not so much as fixed when the Lapwing sailed. That it is improbable the Court would have been at the Charge of an Express, to convey to the Governor and Council certain Orders which could not be supposed to take place before the Arrival of the Commissioners; because, in case this had been their Intention, they might have delivered the Orders to the Commissioners themselves.

Page 46.

That Expectation of seeing the Commissioners, had induced him to remain so long silent: But that Six Months having passed since they were at the Cape; and the Revenues being in Arrears, and in a perplexed and declining State; not merely owing to the Calamities arising from want of Rain, but by the Venality and Mismanagement of the Collectors; the Case was now altered, and the Evils required a speedy and effectual Remedy.

That the Appointment of Civil Servants * by the Select Committee to Posts in the Service, without the Knowledge of the Council, is an unusual Stretch of Power; and could not but alarm those Members who were left ignorant of such Appointments.

That the Discontinuance of a Measure unanimously adopted by the Council and Select Committee, to form a Secret Department, and to lay the Select Committee's Proceedings from Time to Time before the Council for their Approbation and Concurrence, was also a Matter of great Concern to him; and therefore, being desirous of seeing the Company's Expectations answered respecting the Dewannee Revenues, and the general Good of the Country promoted, he judged it his Duty to concur in the Proposal made at the Board the 19th of June. But that as to a Discussion of the Select Committee's Powers being a primary or immediate Object, he was certain it was far from being intended by those Gentlemen who now differed from the Gentlemen of the Select Committee in their Sentiments upon the above Subject, and who promoted the general Measure proposed to be agitated at that Time.

Page 49.

That the Select Committee had not waited for the Day in which it was unanimously agreed in Council to take up the Matter; but had met as a Select Committee, and pronounced the late Resolution of the Council irregular. That the Council and Select Committee had heretofore unanimously understood, that the general superintending Power was withdrawn from the Select Committee, and that it had devolved of course on the Council was very evident; because they had agreed thereupon to form a Secret Department in the Council, and determined that the Select Committee's Proceedings should, from Time to Time, be laid before the said Secret Department, for their Consideration and Concurrence. And that the Affairs of the Company, respecting the Dewannee Revenues in particular, were considered at that Time as cognizable by the Secret Department, appears fully from the Conduct of the Select Committee; who referred their Plan for supervising the Collections of the Revenues, together with the Instructions † prepared for the intended Supervisors, to the Council at large for their Determination; and which Supervisors were also appointed by the said Board. That it appears very extraordinary, that the Members of the Select Committee should now see the Matter in a different Light; and determine that the Council can have nothing to do with the Dewannee Revenues, even notwithstanding the Company's express Orders transmitted to the Governor and Council for that Purpose.

Page 51.

That although the Court of Directors had at Times signified, through the Channel of their General Letter, their Displeasure concerning the Conduct of the Select Committee, it had been principally respecting Measures which had been adopted with the Concurrence of the Board at large. And as to its being urged by the Select Committee, that it had been a common Practice for the Council to transmit such Extracts from their Letters as might be deemed cognizable by the said Committee; if this proves any Thing, it must be, that the Board did not see the Lapwing's Dispatches in that Light, and therefore never transmitted them to the Committee; but that the Board's General Letter of 31st January last, wherein they reply to the Lapwing's Letter in question, is an absolute and striking Proof, that they were then unanimously of Opinion, That the Orders received per Lapwing, relative to the Dewannee Revenues, were intended to be carried into Execution by the Governor and Council.

Mr. Barwell recapitulates the several Opinions and Resolutions of the Board on the Subject at their last Meeting; viz.

That the Board is reprehensible for not executing the Company's Orders.

That the Board ought to execute those Orders.

That the general supervising Power rests with the Council.

That

That the Instructions per Lapwing are explicit.

That a Committee of Revenues is ordered to be appointed, under the Direction of the President and Council.

That Government cannot exist, if a Minority may over rule a Majority.

That the Powers of the Select Committee were not formally revoked.

As the Gentlemen of the Select Committee have insisted much upon the last-mentioned Resolution; and also, that the said Committee's Authority is independent of the Board; he declares it not his Province to discuss those Points, but that the Company must decide thereupon for themselves.

That if he has erred in his Opinion, it could not be productive of Evil, but tended only to fulfil the Company's Orders.

That the Season of Collection was far advanced, and the Arrival of the Commissioners become exceedingly precarious.

That when the Council * wrote to the Court, and informed them that they should postpone the Execution of the Plan till further Orders, it was because the Commissioners were daily expected; but as near Seven Months had now elapsed since the Aurora left the Cape, there was too much Reason to fear she is lost.

That if the Board does not execute the Court's Plan, there is no Probability of its being adopted at all.

That the Select Committee, by concurring in the said Letter of January 31st, admitted the Propriety of the Board's taking the Subject into Consideration, though they now declare it foreign from the Council's Department, and an Encroachment upon the independent Authority and exclusive Powers of the Select Committee: That the Subject is the same as it was at that Time, and many of the Parties the same: That it not being his Intention to attempt a Refutation of the Arguments urged by the Select Committee in Support of an independent Authority, but without questioning such an Authority to confine himself to the Powers delegated to the Council by the Court of Directors, and to act conformably to what appears to be their Intentions.

The Board agree to take Mr. Barwell's Minute into Consideration; but Mr. Russel dissents from such Resolution.

Mr. Jekyll observes, That after what has passed, he conceives that nothing can occur to impede their yielding ready and punctual Obedience to Commands, very explicit in themselves, and apparently so very necessary to the Interest of the Company, as are the Orders per Lapwing; but as the Measure has met with Opposition from the Gentlemen of the Select Committee, he deems it his Duty to assign his Reasons for concurring so long in a Delay thereof, and for now urging its immediate Execution.

That when the Board advised the Court they should postpone the Plan till further Orders, they hoped the Supervisors already sent out would in some Degree have answered the proposed Benefits; but that their Appointment had only served to confirm him in his Opinion of the Necessity of an early Adoption of the Plan transmitted by the Court of Directors: That the Safety of the Commissioners is now become exceedingly uncertain; and even should they arrive, he deems the Court's Orders per Lapwing so full, that he believes little more could be added by the said Commissioners on that Point.

That the Year being now far advanced, if the Plan be further delayed, no Advantages could be expected therefrom in the Course of the present Season.

That the Gentlemen of Select Committee have given sufficient Reason to doubt of their Acquiescence in the proposed System at all. He further observes, that although the Select Committee have asserted an independent Authority, he does not think them warranted in some of their Proceedings; and particularly, he believes them not authorized to appoint Servants to Employments without the Knowledge and Concurrence of the Board; nor can he suppose they have any independent Right, as hath been pretended, to the Disbursements of Money, unless in Cases of Emergency.

That he means to contend for Authority no further than as it respects the Execution of the Company's positive Orders.

That he cannot but regard Protests against the Liberty of discussing Measures at the Council Board as altogether unprecedented, and as carrying an undue Air of Intimidation.

That the Motive for proposing a Consultation to be held in Council, was Respect to the Company's Orders, and not solely to discuss the Select Committee's Powers, as had been alledged by the Gentlemen who compose that Committee.

That it appears to him, that the Majority of the Members of Council have always disavowed such a Sentiment; and he does now, on his own Behalf, formally disavow such Intention.

That he only concurs in supporting such an Authority as is necessary to enable the Council to execute those of the Company's Orders, for which he deems the Board responsible.

That the Reprehension of the Board for the Select Committee's Conduct implies, that the Court of Directors do not, by any Means, deem the Select Committee independent of the Council, but rather the contrary.

That the Select Committee must have been of the same Opinion, when they themselves moved for the Establishment of a Secret Department; before which Department it was proposed that the Select Committee's Proceedings should be regularly laid, for their Approbation or otherwise; and which had, till of late, been the Practice of the Two Departments. That in the Letter per Lapwing, the Governor and Council were directed to adopt a particular Mode for regulating the Dewannee Revenues, which was to be under their own Controul.

That the Governor and Council must have viewed the Matter in that Light, when they subscribed, in their Secret Department, to the Reply made to the Court's Orders upon the Subject.

That Mr. Reed's Sentiments, before expressed, being perfectly consonant with his own, he avoids a Repetition of what has been delivered to the Board by Mr. Reed.

62. Mr. Hare agrees with Mr. Reed; and further observes, on the President's Minute, that as the Council and Committee draw their Conclusions and Pretensions from one and the same Authority, they may possibly both be in some Respects erroneous: That if the Board is in an Error, it errs in fulfilling the Company's Commands; but that the Select Committee's Error, if such it should prove, is, in aiming at an independent Authority, to judge whether it be proper to obey the Company's Commands or not.

In consequence of Mr. Barwell's Minutes, another Question is proposed to the Board; viz.

Whether the Company's Intentions, of having Councils of Controul at Muxadabad and at Patna, shall take place?

Mr. Barwell is of Opinion, That the Company's Intentions should take place. Messrs. Reed, Hare, and Jekyll, concur with Mr. Barwell.

Mr. Floyer is of Opinion, That the Council of Controul are intended to be appointed by the Commissioners only; and that, in case of Accident happening to them, the Plan already * adopted by the Select Committee should continue in force till the Orders of the Court of Directors be known.

Mr. Russell thinks the Subject in Debate does not come properly before the Council; but gives it as his Opinion, that the Company's Intention should take place, and that the Measures should be adopted by the Select Committee.

Mr. Cartier is of Opinion, That the Measure ought not to be adopted without more ample Instructions from the Company.

The Majority being for the Question;

Messrs. Beecher, Reed, Laurell, and Graham, are appointed a Committee of Revenues at Muxadabad; and Messrs. Alexander, Vanlittart, and Palk, are appointed to the like Office at Patna.

Whereupon the President again urges, as a Reason for suspending the above Appointments, That the Plan in question is intended to be carried into Execution by the Commissioners: That those Commissioners being furnished with ample Instructions, may either approve the Plan proposed, or adopt any other that may appear more advantageous: That, in the Course of the Year, the Council may be ordered to open the Commissioners Instructions; without which, they may wander from the chief Design of the Company: That the deep Distress of the Country, and an empty Treasury, together with the improper Working of Imagination in the Natives upon every important Change of System, render the present an improper Time to try the Experiment: That though he does not think the Measure in itself dangerous, he thinks it ill-timed: That Three Months sooner, or Three Months later, would be more proper; because, as the Collections were then just commencing, it might possibly prove a Means of checking them: And that no Alteration ought to be made for Two Months at least.

The respective Councils of Controul were thereupon ordered to hold themselves in Readiness to take Charge of their several Appointments, by the First Day of September ensuing; of which the Resident at the Durbar was also advised.

Secret Conf.
17th July 1770,

Draft of Instructions being prepared for the Council of Controul, and ordered to remain for Consideration;

Mr. Floyer dissents from that Resolution; and gives it as his Opinion, That all Orders and Instructions of that Nature should proceed from the Select Committee, they being alone responsible for all Matters relative to the Dewannee Revenue.

Mr. Russell also dissents, for the like Reasons.

The + Council have complained, in their Secret Letter, that the Proceedings of the Select Committee are not laid before the Board, for the Approval of the Council, as in Times past, but for their Information only.

Secret Conf.
24th July 1770,

The Circumstance adverted to, and which seems to have given Rise to the above Complaint, appears not very accurately represented by the Council in their Letter to the Court of Directors.

The Fact is this; the Select Committee having laid their Proceedings of the 9th and 21st June before the Council; and the President having declared, that a Part thereof were for the Approbation of the Council, and the Remainder for their Information only, it appears, that the Subject of the Proceedings of the Select Committee, which were submitted to the Council for their Approbation, * Mr. Barwell notes here, that the Measures said to be adopted by the Select Committee, were only recommended by the Select Committee to the Council; but that it was adopted by the Council at large.

were two-fold : The first, respecting the Appointment * of Four Persons to be Supervisors for the Bahar Province ; and the Second, was the Deviation which they had made from the original Plan of Supervisors. The Appointment of the Four Supervisors was † afterwards confirmed by the Council, in their Secret Department. The other was ordered to lay by for Consideration.

Secret Conf.
24 July 1770.

The only Impropriety of the Select Committee's Conduct in this Instance seems to be, in having so long ‡ deferred to lay those Matters before the Council, to which the Concurrence of that Board was deemed necessary.

In Answer to the Dissents of Messrs. Russell and Floyer, Mr. Barwell desires it may be remembered, that neither Mr. Russell nor Mr. Floyer had contended for exclusive Powers, in order to fulfil the Company's Orders ; but to judge of, and to controul, the Company's Commands at their Pleasure.

That he hopes the Court of Directors will not be displeased, that the System they have laid down for regulating the Dewannee Collections, has been so long delayed ; when they consider, that a Want of Harmony in the Execution of Orders, must ever greatly embarrass those who most wish to fulfil them.

Mr. Floyer answers, That although he may unhappily differ in Sentiment from a Majority of the Board, it shall never influence him to counteract their Proceedings, nor render him backward in enforcing them.

The Board having notified the Appointment of Councils of Revenue to Mr. * Becher at the Durbar, and Mr. Alexander at Patna.

Mr. Becher replies, That so long as his Stay in the Country will permit, he shall not fail to promote the Company's Welfare, and the Interest of the Country, in Conjunction with the Persons appointed to form the intended Council of Controul at Muxadabad ; but laments, that the Gentlemen so appointed should be so soon recalled from their Employments as Supervisors ; and declares his own Resolution to proceed to Europe by one of the Ships of the present Season.

Mr. Alexander promiseth entire Obedience to the Council's Appointments and Commands on this Subject.

Secret Conf.

Instructions having been prepared by the Board, for the Guidance of the Gentlemen appointed to be Councils of Controul, and those Instructions being founded upon, or consonant to the Letter and Spirit of the Orders transmitted by the Court of Directors per Lapwing, there would remain little Doubt of the Measure operating according to the Intentions of the Court, were it not for sundry Orders and Resolutions of the Select Committee, which seem but too evidently to clash with the Directions of the Council ; and, if enforced, must in all Probability obstruct, if not entirely defeat, the Ends proposed to be obtained by the Plan in question. It becomes necessary therefore to take a View of the Proceedings of the Committee on this Subject, in their Select Department. The Select Committee having communicated Copies of their Proceedings to Messrs. Becher and Alexander, observe, in their Letter to the Court of Directors, that they cannot avoid remarking, with peculiar Satisfaction, that their Sentiments are confirmed by their absent Members ; but it evidently appears, that this is rather a partial Representation of the Case ; for as the Proceedings § of the Select Committee, to the 28th June only, were transmitted to their absent Members, together with Extracts of the Company's Letters, those absent Members could only judge from Appearances, as represented by one Side of the Question, to that Period ; and their Answers only prove, ** that they concur in Opinion with the President and Select Committee, so far as the Lights then before them enabled them to judge of the Matter in dispute, without knowing what Arguments had been, or might be urged by the Council, in Support of the other Side of the Question.

Select Letters from, 31st August
1770, Par. 18.

The Council further represent to the Court of Directors, that the Select Committee have not scrupled to frustrate the Intentions of the Council, in the Appointment of Supervisors, by annulling the Powers which were vested in those Supervisors by the Council ; which they say has been done, without receiving any new Lights on the Subject.

Select Letter
1770, Par. 28.

Upon examining this Assertion, it appears, by Mr. Becher's Letter, that the extraordinary Drought had occasioned the Loss of more than One Third of the Inhabitants by Famine. That in some Places the Living were reduced to the Necessity of feeding upon the Dead. That the Balance due from the Zemindars and Farmers amounts to near 18 Lacks of Rupees. That his Attention is engaged in considering a Plan for the present Year's Collections. That no Man has more at Heart the supervising Plan than himself ; but that Innovations, in the Mode of conducting the Revenues, should be gradual, and tried in a few Districts, before it became general. That it would be imprudent to risk a large Deduction from the present Year's Revenues, by a total Change in the Mode of Collections. That the Uncertainty in the Crops, and of Course of the Collections for the present Year, and the absolute Necessity of immediate Supplies, occasion him to consider the latter as the great Object of his Care.

venues of the approaching Season, unless they may be supported, and permitted to make their Collections, without Interruption from the Supervisors. That they declare the Reason why their Balances are so large, is, because of the Uncertainty of Measures to be pursued. That, the Shroffs will not advance Money to the Cultivator; and therefore he requests to know the Select Committee's Opinion, whether this be a proper Time for the Company to submit to so heavy a Loss, as must be incurred by a Stoppage of Public Credit.

That with respect to the general Plan of Supervisors, there appear but Two Ways of proceeding in it. The First is, to throw the Collections into the Supervisor's Hands: The Second is, not to suffer them to interfere, otherwise than in Support of the old Collectors, for the present Year. And upon the maturest Deliberation, he is of Opinion, that the latter Scheme should be adopted for the present Year; but he submits the Matter to the Committee; and declares he will punctually obey whatever Orders he may receive from them. That after a plentiful Season, and upon the Prospect of another, Experiments may be tried without much Danger.

351.

That although he had, in March last, recommended that English Gentlemen should settle the Bundabust in the several Districts, he did not then foresee the Drought which has since happened; nor was he aware of the Alarm it would occasion to the Zemindars, who apprehended their Authority was to be curbed by the Supervisors. He therefore repeats his Wish, that they may not have the Management of the Revenues till next Year; and that in the mean Time they may be fully employed in encouraging Trade and Cultivation, and in obtaining a better Knowledge of the Country, and its Capability of Improvement; all which must be of great Use, when we come to step forth as Principals in the Government of Bengal, which he presumes will be soon; but that, until we do this, the Authority of the Country Government should have its full Influence, which is prevented, by the controlling Powers vested in the Supervisors.

352.

That although Art and Intrigue may possibly be at the Bottom of the Zemindars Complaints, nevertheless he is of Opinion, that young Gentlemen, with little Experience, will not be able to counteract the Obstructions occasioned by the Natives; and that it would be imprudent to risk the present Loss it might occasion to the Company.

354.

That although he disapproves the putting the Collections in general into the Hands of the Supervisors, he wishes the Experiment may be tried in one or two Districts; where, nevertheless, the Supervisor should be instructed to pay proper Regard to the Orders of Mahomed Reza Cawn, whose Authority should be supported whilst he is continued in his present Station. That he is happy in having been the Instrument of preventing the Supervisors from proceeding to their Districts in October last; because Experience has fully convinced him, that in case they had so proceeded, the Revenues would have fallen much further in Arrears. Mr. Becher also transmits a Representation of Mahomed Reza Cawn, who says, that Persons decline giving Security for the Collections, because the Power is divided. That the Tenants will insinuate to the English Gentlemen, that they suffer Oppressions, in order to avoid paying what is justly due to the Landlord; by which Means the Circar will be defrauded.

358.

But notwithstanding these Representations, the Select Committee agree to inform the Resident at the Durbar, that as the supervising Plan was adopted with the utmost Circumspection, and upon the maturest Deliberation, they cannot think of receding therefrom, more especially as they consider the Conduct of the Zemindars, Aumils, and Shroffs, as the last Struggle of desperate Men, who have too long feasted on the Spoils of the Poor: That there is not a single Difficulty started by the Zemindars and Aumils, but what arises from Views of the grossest Self-interest.

362.

The Select Committee having fully answered all the Objections of Mr. Becher, and of Mahomed Reza Cawn, and shewed plainly, that were they to annul the controlling Power of the Supervisors, they would then only serve to increase the Company's Expences, and answer no good Purpose at all; they therefore strenuously urge the Resident at the Durbar to exert himself; and hope, that with the Assistance of Mahomed Reza Cawn he will not fail to succeed in his Endeavours.—Hereupon,

Select Conf.
21st June 1770.
Page 406.

The Resident at the Durbar renews the Subject, and continues to expatiate very largely upon the Inconveniences occasioned by the Supervising Plan; and declares positively, that, on the footing which the Supervisors are directed to remain, the Business of the Collectors cannot proceed: That the Select Committee's late Answer to his Letter had put an effectual Stop to his settling a Bundabust at the City; that Business was therefore at a Stand, the Season advancing, and the Revenues in a very precarious State: That all his Endeavours are ineffectual, to persuade the Zemindars, Aumils, and Farmers, that the Supervisors shall not impede the Collections, but that, on the contrary, they shall yield them all possible Assistance: That although the Committee apprehend the Zemindars Objections arise from the grossest Self interest, he differs in Opinion, and believes they have the Appearance of Reason on their Side: That the Stoppage of Public Credit still continues, and is likely to do so: That the Treasury is at a very low Ebb indeed, and the Demands upon it enormous, and the Prospects of Satisfaction very distant. He therefore hopes, that what he has before recommended may be adopted, which, he adds, will give a fair Trial to the Supervising Plan, without any very great Risk to the Revenues; and that securing them for the present Year is an Object of greater Importance to the Company than any Advantages which can accrue from all the Supervisors being invested with their controlling Powers One Year sooner. He therefore proposeth, that Five of the principal Supervisors should first exercise their Abilities, and evince thereby the Propriety of the Plan in Question: That although he allows that the others are promising young Men, he cannot think it proper that they should be invested immediately with controlling Powers, but that the Zemindars, mindars, Aumils, and Farmers, should receive the most positive Assurances, that the said Supervisors should not interfere during the present Year's Collections; and he adds further, that he cannot help recommending a Farming System, in general, above all others.

Select Conf.
21 June 1770:
Page 412.

That he apprehends Rigour with the Zemindars, in order to compel them to embrace our Supervising System, can answer no good Purpose whatever; but that, in a more plentiful Season, they will not be able to throw so many Obstacles in the Way of the intended Plan.

413.

That in proceeding by Degrees all Things may be accomplished to our Wishes; but that, by attempting the Whole at once, a present Loss may be sustained, which our Affairs will not permit, and which may probably prejudice the whole Plan: That it rests with the Committee to put the great Machine in Motion; for, on the present Plan, it will not go: That they must either recede in Part from what they have already done, or proceed further.

That his Opinion stands on Record, and it only now remains for him to obey Orders; which, he assures the Committee, shall be punctually observed to the best of his Judgment.

The above being duly considered by the Committee, they Resolve,

That the Resident's Arguments and Objections are of so serious a Nature, and have so much Weight, that they are induced to acquiesce in his Opinion, and to make Trial of a controlling Power in supervising a few Districts only at first; whereby the Danger, arising from the Introduction of the new System generally and suddenly, may be avoided. They also Agree, that previous to the Dispatch of their Letter to the Resident at the Durbar, their Resolutions be laid before the Council, for their Information.

But, at a future Consultation, the Select Committee depart from this Resolution; and are of Opinion, that although their Intention was to have laid their Resolutions before the Council, before they issue them in Orders to the Resident at the Durbar, yet they now consider, that were they to do this, whilst the present Altercations subsist between the Two Boards, it might produce improper Delay. And as Mr. Becher represents, that speedy Instructions are absolutely necessary, in order to prevent great Detriment to the Collections, they therefore resolve, that the Orders of the Select Committee be issued to Mr. Becher, without further Loss of Time; which was done accordingly.

Select Conf.
28th June 1770:

446.

The Council observe on this Occasion, that the Court of Directors will learn, from the Instructions given by the Board to the Council of Revenue, what would have been the Sentiments of the Board, had they been consulted * upon the Propriety of revoking the former Orders and Authority given to the Supervisor by the Council †.

The Council having carried the Point in question, and appointed Councils of Controul at Muxadabad and Patna, according to the Commands of the Court of Directors; the Select Committee declare it their unanimous Opinion, that the Proceedings of the Council should be opposed with all the Authority of the Select Committee; and resolve to abide by and uphold their first Resolutions; and to insist upon the same implicit Obedience from the Council, when assembled, which they now expect from the Resident at the Durbar, and the Supervisor of the Bahar Province. And Accordingly the Select Committee inform Messrs. Becher and Alexander, That although the Council, in their Secret Department, have proceeded to establish the said Councils of Revenue at Moorshedabad and at Patna; yet it has in no Respect shaken the first Determination of the Select Committee, who will continue to maintain their Authority, so far as their Abilities extend, without Regard to any Acts or Proceedings of the Council in Prejudice thereof; and that they shall direct the Council, when assembled, to pay implicit Obedience to the Orders of the Select Committee.

Select Conf.
19th July 1770:
Pages 468 and 469.

Mr. Becher answers the Select Committee, That as he hath ever with Cheerfulness obeyed their Commands, so he assures them he shall always continue firm and uniform in his Obedience, unless controuled by the Authority of a Superior's Power.—But it does not appear that Mr. Alexander has returned any Reply whatever to the above Letter and Requisition of the Select Committee.

Select Conf.
9th August 1770:
Page 493.

‡ Several Members of the Council have observed, that it was the known Sense of the Select Committee, that the Company's Orders per Lapwing should not be carried into Execution; and the Charge seems but too fully proved by the Select Committee's own Declaration. Their Words were these; that the Majority of Voices had instituted Councils of Revenue, in direct Violation of the legal Powers, and contrary to the Intention of the Select Committee.

Select Conf.

This Point being fully and fairly ascertained, throws a great Light upon the Controversy. The Council, so far as appears by the Records transmitted per Lapwing, have only contended for a Power, or Permission, to execute the Company's positive Orders, in a Case where no Latitude whatever had been left them to depart therefrom. The Select Committee have ventured to oppose the Proceedings of the Council; and thereby to frustrate, so far as in them lay, the Intention of the Company.

The Select Committee have rested almost the Whole of their Plea upon the Commissioners being appointed to carry the Measure into Execution. But this Objection the Council have largely replied to, and fully refuted. In the Company's Instructions to the Commissioners, the Measure is only stated to them as a desirable Object; the Plan itself, and full Directions for carrying it into Execution, were transmitted to the Governor and Council alone. It must therefore seem a forced Conclusion to infer, that the Court of Directors intended that the Execution of their Orders per Lapwing, respecting Councils of Controul, should be delayed until the Arrival of the said Commissioners in Bengal; which Event, from the Nature of Things, and the Probability of their being long detained upon the Coast in order to finish the War, and regulate the Affairs of that Presidency, could not be expected speedily to have taken place.

Secret Letter,
8th of Sept.
1770, Para. 19,
20, 21, 23, 28.

The Contest has been carried so far, and urged with so much Warmth, that the Minds of both Parties seem in no small Degree embittered. The Council appear determined to exert their Right to issue Orders to the Councils of Controul; and the Select Committee continue to insist upon an implicit Regard being paid to their Orders. The Council and Committee have differed essentially in many of their Opinions, respecting the Plan and Institution itself, and the Powers with which English Supervisors should in general be invested; and have already more than once clashed and counteracted each other. A Spirit of Recrimination seems to have taken place. The Select Committee complain of Want of Decency and Candour in the Council; but the Members of Council seem to have conducted themselves more candidly than their Opponents, through the Whole of this extraordinary Transaction; and they have in their Favour this Argument; namely, the Struggle on their Part, has been only for Liberty to obey their Masters positive Orders; whilst the Select Committee have no such Reason to urge in Favour of their Conduct, in opposing the Execution of the said Orders.

PAPERS relating to the Dismission of Messrs. Cartier, Becher, &c.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 10th April 1771.

Par. 154. As the present advanced Season will not admit of such a Detention of our Ships destined for Coast and Bay as would be requisite for our entering into a minute and deliberate Disquisition of the important Points of your late Advices, we shall take the same into Consideration after the Departure of the Ships now under Dispatch, and shall transmit to you, by some early Conveyance, such Observations and Orders as may appear to us requisite to guide your Conduct in the important Affairs under your Administration.

155. We however must here observe, that notwithstanding the critical Circumstances of your Presidency must have rendered the Exertion of your utmost Abilities, and the firmest Union in your Councils, absolutely necessary; and although the greatest Circumspection became your Duty, in order to preserve that Dignity to your Government, which alone could procure you a proper Degree of Consequence; both in the Eyes of Friends and Enemies; yet we are concerned to find that Disputes between our Council and Select Committee have occasioned an extraordinary Waste of Time, and answered no salutary Purpose whatever. As we shall be more explicit upon this Subject by another Conveyance, we do in the mean Time positively direct, that all Measures which we have heretofore recommended to the Consideration of our Governor and Council, be, with all convenient Dispatch, decided upon according to the Opinion of the Majority of the Council; and that all Orders conveyed through that Channel be enforced immediately, and carried into effectual Execution; and particularly that the Appointment of Councils at Muxadabad and Patna, for the better Management of the Collections, as settled by our President and Council in their Secret Department, do immediately take place.

156. And in order to prevent Delay of Business, or Inconvenience to our Affairs, by any Misapprehension or undue Application of the Powers which it is our Pleasure should be vested in our President and Council, or Select Committee, respectively, we have thought proper, and do hereby direct, that our Select Committee do regard those Objects only as peculiar to their Department, which are particularly specified in our Letter, dated 23d March 1770, Paragraph 180, to which you are hereby referred. And our further Pleasure is, that all other Business be conducted by our President and Council, in their Public or Secret Department, as the Case may require, until a Deviation from these our Orders and Instructions may be warranted by our express Authority, and not otherwise.

162. Considering the Importance of the Government of Bengal, and being well persuaded of the Abilities of Warren Hastings, Esquire, for the due Discharge of the Office of Governor, we do hereby appoint him Second of Council at Fort William, and to succeed Mr. Cartier as President and Governor of Bengal; and we have accordingly directed Mr. Hastings to proceed to Fort William as expeditiously as possible, to take his Seat in Council at your Presidency.

Par. 179. Having taken into our most serious Consideration the Magnitude and Importance of the Management of our Affairs depending on your Civil Establishment; and that the Administration thereof may be conducted to the greatest Advantage of the Company, and the Prosperity of all under their Protection, we have fully instructed the Commissioners to carry the following Resolutions into Execution. That with the Governor, and exclusive of the Military Commanders, the Council of Bengal Bengal shall consist of Nine Members, and no more. That none of the Council be permitted to act as Chiefs of any of the subordinate Factories, but shall all constantly reside at Calcutta; the Resident at the Durbar, if that Office shall be filled by a Counsellor, and the Military Commander, excepted. That no Member of the Council shall have any Employ annexed to that Station, but that all Offices be exercised by the Senior Servants, not Members of the Board. And that the said Council be formed into proper Committees, that the Control, Superintendency, and Direction of the Company's Affairs at the Presidency and Subordinates may be faithfully and impartially transacted, to their greatest Benefit and Advantage; you must therefore comply with such Instructions and Directions as they shall think proper to give relating thereto, until you shall receive our Orders thereon.

180. Besides the foregoing Regulations, it is our Pleasure that our Governor of Bengal, Commander in Chief for the Time being, and Three Senior Members of our Council, be a Select Committee, with Power to make Regulations respecting Peace and War, and negotiate with the Country Powers; but not finally to conclude any Treaty, until the Terms and Conditions of such Treaty shall have been first approved by our Governor and Council. The Governor singly shall correspond with the Country Powers; but all Letters, before they shall be by him sent, must be communicated to the other Members of the Select Committee, and receive their Approbation; and also all Letters whatever which may be received by the Governor, in Answer to, or in the Course of his Correspondence, shall likewise be laid before the said Select Committee for their Information and Consideration; and all their Proceedings and Correspondence must be regularly entered on their Consultations, and sent Home in Duplicate.

At a Committee of Correspondence, the 19th April 1771.

The Committee having at several Meetings taken into very mature Consideration the Advices lately received from Bengal, by the Lapwing, whereby it appears, that the Company's Orders to the Governor and Council, respecting the establishing of Councils at Muxadabad, and at Patna, for the Purposes of regulating the Collections of the Revenues, are not carried into Execution.

And it also appearing, that Six Months had elapsed since the Governor and Council had been in Possession of the said Orders: The Council did not think it consistent with their Duty, or for the Interest of the Company, that the Company's Orders, sent express to the Governor and Council per Lapwing, should be longer delayed, they therefore resolved, that the same should be taken into Consideration. Upon which it appears that a Difference of Opinion arose between the Council and Select Committee, the latter being of Opinion, that the Company's Orders per Lapwing could only be carried into Execution by the Commissioners, although expressly directed to the Governor and Council; which Opinion appears the more extraordinary, because the Governor and Council, including the said Select Committee, had, by their Letter dated the 31st January 1770, left no Room to doubt, but that they then unanimously understood the Company's Orders, transmitted per Lapwing, as particularly addressed to the Governor and Council, and also expressed their Satisfaction, that they had in a great Degree anticipated the said Orders of the Court of Directors, upon that important Subject.

And it further appears, that the Difference of Opinion between the Council and Committee has operated so far as to produce a very dangerous Difusion in the Council at Bengal; and this at a Time when Harmony seems especially necessary among the Company's Servants, as well to forward and accomplish the Views of the Company, respecting a Reformation in the Province, as to frustrate those of European or Country Powers, should they at any Time entertain hostile Intentions towards the Possessions of the Company on that Side of India.

And having fully considered the bad Effects which have already been the Consequence of this unhappy and dangerous State of the Council of Bengal, and the Evil Tendency it may have to weaken Administration, and render it inadequate to the great Objects of Reform and Regulation, which are now before the Governor and Council; the Committee are of Opinion, that the Opposition of the Select Committee of Bengal, has prevented the Council from effectually executing the Company's Orders transmitted per Lapwing.

That the Difference between the Council and Select Committee, is of such a Nature, and has been carried to so great a Length, that a cordial Union is by no Means likely again to take place between the Council and Select Committee of Bengal.

That for the above Reasons, and to prevent greater Inconveniences to the Company's Affairs, it is the Opinion of this Committee, that Mr. Becher no longer remain as a Member of our Council in Bengal; and that Mr. Claud Russell and Mr. Charles Floyer be removed from Bengal to Fort Saint George, and that they take their Ranks in the Stations they would now have held in the Company's Service respectively, in case they had remained until this Time without Interruption on the Fort Saint George Establishment.

At a Court of Directors, held on Tuesday the 23d April 1771.

The Committee of Correspondence, in their Minutes of the 19th Instant, offering it as their Opinion, that Mr. Claud Russell and Mr. Charles Floyer, Members of the Council at Bengal, be removed moved to Fort Saint George, and that they take their Rank in the Stations they would have held in the Company's Service respectively, in case they had remained until this Time without Interruption upon the Fort Saint George Establishment.

And the Court entering into the Consideration thereof,

A Letter from the Select Committee at Bengal to Messrs. Becher and Alexander, enclosed on their Consultations of the 19th July 1770, was read.

And a Debate of considerable Length ensuing thereupon, it was, on a Motion, and the Question being put,

Resolved, That the further Consideration thereof be postponed till To-morrow.

At a Court of Directors, held on Wednesday the 24th April 1771;

The Court resuming the Consideration of the Minutes of the Committee of Correspondence read Yesterday, respecting the Removal of Messrs. Russell and Floyer from Bengal to Fort Saint George, and Recourse being had to the Advice received from Bengal by the Lapwing, it was, after very mature Deliberation, and on the Questions being severally put by the Ballot, Resolved, That Mr. Claud Russell and Mr. Charles Floyer be removed from Bengal to Fort Saint George, and that they take their Rank in the Stations they would have held in the Company's Service respectively, in case they had remained until this Time without Interruption upon the Fort Saint George Establishment. That Mr. Becher be left out of the Council.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 25th April 1771.

Par. 1. Since closing our Letter of the 10th Instant, we have more fully considered the Conduct of our Governor and Council and Select Committee at Bengal; and we entirely disapprove the Opposition given by our Select Committee to a Measure which was positively ordered by the Court of Directors; and for the speedy Accomplishment whereof the Lapwing Packet was dispatched Express to your Presidency.

2. And as so alarming a Disunion amongst our Servants may be attended with Consequences of a very serious Nature, we cannot omit the present Opportunity of testifying our Displeasure against those Persons who have opposed the Execution of our Orders.

3. It is therefore our Pleasure, and we do hereby direct, that Mr. Becher be dismissed from our Council at Bengal; and that Mr. Claud Russell and Mr. Charles Floyer be immediately removed from our Service in Bengal, and that they do return to Madras with all convenient Dispatch; where they are to take Rank in those Stations which they would now have held in the Company's Service respectively, in case they had remained until this Time without Interruption on the Fort Saint George Establishment.

4. By the foregoing Removal of Mr. Becher from the Council, and of Messrs. Russell and Floyer to their respective Stations upon the Fort Saint George Establishment, and the Appointment of Mr. Hastings (by our Letter of the 10th Instant) to succeed Mr. Cartier at your Presidency; and having likewise re-admitted Messrs. Rumbold and Dacres into our Service, it becomes necessary to make a new Arrangement of our Council. We therefore direct, that, upon the Receipt hereof, it be composed of the following Gentlemen, notwithstanding our Orders of the 23d March 1770, for limiting the Number of Council to Nine Members, exclusive of the Commander in Chief:

John Cartier, Esquire	—	—	President and Governor.
Warren Hastings, Esquire	—	—	Second, and to succeed to the Government in case of the Death or coming away of Mr. Cartier.
Brigadier General Sir Robert Barker,			Third (or the Commander in Chief for the Time being) but not to rise higher.
Mr. James Alexander	—	—	Fourth.
Thomas Rumbold	—	—	Fifth.
Samuel Middleton	—	—	Sixth.
William Alderfey	—	—	Seventh.
Thomas Kelfall	—	—	Eighth.
John Reed	—	—	Ninth.
Francis Hare	—	—	Tenth.
Joseph Jekyll	—	—	Eleventh.
Philip Milner Dacres	—	—	Twelfth.
Thomas Lane	—	—	Thirteenth.
Richard Barwell	—	—	Fourteenth, and last of Council.

5. And we do hereby further appoint, that our Governor of Bengal, the Commander in Chief for the Time being, and the Three Senior Members of our above-mentioned Council, be a Select Committee, with the like Powers, and under the same Regulations as are established by the 180th Paragraph of our General Letter, dated the 23d March 1770.

10. We are truly sorry, after having entertained the highest Opinion of the Abilities and good Conduct

Conduct of our President, Mr. Cartier, that he should in any Shape incur our Displeasure; but we cannot pass over his late Conduct in joining a Resolution to retard the Execution of our Orders; which they had been vigorously enforced would, we cannot doubt, have tended much to the Public Welfare, and reflected Honour on every Individual who might have had the Execution of them. We therefore direct that Mr. Cartier do continue in the Government of our Presidency of Fort William till the Departure of the last Ship of the Season for Europe after the Arrival of Mr. Hastings in Bengal; on or before which Time it is our Pleasure that Mr. Cartier do resign that Government to Mr. Hastings.

Copy of a Letter from the Secretary of the East India Company to the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal, of 8th May 1771.

Gentlemen,

The Packets by the Ship Lord Holland having been finally closed previous to the Meeting of the Court of Directors this Day, I am thereupon charged with their Special Commands to acquaint you that they direct, notwithstanding the Orders in the General Letter to you dated the 25th of April last, for President Cartier's Resignation of the Government of Bengal to Mr. Hastings, on the Departure of the last Ship of the Season after the Arrival of the latter there, that it is not their Intentions Mr. Cartier should thereupon be obliged to leave India; and therefore if he chuses to continue some Time longer there to settle his private Affairs, the Court of Directors grant him Permission so to do. I am also to signify their further Orders, that during his Continuance in Bengal, Mr. Cartier is to be treated with the Respect due to that distinguished Station he has held in the Company's Service,

I am,

Gentlemen,

East India House,
London, the 8th May 1771.

Your most obedient humble Servant,

P. Michell, Secretary.

The Honourable the President and Council at Fort William in Bengal.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 12th June 1771.

Par. 7. After our Advices dated the 3d May were closed, we directed our Secretary to acquaint you, in a Letter of the 8th, that notwithstanding the Orders in our General Letter of the 25th April last, for President Cartier's Resignation of the Government of Bengal to Mr. Hastings, on the Departure of the last Ship of the Season after Mr. Hastings's Arrival at your Presidency; it was not our Intention Mr. Cartier should thereupon be obliged to leave India; and therefore if he chose to continue some Time longer there to settle his private Affairs, he had our Permission so to do; and during his Continuance in Bengal he was to be treated with the Respect due to the distinguished Station he had held in our Service. This Indulgence we hereby confirm, and expect the same has in all Respects been observed by you.

PAPERS respecting the new modelling the Company's Army in Bengal.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 23d of March 1770.

Par. 110. In a Letter from your Select Committee of 21st December 1767, to Brigadier General Smith, you write that, "As the Number of Sepoys attached to each Brigade requires more than One Field Officer to command them, we are of Opinion that another may be added to each Brigade of Sepoys. We have taken the Matter into Consideration; but before we come to a final Resolution we shall be glad to have your Sentiments on this Occasion."—And in Answer thereto, under the 12th January, the General writes, "As to a Second Major of Sepoys, when

SEL. COM. REP. V.

" when the Necessity of the Times obliged Lord Clive to promote so many extraordinary Majors as " afforded an Appointment of Two to each Brigade of Sepoys, the Second Major was little more " than a Cypher:" Yet in direct Opposition to this Opinion you resolved to appoint them, and did accordingly appoint Two Lieutenant Colonels, without giving the least Reason for it. And though we made a new Regulation of your Military here, which arrayed in August 1768, yet this very extraordinary Letter was sent to General Smith in November following: " Notwithstanding the Court " of Directors have been pleased to make an additional Number of Field Officers in Proportion to " the Strength of their Regiments, we are of Opinion that the Appointment of a Lieutenant Co" lonel and Major to the Sepoys of each Brigade is as necessary as ever." And in your Letters to the Company, not the least Notice is taken of these Appointments. With these Orders before you, we are surprized to find how you could presume to act in direct Contradiction to them, and therefore highly disapprove of your Conduct in taking upon you to increase our Military Establishment, which we will not admit of in future, except upon very urgent Occasions, and then assign Reasons, and point out the Necessity of the Measure in the clearest and most satisfactory Manner, for our Confirmation. As the Right of appointing Officers on an increased Establishment can only rest in us, the utmost therefore that you should have done was to have represented the Necessity of such Appointments, and waited our Orders. But as it would be hard upon the Officers you appointed; who have behaved well in our Service, and as you could not be acquainted with our having appointed Field Officers here, we have determined to continue them; but on any future Vacancies they are not to be filled up, our Intention being that you should revert to the former Establishment of One Major to each Brigade: And we hereby declare, that if you shall hereafter presume to alter the Military Establishment laid down from the Court of Directors, by the Appointment of any additional and extraordinary Officers to such Establishment, as has been done in this Instance, it is our fixed Resolution to dismiss those Persons from our Service, be they whom they may, who shall take upon themselves to concur in such notorious Disobedience of our Orders,

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 10th of April 1771.

Par. 109. We have very maturely considered your Proceedings upon the Restoration of Captains Goddard and Ahmuty, to the Ranks they held before the Association of the Officers in 1766; and it appears to us, not only an improper Measure, but very injurious to those Officers who had a just Sense of their Duty, and did not join in the Association; and also to those who were sent from Fort Saint George and Bombay, to your Assistance at that critical Time, under the Assurance that they should not be superceded. But as it appears contrary to all Military Orders, that an Officer once raised to a superior, should serve in an inferior Rank, without a Breach of Honour, and having a favourable Opinion of the Merits of Captains Goddard and Ahmuty, we do agree to their continuing in the Ranks you placed them on the 16th December 1769; but we direct that they receive the Pay and Allowances of Captains only, until the Field Officers serving under your Presidency shall be reduced to the Establishment of Six Lieutenant Colonels, and Nine Majors of Infantry and Sepoys, when they are to enjoy full Pay and Emoluments, the former as Lieutenant Colonel, and the latter as Major; yet we are greatly displeased at the Liberty you took in promoting those Gentlemen when your Military Establishment was complete, from whence the Company has been put to great Expence.

Copy Letter from Brigadier General Stibbert to the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Members of the Supreme Council,

Gentlemen,

I now, according to my Promise, contained in my Letter of the 29th, proceed to give my Sentiments respecting the Mode most eligible for replacing the native Troops ordered on Detachment towards Madras, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Pearse.

In regard to the Expedient which has occurred to the Board of augmenting the remaining Battalions by an equal Number of Levies to be distributed amongst them; I must observe, that their present Strength rendering them rather too unwieldy a Body to manœuvre and move together with that Celerity and Compactness which is requisite in the Field, any Increase of their Numbers, while their present Constitution is adhered to, must necessarily add to this Inconvenience in all Respects, to the great Detriment of the Service.

This Mode being allowed to be ineligible, the next Alternative appears to be that of raising new Battalions; but as such a Measure would be attended with a very heavy Expence upon the present Establishment, and as the Board express their Desire, that the intended Augmentation of Force should be rendered as little burthenous as possible, I beg Leave to offer the following Plan to their Consideration:

That the present Strength of Twenty-four Battalions of the Establishment be augmented from Eight hundred to One thousand Rank and File, by Levies of Two hundred Privates to each Battalion, twenty Men to each Company:

That the body, forming One Regiment, be divided into Two Battalions of Five Companies each; a Hundred Rank and File composing a Company:

That this Regiment be commanded by a Captain Commandant and Captain Lieutenant, with Ten Subaltern Officers, One to each Company, as at present:

That One Janitor be added to each Company, and the Whole of the Establishment for a Regiment be agreeable to the annexed Scheme.

Permit me now briefly to enumerate the principal Advantages that will arise from the proposed Measure.

In the First Place, it will appear, by the accompanying Comparative View of the present Establishment of a Battalion, and the proposed one for a Regiment, that the Monthly Expence of the latter exceeds the former only Rupees 2,391. 15. 8.

Secondly, That the extraordinary Expence of Twenty-four Regiments, will amount to Rupees 57,407. 8. which compared with the Expence of Six new Battalions, raised and maintained on the present Establishment, proves a Saving of Rupees 30,021 per Menssem, or Rupees 3,60,252 Annually, while the Company will have the same Force on Foot as if the Army was to be augmented by such a Number of Battalions.

Thirdly, Besides this Saving, a Regiment of One thousand Men, divided into Two Battalions, upon the Plan offered, will, I conceive, be considerably better adapted to all the Purposes of Discipline than the present Battalions, as well as infinitely better suited to every Kind of Service whatever.

Fourthly, I am of Opinion, that although the actual Encrease of the Army will be only Four thousand Eight hundred Men, yet the Augmentation of the Number of Battalions on the Establishment may produce us Credit among the Natives for a far more considerable Force.

* The Board will observe, that in order to fix the Expence of the Regiments as low as possible, I have allowed no European Adjutants to them, as Subaltern Officers can do that Duty in Tour as formerly; and I think it will be of an Advantage to the Service, for several Reasons, that they should do so.

After all, I must acknowledge that this Plan is still improvable, and would be much more complete, were a Regiment to be commanded by a Major, and each Battalion by a Captain; but as this would create an extra Expence to the Company, which might be considered too heavy, I have been deterred from proposing it.

I judge this a proper Occasion for observing to the Board, that I have long been of Opinion, that the native Commandants are a useless Rank, and in some Cases might, through the undue Influence they are generally apt to obtain in their Corps, prove a dangerous Set of Men; I therefore think it would not be amiss if they are suffered to fall off by making no new Appointments of them; this would in Time prove no inconsiderable Saving.

I have the Honour to subscribe myself, with the most perfect Respect,

Gentlemen,

Fort William,
the 31st October 1780.

humble Servant,

( M )

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Members of the Supreme Council.

Gentlemen,

In consequence of your Commands to me, under Date the 14th Instant, I do myself the Honour of laying before you, Propositions for doubling up the Battalions of the European Regiments, and forming these Corps upon an Establishment the best suited to their present Strength, as well as calculated to the retrenching the Expence of them.

I also submit to you, a Scheme for augmenting the Sepoy Battalions (instead of raising new ones) and forming them into Regiments, upon a Plan more perfect, and with more extensive Views, than my Proposition of the 31st October comprehended.

With these Propositions you will receive.

N<sup>o</sup> 1. A Comparative Statement of the Expence of a Regiment of European Infantry, on the present Establishment, and of one on the Establishment recommended by me.

N<sup>o</sup> 2. A Comparative View of the Expence of a Battalion of Sepoys on the present Establishment, and of a Regiment of Two Battalions on the proposed one.

N<sup>o</sup> 3. A Memorandum, exhibiting the Saving that will accrue upon the Whole of the new Arrangements offered to your Consideration.

You will observe, Gentlemen, that I have included in my Plan those Battalions which compose Lieutenant Colonel Pearse's Detachment. Besides being prompted to recommend that these Corps may be put on the same Footing with the rest, by all the Reasons which evince the Necessity of thoroughly reforming and new modelling the native Infantry of our Army, I am further induced to wish the proposed Regulations to extend to them, on Account of the Officers who must necessarily be included in the Promotion that it will be requisite to make, in order to the carrying my Plan into Effect; and who otherwise must be removed, to the great Obstruction and Detriment to the Public Service. The Number of Men that will be wanted to complete this Detachment to the new Establishment, after reducing the 20th Battalion, and incorporating the Sepoys of it into the Five others, will only be Three hundred; which may be immediately drafted (as I have proposed) from the Battalions of the 1st Brigade at Barrickpore.

I have been led to recommend the Reduction of the 20th Battalion of Sepoys, on Account of the late refractory Conduct of the Corps; and the great Desertions from Captain Browne's Battalion of Light Infantry, has influenced me to propose the breaking of this Corps also, in my general Arrangements. These Motives, I flatter myself, will have their due Weight with the Board.

By augmenting the Sepoy Brigade Battalions now on the Establishment, which (exclusive of those on Service with General Goddard in the West of India) are Thirty-six in Number; and regimenting them upon the Plan I have proposed, the actual Encrease of these Corps will be 7,200 Rank and File, which is equal to the present Strength of Nine Battalions. The annexed Memorandum (N<sup>o</sup> 3.) will satisfy you, Gentlemen, that the Difference of Expence between raising this Number of new Battalions, and making up an equal Strength, according to the liberal and advantageous Mode I have recommended, will be only against my Plan 8,481 Sonat Rupees per Mensm. But I have to oppose to this Loss incurred by my Sepoy Arrangements, a monthly Saving of 37,186 S<sup>t</sup> Rupees, which will arise from the proposed Reduction of the Battalions of the European Regiments.

As I have already, Gentlemen, fully set forth, in my Letter to you of the 31st of October, the Advantages of the Sepoy Arrangements, which I now lay before you, as far as respects the Purposes of manœuvring and disciplining the native Corps, as well as the probable Effects which may be produced on the Minds of the Country Powers, by such an apparent Encrease of the Number of Battalions on our Establishment, I will take the Liberty to refer you to that Address for my Reasoning on these Heads, as well as for the Arguments I advanced for abolishing the Office of native Commandant, and proposing that the native Adjutants should be made from Jamautdars instead of Subadars.

I come now to speak of the advanced Rank and Allowances which I have proposed to be granted to the Officers commanding Regiments; which, however great an Innovation it may be, I hope I shall be able to make appear to be both proper and unavoidable.

At the same Time that, in order to the rooting out the Abuses which had, from a long Course of Practice, insinuated themselves throughout the Army, and which are of a Nature tending immediately to the Ruin of the Corps composing our native Infantry, and consequently to the endangering the British Interests in this Country; it is become indispensably necessary to fix such Checks, and to establish such severe Rules with respect to the Mustering and Paying of the Sepoys, as shall put it entirely out of the Power of their Commanding Officers to derive any Emolument from Deficiencies in their Corps, or from any other improper Sources, and hereby engage their Attention wholly to the disciplining of them. It is likewise requisite (to this beneficial and desirable End) to annex such Rank and Allowances to the Command of these Officers, as suits its Importance and the Length of their Services: For totally to debar them from all Perquisites and Emoluments whatsoever, without advancing their Rank and Salary, would (supposing it possible to introduce such a Regulation into our Army) produce no other Consequence than that of rendering them to a Man disaffected to the Service. I need not add, that this is a Disposition which would certainly give Birth to an universal Relaxation of Discipline; an Evil to which, under such Circumstances, no Remedy, however violent, could be effectually applied: This Danger, however, will be avoided by granting the Superior Officers the advanced Rank and Allowances proposed by me, which, no Doubt, will ere long reconcile them to the Reform; which, by disengaging them from the Pursuit of other Objects, will lead them to exert themselves more than ever, in training and disciplining the Corps committed to their Charge.

There remains, Gentlemen, little more for me to say; those Parts of the annexed Regulations on which I have not remarked, will, I trust, speak for themselves. But I am particularly hopeful, that the Forms I have prescribed for mustering and paying the native Troops, will evince, that my principal View in these Arrangements, has been to strike at the Root of every Abuse that has hitherto operated, either to the Prejudice of good Order and Discipline, or the Rights of the native Soldiery, on whose hearty Attachment to the Service so much depends.

I am aware that, exclusive of Pay, Batta, and Allowances, there may be some other additional Expences incurred by the Arrangements I have the Honour to lay before you, of which I have not taken Notice in my Statements: It is not my Intention to rest their Propriety or Utility on the Proof of their yielding the Saving exhibited in the annexed Memorandum; I shall be satisfied if they do not increase the Disbursements on the Army Account; and, though contrary to Appearances as well as to my Hope, they should add, in a small Degree, to the Military Burthen, yet I am confident, that the beneficial Consequences, which will in due Time result from them, will be considerably more than equivalent to the extraordinary Expence that may be incurred by them.

I have the Honour to be,
Gentlemen,

Your most obedient humble Servant,
(Signed) G. Stibbert.

Fort William,
24th December 1780.

A true Copy.
E. Hay,
Secy.

Extract of the General Letter from Bengal, in the Secret Department, to the Court of Directors, dated the 7th January 1781.

The Provincial Commander in Chief, in the Persuasion that to derive from the native Infantry of our Establishment those capital Advantages which can only result from exact Discipline, tempered with a strict Administration of the Rights of the Soldiery, it was positively necessary thoroughly to reform and new-model the Corps composing this Part of our Military Force, presented to us on the 26th ultimo a Series of Propositions, best calculated, according to his Judgment, for compassing so important and useful an End. These Propositions were accompanied with figured Statements, exhibiting, as nearly as might be, the extraordinary Expence which would be incurred by the new Sepoy Establishments, and the Annual Saving which would accrue from the general Arrangements.

The Letters which we have received from Brigadier General Stibbert on this Subject, and Copies of the Statements and Propositions accompanying them, are sent to you Numbers in this Dispatch. After maturely considering the Principles on which the Plan submitted to us was obviously founded; after measuring the Extent of the Advantages it promised to produce, and after satisfying ourselves that it united Economy and Utility, we delayed not, in the Conviction that the late Military Constitution of our native Infantry was pregnant with Defects which, unless timely corrected, threatened the most serious and alarming Consequences, to pass the Whole of General Stibbert's Propositions into Resolutions of our Council.

We will here delineate, as far as may be necessary, the general Ground-work of this new Superstructure, marking the less obvious Motives of particular Regulations, and distinguishing, in a concise Manner, the Advantages they possess over former Institutions and Arrangements.

The apparent Strength of the Battalions of the European Regiments being at all Times very inconsiderable (rarely exceeding 300 Rank and File) and their positive or effective Strength being frequently below 200 Men, the large Establishment of Officers annexed to these Corps appeared to be productive of an utterly irrequisite Expence, without yielding a single Advantage in a Military Point of View: Influenced by these Reflections, we made it our Request to General Stibbert, to examine the Expediency of doubling up the Battalions of the Regiments: And accordingly we have had the Satisfaction of receiving his Concurrence in a Measure that, while it occasions in our Monthly Expence a Retrenchment of 37,186 Sonaut Rupees, furnishes us with a considerable Number of Officers towards completing our native Infantry on the new Establishment.

Although the Commander in Chief has in the annexed Propositions inserted a Clause, expressing, that when the Strength of the European Regiments shall exceed 762 Rank and File, they shall revert to their former Constitution (because in that Case the Corps would be too unwieldy for the Purpose of manœuvring with Celerity and Exactness) yet we must remark, that it is by no Means probable that we shall be reduced, during the Continuance of the War in Europe, to the Necessity of re-adopting this burthensome System on the Military Principle suggested; and that the Period at which alone such a Necessity is likely to occur, will be the best suited to its favourable and easy Operation.

Having

Having resolved, in consequence of the approaching Departure of a Division of our Army towards Madras, to augment our Military Force, we issued Orders for the raising of 6 new Battalions; but the Commander in Chief having suggested to us the Expediency of new-modelling the native Infantry, and of applying an immediate and effectual Remedy to the Abuses which had crept into the Corps composing this Part of the Army, to the great Detriment of the Service, we thought proper to recall those Orders, and to signify to him that we were prepared to receive his Sentiments at large upon this important and interesting Subject; when he accordingly presented to us the annexed Propositions, explaining them, as far as was requisite, in our Consultations of the 26th ultimo, at which he was present.

As the Advantages of the new Sepoy Arrangements, as far as relates to the Purposes of manœuvring and disciplining the Corps, as well as to the Effects which may be produced on the Minds of the Country Powers by such an apparent Increase of the Number of Battalions on our Establishment, are fully set forth in General Stibbert's Letter to us of the 31st of October, we beg Leave to refer you to the same for his Arguments on these Heads; which, we are to observe, had their due Weight with us. We must also request of you, to seek in the same Letter the Reasons adduced by him for abolishing the Office of native Commandant to the Sepoy Regiments; in the Propriety of which we entirely acquiesced, as well as in the Expediency of the Regulation directing the native Adjutants to be made from Jamautdars (instead of Subadars) with a View of preventing these Officers from succeeding to the dangerous Influence and Authority of the Commandants.

At the same Time that, in order to the correcting of the Abuses which had crept into the Army, and which were of a Nature tending directly to the Destruction of the Corps composing it, it was become necessary to fix such Checks, and to establish such rigid Rules, with regard to mustering and paying the Sepoys, as should put it totally out of the Power of the Commanding Officers of Regiments to derive any Emoluments from their Corps, and thereby engage their Attention wholly to the disciplining of them; it also became requisite to annex such Rank and Allowances to the Command of these Officers, as suited its Importance and the Length of their Services: For to have entirely excluded them from all Perquisites and Emoluments whatsoever, without advancing their Rank and Salary, would, supposing it possible to have established such a Regulation, have produced no other Consequence than that of rendering them to a Man disaffected to the Service;—an Evil that must have necessarily been followed by an universal Relaxation of Discipline, for which the most violent Remedy would, under such Circumstances, be ineffectual.

This Danger however is avoided, by granting, as we have done, advanced Rank and Allowances to the Officers commanding Regiments of Sepoys; who, no Doubt, will ere long be reconciled to the Reform, and, being disengaged from the Pursuit of other Objects, exert themselves more than ever in training and disciplining the Corps committed to their Charge.

You will be satisfied, on examining the annexed Papers, that notwithstanding the great Increase of Field Officers and Captains consequent of the new Arrangements, there will still be an Annual Saving on the Whole of near Three Lacks and a Half of Sonaut Rupees, after allowing for the actual Increase of Force gained to the Establishment. But as the Commander in Chief is aware that, exclusive of Pay and Batta, there may be some other Expences incurred by his Regulations, of which he has not taken any Notice, he does not rest their Propriety or Utility on the Head of Saving: He will be satisfied if they should not increase the Disbursements on the Army Account; and, though contrary to Appearances as well as to his Hope, they should add in a small Measure to the Military Burthen, he asserts himself confident that the beneficial Consequences which will in due Time result from them, will be abundantly more than adequate to the extraordinary Expence they may occasion.

It is unnecessary for us to offer any Remarks on the other Parts of the annexed Regulations. We conceive that they will speak for themselves; and we are particularly hopeful that the prescribed Forms for mustering and paying the native Troops, will convince you that it was our Design (in these Arrangements) to strike at the Root of every Abuse that could possibly affect either the good Order and Discipline of your Forces, or the Rights of the native Soldiery.

PROPOSITIONS by the Commander in Chief, for reforming and new modelling the Corps of Europeans and native Infantry under this Establishment.

S I X T H
R E P O R T
FROM THE
S E L E C T C O M M I T T E E,

Appointed to take into Consideration the State of the Administration of Justice in the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, and to report the same, as it shall appear to them, to the House, with their Observations thereupon; and who were instructed to consider how the British Possessions in the East Indies may be held and governed with the greatest Security and Advantage to this Country, and by what Means the Happiness of the Native Inhabitants may be best promoted.

YOUR Committee having, agreeably to the Spirit of the Instructions of the House, examined very minutely into the Circumstances of the Natives of India who mediate or immediately are subject to the British Government, find the Abuses and Disorders which prevail in that Government to be such, and the Oppressions which the Natives suffer under them so various, heavy, and complicated, that nothing less is threatened than utter Ruin to those lately flourishing Countries. The Government of Bengal in particular, professing to proceed upon certain Principles in the Civil Government, the Economy of the Revenue, the Administration of Justice, the Tenure of Landed Property, and the Treatment of the Princes dependent on the Company's Power, after wholly overturning, by rapid and unauthorized Revolution, Establishments made by themselves and approved by the Court of Directors, have, under Pretence of reverting to those Principles, introduced a System which cannot be supported on any wise or honourable Ground, and can only be productive of a Continuance of the Disobedience to the Government of this Kingdom, the Despotism over the Natives, and the Waste of the Public Treasure for private Purposes, which have already appeared in so many repeated Instances in the Conduct of those in Power in India.

But as the Enquiry, from its immense Extent, has been protracted to a very late Period of the Session, Your Committee think it most advisable to report thus much of the Matter by them collected to lay before the House, in order to form a Ground for a Proceeding in the next Session, not having at present Time to digest their Observations upon a Matter so extensive and intricate, as well as of the highest Importance.

Your Committee having received Information that the Governor General and Council of Bengal had changed the whole System of the Collections of the Public Revenue of Bengal, as also the Administration of Civil and Criminal Justice throughout the Provinces, by an Order of Council, directed the East India Company to lay before them the Proceedings which were held in Bengal, on which their Resolutions were founded. The Court of Directors had not at that Time received the official Papers; but Major Scott, the Agent of Mr. Hastings, laid before Your Committee the important Information on these Points, comprized in the following Papers :

Temporary Plan for the Administration of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar, formed the 23d November 1773 by the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 1.

Permanent Plan for the Administration of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar, formed the 20th February 1781 by the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 2.

Copy of a Letter from the Committee of Revenue to the Honourable the Governor General and Council, submitting to them temporary Establishments for the Chiefs and Collectors of the different Divisions :

Also Regulations formed by the Committee for conducting the Business of their Departments. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 3.

Comparative State of the Expences of collecting the Revenues of 1186, with the new Establishment for the Revenue Department. (Hereinafter set forth.)

Account, shewing the particular Articles on which Retrenchments have been made by the proposed Establishment. (Hereinafter also set forth.)

Plan for the Settlement of the Revenue of Bengal and Bahar for the Bengal Year 1188, formed by the Committee of Revenue, and submitted by them to the Honourable the Governor General and Council the 29th March 1781. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 4.

Extract of a Letter from the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, dated the 30th March 1781, to the Committee of Revenue, respecting the Settlement of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar, submitted by them to the Honourable Board the 29th March 1781. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 5.

Estimate of what the Savings in the Revenue Department will be when the Retrenchments are all effected by the Committee of Revenue. And also of the Gain that will arise from the permanent Plan, formed in February 1781, for the Administration of the Revenues. (Hereinafter set forth.)

Regulations for the Administration of Civil and Criminal Justice throughout the Provinces, as entered in the Revenue Consultation of 6th April 1781. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 6.

Subsidiary Regulations for the Dewannee Courts, as entered in the same Consultation. Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 7.

Major Scott also laid before Your Committee, an Extract of a General Letter from the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, to the Court of Directors, dated the 5th of May 1781; and as this Extract contains all the Arguments of the Governor General and Council in favour of this Change in the Mode of collecting the Revenues, Your Committee have thought proper to insert it at large in the Report.

Extract of General Letter to the Honourable the Court of Directors, from the Revenue Department, dated 5th May 1781.

Par. 18th. The Plan of superintending and collecting the Public Revenue of these Provinces, through the Agency of Provincial Councils, as recorded on the Proceedings of the late President and Council, of the 23d of November 1773, in this Department, having been instituted for the temporary and declared Purpose of introducing another more permanent Mode by an easy and gradual Change, to as to avoid the Effects of too sudden an Innovation, as further delineated in the same Proceedings, which shew that its principal Object was to bring down all the Collections of the Provinces to the Presidency, to be there administered by a Committee of the most able and experienced of the Covenanted Servants of the Company, under the immediate Inspection, and with the Opportunity of instant Reference for Instruction to the President and Council: We have lately constituted, in conformity to this Design, a Committee of Revenue, consisting of Four Covenanted Servants; who have been entrusted with the Charge and Administration of the Public Revenues of these Provinces, and invested in the fullest Manner with all the Powers and Authority under our own Controul, which we possess, and shall not reserve exclusively to ourselves.

19th. The Provincial Councils have been accordingly dissolved, and their Charge and Powers transferred to the Committee of Revenue, and the Members of the Councils called to the Presidency, except the Chiefs of each, who, with the Collectors of the separate Districts, remain in the temporary Charge of their respective Stations, under the Authority of the Committee, until they shall be recalled.

20th. As a farther Consequence of this Change, the Office of Superintendant of the Khalsa Records has been abolished, and the Office of the Khalsa, with all its dependant Offices, and all the Functions and Powers appertaining to it, transferred to the Committee; who may be considered as constituting in Effect the ancient Office of Khalsa Sherita.

21st. The Canongoes have been ordered to be reinstated in the complete Charge and Possession of all the Functions and Powers which constitutionally appertain to their Office.

22d. Such of the Company's Servants as have been removed from their Offices in consequence of these Arrangements, we have permitted to draw the same Allowances as before, until they shall be appointed to other Offices, or until we shall think proper to withdraw this Indulgence.

23d. A Commission of Two per Cent. on all Nett Sums paid immediately into the Treasuries at the Presidency, and of One per Cent. on all Sums paid into the Treasuries which remain under Charge of the Chiefs and Collectors, on Account of the Public Revenue, in the Course of each Month, after deducting the Charges incurred in the same Month, has, on the passing of each Month's Account, been allowed to the Members of the Committee, their Secretary, and the Assistant of the late Superintendent of the Khalsa Records, in certain Proportions, as the Reward of their Trouble, which is to be considered in lieu of all Salaries, Emoluments, and Perquisites whatsoever. Mr. Duncan, who held the latter Office, we have appointed, with the Title of Preparer of Reports to the Revenue Department, to perform the same Duties, under the Authority of the Committee, and the occasional Orders of this Board, as he formerly did under the Superintendent of the Khalsa Records; the Nature of whose Office we had Occasion particularly to explain to you in our Letter of the 25th of November 1780; and as the several Duties therein specified will for the most Part be transferred to the Preparer of Reports, to be executed either under our own immediate Authority, or that of the new Committee of Revenue, the Services to be rendered by him will therefore continue equally necessary, as we have for some Years past found those of the late Superintendent of the Khalsa Records. As you have repeatedly, and by your latest Advices, pointed out Mr. Duncan to succeed to this last Office on the first Vacancy, we are happy to have placed that Gentleman in a Station as nearly similar to the one you intended for him, as the general Nature of our new Arrangements respecting the Khalsa would admit, and equally suited to our Experience of his Industry and Abilities.

24th. Mr. David Anderson has been appointed the President, and Mr. John Shore, Mr. Samuel Charters, and Mr. Charles Croftes, Members of the Committee of Revenue: And on their Admission to their Offices they each of them took an Oath faithfully to discharge the same; not to receive, directly or indirectly, from any Zemindar, Talookdar, Farmer, or other Landholder or Officer, or other Dependant of the Committee, any Present or Gratuity of any Kind whatsoever; nor to acquire or receive any lucrative Advantages by their Offices, but such as should be publicly allowed them by us.

26th. The Committee, in conformity to one of the Articles of our Instructions, shortly after they assembled, laid before us, Establishments for their own immediate Department, and such temporary ones as they judged necessary for the Chiefs of the Divisions and Collectors of the Districts. These are recorded on our Proceedings, accompanied with Two Accounts, the one shewing in general the Amount of the Reduction in the Charges, and the other specifying more particularly the Articles in which these Retrenchments have been made. The Establishments received our Approbation, and those for the Chiefs and Collectors took place from the Beginning of the Bengal Year 1188.

27th. You will also find on the same Day's Proceedings, the Regulations prepared by the Committee in consequence of our Resolution to invest them with the Functions and Powers appertaining to the Office of the Khalsa, and Instructions to examine and report the present State of the Offices dependant on the Khalsa, proposing such Alterations as should appear necessary for making them answerable to the Purposes of their Institution: These also received our Approbation, together with a Proposal made by the Committee for obliging the Zemindars, Farmers, and Talookdars to be punctual in the Discharge of their Rents, at the stipulated Periods, by levying a per Centage on the Arrears; which we have ordered to be inserted as an Article in their Caboo-leats: On the other Hand, to encourage the Zemindars and other Renters to a ready Payment of their Rents, and to remove any Apprehensions they might entertain, that an additional Assessment would be levied from those who are regular in their Payments; we have authorized the Committee to declare to them, that no Increase of Revenue shall be exacted from such as discharge their Revenue with Regularity, but that they will be considered as entitled to the Favour and Indulgence of Government.

28th. The Committee, in consequence of our Orders to consider and lay before us a Plan for the Settlement of the Revenues for the Bengal Year 1183, have delivered us one for that Purpose, formed on the following Principles:

29th. In fixing the Amount of the Settlement, they propose, as the simplest and easiest Mode, to take the highest actual Collections that have been made in any one Year from 1178 to the present Time; and from an Examination of the Remissions since granted, and a Comparison of the Hultabood Accounts and the Receipts of other Years, to form a Judgment as to the Cause of the Decrease of the Jumma which has since appeared, passing a Decision, whether that Amount shall be continued, decreased, or increased; and with regard to the Mode of the Settlement, to leave the Lands generally with the Zemindars, making the Settlement with them, particularly in the larger Zemindaries, such as Nuddea, Radshahy, Dinagepore, &c.

30th. Where Women or Minors are Zemindars, they propose, to prevent the Confusion generally arising from this Circumstance, by fixing a Responsibility upon some Person to whom they can constantly have Access, and upon whom they can enforce their Orders; and for that Purpose to join with them in the Management their principal executive Officer, either a Malzamin or Agent, who by annexing his Seal to the Agreement signed by the Zemindar, shall bind himself to pay up the Revenues, Kist by Kist; so that his own private Fortune being rendered responsible for the Public Revenue, it may be his Interest to manage the Affairs of the District with Attention and Economy, and to discharge punctually the Amount of the Monthly Kists.

31st. As several Divisions contain a Number of petty Talookdars, with whom a Settlement has been made by Government; the Committee propose, that such Divisions, and particularly such Parts of them as are now immediately under their Department, or are to be put under it, shall be let to Farmers, as they would otherwise be greatly embarrassed and impeded in their general Business, by entering into the Detail of a Settlement with a Number of petty Farmers and Talookdars. That for these, Publications be made, signifying that sealed Proposals will be received for the Farm of them; the Committee reserving to themselves, the Power of rejecting such Offers as they may deem inadequate, or such as are made by Persons who want Knowledge or Responsibility.

32d. They propose, lastly, that the Period of the Leases shall be limited to One Year; and that a Preference be given, at the Settlement of the next, to such Persons as shall have paid up their Rents, making an Engagement to this Effect on the Part of Government: And that the Settlement be formed by themselves in as many Cases as they can, leaving it in others with the Collector or the Officer of Government.

Conf. 30 March.

33d. The Whole of the Plan recommended by the Committee received our Approbation, except that Part wherein they propose, in some Cases, to leave the Detail of the Settlement with the Collector or the Officer of Government; in respect to which, we deemed it inconsistent with the Office of the Person who was to have the Collections of the Settlement, that he should have any Concern in the Formation of it. We therefore directed, that for such Districts as could not be immediately settled by the Committee with the Zemindars, or Agents deputed by them, Persons should be expressly deputed from the proper Offices, to form the Settlements upon the Spot, which should be also made, and finally concluded by themselves.

34th. It being our Desire to remove every Interference and Embarrassment from the present System of Controul, to render it uniform, and to afford every Relief and Ease both to the Ryots and to the Zemindars, which may be consistent with it, and conformable to the ancient Constitution of the Country, we have recommended it to the Committee to give all due Encouragement to such Applications as they may receive from the Zemindars, for the Payment of their Rents immediately to the Khalsa, for the Restoration of their ancient Jurisdiction, and the consequent Abolition of that of the Fouzdarry, and for the Settlement of a fixed Revenue during the Lives of the actual Incumbents; informing them at the same Time, that we shall expect from the Zemindars in return, an Increase of their Revenue proportioned to the Advantages which they will derive from this Indulgence.

6 Mar.

35th. We have accordingly referred Two Petitions, some Time ago presented to us by the Rajah of Nuddea, the one applying to have the Phouzdarry Jurisdiction of his Zemindary entrusted to him, the other to pay his Rents immediately at the Khalsa, to the Committee of Revenue; with an Intimation that we were inclined to comply with both; but that as the Rajah would derive considerable Advantage from such Acquiescence, we should expect him to pay to Government some Consideration in return for so great an Indulgence. In complying with the latter of these Requests, we were actuated by the Desire expressed above, of fixing the Payment of as great a Part of your Revenue at the Presidency as possible; and in respect to the Fouzdarry Jurisdiction, by the Idea which you will find more fully expressed in a subsequent Part of this Letter, which treats of the Administration of Justice.

Conf. 30 March.

36th. Deeming the Duty of preparing the Monthly Audit of the Accounts of the Revenue Department, for the Member of the Council Auditor of the Week, by Mr. Croftes, our Accountant General in this Department, incompatible with his Office as a Member of the Committee of Revenue, we have delegated this Trust to Mr. Larkins, Accountant General to our General Department, so far as respects the Examination of the Treasury Account of that Committee, with Directions to lay before us a Monthly Report for the Audit of it. For the more particular Nature of this new Office, and the Motives which induced us to grant Mr. Larkins, as a Reward for the present and former Services which he has rendered the Company, the Compensation minuted on our Proceedings, we beg Leave to refer you to them as noted in the Margin, and doubt not of their meeting your Approbation.

37th. We cannot close our Advices of the Proceedings of this Department, without making some Observations upon the Nature and Design of its Institution; which its apparent Novelty, the liberal Endowments annexed to it, and the unavoidable Severity with which a Change so extensive and important in the Constitution of the principal Administration of your Affairs, has fallen on the Interests of Individuals, may render necessary, to obviate any possible Misconception of it to our Prejudice in your Opinions.

38th. We shall not be surprized if we find it imputed to the Love of Innovation; a Charge which has been frequently laid against your Administration of these Provinces, and which we conceive to be unavoidable in a great Government which, like this, has been suffered so long to exist on Expedients in default of a fixed Constitution. In such a State, every Change of Influence must be productive of a Change of Measures, whether dictated by Caprice, Self-Interest, or Integrity; and the the Influence of the latter must yet operate to the Introduction of many more and greater Improvements before this Government can attain that Degree of Perfection, or your Property in it that permanent Value, of which we think it capable. Though such is our Opinion of Innovations in general, and we mention it only that we may not be supposed to condemn the Principle in other Instances by the Disavowal of it in one; yet we must declare, that in no Act of our Administration have we observed a greater Consistency, or a closer Attention to fixed Principles, than in this. The System which we have thus attempted to establish, was first devised by the President and Council of this Presidency in the Year 1773, and made a Part of the same Resolution, which distributed the Charge of the Collections among the late Provincial Councils. These Establishments were declaredly formed for the Purpose of introducing the former, and were intended to be gradually withdrawn, as Experience might render them no longer necessary. The Committee itself was immediately formed, and, to give it the greater Dignity, Two Members of the Superior Council were appointed to superintend it; although it then differed only in Name from the other Provincial Councils, and its destined Functions were reserved for a future Arrangement.

39th. Why this Design failed in its Effects, and the Provincial Councils were permitted to remain during so long a Course as Seven Years, in Contradiction of their professed Institution, it is unnecessary to mention. It is sufficient to say, that the Necessity for reverting to the original System, if its Principles were just, was never so great as it was at the Time in which it took place, and in which the Preservation of the Company's Interests, in every Part of India, depended upon the Resources of this. We may add, that had the same Necessity existed at any preceding Time, the Change could not have been effected. We have now resolved to carry it into Execution, and shall be content to leave the Proofs of its Utility to a short Trial; but it will rest with your Wisdom to give it Permanency, by correcting its Defects, and by obtaining the Sanction of Parliament for its Duration, under the Form which shall be ultimately given to it. With respect to the Institution itself, it is essentially and almost minutely the same as the Plan which was laid down for it in Consultation of the 23d of November 1773; to which we beg Leave to refer you, and for that Purpose, to transmit a complete Copy of it a Number in this Packet.

40th. The Allowances granted to the Members of this Board, if compared with the ostensible Emoluments which have been annexed to other Offices of this Service, will appear enormous; and the Principle on which they are formed is in its Application new, though not in Speculation; neither is this the first Instance of it. Our Aim has been to preclude all clandestine Perquisites, to bind the Zeal and Fidelity of your Servants, entrusted with this great Charge, by the Ties of Gratitude and Honour, and to make their Interest subservient to yours by proportioning the Rate of their Official Emoluments to the Success of their Official Labours, or in other Words, to the Augmentation of the Public Revenue and the Diminution of its Expences. We wish to apply the same Principle to every other Department of your Service which will admit of it; and we entreat, that you will afford us your Credit for the Justice and Expediency of it, on the Motives which we have thus briefly stated, without expecting that we should have entered into a more minute but invidious Explanation of them.

41st. In this, as it must be the Case in every Reformation, the Interest of Individuals has been our principal, if not our only Impediment. We could not at once deprive so large a Body of our Fellow Servants of their Bread, without feeling that Reluctance which Humanity must dictate; not unaccompanied perhaps with some Concern for the Consequences which our own Credit might suffer by an Act which involved the Fortunes of many, and extended its Influence to all their Connections.

42d. This, added to the Justice which was due to your Servants who were removed for no Fault of theirs, but for the Public Convenience, induced us to continue their Allowances until other Offices could be provided for them, and the more cheerfully to submit to the Expediency of leaving others in a temporary or partial Charge of the internal Collections. In effect, the Civil Offices of this Government might be reduced to a very scanty Number, were their Exigency alone to determine the List of your Governed Servants; which at this Time consists of no less a Number than Two hundred and Fifty-two, many of them the Sons of the first Families in the Kingdom of Great Britain, and every one aspiring to the rapid Acquisition of Lacks, and to return to pass the Prime of their Lives at Home, as Multitudes have done before them. Neither will the Revenues of this Country suffice for such boundless Pretensions, nor are they compatible with yours and the National Interests, which may eventually suffer as certain a Ruin from the Effects of private Competition, and the Claims of Patronage, as from the more dreaded Calamities of War, or the other ordinary Causes which lead to the Decline of Dominion.

43d. We dare not pursue this Subject; nor could we, without a Sacrifice of our Duty, withhold this brief Suggestion of it from your Notice.

Extract of Postscript, dated 15th May 1781.

We have just received a Letter from the Committee of Revenue, containing a summary Report of their Progress and Expectations, in concluding the Settlement of these Provinces for the present Bengal Year 1188, accompanied with Two Accounts, the one, a Comparative Statement of the past and present Year's Expence of collecting your Revenue, which exhibits an estimated Saving of Rupees 12,09,673. 11. 12. by the proposed new Establishments for the latter; the other, a List of such each Districts as the Committee have already completely settled; by which you will observe, that an Augmentation has been made upon the Settlement of 1187, of Rupees 13,98,196. 14. 10. 3.; and that when the Settlement of all the Districts shall be completed, they are of Opinion the whole Increase on the Revenue of last Year will not fall short of Twenty-seven Lacks of Rupees. We transmit a Copy of the Committee's Report, and of the Papers accompanying it, a separate Number in this Packet, and request your particular Attention to them, as containing a very explicit and satisfactory Information of the actual State of the Collections, as well as of the Sentiments entertained, and Measures proposed, by the Committee, in respect to their future Management of this very important Branch of your Concerns.

Your Committee thinking it necessary to examine such Witnesses as appeared to them most competent to give full Information upon those Subjects, summoned Major Scott, Mr. Francis, Mr. Harwood, and Mr. Baber; whose Examinations, and also the Examination of Charles William Boughton Rouse, Esquire, a Member of your Committee, are here inserted.

Major John Scott being examined, was asked, Whether he has any Advices from the Governor General, respecting the new Arrangements made in Bengal, relative to the Collection of the Revenues? he said, He has, and will lay them before the Committee—Being asked, Whether this new Arrangement was in consequence of any Orders from the Court of Directors? he said, Certainly not, nor was it, to his Knowledge, previously communicated to the Court of Directors before it was put in Execution—Being asked, Whether the Governor General assigned any Reason to him, why he did not communicate this Arrangement to the Court of Directors previous to its being carried into Execution? he said, No—Being asked, Whether the Constitution of the Country Courts in the Year 1772 was not formed by the Council of which Mr. Hastings was President? he said, Yes—Being asked, If he knew whether the Court of Directors approved that Plan? he said, He cannot tell positively.

Being asked, Whether he knows what had been the Orders of the Court of Directors, regarding the internal Government and Administration of Revenue in the several Provinces of Bengal? he said, He does not—Being asked, Who formed the Plan of Provincial Councils? he said, He believed Mr. Hastings—Being asked, Whether that Plan was confirmed by the Court of Directors? he said, He does not know; but he conceives the Governor General and Council are competent to form any Plan for the Collection of the Revenues—Being asked, Whether, at the Time the Plan of the Provincial Councils was communicated to the Court of Directors, it was stated as a temporary Scheme or a permanent Establishment? he said, He does not know; but refers to the Records of 24th November 1773.

The Committee then representing to Major Scott, That as they do not find the Matter explained in the Minute to which he refers, they desired him to explain how the Establishment of Six Provincial Councils, with various subordinate Collectors and Officers under them, could be intended to introduce gradually a permanent System, which must be created by a total Abolition of those Councils? he said, He could not explain it—Being asked, If his Instructions enable him to say, whether the Plan now formed by the Abolition of the Provincial Courts, is that permanent System intimated in the Consultations of November 1773? he said, He has laid before the Committee an Extract of that Part of Mr. Hastings's private Letter (Appendix, N° 8) and all the Papers which relate to this Plan, which he has received—Being asked, Whether there has not been a very large Expence incurred at the several Stations of the Provincial Councils, in providing Houses and other Accommodations for the Officers of those Departments? he said, He does not know; but he should suppose they had, if they did not receive a monthly Allowance—He was then asked, Whether he can state any Cases where those Grants of Expences have been restrained by an Idea that those Establishments were only meant to be temporary? to which he said, No, he cannot—Being asked, Whether the present Plan is not a sudden and total Innovation? he said, He thinks it is—Being asked, Whether he can state to the Committee any Measures of the Government, at any Period since the Year 1773, the Tendency of which Measure was to introduce the present Plan by a gradual Change, as stated in the Consultations of 5th May 1781, rather than a sudden Innovation? he said, No, he cannot: From the Arrival of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, on the 19th October 1774, to the Death of Colonel Monson in September 1776, he looks upon Mr. Hastings's Power to have been effectually annihilated; and that he was a nominal Member of Government from that Period to the Month of November 1780. The constant Report of an entire Change in the Government of Bengal did, he believes, induce Mr. Hastings to defer carrying the present Plan into Execution—Being asked, Whether a Person who is out-voted in any Question, is a mere nominal Member of Government? he said, Not as it may happen sometimes; but where the Members composing the Government are divided into Two decided Parties, he does look upon the Minority as nominal Members of Government—Being asked, Whether that Division of the Council General into Parties, is the Reason why the Provincial Councils have been allowed to remain Seven Years? he said, He believes so; but he has no Authority from Mr. Hastings for saying so—Being asked, Whether the Governor General did abstain from proposing any other Plan during the Period of Party, or during the Period of Rumours? he said, He cannot particularize them; but he has heard him say he had—

Being

Being asked, Whether he knows any thing of a Plan sent Home in 1775, of which the Provincial Councils formed a Part? he said, He does not: He has heard of such a Plan; but does not understand the Subject—Being asked, Whether he has ever heard of a Paper, dated in April 1775, and signed by Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell, conveying an express Declaration of their Opinions, that no Plan could be devised so good as Provincial Councils? he said, He does not recollect it—Being asked, Who composed the Majority of the Council at that Time? he said, General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis—Being asked, If he knows whether the Court of Directors have ever sent any Orders to the Governor General and Council not to dissolve the Provincial Councils, or to establish any other System in that Place? he said, He does not—Being asked, Whether he knows of any Objections which have been stated against the Provincial Councils, more than what appears in the Consultation of 5th May 1781, which he has delivered in to the Committee? he said, He does not—Being asked, What particular Exigency of Affairs required the sudden Dissolution of the Provincial Councils, without consulting the Court of Directors? he said, It is stated, that it will be a Saving to the Company—Being asked, Whether it was not stated at the Time they were formed, that there would be a Saving and Increase of Revenue, arising from the good Management to be effected by those Provincial Councils? he said, He refers to the Minute of the 23d of November 1773 (Appendix, N° 1.)—Being asked, What may be the Number of Company's Servants who will be thrown out of Employ by their Abolition? he said, He does not know, but he believes about Forty or Fifty: Mr. Hastings says, he has provided for several of them in other Departments—Being asked, Whether those Offices existed before, or had been created to satisfy the Servants removed from their Stations? he said, Not created for such a Purpose. Mr. Hastings mentions Courts of Justice to be established at equal Distances throughout the Provinces as making Part of the new System—Being asked, Whether the Number of subordinate Courts of Justice has been multiplied? he said, He will bring the Papers relative to the Establishment of the Courts of Justice before the Committee—Being asked, Whether any Estimate was made of the Expence of continuing to the Provincial Councils their Salaries after their Recall from their Offices? he said, He does not know; he has no Estimates but what he has laid before the Committee—Being asked, Whether, before the Abolition of so many Offices as would leave Forty or Fifty Servants without Employ, any Representation was made to the Court of Directors upon the Expediency of lessening the Number of their Annual Appointments? he said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, Of what Standing in the Service were the Gentlemen thus removed from their Offices? he said, From Four or Five to Twelve or Thirteen Years—Being asked, Whether in chusing the Members of the new Committee of Revenue at Calcutta, a Preference was given to the Senior Servants of the annulled Establishments? he said, No, he believes not; but the Gentlemen appointed are, he believes, very generally esteemed Men of very great Abilities and Integrity; and if the Senior Servants had been appointed, the Choice might have fallen upon Men not so well qualified in other Particulars—Being asked, Whether the Gentlemen who stood high in the Provincial Councils were esteemed defective in Abilities or Integrity? he said, He does not know that they were—Being asked, Whether he knows of any Complaints against them? he said, There were some Complaints from Patna against Individuals, he believes; but of what Nature he does not know—Being asked, Whether there was against any other Council? he said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, Whether any Representation was made by the Natives, or British Subjects, or King's Judges, of the Defectiveness of that Institution? he said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, If no Remonstrance was made upon public Grounds, nor Complaints against Individuals, what is the Reformation supposed by the Forty-first Paragraph in the General Letter of the 15th May 1781, to be effected by the Change? he said, He conceives it to be the great Increase of Revenue, which it is stated will arise from this new System, calculated for this Year at Thirty-nine Lacks of Rupees—Being asked, If Augmentation of Revenue does always imply Reformation? he said, He does not know—Being then asked, Whether projected Augmentations of Revenue in Bengal usually produce real Augmentations? he said, He cannot positively say: Mr. Hastings, when he came to the Chair, did make several Reforms; and he should suppose they had a very good Effect—Being asked, If he knows whether this Arrangement was made in Council or by Circulation? he said, He should suppose in an actual Meeting of the Members, after much Deliberation; Mr. Wheeler fully concurred in the Plan, as Mr. Hastings informs him—Being asked, What Reason Mr. Hastings assigned for not sending a Copy of that Consultation? he said, The Revenue Packet was put on Board the Neptune bound for Europe, and when Mr. Hastings wrote his Letter to him, he did not know that the Neptune would return into Bengal River, he has therefore assigned no Reasons.

Being asked, Whether Mr. Hastings is of Opinion, that it is the Duty of a Governor General not to propose in Consultation such Plan as he shall think expedient and necessary for the Company's Service, upon a Presumption that he shall be out-voted upon the Question? he said, No—Being then asked, Whether great Advantages do not happen from making Proposals which may be rejected, as the Company may thereby come to a timely and perfect Knowledge of them by the Reasons entered in Consultation? he said, Yes—Being asked, Whether the supposed Reduction of a Governor General to a nominal Member, by his being out-voted, does not equally apply to any other Member of the Council in the same Circumstance? he said, Undoubtedly—Being asked, What Steps were taken by Mr. Hastings on the Complaint against a Member of the Provincial Council at Patna? he said, He did not know—Being asked, Whether Redress could not be given upon that Complaint without abolishing the Provincial Councils? he said, He should suppose so—Being asked, Whether the Office of Superintendent of the Khalsa Records is not an Office of high Trust in the Revenues, and which is supposed to require a very considerable Knowledge of that Branch? he said, He believes so—Being asked, Who held that Office? he said, Mr. Ducarell—Being asked, Whether he was supposed, by his Knowledge and Integrity, to be competent to the Execution of his Duty? he said, Very fully so; he has always heard the highest Character of Mr. Ducarell; that he believes he had been in that Office Four Years, and was confirmed in it by the Court of Directors—Being asked, Whether he was removed at his own Desire? he said, He does not know; but he should imagine that he is better pleased with his present Appointment, which he understands to be Collector of the Revenues of Burdwan—Being asked, Whether he has signified this to him in any Letter which he has received from him? he said, No; it is Matter of Opinion—Being asked, Whether the Office of Collector of Burdwan is higher in Rank than that of Superintendent of the Khalsa Records? he said, He should think it is—Being asked, Whether it is a permanent Office? he said, As permanent as any other Office in the Service—Being asked, Whether any Reason has been assigned, why, upon the Appointment of a new Committee of Four Persons for the general Superintendance of the Revenues, so experienced an Officer, and of so good a Character, was not appointed a Member? he said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, Whether all the Members of the new Committee were more experienced in the Collection of the Revenues than Mr. Ducarell? he said, He dare say not more experienced—Being then asked, Whether they were as experienced? he said, He really cannot tell—Being asked, Who nominated the Four Members of the Committee? he said, The Governor General and Council—Being asked, What was Mr. Croftes's Office before the new Arrangement took place? he said, Accountant General of the Revenue Department, and Sub-treasurer—Being asked, Whether that is an Office that requires strict Attention and much Labour? he said, He should suppose it did—Being asked, Whether he is instructed with the Reason why he was preferred to another Office of great Trust and great Labour, whilst he continued to hold the first Two great Offices? he said, He is not.

Being asked, Whether he has got a Copy of the Seventeen Paragraphs which precede the 18th, of a Revenue Letter from the Governor General and Council, of the 15th of May 1781? he said, He has given Copies of all the Revenue Papers transmitted to him—Being asked, Whether Mr. Hastings has assigned any Cause why he has not transmitted to him the Seventeen Paragraphs? he said, He has not; he understands Mr. Hastings has transmitted all the Paragraphs respecting the new Arrangement—Being asked, What Reasons has Mr. Hastings assigned for executing this great Change without previously consulting the Court of Directors, agreeably to their Orders and Instructions? he said, No other than what are contained in the Extract of his private Letter to him, which is already before the Committee.

Your Committee then examined Philip Francis, Esquire, late a Member of the Council General of Bengal; who being asked, Whether Mr. Hastings communicated to him, before his Departure from Bengal, his Determination to make an entire Change in all the Revenue Establishments, and in the Administration of Civil and Criminal Justice throughout the Provinces? he said, No—Being asked, Whether there was any Preparation made, by previous Enquiry, to ascertain the Advantages or Disadvantages of such a Change? he said, No such Enquiries were made before his Departure, to his Knowledge—Being asked, Whether any Complaint had been transmitted by the Natives to the Governor General and Council, complaining of these Establishments as burthenfome or insufficient for their Duty? he said, No—Being asked, Whether there were any from the Provincial Councils themselves? he said, No—Being asked, Whether there were any from any of the Company's Covenanted Servants? he said, No—Being asked, If Mr. Hastings had proposed to him any Defects in these Institutions, would he have opposed any Plan for a Reformation of them? he said, Certainly not; it is probable that we should have thought, that the Time at which this Change has been made improper: But he did never oppose the Institution of Provincial Councils; the Institution was formed by the Government which immediately preceded the Appointment of the Governor General and Council, and has been repeatedly recommended to their Confirmation, and to that of the Court of Directors, both by Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell; and he begs Leave to refer to the Three Paragraphs in the Minutes of Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell, recorded in the Consultations of the 24th October 1774, the 12th of April 1775, and the 18th of January 1776, on this Subject—Being asked, Whether the Court of Directors have sent any Orders not to dissolve the Provincial Councils, or to establish any other Institution in the Place of them, for the Collection and Management of the Revenues, without their previous Consent and Approbation first obtained? he said, Yes, they have, in their Letter of the 5th of February 1777 (Appendix, N° 9.)

Mr. Francis was then asked, Whether he thinks that the sudden Dissolution of the Provincial Councils, and transferring their Charge and Powers to a Committee of Revenue to be held at Calcutta, is likely, in the first Instance, to be attended with good or evil Consequences in the Collection of the Revenues? he said, All Innovations in the Mode of collecting the Revenues, as far as his Knowledge goes, have been attended with immediate Increase of Expence on one Side, and of Loss on the other; but this Disadvantage may possibly be balanced with future Advantages—Being asked, What he thought would be the Consequence of leaving a temporary Chief of each Council, his Council being removed, and he himself shortly expecting a Removal? he said, He is not sufficiently Master of the late Plan, to know what Mr. Hastings's Reasons were for having a Chief, who it appears was afterwards to be recalled; nor is it possible for him to judge what the Conduct of such such a Chief so circumstanced might be in that Interval—Being asked, Whether the Council General had received any Complaints of corrupt Practices in the Members of the Provincial Councils? he said, Not that he recollects, except that a little Time before he left Calcutta, when Mr. Booth brought a Charge of this Nature against some of the Members of the Patna Council, but he did not make it good, and he thinks he left Calcutta without Leave, while the Question was depending before the Board—Being asked, Whether the Council General has not a Power to receive such Charge, or to enquire upon Suspicion, without making any Alteration in the Constitution of the Councils? he said, Undoubtedly they have—Being asked, Whether there have been Complaints to the Governor General and Council, of the corrupt Administration of Justice, by the Provincial Councils in their Provincial Adawluts? he said, He does not remember any, except Nadara Begum's Case (Vide Patna Case, and Appendix, in the Judicature Report of last Session)—Being asked, Whether any Complaints of Corruption were made to the Governor General and Council in the Fouzdarry Jurisdiction, as exercised under the Naib Subahs? he said, He does not recollect a single Instance—Being asked, If any material Complaint had come to the Knowledge of a Member of the Council, it would or would not have been his Duty to bring it before the Board? he said, He thinks it would—Being asked, Whether he considers the Fouzdarry Jurisdiction as a very expensive Establishment? he said, By no Means, when compared with its Services and Duties—Being asked, Whether he thinks it would be as well supplied by giving to every Zemindar a Fouzdarry Jurisdiction within the Limits of his Zemindarry? he said, If a Criminal Jurisdiction be meant, he cannot conceive that such a Trust can be vested in the Zemindars, especially in the State to which they are now reduced, without a Danger of the greatest Abuses; there are certain Duties of Police which anciently belonged to the Zemindars, and which it would be very useful to the Peace of the Country if they were still obliged to perform; he also thinks that a Jurisdiction over petty Offences might be committed to them with Advantage, for the Peace and good Order of the Country; but if it is meant that they should exercise the Jurisdiction of the Subah or Naib Subah, he deems it a dangerous Measure—Being asked, Whether the Zemindars might derive, from an uncorrupt Use of Criminal Jurisdiction, such pecuniary Advantages as would enable them to make very considerable Advances in their Rents? he said, No; and he should deem it highly improper in Government to make a Grant of such Powers a Condition of Increase of Rent—And being asked, Whether he thinks it probable that the Appointment of a single English Gentleman to administer the whole Civil and Criminal Justice of a great Province in that Country, subject to the Revision of a single Judge of Sudder Adawlut in Calcutta, a likely Mode of correcting Abuses in Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction, as they were formerly exercised? he said, He does not know how it tends to produce that Effect.

Mr. Francis was then asked, Whether he understood, that in former Periods the Zemindars have been invested with Criminal Jurisdiction? he said, It is stated in one of the Reports of the Committee of the House of Commons in 1773, that by the Constitution in Bengal, the Zemindar presided in the Criminal Court of his District, and pronounced and executed Sentences in all Offences less than Capital. In the Course of a Debate at the Council Board, on the Appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the Office of Naib Subah, in October 1775, the above Proposition was stated by General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and himself, in the Terms mentioned by the Committee; the Truth of which Proposition was absolutely denied by Mr. Hastings, who said, in his Reply, that he could pronounce with Confidence, that the Zemindars had no such Jurisdiction, nor any other, except where the Non-payment of the Rents was concerned. The Result of later Enquiries has in some Degree satisfied him, that whatever Criminal Jurisdiction was exercised by Zemindars, it did not go much beyond petty Offences; he believes it did not extend to Life or Limb. On these Points, however, Mr. Francis said, he did not presume to speak positively—Being then asked, Whether he understood the detestable and authorized Exactions, stated by the Bengal Government in 1772, and entered in the Report he has alluded to, relate to the Mahomedan Officers of Criminal Jurisdiction, or to the Criminal Courts held by the several Zemindars, by Abuse called Fouzdarry Courts? he said, Fouzdarry Courts are properly Mahomedan Courts for the Trial of Crimes. The Secret Committee assert, that the Zemindar, or Rajah of the District, presided in them, and that every Fine imposed by Authority of these Courts, was a Perquisite of the Zemindar himself, by virtue of his Tenure of the Lands. This he supposes made Part of the Exactions stated in the Question—Being asked, Whether Representations have ever been made to the Governor General and Council, of Collusions supposed to exist between Zemindars and public Robbers? he said, Yes, he has known it represented, that the Zemindars in the Province of Dacca were in Collusion with Robbers (called Decoys) and even employed them. In former Times, the Zemindars were answerable for Robberies committed within their Zemindaries. When the farming System was introduced, the Zemindars were relieved from this Responsibility, as well as from the Performance of several other Duties essential to the good Order of the Country.

Being asked, Whether all the Departments conducted at the Presidency are not more particularly under the Controul of the Governor General, and especially those in which Natives are concerned? he said, Such Controul is no where specifically given by the Act appointing the Governor General and Council; but it naturally, and almost necessarily, in many Cases, devolves upon his Station, as the executive Magistrate of the Government—Being asked, Whether all Acts of Government and Correspondence with Natives, in any Country Language, are not signed by the Governor General only? he said, Yes—Being asked, Whether, whilst the Provincial Councils existed, the Governor General, or any Member of the Council General, could carry on improper Practices in the Districts, without the

the Probability that it might come to the Knowledge of some Member of the Provincial Council? he said, He thinks not—Being asked, Whether the Abolition tends to draw more Power and Influence into the Hands of a Governor General, with the Removal of many Checks which formerly existed? he said, The whole Power and Office of the Provincial Councils seems to be contracted into a small Compass, and vested in Four Persons; they even have the Power of the Government delegated to them. Supposing then, that such a Committee was under the Influence of a Governor General, or any other Member of the Government, they might become an easier and more effectual Instrument of Power in his Hands, than could be obtained over a greater Number of Committees or Councils—Being asked, What are the Number of the Provincial Councils, and the Servants dependant on their Establishment? he said, The Six Provincial Councils, he believes, might have consisted of about Forty Members when he left Bengal, and their Assistants might have amounted to as many more; besides these Provincial Councils, there were some separate Collectors, who had Assistants; in all, he imagines about One hundred—Being asked, Whether he has understood that the Provincial Councils have held their Stations with little or no public Duty to employ them? he said, As long as they performed the Duty belonging to the whole Zillah or Division, they have Business enough; but it is true, that in the Year before he left Bengal, some of them had little to do, owing to the Circumstance of their Districts having been divided into separate Collectorships; while the whole Council was left with the Management and Conduct of the smallest Part of the Collections: This was the Case particularly at Burdwan and Dinagapore. Some considerable Collectorships were also separated from the Patna Division—Being asked, Whether that would have been the Case if the Provincial Councils had been preserved in the Manner they were proposed to the Company, on their Institution in 1772? he said, All those Collectorships are undoubtedly Deviations from the original Plan of Provincial Councils; he never heard the contrary asserted—Being asked, Whether he does conceive that a single Board at the Presidency would be better qualified to conduct the accumulating Business of the several Establishments now annulled? he said, If, in Addition to the Abolition of the Councils, the Chiefs also are to be recalled, he should imagine that the Committee of Revenue at Calcutta will find their Office more laborious than they can duly execute; but in this Respect much will depend on collateral Arrangements—Being asked, whether the Situation of Calcutta renders it particularly convenient to have the Powers of Government center there? he said, The Situation of Calcutta, as a Seat of Government, is inconvenient; it is not in a central Position—Being asked, Whether there is not a peculiar Intricacy and Obscurity in the Revenue Accounts of that Country? he said, There certainly is; the Accounts of a Ryot, who perhaps cultivates but Ten Acres of Land, are beyond Measure voluminous.

Being asked, Whether the same Rules and Regulations, the same Standards of Decision, the same technical Language in Matters of Finance, and the same Currency of Money, prevail alike in all the Provinces and Districts, or is each subordinate District marked by Peculiarities of its own? In these several Instances, he said, he believes that in these Articles there are great Variations in different Parts of the Country—Being asked, Whether he thinks it would be possible or easy to subject the Perception of the Landed Revenue, and all the Imposts which belong to it, to a simple and general Rate of Assessment, without local Exceptions and Modifications? he said, He should think not—Being asked, Whether these Circumstances do not render it necessary to have British Subjects stationed, on Behalf of Government, in the several Districts? he said, If native Officers could be trusted, they might do the Business; or if the Jumma, or Amount of each Zemindarry, was once unalterably fixed, then he conceives that it would not be necessary to employ Europeans, or not in the Numbers in which they have been employed, in the Districts—Being then asked, Whether any Enquiry at the Board, concerning the State, Condition, and Conduct of the Provincial Councils, was instituted, or any Papers called for at the Board, to throw a Light upon that Subject, before he left Calcutta? he said, No—Being asked, Whether the Board, when he left Calcutta, was competent to the Execution of its Duties in the Revenue Department? he said, Those Duties had been constantly executed by the Board for Six Years, whilst he belonged to it, and he believes they were, or might have been, executed with sufficient Exactness—Being asked, Whether the Delegation of that entire Duty, with all its Powers, to a Committee of Four Persons, does tend to make the Governor General and Council better acquainted with the Nature of the Revenue, so as to prevent all Mismanagement in it? he said, It appears to him to have the opposite Tendency; the Board now will not have the Revenue Business before them so constantly and regularly as they had heretofore; they will not be called upon for Decisions in Revenue Questions, except upon particular References; the ordinary Business will be conducted without their Interposition, and probably without their Knowledge: It depends upon the Temper and Inclination of the Members of the Council General, to give such Attention to their Proceedings, as may make them Masters of the Business—Being asked, Whether if the Board should, for a considerable Time, omit an Inspection of the Revenue, confiding in the Committee, it would not disqualify them from the Execution of their controlling Powers with Judgment and Effect? he said, It would have that Tendency; the Board would gradually lose the Thread of Revenue Business, and after any considerable Interval, would find it difficult to recover it—Being asked, Whether the not entering Dissents upon the Proceedings of the Committee, has a Tendency to make the Council General better acquainted with the Merits of the Questions debated at their Board? he said, If the Members of the Committee, where any of them may disapprove of a Resolution, are not at Liberty to enter their Dissents on the Face of the Consultations, or if they are discouraged from doing so, it follows, that the Members of the Supreme Council, Council, who might be inclined to examine their Proceedings, will be precluded from a principal Source of Information: They will only see the final Resolution taken, supported, perhaps, by Arguments ex parte, and know nothing of the Objections which might have been made to it—Being asked, Whether it will tend to give the Court of Directors a true Knowledge of the Principles on which the Revenue is managed, and of the Adherence of their Servants to their Orders? he said, If it tends to make the Revenue Business obscure to the Members of the Council General, as he thinks it does, it must produce that Effect in a still stronger Degree with the Court of Directors—Being asked, Whether the sole Privilege in the President, of preparing Materials in the Interval of the Meetings of the Revenue Committee, may not have a Tendency to put the Result of the Deliberations very much in the Power of the President? he said, If the preparing of Materials be exclusively vested in the President, he may derive from thence an Influence over the Deliberations of the Board.

Being asked, If he knows whether the Idea of dissolving the Provincial Councils, if ever entertained as Part of their original Plan, was followed up or abandoned by Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell? he said, He knows of no Steps taken, or Declaration made, by them, tending to the Abolition of the Provincial Councils; he has already stated to the Committee some strong Declarations made by them, which appear to him to have a contrary Tendency.

Being asked, What Steps were taken from November 1773 to December 1780, to make the Abolition of the Provincial Councils an easy and gradual Change? he said, None—Being asked, Whether from his Knowledge of the Country he can conceive for what Purpose the Chiefs are to be continued in their respective Districts by Mr. Hastings's new Plan? he said, Their Continuance is said to be temporary; but it is not explained in the Letter from the Governor General and Council, for what Purpose they are continued; nor has he any Materials to enable him to judge of it, unless it may be possibly to compleat the Collections of the Bengal Year then expired—Being asked, Whether he thinks, from his Knowledge of the People of Bengal, that an English Gentleman, left alone in a Province, with a public Certainty that his Office was soon to be annulled, would be able to conduct the Public Business with Success and Efficacy? he said, He is of Opinion there would be an End of his Authority in the District, unless in any particular Instance it was known he had the Favour and Countenance of Government, and was destined for some higher Employment—Being asked, Whether he thinks it is the Wish of the Zemindars to have all the British Subjects removed from their Districts? he said, He cannot positively say; but he is inclined to think they would not be dissatisfied to have the entire Management of the Districts in their own Hands—Being asked, Whether he has ever heard that the Zemindars expressed their Wishes to purchase such an Exemption from the Controul of Government? he said, Yes; and he has no Doubt but all the great Zemindars would readily pay a large Sum for it, if they were able—Being asked, If he thinks it would be safe for the Government to allow such an Exemption? he said, He does not think it would be perfectly safe to leave the Zemindars without some European Controul over them, that should observe their Conduct—And being asked, Whether the present State of the Revenues of Bengal renders it more particularly unsafe at this Time? he said, If the Measures were proper at any other Period, he should deem it particularly inexpedient and impolitic at the Time when it was adopted; the Government was involved in Wars, and the Country was threatened with Invasion; and it may be proved, by many Examples, that the Natives of those Provinces have constantly withheld their Revenues as far as might be in their Power, when the Government was involved in Difficulties: It was in our unanimous Declaration to the Court of Judicature, made in March 1780, that the Governor General and Council have asserted, that in case of an Invasion, no further Collection of the Revenues could take place, unless with the Assistance of a Military Force (vide Report of last Session, Cossijurah Appendix, N° 24)—Being asked, Whether, when any Attempts have been made by neighbouring Princes to invade Bengal, it does appear that the Zemindars have been made the Instruments of accomplishing such Purposes? he said, He has constantly understood that they began with endeavouring to gain or seduce some of the principal Zemindars—Being asked, Whether many Zemindars, particularly those on some of the Frontiers of our Possessions, possess very extensive Tracts of Country? he said, Yes—Being asked, Whether they are not generally Hindoos? he said, He believes there are but few Mahomedan Zemindars in the Country—Being asked, Whether there are not some powerful Hindoo Zemindars on our Frontier contiguous to the Maratta State, with whom we are now at War? he said, There are the Rajahs of Beerbhoom, Pachete, Bissempore, and Burdwan, who lie West of the River Houghly, and would be first exposed to the Excursions of the Marattas, and whom he thinks would be likely to join them—Being asked, Whether the withdrawing the immediate Controul from the Zemindars might not enable them to prepare for Resistance with more Efficacy? he said, He thinks it has a Tendency to strengthen their Power, whatever it may be, and to conceal their Designs.

Then Mr. Hastings's Plan for the Regulation and Institution of a Committee of Revenue was read: And

Mr. Francis said, In a formal Plan, proposed by Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell, for the Administration of Justice, on the 18th of January 1776, and which they recommended to be established by an Act of the Legislature, the Continuance of the Provincial Councils is expressly provided for: They are to form Courts of Civil Judicature, next in Rank and Authority to the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, or Superior Court; and this Part of the Plan is said "to have for its Groundwork the Plan which was formed by the late President and Council in August 1772, with the Alterations since made to it in December 1773, on the Establishment of the Provincial Councils."

The same Plan further recommends “ that the following Courts shall be established for the Administration of Criminal Justice; viz.

- “ 1. The Nizamut Sudder Adawlut :
- “ 2. The Courts of Fousdarry Adawlut :

“ And that these Courts be formed precisely on the Mode and Form established by the Plan formed by the late President in August 1772, and intituled, A Plan for the Administration of Justice.”

Mr. Francis was asked, Whether he knows how much Two per Cent. upon the Collection of all the Revenues paid at the Treasury at Calcutta, will amount to? he said, It is impossible to tell until the whole Establishment is fixed, and the respective Amounts ascertained of the Revenue paid directly at Calcutta, or collected separately in the Districts—Being asked, Whether it would be equitable or prudent to take from the Zemindars the Remissions in their Payments, granted on account of Religious Ceremonies, in order to improve the Revenue? he said, He thinks not, provided the Charge on this Account be not unreasonable or excessive, and provided the Money be really applied to the Purposes intended—Being asked, Whether he thinks it is equitable or politic to resume the Pensions granted to Natives of Rank, or in Consideration of Public Services? he said, In general he thinks not; he should be particularly tender of old Grants—Being asked, Whether if the Collection and Management of the Revenues in the several Provinces is left in the Hands of Chiefs, and that Assistants are appointed to them, such Assistants ought to be chosen from amongst the Company’s Servants by the Chiefs themselves? he said, They were always appointed by the Governor General and Council; but he believes an Attention was had to the Recommendation of the Chief—And being asked, Whether he thinks it was proper to give a Preference to Military Paymasters? he said, The Reason of the Preference does not appear to him.

Mr. Francis being asked, Whether he thinks the Company’s Investments could be made without any Preference or Right of Pre-emption exercised over the Manufacturers? he said, It will appear from various Opinions of his, stated in the Company’s Records, that the Principle he constantly maintained was this, That the East India Company, in their mercantile Capacity, should go to Market for their Investments with no other Influence or Advantage than that which the superior Weight of their Purse would naturally give them. Every other Influence, of Force or Authority, exercised for the pretended Purpose of securing the Company’s Investment, he is convinced must be attended with Oppression to the Manufacturers, and in Time with the Debasing of the Manufactures; Such Powers can be wanted for none but for private and personal Advantages.

Your Committee then proceeded to examine William Harwood, Esquire; who said, He has served in the East India Company’s Service Seventeen Years, and was Chief at Dinagapore from the Beginning of the Year 1775 to the Beginning of the Year 1780; and that about £. 350,000 was upon a Medium the Annual Amount of the Collections of that Division—Being asked, Whether he found any great Inconvenience in the Collection of the Revenues, and the Administration of Justice, by having a Provincial Council joined with him? he said, No—Being asked, Whether the Natives ever complained of that Institution? he said, He never heard they complained of it—Being asked, Whether the Council General at Calcutta ever signified to him that his Board was a defective Institution, and called upon him for Materials by which a Plan might be formed for correcting the Defects, or supplying it by some other Institution? he said, He does not remember that they ever did—Being asked, Whether he is of Opinion, that Justice will be better administered by a single Company’s Servant, with an Appeal to a single Judge of Sudder Adawlut, resident at Calcutta, than by the Members of the Provincial Councils sitting in Rotation, with an intermediate Appeal to the Provincial Council, and a further Appeal to the Council General? he said, He apprehends the latter Method will be most agreeable to the Natives.

Being asked, Whether the Collection of the Revenues of the Dinagapore Division could bear any considerable Increase without Inconvenience to the Natives? he said, He apprehends they could not; if they could, he should certainly have proposed it when he was at the Head of that Division—Being asked, Whether he thinks that in general they would require a Remission rather than an Increase? he said, When he resided at Dinagapore, the Rents of most of the Districts were rated as high as they could well bear—Being asked, Whether he conceives that the Assessment of Revenue in general is now higher than before the English possessed the Dewannee? he said, He does believe in general it is much higher—Being asked, Whether frequent Scrutinies have not been made into the Value of the Lands since the Establishment of the English Government in Bengal? he said, He does remember several—Being asked, Whether they have produced any considerable Advantages to the Revenue, with regard to its total Amount? he said, It is his Opinion, that they have produced a contrary Effect—Being asked, Whether these new Assessments have given Satisfaction to the Natives, or been the Cause of Alarm? he said, He understood from several intelligent Natives with whom he has conversed, that the attempting to make frequent new Assessments has given the Natives in general an Idea of the fluctuating Principles of our Government—Being asked, What he then thinks would be the Consequences of another new Assessment? he said, It is natural to suppose they will be still more confirmed in their Opinion—Being asked, Whether he thinks that a Committee of Gentlemen sitting at Calcutta will be enabled, from the Perusal of Rates and Remissions registered in their Office, to make an equitable Plan for the Rise of some Farms, and the Fall of others, according to their several Values in the Division of Dinagapore? he said, He believes the Gentlemen resident on the Spot would be much better enabled to effect it: The Gentlemen resident at Calcutta certainly cannot enter into the Minutiae of the Collections of the Dinagapore Division—Being asked, Whether leaving it to the Discretion of any Persons resident at Calcutta, to raise and fall the Value of Zemindaries and other Farms, might not give Occasion to the Exercise of unjust and mischievous Partialities? he said, It certainly gives the Power in some Degree, let them reside where they will—Being asked, What would be the Consequence of a discretionary Power of removing Zemindars upon Refusal to raise their Rents, and putting their Lands into the Hands of Trustees for Government? he said, As far as his Experience enables him to judge, the Measure in itself would be odious to the Natives, and will not be productive of the End expected from it, that of encreasing the Rents—Being asked, When the Lands are Khafs, that is, held by Government on their own Account, whether the Rents do usually amount to as much as when they are held by Zemindars? he said, He believes not; he always understood that the Perception of the Revenues was always less when made Khafs, than by any other Mode—Being asked, What he conceives would be the Consequence of putting up the Zemindaries and Farms to the highest Bidder? he said, In the Year 1772 the Governor and Council formed a Committee of Circuit for letting the Lands by Auction; he has always understood, that the Consequence of this Plan was an annual Decrease of Rent, until the Time expired for which the Lands were let—Being asked, Whether it is in the Power of any Committee so to attend to the Knowledge and Responsibility of each Individual Farmer, as to prevent effectually the Reduction of the Revenue? he said, He apprehends not—Being asked, What he thinks of the Consequences of the Appointment of a Malzamin, as stated in the 30th Article of Mr. Hastings's Plan, and the same being then shewn to Mr. Harwood? he said, He does not perfectly understand the 30th Article. If the Malzamin or Agent there mentioned, holds his Appointment from the Committee, the Collections will of course be made by him, and become Khafs, that is, collected on account of Government; if the Malzamin is appointed by the Zemindar, there is nothing new in the Measure—Being asked, Whether it will be possible to get a Malzamin or Security to pledge his Fortune in that Manner, without a Compensation from the Revenues of the Zemindary? he said, He apprehends not—Being asked, Whether this may not, in Effect, amount to a Rent Charge, arbitrarily imposed on those Lands? he said, It is certainly an additional Charge on the Rent—Being asked, Whether this discretionary raising of Rents of the Zemindars, or putting their Lands to farm to the highest Bidder, does or does not tend to the impoverishing the inferior Tenants? he said, If an Increase of Rent is demanded from the Zemindar, he will undoubtedly procure it from his Ryots; he believes it always was so—Being asked, What is his Opinion of the discretionary Power of changing the Tenant every Year, or not, according as the Collector shall find him forward or deficient in the paying of his Rent? he said, Under particular Circumstances, it may be a proper Measure; but he has always been of Opinion, that where the Rents were fixed for Life with the Zemindar, the Collections have been always most regularly paid; that it is a Method most agreeable to the Natives, and Practice has proved it most beneficial to the Country—Being asked, What would be the Consequence of changing the Farmers annually, in some Cases at the Discretion of a Committee at Calcutta, and at other Times by the Collector of the District? to which he answered, That he has already said, in his Opinion the best Method would be to fix the Rents for Life; the frequent changing of the Persons who have Charge of the Rents may certainly introduce Confusion—Being asked, Whether there have not been in the Division of Dinagapore considerable Remissions to the capital Zemindars on Account of Religious Ceremonies, and for their armed and other Servants? he said, He believes some Remissions have been allowed on those Accounts—Being asked, Whether or not those Charges are proper and necessary? he said, Those Charges, he believes, have always been incurred, and are proper and necessary—Being asked, Whether in case the Zemindars were invested with the Superintendency of the whole Police, and with an entire criminal Jurisdiction, and made responsible in their Fortunes for the Peace and good Order of their Districts, the keeping up this Kind of armed Servants would not be rather more than less necessary? he said, Undoubtedly they would become more necessary—Being asked, Whether the Sum of <sup>R. A. Pe.</sup> 1,65,207 8 17 may be cut off from the Allowances to the Zemindar of Dinagapore, without Prejudice or Oppression? he said, He apprehends that the Allowance of <sup>R. A. Pe.</sup> 1,65,207 8 17 was an Allowance made to the Zemindar of Dinagapore, to enable him to keep up a certain and necessary State and Dignity in his District, and that this Allowance was either given or continued to him when he was deprived of the Management of his Zemindary, and his Lands were let by public Auction—Being asked, Whether he ever remembered Pensions being granted to Zemindars, except for Services performed, or Compensation for Lands taken away from them? he said, No, he does not—Being asked, Whether if the Zemindars fall into Arrear, he conceives, from his long Experience and Knowledge of the Collection of the Revenue, that such Zemindar will be able to pay not only the Arrears, but a per Centage on the Arrears? he said, He has found it difficult, and in most Cases impossible, to realize Arrears of Rent, much less will it be possible to collect an Interest or per Centage upon Arrears which may hereafter happen—Being asked, Whether he ever knew a per Centage levied upon the Arrears of a Zemindar? he said, Never; he has known Government advance Money to Zemindars to carry on the Cultivation of Lands, upon Re-payment of which an Interest has been received.

Being asked, If a Committee of Revenue was established at Calcutta, on whose Proceedings no

Dissents are entered, what Means have the Council General to form their Judgments upon the Proceedings of that Committee, where a Diversity of Opinion has prevailed? he said, The Governor General and Council, in that Case, must be guided by the Majority of the Committee; he knows no Method by which they can form a Judgment of the Sentiments of each Member of the Committee—Being asked, Whether he does not think that a Regulation which prevents dissentient Opinions being entered on the Public Proceedings, has a Tendency to exclude Information? he said, He is of Opinion it has such a Tendency—Being asked, Whether it is not the Usage of the Company's Governments, for Servants or subordinate Boards at the Presidency, and particularly for Natives employed in Offices of Government, to apply for verbal Instructions to the Governor alone? he said, He believes it is—Being asked, Whether the Acts of Government, Sunnuds of Zemindarries, and similar Papers, written in any Country Language, are usually signed by the Governor alone? he said, He believes it is usual—Being asked, If the Provincial Councils are abolished, and their accumulated Business conducted by a Committee of subordinate Servants at Calcutta, would not such a Plan tend to draw more Power and Influence to a Governor General? he said, It may have such a Tendency.

Being asked, What is his Opinion of the Appointment of a Dewan to the Committee of Revenue, as it may affect the Authority of the Roy Royan? he said, As there is now but One Committee of Revenue, and that at Calcutta, he apprehends his Authority may be in some Degree lessened by it—Being asked, Whether he knows who is appointed Dewan to the Committee of Revenue? he said, He has been informed, and does believe, that Gunga Govind Sing is appointed Dewan—Being asked, Whether he knows that Gunga Govind Sing was some Time since dismissed from the Office of Naib Dewan to the Calcutta Provincial Committee? he said, He is not certain, whether he was Dewan or Naib Dewan, but he remembers his Dismission—Being asked, What was the Cause of his Dismission? he said, He believes some Misconduct and Disagreement with some of the Members of the Committee.

Your Committee then examined Edward Baber, Esquire; who being asked, Whether he was Chief of any of the Company's Provincial Councils, and how long? he said, Of Moorshedabad, from January 1775 to December 1779—Being asked, What was the Annual Amount of the Collections within his District? he said, About Forty-five Lacks of Rupees, or £.450,000—Being asked, Whether, at the Time he was appointed Chief of that Council, he conceived Provincial Councils to be a permanent or temporary Establishment? he said, He knows that in its Institution it was said to be temporary, and he conceives that, like all other Institutions made by the Governor and Council, it was liable to such Alterations and Changes as they might please to make—Being asked, Whether he had any Orders from the Governor General and Council that should induce him to believe that the Establishment of the Provincial Councils was a temporary Measure? he said, He does not recollect any particular Orders declaratory of its being a temporary Measure—Being asked, If he knows of any Steps that were taken from November 1773 to December 1779, to make the Abolition of the Provincial Councils an easy and gradual Change? he said, It did not fall under his Province to know the particular Measures of Government, and therefore he is not acquainted with any Steps of that kind farther than knowing, that there were some Innovations in the Institutions of Provincial Councils, such as Districts being alienated from the original Divisions and given to Collectors—Being asked, Whether he did, as Chief of the Provincial Council of Moorshedabad, receive any Orders, the Execution of which were preparatory to the Abolition of that Provincial Council? he said, He does not recollect any of that particular Tendency—Being asked, Whether he conceives that the Collections of the Revenue would be conducted better by a Chief without a Council than by a Chief and Council? he said, He thinks that the Collections might be better conducted by a single Person than by a Chief and Council, provided the District is not too large—And being desired to explain to the Committee his Reasons for that Opinion? he said, It is in the Power of an Individual to bestow more Time and Attention on the Duties of his Office than with a Council—Being asked, Whether he thinks that a Chief and Council, having Authority to depute a Member of that Council to any Part of his District, to examine into the Collections on the Spot, such an Establishment would not be of more Utility than the Collections being under a Chief alone? he said, When he gave his former Answer he did not mean that a Chief should be alone, without any Assistants; but allowing him such Assistants as are necessary to be deputed into the Districts, and to conduct the Detail of the Business, he thinks, as he has before said, a Chief, with such Assistants, would conduct the Business better than a Council—Being then asked, Supposing a District to be under a Chief alone, by what Means are the Council General to acquire Information beyond what that Chief shall please to transmit to them? he said, It is usual, when there is only a Chief in the District, and he has been in that Situation himself at Midnapore, for the Governor and Council to make him the Channel of all their Orders and Regulations relative to that District, consequently the Means of Information must be through him alone—Being asked, Whether from his Knowledge of the People in Bengal, he thinks that an English Gentleman, left alone in a Province, with a public Certainty that his Office was to be annulled, would be able to conduct the Public Business of the Collections with Success? he said, He should think not—Being asked, Whether he thinks it is the Wish of the Zemindars to have all British Subjects removed from their Districts? he said, He knew the Zemindars Dispositions so well, as to say they would be very glad to have as little Check and Controul as possible—Being asked, Whether he has ever heard that Zemindars have expressed their Wishes to purchase an Exemption from the Controul of Government? he said, He

He never has—Being asked, Whether he thinks it would be prudent for the Government to recall the British Subjects that are employed as Checks upon the Zemindars? he said, Unless he knew the particular Nature of those Checks, and the Duty assigned them, he is not competent to give an Opinion upon the Subject—Being asked, If, when any Attempts have been made by the neighbouring Powers to invade Bengal, it did not appear that Zemindars have been often made the Instruments of accomplishing such Purpose? he said, He should apprehend the History of that Country would be the best Proof on this Subject—Being asked, When Zemindars fall into Arrear of Rent, is it an easy Matter to recover those Arrears? he said, A good deal depends on the Nature of the Arrears, and the Disposition of the Zemindar, and in general it is a Matter of Trouble and Difficulty—Being asked, If Zemindars fall into Arrears, does he conceive, from his long Experience and Knowledge of the Collection of the Revenue, that such Zemindars will be able or willing to pay a per Centage on such Arrear? he said, That the Zemindars would not be willing to pay Arrears he is very clear in, but he is not so clear how a per Centage is to operate to enable them to pay such Arrears; and therefore, without some further Explanation on the Subject, he cannot give a fuller Answer—Being asked, Whether he ever knew a per Centage levied upon the Arrears of a Zemindar? he said, No, he does not recollect any Instance—Being asked, Whether he ever made any Representation to the Governor General and Council, while he was Chief of Moorshedabad, of the Inefficacy of his Provincial Council to collect the Revenues of his District? he said, Not in those precise Terms; but he is not clear whether some Representations may not have been made for an Increase of Power for carrying on the Collections—Being asked, Whether he thinks, that, whilst Provincial Councils exist, the Governor General, or any Member of the Council General, could carry on any corrupt Practices without the Probability of its coming to the Knowledge of some Member of the Provincial Council? he said, He should apprehend that nothing of material Consequence could be transacted without its being heard of by the Chief or some of the Council—Being asked, Whether the Abolition of the Provincial Councils does not tend to draw more Influence into the Hands of a Governor General, as also to the Removal of many Checks which formerly existed? he said, He thinks the more the interior Business of the Country is drawn to and transacted at the Presidency, the greater will be the Influence of the Government over the People of the Country—Being asked, What are the Number of the Provincial Councils, and of the Persons dependent upon them? he said, He thinks there are Six Provincial Councils, and all together about One hundred Servants—Being asked, Whether the Provincial Councils were not obliged to record all their Proceedings? he said, Yes—Being asked, If there were any Dissents of those Councils, whether the Governor General and Council were not enabled thereby to form a Judgment of the Propriety of their Proceedings? he said, Yes, certainly—Being asked, If a Council of Revenue was established at Calcutta, where no Dissents are entered, what Means have the Council General to form their Judgment on the Proceedings of that Council? he said, He cannot answer for the Ingenuity of the Governor General and Council upon that Occasion—Being asked, If the Provincial Councils are abolished, and such a Committee is established at Calcutta which was to have the Charge of all the Collections of the Provinces, would not the Establishment of such a Committee tend to increase the Influence of a Governor General? he said, He cannot say—Being asked, If he knows whether any Complaints have been made by the Zemindars to the Council General, against the Provincial Councils, as an Establishment grievous to them? He said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, Whether there was any from the Mahomedans? he said, None that he knows of—Being asked, Whether there was any from the Traders and Manufacturers? he said, None that he knows of—Being asked, Whether there was from the Military? he said, Not that he knows of—Being asked, Whether any Direction ever came from the Governor General and Council, desiring the Provincial Councils to state any Defects in their own Establishment? he said, He cannot charge his Memory with any particular Instances of the Kind—Being asked, Whether there has been any Complaint made by the Governor General and Council against the Provincial Councils, concerning the Administration of Justice, in their Character of Judges of the Dewannee Adawlut Court? he said, He does not know of any—Being asked, Whether he thinks Justice will be better administered by One English Gentleman in that Capacity, than by the Members of the Council as formerly constituted? he said, Yes: His Reasons are, when a single Person has the sole Charge of the Adawlut, without the Duty of a Member of the Council to attend to, that of Superintendent of the Court, by constantly attending to his Office only, he is more conversant with the Business that comes before him: When it was conducted by the Members of the Council in Monthly Rotation, it frequently happened that their Office expired in the Middle of a Cause, and the Successor, who took it up in that Stage, was not so conversant in it, and being unacquainted with the Circumstances which had passed, the Natives often availed themselves of this Situation, and endeavoured to perplex and puzzle the new Officer as much as possible. He has frequently heard the Members of the Council at which he was Chief, complain of the System of a Change by Rotation, and wish it to be fixed—Being asked, Whether it is his Opinion that it is better to have a single Person reside in the Provincial Adawluts, subject to the Revision of the Provincial Council, or to be intrusted to a single Person not subject to such Revision? he said, He humbly apprehends, that in the Answer he has already made, giving a Preference of an immediate to a remote Appeal, he has answered this Question—Being asked, Whether there was not an Advantage in having an Appeal from the Counsellor who acted in Rotation to the Council at large, without being obliged to carry their Appeal to Calcutta? he said, Certainly—Being asked, Whether the Servants of the Company will act in that Situation with more Satisfaction, by having the Appeals judged by the Governor General and Council, as the Sudder Adawlut, or by a

Judge of the Supreme Court exercising that Function alone, and without further Appeal? he said, He cannot answer for the Opinions of others, but for his own Satisfaction he should prefer an Appeal to the Governor General and Council.

Being asked, What is his Opinion of the Advantages of a new Assessment of all the Lands in Bengal? he said, Unless he was particularly acquainted with all the Circumstances under which a new Assessment was to be made, he cannot give an Opinion upon it—Being then asked, If a new Assessment was to be made of the District of Moorshedabad, does he conceive that it would admit of a considerable Increase? he said, he does not—Being asked, Whether he thinks that by a mere reading and collating of Papers at Calcutta, a new Assessment of the Lands of the Country of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, could be made with Safety and Effect? he said, He thinks if they were proper Papers, a new Assessment might be made at Calcutta—Being asked, Whether he does not think that new Assessments have been more frequently made under the English Government than under the Mahomedan Government, within the same Space of Time? he said, Under that general Description he cannot give an Answer—Being asked, Whether he conceives that frequent Innovations and Changes in the Mode of collecting the Revenues, can be either pleasing to the Natives, or likely to be beneficial to the Company? he said, No; certainly not—Being asked, Whether he conceives that there are Circumstances peculiar to the Country of Bengal, or the Genius of the People, which may seem to render frequent Changes in the Form of Government more expedient than in other Parts of the World? he said, He conceives that the Government of the Country of Bengal is not arrived at that State of Perfection which many other Countries are, that therefore, in its Progress to a greater Degree of Perfection, Changes may be necessary—Being asked, Whether he does not know that frequent Changes have been made in the internal Government of the Country since the Company's Acquisition of the Dewannee? he said, Yes—Being asked, Whether he has not understood that the System which was established by some of the early Emperors of Indostan, was continued with little Change down to that Period when Bengal became the Seat of Rebellion and Anarchy? he said, He understood that the System was uniformly the same.

Your Committee then examined Charles William Boughton Rouse, Esquire, a Member of Your Committee; who, from having long presided in the Provincial Council of Dacca, was very capable of giving Your Committee much Information on the Subject of their present Inquiry—Who being asked, Whether he is of Opinion that Justice will be better executed in the Provinces by a Single English Gentleman employed for that Purpose, with an Appeal to the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut at Calcutta, than in the Manner formerly used? he said, He always considered the immediate Appeal from the Decisions of the Provincial Dewannee Adawlut to the Provincial Council acting upon the Spot, on Sums exceeding 1,000 Rupees (about £. 100) to be very beneficial to the Province, as it relieved the Natives from the Necessity of undertaking long and expensive Journeys: During the Three Years that he held the Station of Provincial Chief of Dacca, many Appeals were presented, and decided upon by the Board; some Decisions of the Provincial Adawluts were affirmed, and some were reversed; but the Multiplicity of Business was such in that Department, that they could not find Time to go through all the Appeals that lay before them: At the same Time, he thinks it right to mention, that he always considered it as a defective Part of the Institution, that the Superintendence of the Adawlut should be held by the Members of the Council in Rotation, and that the Superintendant of the Adawlut should sit at the Board on the Judgment he had passed—Being asked, What he thinks would be the Consequence of having no Appeal except to Calcutta? he said, He thinks it must produce the greatest Inconvenience to the Natives, by obliging them to be absent from their Province, which it has always been held prudent in the Government of that Country to prevent: He should think likewise that the Subject in Litigation is less likely to be understood by Persons judging without the Benefit of the local Knowledge of the Province, as every District of our Possessions has Usages and Peculiarities, and even Construtions of the Hindoo Law, different from each other; with regard to the Mahomedan Law, this Inconvenience is less likely to happen—Being asked, What he thinks of the Use of Rotation in the Superintendants of Adawlut, in order to prevent systematic Partiality or Corruption? he said, In that Point of View it certainly would have a good Tendency; but in like Degree there would be less Regularity and greater Procrastination in the Decision of Causes—Being asked, Whether there was any Complaint in the Province of Dacca from the Delay or Irregularity in the Administration of Justice, from the Superintendants of Adawlut sitting by Rotation? he said, He does not remember that it was ever made a serious Matter of Complaint with the Natives; but he always understood that the Provincial Adawlut was not able to go through the Whole of its Business; and if the Gentleman who presided in it, had not been under the Necessity of attending at the Consultations of the Board, he would have been able to lessen that Inconvenience, by a more constant Application to the Business of the Provincial Court. Whether that Excess of Business may arise from the seditious Spirit so notorious in the Dacca Province, or may have happened to an equal Degree in other Provinces, he is not competent to declare—Being asked, Whether he did not preside in the Dewannee Adawlut in Calcutta, and how long? he said, He did, near Two Years—And being asked, Whether there was much Business in that Court, and many Appeals? he said, The Constitution of that Court was somewhat different from the Provincial Adawluts, as an Appeal was allowed to the Governor and Council, upon all Sums exceeding 500 Rupees (or £. 50) To the best of his Recollection, the Number of Decrees passed during the Period abovementioned was between Two and Three thousand: The Appeals presented were, he thinks, about Twenty-five—Being asked, How many of those were reversed? he said, He does not recollect any one was reversed; but in one Case there was a slight Alteration made in the Interest adjudged by the Decree of the inferior Court—Being asked, What might be the general Expence of the Trial of Causes in that Court? he said, In the Establishment of the Judicial Cutcherry, which preceded that Court, there was a Charge of 5 per Cent. which was paid to the Company, with some inconsiderable Fees to the Officers: The Tax of 5 per Cent. was afterwards abolished. As to other Expences of a Suit, such as the employing of Vackeels or Agents, the bringing of Witnesses from different Parts of the Country, &c. which must be paid by the litigating Parties, it would be impossible to estimate them; but by far the greatest Part of the Causes would be decided without an Expence of Five Shillings to either Party—Being asked, Whether he found any considerable Inconvenience from having a Council joined with him in the Administration of the Revenue, whilst he was Chief at Dacca? he said, Deliberation certainly creates Delay; but as the Meetings of the Council were not daily, and the executive Power was vested in the Chief, he is not inclined to think that the Existence of a Council, if it be not composed of too many Members, creates any Difficulty of great Detriment to the Dispatch of Business—Being asked, Whether, if a Chief of a Provincial Council was inclined to abuse his Power, to the Detriment of the Company, or to the Injury of the Natives, would or would not a Council be some Restraint upon him? he said, Undoubtedly, a considerable one—Being asked, Whether the Provincial Council had the Provision of the Investment? he said, No, it was conducted by a Member of the Board of Trade, with a considerable Number of Officers, English and Natives, acting under his sole Authority—Being asked, Whether, supposing the Provincial Councils to exist, he conceives that it would be proper to give them any Authority over the Company's Commercial Concerns? he said, He thinks the good Conduct of the Company's Commercial Concerns must require a Knowledge, which the Officers of the Revenue Department, though well versed in that Branch, may not possess; besides, he imagines that every Provincial Council must have had Business enough of its own; and it seems contrary to good Principles, to let the governing Power be the Trader upon the Spot, where its constant Vigilance should be exerted to prevent any Influence of Power subversive to the Freedom of Trade—Being asked, Whether, from his Knowledge of the Country, he thinks, upon the Whole, the Revenues will be best collected, and the Natives least injured, by continuing the former Course of a Chief and Council, or by investing the whole Collection of the Revenues and Civil Government in a single Hand, subject to a Committee of Revenue in Calcutta? he said, Having frequently turned the Subject in his Mind, and having acted as sole Collector in one Province, and Chief of a Provincial Council in another, he thinks, all Circumstances considered, the Objects described may be better accomplished by the former than the latter Mode—Being asked, Whether the Provincial Chiefs and Councils are permitted to accept Presents, or any Emoluments, except their Salaries? he said, By the regulating Act of 1773, all Persons holding Stations of that Nature are prohibited from receiving Presents, and from being concerned in the Inland Trade, or lending Money at higher Interest than Twelve per Cent. &c. and in a Letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 9th of March 1775, to the Provincial Councils (Appendix, N° 9) it was declared, that the Salaries then assigned should be in lieu of all Emoluments—Being asked, Whether these Salaries were sufficient to maintain the Chiefs and Counsellors in a Manner suitable to their Situations, and moderately to benefit their Fortunes? he said, He thinks certainly not; it would require Frugality to live creditably upon them. Upon his Appointment to the Chiefship of the Dacca Division, he was so strongly impressed with the Insufficiency of the Salaries, that he proposed a Remonstrance upon that Subject, in which the other Members of the Council acquiesced. A similar Application was renewed, after an Interval of Thirty Months, but no Augmentation was ever made, although the Governor General and Council informed them that the Case had repeatedly been recommended to the Court of Directors. He believes similar Remonstrances were made by all the Provincial Councils.

And the further to elucidate this Matter, Your Committee have caused a Copy of a Letter from the Provincial Council at Dacca, of the 23d of March 1775, also the Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council to the Chief and Council at Dacca, of the 31st of March 1775, and also a Copy of a Letter from the Chief and Council at Dacca to the Governor General and Council, of the 1st of September 1777, to be inserted in the Appendix, N° 10.

Your Committee then asked Mr. Boughton Rouse, Whether he has made the original Tenure of Lands, in the Times of the Mogul Government, the Subject of his particular Inquiries? to which he said, He certainly did pay the greatest Attention to this Subject; considering it not only a Matter of curious Inquiry, but as important in the highest Degree to the good Government of the Territory we have acquired in India; and from the Conversation and Correspondence he has had with intelligent and respectable Men, both Mahomedans and Hindoos, and Persons who had been employed in public Offices from Twenty to Fifty Years, and many who remembered the State of the Country Government before it fell into Anarchy, he has understood that Zemindaries were always considered as hereditary. The Security of the Tenure may be inferred likewise from an Inspection of all the Firmauns and Grants obtained from the Emperor Terrokfere in the Year 1717, where the Permission given to the English Company to hold the Districts contiguous to their Factory at Calcutta, invariably annexes a positive Condition, that the Lands in Question shall be purchased of the Zemindars, and that the Zemindars shall be satisfied; and as a farther Illustration of this Subject, he now lays before the Committee a Note he had taken in the Year 1777, which was the Result of some Inquiries

Inquiries he had then been making from a very intelligent Mahomedan, who had resided principally in the Bahar Province, into the Nature of a Zemindarry Tenure :

“ It appears that Zemindarries have always been considered as hereditary ; and that the Coparceners in the Succession of a Zemindarry derived from Descent or Purchase, might apply to the Courts of Justice to establish their Claim, and then have their respective Portions separated, by Application to the executive Officers of Government : That in former Times these Courts, composed of the Cauzi and Muftis, &c. were independent of the Subadar's Authority ; so much so, as to issue their Precepts (Illâm) against them ; and if at any Time the Hereditary of a Zemindar was infringed by the Government, unless as a Punishment for Rebellion, or some flagrant Misconduct in the Proprietor, it was considered as an Act of Injustice and Tyranny : But this Independence of the Judges ceased, and numberless Abuses arose in every Branch of Government, after the Destruction of the Empire consequent on Nadir Shah's Invasion, and the Assumption of the Southern Provinces by Alliverdy Cawn.”

Being asked, If a Committee of Revenue was established at Calcutta, on whose Proceedings no Dissents are entered, what Means the Council General have to form their Judgment upon the Proceedings of that Committee, where a Diversity of Opinions has prevailed ? he said, None, but personal Intercourse with the Members of the inferior Board—Being asked, Whether he does not think that a Regulation, which prevents dissentient Opinions being entered on public Proceedings, has a Tendency to exclude Information ? he said, He thinks it appears to have that Tendency—Being asked, Whether it is not the Usage of the Company's Governments, for their Servants or intermediate Boards at the Presidency, and particularly for Natives employed in Office of Government, to apply for verbal Instructions to the Governor alone ? he said, He has always understood that it was so ; and that the Rules of the Company's Government have always made the President the Channel of Communication with the Natives—Being asked, What will be the Effect, if the Provincial Councils are abolished, and this accumulated Business conducted by a Committee of subordinate Servants at Calcutta, as to the Power and Influence of a Governor General ? he said, He thinks it must tend considerably to increase the Power and Influence of the Person who holds that Station—Being asked, Whether he conceives that the Court of Directors will be able to form Opinions with so much Knowledge of the Subject before them, by a Committee of Revenue at Calcutta, where dissentient Opinions are not entered, as they were by the Proceedings of the Provincial Councils ? he said, The Correspondence of subordinate Boards and Officers must unavoidably increase the Lights which can be thrown upon the Concerns of the Bengal Government : If from the Removal of these subordinate Servants, the Information of the Governor General and Council is rendered more defective, it follows of course, that of the Court of Directors must be so likewise.

Being asked, Whether he thinks that the Company's Investments could be made without any Preference or Right of Pre-emption exercised over the Manufacturers ? he said, It has long been his Opinion, and one which actuated his public Conduct as Chief of the Dacca Province, to oppose that Claim of Pre-emption, and thereby render the Trade of the Province completely free and open ; and he thought that the most likely Mode of recovering a valuable Trade, which had very much declined. It did not appear to him, from the best Knowledge he possessed, that the good Provision of the Company's Manufactures required any other Preference than that which naturally arose, or might at all Times arise, from the Priority and Certainty of Payment ; however, the Measures he then pursued, were made Matter of Complaint in the Commercial Department ; but what Decision was ever passed upon it by the Company, he is not informed.

And Mr. Boughton Rouse being further examined, was asked, What he thinks would be the Effect upon the Revenue and the Natives, taken as a joint Consideration, from making the Profits of the Collector entirely dependant upon and arising from the Amount of Revenue which he collects ? he said, Considering Schemes of increasing the Revenue as a pernicious Principle, which has actuated our Government at all Periods since we have had Possessions in Bengal, he does not think it eligible to make the Profits of the Collector arise from that Source ; he thinks a Salary more eligible ; he has seen old Accounts of the Collections of the Country Government, in which the Salary of the Collector was fixed by a per Centage upon the Amount of the Revenue, which was about the Rate of 3 per Cent.

Being asked, Whether the Landed Property of the Natives, Zemindars, and others, was, before the Time of the English Government, reckoned precarious and liable to be taken away by Government, whenever they should think fit ? he said, He has heard of occasional Acts of Violence, and more particularly in the Times of Anarchy which preceded our Acquisition of the Country ; but whilst the Mogul Government was in its Vigour, he has always understood, that the Property of Zemindars was held sacred ; and this Opinion he collects from perusing Books and Papers in the Languages of that Country, and frequent Conversation with intelligent Men ; he understands that at this Time there are some Families of Zemindars whose Ancestors held the same Tracts of Country when Bengal was first reduced to the Mogul Government by Akbar, 200 Years ago, whose Regulations have been much respected, and were continued down to the Period of the English Acquisition with little Variation—Being asked, Whether the Annual Settlement made with Zemindars was not a Proof that their Lands were considered as held only by a Tenure of during Pleasure ? he said, He does not apprehend that in Times anterior to our Possession of the Country, the Revenue of the Lands was annually subjected to considerable Changes, and even where a Deviation was made from the Amount of the former Years, it was done by superadding or striking off from an ancient fixed

Assessment,

Assessment, and not by local Scrutinies into the Produce of the Land—Being asked, Whether it was usual to put up Lands to the highest Bidder, in case the ancient Zemindar did not chuse to submit to an arbitrary Valuation? he said, He never has heard of such a Practice in ancient Times; he believes Cossim Ally Cawn did make an Attempt to draw into his Treasury the whole Produce of the Land, and destroy all intermediate Profits and Agencies; but it has always been considered in Bengal an Act of Tyranny and bad Policy—Being asked, Whether the Property of the Zemindars has been equally respected since the Establishment of the English Government in Bengal in the same Manner as in the best Times of the Mogul Government? he said, Certainly not; various vexatious Scrutinies have been made into the Value of their Property; and particularly in the Year 1772, a Principle having been adopted and avowed, that Government had a just Claim for a Revenue adequate to their real Value, and the Lands of the Zemindary having in consequence been let to Strangers, and others who were the highest Bidders—Being asked, Whether in consequence of that Measure, many of the ancient Nobility were not dispossessed of their Estates? he said, Yes, a great many; he has understood that some Zemindars made a Compromise with the Farmers, to retain an Influence upon their Zemindarries; others continued out of Possession during the whole Term of the Lease (Five Years) and during that Term the Zemindars were allowed a rateable Pension of Ten per Cent—Being asked, What Effect these new Valuations had upon the general Prosperity of the Landed Nobility and Gentry of that Country, as compared with what his best Information represented their Condition in former Times? he said, His best Information leads him to think, that the Landholders of all Ranks have been much discontented and greatly impoverished, and that the Land has been loaded with enormous Debts—Being asked, Whether the Rajahs and principal Zemindars appear to him to be in a Condition to preserve their Civil Rights and Dignity in their accustomed Manner? he said, He fears they are all much degraded from their former Dignities; he has seen some of their Palaces, built with great Magnificence and Expence, falling to Ruin from their Inability to keep up their former Expence—Being asked, Whether he remembers any considerable Houses lately built by Rajahs or Zemindars in that Country? he said, He does not remember an Instance of any one; he paid a Visit to the Rajah of Nuddea, a Bramin of ancient and distinguished Family, and famous for his Learning, at his Capital of Shibnabaf, which has scarcely been visited by Europeans; and there he saw some very elegant and magnificent Buildings, intended for religious Purposes, which had been begun by the Rajah, but were left unfinished; there are many considerable Houses and Temples built by Natives at Calcutta, but not, he believes, by Rajahs or Zemindars from any Profits of their Lands.

Being asked, Whether the actual Receipt of the Revenues has been improved in Proportion to the Operations which he has stated with regard to the Tenure of Lands? he said, He thinks that in the Parts of Bengal which he has seen, the Revenue has been kept up by new Taxes upon the Cultivator, while the real Produce of Agriculture and Commerce has been diminishing—Being asked, Whether the nominal Increase of Landed Revenue, in Consequence of these Operations, have been realized? he said, That he believes of late Years the Arrears have been far greater than were known at any former Periods, and that those Arrears in general were desperate; however, at the Expiration of the Five Years Leases in April 1777, a considerable Abatement was made, by settling the Revenue as near as Circumstances would allow upon the Average Receipts of the Three middle Years of that Period, therefore it is to be supposed the estimated Revenue would be better completed—Being asked, Whether in the Province of Dacca, where he presided, it would be expedient to make a new Valuation or Assessment of the Land for the Purpose of raising the Rents? he said, He thinks such an Undertaking must be attended with many pernicious Consequences, and he doubts whether the Attempt would be efficacious—Being asked, Whether such new Assessments would be usefully or safely made throughout Bengal, by Gentlemen resident at Calcutta, from the mere Perusal of Papers and Accounts? he said, Such an Assessment could only be formed from Papers to be collected by an infinite Number of Agents, either Native or European, dispersed through the Provinces; and in his own Experience he has never found such Materials to be safe or satisfactory—Being asked, Whether from his Knowledge of the Country the granting to the native Zemindars a permanent Estate in their Landed Property, descendible according to the Usage of the Country, and according to a fixed Rate, not to be altered without a direct Authority from Great Britain, would be prejudicial to the true Interests of the Company in Bengal? he said, He holds it indispensably necessary for the Prosperity of Bengal, and the Happiness of the People in general, that the Zemindars should be inviolably secured in the Tenure of their Lands, and with a Certainty that those Lands should descend to their Heirs. If the Revenue of every Zemindar to be paid to the State could likewise be freed and secured from all occasional Variations, such as they have experienced for some Years past, it must prove highly beneficial to the Country and to the Company; and as to any small Inequalities which might arise in the Assessment, as such there must be in the Assessment of every Landed Revenue, it does not appear to him that any material Detriment would result from it.

And with a View to obtain every Information on the Subject, Your Committee found it necessary to examine into the Orders of the Court of Directors for some Years past, as well such as related to the Mode of collecting the Revenues of Bengal, &c. by the Establishment of Provincial Councils, as to the Attention and Respect which was due to the Rights of the Rajahs, Zemindars, and other native Inhabitants of those Provinces; and as those Orders, and the Letters from Bengal, are important and voluminous, Your Committee have inserted them fully in the Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 11.

Your Committee having carefully examined the Records of the Company, and stated to the House the Orders which the Directors had sent abroad relative to the Mode of letting their Lands, and the Collection of the Revenues, &c. they then entered into an Examination of the Opinions of several of the Members of the Council General of Bengal upon those very important Points.

And Your Committee find the following Extract of a Minute recorded by the Governor General, on the 25th of October 1774, at the first Meeting of the Council in the new Government.

“ The Points which I shall now beg Leave to submit to your Consideration are, first, the Mode of conducting the Business of the Revenue, and next, the Political System of these Provinces.

“ The general Mode which is at this Time established for the Management of the Collections, is as follows: The Provinces are formed into Six Divisions, each comprehending several inferior Districts under the Direction of a Chief and Council; these receive their Orders from the Board at large, and report to them their Proceedings in a separate Department, called, A Council of Revenue; and for the greater Facility of dispatching Business with the Inhabitants, and for the Preservation of the ancient Forms and Rules of Office, a Dewan, or Minister of the Revenue, is appointed to each Division, who is joined to the Provincial Council, and keeps all the Accounts and Records of the Country Languages; native Superintendants are also appointed to each District of the Provincial Divisions, with the Title of Naibs, and correspond with the Provincial Councils and Dewans. The Dewans also transmit their Accounts and Proceedings to an Office of ancient Institution, lately transferred from the City of Moorshedabad to Calcutta, named, The Khaltia, which is under the Charge of an Officer, intitled The Roy Royan, who occasionally sits at the Meetings of the Councils of Revenue, and is the Channel of Communication between the Board and the Dewans, transmitting to the latter the Counterparts of the Orders of the Board which are sent to the Provincial Councils, and receive their Answers.

“ The Exceptions to this general System are, the Province of Chittagong, which, from its remote Situation and small Revenue, has been left under the single Charge of the Chief of the Factory; and the Districts of Pallanow and Ramgur, under Captain Camac; and of the Jungulterry of Curruckpoor, &c. under Captain Browne. These may be properly termed Military Collector-ships: They are composed of the wild and mountainous Parts of the Country, which have been lately reduced to a State of Submission to Government, and require the continual Presence of a Military Force to keep them in Subjection. The Revenue which they yield is inconsiderable; but the Possession of them is a Security to the Peace of the cultivated and more civilized Lands in their Neighbourhood, which till their Reduction were continually exposed to the Ravages of the wild and lawless People inhabiting them. With these Military Collectors, the Correspondence was carried on by the Governor only; but according to the Instructions now received from the Company, it seems requisite that it should in future be conducted by the Council at large.

“ I must beg Leave to conclude this Subject, with earnestly offering my Advice for the Continuation of this System in all its Parts, with such Alterations only as the late Change in the Government has rendered indispensably necessary. Innovations are always attended with Difficulties and Inconveniences; Innovations in the Revenue, with a Suspension of the Collections; and a Change at this Season of the Year, would be particularly dangerous, as the Time of the heaviest Payments is now approaching; for the same Reason, your speedy Determination upon the future Mode of managing and collecting the Revenues, would prove of essential Service.”

Your Committee have also perused a Plan, signed by Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell, for letting the Lands in Bengal, after the Expiration of the Five Years Leases granted in 1772; and which was transmitted to the Court of Directors with their Letter of the 28th March 1775, Appendix, N° 12; of which the following is an Extract:

“ With respect to the Mode of managing the Collection of the Revenues, and the Administration of Justice, none occur to us so good as the System which is already established, of Provincial Councils, as explained in the Revenue Consultations.”

Your Committee consider this Plan as well deserving the Attention of the House; and therefore have inserted it in the Appendix, N° 12.

Your Committee observe amongst the Records of the Company, a Letter, signed by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, dated the 31st of April 1776, entered on Consultation 29th May, (Appendix, N° 13) and addressed to the Court of Directors, which accompanied the Plan of a Bill, intitled, “ A Bill for the better Government of the Kingdoms, Provinces, or Countries, under the Government and Controul of the Governor General of Fort William in Bengal, and for the Administration of Justice therein.”

Your Committee find, that this Bill was framed by Sir Elijah Impey, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature, under the Sanction and Approbation of the Governor General; and even at this Period, the Establishment of Provincial Councils was so far from being considered as a temporary Measure, that the Bill contained several enacting Clauses to establish the Legality of the Power and Authority of the Provincial Councils. These Clauses are so full and explicit, and of such Length, that your Committee cannot insert them in the Report, but they are to be found in the Appendix, N° 13.

Your Committee have also perused a Plan of Mr. Francis, of the 12th of January 1776; and also a Letter from Mr. Francis, dated the 12th of March following, addressed to Mr. Michell, Secretary to the East India Company.—Mr. Francis, amongst other Points, has entered very fully into the Collection of the Revenues, the Administration of Justice, and the Rights of the Zemindars or Landholders. Your Committee have entered both the Plan and his Letter of the 12th March 1776, in the Appendix, N° 14; to which they particularly request the Attention of the House.

Your Committee having observed, that the Court of Directors, in their Orders to Bengal of the 5th of July 1776, bestow much Commendation on the Council General, then composed of Mr. Hastings, General Clavering, Colonel Monson, Mr. Barwell, and Mr. Francis, for their laborious Researches; and in their Letter of the 4th July 1777, very much condemn the Proceedings of Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell, when, by the Death of Colonel Monson, the Governor General's Casting Vote gave him the Majority in the Council General; and which Majority they declare he made use of to the Extension of his own Power; and the Directors having in the same Letter absolutely forbid the Exercise of any separate Controul in the Governor General only, and also declared that the Minutes of General Clavering and Mr. Francis were solid and judicious, and deserving their Approbation: Your Committee thought it their Duty carefully to examine the Minutes of both Parties.

The Papers which Your Committee were obliged to peruse on these Subjects, are so voluminous that it is absolutely impracticable to analyze them, so as to be able to comprize them within this Report; Your Committee have therefore inserted them at large in the Appendix, N° 15, contenting themselves with inserting such Extracts as appear to them necessary to elucidate the Subject.

The Governor General, on the 1st of November 1776, delivered in a Minute to the Council, of which the following is an Extract:

“ In whatever Manner it may be hereafter determined to form the new Settlement of the Provinces, after the Expiration of the present Leases, it will be equally necessary to be previously furnished with the accurate State of the real Value of the Lands, as the Grounds on which it is constructed. To obtain these, will be the Work of much official Knowledge; some Management and unremitting Labour in compiling and collecting the Accounts of the past Collections, in digesting the Materials which may be furnished by the Provincial Councils and Dewans, in issuing Orders for Special Accounts and other Materials of Information, and in deputing Native Officers on occasional Investigations.

“ It is impossible for the Board to conduct a Business of such Detail; neither can it be left wholly to the Provincial Councils: It requires Uniformity in the Design, Authority in the Execution, and an extraordinary Share of Responsibility, to animate the Zeal of those who are entrusted with the Charge of it.

“ I therefore propose, That a temporary Office be constituted to execute this Business, under the Conduct of One or Two Covenanted Servants of the Company, assisted by a Dewan and other Officers, either selected from the Offices of the Khalsa, or occasionally chosen for Special Commissions; that for the Sake of Dispatch, all Orders issued from this Office, for the Execution of such particular Services as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board, be written in the Name of the Governor General, and the Controul of it be committed to his immediate Charge.”

Your Committee find, That on the 12th November the Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

“ The Governor General recommends the following fixed Establishment for the Office proposed in his Minute of the 1st Instant:

“ These cannot be fixed, nor estimated.

“ He has affixed the Names of the Gentlemen whom he wishes to be nominated to the Superintendence of this Establishment, because he considers them as essential Parts of it, having made Choice of them as Persons endowed both with Talents and Knowledge peculiarly adapted to the Duties assigned them, and on whose Dispositions he can entirely depend for their cordial Agreement with each other in the Discharge of them. He recommends Mr. Henry Vansittart to be the Persian Translator. He also recommends that the Office of Peishcar be assigned to Gunga Govind Sing, the Naib Dewan of the Khalsa, and that he be allowed 700 Rupees per Month for his Salary as Naib Dewan of the Khalsa only, none having been yet allotted to that Station.

“ The known Abilities of Gunga Govind Sing will justify the Preference shewn to him in this Appointment. The Business in its Detail must be conducted by a Peishcar. The Gentlemen to whom the Governor General proposes to commit the Direction of it, will think it no Degradation from their Characters, of which no Man can have an higher Estimation than he has, or a more perfect Reliance on their Integrity, if he expresses it as his Opinion, that the greatest Experience which can fall to the Lot of any Covenanted Servant of the Company will prove unequal to the minute Investigation of all the progressive Operations of the Revenue in this Country, without the Aid of that professional Knowledge which is possessed by the Native Muttaluddies of Bengal, of whom Gunga Govind Sing is incontestibly the First.

“ For the Re-imbursement of the Charges of this Office, should the Amount prove so considerable as to require it, a small Fee may be taken on each Amil-nama or Cabooleat to be granted in the future Settlement, which will not affect the Jumma, nor be felt at such a Time by those who will be required to pay it.

“ (Signed) Warren Hastings.

“ Mr. Barwell—I approve.

“ Mr. Francis—My Objections to the Measure itself have been stated at large. As they have been over-ruled by a Resolution of the Board, I shall make no others.

“ Resolved, That the Office be established, and the Appointments made, as proposed by the Governor General.”

The Establishment of this Office, and the Measures which were pursued in consequence of this Establishment, were the Subject of much Discussion in the Council General. And Your Committee observe, that upon some Matter of Information which the Governor General thought necessary to obtain, he submitted, in a Minute of the 26th March 1777, several Questions to Gunga Govind Sing, the Naib Canongoe; which Questions, with their Answers, appear in the Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Your Committee observe, that Mr. Francis, in a Reply to the Governor General's Minute dated the 28th of the same Month, thus expresses his Opinion:

"Gunga Govind Sing, to whose Evidence in any of the present Questions I think the Governor General should not have appealed, since he is in fact the Author of the Scheme, and the principal Instrument to carry it into Execution."

And in the same Minute Mr. Francis afterwards adds: "I have already observed, that Gunga Govind Sing is a Party to the present Inquisition, and a principal Actor in it; he is immediately interested in the Institution of the new Office, and the Person most likely to be benefited by the Prosecution of the Business."

Your Committee find, that the Disapprobation of the Court of Directors, and the Orders which in consequence were sent to Bengal at that Time, prevented the further Execution of the Governor General's Plan, as will appear by the Letter of the Governor General and Council, dated the 18th November 1777.

Your Committee in this Place beg Leave to observe, that the Court of Directors, in their General Letter to the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated 5th February 1777, make use of the following Words:

"If you are fully convinced that the Establishment of the Provincial Councils has not answered, nor is capable of answering the Purposes intended by such Institution, we hereby direct you to form a new Plan for the Collection of the Revenues, and to transmit the same to us for our Consideration."

But Your Committee do not find that any such Plan was formed, or if formed, was received by the Court of Directors, until they received the Papers communicated to them by Major Scott, the Agent of Mr. Hastings.

In examining this Plan of the Governor General, Your Committee observe, that the Exercise of the Duties of the Office of Roy Royan, which constituted a principal Part in that which he intended to be permanent, if not absolutely annihilated, is rendered of very little Consequence; as appears by the following Extracts from a Letter of the Committee of Revenue to the Governor General and Council.

"That it appears to the Committee, that as the Roy Royan was originally dependant on the Board of Revenue, and directed to attend there, he should also be now considered as an Officer under the Supreme Council.

"That in this Capacity, his Duty will still consist in countersigning all such Persian Papers and Orders as are executed by the Supreme Council, or by the Honourable the Governor General.

"That he may be the better enabled to carry into Execution such Orders as he shall receive from the Supreme Council or Governor General, he be still allowed to call upon the native Officers under the Committee, for Copies of such Papers in the different Serishtas, as he may require."

Your Committee observe several of the subsequent Regulations to be as follow:

"That as the Supreme Council have thought proper to appoint a Dewan to the Committee, it will be the Duty of the Dewan to countersign the Papers executed by them, and carry into Execution such Orders as are given to him, and such Duties as appertain to his Office; to be present at the Meetings of the Committee, and sit with them to receive their Orders, and to attend the President occasionally, and to report such Matters to him as require his Orders, which he is to obey.

"That the Roy Royan therefore shall not be allowed to interfere in the Business transacted by the Dewan of the Committee, as such Interference would occasion frequent Disputes, and great Delay in the Business, which each would ascribe to each other.

"That the Duty formerly vested in the Roy Royan, of superintending the Conduct of the Provincial Dewans, of receiving Accounts from them in the Bengal Language, and of issuing Counterparts of the Orders which the Board of Revenue should expedite to the Collectors, will now become unnecessary.

"That with respect to such Provincial Dewans as remain in the Districts where Collectors are stationed, they should continue to act under the Direction of those Collectors, to whom the Committee will expedite their Orders.

"That with respect to such Provincial Dewans and Naibs as reside in Districts where there are no Collectors, the Committee will also issue their Orders to them, through their President; and such Orders are to be countersigned by the Dewan of the Committee.

"That the Collectors be accordingly directed to address the Persian and Bengal Copies of such Accounts as they shall send to the Committee, to the Dewan of the Committee; and that Orders be issued to the Provincial Dewans and Naibs who reside in Districts where there are no Collectors, to adopt the same Mode of Address."

Your Committee apprehend, that as the executive Business of the Collections will in future be conducted by the Committee of Revenue, the Roy Royan's Duty of countersigning all such Persian Papers and Orders as are executed by the Supreme Council, or by the Governor General, will amount very nearly to a Sinecure.

Your Committee cannot but observe that this Dewan, so appointed, is entrusted with great Authority indeed, nothing less than the countersigning all the Papers executed by the Committee, and carrying into Execution such Orders as are given to him, and such Duties as appertain to his important Office of Dewan; he is to be present at the Meetings of the Committee, and to sit with them; to receive their Orders, and to attend the President of that Committee occasionally, and to report such Matters to him as require his Orders, which Orders he is to obey.

A new Appointment, and with an Authority so extensive as to pervade the whole Collection of the Revenue throughout all the Dependencies of Bengal, induced Your Committee to examine very particularly who was the Person proposed for this most important Office.

Mr. Harwood in his Examination mentions Gunga Govind Sing as being dismissed from an Office he formerly held under the Calcutta Provincial Committee; but whether as Dewan or Naib Dewan he could not remember; and that he believed the Cause of his Dismissal arose from some Misconduct and Disagreement with some of the Members of that Committee.

Such Information induced Your Committee to examine more particularly into the Conduct and Character of the Man, who, by the new Institution, was appointed the Supreme Native Officer over the whole Collections of Bengal.

Your Committee find, That a Complaint was preferred against this Man to the Governor General and Council by Comaul ul Dien Cawn, the Renter of the Salt Farms of Hedgeley, who having received an Advance of 60,500 Rupees from the Committee of Bengal, for the Purpose of carrying on his Salt Works, the Dewan, Gunga Govind Sing, collusively took 26,000 Rupees; and after an Examination before their Board upon this Accusation, he was dismissed from his Employment.

Your Committee observe, That there was a Difference of Opinion in Council on this Subject; the Majority of the Council, consisting of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, in their Minutes, represent Gunga Govind Sing as a Man of a very rapacious and corrupt Disposition, and of infamous Character; the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, in their Minutes, do not think him deserving the Character given of him by the Majority.

Mr. Francis, in a Minute of March 1777, represents Gunga Govind Sing as the Author of a Plan of Inquisition into the Revenue, as a principal Actor, as the Person most immediately interested in it, and most likely to be benefited by the Prosecution of his Plan.

Your Committee apprehend, That the strong and pointed Disapprobation of the Court of Directors to the Plan itself, induced the Governor General to postpone the further Execution of it at that Period.

Your Committee find, That the Council General, consisting only of the Governor General (Mr. Hastings) and Mr. Wheeler, in direct Disobedience to the Orders of the Court of Directors, resolved, on a sudden, to recall all the Provincial Councils from their several Stations, and to form a Committee of Revenue, resident at Calcutta, to conduct the whole Administration of the Revenues; and that the Roy Royan's Office was rendered a Sinecure, in order to place all the Weight of Authority in the Hands of the Dewan of the Committee of Revenue; and that the Person appointed to be that Dewan is Gunga Govind Sing.

Your Committee are of Opinion, That the Character of a Man appointed to such a great and important Trust, in a new Establishment, which is declared to be a permanent one, will have some small Weight in the Opinion which may be formed of such an Establishment; they have therefore, for the Information of the House, entered at large in their Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 17, all the Proceedings relative to the Accusation, Justification, and Dismissal of Gunga Govind Sing.

Your Committee find, in a Letter of General Clavering's of the 9th January 1777, to the Court of Directors, the following Representation.

"In short, nothing can more clearly prove the complete Independency of the Governor General's present Power, or the Non-existence of any Cause for Apprehension that he may be interrupted in the prosecuting his present Plan, than the total Ignorance that Government is actually in of his Correspondence with the Provincial Councils and Aumeens: Their Agents, who are already dispersed through the Districts, may assume whatever Power they please, uncontrouled; their Conduct cannot be checked in any Instance by the Provincial Councils, who are the only Delegates of Government in the Districts, seeing that their Instructions have not been communicated to them. Such uncontrouled Power and unlimited Dependence, placed upon these Agents, would naturally suggest the Idea, that the Governor General's Confidence in them had been formed by the Experience that he had of their Services and official Probity; yet if we look for his Opinion as it stands on Record, we shall find him on all Occasions expressing the utmost Contempt of their Character and the Exercise of their Functions."

Your Committee cannot avoid remarking the Opinions of General Clavering concerning the independent Power exercised by the Governor General throughout the Provinces, when the Government was kept in a State of total Ignorance, not only of his Correspondence with the Provincial Councils, but also of that of the Aumeens, who were employed under the Governor General's sole Orders in every District. The Establishment of Provincial Councils appears to have at least this good Effect; all Matters of Revenue were conducted by a Board, who were obliged regularly to enter their Proceedings in Consultations, and those Consultations were, at stated Periods, sent to Calcutta, that the Government might have the Materials to form their Opinions on such Proceedings. And Your Committee find, that these Consultations from the Provincial Councils are annually transmitted to the Court of Directors; so that should even the Government of Calcutta be negligent of their Duty, the Company have the Materials to correct the Negligence of the one and the Misconduct of the other: If then the Correspondence with the Provincial Councils is carried on solely by the Governor General, as appears to have been the Fact in 1777, or whether the Provincial Councils be recalled, as appears to be the Fact in 1781; the Members of the Council General are deprived of all those Documents which enabled them to form their Judgment upon Revenue Matters, and the Court of Directors will in future be kept in the most profound Ignorance of every Circumstance, beyond what the Governor General and his Council shall choose to communicate in their General Letters.

The Evidence before Your Committee has contributed very much to strengthen their Opinion upon the evil Consequences which must inevitably result from this Change of System. By constituting a Board of Revenue, the whole immediate Management of the Collections is removed from the Council General to a Committee of Revenue, who are indeed to report to the Council General, Monthly, or as often as any extraordinary Occurrences, Claims, or Proposals, may require, the special Orders of the said Board. But, it must be remarked, that "it is not expedient that every dissentient Opinion shall be recorded; and even when any Reference is made to the Governor General and Council, the Determination of the Majority of the Committee is not to be stayed, unless it should be so agreed by the Majority."

But in another Point of View Your Committee conceive this new Institution to be highly exceptionable: Hitherto the Council General have been held responsible to the East India Company for all Acts done by their Board, in the Management and Collection of the Revenues of Bengal, &c. But if this new Institution should be suffered to exist, if this Delegation of their most important Trust should receive the least Sanction from the East India Company, Your Committee are of Opinion that it might open a Door to the most vexatious and extravagant Abuse of Power and Authority, without the least Possibility of Check or Controul. A Governor General substitutes his own Instruments to be the Managers and Collectors of the Public Revenue, their Orders are decisive, the Responsibility rests with them, and no Dissents are entered in their Proceedings.

Your Committee are of Opinion, That no such Power ought to be lodged in any Man, much less in a Country so distant from the Seat of Empire, and thereby Redress for Injuries becoming a Matter very difficult to be obtained.

Your Committee have Occasion to observe, that when any new Change is projected in the Revenue System of Bengal, that an Increase of Revenue is generally held out to the India Company, as the most likely Means to ensure their Approbation to the Measure.

In the Postscript of the Governor General and Council's Letter, of the 5th May 1781, the same Expectations are repeated to the Directors; as will appear by the Three following Papers, transmitted by the Governor General and Council.

Upon Examination of these Estimates and Accounts, Your Committee thought it highly expedient to summon Messrs. Harwood and Baber, who had been Chiefs of the Provincial Councils of Dinagepore and Muxadabad, as to the Probability of any Increase in the Revenue, or Decrease in the Expence of Collection, or Deduction from Allowances to the Zemindars. Their Evidence, already entered, is so full and complete on this Subject, that Your Committee cannot help requesting the Attention of the House to it; for in very precise Words it contradicts the Expectations held out in the whole Estimates and Accounts, of great future Increase of Revenue, Mr. Harwood stating, that most of the Districts were rated as high as they could well bear; and Mr. Baber's Evidence states, that he does not think, if a new Assessment was to be made of the Muxadabad District, that it would admit of a considerable Increase.

And in order to enable the House to form a clear decided Judgment upon the State of the Revenue of Bengal, Your Committee now submit to their Inspection the following Papers and Accounts:

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Charles Croftes, Accountant General to the Revenue Department in Bengal, to the Governor General and Council, dated 18th July 1777.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

John Annis,
Auditor of Indian Accounts.

By these Accounts, the House will perceive,

That from the original Statement, Remission was made of	— — 1,21,38,161
That at the Expiration of the Five Years, the Balance in Arrear of the remaining Demand amounted to 90,39,047, and that from this Balance was also remitted	— — 35,71,093

The Balance of Arrears then remaining,	— 54,67,954 9 4

This last Balance is thus stated by the Governor General and Council :

Irrecoverable,	—	—	36,77,514	14	2
			54,67,954	—	—

Your Committee must remark, That the Account of the Collections of the Five Years, ending in 1776-7, is extracted from an Account dated 28th November 1780 ; and therefore Your Committee apprehend very little has been or will be recovered of those Balances above mentioned ; and in this Opinion they are confirmed by the Evidence given in the Fourth Report of the Committee of Secrecy of this House in the Year 1772 : Which is as follows ;

“ And Your Committee having examined Henry Verelst, Esquire, Richard Becher, Esquire, and James Alexander, Esquire, in order to explain the foregoing Account : And, first, with respect to the Arrears at the End of each Year, they informed Your Committee, that a Part of the Arrears of the preceding Year may sometimes be collected in the subsequent Year, but rarely the Whole : That the Arrears of any former Years ought in general to be considered as desperate Debts ; and that they have been wholly or in Part remitted, or ordered to be written off.”

Your Committee ordered to be laid before them the following Paper :

An A B S T R A C T S T A T E of the Bundobust or Settlement of the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, for the Years 1778 and 1779, with the Collections actually made thereon.

East India House,

Errors excepted,
John Annis,
Auditor of India Acco<sup>n</sup>.

From this Abstract Your Committee find, That so far from any Part of the above large Balance of Arrears due on the Five Years Statement, being received, still further Balances of Arrears were incurred in the Two succeeding Years.

In 1777-8 there is a Balance of	—	—	—	12,81,094
1778-9 a Balance of	—	—	—	12,19,566

And Your Committee cannot avoid remarking, That whilst these Balances have arisen in the Two Years before mentioned, the Amount of the Collection of the Revenues in those Years is less than in any Period of the Five Years Lease, that of 1776 only excepted; as will appear by a Reference to the Statement under mentioned, taken from an Account hereinbefore inserted.

The Collections during the Five Years Lease were as follows :

1773-4	—	—	—	—	271,80,260
1774-5	—	—	—	—	278,79,459
1775-6	—	—	—	—	273,19,272
1776-7	—	—	—	—	264,20,146

Your Committee must remark, That the Governor General and Council appear exceedingly anxious to remove from the Minds of the Directors every Idea that this total Change of System has arisen from a Love of Innovation, which, they say, "has been a Charge frequently laid against their Administration of those Provinces, &c. &c."

They declare, "That in no one Act of their Administration have they observed a greater Consistency, or a closer Attention to fixed Principles, than in this."

Your Committee have diligently examined into all their Proceedings, and are very far from observing either Consistency or Attention to fixed Principles in their Conduct; on the contrary, they have already stated to the House, that the Mode of Administration by Provincial Councils, was recommended in most pointed Terms by the Governor General, in his Minute of the 24th October 1774, and also by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell in their Letter to the Court of Directors of 22d April 1775, which accompanied their Plan for the future Management of the Revenue; and they have likewise remarked, that this System was still so much preferred before all others, that in 1776 it made Part of a Bill sent by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell to the Court of Directors, and with strong Recommendations from them to apply for the Sanction of Parliament to this Establishment.

Your Committee, in their Examination of the several competent Evidences before them, have not found one Trace of the Provincial Councils being formed upon the Plan of a temporary Establishment; they could not learn from Mr. Francis, that it was ever considered in that Point of View by the Governor General, nor was he ever consulted upon any Measure that tended to withdrawing those Provincial Councils, in order to substitute a more permanent System. But Your Committee find, That within less than Four Months after Mr. Francis's Departure, the Governor General, without any previous Enquiry by the Council General into the Advantages or Disadvantages of the Measure, suddenly resolved upon the Recall and Abolition of the Provincial Councils, after they have been established for almost Nine Years, and had received the Approbation of the Court of Directors: Your Committee consider this Act, in many Points of View, as a very unjustifiable and dangerous Innovation. They might, in support of their Opinion, quote the Governor General's own Words in the Minute of October 1774, "Innovations are always attended with Difficulties and Inconveniencies; Innovation in the Revenue, with a Suspension of the Collections; and a Change at this Season of the Year would be particularly dangerous, as the Time of the Payments is now approaching."

Your Committee must beg the Attention of the House to an Extract of a General Letter from Bengal, dated 3d November 1772, to the Court of Directors, and entered in the Appendix, N° 18. The Governor General was then of Opinion, "That whilst the controlling and executive Part of the Revenue, and the Correspondence with the Collectors, was carried on by a Council at Muxadabad, the Members of the Administration at Calcutta had no Opportunity of acquiring that thorough and comprehensive Knowledge which could only result from practical Experience." He then was of Opinion "that the Orders of the Court of Directors, which established a new System which enjoined many new Regulations and Enquiries, could not properly be delegated to a subordinate Council; it became absolutely necessary that the Business of the Revenue should be conducted under the immediate Observation and Direction of the Council."

And Your Committee must remark, That Mr. Francis being asked, Whether the Delegation of the entire Duty of the Council (on Matters of Revenue) with all its Powers, to a Committee of Four Persons, does tend to make the Governor General and Council better acquainted with the Nature of the Revenue, so as to prevent all Mismanagement in it? declares it to be his Opinion, That it will have an opposite Tendency. The Board now will not have the Revenue Business before them so constantly and regularly as they had before; they will not be called upon for Decisions in Revenue Questions, except upon particular References; the ordinary Business will be conducted without their Interposition, and and probably without their Knowledge; for it depends upon the Temper and Inclination of the Members of the Council General to give such Attention to their Proceedings as may make them Masters of the Business. He said, That if the Board, confiding in the Committee, should for a considerable Time omit an Inspection of the Revenue, it would have a Tendency to disqualify them from the Execution of their controlling Power with Judgment and Effect; the Board would gradually lose the Thread of Revenue Business, and, after any considerable Interval, would find it difficult to recover it. He is of Opinion, That if the Members of the Committee of Revenue are not at Liberty to enter Dissents on their own Proceedings, or are discouraged from so doing, that the Members of the Council General will be precluded from a principal Source of Information: They will only see the final Resolution taken, and supported perhaps by Arguments ex parte, and know nothing of the Objections which may have been made to it; and that if such Proceeding tends to make the Revenue Business obscure to the Members of the Council General, it does and must produce that Effect in a still stronger Degree with the Court of Directors.

Your Committee were on the Point of closing their Report when they received the following Papers from the East India House; and as they immediately relate to the Collection of the Revenues of Bengal on the Plan lately adopted by the Governor General and Council, Your Committee have inserted them at large, as follows:

Postscript to Letter from the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, dated 29th November 1780.

Extract of Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Revenue Department, to the Court of Directors, dated the 22d December 1781.

Par. 16. The Committee having furnished us with a complete Account of the Formation of the present Year's Settlement, together with a Report of their Proceedings on this Business, we have the Honour to transmit them Numbers in the Packet.

17. In the Postscript of our Address by the Neptune, we acquainted you with the Progress which the Committee had then made in the Settlement of the present Year, as well as with the favourable Expectations they led us to entertain when the Whole shall be completed. From the Comparative View which is now conveyed to you, of the Settlements of Bengal and Bahar for the Years 1187 and 1188, you will observe, that the Increase on the latter is Rupees 31,26,786. 9. 13. 2. and it is with no small Degree of Satisfaction we find this general Amount of the Settlement is equal to the Estimate which the Committee had formed of it.

Revenue Department, Fort William, the 27th November 1781.

Letter from the Committee of Revenue to the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Council of Revenue.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

1st. We have now the Honour to lay before you, an Account Settlement of all the Districts of Bengal and Bahar, for the Bengal Year 1188, or from April 1781 to April 1782, and for the Bahar Year 1189, or from September 1781 to September 1782.

2d. In effecting the Settlement of the several Districts, we have attended to the general Rules we submitted to you before we entered upon this Business, and which had the Honour to receive your Approbation. The Settlement, in most Instances, has been actually concluded under our own immediate Inspection: When particular Circumstances prevented an Adherence to this Rule, which it was our Wish to observe in all Cases where it was practicable, the Settlement has been formed by One of our own Members deputed to the Spot, or by native Officers invested with special Commissions for that Purpose.

3d. It is a Satisfaction to us, as we hope it will be to your honourable Board, to observe that the general Amount of the Settlement has not fallen short of the Expectations we led you to entertain; and that the actual Increase this Year is equal to the Estimate we had formed of it, on a general View of the Capacity of the different Districts. To ascertain this Point, which appears to us an Object of the greatest Importance, we have spared no Pains: Our Attention has been equally employed in the Examination of Accounts and Records, for some Years preceding the present Period; in tracing the Increase and Decrease in the Revenues; in Endeavours to ascertain the Cause of such Variation; and in comparing the Knowledge derived from these Investigations, with the Information afforded by the Servants of the Company and native Officers, employed in the actual Management and Collection of the Revenues. If in some Instances the Conclusion we have drawn from the Premises should appear to you less accurate than it ought to have been, we trust that your Honourable Board will consider the Shortness of the Period allowed for executing this Branch of our Duty, and the Necessity we were under, on this Account, of uniting Deliberation with Dispatch, and the Variety and Importance of our other Avocations.

4th. The Revenues of the Bahar Province had been formed by your Honourable Board, a few Months before we took Charge of our Office, at an Increase of Rupees 5,00,000. The Increase on the Settlement of the remaining Districts on the Amount of the last Year, is 26,26,786. 9. 13. 2. and the total Increase in Bengal and Bahar for the present Year, amounts to the Sum of Rupees 31,26,786. 9. 13. 2. as you will perceive by the Accounts now laid before you.

5th. The Time for which the Settlement was to be made, was a Matter left by your Orders to our Discretion. We have not adopted any general Period in this Respect; but, consulting the Nature of the different Districts, their Situation, and the Credit and Characters of the Renters, the Leases have been formed for One, Two, or Three Years, as Circumstances indicated, but in no Instance for a longer Time.

6th. The Monthly Accounts of our Collectors, which have been regularly laid before you, must have pointed out to your Notice, the great Number of Districts, the Rents of which are immediately received into our Treasury without any intermediate Agency. It was a Part of the Instructions of your Honourable Board, to comply with the Wishes of the Renters to pay their Rents in Calcutta, and we have admitted them in all Cases where it could be done with Propriety. This has naturally increased the Detail of our Business; but we shall not regret the additional Labour we experience on this Account, as long as it is directed with Success towards the Objects of our Appointment, and whilst it meets with your Approbation.

7th. As Copies of our Proceedings have been regularly transmitted to you, and as they contain all the Measures we have taken, in forming the Settlement of the several Districts, we think it the less necessary on this Occasion to enter into a minute Detail of Particulars. The Account which we now lay before you, will point out the Persons with whom the Engagements have been entered into, whether Zemindars, Talookdars, Farmers, or Wadadars. We shall therefore confine our Information to what what relates to the Four principal Zemindarries of Bengal, Burdwan, Radshy, Dinagepore, and Nuddea.

8th. Rajah Nobkishen had the Charge of the Collections of Burdwan, when this Committee was established. The Merit of his Management in that Capacity can only be estimated from Facts: In the Course of a few Months he not only relieved the Zemindarry from the Incumbrance of an enormous Debt, but discharged the Revenues of Government with great Punctuality. A very large Portion of the Surplus Rents, which enabled him to pay such considerable Sums, has been added to the Public Revenues, as an Increase this Year; and he has been united in the Management with the young Zemindar. He still preserves the Office of Serawul, but is at the same Time responsible for the Amount of the Engagements of the Zemindar. A Comparison between his Conduct and that of his Predecessors, in the Management of the Business, will, we imagine, point out the Propriety of this Mode of Settlement.

9th. It was our Will and Intention to have concluded the Settlement of the Radshy Province with the Zemindar herself, Maha Ranny Bawanny. Having ascertained, from the best Information we could collect, the Funds and Capacity of the District, we fixed the Increase at the Sum of 2,50,500, and at this Rate we left it to the Option of the Zemindar, to enter into Engagements for the Revenues. She declined taking the Management of her District [on these Terms, though much less in Amount than those she had acceded to at a former Period; and we concluded the Engagements for the Revenues with Nundodal Roy, for a Period of Two Years, at an Increase of Rupees 2,50,000.

10th. The present Zemindar of Dinagepore is a Minor of Five or Six Years old; he succeeded to the Zemindarry on the Demise of the late Zemindar, in the Month of July 1780, and the Management remained with the Servants of the Family. In what Manner they discharged the Trust reposed in them, may be ascertained from their Failure to make good the Revenues of last Year; although we have since received Information, that they involved the young Zemindar himself in a very heavy Debt. To have left the Management of the Zemindarry with the same Persons, would have exposed the Zemindar to the Mercy of those who had already proved themselves unequal to the Trust, or improper to be invested with it, and would have implicated him in all the Consequences of their Mismanagement. We therefore accepted the Proposals of Rajah Deby Sing, for the Farm of the Province, made in the Name of his Son Behadur Sing. The former has been always employed in Revenue Offices of the first Public Trust, and his Abilities and indefatigable Attention to Business are well known. The Measure will, we hope, meet with your Approbation; and to our Choice of the Man, no Objection can, we apprehend, be made.

11th. The Management of the Zemindar's Household was not in any Respect connected with the Settlement; but we have, since the Conclusion of it, delegated it to Rajah Deby Sing, under the Inspection of Mr. Goodlad, Collector of Rungpore. The Motives which induced us to adopt this Measure, was the Information we received of the enormous and useless Expences with which the Zemindar was charged by his Servants, as well as of the Debts they had incurred in his Name, and for which he was to be responsible. Upon a more minute Enquiry into the Circumstances, we were astonished to find, that the Monthly Expences of the Zemindar, though under Six Years of Age, exceeded the Sum of 16,000 Rupees; an Expence which must have anticipated his Income before he was capable of managing the smallest Part of it.

We discovered also, that the Persons who had the Charge of them and his Expences, were guilty of the most shameful Neglect with respect to his Education, and that no Part of the enormous Sum disbursed Monthly at his Expence, was applied to his Instruction, nor any Persons entertained for that Purpose; and that no Officers were established for preserving the Sudder and Mofussil Sherishtah, or Records of his Zemindarry. By the Efforts of Rajah Deby Sing, under the personal Inspection of Mr. Goodlad, a Reform has been made in his Household Expences, which are now reduced to the Monthly Sum of Six thousand Rupees; notwithstanding which, the most ample Provision has been made for every Article of Convenience which the Zemindar can either wish or desire, as well as for other Charges of Form, which, though in fact useless, are, by the Custom of the Country, deemed indispensable to the Proprietor of so large a Zemindarry, and cannot, consistently with the Prejudices of the Natives, be abolished. The proper Officers have been appointed for preserving the Records of his Inheritance, and Persons nominated to take Care of his Education: Upon this Subject, particular Instructions have been sent to Mr. Goodlad, and we have the most perfect Confidence that he will pay due Attention to them.

Our Motives for this Interference in the Household Concerns of the Zemindar of Dinagepore, may be traced in the foregoing Explanation. To relieve him from the Rapacity of his Servants, to secure him from the fatal Consequences of Acts done by him in which he cannot be a Party, and to provide for his Instruction, are the Objects we propose by it. We doubt not that Measures dictated by common Humanity, will meet with your Approbation; and it shall be our particular Care to see that the Objects proposed by them are not forgotten or neglected.

The Settlement of the District of Nuddea has been made with the Zemindar himself, at an Increase of Rupees 1,00,000. Notwithstanding the Capacity of this District to pay the Revenues claimed by Government, the Collection of them has never been effected without much Difficulty; and easy as the Assessment has been for some Years past, the Zemindar has contracted Debts to a very large Amount. These Facts seem to evince either Misconduct or Mismanagement on the Part of the Zemindar himself. To guard against the Consequences of either, a Native was appointed a Serawaul at Nuddea early in the Year: He is since dead, and we have supplied his Place by the Nomination of Mr. McDowal, who was appointed under us by your Honourable Board. The particular Duties which this Gentleman has to attend to, are, to see that the Collection of the Revenues is regularly made, and that they are not misapplied to the Liquidation of the private Debts of the Zemindar, but paid in discharge of his Engagements with the Government.

It will occur to your Honourable Board, that we have not carried into Execution the Intentions we entertained, and which we communicated to you, of increasing the Revenues of Government, by Retrenchments in the Article of Zemindarry Charges. In the Progress of forming the Settlement, we found ourselves under the Necessity of relinquishing this Intention, for some or all the following Reasons: Because the Increase upon the actual Jumma was too great to admit any further Addition by a Reduction of the Charges; because the Settlement having been made in some Instances with Farmers instead of with the Zemindars, the Allowance granted to the latter has been appropriated to the Discharge of their Balances; and lastly, the Incumbrance of private Debts, under which the Zemindars labour.

The First and Third Reasons apply particularly to the Burdwan Province. The Surplus Revenue arising from the Dewry Lands, would allow a Deduction in the Charges; but being appropriated to the Discharge of the Zemindarry Debts, the whole Allowance given by Government to the Zemindar, considering the Increase made upon his District, affords no more than a sufficient Fund for the Expenses of the Zemindar.

The Second Reason applies particularly in the Cases of Rajeshy and Dinagepore, where the Engagements for the Revenues are executed by Farmers; and it may be remarked, that Government gains more by the Mode of Settlement adopted in these Two Instances, than if the Agreements had been made with the Zemindars themselves. The whole Increase on the Jumma of these Two Districts is independent of any Retrenchments in the Zemindarry Charges; whilst the Allowances granted on this latter Account, after allotting such a Portion of them as is necessary for the Subsistence of the Zemindar, has been appropriated to the Discharge of the Balance due on account of the last Year's Engagements. If the Zemindar of Nuddea had made good his Engagements with Government, it would still have been difficult to have curtailed any Part of his Stipend, as his Debts to Individuals exceed a Year's Income. At present it is applied to the Payment of his Arrears.

It may not be improper, in this Place, to remark, that not only the Zemindar of Nuddea, but that many others, particularly those of Hedgelee and the other Salt Districts, have suffered the greatest Embarrassments from the Demands which Individuals have upon them. It is equally our Wish and our Endeavour to diminish the Claims which now subsist, and prevent others arising in future.

The Attention of the Zemindars is not only diverted by them from those Duties which ought to occupy their whole Time; but the Public Revenues are misapplied, and the Officers of Government exposed on this Account to great Trouble and Inconvenience. In Proportion as the former Reasons cease, the Subject of the intended Retrenchments will of course be resumed, and no Opportunity be lost in adopting them.

With respect to the remaining Districts, no Circumstances have occurred in the Course of forming the Settlement of them, which require particular Notice. The Proprietors of the Land, whether Zemindars or Talookdars, have in general been kept in Possession of their Lands and Management of their Collections. Where the Reverse has taken place, it has proceeded from Causes which are recorded on our Proceedings. The distant Situation of some of the Districts, the great Number of Zemindars or Talookdars possessing Portions of them, the Incapacity of the Persons, proceeding from Sex or Minority, to manage their Lands, and the Refusal of the Proprietors, are the Circumstances which have induced us to substitute a Farmer, or what is nearly the same, a Wodadar.

16th. It was our Intention to have laid before your Honourable Board, the Annual Jumma Wafil Bakee for the last Year, together with the Settlement of the present. We are sorry to be under the Necessity of delaying this for a few Days longer. You are not, however, unadvised of the Measures we have adopted for the Recovery of the Balances, as our Resolutions on this Subject, together with the Tawjee Accounts for Cheyte, the last Month in the Bengal Year, have been laid before your Honourable Board.

17th. How far we have succeeded in this important Business of forming the Settlement, must be left to the Determination of your Honourable Board. It is a Satisfaction to us to be able to inform you, that the Collections have, for the first Six Months of the Year which are just expired, been kept up with more than usual Regularity; and we can with Confidence assure you, that no Labour or Attention shall be wanting on our Parts, to realize the Settlement we have made. Sensible of the Magnitude and Importance of the Charge intrusted to us, of the Obligations under which we act, and flattered by the Confidence you have reposed in us, we want no further Inducements to exert our whole Care and Abilities to merit that Approbation which rewards a well-executed Trust.

We have the Honour to be, &c.

19th November 1781.

Extract of Fort William Consultations, in the Revenue Department; dated the 23d November 1773:

THE Board having, at several Meetings since the Receipt of the Harcourt's Advices, debated on the various Means which occurred to them for carrying into Execution the Intentions of the Honourable Court of Directors, for the future Controul and Management of the Revenue, and for the Removal of the Collectors from their Stations; and having maturely considered and weighed all the Consequences which may attend every Measure that may be adopted; are of Opinion, that the immediate Removal of the Collectors, or the Establishment of any consistent and permanent System, without such preparatory Measures as might prevent the bad Consequences of too sudden a Change, and gradually introduce a more perfect Form of Superintendency, would be hazardous to the Collections, and bring at once a greater Weight of Business on the Members of the superior Administration than they could possibly support:

Plan for the future Management of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar.

On these Grounds they do propose the following Plan for a future Establishment, to be adopted and compleated by such Means as Experience shall furnish, and the final Orders of the Honourable Company shall allow.

1st. That the Districts which form the present Collectorships shall remain, with such Variations as shall render them more easy of Controul; and more subservient to the general System.

2d. That each District be superintended by a Dewan or Awmil, except such as have been let entire to the Zemindars, or their responsible Farmers, who shall in such Case be invested with that Authority.

3d. That a Committee of Revenue be formed at the Presidency, which shall consist of Two Members of the Board, and Three senior Servants below Council, for conducting the current Business of the Collections, in the Manner following:

4th. The Committee shall meet daily; they shall form Resolutions and Orders for the current or ordinary Business of the Districts, and prepare, weekly or monthly, a separate State of each District, an Account of the Demands, Receipts, and Balance of each District, and a Report of such extraordinary Occurrences, Claims, and Proposals, as may require the Orders of the Superior Council; which are to be laid before them in their Revenue Department.

5th. The Dewan shall correspond with the President of the Committee, and the Royroyan, and send their Bills, Chelans, and Accounts, to them: These shall be registered in the proper Offices of the Khalsa, and such Translations and Abstracts made of them as shall be necessary for the Inspection of the Committee.

6th. All Orders to the Dewans shall be translated, and written in the Name of the President of the Committee and the Royroyan, to be sealed with the Seal of the Khalsa, and signed by them.

7th. Occasional Commissioners or Inspectors shall be deputed to visit such of the Districts as may require a local Investigation. These shall be chosen from the Company's Covenanted Servants, not by Seniority but by the free Election of the Board; they shall be Men qualified for this Trust by a Knowledge of the Persian or Indostan Language, and by a Moderation of Temper. An Objection made by a single Member of the Board to any Person proposed, as wanting of these Requisites, shall be a sufficient Bar to his Appointment, without Proofs being required to support it. The Commissioners shall receive an Allowance of 1,500 Rupees per Month for their Trouble and for their Expenses during the Deputation; they shall not be allowed to take with them their private Banians, nor any Servants or Dependants, without express Leave, in Writing, of the Board; they shall be forbid, on Pain of Suspension from the Service, to lend or borrow Money, to take any Concern in Farms, Talooks, or Securities, or to purchase or sell, or contract to purchase or sell, any Article whatever in the District; nor shall they suffer any of their Servants or Dependants to do either.

8th. Strict Orders shall be given, in Writing, to every Officer commanding the Sepoy Stations, forbidding them to detach any Sepoys, either singly or in Parties, for any Purpose whatever, beyond their Quarters, except when required on Military Service; to punish or confine any Person not appertaining to his Command; to lend or borrow Money; to take any Concern in Farms, Talooks, or Securities; to purchase or sell, or contract to purchase or sell, any Article whatever, either in the District in which he resides, or in any other; or to have any Dealing in any Kind whatever with any Dewan, Zemindar, Farmer, Ryot, or other Dependant or Officer of the Revenue. The same Orders shall be published to be observed by the other Officers, both European and Native, of the Battalion, and to all the Sepoys and Followers of it. It shall be declared, that the Commanding Officer shall be responsible for any Public Breach of these Orders by any Person whatever under his Command; and the Governor shall have the Power of recalling them without assigning a Reason either to them or to the Board.

9th. The Officers of the Fouzdarry Adawlut shall be forbid to hold Farms or other Offices in the Mofussil; they shall be obliged to reside, on Pain of forfeiting their Employments; and it shall be declared criminal in any Person to officiate in the Courts of Adawlut in the Capacity of Naibs or Gomastahs, for Principals non-resident.

10th. All Complaints of the Ryots or others against the Dewans, Farmers, Zemindars, or other public Officers of the Revenue, shall be received and decided by the Committee, or by Persons expressly appointed by them for that Purpose.

11th. For the Means of carrying the above Plan into Execution in such a Manner and at such Times as may be found most convenient for effecting the Purposes intended by it, and preventing the ill Consequences to which the Collections would be exposed by an improvident and precipitate Innovation, Resolved, That the following Plan be immediately adopted, to be, and to be declared to be, only for a temporary Purpose, and introductory to the foregoing:

1st. The Provinces to be formed into the following Grand Divisions:

2d. First Grand Division to be managed at Calcutta, and to consist of the Calcutta Pergunnahs, Houghly, Hedgelee, Mysadel, Tumlook, Nuddea, Jessore, Mahmudithy, with the Talooks of Contoonagur, &c. and all Lands belonging to Persons of Credit, whose constant Residence is in Calcutta; but this is meant only of Lands which are their own Property, not of such as they may farm or be Security for, and even in these the Administration of Justice must rest entirely with the Provincial Council in whose Division they may be situated.

3d. Second Grand Division to be managed at Burdwan, and to consist of Burdwan, Midnapore, Bissenpore, Patchaet, Beerbhoom, Ramgur, &c. Districts, under the Management of Captain Camac.

4th. Third Grand Division to be managed at Moorshedabad, and to consist of Rajesbahe Eastern and Western Divisions, Rockunpore Collectorship, Chunnacolly Ditto, Lushkerpore Ditto, Jehanguirepore Ditto, Caus Talooks, Rajemahl, and Boglepore, including the Annexation lately made to the latter from Mongheer, Currickpore, Jungleterry, &c. Districts, under the Management of Captain Brooke.

5th. Fourth Grand Division to be managed at Dinagepore, and to consist of Dinagepore, Silberries, Purnea, Rungpore, Edrackpore, Baharbund, Coch Beyhar, Rangarmally.

6th. Fifth Grand Division to be managed at Dacca, and to consist of Dacca, Sylhet, Attya, Cogmary, Burbazzoo.

7th. Sixth Grand Division to be superintended by the present Chief and Council at Patna, and to consist of the whole Province of Bahar, excepting the separated Districts of Mongheer, &c. as above-mentioned.

8th. The Districts of Chittagong and Tipperah to remain on their present Footing under the Management of a Chief.

9th. A Committee of Revenue to be instituted at Calcutta, for superintending the First Grand Division; to be composed of Two Members of Council, and Three Senior Servants, under them a Secretary, a Persian Translator, an Accountant, and Five Assistants.

10th. Councils of Revenue to be formed for superintending the 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th Grand Divisions; to be composed of a Chief and Four senior Servants, under them a Secretary, a Persian Translator, an Accountant, and Three Assistants.

11th. As the Detail to be conducted by the Committee at Calcutta, will supersede the Necessity of a Superintendant of the Khalsa, that Office to be abolished when the Provincial Councils have been all established.

12th. The Registry of the Khalsa is however still to remain, and the Royroyan to act therein under the collective Controul of the Council of Revenue, as at present, and the immediate Controul of the Governor.

13th. The Office of Auditor and of Accountant General should also continue; but the Accountant General to have no Connection with the Committee of Revenue further than receiving their Accounts, as he does those of every other Grand Division, through the Channel of the Council of Revenue.

14th. A Dewan to be appointed to each of the Provincial Councils, who shall be chosen by the Board, either from among the present Dewans of the Districts, or such other Persons as they shall deem well well qualified for that Office. The Royroyan to act as Dewan, assisted by One of his Naibs to the Committee of Calcutta.

15th. The Committee, and the several Provincial Councils, to correspond with the Council of Revenue, and their Dewans with the Royroyan, and to act under their Orders in every Respect as the Collectors do at present. The Perwannahs of the Revenue Council to the Dewans will of course be signed by the Governor in lieu of the Superintendant. All Sunnuds that may be resolved to be granted by the Superior Council of Revenue, shall be registered by the Secretary, in a Book kept for that Purpose, and be issued under the Seal of the Khalsa, and the Signature of the Governor.

16th. The Collections in the Districts composing the Grand Divisions, which are not the Seat of the Provincial Councils, to be managed by Naibs, at such Stations as they may judge necessary. And as the immediate Responsibility of their Management rests upon the Provincial Councils, they shall be allowed the Recommendation of the Persons they think most proper for the Trust, but their Nomination shall proceed from the Board. N. B. The Committee at Calcutta, wherever Provincial Councils are mentioned, is always understood to be one, to avoid Repetition.

17th. The Naibs to receive their Orders from the Provincial Councils; which having been approved by the Majority of the Members, shall be issued under the Public Seal, with the Signing of the Chief and the Dewan; their Correspondence and Accounts to be addressed to the Chief and the Dewan, and sealed with their Seals as Naibs. Translations, or Abstracts, of all such Letters and Accounts, to be invariably made and recorded at the public Meetings of the Councils.

18th. Each Provincial Council to be furnished with a Public Seal for its Division, and all the Seals at present in the Hands of the Collectors to be returned to the Presidency.

19th. The Collectors of Coch Beyhar to be put upon the same Footing as Ramgur and Currickpore; the Officers to receive their Orders solely from the Governor, and only to send their Accounts to the Councils of their respective Divisions, for the Sake of Regularity.

20th. The Naibs of the Districts under each Provincial Council to hold Courts of Dewanny Adawlut, according to the present Regulations, and transmit their Proceedings to the Provincial Councils; but Appeals in all Cases to be allowed from them to the Provincial Sudder Adawlut of the Division, without the 5 per Cent. Fee. These Courts of Provincial Sudder Adawlut, to be superintended in Rotation by the Members who are not of the Council of Fort William. To decide ultimately on all Cases not exceeding 1,000 Rupees; (in this is included Mulguzarry Land, of which the Jumma or Produce is not more than 1,000 Rupees, and Alienated or Free Lands, of which the Jumma is not more than 100 Rupees) in Cases exceeding that Sum, an Appeal to be, as at present, to the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut. In all Cases, the Provincial Councils at large may revise the Decisions of the superintending Member. Complaints against the head Farmers, Naibs of the Districts, Zemindars, and other principal Officers of the Government, relative to their Conduct in the Revenue, to be decided by the Provincial Councils, and entered on their Proceedings: If any of them think themselves aggrieved, they may apply ultimately to the Superior Council of Revenue at Calcutta. Sunnuds for Lands whose Jumma is no more than abovementioned, may be granted by the Provincial Councils, under the Public Seal and the Signature of the Chief, after being registered by the Secretary in a Book kept for that Purpose; of which a Copy shall be transmitted monthly to the Presidency and a complete Alphabetical Copy annually.

21st. Strict Orders shall be given in Writing to every Officer commanding the Sepoy Stations, forbidding them to detach any Sepoys, either singly or in Parties, for any Purpose whatever, beyond their Quarters, except when required on Military Service; to punish or confine any Person not appertaining to his Command; to lend or borrow Money; to take any Concern in Farms, Talooks, or Securities; to purchase or sell, or contract to purchase or sell any Article whatever, either in the District in which he resides, or in any other; or to have any Dealings of any Kind whatever with any Dewan, Zemindar, Farmer, Ryot, or other Dependant or Officer of the Revenue. The same Orders shall be published to be observed by the other Officers, both European and Native, of the Battalion, and to all the Sepoys and Followers of it: It shall be declared likewise, that the Commanding Officer shall be responsible for any public Breach of these Orders by any Person whatever under his Command; and the Governor shall have the Power of recalling them, without assigning a Reason to them, or to the Board.

22d. The Officers of the Phouzdarry Adawluts shall be forbid to hold Farms or other Offices in the Mofussil; they shall be obliged to recede on Pain of forfeiting their Employments; and it shall be declared criminal in any Person to officiate in the Courts of Adawlut in the Capacity of Naibs or Gomastahs for Principals non-resident.

23d. Complaints against the Officers of the Phouzdarry Adawluts to be made to the Governor, and to be referred by him to the Sudder Nizamut Adawlut, for their Enquiry and Determination.

24th. The Members of the Superior Council, whether in Calcutta or in the Divisions, to be restricted from every Kind of Trade whatever, excepting Diamonds for Remittances to Europe, Goods purchased in Calcutta to be exported to foreign Markets for Sale in Calcutta; and in Consideration of this Prohibition to be allowed 3,000 Rupees per Month: Each Member shall bind himself to the Observation of this Article under a Penalty of £. 20,000.

25th. The Export Warehouse-keeper at Calcutta to be restricted from the Trade in such Articles as constitute the Company's Investment; and the Export Warehouse-keepers of the Divisions, and the Residents of Bowlee, Comorcolly, Malda, Rungpore, Luckipore, and Colinda, from the same Articles within their respective Divisions or Districts.

26th. The Members and Assistants of the Provincial Councils, and the other Covenanted Servants

N. B. An Alienated or Free Land of 100 Rupees Annual Produce, is valued at 10 Years Purchase, and consequently equal to 1,000 Rupees; whereas in a Land paying Revenue, the Zemindar's Share is reckoned only 1-10th, and the other 9-10ths are the Government's; so that though its Produce be 1,000 Rupees, it will yield him only 100 Rupees Annual Profit.

A P P E N D I X, N. 1.

of the Company, residing in the subordinate Factories and Out-districts, to be restricted from making Advances for Grain, or any such Articles as contribute to the Subsistence of the Natives, and cannot be dealt in without Oppression to them; such as Ghee, Oil, Fish, Jute, Matts, Straw, Bamboos, Beetle Nut, and Tobacco; which they shall purchase with ready Money only at the capital Markets of the Country; and it is expected that the Chief of every Provincial Council will give particular Attention to the rigid Observance of this Regulation: And if any of the Servants in his Division, of whatsoever Rank, should deviate from it, or in any Respect carry on a Commerce oppressive to the Inhabitants, he is hereby authorized and required to address the Board of Calcutta on this Subject, independent of his Council; and by his own Authority to seize any other Person accused of committing any actual Violence on the Persons or Property of the Inhabitants, that he may take his Trial at the Provincial Court of Adawlut.

27th. It shall be made an Article in the Instructions given to the Chief and Council of every Division, that they make particular Enquiry concerning every Talook, or other smaller Portion of Land included within each District of their Division, but appertaining to some other District, whether of their own or any other Division; that they ascertain the Limits, Malguzarry, and Profits of the same: That in like Manner they obtain an Account of every Portion of Land belonging to either of the Districts of their Division, but not included in it, and that they report the same to the Superior Council, with the Names of the Proprietors, and every other Circumstance which may enable them to effect an Exchange or Alienation of these separated Lands, on such Terms as may be satisfactory to the Owners, and to form a more complete and entire Arrangement of the Districts, for the better Government and the easier Management of the Collections.

It being the professed Intention of the Board to make the Plan now adopted subservient to that which they propose for a future and perpetual System; it is their further Design, that whenever the Accounts and Arrangements of any one Division shall be so regulated and completed, as to enable them to bring the Controul down to the Presidency, the Provincial Council shall be accordingly withdrawn, and either continue to conduct the Business of the Division at the Presidency, or transfer it at once to the Committee. By such progressive Method, an easy Change may be effected, without the smallest Hazard of any Loss or Embarrassment; at the same Time that a Provision is made for the Admission of such other Improvements as the Honourable Court of Directors may enjoin, and which would either be precluded by any other Mode, or the new Measures which may have been established, must be abolished to make room for them; which would occasion fresh Perplexities in the Revenue, and fill the Minds of the People with Apprehensions of perpetual Changes.

It has been already remarked, that the great Weight of Affairs with which the Administration is already loaded, will not admit of the immediate Introduction of the proposed System; and it is possible that it may still remain a Charge too great for one Body to manage, even with all the Regularity which Time and Experience can give it: But if it should be found so, the Collections will be better conducted at the Presidency, by the same Provincial Councils, under the present Inspection of the Superior Council, than under the same Controul within the Districts, because of the dangerous Abuse which may be made of the personal Influence of the Members composing those Provincial Councils, and resident within their Divisions; neither will their Business suffer by the Distance of their Situation, except only in the Case of extraordinary Investigations, which may require the Presence of Individuals, or the Inspection of Mofussil Papers.

The Paper delivered by Major Scott went no farther; but in the Proceedings of the 23d November 1773, received from the India House, the following Addition was made.

The Allowance which is proposed by the 24th Article, for the Members of the Council, of 3,000 Rupees to each per Month, will amount, when the Board is complete, to 36,000 per Month, or 4,32,000 per Annum. It is proposed that this Sum be paid from a Fund to be raised from the Trade of Opium, as resolved on this Day's Proceedings.—It will be a reasonable Compensation for the Loss which the Members of the Superior Council may be supposed to sustain, by being excluded from every Benefit of Trade, which they could not exercise, however disposed in themselves, without some Degree of Oppression. They will have more Leisure to attend to the Duties of their Stations; and the Chiefs of the Provincial Councils will be more at Liberty to check and correct any Irregularities of others, being under no Restraint on Account of their own private Concerns. If it can be supposed that Men of the first Distinction in the Service, having accepted of such a Compensation, should notwithstanding so far forget the Principles of Fidelity and Honour, as to engage in any Concerns contrary to this Prohibition, the Jealousy of their Councils will prove an effectual Bar to such a Design, unless they should agree in a Collusion with them, which it would be impossible to conceal. The Confidence which our Employers have generously reposed in our Attachment to their Service, renders it more particularly our Duty to express our Sentiments on a Subject of such Importance without Reserve, although our Declarations may admit of a Misconstruction against ourselves as Men. The Servants of the Company are not exempted from the Frailties and Wants of Humanity; if allowed the Liberty of Trade, while they possess an unbounded Power (and who shall bind those who constitute the Government itself?) their Trade will be a Monopoly and an Oppression; if forbidden to trade, without some Reparation for the Loss, and some allowed Means of acquiring a Livelihood, and even the Prospect of a Competency, the feeble Words of a Public Edict will not hold them, but they will with little Scruple break through them, and obtain those Ends by unallowed Means; because they will think, that a Decree which imposes upon them the Necessity of perpetual Penury, could not have been really intended for their rigid Observance; such having been in many Instances the fatal Practice of this Service. We say fatal, because Laws and Restrictions which have no
Coercion,

Coercion, and bear too hardly on the Passions for the common Sufferance of Mankind, inevitably defeat their own Purpose; they become totally disregarded, nor is it deemed an Impeachment of Morality to transgress them: And it is a Consequence as infallible, that when Men are once allowed to pass the Line of their prescribed Duty, at their own Option, they will by Degrees extend the Latitude to the furthest Extremes of Corruption, Embezzlement, and Rapine. For these Reasons we have judged it advisable to withhold the Temptation of Oppression from those whose superior Influence would afford them the most ready Means of exercising it, and to secure their Forbearance by an Equivalent and certain Income. Thus far we think ourselves warranted by the full Powers granted us by our Honourable Employers, although the Purposes to which they designed our Application of them are not distinctly ascertained. We should wish to extend the like Rule to the inferior Servants in Power, especially those of the Provincial Councils, by restraining them also totally from Trade, and making them proportionable Allowances; but we cannot proceed to such a Length without an express Authority, because we have no other Fund to indemnify the Company for such an Addition as this would make to their Expences, unless we were to apply the Profits of the Salt Trade to that Purpose; to which there is this Objection, that they are already appropriated, and referred to the Company for their Determination concerning them. We have therefore left the inferior Servants in Possession of the Privilege of a fair Trade, and we hope that the Distinction which we have made, will prove a sufficient Guard against any great Abuse of it. The Exceptions which we made to the General Prohibition of Trade for the Members of the Superior Council, cannot be productive of any evil Consequences, and may be a necessary Encouragement to the Promotion of Trade.

In order to carry the temporary Plan into Execution, the Board is further agreed on the following Resolutions:

1st. That the Committee of Revenue at the Presidency be appointed as necessary to the Establishment of the other Arrangements; and that it do consist of the following Members:

Permanent Plan for the Administration of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar, formed the 20th February 1781, by the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department.

THE System which yet subsists, though with many essential Variations, of superintending and collecting the Public Revenue through the Agency of Provincial Councils, was instituted for the temporary and declared Purpose of introducing another more permanent Mode, by an easy and gradual Change, by which the Effects of too sudden an Innovation might be avoided. This permanent Plan is methodically and completely delineated in the same Proceedings of the 23d of November 1773, of this Department, in which the Provincial Councils were established. It consists substantially in this; that all the Collections of the Provinces should be brought down to the Presidency, and be there administered by a Committee of the most able and experienced of the Covenanted Servants of the Company, under the immediate Inspection and with the Opportunity of, instant Reference for Instruction to, the Governor General and Council.

Conformably to this Design, it is now resolved and ordered,

1st. That a Committee of Revenue, consisting of Four Covenanted Servants of the Company, be immediately constituted; who shall be intrusted with the Charge and Administration of all the Public Revenues of these Provinces, and invested, in the fullest Manner, with all the Powers and Authority, under the Controul of the Governor General and Council, which the Governor General and Council do themselves possess, and shall not reserve exclusively to themselves.

2d. That the first Persons nominated to this Charge be Mr. David Anderson, Mr. John Shore, Mr. Samuel Charters, and Mr. Charles Croftes.

3d. That the Provincial Councils shall be dissolved, and their Charge and Powers transferred to the Committee of Revenue; that the Members of the Councils be ordered forthwith to repair to the Presidency, except the Chiefs of each, who shall remain in the temporary Charge of their respective Divisions, under the Authority of the Committee, until such Time as they shall be recalled by the Orders of the Governor General and Council.

4th. That the Collectors of the separate Districts shall in like Manner remain in their respective Stations, under the Authority of the Committee, until such Time as they shall be recalled by Order of the Governor General and Council.

5th. That the Office of Superintendant of the Khalsa Records shall be abolished, and the Office of the Khalsa, with all its dependant Offices, and all the Functions and Powers appertaining to it, shall be transferred to the Committee of Revenue.

6th. That the Canongoes shall be re-instated in the complete Charge and Possession of all the Functions and Powers which constitutionally appertain to their Office.

7th. That the Committee shall examine and report the present State of the other Offices dependant on the Khalsa, and propose such Alterations as shall appear to them necessary for making them answerable to the Purposes of their Institution, and bringing them under the Controul and daily Inspection of the Committee.

8th. That

A P P E N D I X, * N° 2.

8th. That the Committee shall immediately prepare Establishments for their own immediate Department, and such temporary Establishments as shall be judged necessary for the Collectors of the Divisions or Districts, and shall lay the same before the Board for Approbation.

9th. That such of the Company's Servants as shall be removed from their present Offices in consequence of these Arrangements, shall be permitted to draw the same Allowances as they draw at present, until they shall be appointed to other Offices, or until it shall be the Pleasure of the Board to withdraw this Indulgence.

10th. That the Committee shall meet Three Days in every Week, or as much oftner as their Business shall require: That they shall form Resolutions and Orders for the current or ordinary Business of their Department, and report to the Board, as they shall happen, such extraordinary Occurrences, Claims, and Proposals, as may require the special Orders of the Board: That they shall keep regular Minutes of their Proceedings in the customary Form, and do no Act collectively which shall not be recorded therein: That they shall lay a fair Copy of each Month's Proceedings, together with a summary Report of the same, the Jumma Wauhil Baulkee, or Accounts of Demands, Receipts, and Balances, of each Division or District, and general and particular Accounts of Receipts and Disbursements, and Treasury Accounts of each Month, before the Board, on the Fifteenth of the ensuing Month.

11th. That if the Members of the Committee differ in Opinion upon any Question before them, the Majority, or the Casting Voice of the President or senior Member present, shall decide, and form the Resolution of the Whole; but it is not expected that every dissentient Opinion shall be recorded; and where the Case shall be deemed of such Importance as to require it, it shall be immediately referred, together with so much of the Proceedings as have an immediate Relation to it, to the Board; but the Determination of the Majority of the Committee shall not therefore be stayed, unless it shall be so agreed by the Majority.

12th. That the President of the Committee do issue, of his own Authority, during the Intervals of their Meetings, such occasional or subsidiary Orders as shall be necessary for carrying into Execution any existing Orders of the Committee, or for personal Attendance, or for preparing Materials for the Inspection of the Committee, or for any such other Purposes as the Committee shall judge it advisable to commit to his separate Charge as their executive Member; and all the Officers, Servants, and Dependents, shall be required and enjoined to yield implicit Obedience to all Orders which they shall receive from him, subject, of course, to the superior Authority of the Committee: That the other Members of the Committee shall not possess or exercise individually the same Power, except in Cases in which, for the greater Dispatch of Business, they shall agree to divide it into separate and occasional Portions between them, or to assign any special Charge to any Member separately.

13th. That a Commission of Two per Cent. on all Nett Sums paid immediately into the Treasury at the Presidency, on Account of the Public Revenue, in the Course of every Month, and a Commission of One per Cent. on all Sums paid to the Treasuries which remain under Charge of the Collectors, in the Course of each Month, after deducting all Charges incurred in the same Month, shall, on the passing of each Month's Account, be allowed to the Members of the Committee and their principal Assistants, as the Reward of their Trouble, from this Time, or from the First Day of the Month of Faugun, to the Conclusion of the ensuing Bengal Year, or the End of the Month of Cheyt, 1188; and shall be shared between them in the following Manner; viz. The Whole being divided into Twenty-five Shares, the President shall take Six Shares, each of the other Members of the Council shall have Five Shares, and the remaining Four Shares shall be divided equally between the Secretary and the present Assistant of the Superintendant of the Khalsa Records, who shall continue to perform the same Duties, under the Authority of the Committee and the occasional Orders of the Board, as he has hitherto done under the Superintendant of the Khalsa Records; and these Allowances shall be in lieu of all Salaries, Emoluments, and Perquisites, whatsoever, 14th. Each Member of the Committee shall, on his Admission to his Office, solemnly take and subscribe the following Oath; viz.

I, A. B. do swear, That I will faithfully discharge the Office of a Member of the Committee of Revenue; that I will not receive, directly or indirectly, from any Zemindar, Talookdar, Farmer, or other Landholder or Officer, or other Dependent of the Committee, any Present or Gratuity of any Kind whatsoever; neither will I acquire or receive any lucrative Advantage by my Office, but such as shall be publicly allowed me by the Governor General and Council.
So help me GOD.

Copy of a Letter from the Committee of Revenue to the Honourable the Governor General and Council, submitting to them, Temporary Establishments for the Chiefs and Collectors of the different Divisions; also Regulations, formed by the Committee, for conducting the Business of their Department.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General and Council of Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

AGREABLE to the 8th Article in the Regulations prescribed for our Conduct, we have prepared Temporary Establishments for the Chiefs of the Divisions and Collectors of the Districts; which we have now the Honour to lay before you for your Approbation.

These Establishments do not differ in Form from those which at present exist. In order however to distinguish the real Expenses made in the Collections of the Revenues from the Charges incurred on Account of different Services, we have omitted in these Establishments to insert the Expenses of the Fouzdarry or Dewanny Adawlut, Law Charges, and Inspectors of Opium, which in future we propose shall be entered under the Head of Fort William Presidency. For the same Reason the Articles of Diet Money, Family Allowance, &c. which were formerly paid by the Buxey in Calcutta, are omitted, and we propose that this Mode of Payment shall be adopted in future.

Several of the Gentlemen at the different Subordinates have drawn Allowances for their Moonshys: If you think proper to continue these Allowances, we recommend that they be paid, as formerly, by the Buxey, under the Approbation of the Honourable the Governor General.

The Zemindars of Rajishahy, Rocunpore, Beerbhoom, and Bissenpore, have been allowed Annual Remissions upon account of their Religious Ceremonies, or for their Servants, as follows:

Zemindar of Rajishahy.

Deb Krutch	—	—	1,500 — —	3,600 — —

Rocunpore.

Burgundassies	—	—	—	649 — —
Deb Krutch	—	—	—	342 14 15	991 14 15

Beerbhoom.

Deb Krutch	—	—	—	74 10 14
Rajah's Servants	—	—	—	750 — —	824 10 14

Bissenpore.

Deb Krutch	—	—	—	346 — —
Rajah's Servants	—	—	—	335 — —	681 — —

Per Month, — Sicca Rupees 6,097 9 9

Per Annum, — Sicca Rupees 73,171 1 8

These Articles we have deducted from the Zemindarry Charges, and they will of course become Additions to the Revenue paid by those Zemindars respectively. It appears to us, on a general Review of the Zemindarry Charges, that some Resumptions may with Justice and Propriety be made from them; but as this Subject is of Importance, we mean to obtain more particular Information, as to the Nature of the original Establishment of these Allowances, before we recommend any further Resumptions; for the present, therefore, these Charges stand as in the former Establishments.

In several of the Districts, Sums are charged Monthly for temporary Services, which do not stand as Articles of these Establishments, as they cannot be considered as permanent, but will of course cease as soon as the Services for which they are now appropriated are executed.

We observe that Rajah Cullean Sing receives Monthly Allowances at Patna to the Amount of Rupees 4,166 17 6: If this Salary is paid to him as Dewan, we think it unnecessary, as he is himself self the Farmer ; but we rather suppose it is given to him as a Pension, in which Case it should not be considered as a Charge upon the Revenue. We submit to you the Propriety of a Resumption of this Article.

Upon the Whole, these Establishments are calculated to answer the Purposes for which they are designed, at as little Expence as possible. That you may be better enabled to judge of the Reduction which has been made in the Amount of the Charges, we have the Honour to lay before you Two Accounts ; one shewing in general the Amount of the Reduction, and the other specifying more particularly the Articles in which these Retrenchments have been made.

We do not propose these Establishments as finally fixed and permanent ; some Articles of Expence still remain for further Consideration, upon which we cannot decide till we have obtained Explanations from the Collectors regarding them : Some Circumstances may also occur to render Variations in these Establishments indispensably necessary ; and we request your Permission to make such Variations where they shall appear to us indispensable, reporting them to you as they shall take place.

With respect to the Assistants who are to remain with the Chiefs of the Districts, we propose, with your Approbation, to leave the Choice of them to the Chiefs themselves, directing them in general to give a Preference to those Persons who are the best qualified, or those who at present hold Military Paymasterships, or are employed at any Out Stations.

We propose that these Establishments, if they should be honoured with your Approbation, shall take place from the Beginning of the ensuing Bengal Year 1188. The intervening Period is short, and will be necessary for the Chiefs and Collectors to complete their Records, and arrange their Establishments according to the Plans now submitted to you.

We have the Honour to be, most respectfully,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Your most obedient and most humble Servants, (Signed) J. Shore,

Sam' Charters,
Cha' Croftes.

Fort William,
2d March 1781.

The Honourable the Governor General and Council having resolved to invest the Committee with the Functions and Powers appertaining to the Office of the Khalsa ; and having directed them to examine and report on the present State of the other Offices dependant on the Khalsa, and propose such Alterations as shall appear necessary for making them answerable to the Purposes of their Institutions ; the Committee now proceed to take into Consideration these Resolutions and Orders.

The Committee, reverting to the original Regulations for conducting the Business of the Revenue Department at the Presidency, and that of the Khalsa, observe, that the Principles upon which the System was then established, were founded with a View to the Establishment of some future Committee of Revenue, similar to that which has now taken place.

That the Duty of the present Committee is there also defined to consist chiefly in issuing the necessary Orders to the Collectors ; in inspecting, auditing, and passing their Accounts ; in deciding upon all Points of Reference ; and in issuing the necessary Orders ; subject to the Approbation and Controul of the Supreme Council.

That for carrying into Execution the several Duties, the former Establishment of the Khalsa, with some few Variations, will now also be requisite.

That it appears to the Committee, that as the Roy Royan was originally dependant on the Board of Revenue, and directed to attend there, he should also be now considered as an Officer under the Supreme Council.

That in this Capacity, his Duty will still consist in countersigning all such Persian Papers and Orders as are executed by the Supreme Council, or by the Honourable the Governor General.

That he may be the better enabled to carry into Execution such Orders as he shall receive from the Supreme Council or Governor General, he be still allowed to call upon the Native Officers under the Committee, for Copies of such Papers, in the different Sherishtas, as he may require.

That as the Supreme Council have thought proper to appoint a Dewan to the Committee, it will be the Duty of the Dewan to countersign the Papers executed by them, and carry into Execution such Orders as are given to him, and such Duties as appertain to his Office ; to be present at the Meetings of the Committee, and sit with them to receive their Orders ; and to attend the President occasionally, and to report such Matters to him as require his Orders, which he is to obey.

That the Roy Royan, therefore, shall not be allowed to interfere in the Business transacted by the Dewan of the Committee, as such Interference would occasion frequent Disputes and great Delay in the Business, which each would ascribe to the other.

That the Duty formerly vested in the Roy Royan, of superintending the Conduct of the Provincial Dewans, of receiving Accounts from them in the Bengal Language, and of issuing Counterparts of the Orders which the Board of Revenue should expedite to the Collectors, will now become unnecessary.

That with respect to such Provincial Dewans as remain in the Districts where Collectors are stationed, stationed, they should continue to act under the Directions of those Collectors, to whom the Committee will expedite their Orders.

That with respect to such Provincial Dewans and Naibs as reside in Districts where there are no Collectors, the Committee will also issue their Orders to them through their President; and such Orders are to be countersigned by the Dewan of the Committee.

That the Collectors be accordingly directed to address the Persian and Bengal Copies of such Accounts as they shall send to the Committee, to the Dewan of the Committee; and that Orders be issued to the Provincial Dewans and Naibs, who reside in Districts where there are no Collectors, to adopt the same Mode of Address.

That the executive Business appertaining to the Collection of the Rents of the Huzzoor Mehals, will principally rest with the President of the Committee and Dewan, subject to the Orders of the Committee.

That the Accountant General of the Dewanny will still continue to perform the Duties described in the old Regulations of the Khalsa, or such other Functions as may have since been prescribed by the Honourable Board.

That all the Accounts of the Revenue Department will, as usual, be carried to his Office.

That therefore the Establishment of an Accountant's Office for the Committee, will be unnecessary; but the Duties of such an Appointment may be performed by a Sub-accountant.

That the Duty of a Sub-accountant will be, to receive the Accounts transmitted to the Committee, deliver them to the Accountant General's Office, and prepare Statements of the Kists due from the Huzzoor Mehals more immediately under the Committee, Monthly Towjees of the same, with such other Accounts as he may be directed to furnish.

That he be therefore considered as an Officer jointly under the Committee and Accountant General.

That the Official Establishment for the Roy Royan, specified in the above Regulations of the Khalsa, will not in future be considered as a Part of the Establishment of the Committee, but separate from it.

That instead of the above Office, an Establishment for the Dewan, of a Number of native Officers sufficient to enable him to execute the Duties appertaining to his Appointment, be made.

That a separate Office for the Huzzoor Tehseel, as mentioned in the Old Regulations of the Khalsa, will now become necessary, as the Duties of this Office will be performed by the Dewan and the Officers under him.

That with respect to the Canongoe's Office, it will become the Subject of future Consideration, when the Committee proceed to carry into Execution the Orders of the Honourable Board for the Establishment of the Canongoes.

That the Establishment of a General Treasury Office, as described in the above Regulations of the Khalsa, will still be necessary; but that, to facilitate the Receipt of the Revenues, to check the Accompts, and preserve Regularity in them, it is the Opinion of the Committee, that a Subordinate Treasury Office should be established for that Part of the Huzzoor Tehseel, made by the Committee themselves, or their Officers immediately under them.

That in order to prevent all Confusion in Terms, the General Treasury of the Committee do still retain the Name of the Khalsa Treasury, and that the subordinate Treasury Office be denominated the Running Treasury.

That with respect to the other subordinate Offices dependant on the Khalsa, it will be necessary to retain them, with some Variations, and they will still continue the Functions described in the above Regulations, or such others as shall be prescribed.

The Committee having premised the Observations necessary for carrying into Execution the Orders of the Honourable the Governor General and Supreme Council, now proceed to form their Establishment.

That as nothing contributes more to an expeditious and regular Dispatch of Business than general Forms and Rules, the Committee think it necessary to pass the following Resolutions, for their own Guidance, and that of their Officers under them:

Collections of the Revenues of the Huzzoor Tehseel.

That Tullub Chittes be regularly issued on the 20th of each Bengal Month, for One Half of the Kist of the Huzzoor Mehals for the same Month.

That on the 30th of each Bengal Month, Tullub Chittes be issued for the remaining Half of the Kist of the same Month.

That on the 5th of the ensuing Month, Bengal Month Districts be issued for the Renters in Arrears.

That to obviate the Inconveniences which have arisen from the Dilatoriness of the Zemindars and Farmers in discharging their Rents at the stipulated Periods of their Kistbundies, and to constrain them in future to be more punctual in their Payments, it be declared to them, that on all Sums remaining in Arrear Fifteen Days after the Expiration of the Period of the Kist, a per Centage of 1 Rupee shall be levied over and above the Amount of the Caboolats.

That

A P P E N D I X, N° 3, 4.

That on such Part of the Kist of One Month as remains in Arrear after the Expiration of the following Kist, Two per Cent. be levied; and that upon the Deficiencies of every subsequent Kist, the same Penalty be levied in the same Proportion.

That these Regulations extend to the Zemindars and Farmers of all the Mehals within the Divisions of Calcutta, Moorshedabad, Burdwan, and Dinagepore, as the Situation of these Divisions are sufficiently contiguous to enable them to complete their Engagements within the Periods above specified.

That the Dewan do deliver in an Account of the Seah or Receipts to the President, signed by himself, daily; and that the President do lay the Account before the Committee at each Meeting. These Accounts to be deposited with the Sub Accountant.

That the Amount of the Sums brought into the Seah Accounts of each Day in the Subordinate Treasury, be paid in the Evening into the Khalsa Treasury.

Khalsa Treasury.

That all Remittances from the Collectors and Chief be immediately carried to the Khalsa Treasury, and deposited there.

That all Disbursements whatever be made from the Khalsa Treasury.

That all such Sums as are paid according to fixed Establishments, be paid to an Order of Treasury, signed by the President of the Committee and Accountant General, and counter-signed by the Dewan.

That all Disbursements not included in fixed Establishments, be previously laid before the Committee, who will, if proper, pass an Order for their Payment; after which the Order of the Treasury will be signed by the President and Accountant General, and counter-signed by the Dewan.

That as often as the State of the Treasury admits, Remittances be made from the Khalsa to the General Treasury.

That these Payments be made to an Order, signed by the President and Accountant General, and counter-signed by the Dewan; and that the Sub Treasurer do give a Receipt for every Sum so paid into the General Treasury; which Receipts are to remain with the Kezanchee of the Committee, to be produced with the Monthly Treasury Account.

That the Committee, on the 6th of every English Month, or the next Committee Day ensuing, do examine and audit the Monthly Treasury Accounts, previous to laying it before the Supreme Council.

That on the First Day of every English Month, or next Committee Day ensuing, they do examine the Report upon the Towjee Accounts of the different Collectors and Chiefs, and pass such Orders and Resolutions thereon as they shall deem necessary.

That the Accountant General do also continue to report upon the Accounts, Charges, and Treasury Accounts, of the Collectors and Chiefs; which the Committee will take into Consideration, and pass their Orders, upon the 6th of every Month.

Plan for the Settlement of the Revenue of Bengal and Bahar, for the Bengal Year 1188; formed by the Committee of Revenue, and submitted by them to the Honourable the Governor General and Council, the 29th March 1781.

THE Honourable Governor General and Council having directed the Committee to form and lay before them a Plan of a Settlement for the ensuing Bengal Year 1188, they now proceed to take these Orders into Consideration.

With a View to the Execution of these Orders, the Committee have directed such Accounts and Materials to be prepared, as they judged useful to give them Information respecting the Capacity, Situation, and Extent of the several Districts, and the peculiar Circumstances which have operated during some Years past, to occasion either Improvement or Decay in the Revenues of each; an Attention to which can alone enable them to form a Plan capable of being reduced to Practice. Most of these Accounts are now ready for their Inspection, and the Remainder will soon be completed.

The Two principal Objects for Consideration are, the Amount of the Settlement, and the Form of it.

A P P E N D I X, N° 4.

The Amount of the Assessment must depend on the Capacity of the different Districts. In some the Assessment will be found already too great; others again, and the greatest Part, will admit of an Increase.

To proportion this Assessment in such a Manner as it may be realized, the Value of the different Districts must be ascertained: The Committee are of Opinion that this may be accomplished with a sufficient Degree of Accuracy, without entering into minute Examinations or new local Investigations.

The Committee have now accurate Accounts of the Settlement, Receipts, Balances, and Remissions, from the Year 1178 to the present Time, as well as of the Zemindarry and Ijarredarry Expenses; the Aumeeny Records will also furnish the Huttabood Accounts of many of the Districts, from the Year 1179 to 1183, and for a longer Period if necessary.

In following the Information to be obtained from these Records, the Committee cannot greatly err in fixing the Amount of the Assessment, particularly as they will add to this the Information to be obtained from all Mutsuddies or others employed in the Collection and Management of the Revenues. The Character and Capacities of the Zemindars, Farmers, and others, who have had Charge of the Collections, will also be taken into Consideration, as being useful in some Cases to ascertain whether the Non-payment of the Rents of any particular Place has been owing to the Fault or Incapacity of the Person employed, or to the Want of Funds in the District.

In comparing these several Accounts and Information, they propose taking some Data as a Ground-work to proceed upon. The Method which appears to them the simplest and easiest is, to take the higher actual Collections that have been made in any one Year from 1178 to the present Time, and from an Examination of the Remissions which have since been granted, and a Comparison of the Huttabood Accounts, and the Receipts of other Years, to form a Judgment as to the Cause of the Decrease of the Jumma, which has since appeared, and pass a Decision, whether that Amount should be continued, decreased, or increased. An Attention alone to the Remissions granted, will afford them very satisfactory Information, by shewing the Nature of them, and whether they have proceeded from temporary Causes, or others which have a lasting and permanent Effect; and an Examination of the Charge will also shew how far Additions may be effected from Retrenchments.

The Amount of the Settlement being thus ascertained, the Mode of it is next to be considered.

Three Modes of Settlement prevail in this Country:

To leave the Lands to the Zemindars, or to Farmers, or keep them Khafs.

The Committee are of Opinion, that it will not be advisable to give either of these Modes an exclusive Preference to the rest, but adopt them severally as Circumstances may require.

The Mode which appears to the Committee the most convenient and secure for the Government, and the best for the Ryots and Country, is, in general to leave the Lands with the Zemindars, making the Settlement with them, particularly in the larger Zemindarries, such as Nuddea, Radshahy, Dinagepore, &c. The Considerations which ought to preclude the Zemindars, are, their gross Mismanagement, Oppressions, or Incapacity.

Where Women or Minors are Zemindars, the Committee think some Method should be adopted to prevent the Confusion ordinarily arising from this Circumstance, by fixing a Responsibility upon some Person to whom they can constantly have Access, and upon whom they can enforce the Orders of Government. This may be effected by joining with them in the Management their principal executive Officer, either as Malzamin, or by making him annex his Seal to the Agreement signed by the Zemindar, binding himself to pay up the Revenues Kist by Kist, as was formerly the Usage; so that his own private Fortune being rendered responsible for the public Revenue, it may become his Interest to manage the Affairs of the District with Attention and Economy, and to discharge punctually the Amount of the monthly Kists: Without such a Responsibility, the executive Officer of Government will always meet with Difficulties in realizing the Revenues. It is true, that all the Lands may be sold for the Payment of the Rents; but it would be hard to adopt so rigorous a Measure when the Zemindar is known to have had no Share in the Management, and when the Deficiencies have been occasioned by the Incapacity or Dishonesty of the executive Officer.

After the Amount of the Settlement to be paid by any Zemindar has been fixed, it will only remain to call upon the Zemindar to conclude the Engagement, by signing his Cabooleat. If he should demur when the Requisition is made to him, or make any Evasions, as it is probable will be the Case in many Instances, the Government should lose no Time in compelling him to obey their Orders, by sending a Sezawul to take Charge of his Zemindarry, or by putting it into the Possession of a Wadadar, or letting it in Farm. As the Assessment will be regulated with Impartiality and all possible Exactness, there can be no Injustice in obviating, by a decisive Conduct, Evasions calculated to frustrate the Orders of Government.

With respect to Farmers, the Principle upon which they may be introduced may be assigned as follows: Several Divisions contain a Number of Petty Talookdars, with whom a Settlement has been made by the Government itself; such Divisions, and particularly such Parts of them as are either now immediately under the Committee, or are to be put under them, should be let to Farmers; as the Committee would otherwise be greatly embarrassed and impeded in their general Business, by being obliged to enter into the Detail of a Number of Petty Farmers and Talookdars.

As soon as a Judgment has been formed respecting those Districts or Pergannas which are to be let to farm, Advertisements should be put up, giving Notice, that sealed Proposals will be accepted for the Farm of them; the Committee reserving to themselves the Power of such Offers as may be deemed inadequate, or such as are made by People who want Knowledge or Responsibility.

A P P E N D I X, N° 4. N° 5. N° 6.

With respect to the Period of the Leases in general, it appears to the Committee, that to limit them to One Year will be the best Period, giving a Preference at the Settlement of the next to such Persons as shall have paid up their Rents, and making a Promise of this on the Part of Government.

One or other of the Considerations specified, will include most, if not all, of the Districts in Bengal. It may be necessary however to ask, who is to make the Settlement? It would be difficult to fix any general Rule for this, which would not be liable to Exceptions. The Committee should execute this Task themselves in as many Cases as they can; in some perhaps it would be most expedient to leave the Detail of this with the Collector, or the Officer of Government.

These are the general Principles which occur to the Committee; and, as they have already given their Attention, both separately and collectively, to the several Points from which these Principles have been deduced, and the Cases in which they are to be applied in Practice, they are ready to commence the fixing the new Assessment, and the Persons who are to pay it, as soon as the Governor General and Supreme Council shall have given their Orders on the Plan.

Extract of a Letter from the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, dated the 30th March 1781, to the Committee of Revenue, respecting the Settlement of the Revenues of Bengal and Bahar; submitted by them to the Honourable Board the 29th March 1781.

WE approve of the Whole of the Plan which you have recommended, of a Settlement for the ensuing Bengal Year 1188, excepting that Part in which it is proposed in some Cases to leave the Detail of the Settlement with the Collector, or the Officer of Government; of this we cannot approve in any Case, as we conceive it to be inconsistent with the Office of the Person who is to have the Collections of the Settlement, upon the Settlement formed, that he should have any Concern in the Formation of it: We therefore direct, that for such Mhals as cannot be immediately settled by you with the Zemindars, or Persons deputed by them, Persons be expressly deputed from the proper Offices to form the Settlements upon the Spot; and that these be also made, and finally confirmed, by yourselves.

Although we approve of the general Principles on which you propose to regulate your Conduct in the Formation of the Settlement; yet, as it is our Desire to remove every Interference and Embarrassment from the present System of Controul, render it uniform, and to afford every Relief and Ease both to the Ryots and to the Zemindars, which may be consistent with it, and conformable to the ancient Constitution of the Country; we recommend it to you to give all due Encouragement to such Applications as you shall receive from the Zemindars, for the Payment of their Rents immediately to the Khalsa, for the Restoration of their ancient Jurisdiction, and the consequent Abolition of that of the Phouddarry, and for the Settlement of a fixed Revenue during the Lives of the actual Incumbents: In these Points we are desirous to afford every Indulgence to the Zemindars; but shall expect in Return an Increase of their Revenue, bearing some Proportion to the Advantages which the Zemindars will themselves derive in Point of Revenue from them. We think it sufficient thus briefly to suggest this Deviation from your general Plan, leaving it to your Judgment and Discretion to apply it.

We recommend it to you to use the utmost Expedition in concluding the Settlement, transmitting the Amilnamahs as usual to us.

  - 3d. The Purgunna of Futtefing.
  - 4th. Such remaining Portion of the Division or Zeelah of Moorshedabad (excepting Boofna, the Tannah of Cutwah and Shaoojeal) as is situated to the Southward of the Pudda or Ganges.

3d. That such of the above Courts as are situated in large Towns, in populous and opulent Countries, and in the interior Parts of the Provinces, be continued on the present Footing, under the Charge of Covenanted Servants of the Company (who are hereafter to be stiled Judges instead of Superintendants) with a Jurisdiction distinct from that of the Persons who remain in temporary Charge of the Collections. Under this Description are included the Courts of Midnapore, Rogonautpore, Patna, Lowya, Durbanga, Tajepore, Nattore, Dacca, Azmeery-Gunje, Buckergunje, Moorly, Calcutta, Burdwan, and Moorshedabad.

4th. That the Countries over which it is proposed to extend the Jurisdiction of the remaining Courts of Chettra, Boglepore, Islamabad, and Rungpore, being in general situated on the Frontiers of the Provinces, and so poor and thinly peopled, that any additional Courts or Jurisdictions, instead of affording Relief, might be productive of Vexation to the Inhabitants; the Dewanny Courts in each of these Districts be therefore held by the same Gentlemen who have the temporary Charge of the Revenue, until a more complete Jurisdiction can be established; but that they shall consider the Duty of their Courts as entirely distinct from that of their Collectorships, as in these they shall be subject to the Orders and the Controul of the Committee of Revenue, whilst in respect to the former, they shall be wholly independent of that Board, and subject only to the Orders of the Judge of the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, and of the Governor General and Council: That they shall transmit Copies of all their judicial Proceedings, as Judges, to the Court of Sudder Dewanny Adawlut, to which an Appeal shall, in like Manner with the other Mofussil Adawluts, lie from their Decisions: And that they shall take the Oath which has been prescribed by the last Article of the Regulations of the 28th March 1780; and act in every Respect in Conformity to the Rules laid down for the other Judges; between whose judicial Situation and theirs, no other Difference is intended to exist, except that their Courts will not require an Establishment equal to those that are separate from the Collections.

5th. That the Seat of the Adawlut which has Jurisdiction over the Districts of Purnea, Dinagepore, &c. be removed from the former of these Places to Tawjepore, as a more central Situation within its general Jurisdiction, and therefore more convenient for those who are rendered subject to it: A Consideration which has, further, been a chief Inducement to the Board to establish the several new Courts of Nattore, Durbanga, and others, to complete the Plan, so as that there may remain no Place at so great a Distance from a Court of Judicature, as to preclude its Inhabitants from an easy Access to Justice. But the Court at Patna is to remain until it shall be found on future Experience more expedient to transfer the Seat of its Jurisdiction to some more central Situation.

6th. That as the Establishment of Foujedars and Tannadars, which was intended for the Preservation of the Peace, and to assist in the due and effectual Exercise of the Jurisdiction of the criminal Courts throughout the Provinces, has by Experience been found not to produce the good Effects intended by the Institution, it be therefore annulled, and that the Nabob be accordingly requested to recall all these Officers, the Phousdar of Houghly only excepted; the different Nature of whose Office requiring it should be continued, at least for the present.

7th. That the more effectually to promote the Introduction of good Order in the several Districts, the Judges of the several Dewanny Adawluts be, on the Recall of the present Establishment of Foujedars and Tannadars, independently of their judicial Authority in Civil Causes, invested with a Power as Magistrates of apprehending Decoits, or Persons charged with the Commission of any Crimes or Acts of Violence within their respective Jurisdictions: They shall not however be empowered to try or punish such Persons, nor detain them in Confinement; but shall immediately send them to the Darogah of the nearest Foujedarry Court, with a Charge in Writing, setting forth the Grounds on which they have been apprehended.

8th. That as Cases may happen in which, by especial Permission of the Governor General and Council, certain Zemindars may be invested with such Part of the Jurisdiction now exercised by the Foujedars and their Officers, in the several Districts, as they heretofore enjoyed under the ancient Mogul Government, it be in all such Cases a Rule, that the Judge of the Dewanny Adawlut and the Zemindar shall both, jointly and separately, possess a concurrent Jurisdiction for the Apprehension of all Deccots, Robbers, Thieves, or other Disturbers of the Peace, and for sending them to take their Trial, accompanied with a written Charge, to the Darogah of the next Foujedarry Court.

9th. That the Authority to be vested in the Judge and Zemindar, as specified in the Two last Articles, shall in no wise exclude the Darogahs of the Foujedarry Courts from the Exercise of their Official Authority, in the Apprehension and Trial of all Persons subject to their Jurisdiction; their Proceedings in respect to all which, they continue, as formerly, to report to the Nazim, as their immediate Superior.

10th. That in all Cases wherever there shall exist a concurrent Jurisdiction between the Judges and the Zemindars, as described in the 8th Article, they be required mutually to assist and act in Concert with each other whenever it may be necessary; besides which, they are also jointly or separately to afford similar Aid to the Darogah of any Foujedarry Court within their respective Limits, upon his Requisition to that Effect, either for the Purpose of apprehending any Person or Persons liable to be tried by their Court, or of executing any of its Sentences regularly passed.

11th. That the better to enable the Government not only to observe the Effects of the Authority thus to be intrusted with the Judges of the Civil Courts, and Zemindars of the Districts, but also to watch over the general Administration of Criminal Justice throughout the Provinces, there be established, under the immediate Controul and Direction of the Governor General, a separate Department at the Presidency, to receive the Reports and Returns of the Proceedings of all the Foujedarry Courts; which shall regularly continue to be transmitted to him in the Manner specified in the Two next Articles.

12th. That each Judge, and every Zemindar possessing the Jurisdiction specified in the 7th and 8th Articles, do regularly transmit to the Governor General, on the 1st of every Bengal Month, an authenticated Report of all Persons apprehended and sent for Trial by them respectively, during the Course of the preceding Month; accompanied with attested Copies of the Charges laid against them, and specifying to what Adawlut each Party committed has been severally conveyed.

13th. That the Nabob be requested to give Orders, that Lists with the Names of all Prisoners in actual Confinement by Orders of the Foujedarry Courts, be monthly transmitted to the Governor General, with separate Lists of all Persons committed in the Course of the Month, certifying by what Authority each of them was apprehended; and similar Lists of all Prisoners discharged within the same Period, together with Copies of the Fetwahs or Sentences, and Hookums or Orders, of the Nazim, passed and issued in the Course of the same Month.

14th. That a Covenanted Servant be appointed, under the Direction of the Governor General, with the Title of "Remembrancer of the Criminal Courts;" who shall have Charge of all the aforementioned Returns and Papers, and shall keep them duly arranged according to their proper Places and Dates, and shall make and keep Translations of the same, with Abstracts drawn up, so as to afford a ready Reference and Comparative View between the several Reports to be received from the Nazim, the Judges, and Zemindars respectively, in such Manner as to prove an effectual Check on all the Persons employed in the Administration of Criminal Justice, as well as for such other Purposes as the Experience of his Office may suggest.

15th. That the Remembrancer be allowed the following Salary :

16. That the Accounts of the Receipts and Disbursements of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and of the Dewannee Adawluts, be every Month transmitted, signed by such Treasurer and Accountant, and countersigned by the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, to the Governor General and Council in their Revenue Department, to be from thence forwarded by them to the proper Officers.

That the Accountant and Treasurer do cause accurate Accounts to be made of all Sums of Money, as well received from the Sudder Dewannee Adawluts as in the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, on account of Deposit Fees; and do, after the Expiration of every Six Months (the First Six Months to be calculated from the Date of these Orders) transmit a true Copy of the same, signed by the Treasurer and Accountant, and countersigned by the said Judge, to the Governor General and Council; and that he cause the said Sums to be kept in Chests provided for that Purpose, with Two Locks, one Key of which shall be kept by such Judge, and the other Key by the Treasurer and Accountant; and that all such Monies shall be and remain at the Disposal of the Governor General and Council; and that the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and the Treasurer and Accountant, shall obey all such Orders respecting the Payment and Disposal of such Monies as they shall from Time to Time receive, signified to them under the Hands of the Governor General and Council; and such Orders of the Governor General and Council shall be a sufficient Acquittal and Discharge to such Judge and Treasurer and Accountant, for all Sums paid by virtue of such Order.

17. That the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut do punctually report at the Expiration of every Six Months (the First Six Months to be calculated from the Date of these Orders) to the Governor General and Council, from what Judges of Dewannee Adawluts he shall have received, as well the Accounts of the Sums of Money required to be transmitted from them to the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, as the several Accounts on Records, Proceedings, and Papers, which have heretofore been required to be transmitted by any former Order or Orders; and if he shall not receive the same, then he shall report from whom he hath not received the same; and if he shall only receive Part of the same, then he shall report what Part he hath received and what Part he hath not received, together with the Names of the Defaulters in such Behalf.

18. That to enable the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut to draw on the Khalsa Treasury for the Charge and Expence of the several Dewannee Adawluts, the Secretary of the Revenue Department do immediately make out and transmit to the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, an accurate Account of the Establishment of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and of the several Dewannee Adawluts.

19. That a true and faithful Copy of these Orders be transmitted to the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and to the Judges of the several Dewannee Adawluts respectively; and that the same be openly published in such Courts. And that the 1st, 2<sup>d</sup>, 3<sup>d</sup>, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 13th, 14th, and 19th of these Orders be translated by the Translators of the several Courts respectively into the Bengal and Persian Languages, and be affixed, for the Space of One Month at least, in some conspicuous Part of the Room in which such Courts shall be respectively held.

20. That the Judge of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut be requested to revise the Rules, Orders, and Regulations of the Sudder Dewannee Adawlut, and of the several Dewannee Adawluts, from their first Institution, to strike out such Rules, Orders, and Regulations as are repugnant to, or abrogated by, subsequent Rules, Orders, and Regulations; and to compile therefrom an uniform System of Rules, Orders, and Regulations : and to add such new Rules, Orders, and Regulations, as to him shall seem conducive to the due Administration of Justice ; and that he do report the same to the Governor General and Council, when the same shall be completed, for their Controul, Alteration, or Approval.

Extract from Mr. Hastings's Letter to Major Scott, dated 15th May 1781.

REVENUE—We have abolished all the Provincial Councils, and have given the general Administration of the Revenues to a Committee, consisting of Four Persons. The present Members are Messrs. Anderson, Shore, Chartres, and Croftes : They have no fixed Salaries, and are sworn to receive no Perquisites ; in lieu of both they are to draw a Commission of One per Cent. on the monthly Amount of their real Collections, and that Commission is doubled on such Sums as are paid immediately into the Treasury in Calcutta. By this Plan we hope to bring the whole Administration of the Revenues to Calcutta, without any intermediate Charge or Agency, and to effect a Saving of Lacks to the Company, and to the Zemindars and Ryots. I hope also to make a large Increase of the Collections, and to add to that Increase in the next Year. The Increase made this Year will be about Twenty-seven Lacks, and the Savings Twelve, in all Thirty-nine Lacks. I have left Chiefs for a Time as Collectors ; the others have been allowed to retain their Salaries till they get other Employments ; and with the Addition of new Courts of Justice, and other Means, I have fortunately provided for many of them. Read the Plan and Minute introducing it : It will not discredit me, but the Event will put those to shame who condemn it.

Courts of Justice—I have said that I have established other Courts, that the Distribution of Justice may be equal. The Judges are all sworn : They have a Fouzdarry Jurisdiction added to their former Powers, that is, the Power of apprehending Robbers, and other capital Offenders against the Public Peace. This Duty was before vested in Fouzdars, who were appointed by Mahomed Reza Cawn, subject and accountable to him only, and maintained at the Expence of Five Lacks a Year, besides what they drew by oppressive Exactions from the poor Ryots, of which there had been great Complaints. The Judges are young Men, as well chosen as they could be ; they are under the Instruction and Controul of the Chief Justice, and therefore less liable to Error, if they acted with no other Check than that of the Board, which has too many Occupations to give the requisite Attention to them ; and being under his Protection, they will not be discouraged from the Discharge of their Duty, by the Apprehension or Threats of Prosecution in the Supreme Court.

Par. 4. YOUR Salaries having been provisionally settled until the Pleasure of the Court of Directors should be known, we consider them as standing in lieu of all Emoluments whatsoever, except the Advantage of House Rent, where the Honourable Company have Houses that can, without Detriment to their Service, be spared for the Use of the Chief.

Copy of a Letter from the Chief and Council of Dacca to the Governor General and Council, concerning Salaries, dated 23d March 1775.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, President and Governor General, and to the other Members of the Council of Revenue, Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

AS it is our Wish and Intention to conform strictly to the Orders of our Superiors in the Administration, and we have at the same Time a full Sense of the Penalties which are annexed to a Deviation from the Prescriptions of the late Act of Parliament; we think it incumbent on us to remonstrate, which we mean to do with the utmost Deference, against the Insufficiency of our present Salaries; which, you are pleased to say in your Letter of the 9th Instant, shall be in lieu of all Emoluments. Solicitous to discharge our Duty with Honour and Fidelity to our Employers, we should be happy to enjoy such Means of Subsistence and moderate Advantage as might place us above the Temptations which must occur to Men vested with the general Superintendency of Justice and Revenue in an extensive Province. The great Expence at which Europeans obtain the Conveniencies of Life in this Country, must be too well known to you all, Gentlemen, to require minute Description. This Expence is enhanced in many Articles by our Distance from Calcutta, on account of the encreased Charge and Risk of Transportation; and by the Stations we have the Honour to hold under the Government, which, as they place us amidst the Agents of Foreign Nations, and at the Head of our own Society, oblige us to keep up those Appearances which the common Practice of Mankind has in a Manner rendered necessary. We beg Leave to mention, that when the Provincial Councils were first established, a monthly Salary of 3,000 R<sup>s</sup> was assigned to the Chief, in consideration of his relinquishing the Advantages of Trade. We are now equally deprived of this and all other Means of Advantage, even such as will be enjoyed by every Class of People but the English. Under these Circumstances we appeal to universal Experience, but more than all to your own Knowledge and Candour, to determine, whether, with the Salaries now allotted us, it is possible for us to reserve any Thing for the Prospects every Man indulges who exposes himself to the Dangers of a pernicious Climate, or even to live for the present in an easy and respectable Manner. We flatter ourselves, Gentlemen, you will not be displeased at the Freedom of this Remonstrance, which appears to us equally due to our own Characters and your Expectations.

We beg Leave to subscribe ourselves, with the greatest Respect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, and the other Members of the Council of Revenue.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Three Years are now elapsed since the Restrictions of the Act of Parliament have been in Force, and your Servants in the Revenue Line have been deprived of every Advantage but their Salaries.

• Thirty Months.

In March 1775 we ingenuously stated to your Honourable Board, the peculiar Circumstances which laid us under the mortifying Necessity of living at an Expence beyond our Allowances, in Stations where we might reasonably have hoped to benefit our Fortunes. Your Answer indulged us with the Assurance that you would particularly recommend our Case to the Honourable Court of Directors, and we have now waited above Two Years * in patient Expectation of a favourable Decision upon our Remonstrance. As we understand that various other Classes in the Service have received an Increase of Salary in consequence of their Representations, your Provincial Council once more presume to submit their Case to your Consideration, at the same Time not meaning to lay any Claim to your Favour, unless it may be grounded upon a fair and candid Review of the Duties discharged, and Services rendered to the Company in the public Administration of the Province which has been committed to our Charge.

We have the Honour to subscribe ourselves, with great Respect,

ORDERS of the Court of Directors, concerning Regulations adopted by the Governor General and Council of Bengal, from 31st January 1776 to 23d December 1778: And EXTRACTS of Letters from Bengal, concerning Settlement of the Lands, concluded from 3d January 1778 to 29th November 1780.

Extract of the Company's General Instructions to the Governor General and Council, dated the 29th March 1774.

Par. 26. YOU will observe, that by the beforementioned Act you are required to correspond with the Court of Directors, from Time to Time, and constantly and diligently to transmit to them exact Particulars of all Advices or Intelligence, and of all Transactions and Matters, that shall come to your Knowledge, relating to the Government, Commerce, Revenues, or Interest of the Company; and that the Court of Directors are required, within Fourteen Days after the Receipt of any such Letters or Advices, to deliver in to the Lords of the Treasury a Copy of such Parts of the said Letters or Advices as shall any way relate to the Management of the Company's Revenues; and in like Manner to deliver in to one of His Majesty's principal Secretaries of State a Copy of all such Parts of the said Letters and Advices as shall any way relate to their Civil and Military Affairs, and Government: In order therefore to enable us to comply with the Directions of the said Act, we hereby order and direct, that you transmit to us, by every Ship, an exact Copy, and a Duplicate by the next Conveyance, of all such Parts of your Letters and Advices as are by this Law directed to be delivered to the Lords of the Treasury, and to His Majesty's Secretary of State, respectively; and that every Copy and Duplicate be authenticated under the Hands of the Governor General and Council.

37. In transacting the Business of your Department, it is our Order that you enter, with the utmost Perspicuity and Exactness, upon Consultations or Minutes of Council, all your Proceedings whatsoever, and all Dissents, if such should at any Time be made by any Member of the Board; together with all Letters received and sent in the Course of your Correspondence; and that broken Sets of all such Proceedings, to the latest Period possible, be transmitted to us by every Ship, a complete Set at the End of every Year, and a Duplicate by the next Conveyance.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 31st January 1776.

Par. 21. Your Advices respecting Banyans holding of Lands, and Chiefs of Councils interfering in Farms, have alarmed us exceedingly; and although we are not prepared by this Dispatch to give give our Sentiments fully on the System of letting the Lands, we cannot pass this Subject over unnoticed.

22. We are sorry to observe, that many useful Regulations, established by the Council of Revenue and Committee of Circuit in 1772, have been totally disregarded;—The following Abstracts of their Proceedings, compared with subsequent Transactions, verify this Observation, and convince us, that those Regulations have been grossly evaded, and to an enormous Extent.

23. By the 17th Article of those Regulations, Banyans, and other Servants of the Collector, of whatever Denomination, are totally precluded from holding any Concern, directly or indirectly, in any Farm; and if any Person, under a false Name, or by any Kind of Collusion, evades this Regulation, he is to be subject to an heavy Fine, and to forfeit his Farm; and if the Collector connive at a Breach thereof, he stands ipso facto dismissed from his Collectorship: And no European is permitted, directly or indirectly, to rent Lands in any Part of the Country.

24. The Observations of the Committee of Revenue on this Regulation are, That if Collectors, or any Persons who partake of their Authority, are permitted to be the Farmers of the Country, no other Persons will dare to be their Competitors; that of course they will obtain the Farms on their own Terms: That it is not fitting for the Servants of the Company to become Dealers with their Masters: That Collectors are Checks on the Farmers, but if they themselves turn Farmers, no Checks can be found for them; that the Company will not have any Security for their Property, nor the Ryots be able to obtain Relief against Oppressions.

25. In 1773, the Collectors of Revenue were recalled, and the Office was executed by a Chief and Council.

26. If it was thought dangerous to permit the Banyan of a Collector to be concerned in Farms, we must conclude, that the same or stronger Objections will always lie against the Governor's Banyan being thus concerned; and we direct that you enforce the said 17th Regulation.

27. By the 11th Article of the said Regulations, it is stipulated, that the Farmer's Payments to Government shall be ascertained and established, and no Demand made upon him, over and above the Sum expressed in the Rent Roll delivered him with his Lease.

28. The Reasoning of the Committee on this Article appears very excellent; but to our Concern we find so little Regard paid thereto, that 1,25,500 Rupees per Annum have been demanded, and upwards of 98,000 Rupees received, upon Two inconsiderable Farms, independent of the Agreement made with the Company, and claimed by our Servants as a Perquisite of Office, or Emolument of Station.

29. Whatever may be our final Determination on these Proceedings, it is our positive Command, that no Person in our Service do presume to ask, accept, or receive, directly or indirectly, any Gift, Gratuity, Reward, or Benefit, from any Farmer of our Lands or Revenues, or on account of any Farm, contrary to the true Intent and Meaning of the said 11th Article above mentioned.

30. It is also our express Direction that Pottahs be regularly prepared and delivered to the Ryots; and that the Farmer do not receive more from the Ryot than the stipulated Amount of his Pottah, according to the 10th Regulation.

31. You will take Care that the 2d Article be strictly observed; and that no Farmer be permitted to rent Lands to a greater Amount than 1,00,000 Rupees, hereditary Zemindars excepted; and except also there shall be an evident Necessity for departing from this Rule, to prevent Confusion or Inconvenience which may be occasioned by the Subdivision of Pergunnahs.

32. We further direct, that the Prohibition contained in the 18th Article, relative to the lending of Money to Zemindars, Farmers, or Ryots, be extended to all our Servants of every Denomination; and that every Person who shall be found offending against this Order, be forthwith suspended from holding any Employment under the Company till our Pleasure shall be known.

33. We recommend it to you, so to regulate the Gifts of the Farmer that they may become payable at the usual Times of Harvest, agreeably to the 19th Regulation.

34. As Monopolies in the Hands of Individuals at Our Residencies must necessarily tend to distress the Country, it is our Order that you use your utmost Endeavours to prevent undue Influence from operating to the Prejudice of the fair Trader at any of our subordinate Factories; and that you give impartial Encouragement to all such Merchants as may with Propriety be allowed to carry on a free Trade with the neighbouring Provinces.

35. The Exigency of Affairs has rendered it necessary for us to give you the above Directions by this Conveyance. When the Opinions of all the Members of your Board, relative to letting the Lands in Bengal, are before us, we shall take the Subject into further Consideration, and transmit you our Orders and Instructions thereon by the earliest Opportunity.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 24th December 1776.

Par. 40. Before we enter upon the very important Consideration of Measures to be pursued, and Directions to be given with respect to the new Grants of Leases on the Bengal Lands, we are glad to testify our singular Approbation of the Care and Attention of the several Members of our Council, in transmitting to us such accurate and clear Statements and Plans as have given us great Information; and we are only to signify our Expectation that you will continue from Time to Time to furnish nish us with authentic and digested Materials for regulating our Judgment on this great Department of your Presidency.

41. Having considered the different Circumstances of letting your Lands on Leases for Lives, or in Perpetuity, we do not for many weighty Reasons think it at present advisable to adopt either of these Modes; but in the mean while we direct that the Lands be let for the succeeding Year on the most advantageous Terms, and that none be in future let by public Auction.

42. But in every Disposal of the Lands, it is our strict Injunction that a Preference be given, and every Indulgence shewn, to the Natives resident on the Spot, and that no European, nor the Banyan of any European, be permitted to hold any Share therein; from which Injunction we however except the Jungleterry or Carry Jury Lands, where the superior Knowledge of our own People may be of great Service, by clearing such Parts as lie uncultivated, and where such Mischiefs are not likely to be produced as are too generally found to attend the Measure of letting Lands to Europeans.

43. We direct that Demands be made on the respective Landholders for all outstanding Balances or Arrears of Rent; and that every just and proper Step be taken to realize such Sums as may stand an apparent Value on our Books; but if it shall appear, from such Circumstances as require Lenity, that these Balances cannot be collected, the Whole or Part thereof may be remitted; for which we must depend on the Judgment and Discretion of our Governor General and Council, whose local Knowledge will best enable them to decide with Accuracy and Precision.

44. We approve of your letting the Province of Dinagore to the Rajah for Life, as an Experiment, the Issue of which will in some Measure enable us to judge of the Propriety of adopting a general System on similar Principles; but you will not proceed further in letting other Districts or Lands on the like Terms till our further Orders.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 5th February 1777.

Par. 8. We apprehend that a sudden Transition from one Mode to another, in the Investigation and Collection of our Revenues in Bengal, may have alarmed the Inhabitants, particularly the native Zemindars and Landholders, lessened their Confidence in our Stability, and been attended with other Evils; yet, as it is acknowledged on all Hands to have produced the good Effect of ascertaining, with a sufficient Degree of Precision, what Revenue may be collected from the Country without Oppression, we shall avail ourselves of this Information, and are well pleased to find it in our Power to yield proper Relief to the Natives, without involving the Company in the least Inconvenience.

9. From the Inequality of natural Advantages possessed by the Natives in the several Districts, from Calamities experienced in a different Degree by Loss of Inhabitants in the late Famine, and from a Variety of other local Causes, we fear it will be difficult, if not impossible, to lay down any Plan which shall be found applicable in all Cases, and equally beneficial to every Part of the Country; much must necessarily be left to your Prudence, as your Conduct on many Occasions will be influenced by temporary Circumstances: We shall therefore only point out such Regulations as, from the Materials before us, appear proper to be adopted in disposing of the Lands of Bengal.

10. Without entering minutely into the Reports made by the Chiefs of Provincial Councils, we are happy to find, by Estimates founded upon and supported by Accounts of actual Receipts and Disbursements, with other Documents of decisive Authority, that we need not entertain the least Apprehension of a Disappointment in any reasonable Expectation formed by us respecting the Revenues of Bengal, and of their Sufficiency under proper Management, unless in Times of Public Calamity, to support our Government, to provide the most ample Investments, and to afford considerable Assistance to our other Settlements.

11. The Distance of many Districts from Calcutta, will render it necessary for Zemindars or Farmers to treat with Provincial Councils, or other Agents of the Company, on the Spot; but it is our Order, that no Agreement for Lands or Revenues, wherein the stipulated Amount shall exceed 30,000 Rupees, be finally concluded, until reported to and authorized by the Governor General and Council.

12. Having revoked our Orders to let the Lands to the highest Bidders, and signified our Pleasure to have them occupied by hereditary Zemindars, where it can be done with Security to the Revenue; and being desirous that they should enjoy their Zemindarries on Terms sufficiently moderate to enable them to maintain a Degree of Respect amongst their Dependants, we direct, that you keep this Idea in View in every Agreement to be made with the said Zemindars; we cannot however empower you to make a general Reduction or Abatement of any specific Sum upon the whole Jumma; but rather wish you to be guided in such Reductions, where they are absolutely necessary, by an Enquiry into the Amount of Mharutes, Abqabs, or additional Taxes or Collections of any Kind, imposed upon the District since the Company's Accession to the Dewanny, and to abolish the Whole, or such Part thereof as shall fully appear to be an Oppression upon the Country.

13. We think that the Sale of Part of the Zemindarries is not always an advisable Measure to realize any Balance incurred by Zemindars; for as the Lot to be sold must bear a Proportion to the Amount of such Balance (it being unjust to sell more than necessary) the Proprietor of a small Tract may be subjected to Difficulties from the Exercise of the Zemindar's remaining Authority in his own District: We are therefore of Opinion, that no Zemindarry, except of moderate Extent, ought to be dismembered dismembered if it can possibly be avoided, but that it would be far more eligible for the Whole to stand charged with the Balance incurred; and that, if deemed necessary, the Zemindar's Authority and Interest should be totally suspended, and a Deputy appointed to manage his Affairs till all his Debts to Government are fully paid and satisfied, when the Zemindarry should be restored entire to him or his Heirs.

14. As the Inhabitants of the Dewanny Lands, and particularly of the distant Provinces, are represented more indigent than those nearer the Seat of Government, you will be careful to yield them such Relief as shall be requisite in their particular Circumstances.

15. Although we do not for the present think it expedient to let the Lands on Leases for Lives, or on Terms more permanent than those already specified, it is nevertheless our earnest Desire to impress the Zemindars and Renters with a full Confidence in the Justice of our Proceedings; and particularly to convince them, that while they behave with Honour to us, and with Kindness to their Under-tenants and Cultivators, they shall most certainly experience our Favour, and that nothing but a contrary Conduct can ever subject them to our Displeasure. We therefore direct, that whenever Lands have been let at a reasonable Rent, and the Zemindar or Renter has fulfilled his Engagement to your Satisfaction, no such Person be dispossessed of Lands, or compelled to pay an advanced Rent, without the most substantial Reasons for such Advance; and even then he shall have the Preference of all others, and be suffered to continue at a moderate additional Rent; but in all Instances where such increased Value shall not be considerable enough to become an Object of Consequence to Government, no Zemindar or Renter shall be dispossessed or molested, but permitted to enjoy the Fruits of his Industry and Improvements, and to his Lease or Agreement, from Year to Year, without any Increase of Rent.

16. We direct, that in every Agreement for Lands, Care be taken that the principal Farmer or Zemindar be obliged to grant Pottahs to his Ryots or Under-tenants, specifying the exact Amount to be paid by each; and that every Branch of this Regulation shall subject the Principal, if a Farmer, to the Loss of his Farm, or if a Zemindar, to the Loss of his Zemindarry: And it is our further Order, that a proper Form for Pottahs be prepared by you; and that no Pottah be deemed legal or binding on the Parties, unless made out exactly in the Form prescribed.

17. If the Repairs of Dams, Banks, and Bridges, commonly called Poolbundy, cannot be safely entrusted to the Care of Zemindars or Farmers, you are to make an Estimate of the Expence that may be incurred on such Service, and to fix a Jumma accordingly; but when fixed, you are not to make any additional Assessment, or suffer any to be imposed, or any separate Collection to be made on that Account, on any Pretence whatever.

18. We direct, that you endeavour to reform all Abuses in Grants of Charity Lands; and it is our Order, that no Zemindar's Grant whatever shall exempt such Lands from making good the Jumma, if the Zemindar shall at any Time fall in Arrear to Government.

19. If you are fully convinced that the Establishment of Provincial Councils has not answered, nor is capable of answering the Purposes intended by such Institutions; we hereby direct you to form a new Plan for the Collection of the Revenues, and to transmit the same to us for our Consideration.

20. It is with equal Surprise and Concern that we have received your Proceedings respecting Abuses which have prevailed in letting the Lands, and Collusions practised in forming Contracts for Salt with the Company.

21. We flatter ourselves, your Investigations have rendered it unnecessary for us to enter minutely into all Particulars brought to our View, as you seem determined to strike at the Root of every Evil discovered; and we observe with the greatest Satisfaction, that your laborious Researches have in general been attended with the desired Success. Your Conduct in this invidious Undertaking appears to us highly meritorious; and you shall not fail to experience our firmest Support in your laudable Endeavours to effect a thorough Reformation of all Abuses, more especially of those which, from their Nature and Consequences, must have operated to the Distress of the Country, and to the great Damage of the Company; of which we might still have remained uninformed, if Attention to your Duty had not prompted you to commence and prosecute Enquiries into such unwarrantable Transactions.

22. Although it is rather our Wish to prevent Evils in future, than to enter into a severe Retrospection of the past; and, where Facts are doubtful, or attended with alleviating Circumstances, to proceed with Lenity rather than to prosecute with Rigour; yet some Cases are so flagrantly corrupt, and others attended with Circumstances so oppressive to the Inhabitants, that it would be unjust to suffer the Delinquents to go unpunished. The principal Facts have been communicated to our Solicitor; whose Report, confirmed by our Standing Counsel, we send you by the present Conveyance, authorizing you, at the same Time, to take such Steps as shall appear proper to be pursued.

23. If we find it necessary, we shall return you the original Covenants of such of our Servants as remain in India, and have been any ways concerned in the undue Receipt of Money, in order to enable you to recover the same for the Use of the Company, by a Suit or Suits at Law, to be instituted in the Supreme Court of Judicature in Bengal.

A P P E N D I X, N° 11.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 4th July, 1777.

Par. 36. In our Letter of the 5th of February 1777, we expressed our Apprehensions, that a sudden Transition from one Mode to another, in the Investigation and Collection of our Revenues, might have alarmed the Inhabitants, lessened their Confidence in our Proceedings, and been attended with other Evils; yet, as we were led to hope that such Information had been obtained as would enable us to ascertain, with a sufficient Degree of Precision, what Revenues might be collected from the Country without oppressing the Natives, we felt some Satisfaction in considering those Evils as at an End, and proceeded to give such Instructions as appeared to us necessary for your Guidance in a future Settlement of the Lands.

37. In this State of the Business, our Surprise and Concern were great, on finding, by our Governor General's Minute of 1st November 1776, that after more than Seven Years Investigation, Information is still so incomplete, as to render another Innovation, still more extraordinary than any of the former, absolutely necessary in order to the Formation of a new Settlement.

38. In 1769, Supervisors were appointed professedly to investigate the Subject: In 1770, controuling Councils of Revenue were instituted: In 1772, the Office of Naib Dewan was abolished, Natives were discarded, and a Committee of Circuit formed, who, we were told, precisely and distinctly ascertained what was necessary to be known: And now, in 1777, Two Junior Servants, with the Assistance of a few Natives, are employed to collect and digest Materials which have already undergone the Collection, Inspection, and Revision, of so many of our Servants of all Denominations. We by no Means disapprove the Attempt to obtain further Information if it be necessary, but are sorry that the Conduct of the Majority of the Council on the Occasion has been such as must have our utter Disapprobation.

39. We should have hoped, that when you knew our Sentiments respecting the Conduct of our late Administration, in delegating separate Powers to their President, it would have been sufficient to prevent us further Trouble on such Occasions; but, to our Concern, we find, that no sooner was our Council reduced, by the Death of Colonel Monson, to a Number which rendered the President's casting Vote of Consequence to him, than he exercised it to invest himself with an improper Degree of Power in the Business of the Revenue, which he could never have expected from other Authority.

40. The Governor General states, in Answer to General Clavering's Objections, "that there is a clear and solid Distinction between the Powers of preparing and those of ordering, governing, and managing the Revenues; and adds, that the Council have conferred upon him no Authority which he did not before legally and constitutionally possess." Without entering into the Governor General's legal Distinctions, we declare the Powers assumed by him, with the Consent of Mr. Barwell, such as we neither approve, nor can permit to be exercised by any Person whatever: We therefore direct, that no separate Controul be henceforth exercised by the Governor General, nor any Orders issued from any Public Office, or otherwise, in the Name of the Governor General only, except Military Orders in the Garrison of Fort William.

41. And we further direct, that no Member of the Board be debarred the Inspection of any Papers, Accounts, or Materials, which may have been collected, in the first Instance, nor precluded from the Exercise of that Controul which is invested in him by Law, on any Account or Pretence whatever.

42. The Reasons given by the Governor General, why the Business could not be entirely left to the Provincial Councils; namely, because it "required Uniformity in Design, and Authority in Execution," are totally inadmissible. It was certainly in your Power to render the Proceedings of the Provincial Councils uniform and perfectly safe to trust them with any Degree of Authority, which could with Propriety be delegated to their Juniors in the Service, or to any Officer of this Temporary Establishment.

43. And as to arranging the Materials when transmitted to Fort William, if the Experience of the Officers of the Khalsa has not rendered them capable of executing a Work of this Nature more speedily, and to greater Advantage, than Two Strangers, be their Abilities what they may, we must declare them unfit for their Employments.

44. The Roy Royan was the regular Channel of such Communications as require the Interposition of a Native, and not Gunga Govind Sing, whose Dismission from the Calcutta Committee had rendered him an improper Person to transmit Affairs of such Moment to the Company.

45. The Superintendent of the Khalsa Records, and Persian Translator, are unworthy their Offices if unable to direct the Arrangement of Papers so immediately connected therewith; and as we consider the Preparation of Materials upon which a general Rent Roll of the Provinces must be formed, as interfering most essentially with the Ordering and Management of the Revenues, we must be of Opinion, that the Members of our Council could not legally relinquish their Power of immediate Inspection and Superintendence of those Materials in the first Instance, nor delegate a separate Power of future Controul in the Degree and to the Extent now vested in the Person of the Governor General; because, though there might be no Reason to expect unfair Proceedings in the present Case, it was absolutely necessary to guard against the Possibility of enabling the Governor General to suppress or reject reject Papers or Accounts which might be deemed necessary Instruments of Information by other Members of the Council.

46. In regard to the Idea of deputing Natives on occasional Investigations, we are really astonished at such a Proposition. If a Committee of Circuit and Council of Revenue, composed of the most intelligent and respectable Characters in our Service, and armed with all the Power of the Presidency, have failed in their Attempts to obtain necessary Information, from whence are those Natives to procure it? and if Collusions have been practised by Members of Administration when deputed into the Districts, what Reason have we to expect that the Conduct of Native Deputies, who cannot be ignorant of former Transactions, will be found more unexceptionable than that of their Superiors? It will certainly be allowed that they are liable to great Temptations, because their Report must determine, in some Degree at least, the Amount of Revenue to be taken from those Districts which are to be the Subjects of their Investigation.

47. The Minutes of General Clavering and Mr. Francis leave us little to add on this disagreeable Subject: Their Reasons against delegating a separate Power of Controul to the Governor, are solid and judicious, and we are happy in declaring that their Conduct on the Occasion meets with our Approbation.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated 23d December 1778.

Par. 130. In our Letter of the 24th of December 1776, you were acquainted, that for many weighty Reasons we did not then think it advisable to authorize you to let the Lands of the Provinces on Leases for Lives, or in Perpetuity. The same Reasons still operate. We therefore direct, that you re-let the Lands from Year to Year, on the most advantageous Terms procurable, except by public Auction, until you shall be duly authorized and empowered by the Court of Directors to adopt another System; and we further direct, that you also continue to make the Letter and Spirit of our Orders of the 5th of February 1777, the Rule of your Proceedings on this important Subject.

131. From a View of your Conduct towards the Ranny of Burdwan, and the Ranny of Radshahy and her adopted Son Rajah Ramkissen, and from your interesting Debates concerning those Persons, we have already been induced, in the 92d Paragraph of our Letter of the 4th of March, to express our Disapprobation of every Mode of vexatious Interference in the private Concerns of the Zemindars, and of the Idea of disturbing them in the quiet Enjoyment of their Possessions. And as the Rannies above-mentioned appear to have suffered an unusual Degree of Inconvenience and Distress, since by the Death of Colonel Monson the Governor General and Mr. Barwell became a Majority of the Board, we now direct, as the most eligible Mode of doing Justice to all Parties, that so soon as conveniently may be after the Number of our Council shall be complete, and consist of Five Members, the whole of the Proceedings of our Council relative to the Ranny of Burdwan and to the Ranny of Radshahy, be taken into your most serious Consideration, and that, to the utmost of your Power, the most impartial Justice be rendered to the Zemindars abovementioned. And if it shall appear to Three Members of the Board, that the Requisitions and Injunctions of the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, respecting the Ranny of Burdwan, were improper, and the Re-establishment of Bridjoo Kissoore Roy, who had been removed by the late Majority, and the placing a Military Force upon the Rajah's House, were Acts of Oppression; or that the Disposition of the Ranny of Radshahy and her adopted Son, and the Distinction in her Disfavour respecting outstanding Balances, were unwarrantable Proceedings, we direct that you make such Reparation and Satisfaction to those Zemindars as their respective Cases shall require. But if, on the contrary, you shall, at a full Board, be of Opinion, and resolve, that the Proceedings of the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, concerning the Ranny of Radshahy and the Ranny of Burdwan, were founded in Justice, then we hereby direct that you ratify the said Proceedings, and forthwith inform the Parties concerned, that you have our Orders to signify to them our Confirmation thereof.

Extract of a General Letter, in the Revenue Department, from Bengal; dated 18th October 1774.

The Settlement for the present Year 1181, is not sufficiently adjusted to enable us to transmit it to you by this Opportunity. The Jumma may exhibit an Increase of Revenue, when compared with the Two last Years; but we cannot flatter you with the Hope, that there will be an Increase in the actual Collections. All Parts of the Country, we believe, are rated at their full Value, supposing the Season favourable; and in consequence of unfavourable Seasons, some of the Farmers are continually failing; as every considerable Want or Excess of Rain, or other Accident (as we observed in our Letter of the 31st December last) renders Deductions necessary. Small Losses may be borne by the Farmers themselves, but heavy ones must fall upon the Government: An Attempt in the latter Case to force them to a full Compliance with their Engagements, would often occasion a greater Diminution of the Revenue, than a reasonable Indulgence. A Man of Property will submit to a small Loss, rather than expose himself to the Disgrace of Imprisonment, &c.; but when he finds that Disgrace is unavoidable, he will think it Folly to part with his Money, he will plead Poverty, secrete his Effects, and trust himself to the Government's Mercy; and every such Instance is productive tive of further Mischief, by deterring Men of Property from venturing on the farming Business. The Whole of these Provinces having been farmed out to Persons who voluntarily offered Proposals, it may appear surprising that they should have been so much deceived in the Value of the Lands they engaged for. The general Cause to which we attribute this Deception, is the large Amount of the Revenue the Year succeeding the Famine; which Amount was realized, partly by an Assessment on the present Ryots, to make up for the Loss by Death or Desertion, in Conformity to an old Custom of the Country, as particularly explained in our Letter of the 3d of November 1772; and partly by the high Price of Grain, which rendered the Produce of a small Quantity of Land in that Year, as valuable as that of a large Quantity in the subsequent ones. In some Parts of the Country the Ryots pay Rent to the Farmers, agreeably to a certain Proportion of their Produce; in others, at a fixed Rate per Bega: In the former, the Loss to the Farmer is immediate and evident; in the latter, it is indirect, but he is in the End a Sufferer; his Demands from the Ryots remain unaltered, but his actual Collections are diminished by their being disabled from completing their Payments. We do not mean to assert, that every Farmer who has failed, has done so by Reason of his Rents having been fixed too high; there are doubtless some whose ill Success has been occasioned by their own Mismanagement; but we are fully satisfied that the high Terms of the Proposals which were offered at the Five Years Settlement, has, as above explained, been the general Cause of the many Alterations which we have since been obliged to make, and which have been fully recorded on our Proceedings.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, of the 11th of March 1775.

The Governor moves, That the separate Opinions of the Members of the Council be taken, and sent to England with the last Dispatches of this Season, concerning the Mode which each shall judge it most expedient to adopt for the new Settlement of the Provinces after the Expiration of the present Leases, that the Honourable Court of Directors may be furnished in due Time with complete Materials to enable them to transmit their decisive Orders upon this important Subject.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

Extract of the Secret Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal to the Court of Directors, dated the 23d July 1776.

Par. 4. We beg Leave to apprise you, that the Settlements made in 1772 will expire in April next; and we most earnestly wish that you may be enabled, from the Lights that you have received from the late Council and this, respecting the most advantageous Mode of collecting the Revenue, both for the Company and the People, to give us your positive Orders for our Guidance on this Subject, or at least to point out to us the general Principles on which you intend a future Settlement should be formed.

Extract of General Letter from Bengal, dated the 3d January 1778.

Par. 2. The Governor General having proposed, that such Zemindars and Farmers who should pay their Rents regularly during the Course of the Current Year, should be allowed to continue in Possession of their Lands on the same Terms for the ensuing Year, we have resolved on the Measure; and have thought it advisable to publish the same throughout the Provinces, as we hope it will be an Inducement to the present Renters to be punctual in their Payments.

Par. 3. For our Debates on this Subject we beg Leave to refer you to our Proceedings.

Extract of General Letter from Bengal, dated the 23d April 1778.

Par. 14. We have thought it advisable to send circular Orders to the Provincial Councils and Collectors, to exact with Rigour the Payments due for the preceding Year 1184, and not admit any Pleas whatever for Remissions, or Excuses for Deficiencies in the Revenue; and we have directed them to continue their Receipts on Account of the Year 1184 to the last Day of Bylaak 1185, or 10th May, when they will finally close their Accounts of the Collections for that Year, and carry all future Receipts to the Credit of the current Year 1185.

15. We have directed the general Accounts for the Year 1184 to be forwarded to us on the 1st Jye, or 11th May, with an accurate Explanation of the Balances, which we hope will be very trifling.

16. The Provincial Councils have been further directed to cause Publication to be made at all the Cutcheries in their Divisions, that such Zemindars as shall have paid up their Revenue for the Year 1184, without Deficiencies, on the last Day of Bylaak 1185, shall hold their Lands on the same Terms for the succeeding Year; but that Portions of such Zemindars as shall be in Balance at that Period, will will be sold to make good the Revenue, or the Zemindarry given in Farm to any one who will agree to discharge the Balance of the Year 1184, with the same Jumma or Rent for 1185.

Extract of General Letter from Bengal, dated 27th May 1778.

12. In the 2d Paragraph of our Letter by the Ceres, and in the 16th Paragraph of that by the Resolution, we advised you of the Plan we proposed to adopt for the Settlement of the Revenues of Bengal for the present Year 1185.

13. In Conformity thereto we have issued Orders to the several Provincial Councils and Collectors, finally to conclude the Settlement for the current Year 1185, with all such Zemindars as on the 30th Bysaak, or 10th May, shall have paid up their Revenue without Balance.

14. That they renew the Leases of such Farmers as shall have been punctual in their Payments for the Year 1184, or to whom they should not have some reasonable Objection; and the Farms of such Farmers as shall be in Balance, or to whom the Provincial Councils may have reasonable Objection, we have directed them to offer to the Zemindars at the Jumma or Rent of last Year; but in case of the Zemindars Refusal, the Lands are to be let out to farm in the same Manner as they were in the preceding Year; of these however there will be but few.

15. That they transmit to us a List of such Zemindars as shall not, on the 30th Bysaak have completed their Payments for the Year 1184, with an accurate Explanation of the Causes assigned by the Zemindars for being in Balance, with the Opinion of the Provincial Council upon the Degree of Weight which should be allowed to their Representations; but that no Settlement should be made with any Zemindars in Arrears without our Orders.

Extract of the General Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in their Revenue Department, to the Court of Directors; dated the 19th August 1778.

Par. 4. Agreeably to the Intimation given you in our Letter per Northington, of the Plan we proposed to adopt for the Settlement of the Revenues of Bengal for the present Year 1185, the Bundibust has been formed in the several Districts with the respective Zemindars, on the Principles then resolved on.

5. We have not yet received the Materials necessary for enabling us to form an Account of the present Settlement; but by a future Conveyance we shall have it in our Power to furnish you with a general Statement of the Settlement of Bengal, with the Reasons for Abatements, where such have been admitted, in your Revenues for the present Year.

6. It may however be necessary in this Place to observe to you, that the Rajah of Nuddea having obstinately refused to hold his Lands upon the Jumma of last Year, urging, among other Pleas, the Inability of the District to pay the established Rents, we directed the Calcutta Committee to let his Zemindarry immediately to Farm; and to observe the same Rule with every other Zemindar who should refuse to agree to the last Year's Jumma.

7. Publication was accordingly made to this Effect; but the Rajah in the Interim having acceded to the Terms of the Settlement of his Zemindarry, we consented, in Consideration of the Lateness of the Season, and the Hazard to which the Revenue would be exposed by adopting any other Mode of Settlement at this Time, to revoke our Orders, and to permit the Rajah to sign his Caboolcar, notwithstanding the little Pretensions which, from his late dilatory and evasive Conduct, he had to the Lenity of Government.

8. We have judged it necessary to issue Orders to the Provincial Councils, not to demand or accept of any Malzamin or Security from the Zemindars with whom the Settlement of the current Year is made, even though the Zemindars themselves should solicit it; and if in any Settlement already concluded, Security shall have been accepted for the Performance of the Zemindar's Engagements, in such Case the Security is to be released from his Engagements, and a Declaration made, that in all Cases the Zemindars Lands shall be Security, and the only Security, for the Payment of their stipulated Rents.

9. And as Cases may arise, in which the Refusal of the Zemindars to accept of the Charge of the Collections of their respective Zemindarries on the Terms of last Year, shall have compelled the Provincial Councils to let the same in Farm, or in some Instances to collect the Rents by the Officers of Government; we have judged it necessary to give express Orders, that in every such Instance the Zemindar shall not be allowed any Sum by way of Koroposh or Maintenance, until the Jumma fixed for the Dues of Government shall have been realized; and if the Collections shall exceed that Jumma, the Excess, and no more, is to be applied to the Koroposh, restricting the same to the established Amount.

10. The Governor General having laid before us a Letter from the Ranny of Burdwan, containing Proposals for the Settlement of that Zemindarry for the Years 1185 and 1186, and for the Payment of the Balances which had accrued on the Settlement of the Two preceding Years, we resolved to accept of the Terms offered by the Ranny; which were, to pay to Government a net Revenue of Rupees 35,07,220, in each Year, on the same Monthly Kistbundy as was executed by the Rajah in the Year 1183.

11. And with respect to the Balances which had arisen on the Settlement of the Years 1183 and 1184,

1184, amounting to Rupees 3,16,538, the Ranny has consented to make herself answerable for the Payment of them; One Half, amounting to the Sum of Rupees 1,58,269, to be paid in the Month of Chyete of the present Year, and the Residue in the Month of Chyete 1186.

12. We have in consequence issued Orders to the Provincial Council of Burdwan, to put the Ranny's Officers in Charge of the Collections, causing the proper Deeds to be prepared and executed; which have been accordingly done.

13. It may be necessary to observe, that at the Time in which the Cabooleat or Agreement was executed by the Ranny, the Sum of Rupees 2,95,288 was only inserted in it, as the Balance of the Two former Years, a Payment having been made on that Account, of Rupees 21,249, since the Conclusion of the Settlement.

14. For our Debates on this Subject, and for the Reasons which have induced us to make the Settlement with the Ranny of Burdwan, we beg Leave to refer you to our Proceedings noted in the Margin.

Par. 23. For the State of the Collections of your Revenues of these Provinces for the current Year, we beg Leave to refer you to the monthly Reports of the Superintendent of the Khalsa Records, which will present to you a clear and connected View of the Receipts, and of the Balances outstanding in the several Districts. From these you will perceive the forward State of the Collections in every Division, except in that of Calcutta, which, for the Reasons already assigned, have fallen considerably in Arrears. We however flatter ourselves that the Balances of this Division will be shortly much reduced, and the future Collections equally well kept up with the Revenue of the other Districts.

Burdwan.

8. In the 10th and subsequent Paragraphs of our Letter of the 19th of August 1778, we advised you of the Two Years Settlement concluded with the Ranny for the Zemindarry of Burdwan.

9. The Provincial Council of that Province having, at the End of 1185, or April 1779, laid before us a Statement of the Balances incurred to that Period by the Ranny, during the First Year of the Settlement, amounting, with the unliquidated Balances of the preceding Years 1183 and 1184, to Rupees 6,40,584, accompanied with a Representation from the Ranny, setting forth Pleas of Inability to discharge the full Revenue; we were unanimous in refusing to allow of any Excuse for Deficiencies in her stipulated Rents; of which we acquainted the Burdwan Council, directing them to demand Payment accordingly, and to apprise the Ranny of our Resolution; and consequent Directions, that in Default thereof, she should, at the Expiration of Twenty Days from the Period of Notice, be forthwith dispossessed of the Charge of the Zemindarry, and of her Dawree Lands; the Revenues of which last to be, in such Case, applied to the Payment of her Balances.

10. The Term limited for the Discharge of these Balances having expired without any Part of them being liquidated, the Provincial Council accordingly dispossessed the Ranny of the Charge of the Province, and of her Dawree Lands, and required from her the necessary Papers to carry on the Collections; and the Zemindar having thereupon presented to us a Petition of Complaint, in which he applied for an Examination into his Claims for Deductions, and to have another Settlement made with him, either on the Principle adopted for the other Lands of Bengal, viz. the Medium of the Collections of the Years 1180, 1181, and 1182, or on that of the 16 Years during which the Company had received the Revenues of his Zemindarry, we resolved to reject the Prayer of it.

11. The Rajah afterwards presented another Petition, recapitulating his Proposals in the preceding one, and setting forth the Hardship of his Situation and Inability to pay the Revenue of 1185, with the Two preceding Years Balances; alleging in particular, that as to the Article of Wuzzun, constituting a Part of the First of these Demands, his Engagement for it had been contracted so late in the Season, as to preclude the Collection of it before his being dispossessed of the Management; that his contracting to pay Balances of 1183 and 1184 was conditional, as extending only to what he should recover from those Native Officers who had, during the Period in question, held the independant Management; whereas he had been in fact able to realize nothing from those Persons: He therefore prayed to be acquitted of the Wuzzun of the last, and of the Arrears of the Two former Years; and that his other Accounts for 1185 might be adjusted by a Scrutiny into his actual Receipts.

12. In consideration of the Difficulties attending a Khâs Collection, and for the other Reasons contained in our Debates on this Subject, as referred to in the Margin, it was thereupon moved, to make a Tender of the Settlement to the Zemindars, under the Conditions of immediately paying up the Balances of 1185, except the Amount of the Tax called Wuzzun, for the Discharge of which Three Months should be allowed: That the Medium of the Receipts netted into the Treasury in 1180, 1181, and 1182, should be the Standard of the future Jumma of Burdwan, in like Manner with the other Lands of Bengal; and that the Acceptance of these Conditions, and their faithful Execution, should discharge the Zemindarry from all other Claims of Government; and the Deficiencies of the Revenue of 1183 and 1184 should be set off as excused, as such Deficiencies did not arise from the Ranny's Administration. These several Propositions were, with the Exception of the last relative to the Balances of 1183 and 1184, after Debate, resolved on, and communicated accordingly to the Ranny, through the Provincial Council of that Division.

13. The Ranny having in her Answer accepted of the proposed Conditions, with the Reservation of the Article relative to the Arrears of 1183 and 1184, we thereupon renewed our Orders to exact Payment of these and other Balances at that Time due from her; First, by Publication; and, finally, by the Sale by Auction of an adequate Portion of her Dawree Lands, allowing Twenty Days from the Date of Publication to the Day of Sale.

14. The ultimate Effect of this Order was prevented by the Ranny's consenting to pay the Arrears she had demurred to; those of 1183 within Two Months, and of 1184 by the End of the current Year 1186; preferring, at the same Time, a Paper of Requests, praying,

1st. That the Revenue of the Zemindarry might be put under the Khálfa, without any Dependance on the Burdwan Council: And, 2dly. That sundry Dufters, or Offices connected with the Collections, might be restored to her.

Both which Articles were, on the Grounds specified in the Debates referred to in the Margin, admitted; and the Ranny's Dewan acquainted, that in consequence of her Acceptance of the Terms offered her, she should be put in Possession, on the Payment of the Balances in immediate Demand for 1185.

15. The Ranny having satisfied this last Reservation, the Medium of the Three Years Collections, to constitute the current Year's Jumma, being the next remaining Stage of this Business, was considered and debated on in the Proceedings marked in the Margin, to which we beg Leave to refer; observing, that the nett Jumma ultimately fixed for the Zemindarry of Burdwan, is Rupees 34,12,506, exclusive of the Rajah's Musshairah of 4,47,192, and Charges Zemindarry; and subject only to an eventual Deduction of 82,868 Rupees, on Account of the Articles of Sayr Chelika, and other Land Duties, now abolished, in case of Proof being adduced that these Articles formed a Part of the Collections of the Three Years Revenue, the Medium of which has been made the Criterion of the present Settlement.

16. Our Proceedings noticed in the Margin, will apprise you of the Sunnud granted to the present Dowager of Burdwan, for the Dowree Mehuls; which had been hitherto held on a similar Tenure by the Rajah's Grandmother, the late Ranny of Ambooa.

Settlement and Balances.

17. Having, in the 4th Paragraph of our Letter under Date the 19th August 1778, taken Notice of the general Settlement concluded for the Bengal Year 1185, or from the 11th April 1778, to the 10th April 1779, we now beg Leave to refer to the Report from the Superintendent of the Khálfa Records, entered in our Proceedings of the 13th August last, for a General Abstract Account of the Collections made and Balances become due for that Period.

18. The said Report referring to the several Explanations of the Collections and Balances received from the respective Divisions, will direct your Attention to the Letters and Vouchers marked in the Margin; exhibiting the Causes which in several of the Districts prevented the complete Realization of the stipulated Revenue, with the Measures pursued to recover the Arrears, and the Orders issued by us on the Subject; all which will shew, that the few Deductions allowed, have been inconsiderable in their Amount, and were, from their Nature, rendered necessary; and that the remaining Arrears are in a Course of Payment with the current Revenue.

19. After the Expiration of the last Bengal Year 1185, we issued circular Orders to the Provincial Councils and Collectors, to conclude the Settlement of their respective Districts for the Year 1186, upon the Terms prescribed for that of the preceding Twelve Months; which Orders, together with the several Letters giving an Account of the Execution of them, stand recorded in the Proceedings pointed out in the Margin.

20. Our Consultation of the 24th August will fully bring before you the Causes which reduced us reluctantly to assent to some Part of a Remission in the current Year's Settlement of the Dacca Province; but although, upon the Representation of the Provincial Council of that Division, and the Pleas exhibited, we have been constrained to admit of some Abatements, yet we have particularly noticed to them, that these are only for the current Year; for that we are determined that the General Jumma of their Division shall not be reduced below 29,85,549 Rupees, the Sum at which it stood rated for the last Year 1185: To render which Resolution the more effectual and permanent, we have further enjoined them, never, in any Instance, to propose an Abatement of any Nature whatsoever, unless they can at the same Time clearly point out how such Deficiency may be supplied.

21. The same Day's Proceedings will explain to you the Limitations under which we have, at the Instance of and for the Reasons adduced by the Provincial Council at Dacca, allowed them to accept * Malzamins; which, by the 8th Paragraph of our Letter under Date the 19th of August 1778, we advised you of our having generally resolved neither to demand or accept.

22. We cannot conclude this Subject, without expressing our Apprehensions of the Consequences of Annual Settlements. We continue to make them in Obedience to your Orders; which we ascribe to the peculiar State of this Government, perhaps indispensably requiring it against your Judgment. Hitherto we have been able, by a rigid Adherence to the Resolution of keeping up the Jumma of the Provinces to a fixed Standard, to prevent any considerable Diminution beyond its original Reduction; but the Continuance of this Practice must infallibly produce a Decline in the Collections, and a rapid Increase of it whenever it shall begin to take Effect; of which it is our Duty to apprize you, in the Hopes of receiving your Orders and Instructions for the Introduction of a more permanent Mode.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, to the Court of Directors; dated 25th November 1780.

Settlement and Balances.

Par. 4. In the 19th Paragraph of our Letter of the 10th of January last, we mentioned the Conclusion of the general Settlement of the Province of Bengal, for the Bengal Year 1186, or from the 11th April 1779, to the 10th April 1780; and we now beg Leave to refer to the Report from the Superintendent of the Khalsa Records, entered on our Proceedings, for a General Abstract Account of the Collections made, and Balances become due, for that Period.

5. As the Superintendent's Report refers to the several Explanations of the Collections and Balances received from the respective Divisions, we have only to request your Attention to them, as noted in the Margin, for the Causes which in several of the Districts prevented the stipulated Revenue from being realized, with the Measures taken to recover the Arrears, and the Orders issued by us in consequence; all which will shew that the Deductions allowed have been few, as well as inconsiderable in their Amount, and were from their Nature rendered necessary, and that the remaining Arrears are in a Course of Payment with the Current Revenue.

6. The principal Deficiency you will perceive has arisen in the Dacca Division, the greatest Part of which we were constrained, on the Representation made by the Provincial Council, of the actual State of the Country, and their unanimous Opinion of the total Inability of the Renters to discharge, without proceeding to the Extremity of a Sale of their Lands, to remit.

7. The 20th Paragraph of our Letter of the 20th of last January, will have already brought under your Observation the Inability of this District to pay the full Amount of the Revenue then assessed upon it, with our Endeavours to prevent if possible its further Diminution. In this View we called on the Provincial Council for their Sentiments at large on the real State and Ability of the Province, and on the Means of securing the Revenue from all future Failure and Disappointment. On which Subjects they transmitted to us, at the Close of the last Year's Collections, their separate Opinions; wherein you will, by referring to our Proceedings marked in the Margin, find, that after a particular Delineation of the decayed State of the District, which they concur in ascribing to the various Encreases added to the Rental within the last Ten Years, they are unanimous in recommending its Deduction to a Standard nearly equivalent to the Jumma of the Bengal Year 1177, which they fix on as the last Period before any of these Increases had taken place.

8. Our Answer, which you will find recorded in the same Day's Proceedings, without approving of the proposed Reduction, leaves them a discretionary Power to form the Settlement of the current Year upon the most reasonable Terms they could procure: In consequence of which they have, as a Measure of Necessity, ultimately concluded it upon the same they had first recommended it; the Total of the Jumma, as it now stands, being 27,11,837 Rupees; which, as they have given us the most positive Assurance of the Renters Abilities to realize, will, we hope, relieve us from the painful Task of bringing before you any further Representations unfavourable to the State of your Revenues in that District.

9. At the Expiration of the last Bengal Year 1186, we gave Orders to the Provincial Councils and Collectors (and to the Superintendent of the Khalsa Records, for such Lands as have been separated from their former Jurisdictions and annexed to the Khalsa) to conclude the Settlement of their respective Districts for the present Year, upon the Terms prescribed for that of the preceding; which Orders, together with the several Letters, are recorded on the Proceedings, noted in the Margin.

10. By this Conveyance you will receive the General Statement we promised in a former Address, of the Demand, Remissions, Collections, and Balances, of the Five Years Settlement of Bengal and Bahar, which ended with the Bengal Year 1183, or Bahar Year 1184 (English Style 1776-7). The compiling of this Book has been attended with unavoidable Delay, owing to the many References our Accountant General had Occasion to make to the Provincial Councils, to obtain an exact Account of the Balances outstanding, and Authorities for Remissions granted. The Accounts between the Khalsa and Cutcherries under the Provincial Councils, are properly adjusted; every Demand for Balance is ascertained, and a particular Explanation given of what are deemed recoverable, and what irrecoverable; Authorities for Remissions are fully quoted, and the Reasons assigned for granting them: Where those Reasons are found too voluminous to be inserted at full Length, a Reference is made to the Consultations, in which they are stated at large. As great Labour has been bestowed in forming this Book, we hope it will be found to contain as complete and accurate an Adjustment of the the Collections of these Provinces, for the Period above-mentioned, as could possibly be given; and that it will afford every Satisfaction wished for by your Honourable Court.

11. We also transmit a Copy of the Accountant General's Letter on this Subject, a separate Number in the Packet.

Postscript.

Dated the 29th November 1780.

Since the closing of our Proceedings by this Dispatch, the Superintendant of the Khatta Records has delivered in a Report, under Date the 21st of this Month, accompanying, among other Statements of your Revenues, a General Abstract of the Demand, Collection, and Balances, throughout the Three Provinces, for the last Twelve Months; which shews, that out of the Territorial Rental (exclusive of Customs) amounting to Rupees 2,45,78;229, there remained at the Close of the Collections a Balance of 12,38,192. 7. 9. 1.; of which the Superintendant states, on the Opinions of the Provincial Councils and Collectors, the Sum of 7,97,277. 9. 10. 2. to be recoverable.

PLAN of Messrs. Hastings and Barwell for letting the Lands in Bengal, after the Expiration of the Five Years Leases.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for the Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

IN consequence of a Resolution passed at the Board of Revenue on the 11th Instant, we have drawn up, with as much Accuracy as our joint Experience, and the narrow Compass of Time allowed us in the Midst of other pressing Avocations, would permit, a Plan for the future Settlement of the Revenue; which we have the Honour to transmit you enclosed.

We have committed the Charge of this Address to Captain Tryon, having concluded it too late for the Packet.

We are, with great Respect,

Honourable Sirs,

Fort William,
28th March 1775.

Your most obedient and most faithful Servants,
Warren Hastings,

A Plan for a future Settlement.

From the Company's Acquisition of the Dewanny, it had been customary to make an Annual Settlement of the Revenue of the several Districts of Bengal. The principal Zemindars, and all the chief People of the Country, assembled at the City, at the holding of the Pooncah, in the Months of April and May. A Settlement was then concluded in some Places with the Zemindars themselves, in others with Persons who were appointed to the Charge of the Collections, under the Name of Aumils. These Aumils, having each executed an Agreement to pay a certain Sum of Money into the Treasury at Moorshedabad, according to the stated Periods specified in the Kistbundy, were sent into the Country to form the Mustussil Settlement, and carry on the Collections, as they judged most expedient for realizing the Revenue for which they had engaged.

On the Appointment of the Company's Covenanted Servants as Collectors, a Measure which took place in 1770, and on repeated Complaints of the Oppressions which had been committed by the Aumils, the Engagements with them were in general discontinued; and it was left to the Collectors to make a Settlement for the most Part for One Year, in their several Districts, on the best Terms they could obtain.

In 1771, another One Year's Settlement was made, partly by the Collectors and partly by Members deputed from the Council of Moorshedabad. When the Management of the Revenue was the Subject of the Deliberations of the Board in 1772, it was unanimously agreed, that the System of an Annual Settlement was not calculated for the Prosperity of the Country, and the Yearly Attendance of the Zemindars at the City was deemed an unnecessary Expence, which ultimately fell upon the Company. A Man of little or no Property being appointed an Aumil, executed an Engagement to pay 10 or 15 Lacks of Rupees, was invested with full Authority for collecting it, and had no Interest in the Welfare of the District any longer than for the single Year of his Appointment. The Settlements which were made with the Zemindars themselves, were in like Manner

A P P E N D I X, N° 12.

Manner for One Year only. If the Lands went to decay, the next Year's Revenue was lessened; and if they were improved, it was proportionably augmented.

Arguments are not necessary to prove that such a System must naturally produce Oppression, and be a Check to the Cultivation of the most valuable Articles of Husbandry. It was resolved to let out the Country on Leases of Five Years, that the Farmers might be induced, by Motives of Self-Interest, to attend to its Improvement. They were granted to such responsible Persons as offered the most advantageous Terms, a Preference being reserved to the Zemindars, in case their Proposals were equal to others. Under this System of Farming, the Burdwan Province had been greatly improved, and its Value ascertained since its Cession to the Company. It was hoped, that the same good Effects would be produced in the rest of Bengal.

The ascertaining of the Value of the several Districts, has been sufficiently accomplished; but we will not say the desired Improvement has in general taken place: It has been chiefly obstructed by a Circumstance which could not be foreseen; we mean, the Farmers having engaged for a higher Revenue than the Districts could afford.

The following is the Plan which we recommend to be adopted at the Expiration of the present Leases:

1st. That all new Taxes which have been imposed upon the Ryots in any Part of the Country since the Commencement of the Bengal Year 1172 (or 1764-5) being the Year in which the Company obtained the Dewanny, be entirely abolished.

1st. Whenever any Occasion has arisen, or any Pretence been found, to levy a new Tax upon the Ryots, it has been the Custom of the Zemindars and Aumils to continue to collect it, whether the Occasion has remained or not. By this Means their Rents have been constantly encreasing. This has been an immediate Distress to the Ryots, and must have ultimately affected the Manufacturers, and all other Ranks of People, by raising the Prices of the several Articles produced by the Labour of the Ryots.

The Abolition we conceive would be an immediate Ease to the Ryots, would give Life to Industry, and would tend to lower again the Prices of the Bengal Manufactures. A few of the latest Impositions were abolished by the Committee of Circuit, when they formed the Five Years Settlement; but the then Circumstances of the Company did not admit of their taking any Measures which would have been attended with an immediate Diminution of a more considerable Part of the Revenues.

The Amount of the Taxes imposed since the Acquisition of the Dewanny, will hardly be less than 15 Lacks of Rupees.

We do not imagine any Part of Bengal has been exempted from them, except perhaps the District of Burdwan, and the 24 Pergunnahs.

This Accumulation of Taxes was practised to a still greater Degree in the 10 or 15 Years preceding the Company's Dewanny, than it has since; but it would be difficult to ascertain them exactly at such a Distance of Time, and their Abolition would occasion a greater immediate Loss than could be afforded.

Subsidiary Regulations will be necessary to secure the Ryots in the Enjoyment of the Relief proposed for them; these would be easily formed if the Plan itself was approved. It is unnecessary to enter into a Detail of them at this Time.

2d. That the 24 Pergunnahs be sold as Zemindaries by public Auction, in Lots not exceeding a Jumma or Rent Roll of 20,000 or 30,000 Rupees a Year.

2d. The Sale would raise a large Sum of Money, and there is no Doubt that the Lands would be greatly improved in the Hands of Zemindars, on the permanent Footing which we have recommended: It would then be their Interest to attend to the Cultivation of the most valuable Articles of Husbandry, which require Time to bring them to Perfection, and to submit to present Expences for the sake of future Profit. We would recommend too, that Europeans be allowed to be Purchasers, provided they can be made amenable to the Revenue Courts, and subject to the same Regulations as the Natives with respect to the Payment of their Rents and the Treatment of their Ryots.

Being of a more enterprising Spirit than the Natives, they would be more likely to introduce new Manufactures, and even to import an Accession of Inhabitants from Foreign Countries; and they would in Time become an Addition of Strength to the British Empire in India.

In the Regulations laid down for the Settlement in 1772, we concurred in a contrary Proposition, because at that Time the Mayor's Court and the Courts of Sessions, to which alone Europeans were amenable, had no Jurisdiction beyond the Limits of Calcutta and the Factories of Trade, although they had a sure Appeal to the Mayor's Court from any Acts of Government passed against them.

This Defect in the Authority of Government has been effectually removed by the Institution of the Supreme Court of Judicature.

3d. That the Revenue to be paid by the Purchasers, be settled at the Medium of what was actually collected in the Three preceding Years, with an Allowance of 15 per Cent. deducted for the Charges of Collection, and their Profits.

3d. We reckon the Charges of Collection at 5 per Cent. and 10 per Cent. is their just Profit as Zemindars. If any Taxes have been imposed since the Commencement of 1772, these must be deducted before the future Revenue is settled.

Aumeens sent into the Pergunnahs immediately on the Expiration of the present Leases, would probably ascertain the Collections without Difficulty, as there would be no one interested to prevent it.

4th. That the Revenue do remain fixed at this Rate during the Life of the Purchaser. That Government be at Liberty to sell the Zemindarry if the Zemindar should be deficient in his Payments.

4th. An annual Encrease would put the Zemindar to Difficulties which would eventually produce Oppression, and prevent Improvement; and Deductions would become necessary, as at present in unfavourable Seasons.

If the Revenue be fixed, the Profits of one Year will compensate for the Losses of another: And should the Zemindar, through his own Misconduct, be at any Time deficient in his Payments, a Purchaser would never be wanting to take the Zemindarry on Terms which would secure to Government its just Revenue.

5th. That on the Death of any Purchaser, the Zemindarry shall devolve to his Heir. That it shall then be at the Option of the Government, to continue it fixed to him at the same Rate as was paid by the Purchaser, or to make a new Hustabood of it, and settle the Rent on the Medium of the actual Collections of the Three preceding Years, in the Manner proposed in the 3d Article; with this Proviso, however, that whatever may be the Result of the Hustabood, no greater Encrease shall be levied than Ten per Cent. on the preceding Lease, nor the Settlement be reduced to less than the preceding Lease. That the Expence of the Hustabood be defrayed, Half by the Government, and half by the Zemindar.

If the new Zemindar agrees to an Encrease of 10 per Cent. a Hustabood will then be unnecessary. This, however, should not be demanded, unless the preceding Zemindar had possessed the Estate at least Ten Years.

5th. The Encrease proposed is very moderate; but we do not think it could be rendered greater, consistently with the Value which we would wish to be set upon Landed Property, for upon this we deem the whole Success of our Plan to depend.

It cannot, we think, be reckoned an Injustice, that the Successor should at any Rate pay the same Revenues as his Predecessor; if the Zemindarry is not worth holding on those Terms, he will be at Liberty to sell or relinquish it. It is a necessary Regulation, lest the Successor should insist upon a Hustabood, and by Influence and Bribing get the Value of it reported much lower than the Truth, and so defraud the Government. Was every Zemindar required to deliver annually an exact Account of his actual Collections, under Pain of forfeiting his Zemindarry, it might prevent the Necessity of ever having Recourse to a Hustabood; but we apprehend such a Clause would occasion an Alarm, and discourage People from purchasing.

We propose the Expence of a Huftabood to be paid, Half by the Government and Half by the Zemindar, that both may be induced to an amicable Adjustment.

If the preceding Zemindar had possessed the Estate but a short Time, the Government ought to confirm it to his Successor without any Encrease. If he had possessed it a great Number of Years, and no particular Circumstance had happened to prevent its Improvement, it would be reasonable that the Encrease of 10 per Cent. should be demanded.

This Encrease of 10 per Cent. should be demanded on each Succession, if the State of Improvement would admit of it; and this, in case of Disputes, could be ascertained by the Huftabood.

It is unnecessary at present to enter upon a Discussion of the subsidiary Regulations which would be requisite for the Transfer of a Zemindarry by Sale or otherwise, the granting of new Sunnuds, &c. &c.

6th. The Reasons for this Regulation are explained in the preceding Article.

6th. That should the new Zemindar refuse to hold the Zemindarry at the same Rate as was paid by his Predecessor, he shall either sell it to some other Person, who will be answerable for the Revenues, or else it shall be forfeited, and escheat to Government.

7th. That should the new Zemindar refuse to hold it on the Terms of a Huftabood, as proposed in the 5th Article, he shall receive an Allowance of 10 per Cent. on the preceding Settlement; and the Government shall be at Liberty to farm it out on the best Terms procurable.

7th. It might sometimes happen that an Aumeen, employed in making the Huftabood, would report the Collections of the Three preceding Years to be higher than they actually were; and that in consequence, an Encrease might be demanded when the State of the Zemindarry would not admit of it.

This Regulation is meant to secure the Zemindar from suffering by such a Circumstance, and to render him at any Rate certain of a Profit of 10 per Cent.: But it would seldom be good Policy in the Government thus to free the Zemindar from his Responsibility in the Revenue, and take the Management out of his Hands.

8th. We propose this Article, that the Zemindar may not be liable to lose his Inheritance by the Misconduct of his Servants, before he is himself of an Age to attend to the Management of it.

8th. That should the new Zemindar be a Minor, and Guardians have not been appointed by the Father, the Government shall take the Zemindarry under its own Charge, till he attains the Age of Eighteen Years; and be at Liberty to farm it out on the best Terms procurable, setting apart for him an Allowance of Ten per Cent.

9th. That as soon as he attains the Age of Eighteen Years, the Farm shall be offered to him on the Terms proposed in the 5th Article; and if he refuses to hold it on any of those Terms, the Government shall be at Liberty to farm it out, as in the 7th Article.

9th. We leave him the Liberty of declining to farm it, even on the Terms on which it was held by his Predecessor; because it may have been injured during his Minority, and so may have fallen to Decay, without either his or his Predecessor's Fault. He may still bid for it according to what he deems its Value, and be allowed a Preference to others, as proposed in the 10th Article.

10th. That all the other Districts of Bengal be farmed out on Leases for Life, or for Two joint Lives, to such responsible People as shall offer the most advantageous Terms; allowing a Preference to the Zemindars (provided they have attained the Age of Eighteen Years) if their Offers are equal, or nearly equal, to those of others, or if they are equal to what the Council shall judge to be the real Value of the Lands.

10th. Whenever the Landed Property shall be put upon such a Footing as to render it desirable, and secure Purchasers in case of Balances, we would wish that the Revenue of every District should be settled with the Zemindars; and for this Reason we propose he should have a Preference, if his Terms are equal to what the Council judge to be the real Value of the Lands, even though other Persons should be willing to give considerably more. This Power will be very likely to subject the Conduct of the Council to Misrepresentations;

Misrepresentations ; but unless it is allowed to, and exercised by them, it will be impossible to prevent the Mischief of Districts being over-rated, as at the Five Years Settlement, by People offering more for them than can be afforded, consistently with Justice to the Ryots.

It might be resolved, that no Proposals should be received from any Persons but the Zemindars themselves ; and that their Terms should be fixed by the Result of the Hustabood, as in the 3d Article. A Kind of Hustabood will indeed be necessary at any Rate, according to our Plan, in order to ascertain the Taxes which have been imposed upon the Ryots since the Commencement of 1171 ; but to trust to it for fixing this Settlement, would be attended with great Risk of injuring the Government, by the Influence of Zemindars preventing the Delivery of just Accounts, and by the Temptation to which the Aumeens would be exposed, of Corruption.

Leases to Farmers, on fixed Terms, for Life, would interest them in the Improvement of the Country equally with the Zemindars, and in one Respect would be more effectual ; we mean, by being granted to substantial Men, who have Money of their own to lay out in Improvements. The principal Argument in favour of the Zemindars, is the Security arising from the Power of selling their Lands, when Landed Property is put on such a Footing as to become desirable.

11th. If the Attention of Government be drawn aside by Allurements held out of future Encreases, the Revenue will be over-rated. Many Persons may be found who will not scruple to promise more than they are able to perform, if by that Means they can obtain their present Views. (Vide Observations on the 4th Article.)

12th. Without this Article we should not think a Settlement with the Zemindars advisable, especially with the great Zemindars. They are for the most Part ignorant of, or inattentive to Business, and trust to their Servants, who defraud and impose upon them ; besides, it has so long been the Custom of Bengal, to raise their Rents to the full Value of their Lands, that very few of them have any Desire for their Improvement, and we do not suppose that an Alteration in the System of Landed Property will make any immediate Change in Sentiments which they have imbibed from their Infancy. The Fear of the Sale of their Lands is the only probable Instrument of keeping them to their Engagements ; and the actual Sale of them is the only Means of reimbursing the Government if they fail. With respect to the Terms on which the Revenue of the alienated Lands should be fixed for the Purchasers, in case of their Sale, the following should be the Rules observed : If the Land to be sold be a Pergunnah separated from a large Zemindary, it should be ascertained by the Hustabood, as proposed in the 3d Article : If it be an entire small Zemindary, it should be fixed according to the preceding Settlement, provided the Council have Reason to believe it was rated at nearly its just Value.

13th. Requires no Explanation.

11th. That it be expressly stipulated, That no Attention shall be paid to any Proposals for an annual Encrease ; it being meant that the same Revenue shall be paid for the First Year as for the subsequent Years : That no Encrease be levied, or Deduction allowed, on any Account or Pretence whatever.

12th. That it be observed as an invariable Rule, that if any Zemindar fails in his Engagements, his Zemindary, or such Part of it as may be necessary to pay the Deficiency, shall be publicly sold ; the Purchaser to hold it either on the Terms of a Hustabood, as proposed in the 3d Article, or according to the preceding Settlement, as may be specified in the Advertisement.

13th. That the several Regulations proposed in the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th Articles, relative to Purchasers in the Calcutta Pergunnahs, shall equally extend to the Purchasers in other Districts, and to the present Zemindars.

14th. That

14th. We

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 12.

14th. That whenever the Zemindar does not farm his own Zemindarry, his Allowance be fixed at 10 per Cent. on the Amount of the Revenue settled by the Government.

15th. That each Zemindar, or the Farmer where the Farmer has Possession, be authorized to exercise a Fouzdarry Jurisdiction, and be made answerable for Murders and Robberies committed in his District, agreeably to the old Constitution of the Empire.

16th. That for the Salt Contracts, a Preference be allowed to the Land Farmer; and that in future it be regulated, that the Molunghees or Salt Boilers shall not be obliged to work whether they chuse it or not; but only, that if they do work, it shall be for the Contractor, and that their Salt shall be delivered to him. The Price to be settled by mutual Agreement.

17th. That these Regulations, or such Part of them as shall be approved, and any others which the Honourable Court of Directors shall think fit to add to them, be passed into fixed Laws by their express Commands. That it shall not be in the Power of the Governor and Council to change or deviate from them on any Occasion, or for any Pretence whatsoever: And that Copies thereof in the English, the Persian, and Bengal Languages, be affixed to all the Cutcherries of the Provinces, with the same Authority declared for their Establishment and Duration.

14th. We understand this was the Rule in the ancient Constitution of the Empire. It now prevails universally in the Province of Bahar, under the Title of Malekâna, or the Right of the Proprietor.

15th. The Fouzdarry Jurisdiction, according to the Constitution of the Empire, is inherent in the Zemindar; but it will be dangerous to entrust the Exercise of it to any other than the Person who has the Charge of the Collections; nor would it prove effectual in any other Hands. Continual Jealousies and Contentions would be excited between the Farmer and Fouzdar: The former would suffer by the Oppressions of his Ryots, if the latter has a superior Influence, or he would make use of such a Plea, to obtain a Remission in his Rents: And the Fouzdar would be unable to act, if the Farmer's Influence prevailed, as the Ryots would always fly to him for Protection. Some Regulation of this Kind is necessary for the Peace of the Country; but it would require much Care to put it upon such a Footing as neither to be oppressive to the Farmer nor to the Ryots.— The old Constitution of the Mogul Empire should in this Instance be the Basis of the Rules to be ordained.

16th. We propose, that the Zemindar or Land Farmer should also be the Contractor; because he would be able to execute that Business with greater Advantage than another. An Order, restricting the Molunghees to the Service of the Contractor, cannot be oppressive, if they are at the same Time allowed to quit that Business altogether, in case they cannot settle with the Contractor to their own Satisfaction, for the Price and Conditions of their Labour. Such a Permission would put them on a happier Footing than they have ever yet enjoyed. That Government should continue to draw a Revenue from the Article of Salt, appears highly proper and equitable. We know not any more equal or eligible Mode of Taxation. Suppose the Inhabitants, one with another, to expend a Seer of Salt per Month (which is a large Allowance) and suppose the Government to draw from it a Revenue of One Rupee per Maund, which would amount to Twenty Lacks; the Charge to each Person would be little more than a Fourth Part of a Rupee in a Year; so mere a Trifle, that it could scarcely be felt: We suppose the utmost. The real Increase of Price since the Year 1772, when the Government took the Salt Manufacture into their own Hands, has not been Half a Rupee per Maund.

17th. The continual Variations in the Mode of collecting the Revenue, and the continual Usurpations on the Rights of the People, which have been produced by the Remissness or the Rapacity of the Mogul Government, and in the English, by the Desire of acquiring a Reputation from a sudden Increase of the Collection, without sufficient Attention to remote Consequences, have fixed in the Minds of the Ryots so rooted a Distrust of the Ordinances of Government, that no Assurances, however strong, will persuade them that Laws which have no apparent Object but the Ease of the People, and the Security of Property, can be of large Duration, unless confirmed by a stronger Pledge than the Resolution of a fluctuating Administration, stration, even with the Sanction of the Honourable Court of Directors. Time will be required to reconcile their Belief to so extraordinary a Resolution in the Principles of this Government.

At the same Time that the Honourable Court of Directors send us their Instructions concerning the future Settlement of the Revenue, we wish to be furnished with their Sentiments on the Rule of Succession to Zemindarries. Both by the Mussulmen and the Gentoo Laws, an Inheritance should be divided amongst the Sons in equal Proportions; yet it has been established by Custom, that the large Zemindarries shall not be divided, but be possessed entire by the eldest Son, who is to support his younger Brothers: On the contrary, it is usual for the small Zemindarries to be divided amongst all the Sons; but in many Parts of the Country, the Custom prevails, that the eldest should have something more than the others.

The Reverse of these Customs, we think, would be for the Interest of the Government. We mean, that the large Zemindarries should be divided, and that the small ones should be preserved entire.

The Business of the Revenue, we think, would be best conducted with Zemindars whose Estates yield them from 10,000 to 2 Lacks of Rupees a Year: They vary at present from 3 or 400 Rupees to 40 Lacks.

The Proprietors of the very extensive Zemindarries are generally oppressive and extravagant, and possess an Influence which they employ in Opposition to Government, and in case of a War, they might even become formidable, as was the Case in former Times. At the best, they find the Management of their Estates a more laborious Task than they are able or willing to undertake, and leave it too much to their Servants. And on the other Hand, the Collection of the Revenue from very small Zemindarries, is attended with Trouble and Expence. With respect to the Mode of managing the Collection of the Revenue and the Administration of Justice, none occur to us so good as the System which is already established, of Provincial Councils, as explained in the Revenue Consultations of the . . . . .

We are under some Apprehension, however, lest the Members of these should divide into Parties, and so the Currency of Business be impeded, and Disputes engross the Time which ought to be employed in a minute Attention to the Detail of their Duty, and to Dispatch, which is the Life of the Collections. It is the natural Consequence of Dissentions in the Superior Council, and our constant Care will be required to prevent it.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, 29th May 1776.

THE Governor General and Mr. Barwell lay before the Board, a Copy of a Letter addressed by them, jointly, to the Court of Directors, by the Ship Talbot, with the Copy of a Bill proposed for an Act of Parliament, and other Enclosures. They have thought proper to add some Corrections to the Bill; which are intended for the next Copy to be transmitted to the Court of Directors, and are distinguished by being written in Red Ink. *

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for the Affairs of the Honourable United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Fort William, 31st April 1776.

Honourable Sirs,

The accompanying Sheets contain the Draught or Scheme of an Act of Parliament, formed on the Plan which we had the Honour to transmit to you in Duplicate by the last Dispatches, for the better Administration of Justice in these Provinces, and drawn up at our Instance by the Chief Justice. The enclosed Copy of a Letter from him to the Governor General, now sent with his Permission, mission, will best explain our Motives for engaging his Attention to so laborious and difficult an Undertaking.

SER. COM. REP. VI.

The other Judges, to whose candid Assistance we must also acknowledge ourselves greatly indebted, have together revised the Whole with great Care and Attention, and have been pleased to signify their general Approbation of it in a Letter, which we likewise enclose for your Satisfaction.

Though incompetent Judges of a Composition of this Nature, it appears to us to be written with such Accuracy and Perspicuity, and guarded with such ample Provisions, that we believe it will not need the Allowance which the Chief Justice has thought proper to claim for its Defects; yet it is a Duty which we owe to his Appeal, to declare, that although it was most cheerfully undertaken, it was begun immediately after a Fit of Sickness, so late as the Time of the Close of our public Dispatches, and delivered as it was finished, in Parts, for repeated Revisal. The same Excuse we must plead for the Blots and Erasures of the Copy, having been obliged to employ several Hands in transcribing it, and to correct some Parts after it had been written for your Use.

The short Time which is now left us (the Packet being already closed) will not allow us to offer many Observations upon this Performance. Few Deviations have been made in it from the original Plan. The most essential are in the Jurisdiction respectively assigned to the Provincial Councils, and the Courts of Adawlut Dewanny Zillajaut. The former are restricted to the Cognizance of such Causes only as had an immediate Relation to the Public Reveaue; the latter are entirely freed from their Dependence and Connexion with the Provincial Councils, and invested with a Jurisdiction in all Cases which do not appertain to the Revenue, and even in the Trial of Complaints from the Ryots against the inferior Agents of the Collections, for Exactions not warranted by their Pottahs or Leales; for although these, as Matters of Revenue, should be properly cognizable by the Provincial Councils, yet from the innumerable Instances of this Kind of Oppression, which we apprehend will occur whenever the Ryots shall have a Resource provided for their Redress, they would prove too heavy a Charge upon the Provincial Councils, and encroach too much upon the Time which they ought to bestow on the Receipt and Management of the larger Collections.

By this Distribution the Objection is in a great Degree removed, which might have been made to the mixed Powers which were proposed by our first Plan to be given to the Provincial Councils; and we hope it will be found, that the Judicial Authority which is still left with them, is no more than will be indispensably necessary to enable them to conduct the Business of their official Department, without the Embarrassments and Delays to which it would be perpetually exposed in the ordinary and daily Process of their Collections, by Applications to the Courts of Justice from litigious and insolvent Debtors of Government.

Of the other Alterations and Additions which have been introduced by the Chief Justice into the Plan as it now stands, we think sufficient to declare that they have our entire Approbation, being calculated, as far as we are able to judge, to promote the Ease of the People, and the Benefits of Society; to render the Process of the Courts effective of the Ends of their Institution, and to free it from unnecessary Expence, Trouble, and Vexation.

In thus delivering our Opinion of the probable Effects of the Regulations laid down in the Bill, we presume not to look beyond the Line prescribed by our own local Knowledge; it will rest with you, Honourable Sirs, to consider in what Manner they may affect your general Interests; and to those whose professional Knowledge of the Principles and Forms of Law, it may be thought proper to trust the Revisal of them, to decide on their Propriety or Expediency in other Respects.

However it may be your Desire to govern the People of this Country by the fixed Rules of Law and Justice, we dare venture to pronounce that it will be impossible to effect this by any System, however judicious, which shall not have the Sanction of Sovereign Authority, especially with Courts which are to exercise a concurrent Jurisdiction with the high Powers granted by Parliament to the Supreme Court of Judicature.

We have already had some Experience of the Courts which were established in the Year 1772. These, though imperfect for the Reason above assigned, have been universally approved by the Inhabitants of these Provinces; and with the Improvements proposed by this Act, by giving them a legal Sanction, and placing them under the Controul and Jurisdiction of the Judges of the Supreme Court, we have every Reason to promise ourselves that they will prove, in Aid of that Court, an effectual Security to private Property, and eventually the Instruments of adding both to the Population and Revenue of the Country. For while the Farmer depends on the arbitrary Will of Government, a large Portion of the Rents will be unavoidably sunk in the intermediate Channels, before it can find its Way to the Public Treasury; which would not be the Case, at least not so in so great a Degree, if his Engagements were secured by legal Protection, and could be sure of immediate Redress against the Attempts of undue Influence or the Chicanery of Office, and if the Receipt is guarded from the Extortions of the lower Agents of the Collections; when the Experience of a few Years shall have confirmed the public Confidence, that their Pottahs will prove the full Measure of their Rents, it is our Belief, that such an Encouragement will draw Multitudes of new Inhabitants into Bengal, who may hope to enjoy a State of Tranquillity unknown to any other Government in India.

We shall not offer any Opinion concerning the Constitution of your present Government in these Provinces; many Reasons at this Time forbid it; although we conceive it to be of essential Importance, in the Formation of a complete System of judicial Controul, that the Power which is to protect protected and give Vigour to its Operations, should be as far as it can be rendered from Imperfection: A Sense of Duty required us, by this brief Intimation, to bring before your Notice a Subject so apparently connected with the Object of our present Address, and to leave the Prosecution of it to your superior Wisdom.

P. S. Since closing the above, the Governor General has received a Letter from Mr. Justice Chambers, relative to the proposed Bill, which, with his Consent, we take the Liberty to enclose.

Warren Hastings,
Richard Barwell.

Dear Sir,

I now send you the last Sheets of the Scheme for an Act of Parliament, drawn up on the Plan you communicated to me, as agreed upon by you and Mr. Barwell. You will see I have taken the Liberty to depart from it, according to the Permission given me, in some Instances, and have added some Clauses which entirely relate to the Supreme Court; Inconveniences which we have already experienced suggested them to me. If either of you think there is any Thing in those not suited to the present Situation either of the Company's Affairs or the Country, strike them out, and do not embarrass your Scheme with them; deal in like Manner with the Alterations I have made in the original Plan; either the Alterations themselves, or the Conversations I have had with you at different Times, will make the Reasons for them obvious. I have so penned down one Part of the Plan, which, though conformable to the Ideas of the Governments that have prevailed in this Country, and absolutely necessary where the Mahomedan Religion dictates the Law (which without it could not repress the most atrocious Crimes) is so contrary to the Genius of the English Laws, and the Jealousy of the People, that it will I fear, even in its present Situation, be ill received by a British Legislature.

What I mean, is the Power which the Nizam formerly possessed, and is now transferred to the Governor General and Chief Justice, of altering a Sentence. It can now only, as it now stands, be aggravated to a Capital Punishment, in such Cases as would be Capital in England, or by the Laws of this Country; for the Power is only given in Cases Capital by the Laws of this Country, or which are declared so by Sudder Dewanny Adawlut; and that Court is prohibited from making any Offence Capital, but such as would be so in England. I believe Adultery is almost the only Crime Capital by the Laws of this Country, which would not be so in England. I would have rather wished, that the Judge should have pronounced a certain unalterable Sentence, but would not take on me to propose so material an Alteration; as you are so much better instructed than I am, in the Manner of thinking of the People, and what Power it is safe to trust to the Black Judges without Control. My small Experience has already shewn me the Natives should not much be confided in.

I have in all Instances made the Power of Appointment reside in the Governor General and Council (where, in my Opinion, all Patronage ought to remain) except in Cases of the Coroner and Superintendant of the Police, and the Cutwals, which I have placed in the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut; the Coroner would perhaps be full as properly made an Officer of the Supreme Court. As he should be conversant with the English Laws, and must be amenable to the Court, I thought the Judges of that Court ought to have a Share in his Appointment. The others are Officers of the Police; and the 13th of George III. gives the Supreme Court a Negative in all Matters of Police; I therefore thought it more conformable to the Intention of the Legislature, that the Court composed of both Bodies, that which was empowered to make Laws of Police, and that which had a Power approving or disapproving, should appoint Officers concerned in it.

I have made all Salaries, Fees, &c. revivable by His Majesty in His Privy Council; those which are not fixed by Act of Parliament, are made subject to such Review, either by the 13th of George the IIIrd, or the King's Charter. I did not make them revivable by the Court of Directors, because I apprehended the Legislature would hardly pass an Act, which it might be in the Power of the Company to defeat; which, by appointing too small Salaries, the Company might do, if it was finally left to them; a Case which I am sure would never happen; but as it was a possible Objection, and what I thought Parliamentary, I did do what I could otherwise have submitted to them. I am very far from wishing to see any Act pass, which both the Nation and the Company may not think conducive to their Interest.

The having declared the Sovereignty in the King, naturally suggests the Idea of the final Appeal being to His Majesty in Council. The very great Inconveniences which you have mentioned to me, and which must unavoidably follow, if all Matters of disputed Property were to wait for final Decisions in England, prevented me from inserting a Clause to that Purpose; and I hope the Sagacity of the King's Officers, and of the English Parliament, will foresee them sufficiently, to prevent any such Clause being added in England.

I need not make any Apology to you and Mr. Barwell for Inaccuracies, Repetitions, and want of properly digesting the Matter; as you know that my Indisposition prevented me from attending to any Thing

A P P E N D I X, N° 13.

Thing till the Ship was actually under Patch; and that I was prevented from revising it, or comparing the Parts, by being obliged from Hurry to send away each Sheet as I finished it, to be copied.

There will therefore be necessarily many Sanctions, which might have been added to several Matters together, repeated distinctly and separately to each; and as the Whole, reduced to Writing as it now stands, for the first Time, it is in Nature of Memorandums, which suggested themselves as I went on; and many Clauses may and must be misplaced. I fear the Sanctions, Restrictions, Limitations, Provisoos, &c. which are meant to be the same, are not in many Places in the same Words, which they ought literally to be, to prevent any Argument of Construction, that the Variation of Expression would not be, if there was no Intent to vary the Substance.

On the Whole, you will find it to be far from complete; nothing but your great Desire that it should go to England by this Ship, to shew the Solicitude which I know you feel that the Country may be properly settled as speedily as possible, and my being likewise anxious on the same Subject, could have prevailed on me to deliver it out of my Hands in the State it is now in.

It is in some Form, though not in the proper Form; I hope, sufficient to shew the Practicability of the Plan in Europe. I know how much People shrink back, especially Lawyers, and indeed more especially some Friends of mine in that Line, to which this, if approved of, will most certainly be submitted, when they see a great Quantity of loose Materials, which they are to form into a Fabric. When this Fabric has some Shape, they will attempt perhaps to mend it. It was repeatedly said to me on a late Occasion in England, when I suggested any Idea to one of His Majesty's principal Law Servants, and my particular Friend, "Reduce it into Form in Writing." Suggesting Ideas frequently embarrasses, though they strike the Mind, but are often difficult to reduce to Form. Many a Man has new-modelled an inconvenient ill-constructed House, who would not have meddled with Brick and Mortar in its original State; they are tempted to it. I hope this rude Fabric will tempt some able Hand to new-model it, though perhaps he may find, as is often the Case of those who patch up a House already built, that in the End there would have been less Trouble and Expence if they had pulled it down to the Foundation, and had built a new one.

After you have gone over them, judge coolly, whether it is not too inaccurate to be sent to England. I have been very severe, you will see, against taking more from the Ryot than is reserved in his Pottah, and have made the Record of Judgment in another Court, Evidence against them on a Prosecution. This Severity proceeds from your State of the Consequence and Universality of the Offence; the making the Record Evidence, from the Difficulty of trying a Matter of Account, and especially an Account kept in a Foreign Language; and the Inconveniencies it will be to the Company to have their Revenue Officers perpetually called to Calcutta to prove the Accounts;—but if I proceed to explain my Reasons, my Letter will be more voluminous than the Bill itself.

If you do transmit it to England, you will do me Justice, either not to mention the Drawer, or if you do, the Time which was allowed for it, the Manner in which it was done, the State of Health he was in, and his total Want of Assistance from the necessary Avocations of the other Judges.

Fort William,

I am, &c.

E. Impey.

P. S. I shall rely much on Mr. Barwell's Opinion, whether it is in a proper State to be sent to England.

We have read the Draught of a Bill, intituled, "A Bill for the better Government of the Kingdoms or Provinces and Countries under the Government and Controul of the Governor General and Council of Fort William in Bengal, and for the Administration of Justice therein;" and in general think the Regulations thereby proposed are wise and just in themselves, and will probably in their Effects contribute to the Honour and Advantage of Great Britain, as well as to the Safety and Happiness of the Native and European Inhabitants of these Provinces.

The Length of the proposed Law, the great Number of Provisions which it comprizes, and the approaching Departure of the Packet for Europe, render it impossible for us to give a decisive Opinion on every Part; but the Consideration which we have given to it, enables us to say, that we all approve greatly the general Scope and Tendency of the Bill.

Dear Sir,

Sunday Morning.

Lest in the Hurry of concluding your Letters it should happen to be omitted, I take the Liberty to remind you, that from the general Approbation given last Night of the Bill which you are about to transmit to the Court of Directors, I thought myself obliged to make a particular Objection against the Establishment of a full and absolute Provincial Legislature, without any negative Power of Rejection vested in the Chief Magistrate; and I now repeat my Request, that in every Letter which mentions the Approbation, this Exception may also be mentioned.

My Brother Lemaître, and my Brother Hyde, were not willing that in our written Opinion any Notice

Notice should be taken of this Objection, because they had not, for Want of Time, given so much Attention to the Point, as to have formed a Judgment upon it ; but as I had considered this particular Question some Time ago, and have frequently revolved it in my Mind since, and as the Subject appears to me too important to be passed over in Silence, I wish to have it understood, that I cannot approve of the proposed legislative Establishment, unless a Power of refusing be given to the Governor General.

To the Governor General.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

And it is hereby further ordered, That every Arzee, Bill, or Complaint, which shall be preferred to the Courts of Provincial Council respectively, and the Proceedings thereon, together with the several and respective Dates when such Arzee, Bill, or Complaint was preferred and proceeded on, be fairly entered of Record on their ordinary Consultations, at the Time and in the Order in which the Business shall be transacted, and such Entry of Judicial Proceeding shall be, and shall be considered, a Record of the Court. And it is hereby further Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That in all Cases whatsoever wherein any Difference of Opinion shall arise in the said Courts of Provincial Council, between the President and Council, or in the Absence of the President, between the Counsellors, and they should happen to be equally divided, then and in every such Case the President, or in his Absence the Senior Counsellor present, shall have a Double or Casting Voice, and such President or Senior Counsellor, together with the other Members concurring in Opinion with him, shall be deemed a Majority of the President and Council. And be it further Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That within the Divisions aforesaid respectively, there shall be, and there is hereby erected and established, One other Court of Record; which said several Courts respectively shall be, and shall be called, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Calcutta, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Moorshedabad, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Burdwan, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Dacca, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Dinagepore, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Patna, The Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Chittagong; and which said Courts shall severally and respectively consist of One Judge, who shall be chosen and appointed by the Governor General and Council, or the Majority of them, or in the Absence of the Governor General by the Majority of the Counsellors, out of the Senior Servants of the said Company, the most versant in the Language, Laws, and Usages of the Country; which said Judge shall be called, The Judge of the Adawlut Dewanny Zellajaut of Calcutta, The Judge of the Adawlut Dewanny

PLAN and Letter of Mr. Francis, respecting the Collection of the Revenues, the Administration of Justice, and the Rights of the Zemindars or Landholders.

Fort William, 22d January 1776.

1. THE Company, I believe, had conceived an early but erroneous Opinion, that by the Constitution of the Mogul Empire, the governing Power was Proprietor of the Soil*; consequently, that in the Management of their Territorial Acquisitions, they ought not to content themselves with a fixed Tribute as Government, since they had a Right to engross the entire Produce as Landlord. On this Principle, which, if true, would not in Prudence have warranted the Practice deduced from it, it has never yet been thought necessary to limit the annual Demand on the Country to any fixed Sum, once for all. The general Tendency of the Company's Instructions, and of course the professed Object of every Settlement here since our Acquisition of the Dewanny, has been to raise the greatest possible Revenue from the Country. The leading Members of each different Administration, in Conformity to the Views and Expectations of their Superiors, seem to have rested their chief Merit with the Company on their Success in the Pursuit of this Object, but to have limited their Views to the probable Period of their respective Continuance in Office. A temporary System provides for immediate Exigencies only. It was not considered, nor was it a Consideration likely to be regarded by a fluctuating Government, that swelling the Rent Roll, if not directed by a perfect Knowledge of the Resources, and a due Attention to the Circumstances of the Country, must be followed by a general Strain in the Collections: That such a Strain must be attended by a future Diminution of Revenue, was too obvious not to be foreseen; but the Effect succeeded the Cause much sooner than was expected; every Government endeavoured to make good its Promise to the Company, but having engaged for more than they could perform, they distressed and racked the People without accomplishing their Purpose. The Truth is, that a nominal Increase in the Jumma has usually, if not constantly, been attended by a real Decrease in the Collections. By exacting from the Landholder a greater Return than it is possible for him to pay, he is furnished with Pretences for paying less than he ought; or, supposing the nominal Revenue to be realized for a few Years, yet, if it exceeds that Proportion of the Produce which * Note—The inheritable Quality of the Lands is alone sufficient to prove that they are the Property of the Zemindars. The Right of the Sovereign is founded on Conquest, by which he succeeds to the State of the conquered Prince. When the Moguls conquered Bengal, there is no Mention in any historical Account that they dispossessed the Zemindars of their Lands; though it is frequently related, that where they came in to the Conqueror, and submitted to his Government, they were received with Marks of Honour, and that Means were used to gain and secure their Attachment.

Only Two Motives could have induced the Conqueror to such an Act of Violence as changing the Property of the Lands; Favour, or Money: In the First Case, his Followers and the Companions of his Victory would have been most likely to obtain Possession of the Lands, some Traces of whose Descendants would be found at present: If Money had been his Object, the Mussulmen Historians would have made mention of the Sums so acquired, as they carefully and pompously mention the Value of all Acquisitions made by their Kings or Generals. It is true, the Forms of their Royal Sannuds or Grants to the Zemindars, suppose them to hold of the Sovereign in Capite; but this I consider as a Kind of feudal Fiction, of which the Sovereign in fact never pretended to avail himself, as constituting a Right to resume or transfer the Possession. When he grants Jacquiers, or Lands for religious Purposes, his Order is addressed to the Zemindars, Chowdries, and Talookdars; the Land continues to be deemed a Part of the Zemindarry, the Sovereign only grants the Rents of it: The Grantee or Jagheerda, never calls it his Zemindarry or Talookdarry.

In Addition to these Proofs, it is material to observe, that the late Administration, who dispossessed most of the Zemindars of the Management of the Lands, constantly describe them as the hereditary Proprietors; and upon this Principle allowed them a Pension or Tythe of the gross Produce for their Support.

Government should demand from the Land, the Excess can only be made good by invading the Sources of future Revenue. I am convinced it will be found, that for some Years past the Government of this Country has been living upon its Capital; that is, they have annually taken a Portion of the existing Wealth, which ought to have been reserved for future Production.

2. Whether it be owing to excessive Impositions, or to an unequal Distribution, or to an injudicious Mode of Collection, or to the united Operation of these Causes, it is notorious that the Country is impoverished, and in a great Degree depopulated; yet, with every auxiliary Expedient that could be devised, or with every Exertion of Rigour that could be enforced by Government, there is not a single Year in which the actual Collections have not fallen considerably short of the Settlement. In those Districts where they have been tolerably kept up, we may observe a constant Ostentation of extraordinary Merit on the Part of the Collectors, to which they could have no Pretence, if the Service they are employed in were not really attended with extraordinary Difficulties. In every other Country, the Collection of a Land Tax is one of the simplest and easiest Operations of Government.

3. From the constant Failure in the estimated Produce of the Lands, it is apparent that there must be some gross Fallacy in the System hitherto pursued, since it is not even calculated to answer a temporary Purpose. The permanent Welfare of the People, the moderate but lasting Advantages which the governing Power might continue to derive from that Source, and the future Security of the Acquisition itself, though often inculcated by the Court of Directors, do not seem, at least for some Years past, to have been the direct Object of the Policy of this Government; nor was it possible they should be so, when instant Profit, without Regard to immediate or distant Consequences, was the general Principle of Action. If any Conclusion may be drawn from Facts to Principles, the Company's Servants must be supposed to have considered Bengal as an Estate to which the Company had no good Title; which they had no Hopes of possessing long; and which it was their Interest to exhaust and make the most of while they had it in their Power. I speak of Public Measures only. On what other Principle can we understand the Committee of Circuit to have proceeded? From the Year 1768 to 1771, the Letters from Bengal were filled with the most urgent and alarming Representations of the Decay of Trade and Circulation, the Depopulation produced by the Famine, and the general Decline of the Country; yet in the Year 1772, the Committee made a Settlement for the Dewanny Lands, which promised a higher Revenue, upon the Whole, than they had ever paid in any Period of the Government. The Balances have increased in a much higher Proportion than the promised Improvement. Personal Censure is not my Object. I mean to expose false Principles both of Policy and Oeconomy, in order to discover and establish true ones.

4. The Period at which a new Settlement must be made is approaching. Seeing, as I do, the general Decline of the Country in its Population, Trade, Manufactures, and Cultivation, I cannot content myself with proposing a temporary Plan for the Service of a Year or Two, or barely accommodated to the Duration of the present Administration. It is our Duty, perhaps more than that of any of our Predecessors, to look forward to a remote Period; to establish some general and permanent System of Policy for the internal Government of the Country, and not to aim at purchasing immediate Advantages inconsistent with the Permanency of our Dominion, or at the Hazard of rendering it hereafter an useless or burthensome Acquisition to the Mother Country. Such a System will equally provide for the immediate Relief and future Prosperity of the Natives. They have a Claim to our Care and Protection, which true Self Wisdom will not reject.

5. It does not appear to me, that the First Question respecting this great acquired Dominion, which ought to have preceded all others, has yet been determined; viz. "On what political Principle it may be held by Great Britain (whether through the Medium of the India Company or otherwise) with the greatest possible Advantage, and best Security of Continuance." Right, Fact, and Form are so manifestly at Variance, and are still so strangely confounded in almost every Operation of Government, that it is now a Doubt whether the Subahdar, in whose Name some Branches of the executive Power are still administered, represents the Sovereign of the Provinces; or even whether any Sovereign Power has any Existence in the Country. The Company's Right, as Duan, to collect the Revenues, and to insist on the Payment of Duties (from which they tell us they cannot recede) is founded on a Grant from the Emperor. They coin Money in his Name, while they make War and Peace in their own. At the same Time we have a Supreme Court of Judicature resident at Calcutta, whose Writs run through every Part of the Three Provinces in His Majesty's Name, indiscriminately addressed to British Subjects, who are bound by their Allegiance, or to the Natives, over whom no Right of Sovereignty on the Part of the King of Great Britain has yet been claimed or declared.

6. While these Contradictions are permitted to subsist, the actual Government of the Provinces must continue to be an arbitrary Succession of Acts of Power without Right, flowing from different Sources, and excluding every Idea of Unity, Regularity, or System. It would be absurd to propose a Plan for the internal Settlement of the Country, without taking it for granted, in the first Instance, that ere long it will be determined, whether the Natives of Bengal are to acknowledge one Sovereign, and be subject to one Government, or whether they are to be left in their present State, divided between their native Prince, claiming the Rights of Subahdar, whose Government, the Company tell us, "they are engaged by solemn Stipulation to support;" the Emperor, whose Rights as Lord Paramount, inherent in the Constitution of the Empire, have been for a Number of Years acknowledged by the Company; the Presidency of Fort William, who hold the Sword by Agreement with the Nabob, as they do the Purse by Grant from the Emperor; and lastly, a Court of of Judicature, exercising an unlimited Jurisdiction through the Provinces, in the Name of the King of Great Britain. The Decision of this great Question must originate at Home. I do not presume to offer an Opinion on a Subject so much above me.

7. For the Purpose of forming an internal Settlement, it is sufficient to suppose, that the undivided Sovereignty shall be assumed and declared by His Majesty, whether directly and to all Intents, or with a Reserve of the actual Government of the Company; and that at all Events, Bengal is to be held as a Province of Great Britain. This I consider as a Fundamental Principle, without which no Measures taken here can be regular, systematical, or secure. The Sovereignty once declared, the subsequent Question, viz. "In what Manner it may be most expedient to exercise it for the permanent Benefit of the governing Power," will be relieved of a great Part of the Difficulty which now attends it. The Determination of it requiring local Knowledge and Observation, should therefore originate on this Side. In offering my Opinion on this Second Question I am acting strictly in my Station, though perhaps with a Degree of Judgment and Ability very unequal to the Occasion.

8. If this great Territorial Dominion had been but newly acquired, or if it were still open to the governing Power to adopt a new System of Measures without Reference to Measures already taken, my Opinion would be comprized in a very narrow Compass. Conforming to the Simplicity of Eastern Manners, and to the summary and simple Principles of Asiatic Policy, I should not hesitate to affirm, that the internal Administration should be committed to one or more considerable Moormen; that Moormen chiefly should be employed in the Offices of Government; that the Cultivation of the Soil should be left with the Gentoos, whose Property it is, and the Revenue fixed for ever; that the Zemindars or principal Landholders should be answerable for the internal Peace and good Order of their respective Districts; that the Weight of the fixed Rents should be heaviest towards the Centre, and lighten gradually as they approached the Extremities of the Provinces; that the East India Company, in their mercantile Capacity, should go to Market for their Investment with no other Influence or Advantage than that which the superior Weight of their Purse would naturally give them; that the governing Power should stand Paramount, and hold the Sword over the rest, watching the Administration of every subordinate Department, contented with a gross but moderate Tribute, proportioned to their necessary Expence, and guarding the Country from being ruined in Detail by Europeans. On these Terms, the Natives should be left undisturbed in the full Enjoyment of their own Laws, Customs, Prejudices, and Religion. On these Terms, they would as readily submit to our Dominion as to any other, nor could it ever be lost but by foreign Conquest.

9. The Moderation of the Tribute imposed by all the Mahomedan Conquerors, and the Simplicity of their Method of collecting it, accounts for the surprizing Facility with which they retained Possession of their Conquests. The Form of their Government was despotic, but in fact it was not oppressive to the Mass of the conquered People. In general, they introduced no Change but in the Army and in the Name of the Sovereign. With Respect to the Collection of the Revenues, the System of the present Government is upon Principle directly the Reverse of what it ought to be, and I believe, such as never was adopted by any other Government. Instead of leaving the Management to the natural Proprietors of the Lands, and demanding from them a fixed Portion of the Produce, we take the Management upon ourselves, and pay them a Tribute: Government stands in the Place of the Zemindar, and allows him a Pension.

10. Before these Provinces are reduced too low to bear the Operation of any vigorous Measure, it will deserve to be considered, whether a great acquired Dominion can be retained on any other Principle, particularly if situated at an immense Distance from the Seat of Empire? and although it may be doubted whether, in the present Circumstances of the Country, the Government of it can be completely established, even by the Power of Parliament, on this simple Principle, it cannot be useless to keep the Model in View, and endeavour to approach to it, as near as we are able; in forming a new Settlement for the present, until a definitive Arrangement shall be determined at Home, or until some Person equal to the Trust shall be invested with Power to restore the ancient Constitution of the Country, or to give it a new one.

11. It cannot be disputed, that Bengal was in a much more flourishing State during the last Century than it ever has been under the English Establishment; in forming Considerations therefore for a future Settlement, if the Prosperity of the Country be the Medium through which we wish to make the Possession of it beneficial, we should endeavour to trace the ancient Policy of its Government, and the Methods formerly used in collecting the Revenues; to discover whether the same Principles have been adhered to, or how, or at what Time, Alterations have taken place, and whether such Alterations have been disadvantageous or beneficial to the Country.

12. The following State of Facts is collected from the Records of the Khassa, and from the Information of some of the oldest Servants in the Revenue Offices, supported by authentic Documents. By comparing them with the present State and Management of the Revenues, we may be enabled to ascertain and establish some safe and simple Institutions for a new System of Administration. Bengal was subdued to the Government of the present Mogul Family in the Reign of Akbar, about 1573. The Principle on which he secured his Conquest was to conciliate the Minds of the native Hindoos, and to unite them as much as possible to his Person and Government; some he employed in the highest Offices of the State; with others he connected himself and his Family by Marriage *.

A P P E N D I X, N° 14.

To this Policy the Natives ascribe the good Order of Akbar's Government,* and the Regard shewn in the subsequent Settlement of the Revenues to the Right of the Zemindars, the ancient Proprietors of the Soil.

13. Rajah Toorell Mull (called by Colonel Dow, Joder Mull) a famous Financier, formed the Jumma bundy, or Establishment of Rent, for all Hindostan, and was employed for this Purpose during Two or Three Years in Bengal. It appears that the Principle of his Settlement was, to leave the Lands to their Proprietors, and to establish a moderate permanent Jumma, or Quit Rent, to be paid by each of them to Government. The Revenue payable from the whole Soubah, appears by the Ayen Akberry (or Constitutions of the Empire under Akbar) to have been One Crore Forty-nine Lacks Sixty-one thousand Four hundred and Eighty-two Rupees Fifteen Annos and Two Pice; which, as it appears from the Records of the Khalsa, differs but little from the Jumma under Shujah Cawn's Government in 1728†. The Amount of this Assessment is almost a Crore of Rupees less than the same Lands were rated at in the late Settlement for the Year ending in April 1775; and proves that it was not the Policy of the Mogul Government to engross the Produce of the Lands as Proprietors, but that they left a sufficient Proportion to the Zemindars to render their Estates valuable to them, after paying the fixed Land Tax to the Sovereign, and to enable them to perform the several Duties annexed to their Rank and Station.

14. A Roll, or Record, was formed of this Jumma, which in Persian is called Tumar; from whence the Settlement of Toorell Mull is called the Tumar Jumma, or Rent of the Roll; and Awsfil, or Original Jumma, with Reference to all subsequent Alterations and Additions.

15. A Tukseem, or Division Account of the whole Subah, was formed at the same Time, shewing the constituent Parts of each Zemindarry, such as Pergunnahs, Villages, &c. with the Proportion of the general Quit Rent payable by each. The Hereditary Office of the Canongoes was established to keep the Accounts of the Tumar and Tukseem. The Authority of these Records is still known and respected. In all Sales and Transfers of Property among the Zemindars, the new Sunnuds are taken out on the Tumar Jumma. The Jaquies of the Royal Officers, or Munjubdars, were always granted as Portions of this Jumma. The Refsum, or Fees of the Canongoes, are still calculated from thence; and the Tukseem is referred to, even at the present Time, to decide Claims or Disputes regarding the Limits of Landed Property. The several Royal Officers appointed for the Government of the Country and Collection of the Revenue, will appear in the annexed Paper.

16. The Mode of Collection is well ascertained; the Zemindars paid the Rents themselves for the most Part at the Treasury. When Collectors were sent on the Part of Government, it was not to dispossess them of the Management of their Lands, or to discover the Amount of their Profits as Proprietors, with a View of bringing those Profits to the Credit of Government. When such Officers were sent, it was in consequence of some Fault in the Zemindar, or Failure in his Rents, to levy the Dues of Government by Distress, or temporary Attachment of the Lands. Hence they were called Sezawuls, literally Punishers.

17. It is not ascertained whether the Zemindars were required by Government to give Pottahs, or Leases, to the Ryots when the Quit Rent was established, or whether they gave them of their own Accord; but it is a Fact, that in all the Pottahs which the Ryots either hold or take out to this Day, the first Thing specified is the Awsfil, or original Ground Rent, considered as their Proportion of the ancient Tukseem, or Division of the Tumar Jumma; and upon this all other Taxes and Impositions are calculated, as will be seen in the Translation of some Ryots Accounts annexed. These Taxes, when permanent, are called Aboab; when occasional, Mulboote. Few of the Pottahs specify any Term of Lease. The Ryot claims a Right of Occupancy in the Ground he tills; and cannot by the Custom of the Country be dispossessed while he pays his Proportion of the general Rent.

18. On these simple Principles the first Settlement appears to have been made; and the Records of the Khalsa shew that no material Deviation from them took place as long as the Emperors preserved their Authority in Bengal, or till the Conclusion of Sujah Cawn's Government, about the Year 1739 or 1740. This Observation is proved by the Account N° 2, which is a Translation of the Abittract of an authenticated Account of the Tumar Jumma for the Bengal Year 1135, or 1728, in Sujah Cawn's Time, on which the Collections were then made: The Sum Total of this Rent Roll is One Crore Forty-two Lacks Forty-five thousand Five hundred and Sixty-two Rupees, and is rather less than the Jumma established under Akbar ‡.

† Note—"Mr. Frazer, in his History of Nadir Shaw, computes the Revenue of Bengal at Fifty Crore of Dams, in the Reign of Aurengzebe, R<sup>y</sup> 1,25,00,000."

‡ Note—It may be useful in this Place to state the Succession of the Subadars, from the Appointment of Suja Cawn, who succeeded Jaffier Cawn as Nazim from Delhi in 1726.
His Son Sirferauz Cawn succeeded him in the Year 1739;
but was deposed by Aliverdy Cawn in 1741.
Seraji ul Dowla succeeded his Great Uncle, Aliverdy Cawn, in the Year 1755, and was deposed in 1757-8.
After him Meer Jaffier held the Subadarry till 1760-1;
When he was deposed, and succeeded by Colim Ally Cawn; who was himself deposed in 1763, and Meer Jaffier restored.
The Company took Possession of the Dewanny in October 1765.

A P P E N D I X, N° 14.

19. It is reasonable to suppose that the Soubahdar did at particular Times, and during Convulsions of the Government, extort more Money from the Zemindars than their established Quit-Rents ! But this was either a temporary Act of Violence, or occasional Sums were obtained by Way of Nuzzeranna, or Free-Gift, and not by an Increase of the Jumma ; to preserve which at its ancient Rate, was long considered by every Zemindar as the most sacred Part of his Tenure. Even at this Day the Principle of preserving the Jumma invariable subsists, though the Utility of it to the Zemindar has been destroyed by subsequent Changes.

20. Serferauz Cawn, the Son and Successor of Sujah Cawn, was soon cut off by Aliverdy Cawn, whose Government is considered as an Usurpation from the Empire, and is the first Period when considerable Infringements appear to have been made on the ancient Establishments. The Wealth of the Zemindars in his Time may be judged of by their having assisted him, during his Wars with the Marattas, with Free-Gifts to the Amount of a Crore and a Half of Rupees * ; and there are People now living who remember the Zemindars coming to the Poonah with the State of Omrahs.

21. The Institution of this Assembly, or Festival, called The Poonah, seems to me to be misfunderstood. It was not a mere Collection of Farmers called together to pay their Balances, or to settle their Rent for the ensuing Year ; in this Respect little or no Alteration was ever made ; and supposing their Rents to have been already in Arrear, it would have been more prudent to collect the Balances on the Spot, than to put the Farmers to the extraordinary Expence of a Journey to the Capital. The Attendance at the Poonah was rather an Annual Homage which the Rajahs and Zemindars were obliged to pay in Person to the Prince at Muxadavad ; as, on the other Hand, the Kellaat was an Annual Investiture or Confirmation of their respective Rights ; it was a Mark of Honour at least, the giving or withholding of which was then an Instrument of real Reward or Punishment in the Hand of the Prince. It would not be so at present, because the Zemindars are for the most Part reduced too low to be influenced by Motives of Honour or Disgrace. On the whole, the Ceremony of the Poonah had much more the Appearance of a liege Lord and his Vassals than of a Landlord and his Tenants.

22. In Aliverdy Cawn's Time, and during that of his Successor, Serajah ul Dowlah, the First considerable Aboabs, or permanent Taxes, were added to the Jumma, thereby swelling the Rent Roll and increasing the Ground Rents ; for as these were assessed on the Zemindars, they collected them again from their Tenants, and usually levied more on that Pretence. By these Means every occasional Tax became permanent and universal, and a Cause of Grievances much greater than any Benefit the Government derived from them.

23. The Account, N° 5, points out the State of the Jumma of that Part of Bengal now called the Dewanny Lands ; distinguishing, First, the Awful, or original Quit Rent, as it stood in Sujah Cawn's Time, with the Appropriations of it ; Secondly, the several Aboabs, or Additions made to it by Aliverdy Cawn and Serajah ul Dowlah ; Thirdly, the Article of Kisfyer, or Profit, for which the Country is partly indebted to Aliverdy Cawn, but chiefly to Cossim Ally. This arises from the Difference between the ancient Jumma and collecting on the Hustabood, or actual Valuation of the District.

24. Cossim Ally's Government is universally allowed by the Natives to be the Period when the ancient Establishments and the Rights and Property of the Zemindars were first shaken, and in a great Degree overthrown. He is esteemed an able Accountant, and to have considerable Knowledge in the Detail of the Collections. But it required no great Extent of Information to know, that more Money might be drawn from the Country, for a few Years at least, by collecting the whole Produce by his own Officers, than by continuing to receive the established Rents from the Zemindars. His Principle is said to have been, that whatever the Ryots paid should be the Property of Government ; thereby totally excluding the Zemindars. His Officers acted accordingly. Their Fear of him was so great, both from his Skill in Accounts and the Rigour of his Government, that his Orders were punctually obeyed ; so that, partly from the direct Produce of the Lands, and partly by Fines and Confiscations, it is believed that for Two Years he drew almost double the ancient Revenue from the Country. His short Administration may rather be deemed a regular Pillage than a System of Government †. He ruined almost all the wealthy Families in the Country, massacred great Numbers, particularly such as had any Talent or Reputation in Business ; and,

* Note—" It is a well known Story, that Aliverdy Cawn sent for Rajah Ramnaut, Father of the present Rajah of Dinagepore, and told him that the Distresses of his Government made it necessary to apply to him for Assistance. The Rajah asked him what Sum he wanted ? and the Nabob fixed his Demand at Twelve Lacks of Rupees. This Sum the Rajah gave him an Order for upon the Spot, payable by the Seets. A Petition was lately presented against the present Rajah (his Son) setting forth that he had not paid for the Victuals supplied to himself and his Family at the City Three or Four Years ago ; which was found to be true."

† Note—Some of the principal Persons murdered by Cossim Ally :

The Roy Royan Omeide Roy, a famous Muttasuddie ; his Son Roy Munny Loll, Dewan of Meer Jaffier ; Rajah Seetaram, a Muttasuddie ; Raja Rajabullub, Naib of Patna, and his Son ; Two Brothers, Heads of the Seet Family, by Name Rajah Mahteb Roy, and Rajah Seroop Chund ; Moonishy Abdalla, Vackeel of the Seets ; Maharaja Ramnarain, Naib of Patna ; Goorghun Cawn, Brother of Coja Petrusé ; Marcot, an Armenian ; Hurfs Chowdry, Darogo of the Pachou-terrah ; Rajah Modarry Loll, plundered only.

to conclude the Scene, carried off an immense Treasure with him, when driven out of the Country.

25. The Interval between the Expulsion of Cossim Ally and our Acquisition of the Dewanny was very short. It may not be improper to consider the State of the Country at that Period, and the Disadvantages which unavoidably followed from its passing under a Foreign Government.

26. It must be evident from the preceding State of Facts, that when the Dewanny was ceded to the Company, the Country was already in a very reduced Condition. A quick Succession of Wars and Revolutions, a Foreign Influence prevailing both in Matters of Government and Commerce, the Drain of large Sums of Money carried away by Individuals, or by the Company, for the Supply of their other Settlements, had undoubtedly contributed to impoverish Bengal. The ancient Establishments were overthrown, great Numbers of the Zemindars were dispossessed and reduced to Beggary, and the greater Part of the wealthy Families and People of Reputation and Ability in Business, cut off, or brought to Ruin. In such a State of Poverty and Decay, the wisest internal Establishments and most lenient Measures seemed necessary to prevent the approaching Ruin of the Country, especially as all its commercial Resources were in future likely to be cut off. Instead of Imports of Treasure from Europe, a Tribute was actually required from hence. Large Sums in Specie were sent out. The Wealth formerly enjoyed by the Natives, and diffused by an equal and constant Circulation through the Country, was engrossed by Foreigners, who either exported it directly, or, by supplying the other European Factories, made it unnecessary even for them to import Bullion, for providing their Investments.

27. The Acquisition of the Dewanny was attended with another ruinous Consequence to the Country. In order that the East India Company might avail themselves of their increased Revenues, it was necessary their Investment should be enlarged at once from 20 or 30 to 60 and 70 Lacks of Rupees annually. This could not be suddenly done without a Monopoly of the Manufactures; nor a Monopoly supported but by numerous Servants and Agents, armed with Authority, which caused great Oppression of the Manufacturers, and has been felt, with other Causes, both in the Quality and Price of every Article to the present Time. By this Monopoly, the Indian Markets were excluded from sharing in the Produce of Bengal, and driven to establish Manufactures at Home, of Articles which they formerly received from hence; consequently Bengal was deprived of its Returns both from the Indian and European Markets, and its Resource cut off on every Side.

N° 6.

28. In this declining State of the Country, it is self evident that even the moderate Revenue which was before collected with Ease, and left ample Sources for the Maintenance of the Landholders, must become a Rack Rent, and a grievous Oppression to the Tenants, and could not be realized without additional Taxes, Schemes, and Expedients, and the Use of rigorous Methods: Yet it was equally apparent, that the Use of such Means could not fail to depopulate the Country, diminish the Quantity of Lands in Cultivation, and annually accumulate the Burthen on the remaining Tenants, and on such Lands as might be continued in Tillage, till at length all personal Wealth being drained out of the Pockets of the People, a rapid and sensible Decline, the Forerunner of a general Stop or Bankruptcy, would be felt in every Part. An Apprehension of these Consequences, however obvious, does not appear to have influenced the Measures of any Administration since the Collection of the Revenues was obtained for the Company. Their Servants who made the Acquisition, were themselves dazzled by its Importance, and thought they could not represent it in too advantageous Terms. The succeeding Administration foresaw the Loss of their own Credit, if they suffered the Object to waste under their Care. The last and most unjustifiable Measure of all, was that which proposed a Plan to increase the Revenue while the Country was perishing, and which the Projectors of it must have left to be executed by the present Administration.

29. When the Company took Possession of the Dewanny, their Servants were unacquainted with the Constitution of the Country, the Mode of collecting the Rents, or what had been the Amount of the former Revenue. In making the First Settlement, they seem to have had no Rule in View, but providing for the Demands of Government at any Rate, and collecting as great Surplus as possible. At the same Time, or very soon after, the Necessities of the Company at Home produced constant Orders to increase the Investment almost to the Amount of the Revenue of the Dewanny Lands, and much beyond the Produce of the Manufactures.

30. That Period of Delirium, during which it was asserted by some, and believed by many, that the Resources of Bengal were inexhaustible, will long be remembered in England. It is not wonderful that the Representatives of the Company should endeavour to act up to the Promises of their Predecessors, and to the Prejudices of their Employers, and to aim at Increase of Revenue, which they saw was the only Merit considered at Home; besides that it is in the Nature of short-lived fluctuating Administrations, to provide for the Demands of the Day, without Regard to the Difficulties they entail on their Successors.

31. For the Justice of these Observations I appeal to the annexed Rent Roll, N° 5, on which the Settlement for the Dewanny Lands for 1766 was formed; that is, immediately on the Close of a Civil and Foreign War, and when Cossim Ally had stripped the Provinces of all the Wealth he had been able to collect, and carried it away with him. This Settlement appears to be nearly an Aggregate of the original Awsil, and all the subsequent Taxes, with a great Part of the Article of Kiffeyet, or Profit, brought on by Aliverdy Cawn, and Cossim Ally's Collections. It does not amount to the entire Aggregate of all these Articles, because several Districts had fallen short in their Hustabood, or actual Produce, since those Collections were made; yet, whenever the Necessity of the Case required Abatements, or when Deficiencies happened from the Poverty of the Country, Increases were sought for to make up for them, ~~wherever~~ Property was supposed to exist: Upon an Average, the Revenue collected for the first Years of the Dewanny, exceeds what was ever brought to Credit in Aliverdy Cawn's Time, when the Country was in a flourishing Condition.

32. The Mode of collecting the Rents from 1766 to 1769, is of itself a strong presumptive Proof of the general Reduction of the Country. As the greater Part of the Zemindars were ruined and dispossessed of the Management of their Lands, and there were few People of Rank and Family left, or of those who had formerly held high Employments; such as there were, looked for large Profits, which the Country could not afford them and pay the Rents also: People of lower Rank were therefore of Necessity employed as Aumils, or Collectors, on the Part of Government. These People executed a Contract for a stipulated Sum for the District to which they were appointed, and in effect may be considered as Farmers of the Revenue. They then proceeded from the Sudder, or Seat of Government, to the Districts, to settle with the Zemindars and Tenants for the Revenue they had engaged to pay. If the Rents already established afforded a sufficient Produce, they had the less Occasion to lay on Aboab, or Mutbote; if not, they were compelled to have Recourse to these Expedients. As the Country became poorer, and the Lands less cultivated, Taxes of course were multiplied, to make good the Agreement with Government, until the Ryots, finding the Demands made upon them annually accumulating, sought various Expedients for procuring or extorting Abatements in the Awsil, or original Rent. A timid People have no Defence against Oppression but Fraud. It is now the Usage in several Districts for the Ryot to extort Abatements at the Beginning of the Year, and the Farmer to levy a Mutbote in lieu of it when the Harvest is upon the Ground.

33. During the first Years of the Dewanny, while upon the whole there was Produce to answer the accumulated Demands of Government, the Revenue, though not entire, came in by some Means or other; as one Place failed, Assets were found in another; Contractors on the Search for Employments, hunted out every casual Improvement of the Lands; for which, if the Incumbent was unwilling to pay an Increase to Government, they were ready to take the Trouble from him. In many Instances the State of the Lands has been misrepresented, for the mere Purpose of Employment and Possession, and Increase offered on Paper for Lands, where in fact there were no Assets to pay them; yet the Natives did not suffer so universally in the Beginning of our Government as they have done since, because many of them enjoyed Offices, the Emoluments of which they spent in the Districts, and thereby gave Bread to others. The Revenues were also supported from external Sources, such as Loans from the Shroffs to the Zemindars, and the Aboab Pouzdarry, or Fines in the Criminal Courts, which have been since abolished. The above Loans, contracted to pay the Demands of Government, were swept into the Treasury, and have never been repaid. This Fact shews, that even while the Rents were paid, it was not entirely from the Produce of the Lands.

34. I have heard that Mahomed Reza Cawn was sensible of the Decline of the Country, and of the fatal Consequence of keeping up the Revenues on this oppressive System; and that he frequently recommended, in his Discourses with the Members of Administration, that a more moderate Rent should be fixed, and the Country relieved. I find that Mr. Becher, when Resident at the Durbar, was sensible of the true Causes of the Decline of the Country, and represented them in his Letters to the Select Committee. He proposed a more liberal Plan for the Provision of the Investment, recommended the employing of the Zemindars, and made it his constant Argument that something should be left for the Natives. But the Resources of the Country being thought at that Time much greater than they have since proved, and a strong Prejudice operating against Mahomed Reza Cawn and his Officers, who were suspected of concealing the true Value of the Lands, and perhaps might be guilty of some Embezzlement, a general Opinion prevailed that a greater Revenue might be collected by employing Company's Servants in the Detail; that the Decline was owing solely to the Oppression of Mahomed Reza Cawn and his Officers, and not to the true Causes, a Rack Rent and general Failure in the Resources of the Country, which forced the Ministers to make use of every Expedient to answer the Expectations of the Company. This Decline being universally perceived in the Year 1768 and 69, though the Causes were not generally understood or admitted, occasioned the Appointment of the Supervisors. The declared Purpose of it was to inform the Administration of the actual Condition of the Provinces, their Trade, Mode of collecting their Rents, the Administration of Justice, and other capital Objects. From these Materials it was proposed to form a general Plan for the future Government of the Country. Supposing this to have been the Object of the Measure, and that proper Persons could have been found to carry it into Execution, the Advantages that might have been obtained from it are obvious. It was chiefly committed to young Men, with Powers, whether granted or assumed, much greater than were necessary for the Purpose of obtaining Information. Every View of this Kind, however, was laid aside when the Council of Revenue went up to the City immediately after the Conclusion of the Famine; and although that dreadful Calamity, in Addition to the other Distresses of the Country, had swept away near One-third of the Inhabitants, and the Poverty of the Natives was manifest in every Part except Calcutta, the professed Object of that Board was to procure an Increase of the Revenue, by discovering the latent Advantages still enjoyed by the Zemindars, and reducing the Allowances to the native Officers; that is, by taking away so much more of the Bread of People already reduced to palpable Misery. The Information derived from the Researches of the Supervisors was applied to this Purpose only. In some respects their Accounts contributed to promote it, as the Supervisors in general aimed aimed at procuring accurate Ilustaboods (Valuations of the whole Rents) which of course included the Profits of the Zemindars, Farmers, Talookdars, &c. A Knowledge of the Produce was in general followed by an Effort to sweep the Whole of it into the Treasury, with little or no Consideration of the particular State of each District, or whether the Trade and Imports of it were likely to furnish permanent Resources for such Remittances.

Vide Paper,

35. Mr. Middleton's Letter quoted in the Appendix, the Proceedings of the Board of Revenue at Moorshedabad, and the Settlement of 1178, the only one made by that Board, prove beyond Dispute that they acted on the Principles I have ascribed to them. An Increase was made of near Eleven * Lacks of Rupees in the Dewanny Lands, although a Balance had remained of Eighteen Lacks † on the former Settlement, and the Country was but just emerged from the Miseries of the Famine. This Settlement, however, was collected with a Degree of Rigour and Exactness which called loudly, but in vain, for Mercy and Relaxation in the subsequent Assessments.

36. The professed Object of the Committee of Circuit, whose Settlement succeeded in 1179, was still Increase of Revenue. It is a singular Fact, and well worth Observation, that it was the Misery of the Country, and the general Distress of all Ranks of People, which enabled them to establish an increased and increasing Revenue for Five Years; I mean upon Paper. The State of the Country was then such, and there were so many People in desperate Circumstances, and out of all Employment, ready to sign any Engagements for mere present Bread, that it is no Wonder, when the Rents were put up to public Auction, if nominal Increase were obtained, and the Lands bid up beyond their real Value, for the sole Purpose of keeping or obtaining the Possession of them. Had this Settlement been collected with all the Severity which the Custom of the Country, and the Agreements of the Farmers allowed, of Necessity would have driven the Farmers to have fallen upon the Ryots with such Rigour and Distress, that a general Bankruptcy and universal Depopulation of the Districts, must have been the immediate Consequence.

37. I presume the Remissions and Balances from the Provinces since April 1772, do not amount to less than a Crore of Rupees; and it may be said, that Balances not exacted, or a moderate Rent demanded in the First Instance, are eventually an equal Relief to the Landholders; but in Effect the Difference is very great both to the Country and to Government. It would have been happy for the Country, and no Loss to Government, if the Settlement had not been made for a greater Sum than has been actually collected (though I do not say that even this is not more than the Country can support); the Landholder, whether Zemindar or Farmer, would then have foreseen the Probability of making good his Engagements, and keeping his Farm. To excite Industry there must be a Prospect of Success; but if a Balance must at any Rate be incurred, it becomes indifferent to the Landholder to what Amount he is indebted to Government, or rather it is his Interest to incur a large Balance than a small one. He collects as much as he can from the Ryot, and pays as little as he can to Government; at the worst, he can but lose his Farm, in which he has no permanent Interest, and which, when he has had it a Year or Two, is no longer worth keeping; in the mean Time, the high Rent he stands engaged for, furnishes him with Pretences of oppressing the Ryots, and for protesting against any Interposition of Government in their Favour: The Desertion of the Ryots, the Loss of Cultivation, and general Depopulation of the Country, flow directly from this Source. On the other Hand, the immediate Consequences to Government, from Taxes without Produce, are obvious: New Burthens laid on the Subject, an additional Expence of Collection, but no additional Receipts in the Treasury, and probably a real established Expence proportioned to an estimated Revenue.

38. From the preceding State of Facts collected from the Records, it appears, that the Company have levied higher Rents from this Country, whilst labouring under the greatest Disadvantages, than it ever paid to the Emperors in its most flourishing Condition, when the principal Part of the Revenues were spent within the Provinces, and the Remainder went no farther than Delhi.

39. I think it equally apparent, that under our Administration, the Desire of Increase, invariably and inflexibly pursued, is the Ruin of the Country, and ere long will be found the worst Oeconomy: Secondly, That the Mode of levying the Rents has been defective, chiefly for Want of a fixed Jumma or Quit Rent for each Zemindarry, which has rendered the Lands of no Value from their precarious Tenure, and taken away the only Incitement to improve them. The actual Employment of Farmers and Contractors, while Pensions are given to the Zemindars, has been a farther Cause of Oppression to the Ryots, and of course of Depopulation, by increasing the Number of Persons to be supported by the Farm, and throwing the Profits, if any, into the Hands of Strangers, chiefly resident at the Capital, instead of leaving them to circulate through the Zemindars to their Tenants.

40. Thirdly. The Country having been greatly impoverished, and much less Land cultivated than heretofore, Taxes are of course multiplied on what remains in a State of Tillage; which must enhance the Price of all Articles produced, as well Necessaries of Life as raw Materials for Manufacture. There is no other Way of accounting for a Fact which contradicts the common Principles by which the Price of Things, or the Proportion between Money and the Things it represents, is usually determined. It is notorious, that Manufactures, and all other Articles, are much dearer now than when the Country abounded in Specie. In the ordinary Course of Things the Reverse ought to be true; in Bengal it is not true, because the heavy Exactions of Government compel the Farmer to raise the Price of his Produce, and the Manufacturer of his Labour; and their Standard regulates the Expence of every other Rank of Life.

41. Fourthly. The Lands and their Rents being open to the Proposals of every Adventurer, and all Improvements made in them eagerly hunted after, either for the Purpose of immediate Increase, or to supply some Deficiency; it became the Interest, and as I am well assured has been the inviolable Practice of the Zemindars, to depopulate their Lands, and to lessen the Value of them to Government; since every Improvement not only subjected them to a present increased Demand, but also to have their Jumma or established Rent raised.

42. Fifthly. The Zemindars being thus made the Enemies of Government, have in general been removed from the Management of their Lands; but they have retained an Influence over the Tenants, partly by being their hereditary Masters, and partly from the Expectation which the latter entertain of falling again under their Authority. This Influence they employ to embarrass Government, by making private Collections for themselves, raising Complaints against the Farmers, and putting their Ryots to Flight during the Season of the Collections.

43. Sixthly. The same Cause which makes the Zemindars Enemies to Government while out of Employment and subsisting on their Pensions, has made them rapacious and unthrifty Farmers when they have been admitted to a temporary Management of their Estates; yet the Fault is not in them, but in Government, which, by adopting false Principles of Policy, forces its Subjects to act upon false Principles of Economy. It is unreasonable to expect that they, or any other Farmers, should hazard the immediate Loss and Expence from which alone a great future Return can be derived, without a permanent Interest and Security, and in the Face of an arbitrary Taxation, too likely to increase with the Improvement of the Estate.

44. Seventhly. The Lands being on the Whole assessed at the utmost of their Produce in the most favourable Seasons (though in some Places particular Persons may have been favoured with beneficial Leases) and all the existing Wealth drawn out of the Pockets of the People, it follows that Government must depend for its Income by the precarious Events of Season, Sale of Harvests, and good Management in the Farmers and Collectors. The Ryot having nothing, and never expecting to gain any Thing, cultivates the Soil from mere Necessity, and no more of it than will supply a bare Subsistence for himself and his Family.

45. Eighthly. I am assured that the Jumma-bundy, or Rent Account, of every individual Ryot, is so confuted by accumulated Taxes on the Part of the Farmers, and Abatements taken in the Awful, or original Rent, by the Ryot, that perpetual Pretences are open to each Party, for the latter to cheat, and the former to oppress. The Pottahs, or Leases, are so varied and full of Confusion, that when Complaints are made, the ablest Muttafuddy of the Khalsa cannot tell who is strictly in the Right. The Necessity of keeping up the Revenue generally obliges Government to support the Farmer.

46. If this unfavourable Representation of the actual State of Bengal be not greatly exaggerated, it must be confessed that this Government is surrounded with Difficulties, in which perhaps no future Choice of Measures may be entirely free from Objection. We see the Necessity of relieving the Country, at the same Time that we have Expences to support, which, on their present Footing, no Management can reconcile to a considerable Diminution of real Revenue; nevertheless, we are not yet, I hope, reduced to the Question, Whether we shall supply our immediate Wants by straining the last Drop from the Vitals of the People, or incur some present Inconveniences, by leaving it to generate and multiply in the Bosom of the Country? All visible and avowed Expences may still be provided for, even upon a liberal Establishment, consistently with a material Reduction in the Jumma of the Provinces, particularly of the Dewanny Lands. The Relief to the Country will be real; the Loss to Government in a great Measure only apparent.

47. The Extracts annexed to this Paper (N<sup>o</sup> 8) will shew, that this is the professed Principle of the late Administration, though they acted in direct Contradiction to it; I mean Messieurs Middleton, Vansittart, Dacres, and Barwell. The Governor General himself proposes to form a new Settlement on a Medium of the last Three Years actual Collections; and (in accounting for the extraordinary Difference between the Nett Receipts and the Settlement made by the Committee of Circuit) says, that the Company are not to judge of their Revenues by a Comparison of the Collections with the Settlement, but by a Comparison of the actual Collections with those of former Years. This, I conceive, is a direct Acknowledgment of the Impossibility of realizing the Committee's Settlement, and of the Necessity of reducing the whole Jumma of the Provinces. Both the Governor and Mr. Barwell attribute the desired Improvements not taking place to "a Circumstance which, they say, could not be foreseen, viz. the Farmers having engaged for a higher Revenue than the Districts could afford."

48. In providing a Relief to the Country, I do not speak of a temporary Remission, left open to an arbitrary Increase of Demands on future Improvements. The Jumma once fixed must be a Matter of Public Record: It must be permanent and unalterable; and the People must, if possible, be convinced that it is so. This Condition must be fixed to the Lands themselves, independent of any Consideration of who may be the immediate or future Proprietors. If there be any hidden Wealth still existing, it will then be brought forth, and employed in improving the Land, because the Proprietor will be satisfied he is labouring for himself.

49. The Execution of a Plan formed on these Principles, will now undoubtedly be attended with Difficulties; but these, whatever they are, must be faced and overcome. In my Opinion, the Alternative is Ruin.

50. The following is the Plan on which I would recommend it to this Government to proceed. The whole Demand upon the Country, to commence from April 1777, should be founded on an Estimate of the permanent Services which Government must indispensably provide for, under the great Heads of Civil and Military Establishments, and Investment, with an Allowance of a reasonable Reserve for Contingencies. I know not for what just or useful Purpose any Government can demand more from its Subjects; for unless Expenses are created for the express Purpose of absorbing the Surplus, it must lie dead in the Treasury, or be embezzled. If there be not Vigour and Resolution enough to adhere to an Establishment formed on such an Estimate, no Plan of Reformation can succeed. The Faith of Government may be pledged to the Landholders, but Necessity will oblige them to break it. The Estimate (N° 9) with the Explanation annexed to it, will, I presume, be thought sufficiently liberal: For the same Services in Europe, it would be thought enormous. To this I would proportion the whole Demand upon the Provinces, and fix it for ever; including the newly-acquired Revenue of Ghazipore. But the Habits of this Government, in carrying the real Expence of the Company beyond all Bounds of Estimation, are so inveterate, that it might still be dangerous not to leave a considerable Latitude for the unavoidable Continuance of their Operation. The unappropriated Surplus which appears on the Face of the Estimate, clears all Difficulties and obviates all Objections.

51. In distributing the Assessment, let every possible Relief be given to the Dewanny Lands, which, by their distant Situation from the Seat of Government, and the present great Poverty of the Inhabitants, require it most. Let particular Regard be had to the distant Provinces, and to those which have few Resources from Commerce and Manufactures. In our present Circumstances we have no safer Rule to direct us than the actual Receipt of the Three last Years, because they best shew the actual State of the Lands; possibly the Medium of these Receipts (with some Relief where they have been too severely collected) may not be an oppressive Rent, when assessed on the Zemindars themselves, and an End is put to the intermediate Profits of the Farmers and Securities *.

52. I do not doubt that there will be considerable Inequalities in an Assessment formed upon this Principle. But supposing the Sum Total unalterably fixed, I do not think this an Inconvenience to be regarded: It is not regarded in England, neither is it to be remedied but by the strict Execution of a Measure which I would never recommend. I mean a Hustabood or actual Measurement and Valuation of the whole Produce. Since we already know what the Country will pay, a Hustabood can only serve to alarm the Zemindars and Ryots. Many Agents must be sent into the Country to obtain such an Account, and Government must depend entirely on their Skill and Integrity for its being accurate. A Hustabood ought to be an actual Valuation of all the Rents drawn from the Lands; but by the Failure of some Tenants, the entire Amount of it is seldom collected: If accurate, therefore, it is too much to draw from the Districts. Hitherto, where a Discovery of the Whole possible Produce has been made, it has only served to awaken the Cupidity of Government, and to lead them into Errors in settling the Rents. The Revenue actually paid for Three Years past will be sufficient for forming the general Assessment of the Provinces. The particular Assessment of each District, and Distribution of the general Remission, which the present Plan proposes, makes Part of the Detail, and will require the Assistance and local Information of the Gentlemen on the Spot.

53. When the gross Sum to be levied from the Country is determined, as well for the Revenue as all Charges incident to it, each Zemindarry should be assessed its Proportion according to the Rule in the First Article; and let that Sum be declared the Quit Rent of those particular Lands in Perpetuity. This Distribution should be called the Tumar Jumma, a Term sanctified among the Natives, from the Idea of Security which they had long been accustomed to annex to it. There is no Case of Necessity, no Emergency whatsoever, which, in my Opinion, should induce Government to increase the Jumma: Temporary Distresses may be provided for by temporary Contributions, which a flou-

* Note—to the Council, dated 5th February 1775.

The late Mr. Middleton's Opinion on this Subject, is strong in support of the present Argument. The Zemindar is indeed, in every Light he can be viewed, the proprietor and the only Person to whom Government can, consistently with the Welfare of the Country, let the Lands. The Ryots respect him, and will gladly submit to every Thing but the most cruel Hardship from his Hands, without repining, as they look towards him as their natural Master and Protector; and he himself, considering his Interest as permanent in the Country, will avoid every Oppression, which, as it must injure the Country, must also tend in the End to the Detriment of himself and Family. Very different is the Case with the Izardar. No ways concerned in the Welfare of the Country beyond the Date of his Engagements, his only Care is to realize, as fast as he can, what he has contracted to pay Government, and to appropriate to himself a considerable Sum of Money; perfectly indifferent, when those Ends are accomplished, how far the Country may be distressed, and the future Revenues of Government diminished."

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 14.

ishing Country does not feel. If these are once added to the Jumma, according to modern Practice, they become perpetual, and drive the Proprietor, who sees no Limit or Period to the Impositions on his Land, to Frauds, Indolence, or Despair.

54. A new Tumar, or Roll, with a Tuksum Jumma, or a Division Account of the Country, should be formed, shewing what Proportion of the general Assessment is paid by each constituent Part of the Zemindarry, such as Pergunnahs, Tuppahs, Villages, &c. This Record should be carefully preserved in the Khalsa, and transcribed into English. The Head Cutcherry of each District * should have an authenticated Copy of its particular Tukseem, which all Persons should be at Liberty to consult.

It is not meant by these Regulations to prevent the Zemindar from drawing a larger Rent from any constituent Parts of his Zemindarry than its Proportion of the Assessment, and rendering it of more Value to himself, if he improves the Land it contains; this would be absurd, and defeat the Intention of the present Plan: It is only meant to fix the Quit Rent of Government for every Portion of Land in all future Sales or Transfers of Property, without which, neither the actual Proprietor nor the Purchaser can form a determinate Judgment of its Value.

55. The Quit Rent of each Zemindarry being fixed, the Zemindar must be informed, that the due Discharge of his Rent is the Tenure by which he holds his Lands, with every possible Assurance that no further Demands will be made upon him. If he incurs a Balance, a Part of his Zemindarry should be invariably sold to make it good; and when the Quit Rent is fixed, there can be no Doubt of Purchasers. This should be made an express Condition in the Caboolat. In the Case of Sales, a Preference should be given to the next Heir. If the Sale produces more than the Debt, the Proprietor should have Credit for the Difference. This Method will preclude the Necessity of using the rigorous Means hitherto in Practice, and often ineffectually applied; such as Threats, Imprisonment, and Stripes. A more easy and more effectual Remedy is in the Power of Government: In the present depressed and discouraged State of the Zemindars, it is probable that several of them may incur the Penalty of losing their Lands; in some it will arise from Incapacity, in others from Doubts of the Government, and in many from downright Obstinacy and wilful Attachment to their Prejudices or Propensity to Fraud, in which they have been bred. The Government must begin by setting an Example of Good Faith to its Subjects. In such Instances as those abovementioned, a Transfer of Landed Property to monied People, who are able to make Improvements, will be equally advantageous to Government and to the Country. But whoever knows the Value set by the Zemindars of Bengal on their inherited Property, and the Disputes which they maintain for Years with the utmost Acrimony and Perseverance for the smallest Portion of their Land, even on its present racked and discredited Tenure, will be convinced, that when they see this Regulation put in Force against them without Delay or Indulgence, they will be roused from their present supine and hopeless State to exert every Endeavour for the Preservation and Improvement of their Estates, now rendered of real Value to them.

56. As many of the Zemindars will at first be incapable of managing their Lands themselves, they should be obliged to retain a Dewan (or Steward) of sufficient Ability and good Character, who should be entrusted with the Management of the Lands, and be answerable for the Rent due to Government; without whose Approbation he ought not to be dismissed, during Four or Five Years at least after the first Settlement. The Dewan will stand in the Place of a Security, with this Difference, that as he will have the Management himself, he should be accountable to his Master, but should never be allowed a Claim on the Estate; nor in the Case of a Sale, should he ever be permitted to purchase the same Land of which he was Dewan. I agree with the Governor General in his Opinion of the Inconveniencies arising from the very extensive Zemindaries, and that it is the Interest of Government that ~~these~~ they should be divided, and that the small ones should be kept entire; though the Reverse is the Custom of the Country. In this Respect a new Law of Inheritance should be established, by which the great Zemindaries should be divided equally among all the Sons, and the small ones descend to the Eldest, on Condition of supporting the younger Children. The gradual Operation of this Rule might be continued until the larger Zemindaries were reduced to a Revenue of Two Lacks each to Government. The rest should be preserved entire. This Limitation however is arbitrary, and open to Consideration.

In the same View it may be proper to consider, whether the Zemindars having no Heirs of their own Blood, should be allowed to adopt a Son (generally that of the Family Bramin) to inherit their real Property. If this Custom be abolished, some of the principal Zemindaries will probably elude to Government, and may be divided into small ones.

57. A Court of Wards might be established for the Care of Estates, of which the Incumbents are Minors, Idiots, or Females; and to have the Care of the Education of Minors, now usually committed to Servants or Relations, who have an obvious Interest in bringing up the Children in Ignorance and Stupidity.

58. When the Jumma is reduced, and the Zemindars have the Management of their Lands, a specific Allowance, now made them in Right of their Zemindarry, will only tend to promote Idleness; as their Profit should arise from the Improvement of their Estates.

59. By the ancient Constitution of the Empire, the principal Zemindars were invested with Fouzdarry Jurisdiction, and were answerable for the Peace of their Districts. In case of Robberies, the Zemindar in whose Precinct they were committed, was obliged to make good the Damage to the Person robbed, and to discover and bring the Thief to Justice. Where Murders and Riots were committed, the Zemindars were liable to severe Mulcts from Government.

* Note—"I call a District the Portion of Lands under each Supervisor."

The Fouzdars, stationed in different Parts of the Country, had Authority to enforce these Laws; and the Fines they levied on Breaches of the Peace, or other Infractions of the Law, formed an Article of Revenue, called Abaob Fouzdarry.

I agree with the Governor General, that a Revival of these Institutions may be highly expedient. The present Appointment of the Naib Suba is a Step to it; but it should not be put in Force too early, lest it should embarrass and distress the Zemindars in their present low State. They must be allowed some Time to establish their Influence, and acquire a sufficient Degree of Property and Consideration in their Estates. The Plan itself will at first require nursing and Indulgence. As the new Establishment gains Strength, the Zemindars should be gradually replaced in the Exercise of all their ancient Duties; such as the repairing of Roads, Dykes, Bridges, Care of Ferries, and Plantation of Fruit and Timber Trees, to which, though a most material Article to the Country, little or no Attention, I believe, is paid at present. As their Means increase, they should be obliged to keep up the old Establishment of Pykes and Bearers for the Security of the Villages, and Assistance to Travellers.

One essential Reason why Government should endeavour to restore the Zemindars to a State of Competence at least, if not of Affluence, is, that they are not merely the Stewards or Collectors of the Public Revenues, but are, or ought to be, the Instruments of Government in almost every Branch of the Civil Administration. If this Medium be removed, Government then acts directly upon its Subjects by its own Officers, without the Assistance of those intermediate Gradations of Rank, Authority, and Responsibility, by which all great Civil Societies are held together. A System which professes to destroy that Medium, might as well profess at once the Dissolution of the State; unless by the Word State, we are only to understand the economical Relation of Master and Slave, not the political Union of a Government with its Subjects.

60. Having thus taken ample Care of the Rights of the Zemindars, and given Security to their Property, the next Step is, to make a similar Provision for their Tenants. The Land is the hereditary Property of the Zemindar; he holds it by the Law of the Country, on the Tenure of paying a certain Contribution to Government. When this Condition is complied with, he is Master of the Land, to re-let it to whom he thinks proper; but when he has given a Lease of any Part of it to a Ryot, the Conditions of such Lease should be invariably adhered to: In other Words, the same Security which Government gives to the Tenant in Chief, should for the same Reason descend to the Under-tenants in their several Gradations; so that every Rank of Society, and every Member of it, may have something to call his own. Government should prescribe a Form for the Pottah, which may be deemed the legal one, and no other be held valid. I know not whether, in ancient Times, the Ryots constantly took out Pottahs or not; they derived a better Security against ill Treatment, from the natural Interest and Relation by which they and the Zemindars were mutually bound to each other; this Security, so much superior to any formal Engagements, the present System promises to restore. By establishing a Quit Rent for each Zemindarry, we make it the Interest of the Zemindar to extend his Cultivation to the utmost, which can only be done by encouraging the Resort of Ryots, and by letting his Lands on such favourable Terms as may excite their Industry. I have heard it asserted, that formerly, when a Ryot quitted any Zemindar's Lands, he followed him, and used every Motive of Persuasion to prevail on him to return; and that the Zemindars were accustomed to bribe away each other's Tenants. In order to get rid of the present confused Pottahs and Jumma-bundy, it should be made an indispensable Condition with the Zemindar, that in the course of a stated Time he shall grant new Pottahs to his Tenants, either on the same Footing with his own Quit Rent (Istumar) that is, as long as the Zemindar's Rent remains the same, or for a Term of Years, as they may agree: The former is the Custom of the Country. This will become a new Awfil Jumma for each Ryot, and ought to be as sacred as the Zemindar's Quit Rent. The Pottah should be expressed in the simplest Terms possible, without a single Abaob or Muthote, so much per Bega for every Bega of Land he cultivates, varying only according to the Articles of Produce or Quality of the Soil*. On the Application of any Ryot, the Supervisors (whose Office will be mentioned hereafter) should cause such a Pottah to be given him, witnessed by himself, or the Cannongoes and public Officers of the Cutcherry, that it may become as much a Matter of Record as the Zemindar's Quit Rent. Every Ryot, on completing his annual Payments, should receive a signed Account of his Jumma-bundy, or Annual Rent, from the Zemindar (or his Agents) with a Release at the Foot of it. In case of Disputes, this Account compared with the Pottah will make it easy to decide them. The Zemindar should be obliged to grant this Account and Release to the Ryots; whose Complaints, on the other Hand, should not be listened to, if they neglected to demand it.

61. The Establishment of One general Silver Coin, upon which no Batta is required, will preclude a great Source of cheating and oppressing the Ryots, and put a Stop to any Pretence for levying a * N. B. "The Amount of Rent to be paid per Bega must be settled between the Zemindar and his Tenant. Government can never descend to the Ryots, so as to fix any general Assessment upon them, because the Rates of Land depend on a Number of precarious Circumstances; such as the Quality of the Soil, the Articles it produces, of which there may be a variety in One Village, besides the general Argument of Vicinity to Markets, or Water Carriage, which makes Land of more or less Value to the Cultivator."

Muthore, to make up a Deficiency of Weight and Batta, which Articles used to afford the Shroffs their greatest Profits in dealing with the Zemindars and Ryots.

62. I understand that the greater Part of the Charity Lands in Bengal are held by Usurpation, or by the Gift of Foujedars, Aumils, Zemindars, and Collectors of Villages. When the Zemindars begin to find their Lands valuable, they will make great Struggles to resume those Grants or Usurpations. To obviate the vexatious Consequences of an Inquisition into ancient Titles, and yet to relieve the Zemindar against modern and notorious Usurpations, a Term of Prescription ought to be fixed for the quiet Possession of all real or pretended Charity Lands, for which no valid Grant can be produced. In future, no Gifts of Land made by the Zemindar for a longer Period than during his own Life or Possession should be allowed: But no Act of his should exempt the Lands from making good their Proportion of the general Jumma, whenever the Zemindar falls in Arrear to Government.

63. While the Credit of the Zemindars was supported, Merchants, and others acting as Bankers for them, lent them large Sums, which formed a Maintenance to the Merchant, and assisted the Zemindars in improving their Lands, and relieving the lower Tenants when rendered unable, by bad Harvelts or otherwise, to pay the Demands of Government at the stated Periods. This Intercourse in some Measure united the landed and monied Property, and gave to each Class a natural and permanent Interest in the Prosperity of the other. It will revive of itself when the Lands become valuable, and absorb the idle Money thrown into the Hands of private Persons by the Discharge of the Bonded Debt. But Government ought to give some Demonstration of their Intention to see Justice done to those who lend their Money. The Rate of Interest should be fixed, and the Mode of Security determined, whether by Mortgage or otherwise.

64. The Execution of a Plan of this Nature will require the Attention of Government to all Parts of the Country at once; therefore cannot be performed by a Council confined to the Capital of a large Province. With respect to the present Provincial Councils, I am of Opinion that the Institution was fundamentally wrong: There should be but One deliberative Council in the State. The Powers delegated by that Authority should be purely Ministerial; it seems contrary to all Principle to unite Execution with Debate. It looks like forcing Two Powers, moving on Principles diametrically opposite in their Nature, to keep Pace with each other. A Government so constituted will neither deliberate nor dispatch. Setting aside the obvious Consideration of an inevitable Slowness of Proceeding, tedious Disputes, and voluminous Consultations, one great and fatal Objection to Provincial Councils is generally felt and acknowledged by themselves. Their local Situation makes them unable, from their own Knowledge, to judge of the State of the distant Districts, or to hear Complaints, or to yield timely Redress, or, in short, to enter into the Detail of Government.

65. In the Course of the Year preceding the new Establishment, Supervisors should again be appointed from the most discreet and able Servants, who are acquainted with the Language; and, if possible, such as have a Knowledge of the Districts where they are to be employed, and some Acquaintance with the People.

Let the special Purpose of their Appointment be, to see this Plan executed and adhered to in all its Parts; and as the Success of it, in its Infancy, will in a great Measure depend on their Assiduity, Integrity, and the Support they give to all the People employed, they ought to be placed above Temptation; they should have an honourable Means of acquiring a Reward proportioned to the great Trust reposed in them. For this Purpose I think they should be allowed a Salary for their Expences, and a Commission on the Nett Amount of their Collections, payable with the other Expences of Collection by the District. I will not pretend to say what their avowed Emoluments ought to be, but I am sure that no Government will be served honestly which does not reward its Servants liberally.

66. The Divisions of the Country may be nearly the same as in the former Collectorships, except that Dacca is too large, contains a great many small Zemindarries, and ought to make Three Divisions at least. It is most probable that when the Zemindars are thoroughly established, and Pottahs given to the Ryots, it will be unnecessary to keep the Supervisors in the Districts: The Zemindars will gladly pay their Rents at the Khalsa. Some Gentlemen, on the Plan of the old Foujedars, may be fixed at convenient Stations, merely to preserve the Peace and Subjection of the Country; and this would be more essentially necessary in case of a War.

67. The Superintendence of the Dewanny Adawlut will make an important Branch of the Supervisor's Business, in which he should be attended and assisted by the Foujedarry Officers, who are, or ought to be, Men of Learning in the Mahomedan Law. The Servants allowed at present for the Dewanny Adawluts are, as I am informed, mere Clerks; and as they can be of no Assistance to him in forming proper Decisions, the greatest Part of them may be struck off.

68. The Establishment of Servants in each District need be very small, as all the voluminous Part of the Business, forming Hufstaboods, and collecting Mofussil Papers, will now be unnecessary, and the Accounts required, will only be a State of each Zemindar's Payments, and the Arrears due from him, and a Jumma Khurch, or Account of Receipts and Disbursements, to be sent to the Treasury. The Supervisor should have Authority, and it should be declared his special Duty to prevent all Attempts of Monopoly, or undue Influence in Trade, whether by the Company's Agents or others: It should be strongly recommended to him to protect and encourage Merchants, by seeing strict Justice done to them, and that no vexatious Impediments are thrown in their Way.

69. Preparatory to this Scheme, an Order ought to be sent to all the Provincial Councils, to procure, 1st. An exact Register of all the Landed Property in the Country, digested under the general

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 14.

Heads of Zemindarries and Talookdarries, with the Pergunnahs contained in each of them. 2d. A Table of the Three last Years Receipts. 3d. The Character of the Zemindar, and the State of his Family, with any other Particulars which they may think necessary to assist Government in the Formation of a new Settlement. Copies of these Accounts will of course be delivered to the respective Supervisors.

70. The Committee's Settlement, I believe, does not now exist intire in any Part of the Provinces. Great Remissions have been made, yet heavy Balances are still due on this Settlement. By relinquishing the latter, some Debtors will escape who have no Claims to Indulgence, and ought to be pressed with Severity. But upon the whole, I deem it for the Interest of the Company, that all Balances which cannot be collected by a certain Period, should be remitted. The Intention of Government in this Respect should be kept secret till the Moment when the public Declaration of it shall be made. The Country cannot recover under the Exactions of heavy Balances, notwithstanding any Prospect of future Relief. By opening a fresh Account we shall give Heart to the People; and though, in particular Instances the Government may lose what it would be justified in exacting, it should be remembered that the Country has already paid much more upon the whole, than should have been demanded from it.

71. With respect to the Revenues which Government should raise from the Manufacture of Salt and Ophium, I declare my Opinion that it ought to be by way of Duty only. The ancient Government was content with such a Duty. The Object of the Institution of the present Government, and of all the Company's Instructions to us, is to destroy Monopolies. All their Orders on this Subject since the Year 1766 shew, that Salt in particular was meant to be left as free and unburthened as possible; that their principal Object was the Ease and Convenience of the Natives; and the Duty was ordered to be so regulated, as not to produce a Revenue exceeding £. 120,000 per Annum.

72. The Idea of monopolizing this Necessary of Life, whether for the Advantage of Government or of Individuals, has been at all Times invariably reprobated by the Company. It is particularly observable, that in their Letter of the 20th November 1767, they say, they had rather that even the Duties should be diminished, than that the Price to the Consumer should ever exceed 140 Sicca Rupees per 100 Maunds.

It is notorious that the Oppressions practised under Colour of the present Contracts, have contributed greatly to the Depopulation of the Salt Districts. The Consequences of such Depopulation are not confined to the Loss of so much Salt. The Cultivation of the Lands in these Districts is performed by the same Hands which work the Salt; and when the Molupgee is driven to Desertion, the State proportionably feels the Loss, not only in its Manufacture, but in its Agriculture.

73. On the Subject of Ophium we have yet received no Instructions. The Monoply of this Article is highly prejudicial to the foreign Trade of Bengal; nor have we a Right to reckon the whole Revenue arising from it as clearly gained to the Company, since it is beyond all Doubt that the Landed Revenue suffers considerably by Government's engrossing the Produce of the Lands; in Proportion as the Monoply operates, the Rents of the Lands must diminish. To recover the Province of Bahar from its present State of universal Poverty and Depopulation, I see no Method so easy and certain as throwing open the Ophium Trade, and making some Alteration in the present oppressive Method of providing the Company's Salt Petre: On the other Hand, my Estimate of Services to be provided for, shews that Government does not want this Resource, and that a Duty of 30 Sicca Rupees per 100 Maunds on Salt, and of 30 Sicca Rupees per Maund on Ophium, which the Trade will easily bear, will produce as much as Government has any Occasion to demand from these Articles. To exact more is useless to Government and cruel to the People. The single Act of throwing open the Trade in Salt and Ophium, will, I am convinced, in a very few Years give totally a new Face to the Country.

74. If the Subject of the Inland Trade of Bengal should at any Time hereafter come again under the Consideration of the Legislature, the Question, whether the Restrictions now imposed on His Majesty's European Subjects, not employed in the Collections or in Offices of Authority, are necessary to be continued? will, I think, deserve their serious Attention. At a Time when the Company's Servants claimed Exemptions from the Duties paid by the Natives, when the Operation of the Duffuck manifestly tended to engrossing the whole Trade of the Country, or while one of the bad Effects of such Claims was to involve us in Disputes with the Country Government, the Prohibitions now imposed by Law would have been highly necessary. At present I apprehend, they cease to be so, because all Distinctions of that Kind are laid aside, and, ceteris paribus, the Native must always have a great natural Advantage over the European in conducting any Branch of the Inland Trade. In general, Prohibitions or Restrictions are destructive to Commerce. In this particular Case, they are not only less necessary than heretofore, but perhaps do not intirely produce their intended Effects.

A P P E N D I X, N° 14.

N. B. Bengal, as a Province of the Empire, may have been considered as under a native Government; and being subject to no Invasions at that Time, except the Incursions of the Mughls Arracanners, or Portuguese settled at Chittagong, who came merely for Plunder, required no other military Establishments than were necessary to suppress these Incursions, and preserve the Peace of the Country, and Subjection of the timid Inhabitants. By the best Accounts which can be obtained, it appears that the Standing Force of the Emperors in Bengal was only Three thousand Cavalry, which Jaffier Cawn represented as unnecessary, and procured its Reform. Jaguirs, or Assignments of Lands, were made for the Support of a Corps of Artillery and Fleet of armed Boats at Dacca, to defend that Part of the Province from the Arcanners, &c. who used to come into the Mouths of the Ganges in their Boats, and plunder the open Country. All the other Establishments were provided for by Jaguirs, as particularized in the foregoing Account; whose Tenures were partly Military for the Support of Troops, and partly Civil for the Charges of their several Offices and the necessary Servants. Nature of a Jaguir Grant was, a certain Portion of Land assigned to the Jaguirdar, either in virtue of his Office called Mushrout, or personal and for Life, called Zant, to hold on Condition of performing certain Services (expressed in the Sunnuds.) The Jaguirdars took Possession of those Lands which were usually the Waste, or least improved Part of the Zemindaries from whence they were taken. The Zemindar whose Lands they were, received Credit for them in his Rents, according to their Proportion of the general Quit Rent expressed in the Tumar and Tuksum, and the Jaguir was registered in the Government Books at the same Rate, but being improved by the Jaguirdar, usually produced to him much more than the Amount of the Register, which appeared when they were resumed and collected by Government.

Most of the other Offices mentioned in a separate List, were supported by the established Fees.

N° 6. LIST of Manufactures formerly exported from Bengal to Bombay, Surat, the Coast of Malabar, &c. now either made there, or brought from other Places.

RAW SILK. From the increased Price of this Article in Bengal, and all the principal Assortments being taken for the Company's Investment, they have been induced to send to China for it, and employ China Raw Silk in most of their Manufactures, though not so well suited to them as Bengal.

CHOPPA and MOOMEE SARRIES, being increased in their Price from 70 and 80 Rupees a Corge, to 115 and 120, and the Manufacture being debased 15 or 20 per Cent. will not now answer; and they have substituted a Manufacture of their own, called Laby Sarry, for them.

ROMALS, SISTERMANNY, and BANDANNAS, now made at Surat.

A Variety of the Sarry Kind, of which the Consumption was formerly very considerable, are totally lost, and many of these Goods are manufactured on the other Side of India to great Perfection.

MOOKTA and MUGGA SARRIES, are now manufactured on the other Side of India, as cheap and as good as those formerly exported from hence. Very large Quantities of these Goods were annually exported.

DOOREAHS, MULMULS, HUMMUMS, BAFTAES, GURRAS, and other White Goods, are now manufactured

factured at Baroche, and in many Parts of the Guzzerat Kingdom, superior in Quality to what are now produced in Bengal, but dear. As those Manufactures improve, they bid fair to supply both Gulphs with such Goods as have hitherto been only produced at Dacca.

CUTTANEES, MUSHROOS, and ELATCHES, once made a considerable Branch of Commerce to Madras, Malabar, and Bombay. Very few at present are exported, owing to their being advanced 40 or 50 per Cent. in Price, and become of an inferior Quality. Those Goods are now made about Surat, Baroche, &c. with great Success.

The Piece Goods Trade of Bengal has been ruined by the Badness of the Manufacture, and extravagant Price; and it is very probable, that in White Goods, the other Side of India may make great Strides, as Cotton comes into the Hands of their Manufacturers, 100 per Cent. cheaper than in Bengal. Many more Articles might be mentioned, which were formerly exported from Bengal, but now discontinued.

N<sup>o</sup> 7. Extract of a Letter from Mr. Becher to the President, dated 24th May 1769.

It must give Pain to an Englishman to have Reason to think, that since the Accession of the Company to the Dewannee, the Condition of the People of this Country has been worse than it was before; and yet I am afraid the Fact is undoubted; and I believe has proceeded from the following Causes: The Mode of providing the Company's Investment; the Exportation of Specie, instead of importing large Sums annually; the Strictness that has been observed in the Collections; the Endeavours of all concerned to gain Credit by an Encrease of Revenue during the Time of their being in Station, without sufficiently attending to what future Consequences might be expected from such a Measure; the Errors that subsist in the Manner of making the Collections, particularly by the Employment of Aumils: These appear to me the principal Causes why this fine Country, which flourished under the most despotic and arbitrary Government, is verging towards its Ruin, while the English have really so great a Share in the Administration.

On the Subject of the Company's Investment, I have been explicit to you in my Letter of the 7th Instant.

The Inconveniencies arising from Want of Specie, have been so fully explained by the Committee and yourself, in your Letters to the Court of Directors, that there is no Occasion for my adding to what has been wrote on that Subject.

The Strictness with which the Collections have been kept up, and the destructive Method of employing Aumils, I shall now give my Sentiments on as fully as I am able, and proceed to point out the Remedies that appear to me necessary and practicable in the present Situation of Affairs.

In Aliverdy Cawn's Time, the Amount of the Revenues paid into the Treasury was much less than what comes in at present; but then the Zemindars, Shroffs, Merchants, &c. were rich, and would at any Time when an Emergency required it, supply the Nabob with a large Sum, which they frequently did, particularly when he was at War with the Marattas; the Custom then was, to settle a Mulguzarry with the different Zemindars, on moderate Terms. The Nabob abided by his Agreement: The Zemindars had a natural Interest in their Districts, and gave proper Encouragement to their Ryots; when necessary, would wait for their Rents, and borrow Money to pay their own Mulguzarry punctually. There were in all the Districts Shroffs ready to lend Money to the Zemindars when required, and even to the Ryots, which enabled many to cultivate their Grounds, which otherwise they could not have done. This Mode of Collection, and a Free Trade, which was carried on in such a Manner that the Balance proved greatly in its Favour, made this Country flourish even under an arbitrary Government; and at a Time when a large Tract of it was for Years together annually invaded by the Marattas, who burned and destroyed all they could come at; the poor Inhabitants flying for Shelter to the principal Cities, European Factories, &c. The Swelling of the Rivers at the Approach of the Rains, always obliged the Marattas to retire, and the Inhabitants were again secure till January. They having Encouragement, set immediately to work, and endeavoured to get their Crops in and sent to Market before the Time returned for the apprehended Invasion; inasmuch, that even under such Circumstances the Country was in a flourishing State, and the Zemindars, &c. able to pay the Nabob his Requisition (Account his extraordinary Expence in keeping so large an Army to oppose the Marattas) the enormous Sum of One Crore at one Time, and Fifty Lacks at another, besides paying the Mulguzarry. I mention this with a View of shewing, what this fine Country is capable of under proper Management.

When the English received the Grant of the Dewanny, their First Consideration seems to have been their raising as large Sums from the Country as could be collected, to answer the pressing Demands from Home, and to defray the large Expences here. The Zemindars not being able or willing to pay the Sums required, Aumils have been sent into most of the Districts. The Aumils on their Appointment agree with the Ministers to pay a fixed Sum for the Districts they are to go to, and the Man that has offered most has generally been preferred. What a destructive System is this for the poor Inhabitants! The Aumils have no Connection or natural Interest in the Welfare of the Country where they make the Collections, nor have they any Certainty of holding their Places beyond the Year; the best Recommendation they can have, is to pay up their Kistbundies punctually, to which Purpose they fail not to rack the Country where they make the Collections, whenever they find they cannot otherwise pay their Kists and secure a handsome Sum for themselves. Uncertain in their Office, and without Opportunity of acquiring Money after their Dismission, can it be doubted that the future Welfare of the Country is not an Object with them? nor is it to be expected in Human Nature. These Aumils also have no Check on them during the Time of their Employment; they appoint those that act under them, so that during the Time of the Year's Collection their Power is absolute; there is no fixed Hustabood by which they are to collect, nor any Likelihood of Complaint, till the poor Ryot is really drove to the Necessity by having more demanded of him than he can possibly pay. Much these poor Wretches will bear, rather than quit their Habitations to come here to complain, especially when it is considered that it must always be attended with Loss of Time, Risk of obtaining Redress, and a Certainty of being very ill used, should the Aumil's Influence be sufficient to prevent the poor Man's obtaining Justice, or even Access to those able to grant it him. On this destructive Plan, and with a continual Demand for more Revenue, have the Collections been made ever since the English have been in Possession of the Dewannee. Many other Errors might be taken Notice of, but I am afraid of tiring your Patience; and I hope what I have represented will convince you of the Necessity of Alterations in the Plan of collecting the Revenues, as well as that of providing the Company's Investment.

You will observe, Sir, the Bundibust settled every Season has exceeded the Collections by many Lacks; and that, of what remained as a Balance very little has been recovered; so that in Reality the Settlement is merely chimerical. I would refer it to your Consideration, whether it would not be better to settle the Bundibust at a lower Rate, equal to what has been paid into the Treasury in any One Season since we have been in Possession of the Dewannee? Such a Settlement would, I apprehend, enable us to make an Abatement for the Relief of the Inhabitants in some particular Tax which bears hard on them; and at the same Time, by proper Checks and constant Attention to the Conduct of those employed in making the Collections, to prevent their Frauds. I am of Opinion, the Company would receive a larger real Income from this Country than they have hitherto done, at the same Time that the Country would flourish.

N° 8. Extracts of Letters from Messrs. Middleton, Vansittart, Dacres, and Barwell.

5 February
1775.
Mr. Middleton.

It is too melancholy a Truth that the whole Country suffered a very dreadful Depopulation in the Time of the Famine, and that the present Thinness of the Inhabitants manifests very clearly that the Effects of that Calamity still remain.

I had the proper Measures been pursued after that Event, probably the Effects of it might by this Time have been felt in a much less considerable Degree; but too much Regard having been then and thereafter paid to the realizing as considerable a present Revenue as possible, those Effects have of course continued aggravating.

When a very considerable Portion, supposed even a Third, of the whole Inhabitants had perished, the remaining Two Thirds were obliged to pay for the Lands now left without Cultivators. The Country has languished ever since, and the Evil continues enhancing every Day.

The Settlement made of the Rajeshahie Province was unavoidably arbitrary; they were obliged to have Recourse to the Settlements of former Years, and did not take into Consideration that those Settlements were merely nominal.

The first Remedy, without the Adoption of which all other Measures will be fruitless, is a universal Remission of some considerable Portion of the Revenue throughout the Provinces. Such Remission should have been made immediately on the Famine; its not taking place then, has made it more and more necessary every Day, and the longer it is delayed, the more ruinous the Consequences must be to this Country, and its Revenue.

I would also recommend the leaving the Lands whenever it can possibly be done with Security to Government, in the Zemindars Hands, in Preference to indifferent Izadars, although the latter may bid more for the Farms.

10 February
1775.
Mr. Dacres.
Mahomedally.

To grant a Remission in the Rents, is a Measure which I have to recommend, to remedy the general Decline of the Revenue.

I believe the Amount of the Settlement exceeds the Ability of the District, and if the Farmer was not a responsible Man, would, I apprehend, fall greatly in Arrears. The common Distresses attendant on the Famine, are again to be quoted as the Cause of its Decay.

Nuddca.

Of that I am necessitated to give a still more unfavourable Account than of any yet mentioned. The apparent Decline of the Revenue (in general) is to be attributed to many Causes; the First and most material is, the Havock which the Famine made among the Inhabitants, and which was consequently attended with a Decrease in the Cultivation; the Lands have been taken in Farm at a Rent exceeding their Ability; the Farmers, to fulfil their Engagements, have realized from the Husbandman, a larger Rent than he has been able to afford. Under this Hardship, to forsake his Profession and his Country, has been the easiest and speediest Means of Relief.

To

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 14.

To remedy these Evils, and to restore the Country to a flourishing State, there is but one effectual Method; grant the Ryots a total Remission of the Taxes, which have been accumulating on their Payments for these last 15 or 20 Years past, let a Settlement be then made with the Zemindars, fixing the Rent to Perpetuity, and trust to a Sale of their Property as a Security for their Payments.

I attribute the Collections falling short of the Settlement, to the Settlements having in some Places been over-rated, and in almost every Place fixed as high as could be afforded in a favourable Season, so that every extraordinary Accident unavoidably occasioned Deductions or Balances.

20 January
1775. Mr. G.
Vansittart.

This regard as the general Cause throughout the Bengal Province. I apprehend there is no immediate Remedy, no Possibility of realizing the Settlement, unless by reducing it to the actual Value of the Lands.

The Five Years Settlement of Burdwan could not have been realized, even if the Seasons had been constantly favourable. Burdwan.

The Settlement of Midnapoor, although the Encrease has been very heavy, may, I think, be realized if the Season be favourable; but every extraordinary Accident must occasion Deficiencies. Midnapoor.

The Beerbhoom Settlement was over-rated, and could not have been realized in the most favourable Seasons. Beerbhoom.

The Bishunpoor Settlement was also over-rated, but not very much; the Farmers relinquished at the Beginning of this Year. Bishunpoor.

Patcheat was as much over-rated as Beerbhoom.

Patcheat.

No one, I believe, will assert, that Bengal is in as flourishing a State at present, as in the Year 1757, when first we acquired an Influence; its Decline arises from the Decay of Commerce, the Accum of Specie, and the Loss of Inhabitants.

The Reduction of the Ryot's Rents to the Standard of what they paid 20 Years ago, and the letting out the Country on fixed and easy Leases for Life, would probably be very useful.

Mr. Barwell, speaking of the Over-valuation of Patcheat and Bishunpoor, observes, that this has been an extensive Evil, and he flatters himself that the Error of past Times, grounded on a Desire to obtain the highest possible Revenue, will not be persevered in in the present, since we have the Experience of others to regulate us, and to prevent our falling into the same Mistakes. He says, that in almost all the Divisions in Bengal the Lands were over-rated, and many of the Renters ruined.

N<sup>o</sup> 10. REMARKS on the ESTIMATE.

SERVICES to be provided for

1. Army.—This Sum is the Amount of General Clavering's Estimate, entered on the Consultations of the 13th of March 1775, which provides for the whole Pay and Allowances of the Army at present kept up, with every established contingent Expence, and supposes One Brigade to be constantly maintained on the War Establishment.

In Addition to the ample Provision made for the established Pay and Allowances of the Army, I allow Rupees 26,65,000 for Military Stores and all extraordinary unforeseen Expences. From the whole Charge for the Army I should have a Right to deduct the Pay of One Brigade, borne by the Nabob of Oude, amounting to Rupees 31,20,000 per Annum, and the annual Saving of the fixed Pay and Allowances of Officers lately appointed to his Service, amounting to Current Rupees 1,08,131. There is no Likelihood that either they or the Brigade will be withdrawn from thence for many Years. The Saving on these Articles, which ought to remain in the Treasury, and be a Resource against Emergencies, is very great, and, strictly, I might take Credit for it; but I mean to make the Estimate so liberal, as to obviate all Cavils or Objections. The Estimate for 1775, formed by the Accountant General, allows but 82 Lacks for the same Services for which the present Estimate allows 94,29,264. The Sum ought greatly to exceed the real Expence: If it is not equal to it, the Overcharge must be attributed to such gross and extravagant Abuse, as no Government ought to submit to.

2. Fortifications.—The exact Sum limited by the Company for this Service, and all Repairs, reckoning the Current Rupee at Two Shillings.

3. Investment, &c.—This Sum supposes the Provision of Cargoes for Six Ships, at Fourteen Lacks and a Half of Current Rupees per Ship, and of Five Lacks Eight thousand Rupees for all Expences of Factories, and other Commercial Charges.—N. B. The Company's general Allowances of House Rent and Salaries to the different Ranks of their Servants (except those of the Members of the Board of Trade) are provided for under the Head of the General Department. The Accountant's Estimate proposed but Eighty Lacks of Current Rupees for the Investment. The Company will judge whether the Sum of 92,80,000, now allowed for all Charges on this Head, would not, if fairly applied, produce them as great an Investment as it would be prudent to demand, or reasonable to expect, consistently with the Welfare of the Country; on which the permanent Duration of this great Tribute must depend.

4. Marine.—This Sum is the Average of the estimated Expence of the Marine for the ensuing Ten Years. It is formed by the Marine Paymaster, and is very liberal.

5. Remittances to the other Presidencies.—The Extraction of Twenty Lacks of Rupees per Annum, added to the Sums constantly sent to Europe, is a Drain on these Provinces, which they are by no Means able to bear. The Allowance therefore on this Head must in my Opinion be reduced.

6. Civil Establishment.—The Three Sums which compose the Total for this Service, are taken from the actual Expence estimated by the proper Officers in each Department. The real Charge in the Revenue Department will soon be reduced considerably below the Sum allowed for it. Juggut Seet's Pension of 1,21,800 Current Rupees, will be paid off in April 1777, therefore, strictly, ought not to be a Charge in my Estimate. Atteram o' Dowla is very old, and Roah-ul-Deen Hussein Cawn very infirm; their Pensions, therefore, amounting to Current Rupees 1,56,888, may be expected to fall in, in a few Years: This shews a Certainty of increasing Resources, and is so much in Favour of the present Estimate.

7. Lord Clive's Jaghire.—The Amount of this Article will be a Saving at the End of the Term for which it is granted, and increase the available Surplus in the Treasury.

R E S O U R C E S.

Territorial Revenue.—The Amount in each Article is the Average of the Three last Years Nett Receipts into the Khalsa (ending in April 1775) including the Government Customs and Salt Duties; which last will of Course increase when the Trade shall be laid open. From the Total, I deduct a general Remission of Ten per Cent. as a Relief to the People; and on this I rest the Saving of the Country. The Distribution will depend on the respective Circumstances of each District. The great Surplus still remaining, leaves no Pretence for not granting it. The Salary of the Roy Royan and Officers of the Khalsa, together with the Expences of the several Revenue Officers at the Presidency, are charged and provided for under the Head of the Revenue Department in the Civil Establishment. The Nett Receipts into the Khalsa on which this Estimate is founded, are exclusive of the Payment of Charges of Collections in the Districts, Salaries to the Provincial Councils, &c. As these Charges will be rather diminished by the present Plan, I conceive the Amount of the Establishment now existing will be an ample Provision for them: This, of course, when regulated, must be added to the Assesment on each District, as it is at present.

2. Tribute from Rajab Cheyt Sing—The Allowance of One and an Half per Cent. being made for the Expence of Remittance, the Remainder will come nett into the Treasury.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 14.

3. Duties on Opium.—I calculate the whole Quantity of Opium on which Duties are to be collected, at no more than 3,000 Chests, of Two Maunds each, at the Rate of 30 Rupees per Maund. The present Contractors have engaged to deliver 3,980 Chests; and when the Trade is laid open, it is probable the Produce will increase.

4. Calcutta Customs.—A Medium of the Three last Years Nett Receipts, all Charges deducted.

5. Bills on Europe.—This is the Sum to which the Court of Directors have limited this Presidency for the Two last Years.

6. Cargoes from Europe.—This is rather less than the usual Amount of the Annual Produce. The Demand for European Commodities, particularly coarse Cloth, is likely to increase.

7. Mint Duties.—The same Sum for which Credit is taken by the Accountants General in their Estimate.

8. Certificates.—This is calculated at the Rate of £.5,000 sterling for each Ship.

With regard to the unappropriated Surplus, amounting to Current Rupees 37,99,043. 15. I need only observe, that it promises to be an increasing Fund, and that of itself it constitutes as great a Resource against unforeseen Emergencies as any State need or ought to reserve for that Purpose. Far from endeavouring to increase this Fund, I conceive, that when One Year's clear Amount of it shall be realized in the Treasury, a proportionate Remission should in future be made in the Collections; otherwise the accumulating Surplus would by Degrees absorb all the circulating Specie of the Country.

Fort William, 12th March 1776.

Sir,

As the Property of the Zemindars in their respective Lands, though never doubted or disputed in Bengal, may possibly be the Subject of a Question in England, and as the just Decision of this Question is of great Importance to any future Settlement of the Country, I have thought it necessary to support the Right of the Zemindars by some farther Proofs, in Addition to those which I have already submitted to the Honourable Court of Directors in my Address by the Hillsborough.

In order to make the Argument complete on this Subject, I must request that you will obtain their Permission to substitute the inclosed Paper in the Place of the Note on the First Page of the Plan.

I am,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

P. Francis.

East India House,
London.

N O T E.

The inheritable Quality of the Lands is alone sufficient to prove that they are the Property of the Zemindars.

The Right of the Sovereign is founded on Conquest, by which he succeeds only to the State of the conquered Prince, unless in the first Instance he resolves to appropriate or transfer all private Property by an Act of Power in virtue of his Conquest. So barbarous an Idea is equally inconsistent with the Manners and Policy of the British Nation. When the Moguls conquered Bengal, there is no Mention in any historical Account that they dispossessed the Zemindars of their Lands; though it is frequently observed, that where they voluntarily came in and submitted to the new Government, they were received with Marks of Honour, and that Means were used to gain and secure their Attachment.

Only Two Motives could have induced the Conqueror to such an Act of Violence as changing the Property of the Lands; Favour, or Money: In the first Case, his Followers and the Companions of his Victory would have been most likely to obtain Possession of the Lands, and some Traces of their Descendants would be found at present.

If Money had been his Object, the Mussulmen Historians would have made mention of the Sum so acquired, as they carefully and pompously mention the Value of all Acquisitions made by their Kings or Generals. It is true, the Forms of the Royal Sunnuds, or Grants to the Zemindars, suppose them to hold of the Sovereign in Capite; but this I consider as a Kind of Feodal Fiction, of which the Sovereign in fact never pretended to avail himself, as constituting a Right to resume or transfer the Possession. When he grants Jaguirs or Lands for religious Purposes, his Order is addressed to the Zemindars, Chowderies, and Talookdars; the Land continues to be deemed a Part of the Zemindary, the Sovereign only grants the Rents of it; the Grantee or Jagheerdar never calls it his Zemindary or Talookdarry.

In addition to this Evidence, it is material to observe, that the late Administration, who either dispossessed most of the Zemindars of the Management of the Lands, or took no Measures to restore them, constantly describe them as the Hereditary Proprietors; and upon this Principle allowed them a Pension or Tythe of the Gross Produce for their Support.

The Conclusion to be drawn from the preceding Facts, is supported by the direct Authority of those Persons who by their Offices here must be supposed to have a perfect Knowledge of the Laws and Customs of Indostan, and of the established Policy of the Mahomedan Government. The Roy Royan and Canongoes are competent Judges of the Custom of the Country, and of the Usage of the former Government: The Pundits are the Expounders of the Hindoo Law; Mahomed Reza Cawn, Naib Suba of Bengal, is appealed to for the Law of the Coran and the Policy of the Mogul Conquerors; and Rajah Shitabroy, Naib of Patna, proves the Custom of the Bahar. These Persons were directed by the late President and Council, in April 1773, to furnish the Board with Answers to certain Questions severally proposed to them, concerning the Inheritance of Zemindars. As their Opinions concur, and leave no Room for any farther Question on the Subject, it may be useful to state them in this Place.

Fort William, 6th April 1773.

The Decision of the Right of the Succession depending upon the Laws of the Cast or Usages of the Country, which may occur in many other Instances of the like Nature;

Resolved, That the following general Questions be put to the Roy Royan and Canongoes, to be by them resolved according to the Usage of the Country Government of Bengal; and to the Pundits, who have been assembled for the Purpose of preparing an Abstract of the Hindoo Laws, to be by them resolved according to the Laws of the Gentooes.

1. Whether lineal Descent conveys an absolute Right to the Succession, independant of Government, or whether an Act of Government is necessary to establish that Right?
2. Whether Succession to Zemindaries is valid in the Female Line?
3. Suppose the elder Branch to have passed through Four successive Generations, and become extinct, and the Fourth in Descent from the Second Branch to be living, has the Survivor of the Second Branch, who has no Possession, a Right by the Laws of the Shastah, or by the Usages of Bengal, to succeed to the Zemindary vacant by the Extinction of the elder Line; or does it revert to Government?
4. Through how many Generations does the Line of Succession to Inheritance of Zemindaries extend without Possession, and when does the Right revert to Government?

Fort William, 27th April 1773.

The Superintendant of the Khalsa delivers in to the Board Two Copies of the Questions proposed in Consultation of the 6th Instant, with separate Answers to each from the Roy Royan and other Officers of the Khalsa to one Copy, and from the Pundits, to whom they were referred, to the other Copy.

Answer from the Roy Royan and Canongoes.

1. After the Death of a Zemindar the Zemindary devolves to his Son, although the Country belongs to the King, and may indeed give it to whom he pleases; but it is neither conformable to the Justice nor the Custom of the Country, that he give it to any other. In case the deceased Zemindar has left a Son, the Son has a Right to take Possession of his Father's Zemindary; but it is usual for the Son of a Zemindar, after his Father's Death, to repair to the Presence, and present a Niezzar to the King, that a new Sunnud may be made out in his Name; for until he can produce a Sunnud, the Mutfuddies and other Officers of the Sircar will not acknowledge him as Zemindar, therefore it is necessary that he should produce a Sunnud.
2. A Daughter does not succeed her Father in the Zemindary during the Life-time of her Mother, unless the Father has expressly appointed her (in his Will) to be his Heiress; but she takes Possession before either her Father's Brother, or her Father's Brother's Son. It is necessary that she should obtain a Sunnud, which is customary for the King to grant. She cannot of herself take Possession of the Zemindary.
3. If the Zemindar leaves behind him Two Sons, the Descendants of the Youngest, in case the Family of the Eldest is extinct, become entitled to the Zemindary, provided the last of the Family of the Eldest appointed them his Heirs by Will; otherwise the King may indeed grant it to them as a Favour, but is at Liberty either to keep it himself, or confer it on whomsoever he pleases.
4. Dispossession is by many different Ways. Should any Zemindar die during the Minority of his Son, and none of his Agents are of sufficient Credit to repair to the King's Presence, to give Security for the Malguzary and obtain Sunnuds; and should any of the Zemindar's Copartners, or any one else, either by his Intrigues at Court have obtained a Sunnud and acquired Possession of the Zemindary, or been invested in it by virtue of the King's Authority, without any apparent Fault on the Part of the deceased Zemindar's Sons; or in case those Sons should die without ever having had Possession of the Zemindary, and a Grandson of the Zemindar should claim the Zemindary; he will in those Cases be entitled to it both by the Laws of Equity and Right of Inheritance. Should the Zemindar's Son not have been able to discharge the Revenue, or have otherwise offended against his Majesty, in that Case it is his Majesty's Prerogative to dispose of it to whomsoever he pleases. If after the Zemindar's Decease, none of his Sons or Grandsons should ever have been in Possession of the Zemindary, it in that Case devolves to the King.

Answer

Answer from the Pundits.

1. Upon the Death of a Zemindar the Ground belongs to his Son, as also all his other Effects, Whether or not the King's Sunnud is necessary to put him in Possession, is not written in the Shafter.
2. Should this Zemindar have neither Son, nor Wife, nor Grandson, nor Great Grandson, his Daughter will enjoy the Zemindarry.
3. The Descendants of the younger Brother, according to the Shafter, will succeed to the Zemindarry.
4. While there remain any Sons or other Descendants or Heirs, the Zemindarry will not fall to the Government; where there are no Heirs then it will fall.

From Mahomed Reza Cawn.

Answer to Question 1st.

According to the Law of the Coran, a Son has a Right to succeed his Father in a Zemindarry, independantly of any Sunnud from the King; nor is it in the King's Power to dispose of it as he pleases, his Right only extends to the receiving of its established Revenue.

Answer to Question 2d.

In Case of there being no other Heir, a Daughter is, agreeably to the Law of the Coran, Heiress to the whole of her Father's Estate, and can take Possession of the Zemindarry left by her Father; but should there be other Heirs, she has then only a Right to share, as decreed in the Holy Scriptures.

Answer to Question 3d.

In the Cases proposed in this Question, the Descendants of the younger Brother, as far as his Grandson's Grandson, when neither he nor they had Possession of the Zemindarry, are, according to the Laws of the Coran, entitled to it; nor does the King's Right extend farther than over its established Rents.

Answer to Question 4th.

So long as there are any Heirs of the Zemindar remaining, even should they not have been in Possession of the Zemindarry for many Generations, the Zemindarry does not become the Property of the King; nor has he, agreeably to the Laws of the Koran, any Right over it, further than the receiving of its established Rents.

Answer from Shitabroy.

For Bahar.

Answer 1st.—When a Zemindar dies, his Son succeeds to the Zemindarry, according to the Custom of the Soubah of Bahar, but the King is entitled to the Revenue of it. The great Zemindars, for the Sake of the greater Security, receive a Sunnud from the King; the King never grants one but to the lawful Heir. In case the Heir is not able to pay the Revenue, he may sell the Zemindarry, which becomes the Right of the Buyer, but it is necessary that he should receive a Sunnud.

Answer the 2d.—A Daughter can inherit the Zemindarry, provided her Father bought it and put her in Possession, with the Testimony of his Relations, before his Death. If the Zemindarry descended to him from his Ancestors, it becomes the Property of their Descendants, and not of his Daughter. If there are no such Descendants, it is then the Right of the Daughter.

Answer 3d.—If none of the eldest Brother's Line is living, and the Zemindarry descended from the late Zemindar's Ancestors, it is the Right of the Descendants of the younger Brother. If the late Zemindar himself bought it, and during his Life-time appointed no Heir, it doubtless devolves to the King.

Answer 4th.—In case after a Zemindar's Death his Sons happened to obtain Possession of it, when they afterwards appear and claim it, and are ready to pay the Revenue, the King's Officers, considering their Hereditary Right, will give them Possession, even after some Generations. The Revenue belongs to the King, but the Land to the Zemindar.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S NEW OFFICE.

Extract of the Governor General's Minute, in the Secret Consultation of the 7th of December 1775, in Reply to the Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and Mr. Francis, dated 18th October 1775.

Messrs. Clavering, Monson, and Francis's Minute.

Mr. Hastings's Reply:

EVERY Member of this Board must know and believe, that no Man feels it more sensibly than the Governor General himself, that since the Transfer of the Lands from the original Owners to the present Farmer, and since the Abolition of the local Jurisdictions exercised by the Zemindars in their respective Zemindaries, which followed that Transfer, the internal Government of the Country has fallen into a most alarming State of Confusion.

By the Constitution of Bengal the Zemindar presided in the Criminal Court of his District, pronounced and executed Sentence on all Offences less than Capital, and was answerable to the Nazim for the Peace and good Order of the Country, as far as his Jurisdiction extended. An Institution of this Nature might undoubtedly be liable to Abuses; but it was conformable to the Manners and Prejudices of the People, who looked to their Chiefs alone for Justice and Protection: It made an essential Part of the Constitution of the Country, and could not be abolished without breaking that regular Chain of Subordination and Dependances, by which the Government and the People were united in One Political Body.

I CANNOT subscribe to the Opinion which is quoted as mine in this Paragraph: In the Plan which I delivered in to the late Board of Revenue, on the 19th of April 1774, and to which I suppose it alludes, I mentioned, as one Cause of the Increase of Robbers, "the Removal of that Claim which the Public, by immemorial Usage, before possessed, to the Restitution of all Damages and Losses sustained, by the Zemindars of the Country." It was not "the Abolition of the local Jurisdiction exercised by the Zemindars;" but of the Disuse of the Penalty, to which I in Part attributed those Disorders. The Farmers possessed the same Power which the Zemindars had exercised before, but the Penalty was not exacted from them, because, as I have stated it in the same Minute, it would have fallen ultimately on the Government itself; and so it would if the Zemindars had been left in Possession, and the Penalty exacted from them, unless such a Share of the Rents had been allowed them, as was retained by the Zemindars when they held their Lands in a less Degree of Dependence on the Government; which has not been the Case for many Years before I returned to this Country, or even before the Acquisition of the Dewanny.

The Nature of the Jurisdiction which the Constitution of Bengal allowed to the Zemindars, as it is explained in the opposite Paragraph, differs very widely from the Idea which I have always entertained of it. I venture to pronounce with Confidence, that "by the Constitution of Bengal the Zemindar neither presided in the Criminal Court of his District, nor pronounced nor executed Sentence on all Offences less than Capital;" nor on any Offences whatever, except the Non-payment of the Rents. "He was answerable, it is true, for the Peace and good Order of the Country, as far as his Jurisdiction extended;" but only as the subordinate Instrument of a larger System. The Land Servants, or the ancient Militia of the Country, were under his immediate Charge, and being distributed throughout the Zemindary, enabled the Zemindar both to watch over its internal Quiet, and to obtain Information of whatever passed in any Part of it; and so far the Foujedary Jurisdiction is inherent in the Zemindar. In the Exercise of it he was subject to a Foujedar, who had the Superintendence of a District comprehending many Zemindaries; and had the Tannahs or inferior Stations under the Charge of Officers and armed Men, dependant on him, besides a Part of the Land Servants of each Zemindary, the rest being employed to guard the Villages, and enforce the Collections.

It was the Zemindar's Duty to give constant Intelligence to the Nabob through the Roy Royan, and to assist the Foujedar in the Apprehension of Robbers, and in executing the Measures which were required of him for preserving the Peace of the Country; but this Duty first and immediately belonged to the Foujedar, who was the Representative of the Nizam, and "to him the People looked up for Justice and

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

“ Protection, even against their Chiefs.” The Foujedar was the Check even upon the Zemindars, who were often, and those of the Dacca Districts always, the Patrons and Abettors of Decoits, whose Haunts and Practices it was their especial Duty to detect. In Effect, the Law or Custom which made the Zemindar responsible for all Robberies committed in his District, whatever might have been the Purpose of its original Institution, operated, and was regarded under the Mahomedan Government, rather as a Punishment for Connivance, than a Fine for Neglects. Many Instances may be quoted of Zemindars who exercised other Powers, and particularly in the oppressive Custom which they had assumed, of levying unlimited Fines from their Ryots, on Accusations of Fornication, and a Variety of other Pretences: Such is the Case in all despotic Governments, especially in those which have undergone frequent Revolutions; but I believe, and I have Authority for believing, that the constitutional Powers of which the general Police of Bengal was composed, will be found to have been exactly as I have described them. The Abuses which were exercised by the Zemindars, and others in Authority, are enumerated, among other Evils, by the Committee of Circuit, in a Letter to the Board, dated the 15th August 1772, in these Words, “ The Zemindars, Farmers, Sheidars, and other Officers of the Revenue, assuming that Power, for which no Provision is made by the Law of the Land, &c.” This is a clear Demonstration that the Zemindars were at that Time regarded by myself and by the Committee of Circuit, as possessing no Right to exercise a judicial Authority; and being written on an Occasion on which we could not be suspected of any Bias, will be admitted by every candid Judge, as a Proof that the Zemindars really did not possess that Right. The Zemindar of Burdwan was allowed the Exercise of a Foujedarry Jurisdiction by a special Sunnud from the Nazim; I believe there is not another Instance, and this is rather a Proof of the Existence of the System which I have described, than an Exception to it, otherwise an especial Sunnud would have been unnecessary.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 1st November 1776.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute :

Governor General—In whatever Manner it may be hereafter determined to form the new Settlement of the Provinces after the Expiration of the present Leases, it will be equally necessary to be previously furnished with the accurate States of the real Value of the Lands, as the Grounds on which it is constructed. To obtain these, will be the Work of much official Knowledge, some Management, and unremitting Labour in compiling and collecting the Accounts of the past Collections, in digesting the Materials which may be furnished by the Provincial Councils and Dewans, in issuing Orders for special Accounts and other Materials of Information, and in deputing Native Officers on occasional Investigations.

It is impossible for the Board to conduct a Business of such Detail, neither can it be left wholly to the Provincial Councils: It requires Uniformity in the Design, Authority in the Execution, and an extraordinary Share of Responsibility, to animate the Zeal of those who are entrusted with the Charge of it.

I therefore propose, that a temporary Office be constituted to execute this Business, under the Conduct of One or Two Covenanted Servants of the Company, assisted by a Dewan and other Officers, either selected from the Offices of the Khalsa, or occasionally chosen for special Commissions; that for the Sake of Dispatch, all Orders issued from this Office, for the Execution of such particular Services as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board, be written in the Name of the Governor General, and the Controul of it be committed to his immediate Charge.

Besides the immediate Duty of this Office, which I have above described, and which I suppose to be indispensably necessary and essential to the Formation of an equal Settlement, many other Points of Enquiry will be also useful, to secure to the Ryots the perpetual and undisturbed Possession of their Lands, and to guard them against arbitrary Exactions. This is not to be done by Proclamations and Edicts, nor by Indulgences to the Zemindars and Farmers. The Farmer will not be obeyed, unless enforced by Regulations so framed as to produce their own Effect without requiring the Hand of Government to interpose its Support; and the latter, though it may feed the Luxury of the Zemindars, or the Rapacity of the Farmers, will prove no Relief to the Cultivator, whose Welfare ought to be the immediate and primary Care of Government.

The Design of establishing new Pottahs for the Ryots, the Failure of which has been often objected to as a Reproach on the late Administration, has been tried with equal ill Success by the present, in their late Settlement of Burdwan; where, notwithstanding the solemn Engagement of the Zemindars, and the peremptory Injunctions of Government, not a Pottah has yet been granted (if my Information is true, and it may be easily proved) nor will be granted, of a different Tenure from those which have been customary for some Years past, unless more regular Means are taken to produce them. Future Effects may be concluded from such simple Causes without the Spirit of Prophecy. It is the Zemindar's Interest to exact the greatest Rent he can from the Ryots; and it is as much against his Interest to fix the Deeds by which the Ryots hold their Lands and pay their Rents, to certain Bounds and Defences against his own Authority. The Foundation of such a Work must be laid by Government itself: All that I would here propose is, to collect the Materials for it, by obtaining Copies of the present Pottahs, and of the Nerie Bundee, or Rates of Land, by which they are regulated in each District, and every other Information which may throw a Light on this Subject, and enable the Board hereafter to establish a more permanent and regular Mode of Taxation.

Ordered, That it do lie for Consideration.

[ Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 5th November 1776.

Mr. Francis delivers in the following Minute in Reply to the Governor General's, entered on the close of last Day's Proceedings.

Mr. Francis—I have considered the Governor General's Proposal for the Institution of a new Office in the Revenue Department, for the Purposes therein described, with the strictest Attention, and with every Disposition which the Governor himself could wish to impress upon me, to co-operate with him in the Plan and Execution of the ensuing Settlement. I deem it my Duty, in the first Instance, to deliver my Sentiments freely on every Measure which has Relation to this important Subject; in the next, to assist even in the Conduct of Arrangements which I may not approve, and to promote their Success when once they are resolved on; in this Respect my Conduct, after a Resolution taken, will not be affected by the Opinion I may express in the previous Debate. The Governor has been long acquainted with my general Opinion on the Subject of a permanent Settlement, and I persuade myself will not attribute my Disapprobation of the Proposal now before me, to any other Motive but those which I profess.

If nothing else were in question but the Institution of a temporary Office for the Dispatch of a voluminous and intricate Business, to collect and methodize confused Materials, and to make Enquiries, or to issue Orders purely of Detail, in the Name of the Governor, under the general Sanction of the Board, I should yield to it without Difficulty, whether convinced or not of the Utility of the Institution. The Person on whom the principal Share of Responsibility will fall, ought to be assisted in that Way in which he may chiefly think he wants Assistance.

My Objections go to the avowed or implied Principles of the Plan, in the Formation of which the new Office is to be employed. I collect the Principles of the Governor's Plan from the Enquiries he intends to make; the Nature of the Information he proposes to obtain, suggests to me the only Purpose to which it can be applied; it is possible however that I may be mistaken in both Instances.

First proposed Object, “To be previously furnished with accurate States of the Value of the Lands, and these to be obtained from the Accounts of the past Collections, from Materials furnished by the Provincial Councils, from special Accounts, and other Materials of Information, and by deputing native Officers on occasional Investigation.”

I would first ask, What is the Purpose of this accurate Valuation of the Lands? Is it meant to exact from the People the utmost Revenue they can possibly pay? Or shall we content ourselves, once for all, with such a Revenue as the Services of Government, constituted as it is at present, indispensably require?

If the First was a just or attainable Object, it ought to have been effected by the Committee of Circuit's Settlement. The Lands were let to the highest Bidders, without any other Consideration, for the avowed Purpose of ascertaining the utmost Revenue which Government could obtain from them: The actual Collections made on this Plan ought therefore to be admitted as the Test of what the Country upon the Whole will pay. In this Sense I am convinced it will prove too much, because no fair Conclusion can be drawn from a temporary Rack Rent to a permanent Revenue.

If at this Time any more particular Informations are necessary, I wish to know of what Nature they are, and from what Sources they are to be procured? Will the Farmers, or any of their Agents, furnish us with Accounts of their actual Collections? That is, will they make us acquainted with the Profits, merely because we ask them; especially after all of them have applied for Remissions, and many have obtained them? Hitherto their Communications to Government exhibit nothing but

Loss,

Loss, Deficiency, Balances, and the Necessity of Remissions: If they give us any Mofussil Accounts whatsoever, we may be assured that such Accounts will be falsified. Neither can we expect more credible Information from the Zemindars, whom we have dispossessed of the Management of their Lands, and removed from any Concern in the Collections; or whom we have reduced to the Condition of Farmers, and of course obliged to act upon the same Principles: These are the very last People from whom, in their present Circumstances, we have any Right to expect Assistance. A System of Taxation, which avowedly aims, or is supposed to aim, at raising the greatest possible Revenue, is in its Nature hostile to every Species of private Property, and tends to make every Proprietor an Enemy to Government. To such a System the People of this Country have nothing to oppose, but a Concealment of whatever Means or Fortune they have left. This is their only and last Defence, and this it is supposed will be given up without Difficulty, upon the first Attempt of Government to penetrate through it.

But perhaps it is meant to obtain the proposed Accounts from the Ryots themselves. In that Case some Millions of the lowest Order of the People are to be separately asked, what each of them has paid in any given Period to the Farmer or Collector immediately above him; and Government must not only confide in the Truth of his Answer, but in the Exactness of the Report of it. Now I apprehend it is not the Interest of the Ryot to speak the Truth in any Case. In answer to such an Enquiry, if he supposes it made for the Purpose of giving him Relief, he will exaggerate his Distresses, and the Oppression he labours under. But as his Experience is not likely to suggest that Idea to him, and as Diffidence, Distrust in Government, and Fear of any Alteration, is the first Principle of Action with the Natives of all Ranks, he will probably suspect that the Enquiry is not made for his Benefit, but either with a View to load him with new Taxes, or to continue him at the utmost Rate he has ever paid; in this Case he will sink the Amount of his actual Payments, lest what he is able to pay in future should be determined by what he has paid heretofore.

Let it be supposed, nevertheless, that by some Means or other all Difficulties are overcome, and that we are in Possession of exact Copies of the Accounts of the Mofussil Collections; I then wish the Board to consider what an enormous Mass of loose, confused, and intricate Bengally Accounts will be thrown upon our Hands; out of which Two of the Company's Servants, with the Assistance of a few Native Officers, are to draw clear, distinct Abstracts of the actual Collections of every Village in the Three Provinces: All this must be done some Time before April next; and Government is to be so well assured of the Accuracy of the Account, that we may safely make it the Foundation of our Settlement. The complex Idea which the whole Operation gives me, is a Union of Confusion and Impossibility, through which I am confident no human Penetration can find its Way.

In considering the Object of the proposed accurate Valuation of the Lands, supposing it attainable, it appears to me that it would be useless, except for the single Purpose of levying the greatest possible Revenue. The Valuation could only be true at one given Point of Time. The proportionate Value of Lands fluctuates in all Countries, according to the immediate Industry or Ability of the Owners: In this Country more particularly it depends on Accidents of Droughts, Inundation, or favourable Season, of which no general Calculation can be formed. But this Object I hope and believe is not in Contemplation. An Attempt to annihilate all intermediate Profits between the Ryot and the Government, if it were just and reasonable in itself, I am confident would never succeed, though it would be productive of Mischief in many other Senses; Oppression would still exact, and Fraud pervert from the Receipts of Government, those Profits which we might endeavour to abolish; but in that Case, instead of supporting the natural and lawful Proprietors of the Soil, they would sink with Agents, Collectors, and Farmers, "a Race of Men who have no Bowels for the Contributors, who are not their Subjects, and whose universal Bankruptcy, if it should happen the Day after their Farm is expired, would not much affect their Interest." The Idea itself supposes the Extinction of those successive Ranks of Subordination in Society, through which the Operations of Government descend, by regular and easy Gradations, from the Summit to the Base. When the simple and natural Channels of Authority are quitted or discomposed, the State itself loses that Shape and Proportion which constitute its Strength and qualify it for Duration.

What then is the present Object of Government? We know the Amount of our Expences, and we know in general what the Country can pay; we also know, that in general it has been much over-rated. Our Provincial Councils are able to inform us what particular Districts have been favoured or oppressed, in what Parts the Collections have been realized with Difficulty, and what Districts indispensably require Relief: Our own constant Experience tells us, that upon the Whole there ought to be a Remission. I admit, that an Assessment, formed on these Grounds, may not be perfectly accurate or equal; but this Inconvenience, whatever it may be, is neither capable of a Remedy, nor does it deserve to be regarded.

The Inequalities of an Assessment, in itself not excessive and intolerable, will soon level of themselves, provided all Parties know with Certainty the utmost they are to pay, and are assured that they will not be exposed to an arbitrary Increase of Demands on future Improvements. Without a fixed Jumma, I affirm that no Measures whatsoever can save the Country. A conquered Province, especially at such a Distance from the Seat of Empire, can have no other possible Security against the Ministers and Representatives of the governing Power.

I am sensible that my Opinion on this, or any other great political Question, is no Authority: I desire therefore to support it by those of Men already in Possession of the Public Respect and Esteem. I fear no Condemnation which may involve me with Doctor Smith, Sir James Stewart, and Montesquieu.

"It is no easy Matter to frame the Valuation of all the Property of a Country; and it is a Scheme I should be very far from proposing, unless the Spirit of a Nation took such a Turn as to wish it: But where a determinate Sum has been in use to be levied upon a certain District, it does not appear so difficult to make a proportional Distribution of it according to Equity, and to adhere for the future to that Distribution, considering it as a proportional Valuation, if not a real one. This is done every Year, and without it no such Tax could be raised: But when Annual Distributions are made, Discontents constantly arise, and the pretended Equality thereby observed, produces worse Effects than the Inequalities which would follow from the other Scheme, because the Change in the relative Value of Possessions would then be chiefly owing to the Industry of every Proprietor in improving his Lot." Vide Sir J. Stewart's Enquiry into the Nature of Pol. Economy, Vol. ii. Page 563.

"A fluctuating annual Valuation, which is the Case in France, produces numberless Inconveniences; and upon the Whole, they are far greater than those which it is intended to avoid.

"I agree, that the same Land may be worth more one Year than another; but it is impossible by a fluctuating Valuation to ascertain that Difference over a whole Country, to the Satisfaction of every one; and although by fixing it at one Rate upon every Possession, Inequalities must take place, yet fixing it from rising in Proportion to Improvement, will prove an Encouragement to Industry, which will greatly over-balance such an Inequality; every one then will be in the Way of acquiring an Addition to his Income, free of Land Tax; and if this be thought too great an Encouragement to Improvement, let the Regulation be only fixed for a determinate Time, suppose a Century; this is no more than giving every one, as it were, a Lease of their Land Tax for a hundred Years; and Experience shews, that without granting long Leases, it is impossible that Lands should ever be improved." Vide D<sup>r</sup>, Vol. ii. Page 578.

"The Uncertainty of Taxation encourages the Insolence and favours the Corruption of an Order of Men, who are naturally unpopular, even where they are neither insolent nor corrupt. The Certainty of what each Individual ought to pay, is, in Taxation, a Matter of so great Importance, that a considerable Degree of Inequality, it appears I believe from the Experience of all Nations, is not near so great an Evil as a very small Degree of Uncertainty." Vide Doctor Smith's Enquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, Vol. ii. Quarto, Page 424.

"In forming a Register of the different Classes of Landed Property, it is very difficult to ascertain the several Differences, and still more so to find People who have no Interest in misstating them. This creates Two Kinds of Injustice, that which is in the Officer of Government, and that which is inherent in the Thing itself; but if on the Whole the Tax be not excessive, if it still leaves Plenty to the People, these particular Inequalities are of no Moment; if on the contrary, nothing is left to the People but what is precisely necessary for their Existence, the least Disproportion will be of the greatest Importance." Montesquieu, B. xiii. C. 7.

The Second Object of the proposed Office is, "To secure to the Ryots the perpetual and undisturbed Possession of their Lands, and to guard them against arbitrary Taxations; this is to be effected by new Pottahs, formed on an Inspection of the present Pottahs, and of the Rates of Land, by which they are regulated in each District."

Before I enter farther into the wide Field which this Part of the Plan opens to me, I must clear it of an Argument used by the Governor, which I think represents but a Part of the Fact it refers to; it is asserted, "that not a Pottah has yet been granted in Burdwan, notwithstanding the Zemindars Engagement, and the Injunctions of Government."

The Time limited for granting such Pottahs is not elapsed, and I do not yet despair of some Degree of Success; for the rest, I shall content myself with remarking, that the Measures of a divided Council may be defeated by Difficulties external to them; and that a Failure proves nothing, but that the entire Strength and Influence of Government did not accompany the Execution. This, I fear, may happen in other Instances, as long as the Merits and Success of one Part of the Administration can be interpreted as a Reproach, or viewed with Dissatisfaction by the other.

It is proposed to secure the Ryots the perpetual and undisturbed Possession of their Lands. This Language I know is popular, and has been often used, without any apparent Benefit to the Ryot, to countenance and give a Colour to Acts of Violence and Injustice against the Zemindars, and other superior Ranks of the Natives. The real Question is not clear perhaps to every Apprehension, but it is very material not to mistake it. Before we give perpetual Possession, we ought to determine the Property. This State does not consist of nothing but the Ruler and the Ryot; nor is it true that the Ryot is Proprietor of the Land; it is not even necessary that he should be so, either for his own Benefit, or that of Government. The Scheme of every regular Government requires that the Mass of the People should labour, and that the Few should be supported by the Labours of the Many; who receive their Retribution in the Peace, Protection, and Security which accompanies just Authority and regular Subordination. The supposed Luxury of the Zemindars is, I confess, a new Idea to me. The Rapacity of the Farmers is not to be disputed. But it does not follow, that because the Ryot has no direct permanent Property in the Lands, he should therefore have no Rights; or that no Care should be taken to protect him. Without his Assistance the Land is useless to the Zemindar. If they are left to themselves, they will soon come to an Agreement, in which each Party will find his Advantage: The Pottah is the Evidence and Security of this voluntary Agreement. In the present State of the Country, the Ryot has in fact the Advantage over the Zemindar. Where so much Land lies waste, and so few Hands are left for Cultivation, the Peasant must be courted to undertake it; at all Events, the Interposition of Government between them, should have no Object but to enforce the Execution of their respective Engagements. To dictate the specific Terms of every Lease, is an Invasion of the Rights of Property in the first Instance: It is a Business of Detail, which no way belongs to Government, which we are in no Sense equal to, and which carries a vexatious Scrutiny and an arbitrary Exertion of Power upon the Face of it. Government, after assessing the Zemindar or Landlord according to his Portion of the Public Revenue, is supposed to enter into the Management of his Patrimony, and to prescribe to him the Rates at which he shall be obliged to parcel it out to his Tenants.

The Idea of guarding the Ryots against arbitrary Exaction, is just and attainable, though not by the Method proposed; but I affirm, that it is wholly incompatible with the Principles of a Government, which claims and exercises a Right of arbitrary Taxation, and whose professed Object is to exact the greatest possible Revenue from the Country. Let us begin with setting an Example of Justice and Moderation to our Subjects: Let us proportion our Demand to our Necessities, not to their utmost Abilities. A mild and equitable Government will gradually extend and communicate the Principles on which itself acts, to the Ranks and Powers subordinate to it. Tyranny creates Tyranny, and is obliged to support it.

Upon the Whole, I cannot be more clearly satisfied in any Opinion, than that the Governor General's Plan tends to load him with an enormous Detail of Business, which it is impossible for him to accomplish; that the proposed Accounts cannot be procured, without dispersing a Multitude of indigent and rapacious Black Officers through the Country; that if attainable could not be depended upon; and that if they were even so accurate, they ought not to be the Ground of the ensuing Settlement.

Occasional Aumiens, and other incidental Charges.

These cannot be fixed, nor estimated.

He has annexed the Names of the Gentlemen whom he wishes to be nominated to the Superintendence of this Establishment, because he considers them as essential Parts of it, having made Choice of them as Persons endowed both with Talents and Knowledge peculiarly adapted to the Duties assigned them, and on whose Dispositions he can entirely depend for their cordial Agreement with each other in the Discharge of them. He recommends Mr. Henry Vansittart to be the Persian Translator. He also recommends that the Office of Peishcar be assigned to Gunga Govind Sing, the Naib Dewan of the Khalsa, and that he be allowed 700 Rupees per Month for his Salary as Naib Dewan of the Khalsa only, none having been yet allotted to that Station.

The known Abilities of Gunga Govind Sing will justify the Preference shewn to him in this Appointment. The Business in its Detail must be conducted by a Peishcar. The Gentlemen to whom the Governor General proposes to commit the Direction of it, will think it no Degradation from their Characters, of which no Man can have an higher Estimation than he has, or a more perfect Reliance on their Integrity, if he expresses it as his Opinion, that the greatest Experience which can fall to the Lot of any Covenanted Servant of the Company will prove unequal to the minute Investigation of all the progressive Operations of the Revenue in this Country, without the Aid of that professional Knowledge which is possessed by the Native Muttasuddies of Bengal, of whom Gunga Govind Sing is incontestibly the First.

For the Reimbursement of the Charges of this Office, should the Amount prove so considerable as to require it, a small Fee may be taken on each Aumil-nama or Cabooleat to be granted in the future Settlement; which will not affect the Jumma, nor be felt at such a Time by those who will be required to pay it.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

Mr. Barwell—I approve.

Mr. Francis—My Objections to the Measure itself have been stated at large. As they have been over-ruled by a Resolution of the Board, I shall make no others.

Resolved, That the Office be established, and the Appointments made, as proposed by the Governor General.

Ordered, That the Secretary advise Messrs. Anderson and Bogle of their Appointments.

Extract

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 12th November 1776.

Mr. Barwell delivers in the following Minute:

Mr. Barwell—I assent to the Governor General's Minute. A Computation and Digest of Materials wherein to form a new and permanent Settlement of the Provinces, must be useful, and is in my Opinion unavoidable. The last Leases have furnished the Means which will give an Insight into the real Value of the Lands; but these Means are not yet in our Possession, and may still leave something for compleater Discovery, and for the Guidance of a Decision on which the Prosperity of an extensive Kingdom, for a considerable Period, is probably suspended. No Researches can be too minute, no Informations too voluminous. I see my own, and I see the Situation of every Member of Council, to be equally delicate upon this important Affair; an Affair liable to be viewed in various and even opposite Lights, and to be canvassed in every Step of its Progress. The grand Object in which all our Sentiments unite, and to the Necessity of which we all subscribe, is a solid Establishment of the Revenues upon an abated Taxation; but it is not my Opinion in support of Mr. Francis, or any other Member of Administration, that will impress a Conviction of this Necessity upon the Minds of those whose distant Situations debar them from all Possibility of personal Observation.

My own Sentiments, it is true, are clearly for a Reduction of the Revenue, as absolutely requisite for the future Welfare of this Country; and while I heartily coincide with Mr. Francis in most of his general Ideas upon this Subject, so far as they clash not with the peculiar Customs of Bengal, I think they may well be reconciled to the Investigations proposed by the Honourable Governor; and that our Judgment in so interesting a Business should be formed upon the best Principles of Accuracy.

To let this Matter in the clearest Point of View, let us consider it from the Governor's Proposition for the Institution of a temporary Office. A new Settlement of the Provinces will be necessary upon the Expiration of the present Leases: We are unanimously agreed, that a fixed Valuation should take place in the Revenues, and that some Diminution should be made in the present Rents: Lastly, we propose that this important Settlement should be permanent. On such a Step we would surely endeavour to convince the Company, whose Agents we are, and whose Prosperity is blended with that of this Country, that we have not negligently slumbered over their Interests, or omitted any possible Mode of ascertaining the true and ultimate Value of their Possessions: Nor is this all, we would convince them decisively, that no future Administration may have the smallest Opening to hint, that deeper Researches might have produced a more equal and equitable System for the Natives, and a more advantageous Bargain for our Employers. Another good Effect to which we should turn our Thoughts, is that of rendering the Bulk of the People well affected to Government; an Attempt which can never succeed but in their steady Reliance on its Impartiality; and, with all Deference to the high Authorities quoted by Mr. Francis, and in Concurrence with them, I will venture to affirm, that an equitable Taxation is the great Desideration, and should be the first Object, of a good Government, and that such an Attention to the Welfare of the Peasant and the Manufacturer is the Groundwork of a well-regulated State.

The first Improvements of the Revenues, and Relief of the laborious Part of the Kingdom, in France, were projected by the Great Duke of Sully, upon the same Principles, and brought to Effect by an Application of the very same Means, as those now proposed by the Governor General. He commenced with a most extensive and arduous Collection of minute Detail in that Branch, and, from mature Consideration of those detached, voluminous Materials, detected every Species of Artifice and Fraud committed by the Farmers, and employed the Result of his Discovery towards lightening the Burthen upon the Shoulders of the Commonalty.

We now wish to shake off all rival Adventurers; and, instead of farming, to fix the Rates of Lands with the several old Zemindars, wherever it can be done with a Probability of Success. This Mode of Settlement, though it has certainly many Advantages, is yet liable, under certain Circumstances, to very strong Objections; some arising from the Zemindar himself, as his Minority, or that Incapacity for Business, and some from the Nature of the Lands. Besides, as the present proposed System must preclude all Competition of Candidates for the same Lands, by granting them to their Hereditary Proprietors, it necessarily opens a large Field for Indulgence and Partiality, to which the former Mode of Settlement precluded all Access, by allowing the indiscriminate Tender of Proposals. For which Reason, it is clearly my Opinion, that our Employers will but faintly co-operate with our Measures, or ratify our Decisions, if we appear to have hastily employed the Informations gained from the temporary Engagements, which they may possibly think imperfect, as Materials for our own more lasting Establishment, especially while we had in our Hands the Means of procuring more accurate Knowledge, and while we were timely warned by the first Member of the State to exert them.

Therefore, when we propose a more impartial, and at the same Time a reduced Taxation, the least we can do, is surely to give the Company satisfactory Reason for this Drawback upon their Income, and sufficient Evidence that the impoverished State of the Country loudly pleaded for such an Abatement. A Proposition of this Nature does not carry self-evident Conviction upon the Face of it, but must be supported by Argument, confirmed by Experience, and established upon Proofs; by which the present Excess of the Taxation may be made to serve as a Reason, and as the Authority for our Admission of a Decrease. The most probable Method of acquitting ourselves by these

Proofs,

Proofs, is offered to us by the Governor General, in the Proposal of gaining the most accurate possible Accounts of the Payments actually made by the Husbandmen, exclusive of its being essential to the Relief which it may be necessary to give them, before Government can venture to expect any adequate Advantage from fixing the Revenue; add to this, that there seems but small Occasion for doubting the Authenticity of the Materials to be procured. Collateral Informations will always serve as a Check upon each other, while every Man is actuated by a separate and peculiar Motive, or so long as there remains a divided Opinion in the World.

I am likewise persuaded, that Administration cannot have a more important Topic of Discussion, or Object of Action, than to define and secure the Rights of the People; and in this Country, where all Territorial Property centers ultimately in Government, and where the Zemindar holds his own Lands but by a Pottah, the same Tenure by which his Under-tenants hold them again from him, I think the public Eye should have a Watch upon those as well as the former. And that it would tend as much to the Interest of the State, as to the Satisfaction of the greater Number of Inhabitants, that all Pottahs should be equally well defined, and be guaranteed from all Violation with an equal Authority.

Portional Property ought as much to be sacred in the Pittance of the Poor as in the Possessions of the rich; and as I have said, "the Welfare of the Husbandman and Manufacturer is the Ground-work of a well-regulated State," it follows, that I deem it to be the first Object of this Government to fence and secure the Ryotts against the arbitrary Power of their Zemindars; otherwise no one Regulation we may resolve on can, in its immediate or remote Consequences, answer the beneficent Design for which it was formed. The Wealth of every Country is to be found in the Wealth of the Community alone, especially in this Country, where the peculiar Manners and Superstitions of the higher Class either influence them to secrete their Acquisitions, to dissipate it in religious Endowments out of the Provinces, or in the ostentatious Folly of giving daily Food and Subsistence to a Number of idle Dependants, who by such Means are totally separated from the Bulk of the People, and who must otherwise have been usefully employed in the Manufactures and Cultivation of the Country. I acknowledge the Task is extremely difficult and arduous; but unless the Rights of the common People are well defined and well secured, I am persuaded all our Speculations will only tend to enrich the Zemindars, and either lock up in their Hands a large Portion of the current Specie, or direct it to the most pernicious Purposes, and precipitate that very Decay we are endeavouring to guard against.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 12th November 1776.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Minute, received from the General on the same Subject.

General Clavering—I have perused with Attention the Governor General's Minute of the 1st Instant; and confess myself at a Loss for Words to express my Astonishment at such an Attempt to wrest out of the Hands of the Council so important a Branch of the Administration of this Country, as the Ordering, Management, and Government of all the Territorial Acquisitions of the Kingdom of Bengal, &c. vested in them by the late Act of Parliament; of which I hold it a direct Breach, being a most illegal Usurpation of the Powers conferred by that Act upon the united Members of this Government; and as such I most solemnly protest against it.

If to elude this Protest it should be stated, that the Object of the Measure protested against is only to collect Materials for future Management, and not to usurp the Ordering or Management itself, let me ask, Why at this Time, when it is notorious that the Government of this Country is in fact vested in the Governor General and Mr. Barwell exclusively, though nominally and descriptively in the Governor General and Council, that the Governor General should propose to have all Orders written in his own Name, and the Controul committed to his immediate Charge?

By the 22d Article of the Regulations of the Committee of Circuit, Orders are to be sent through the Channel of the Board of Revenue to the Collectory.

And will not the Existence of such Authority, unlimited both in Duration and Extent, deprive the other Members of Administration of the Power of taking any further Steps in the Ordering and Management of the Revenues, for the Purpose of forming the new Settlement, although legally indivisibly conferred upon the united Body of the whole Council? And then, will not his Suspension in Effect amount to an Usurpation of a separate Management or sole Controul? which I protest against.

Independent of this, the Plan of establishing an Office under the immediate and sole Controul of the Governor, in order to be furnished with accurate States of the real Value of the Land, or, in other Words, once more to investigate them for the probable Purpose of forming a new Settlement at the Presidency, to be executed by such of the Administration itself being upon the Spot, will run less Hazard of being deceived in Intelligence, or disappointed in their Investigations; they will be better able to hear and redress any Grievances which the Inhabitants may prefer to them, and to form such particular Regulations as may be necessary for the Exigencies of each District, or even to superadd others to those which shall be generally and previously resolved on.

Powers, and entrusted in the Hands of such Agents, as will be employed, appears to me incompatible with the Rules of the former Administration of the Revenue, with the Constitution of the Offices already established under the Presidency, and indeed with every political Principle that should regulate a wise Government; in short, solely tending to disturb the Minds of the People, and to throw the whole System of the Administration of the Revenue into Confusion.

All the Mischiefs of the Committee of Circuit will be renewed, by the unjustifiable Hopes it will hold out of acquiring Wealth by obtaining Farms, distributed under the Influence of this new-created Office: The Country will flock to the Presidency, and Europeans and Natives will all crowd the Governor's Levees, in Expectation of sharing a Part of the Plunder.

It is difficult to guess by whom a Project, so big with Mischiefs, could be devised. I am told the Natives however ascribe it to Cantoo Baboo, the Governor's Banyan. He had been absent for more than a Year from the Presidency. He was no sooner returned than the Plan made its Appearance; it is true he is more interested than any Body in concealing the actual Collection of his Farms, and in secreting the Value of his Talooks, which he holds as an Inheritance.

Whether or not I have ascribed the Project to its proper Owner, and have accounted rightly for his Intention in it, it is most certain that it will be carried on and managed under his immediate Influence, and that he will have the Appointment of all the Native Officers under it.

The First obvious Measure of the new Office, must be to establish their own Power and that of their Agents throughout the Provinces; and with what Moderation they will exercise that Power, countenanced and supported as they will be, I leave to Mr. Hastings's Knowledge of the Character of the People to determine. He can well judge whether they are likely to be disinterested in taking the Mofussil Accounts, and not shewing Favour where they are most rewarded: He can determine whether they are not likely to disturb the present Collections, and whether, in that Case, the Failure of the present Year's Revenue is to be imputed to the Measures of the late Majority, or to the Appearance of so many rapacious Agents in the Districts. I think it cannot be doubted, but that when it is so much the Interest of the Ryott to conceal his Property, that it is not likely he will withhold a Tribute to the Agent to secure himself against a perpetual Taxation.

The Governor General must know the Necessity there is of holding the Poonah in April for the new Settlement, and for that Purpose, that at least Two Months previous Notice ought to be given of the Intentions of Government in forming it; and he ought therefore to be aware of the Shortness of the Time, and how improbable it is that these Agents, even supposing they were not to be diverted from the Object of their Mission by the Honour and Lucre of their Employ, it will be for them to go through an accurate Investigation of the Accounts of each Village in such a short Period.

Upon a Supposition however that they had over-run the Country, and collected together the Accounts, such as they may be supposed to be, under such Management, then there still remains the Inconvenience of concentrating in the Governor General all the Information which may be obtained by their Enquiries.

If the Eagle Packet, which the Company acquainted us would sail in June last, should arrive, and bring out Orders that should obstruct the Governor General in the Pursuit of his Plan, just at the Time when it may be ripe for Execution, the Council, unacquainted with the whole Plan, will neither be able to compleat it, nor to adopt any other.

Next as to the Expence, if that can be allowed to be a Consideration, when so great a Benefit is in Contemplation: The small Part of it already fixed amounts to 5,000 Rupees per Month, and for the rest the Governor himself does not even venture to throw a Guess at what it may amount to; but this he deems immaterial, as he readily obviates the Difficulty by the old Plan of levying it upon the Country by a Mahtoot, which he concludes it will be able to bear; forgetting how far the Remissions he has lately found necessary to make of the whole Amount Balances of the Kishnagur Rajah, and others, will support that Opinion. But, not to discuss a Point so evident, let me ask, Whether any Payment from the Country, instead of the Treasury, can be a Saving to the Company, one being supplied from the other, and both equally their Property. But Arguments upon Saving are vain, when the Necessity of an Expence is so urgent as in the present Instance. Having no Establishments of local Agents already in Pay and Authority, from whose long Residence and Experience we can expect the required Information, it follows that

By the 7th Article of the Proceedings of the Committee of Circuit, the following Offices are to be established for conducting the Business of the Khalsa, according to these Regulations: 1st Roy Royan's Office; to this Office all Accounts, Statements, and Papers whatever, are to be first transmitted, and from thence distributed to the proper new Powers and new Expences must be framed to effect it; and had the Committee of Circuit (whose Regulations the Court of Directors have enjoined us to consider as Standing Orders) not appointed a Roy Royan, a Superintendant of the Khalsa, and an Accomptant General, for the Purpose of digesting and reporting upon all Mofussil Statements and Accounts, the Governor General might proper Offices, after having been received by the Superintending Member of the Khalsa, and the Roy Royan. might have urged, that the Board being inadequate to the Labour of digesting them, a new Office was necessary.

I will only add, that by the present Plan all former Arguments of the late Majority against the Committee of Circuit, stand not only confirmed, but redoubled by this Self-condemnation. What the penetrating Eye of the most experienced and oldest Servants (all Members of the Council, with the Governor at their Head) themselves upon the Spot, with the whole Power of Government in their Hand, could not attain a true Insight of, and this since corrected and discussed by Five Years Collections, is yet to be sought for, and now to be expected, at the Distance of some Hundred Miles, by Two Junior Servants, one of whom is barely out of his Writership, above One Year of which he was absent from the Country.

If a new Investigation is now necessary, I can see no Point of it that cannot be as effectually compassed, and even much more so, by the Provincial Councils; a natural, unalarming Channel, without Expence, and without any unnatural Medium, or unconstitutional Authority; whereas the new Plan is directly the contrary, and will possibly be totally thwarted (at least in the Attainment of any Good) in the very first Outset, by the universal Alarm so eccentric a Motion will create, and must continue to cause.

Mr. Francis has more fully answered Particulars; wherein chiefly coinciding, I forbear Repetitions, excepting to the Circumstance of the Pottahs; upon which I will only say, that if they have not yet been issued, although ordered Five Years past, the Governor General must look to himself for the Blame; for had he exerted his Authority when the Committee was upon the respective Spots, or had he not by himself, and the Influence of his executive Powers, and the Counteractions of his Dependants, thwarted our Attempts to effect it, they would not now remain to be discussed in a new Plan. And, considering the present Constitution of the Government, I cannot, with Mr. Francis, flatter myself with Hopes of Success in the Accomplishment of our late Orders to Burdwan upon this Subject.

In one Point further I differ with Mr. Francis: My Objections to this Measure not depending on Opinion, but being made directly to its Illegality, I cannot strain my Sense of Duty to promise, as he does, that I will support it, when it is resolved to be carried into Execution. In the Appointment that the Governor General has made of Officers to fill the new Office, he has very particularly set forth the Merits of Gunga Govind Sing, whom he had but a few Days before restored to his Office of Dewan to the Calcutta Committee, as if the Office of Right belonged to him. It must be remarked, however, that the Governor General has been very guarded in not adding official Probity in the Encomiums which he has so liberally given him. It is very well known, that he was dismissed from his Office on an Accusation of Cumal ul dien Cawn, whose Testimony the Governor General cannot but admit, particularly as the Fact has been established in the Supreme Court, on the Trial of Mr. Fowke, that he, Gunga Govind Sing, had taken from him Twenty-two thousand Rupees collusively, for certain Purposes, and for which he was to allow Cumal ul Dien to run a certain Quantity of Salt.

As the Duties of the new Office must necessarily engage the whole Time of this Minister, it would have been reasonable, when the Governor General thought proper to appoint him Peshkar at the Khalsa, with a Salary of Seven hundred Rupees a Month, that he would have been pleased to have taken into Consideration, that it will be impossible for this same Man to perform so many various Duties, together with those belonging to his Office of Dewan to the Calcutta Committee, which Office will probably be totally neglected, if some other Man is not appointed to superintend it.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 12th November 1776.

Governor General—I am thankful to Mr. Francis for the Promise which he has given me of his Assistance in promoting the Arrangements which may be formed for the new Settlement, even though they may not be such as he approves: After such an Assurance, even his Objections to the Office which I have recommended for that Purpose, have a Claim to my Acknowledgments, and I hope to benefit by his Assistance, more cheerfully given, when he shall discover that our Objects are the same; and that though we do not agree in our Opinion of the Means which I have recommended, yet the Difficulties which he apprehends in the Execution of them, are not only surmountable, but such as have always yielded to the same Mode of Investigation, constantly and successfully practised under the Mogul Government.

When I recommended the Institution of an Office for compiling the Materials which were necessary for the new Settlement, I meant no more than to shew the Necessity of it, and to propose the ultimate Object of its Researches: It was as foreign from my Purpose, as it would have been premature, to mark out every Stage of its Progress, which, from the Nature of it, must be subject to Variations; or to determine either the precise Mode or Amount of the Settlement, which it was the professed Design of this Investigation to ascertain.

For the Satisfaction however which Mr. Francis requires, I will endeavour to give him a further Explanation

Explanation of the Design of the Office which I have recommended, and of the Detail of Business which is to be, or may be, assigned to it.

I have already said, that the general Design of it was to obtain an accurate State of the real Value of the Lands, as the only Groundwork on which the new Settlement could be constructed; I mean on which it could be constructed so that the Burthen of the Public Revenue should rest with an equal Weight upon the whole Body of the People.

On this Subject Mr. Francis's Minute contains Two Propositions: First, That the Inconveniencies of an unequal Assessment ought not to be regarded: And next, That those Inconveniencies do not admit of a Remedy.

More used to the Practice of Business than Speculation, I beg to be excused from discussing these Propositions as general and abstract Questions, and instead of considering them as Principles which are equally applicable to any Country, I wish to confine them merely to the Revenue of Bengal.

The Opinions of Montesquieu, Sir James Stewart, and Doctor Smith, which are produced to shew that an unequal Assessment is attended with few or no Inconveniencies, may be just as to those Countries where the Land Tax bears but a small Proportion to the Amount of the Produce; and any Attempt to alter the Proportions of a Land Tax which have been established by ancient Custom, might, as they suppose, give Rise to those Discontents which, amongst a high-spirited People, every Innovation is apt to excite; but the Case is very different in Bengal.

Let us suppose for Instance, that in England the Proportion of the Rent of Land taken by Government is a Fifth Part, and in some Places, from an Inequality in the Assessment, amounts only to an Eighth Part: In the first Case, the Proprietor, after paying the Tax, will have Four-fifths, or Sixteen Shillings in the Pound, and in the last, Seventeen Shillings and Six Pence, to himself. But in Bengal Nine-tenths of the Nett Produce, or Eighteen Shillings in the Pound, are generally supposed to belong to Government, and the remaining Tenth to be the Property of the Landholder; or, in other Words, a Zemindar, whose Land produces 1,00,000 R<sup>s</sup> pays 90,000 to Government, and has a Right to retain the remaining 10,000 to himself: But should this Land happen to be rated at 1,05,000 R<sup>s</sup>, or only One-twentieth Part above its Value, then, instead of 10,000 R<sup>s</sup> the Possessor would receive only 5,500 R<sup>s</sup>, or little more than One-half of his just Income; while another Man, who inherits a Zemindarry of equal Value, but which is reputed to be worth only 95,000 R<sup>s</sup>, or One-twentieth Part under rated, will, instead of 10,000 R<sup>s</sup>, enjoy an Income of 14,500 R<sup>s</sup>. Thus the Inaccuracy of a Twentieth Part in the Valuation, more or less, will render the Estate of one Zemindar almost Three Times more profitable to him than that of another whose Lands are of equal Value: And this operates not only as an Inconvenience, but as a heavy Oppression.

It is easy to shew that the unequal Valuation of Lands in Bengal is productive of this Evil, and that while some Landholders after paying their Rents retain enough to live in Ease and Affluence, others are reduced to Beggary, and, unless the Mercy of Government interposes to save them, their Estates are sold to make good the Portion of Revenue which has been arbitrarily assessed upon them. The Truth of this Fact is established by the Disposal which has been made of Zemindarries in the Division of Dacca, by the Sale which was proposed of the Rajah of Nuddea's Lands, by the Number of wealthy Farmers who have been received in the Bahar Province, and by the Sale of Talooks lately made by the Council at Moorshedabad.

Nor is any Alteration in the Assessment likely to produce Discontents, because it will be no Innovation. The ancient Tamar and Tukseem, or Distribution of the Land Rent, which was formed about Two Hundred and Twenty Years ago, has long since ceased to serve as a Rule. Under the old Government this Distribution was annually corrected by the Accounts which the Zemindars and other Collectors of the Revenue were bound to deliver in to the Office of the Canongoes or King's Registers, of the increased or diminished Rents of their Lands, and of the Amount of their Receipts; but the Neglect of these Institutions, the Wars and Revolutions which have since happened in Bengal, the Inundations of Rivers, the Encrease of Cultivation in some Parts of the Province, and the Decrease in others, and the unequal Depredations of the Famine, have totally changed the Face of the Country, and rendered the Tamar Rent-Roll a mere Object of Curiosity. The Land Tax has therefore been collected for these Twenty Years past upon a conjectural Valuation of the Land, formed by the Amount of the Receipts of former Years, and the Opinions of the Officers of the Revenue, and the Assessment has accordingly been altered almost every Year.

Having thus shewn that the present Assessment is unequal; that this Inequality is productive of great Evils; that it is fluctuating and annual, and that therefore any Alteration in the Distribution of it is not likely to occasion Discontents; I hope that Mr. Francis will see with me the Expediency and even Necessity of obtaining an accurate State of the Value of the Lands, to enable us to lay the Public Revenue with an equal Weight throughout the whole Province. Considerations of the same Kind, though not so weighty as those I have mentioned, induced the most free People in the World to adopt a similar Measure, and in the Year 1692 all the Lands in England were valued anew.

Mr. Francis's Second Proposition is, That the Inconvenience of an unequal Assessment is not capable of a Remedy, because it is impossible to obtain an accurate Valuation of the Lands. I confess the Attempt is not unattended with Difficulties; but, as I have been led to propose it from a Conviction of its Necessity, I trust, if I am supported by the Board, to be able in a great Measure to surmount them. I will not pretend to fix with Precision the Means by which this Design is to be prosecuted; these must in a great Measure arise out of the Business in its Progress: But by pointing out some of the principal Sources from which I expect to derive Materials, I hope to shew, that the present Juncture is peculiarly favourable to the Attempt, and that the Work is not undertaken without a fair Prospect of Success.

An accurate Valuation of the Lands is to be made either by an actual Survey and Measurement, or from the Accounts of the Land Rents. The First Mode is too tedious, expensive, and uncertain to be adopted; I would propose to make Trial of the Second. The Accounts of Revenue in Bengal are kept with a Regularity and Precision unknown in Europe. They are drawn off, I understand, nearly on One uniform Plan, and are balanced and adjusted at fixed Periods. A separate Account Current (or Kurcha) is kept for every Ryot or Tenant, in which the different Articles which compose his Rent for One Year, are stated on the one Side, and the Payments which he makes are entered on the other. The Whole of these Accounts are afterwards annually digested into Abstracts, which contain a particular State of the Rent, the Receipts, and the Arrears of each Village. The Abstracts of all the Villages form the Pergunnah Accounts; and the general State of the Rent of the Zemindarry, or capital Division, is composed of the Aggregate of the Accounts of the Pergunnahs. In order to convey an Idea of the distinct and circumstantial Manner in which these Accounts are kept, I have annexed Translations of the Two first, viz. That of a single Ryot, and that of a Village. It will be unnecessary to produce Specimens of the Two last; these are called Mofussil Accounts.

The History which I have given of these Accounts, will serve, I hope, to redeem their Characters from the Imputation of being loose, confused, and intricate; and shew, that if we can succeed in procuring them, they will furnish us with ready-formed Abstracts of the actual Collections, which will require only to be compared. For this Purpose it will not be necessary to examine the Accounts of every Ryot, nor of every Village. The inferior Accounts are useful only as Checks to the greater. From the regular Process in which the Whole are formed, it will be seen how easily the Falseness of any Account may be detected; since it is impossible to falsify the Sum Total of a Pergunnah without falsifying all the Parts of it, which of course will differ from those of each Village; and these again, if forged, will be corrected by the Accounts Current of the Ryots. Thus the Fidelity of the greater Accounts, when suspected, may be easily tried by a Reference to the Subsidiary Accounts, which can hardly be falsified, as it is almost impossible to join in One Combination so many People as must be concerned in it.

All these different Accounts are publicly kept in their respective Cutcheries: It is by them that the Rents are collected, and they are always delivered over to such Person as has the Charge of collecting them, whether Zemindar, Sezawal, Wadadar, or Farmer. I am sensible, that to obtain the original Accounts of the Rents of every Part of Bengal, will be a very difficult Task; for the inferior Zemindars will, as Mr. Francis has observed, probably use every Artifice to conceal the Accounts of their Rents, or perhaps even attempt to fabricate them; but this in the large Divisions, for the Reasons which I have already given, will be almost impossible: Besides, as the Farmers are bound by their original Engagements to deliver to Government an Account of their Collections, as the Custom of the Country requires that they should give up the Mofussil Accounts at the Expiration of their Leases, and as they have little Interest to withhold them, since they must yield up the Farms at the End of the Year, the present Juncture is more favourable for procuring a true Valuation or Hushabood of Bengal, than any other. It would be almost impossible to form it afterwards, in the Event of the Lands being restored to the Zemindars; and thus one of the great Objects of the Five Years Settlement, the Discovery of a Rule for an equal Assessment, would be lost.

To collect these different Accounts, and to digest and methodize them for our Guidance in forming a new Settlement, is one of the principal Objects of the temporary Office which I have proposed.

I am sensible that it would be a far more easy Task to prepare the Materials for a new Settlement in the Manner which Mr. Francis proposes, by taking the Accounts of the actual Receipts of Rent for Three Years past, and correcting them by the Opinions of the Provincial Councils, on such Districts as have been either favoured or over-rated. But although I consider these as useful Informations, I do not think that we can by them alone ascertain the real Value of the Lands, or safely make them the only Grounds of the future Settlement of the Revenue. Many of the Lands have suffered by Droughts, Inundations, or other temporary Calamities, which though affecting the immediate Collections, cause no Diminution in their real Value. In some Instances the Rents have been completed by Loans, or made up from the private Fortunes of the Landholders: In other Places they have been enabled to fulfil their Engagements by oppressive Exactions. The Value of some Lands on the contrary have been fully equal, or even superior, to the Rent assessed upon them; but the Collections have fallen short through the Neglect or Incapacity of the Farmer, or Zemindar, or have been received and dissipated in idle Expence, or been embezzled by the Collectors. In each of these Cases, and every District in the Province, without an Exception, is liable to one or other of them, the actual Receipts of Government would prove a false Estimate of their Worth, and often widely remote from it; and if a Settlement were formed upon such a Principle, what would it be but to hold out a Reward to Fraud and Dissipation, to encourage the Zemindars and Landholders to keep back their Payments, as the Means of diminishing their Rents, and to punish Punctuality by loading it with a full Share of the Assessment?

But to correct the Irregularities on an Estimate constructed upon such uncertain Grounds, the Opinions of the Provincial Councils are thought sufficient. Now these must be formed either on Materials such as I have described, or on the Opinions of their dependent Officers. The former would be useful, and spare the Labour of further Researches; the latter, if the Evidence of Accounts can be procured, ought not to be admitted as Authority in a Matter of such great Importance, and in which an Error in the Valuation of the Land, even of a Twentieth Part, may reduce an ancient Family to Beggary, or double the Income which it formerly enjoyed. Surely it will not be urged as an Objection to official Accounts, that they may be fraudulent, and yet proposed to take private Opinions for Authority. The Forger of false Accounts is liable to the severest Penalties, and those Accounts are liable to Detection; but the Errors of Opinion are always difficult of Conviction, nor has any Government ever devised a Punishment for those who maintained them.

To elucidate and Support many of the Arguments which I have above used, I will only state one Case:

At the Close of the last Bengal Year, several Talookdars, or petty Landholders, in the Neighbourhood of Moorshedabad, fell largely in Arrears in the Payment of their Rents, and their Lands were sold to make good the Deficiency; some of these Families had enjoyed their Estates for above a Hundred Years. The Board knowing that the Revenue is unequally assessed, and in some Places beyond the Abilities of the Proprietors, wrote to the Provincial Council at Moorshedabad, to know whether the Estates of these Talookdars had been really over-rated, or whether the Arrears were to be attributed to Neglect or Mismanagement. They have lately returned an Answer, with Accounts of the Rents, Receipts, and Arrears, of all these different Talooks; by which it appears, that the Rents had in general been paid with much Regularity for the Three preceding Years, but had fallen in Balance during the last; one of the Talookdars (Shahzadpoor) whose Annual Rent is about 15,000 Rupees, had last Year paid no more than 4,000 Rupees in Part of it. The following is an Extract of the Answer to our Enquiries, as to the Causes which had thrown these Talooks into Arrears.

“How far these Balances have been owing to the Neglect and Mismanagement of the Proprietors, or to the Land’s having been over-rated, it is not in our Power accurately to determine: But from the Collections having been regularly kept up for Three Years, and falling so much in Arrears the Fourth, it affords room for supposing that the Complaints of the Zemindars, of the Drought of the Season, were not without Foundation, and this might be the Cause of that Year’s Deficiency.”

It appears therefore that the regular Payment of Rents for Three Years, is no Proof of the Proprietor’s Ability to continue to pay the same Rent; that if he falls in Arrears his Estate is sold; and that a Provincial Council, of which both the English Members and the Native Officers, in Point of Abilities, yield to none in Bengal, are unable to say whether any particular District has been favoured or over-rated. For if it is not in their Power to give an Opinion of the under or over Valuation of the Rents of an Estate in their own Neighbourhood, which had been sold, and the Rent of which amounts only to Fifteen thousand Rupees, how can we expect exact Reports concerning the Rents of the Whole of their Division, which amounts to Fifty Lacks of Rupees? The Truth is, that it is impossible to form a just Judgment of the Value of Lands, and consequently of the Revenue which they should pay, but by an Inspection of their Mofussil Accounts.

But admitting that the Receipts of Revenue, and the Opinions of the Provincial Councils, should appear to us satisfactory Grounds for establishing a fixed Assessment, yet the Concurrence of the Zemindar also will be necessary. Suppose the Case of the Talook above-mentioned (Shahzadpoor:) We offer to fix the Rent at Fifteen thousand Rupees; the Possessor declares it to be over-rated; upon what Ground can we compel him to subscribe to our conjectural Valuation, or how can we admit his Pleas without examining them? Should we however persist in dictating our own Terms, the Proprietor will very probably accede to them, like the Rajah of Nuddea, in the Dread of losing his Talook, which, if unequal to the Assessment, must afterwards be sold, not for any Crime or Fault of the Proprietor, but for the Despotism of Government in exacting from him what he has not to give.

If the Commands and Exigences of the Company will admit of it, I shall be ready to join in lowering the Revenue. But the peculiar Necessities of this Government will not perhaps allow of a considerable Diminution of the Rents; and whatever it may be, it will be felt as a Relief only according to the Distribution of it, and the Manner in which it is proportioned to the State and Abilities of those who are to pay it.

I concur entirely with Mr. Francis, in his Arguments against raising the greatest possible Revenue from Bengal, by destroying all the intermediate Orders of Men between the Ruler and the Cultivator. But as my Object in endeavouring to procure an accurate Account of the Rents is only to make an equal Distribution, and has no Kind of Connection with the Proposition of raising the largest Revenue, nor with that of destroying the intermediate Orders of Men, I imagine it is unnecessary to follow Mr. Francis through all the abstract Reasonings which he has introduced on Subjects so remote from my own Intentions.

Besides the immediate Business of the proposed Office, I have recommended, as a second Object of its Researches, the better and more effectual Regulation of Pottahs, for the Security of the Ryots in the perpetual and undisturbed Possession of their Lands, and to guard them against arbitrary Taxations. The Words perpetual Possession, and their Lands, which may be mere Inaccuracies of Expression, for they were not meant to convey the Idea of any positive or exclusive Right of Possession, have been noticed by Mr. Francis as contradictory to the Rights of Property which are vested in the Zemindar.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

I shall not here attempt to account for the Distinctions of Property, as they are understood in this Country: It is sufficient for me to observe, that while the Ryot pays his Rent, the Zemindar has no Right to dispossess him; nor can the Zemindar by any legal Right exact a higher Rent from him than his Pottah prescribes.

Mr. Francis seems to suppose that there is no Necessity for the Interposition of Government between the Zemindar and the Ryot. He observes, "That if they are left to themselves, they will soon come to an Agreement, in which each Party will find his Advantage." This would be a just Conclusion, if the Zemindars were all capable of distinguishing what was for their Advantage. But it is a Fact which will with Difficulty obtain Credit in England, though the Notoriety will justify me in asserting it here, that much the greatest Part of the Zemindars both of Bengal and Bahar, are incapable of judging or acting for themselves, being either Minors, or Men of weak Understandings, or absolute Idiots. This Circumstance, and the consequent Oppressions which are exercised by those who act for them, without any Interest in the Prosperity of the Zemindarry, renders it necessary to provide for the Security of the Ryots by Checks and Regulations.

It is to be observed also, that there are Two Kinds of Ryots; the more valuable are those who reside on one fixed Spot, where they have built themselves substantial Houses, or derived them by Inheritance from their Fathers. These Men will suffer much before they abandon their Habitations, and therefore they are made to suffer much; but when once forced to quit them, they become vagrant Ryots. The vagrant Ryots, as Mr. Francis observes, have it in their Power in some Measure to make their own Terms with the Zemindar: They take Land at an under Rent, hold it for One Season; the Zemindar then encreases their Rent, or exacts more from them than their Agreement, and the Ryots either desert, or if they continue, they hold their Land at a Rent lower than the established Rate of the Country. Thus the ancient and industrious Tenants are obliged to submit to undue Exactions, while the vagrant Ryots enjoy Lands at Half Price, which operates as an Encouragement to Desertion, and to the Depopulation of the Country.

The general Subject of Pottahs, and the Abuses and Oppressions arising from their present Uncertainty, and the Variety of Articles that compose the Ryots Accounts, have been often Matter of just Complaint, and I believe every Member of the Board is satisfied that they require to be reformed. All that I now propose, is to collect Materials of Information on this Subject, to be laid before the Board for their future Determination, on the most effectual Means of regulating the Pottahs. At present I am not prepared to propose a complete Plan, and decline giving a premature and partial Opinion, while I am professedly seeking for the Grounds which are to determine it.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 29th November 1776.

The following are the several Minutes which have been delivered in by the Members of the Board, on the Subject of the Institution of the Office for preparing Materials for the new Settlement, since the Close of last Day's Proceedings.

Mr. Francis—As the Governor General's Minute, in reply to mine of the 5th Instant, was not communicated to me before this Day, it is not now possible for me, before the Close of the Packet, to give it the Consideration it requires. The only Observation which I think it necessary to make at present is, that I do not admit the supposed main Fact on which the Governor's Arguments appear to be founded, viz. "That in Bengal Nine-tenths of the Nett Produce, or Eighteen Shillings in the Pound, are generally supposed to belong to Government, and the remaining Tenth to be the Property of the Landholder." By whom this Supposition has been formed I know not, nor on what Evidence, except, perhaps, the Practice of the British Government, or that of the Usurpation which immediately preceded it. Such Fact is no Proof of such Right. The Honourable Court of Directors have now in their Possession authentic Documents, which shew that the Assessment fixed by the Mogul Government on these Provinces, was light and moderate in Comparison with ours. If that Government had taken Nine-tenths of the Nett Produce of the Country, how was it possible for Bengal to have arrived at the rich and flourishing State in which we found it, even after it had suffered considerably by the intestine Disorders of Aliverde Cawn's Usurpation? And if the Country was not universally rich, from what Sources has the immense Wealth extracted from it within these Twenty Years been supplied?

I have at all Times been ready to contribute my utmost Endeavours to execute the Resolutions of Government, and to promote the general Dispatch of Business. While I have the Honour of holding this Station, I will not decline taking my Share in any of the Labours or Duties that belong to it. In the present Instance, I am not aware that my Assistance can be of any Service to the Governor General, since by the Plan of the proposed Office, the Business allotted to it is to be exclusively under his Direction. My Objections, whether weighty or not, were meant to include the whole Measure.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Governor General—It being of Consequence to me to remove every Objection which may be made to my Plan, in the First Introduction of it to the Notice of the Company, I shall reply briefly to Mr. Francis's Minute of the 23d Instant.

To his Denial of my Position, that in Bengal, "Nine-tenths of the Nett Produce, or Eighteen Shillings in the Pound, are generally supposed to belong to Government, and the remaining Tenth to be the Property of the Landholder," I shall only reply; that I do not mean these Propositions as a fixed Standard; I offered them only as a general Supposition, to shew the different State of the Land Tax in this Country and in Europe, and the very different Effect which an unequal Assessment must produce in each.

The Justness of my Arguments on this Subject, does not depend on the Accuracy of those supposed Proportions, but on the Truth of the Fact, that the Land Tax in this Country is in general beyond all Comparison heavier than in England; and that therefore, any Inequality in the Assessment of it, is in this Country productive of far greater Oppression to the Landholders. It is proved from Facts, that the Revenue imposed upon some Lands, does not leave any Thing to the Proprietor, inasmuch that Estates are frequently sold to pay the Land Tax. The Proportion of One-tenth was used only to elucidate my Argument. It was formed on the Opinions of Natives, on my own Experience and Belief, and on the Custom in the neighbouring Province of Bahar, where the Share which each Zemindar is allowed in the Produce of his Lands, is invariably fixed at One-tenth: This is called his Malckava, a Term of long Usage; and therefore a Proof that the Rate was neither "derived from the Practice of the British Government, nor that of the Usurpation which immediately preceded it." I leave Mr. Francis, however, at Liberty to adopt any other Proportion that he pleases: Whether it be an Eighth, a Tenth, or a Twelfth, the Force of my Conclusion will remain.

As my Reasonings also were confined to the present and future State of the Country, and aimed at providing a Remedy for Evils which now exist, they would not be affected by Mr. Francis's Position, "that the Assessment fixed by the Mogul Government on these Provinces was light and moderate, in Comparison with ours," admitting it to be just.

I must beg Mr. Francis's Pardon, however, for expressing a Doubt that the Documents with which he has furnished the Court of Directors, prove "that the Assessment fixed by the Mogul Government was light and moderate, in Comparison with ours." The Justness of this Observation cannot be determined merely by a Comparison of the Amount of Revenue annually raised from the Provinces in the Two different Periods; it depends upon a Variety of other Circumstances.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

The Revenue of Bēngal, in the Time of Shujah Cawn, is stated by Mr. Francis at 1,42,50,000 Rupees. I have taken the Pains to inform myself of the Prices of the Necessaries of Life at that Time; of which the following is an Abstract, compared with the present Rate of the same Articles:

					Price at Moorshedabad, in the Year 1136, Bengal Sile.	Present Price in Calcutta.

From this State it appears, that the Price of Coarse Rice, which forms the principal Consumption of the People, was 5½ Times cheaper in the Time of Shujah Cawn than it is now. If this be allowed a fair Standard for estimating the Value of Money, which being the Rule for apportion, the Value of Property must reciprocally derive its own Value from it; the Revenue collected from Bengal in Shujah Cawn's Time being 1,42,50,000, was equal to 7,83,75,000 Rupees of their present Value; that is, more than Three Times greater than the Jumma of this Year. But if the Dominions of Bengal, and the State of its Government in these different Periods, be compared, the Disproportion will be greatly increased, for many frontier Countries have been since added to its Dominion; and the Zemindars, who yielded very different Degrees of Obedience to Shujah Cawn, are at this Time reduced to an equal State of Subjection to the Government of the Company.

The Severity which was used in levying the Revenue during the former Period, is also a strong Presumption against the Lightness and Moderation of the Assessment. The Indignities, the Stripes, and Tortures, even to Death, which were exercised in the Collections under the Moguls, have been utterly unknown in any Period since the Government of the Provinces has devolved to the Company, and serve as a collateral Proof, that the Assessment in the Times which preceded it, was intolerably grievous and oppressive.

Governor General—When I lately proposed a temporary Establishment for collecting Materials for a new Settlement of the Revenue, nothing was farther from my Expectation than to be charged with an Attempt to usurp the Powers of ordering, managing, and governing, the territorial Possessions vested by Parliament in the Governor General and Council: The alarming View in which General Clavering sees this Institution, leads me to suppose that he must have misunderstood its Nature and its Objects; I will therefore recite them in the Words of my original Minute: “To be employed in compiling and collecting the Accounts of the past Collections, in digesting the Materials which may be furnished by the Provincial Councils and Dewans, in issuing Orders for special Accounts, and other Materials of Information, and in deputing native Officers on occasional Investigations:” And “that for the Sake of Dispatch, all Orders issued from this Office for the Execution of such particular Services as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board, be written in the Name of the Governor General, and the Controul of it committed to his Charge.”

The Functions of this Office are here circumscribed with the greatest Exactness: The Whole of its Business is that of Detail, too minute for the Board to conduct; it is not “to order, govern,

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

“ or manage, Territorial Acquisitions,” but merely to collect and digest Accounts; “ it is not to “ distribute Farms under its Influence,” for the general Question remains to be determined, whether in the future Settlement of the Revenues Farms are to be granted, or what other Mode is to be pursued.

If every preparatory Business of this Kind is to be considered not only as a Delegation of the Powers of ordering, managing, &c. but to be construed into a Surrender of those Powers, the Provincial Councils, the Superintendant of the Khalsa Records, every Person in Office, acts under an illegal Warrant; nay every Committee formed of the Council itself, the Auditor of the Week, the Comptroller of the Offices at the Presidency, are equally guilty with myself of an Usurpation of the Powers of the collective Body of the Council.

I will not further attempt to controvert a Principle, which, if adopted, would put an End to all Government: It will be sufficient perhaps to reply to the General's Protest, to shew, that many Institutions of the Nature of the intended Office have been formed under the present Government, without any Scruples about their “ Legality,” or Objection that “ they were incompatible with the “ Rules of the former Administration of the Revenue, with the Constitution of the Offices already “ established under the Presidency, or with every political Principle, that should regulate a wise “ Government.”

Two of the Company's Servants were deputed into the 24 Pergunnahs; Three to Hidgelle, One to Amberabad, others to Sylhet, Jeffore, &c.: These were invested with, and actually exercised, the Powers of summoning Persons, of demanding Papers, of swearing and taking the Depositions of Witnesses, in short, were furnished with every Means of Investigation; they proceeded into the Country; they acted by an Authority independent of the Provincial Councils: And yet all this Time the Competency of “ the Roy Royan, or the Superintendant of the Khalsa, for digesting and reporting upon all Mossul Statements and Accounts,” was never urged as an Objection to such Commissions: It was not then discovered, that “ every Point of Investigation might have been as effectually compassed by the Provincial Councils, a natural and unalarming Channel, without Expence, “ without any unnatural Medium or unconstitutional Authority, and without that universal Alarm “ which those eccentric Motions create.”

The Number of these occasional and temporary Commissions will, I hope, serve to shew that I am not singular in the Opinion, that special and extraordinary Business requires special and extraordinary Means to execute it; and the Charge of a Commission for collecting the Salt Accounts of a single District, shall be found to equal what is stated for an Office to collect the Accounts of the Whole of Bengal: I hope I shall also be acquitted of incurring an unnecessary Expence, even although the Proposition of reimbursing it by a small Fee on each Aumul-nama, should not be adopted.

Most of the Objections raised to the Office on the Score of Utility, have been already fully discussed in the former Minutes on this Subject; I will therefore only observe, that as the Five Years Settlement furnished Materials for ascertaining the real Value of the Lands, the Design of this Office is to collect them.

General Clavering has thought proper to charge me with having, by myself, by the Influence of my executive Powers, and by the Counteractions of my Dependants, thwarted the Attempts of the Board to issue Pottahs. I call upon the General to support this Charge with the smallest Shadow of Proof. The last and almost the only Attempt was made in Burdwan, where every native Officer holds his Appointment, was by an Influence totally opposite to mine; and so far from being my Dependants, they are most of them distinguished only by their daring Insults to my Person and Government.

Upon further Enquiry among the Natives, I believe the General will find that they do not “ in “ general ascribe this Institution to Cantoo Baboo;” and so far from considering it as “ certain that “ it will be carried on under his immediate Influence, and that he will have the Appointment of all “ the native Officers,” it is universally known that there neither is, nor ever was, any Connection between him and Gunga Govind Sing, the principal native Officer proposed by me, and actually appointed to the Superintendence of this Business.

When I recommended this Man, it was unnecessary that I should enlarge on his official Probity, which was unimpeached. On Reference to the Proceedings of the Revenue Council that dismissed him, it will be found, that upon the Question being put, the Accusation against him by Comaul-ul-Dien, of having collusively taken a Sum of Money, was not proved in the Opinion of any one of the Members of the Board: It appeared, that as Dewan to the Committee he had stopped the Advances to Comaul as Contractor, to make good his Arrears of Revenue as Farmer. This Transaction, which in a similar Instance has since been sanctified by the Example of the Council, was considered by some of the Members as worthy of Censure: General Clavering indeed went so far as to declare, that although Comaul's Declarations had been frequently contradicted on Oath, “ yet “ as the greatest Lyars sometimes spoke Truth,” and there were Instances of other Persons having been guilty of Collusion and Mal-practices, he was “ inclinable to give Credit to the Accusation” against Gunga Govind; but whether ever, according to this Opinion, Gunga Govind Sing's Want of official Probity was established, I leave others to judge. As to myself, I then declared him innocent; and I cannot now admit the Position, “ that it is very well known that he was dismissed from “ his Office on an Accusation of having collusively taken a Sum of Money to allow Comaul to run “ Salt,” unless I am permitted to add, and which Accusation was not proved.

General Clavering's Answer to the Governor General's Reply, 27th November 1776.
Entered on the above Consultations.

The advanced State of the Dispatch will not permit me to answer so fully as I might do with more Leisure, the Governor General's Reply to my Minute protesting against the Office which he has erected under the Name of compiling and collecting Materials for the future Settlement of the Revenue; the Orders from which are to be issued in the Name of the Governor General, and the Controul committed to his immediate Charge.

The Cases which the Governor General has mentioned, to compare with the Appointment in question, I do not admit to be similar; a Portion of Power, delegated to a Servant for a particular and limited Purpose, being very different from an Assumption of Power to himself under the supposed Term of Delegation, which should rather be termed Usurpation, if wresting to one Part or Member of the Constitution the Powers allotted to the Whole can be admitted to be such, and this not by a general Act of the Government; for to treat as an Act of the Governor General and Council a Resolution formed by himself and one other Member of the Board to make an Appointment, concentrating in himself all the Powers of the united Council, is too absurd to be stamped with the Appellation of a Resolution of Government: Without a further Stretch of Power, the Governor General might equally assume to himself the sole Controul of any other, or every Department of the whole Government; for, admitting a Member to vote in his own Cause, conferring Powers upon himself, the Governor General forming to himself Two Votes of the Three, in which are now vested the whole Power of the Government, he has but to propose, to obtain, and dictate. Again, a Delegation of a Portion of the Power of the Board to a Servant makes him amenable and responsible for the Management of that Power to those from whom he received it, and subjects him to Punishment in case of Abuse; whereas in the present Case the Governor General is not amenable to the united Board, much less to his own personal Tribunal, under the Denomination and Form of a Board. Finally, it cannot be compared to a Committee of the Council, which should ever participate, though in Miniature, of the original Form and Power of the Constitution, without diminishing that of the Whole; whereas in the Instance before us, the original Forms would become annihilated in the Usurpation of the Powers of the Whole by One Part.

Upon these Grounds therefore I must continue of Opinion, that the Powers assumed by the Governor General to himself, is an illegal Usurpation and not a Delegation, and that he, and all those who shall act under him in such Circumstances, subject themselves to all the Consequences of such an Act; though amongst these it might seem Presumption in me to anticipate the Opinion of the Court of Directors, which, from their Indulgence towards Mr. Hastings, he may with Reason consider as the most fatal of all: Yet, having already condemned Two Acts of the Governor General, for attempting to assume either Parts or the Whole of the Government to himself; one, in his exclusive Correspondence with his Resident with the late Vizier; the other, the Endeavour which he made to dissolve the Council, contrary to the Opinion of the Majority of the Board; I cannot but conclude, that where the Effects are the same, notwithstanding the Form and Manner of the Disposition may vary, that the Court of Directors will be highly offended at so aggravating a Reiteration of the Offence.

It is Mockery of Terms to characterize with the specious Appellation of collecting and compiling Accounts, with a View to conceal the evident and plain Object of the Governor General's Plan; which, in sending Aumins into the Mofussil, with full Powers to obtain the Accounts of the past Collections, to compare them with the actual State of the Cultivation, and thereby to establish the Rates of the Lands, may, without straining of Terms, be deemed ordering and managing the Revenues.

To give a favourable Picture of the good Effects that may be expected to arise from this Investigation, the Governor General has held forth, that it is to enable him to regulate the Pottahs so as to establish the Ryots in the undisturbed Possession of their Lands. I would only observe, that, taking it for granted that these Aumins will be corrupt, and disposed to favour the great Banians in the quiet Enjoyment of theirs, upon still greater Advantages than they now hold them, the inevitable Consequence must be, a Deception to the Governor himself, or whosoever may hereafter have the ordering and managing of the Lands of this Country.

The Governor General calls upon me to support my Assertion, that through his Influence the Pottahs at Burdwan were prevented being granted. I will answer, that I refer it to his own Decision, how difficult it is in this Country to bring legal Proof to convict a Man of any Action, though, from a Combination of many Circumstances, the whole World may be convinced of the Truth of it. From the Time that the late Majority undertook to regulate the Government and correct the Abuses that prevailed in it, it is but too notorious, that after every possible Obstruction at the Board to the passing of a Resolution, the same was again experienced with redoubled Efforts in every Stage of the Execution, for which I will only quote One Instance: When Mr. Dawson was sent to investigate the Poolbundee of Burdwan, upon the certain Accounts that the Board had obtained of the Peculations committed in it, in some Places the Farmers had been instructed not to appear, in others to resist, by refusing to give their Accounts, and when Compulsion was attempted to be used towards them, he was either alarmed by Letters from Attornies, or Writs of Habeas Corpus were ready to relieve the Farmer from his Confinement.

Bowannee

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Bowannee Metre, the former Dewan of the Provinces, and Bridjoo Kishur, Zemindary Dewan, who had both been dismissed from their Employments, remained in the District to encourage the Farmers to resist the Orders of Government: The Governor General very well knows that by the Intrigues of one or both of these Men, the late Settlement that was made of Burdwan, had nearly miscarried; and as the Pottahs were immediately connected with the Settlement itself, though I may not hold the full necessary Proof to bring the Fact home, that the Board was counteracted in their Desire to have the Regulations that were made for the issuing of the Pottahs carried into Execution; yet the whole Country, who know the real State of Facts, will attribute the Failure to the Cause I have assigned, if they do fail. Upon the Whole, had Government been united, what Reason is there to suppose that in the Execution of so plain and easy an Operation as the granting of Pottahs, the late Majority should have met with more Difficulties than the Governor General now expects in the Execution of the Orders he proposes?

Whether the Natives with whom I have conversed have misinformed me, or not, that Cantoo Baboo has been the original Projector of the new Plan resolved upon, their Mistake is easily accounted for, coming from People who judge from Appearances, in observing the Project brought to Light immediately after his Arrival at the Presidency, and are confirmed in their Opinion by the Applications that are daily making to him for Places under this Institution.

In further Objection to the new Revenue Office, as far as a present Investigation can affect the future Rates of the Lands, I will add—premising, that before the real Value of any given Object can be fixed, both the Extent of that Object, and the precise Value of the Medium by which it is to be estimated, must be ascertained; and that without this, Value and Rate are visionary Terms, and Words without Meaning—

That at present there are not any Two Districts possessing exactly the same Currency, and that in the present State of the Coin, it is impossible exactly to level the Value by unalterably fixing the Batta: Further; that the Extent of each Ryot's Possession is not known to be similar to the Limits expressed in the Pottah originally granted to him: So that neither Object or Medium are fixed. I conclude, that the Investigation must be inefficacious, and of course cannot, from the most favourable Representation made of it, compensate for the many Evils it will create.

I should not have added this Remark in this Place, it being foreign to the Grounds of my Protest, which principally related to the Mode, not the Effect, had not the Governor General's Renewal of the Subject led me to it.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Note, received last Night from the Governor General; and acquaints them, that as he understands the Governor General's Minute is dispatched, he has ordered a Copy of the General's Minute to be prepared.

Ordered it be forwarded to the Secretary of the India House.

To Richard Sumner, Esquire, Secretary to the Revenue Department.

Sir,

Enclosed I send you an Answer to a Minute of General Clavering, which I received last Night; the Packet being closed, I purpose forwarding a Copy of it to the Secretary at the India House, by the Nassau.

I am, &c.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

28th November 1776.

General Clavering—I desire my Reply may accompany the Governor's Minute.

Governor General's Reply to General Clavering's Minute, dated the 27th November 1776.

I was not aware, at the Time I recommended a temporary Office for the methodizing and digesting of Accounts, that it would have engaged me in a long Controversy. The Nassau's Packet is now ready to be closed; I have not Time to enlarge upon the Subject; perhaps I have already said too much; but it is necessary that I should make some Observations both on the general Argument of General Clavering's last Minute, and on some of the Facts which are therein stated.

The Objection to the Office, as being contrary to Act of Parliament, is so extraordinary, that I am almost at a Loss to answer it. In my Mind, there is a clear and solid Distinction between the Powers of preparing and those of ordering, governing, and managing. The first I possess constitutionally; the last resides in the Council at large. The Business of preparing cannot be conducted by a Council, and where if it could the various and more important Occupations of this Board would not admit it. In preparing Materials for Information, and in bringing Business before the Council, I certainly act in my Station. This is my immediate Duty as President of the Council, not only on the present Occasion, but in every other Point of Civil Affairs; in the same Manner as it is the immediate mediate Duty of the General to prepare and bring before the Council such Matters as relate to the Military. Were it otherwise, the Business of Government would be at a Stand, and the whole Administration thrown into Confusion. This Privilege, however, does in no Way preclude any other Member from furnishing Information, and proposing Points of Business to the Council; with him it is a Right, which he may exercise, or not, at Pleasure; with me it is an indispensable Duty, and I am responsible for the Performance of it.

The present Leases of Bengal expire in April next, when a new Settlement of the Revenue must be formed by the Governor General and Council. In a Matter of such great Importance the Board cannot be too well informed. In Proportion as the Materials upon which a Council are to deliberate and to decide, shall be complete or imperfect, will the Company judge that I have performed or neglected my Duty. Could I have executed this extensive and laborious Business without an Establishment, or could I have employed this Establishment without any Expence to the Company, I should not have thought it necessary to apply to the Council on the Subject.

On the present Occasion the Council have conferred upon me no Authority which I do not and did not before legally and constitutionally possess. By approving of the Establishment which I proposed, they have only furnished me with the Means of executing a laborious and extensive Duty, to which I should otherwise have found myself unequal. In the Performance of this, as in every other Point of Duty, I know that I am responsible to the Company. I am sensible also of the Disadvantages I labour under; that every Object in the Execution will be viewed with hostile Eyes, and every Error in Judgment be construed into a Crime. But I have no Alternative left, and am obliged to undertake a Task, which, without sacrificing my Duty to the Company, I cannot decline.

This temporary Office, like the Commissions mentioned in my preceding Minutes, is instituted "for a particular and limited Purpose," and whoever are employed in it, "whether Servants of the Company or native Officers, are amenable and responsible for their Management, and subject to Punishment in case of Abuses, equally with the Persons of whom those Commissions were composed."

To procure Materials for the better Regulation of Pottahs, is only a secondary Object, yet it is of the last Importance to the Happiness of the People. The Approbation and Support which the General gave to the Proposal for issuing new Pottahs in Burdwan, shews that he was sensible of the Expediency of the Measure. The Proceedings of the Board will evince that I also concurred in the same Opinion; yet the Charge of having obstructed the Execution of it is repeated. In Support of this it is alleged that every possible Obstruction was opposed to Resolutions at the Board, and that the same was experienced with redoubled Efforts in the Execution of them. To prove the Truth of this, it is declared that Mr. Dawson encountered many Difficulties in investigating the Poolbundy of Burdwan. Now admitting these positive Positions for a Moment, what Connection is there between the Poolbundy of Burdwan and the Pottahs? It is impossible that any Two Subjects can be more opposite. The Poolbundy relates to the Expence of fencing the Rivers; the Pottahs are the Deeds by which the Husbandmen hold their Lands.

As a collateral Evidence to this Charge, the General asserts that Bowanny Metre and Bridjoo Kifsau remained in the Districts of Burdwan, and counteracted the issuing of Pottahs. Admitting this also, how am I answerable? But Curiosity having led me to enquire into a Fact which is stated with so much Precision, the General will excuse me if I insist that he has been misinformed. I have sent for Bowanny Metre, who resides in Calcutta, and questioned him on the Subject. He assures me that since the Times that he was first recalled from his Station to the Presidency, he has never been once at the Town of Burdwan, and but once at his own House at Banksha, the Residence of his Ancestors for many Generations, which although within the Limits of the District of Burdwan, is only 8 or 10 Miles from Calcutta; that this Visit was paid to his Family during the Gentoo Holidays, when all Public Business is suspended; that he went on the 5th of Cartu, or 18th of October last, and returned on the 27th of the same Month, or 9th of November, having been absent from Calcutta 22 Days. The General can be at no Loss to ascertain the Truth of this Circumstance. Should he find it confirmed, it will serve I hope to make him receive with Caution the vague Informations of the Natives, whose Desire of ingratiating themselves frequently leads them to deviate from the Strictness of Truth.

(Signed)

Warren Hastings,

General Clavering—After the Dispatch of the Packet, it is too late to attempt to refute some Arguments used by the Governor General, in his Reply to my Minute of the 27th, or to support my own, if they need any; but finding the Governor General still trying to support the Legality of the Power which he is usurping, under the Pretence that preparing Accounts is a Power inherent in his Office of President of this Board, I will only reply, That it is easy to give a Name to an Office, different in Idea from either ordering or managing the Revenue, but which shall still involve the Business of both one and the other of those Branches of the Revenue. If the Powers of the Office were only to prepare Accounts of the late Collections, they might easily be prepared in the Khalsa by the Superintendant, under whom every necessary Office for that Purpose is established, but still more easily by the Provincial Council, against which Mode no other Objection has yet been urged, but that they would be prepared in a different Form the one from the other. Every Body will form their own Opinion, whether that Objection be the real Reason for not trusting the Provincial Councils with this Business; and whether, if that Objection was valid, it might not be obviated by the Superintendant of the Khalsa Records transmitting a Form of an Account to each of the Provincial Councils; by this Mode, at least, all the Expence to be incurred by sending so many Black Officers to each District, would be avoided, as well as the Danger to the Collections of the present Year. As the Governor General has been Twice mistaken concerning the Powers which he imagined he possessed, it is yet possible he may be mistaken a Third Time; and that the Court of Directors will not consider the Nature of the Office by the Name which the Governor General ascribes to it, but by the Functions that are to be exercised in it. Whenever the Company has wished to see the President of the Council exercise any extraordinary Powers, they have given them to him themselves: But, if I may be permitted to form a Judgment on the Opinion which they will give on the unusual and illegal Power now assumed, I should imagine that they will think that the Mossul Accounts of each District would be as accurately made up by the Provincial Councils, as under the Guidance of Gunga Govind Sing, assisted by the Reports of Black Officers appointed from the Presidency. With regard to the History of Bowanny Metre, I am not prepared to answer it.

The Secretary lays before the Board the Draught of a Letter to Messrs. Anderson and Bogle, in consequence of their Appointments to superintend the new Office for preparing and arranging the necessary Materials for forming the new Settlement.

To Messrs. Anderson and Bogle.

Gentlemen,

Having thought proper to appoint you Superintendants of an Office to prepare and arrange the necessary Materials for forming the new Settlement at the Expiration of the present Leases, we herewith transmit you a Copy of the proposed Institution, and of the Establishment of your Office.

We are, &c.

Fort William,

Agreed, That the Letter be accordingly written to Messrs. Anderson and Bogle.

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to the Provincial Council of Moorshedabad.

To Mr. Edward Baber, Chief, &c. Provincial Council of Revenue at Moorshedabad.

Gentlemen,

Having appointed Mr. David Anderson to superintend an Office at the Presidency for the Preparation and Arrangement of some Materials for the new Settlement, his Seat at your Board is vacated.

We are, &c.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 3 December 1776.

The Governor General proposes the following Letter to the several Provincial Councils and Collectors, the Provincial Council of Patna excepted.

To Mr. Charles Goring, President, Council of Revenue at Calcutta.

(Circular, Patna excepted.)

Gentlemen,

Having thought proper to constitute an Office at the Presidency, for the Purpose of preparing and arranging the Materials for the ensuing Settlement, we direct you to give every Assistance in your Power in forwarding the Purposes of this Institution; and as the Governor General, in whose

We are, &c.

Fort William,
3d December 1776.

Mr. Barwell—I approve.
Ordered to be sent in Circulation.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 6th December 1776.

Governor General—Among the many different Materials which will come before the Board for their Guidance in forming the ensuing Settlement, the accurate and distinct Accounts which are kept in the Office of the Accountant General to the Revenue, will form a considerable Part; these will require to be compared and elucidated with the Accounts which may be procured from the Districts. In this Branch of the Business I am desirous of obviating the Inconveniencies of frequent and formal Applications for Papers to the Accountants Office. I wish also to benefit by the Abilities and Knowledge of Mr. Croftes, which have been honoured with repeated Testimonies of the Company's Approbation, and from which, since the Removal of the Khaliá, I have derived essential Assistance. And

I therefore propose, that the Accountant General to the Revenue Department be joined to the Gentlemen already appointed to prepare and arrange the Materials for a new Settlement, for the special Purpose of assisting in forming such Accounts as have a Reference to the Offices now under his Charge, and for the general Conduct of the Detail of the new Office, so far as the other Duties will permit.

W. Hastings.

Agreed, That the Accountant General be accordingly joined to Messrs. Bogle and Anderson, for the Purposes mentioned in the Governor General's Minute.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Letter from General Clavering, containing his Protest to the Letter to Messrs. Anderson and Bogle.

Sir,

Having protested against the Measure which has been adopted by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, calling themselves a Board to appoint an Office to order and manage the Revenues, as illegal, I will not authorize it by my Signature to a Letter to Messrs. Anderson and Bogle, to order them to exercise any Powers under the special Controul of the Governor General, independent of the Council, in any Office whatever.

I am, Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,
(Signed) J. Clavering.

Calcutta,
30th November 1776.

To Mr. Rich<sup>d</sup> Sumner, Secretary to the Council of Revenue.

The Secretary lays before the Board the Minutes received from Mr. Francis and General Clavering, relative to the Circular Letter proposed to be written the 3d Instant.

Mr. Francis—The Objections which I have already stated comprehend the whole Measure, both in Form and Substance.

A Condemnation of the general Principles and avowed Objects of the Institution of the new Office, of course includes every Arrangement proposed for promoting the Operation of those Principles, or accomplishing those Objects; and on this Ground I meant to have rested, without any further Opposition to the original Resolution of the Board.

But the present Motion goes beyond my first Idea of the Institution, and is not, in my Opinion, warranted even by the Terms of the Governor's first Minute.

The Office was to be under the Conduct of Two Covenanted Servants of the Company, and all Orders issued from it were to be written in the Name of the Governor General: Such Orders, as I understood the Proposal, could only be issued to the Officers and Agents of the Office itself, or to Persons subordinate to it in Rank and Station: Official Orders, whether for Information or Obedience, descend by their Nature, and cannot be issued from an inferior Board to a superior.

Supposing

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Supposing this to be only a formal Objection, removable by the Use of the Governor General's Name, or by his Signature, I do not think that the Board can safely delegate an exclusive Power to him to send Orders to the Revenue Boards immediately subordinate to the Supreme Council, or that the Members of those Boards would be bound to obey them.

If a Resolution of a Majority, or even of the whole Council, can delegate an exclusive Power to any Member of it, to issue Orders in Matters of Revenue to the Boards immediately subordinate to us, there is no Branch of Power vested in me by Law, of which a similar Resolution may not divest me: But even if it were lawful, I do not deem it safe or expedient to delegate the Power required by the Governor; because, in the first Place, the Provincial Councils are not made acquainted with the Purposes of the Institution, which nevertheless they are directed to follow; and secondly, because I see no Security upon the Face of the Institution, that such Power may not be applied to Purposes which have not received the general Sanction of the Board.

The Provincial Councils are to employ their Authority in every Instance in which it may be necessary to enforce the official Orders of the Governor General. The Whole of their Power therefore, whatever it is, will center with the Governor; and if not, they ought to be informed to what particular Objects his independent Authority is to be confined, and by what Rules their Submission to it is to be limited: The Obedience required by the proposed Orders, is unlimited and indefinite. The Governor General himself does not precisely know the Extent or Quality of the Orders which it may hereafter be necessary for him to issue. In one of his last Minutes he observes, that he cannot pretend to fix with Precision the Means by which this Design is to be prosecuted, that these must in a great Measure arise out of the Business in its Progress.

But if a Delegation of the Power in question be in any Degree hazardous, it seems equally unnecessary; since whatever Orders the Governor General may think fit to have communicated to the Provincial Councils, or enforced by their Authority in the Districts, may be signed by the Board without any Inconvenience.

With respect to myself, the Motion seems particularly superfluous: Having admitted it to be my Duty to assist even in the Conduct of Arrangements which I may not approve, and to promote their Success when once they are resolved on, no Plea is left for transferring to another that Share in the Conduct of the Public Service which belongs to me, and which I have not declined.

For these Reasons I do not deem it either safe in Law, or consistent with the general Duty of my Station, to sign any Order to the Provincial Councils to the Effect proposed by the present Motion.

(Signed)

P. Francis.

30th November 1776.

General Clavering—The Legislature having vested the Power of managing and ordering the Territorial Possessions and Revenues belonging to the East India Company in Bengal, as well as the Government thereof, in Five Persons, of which Number I have the Honour to be one; and not being disposed to deprive myself of any of the Rights which have been thus assigned to me, I have, by Three different Minutes, protested against the Establishment of an Office proposed by the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General of these Provinces; which must in Effect, as I conceive, vest in him principally the Management, Ordering, and Government of the same, for the alleged Purpose of making a new Settlement, under the Pretence of compiling and collecting the Accounts of the past Collections, of digesting the Materials which may be furnished by the Provincial Councils, of issuing Orders for special Accounts, deputing native Officers on occasional Investigations, and finally, for collecting Materials for issuing new Pottahs, and for establishing a more permanent and regular Mode of Taxation; which Proposition, made by the Governor General, having received the Assent of Richard Barwell, Esquire, one of the Members of the Council, is being, according to Law, a Resolve of the Government: That I may not be necessary, therefore, to the depriving myself of any of the Powers inherent in or belonging to the Ordering, Management, or Government of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues of these Provinces, or giving Sanction or Authority to others to obey the Orders which may be issued by the said Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, which have not the Signature or Sanction of the other Members of the Council; I dissent to the Letter as it is now proposed, or to any other Letter to the same Purport and Effect, being written to the Provincial Councils, or to any other Persons, and declare I will not sign the same: And I further declare, that I will, to the utmost of my Power, render every Person answerable for every Act done by them in the Management, Ordering, or Government of these Provinces, by virtue only of an Order issued by Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, as his own Act, independent of the Council.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

The Secretary is ordered to write the Circular Letter, and wait upon each of the Members for their Signature.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 10th December 1776.

The Secretary lays before the Board the Answers delivered by General Clavering and Mr. Francis, on his requesting them to sign the Circular Letter, agreeably to the Board's Commands last Day.

General Clavering—I have already in several Protests delivered my Opinion, that the Office which has been established under the Authority of Mr. Barwell and the Governor General, forming a Majority of the Board, is illegal; and I still adhere to that Opinion. I have likewise protested against the Appointment of Messrs. Anderson and Bogle, Superintendants for preparing and arranging Materials for the new Settlement; as I did to the Draught of the Circular Letter, which being written fair, is brought to me by Mr. Secretary Sumner, by the Orders of the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, to sign. If other Reasons than those I have already given are expected from me by this Message, I can alledge the following: That the Governor General has declared that he already possessed the Powers, which he requires from the whole Council, by virtue of his Office as President. If that be so, why does he apply for further Authority from the Board? But it would seem as if he doubted the Existence of this inherent Right in him, by this Application to the Board to be authorized by them to exercise it. I have before said, that I am not disposed to dispossess myself of any of the Powers which have been committed to me by the Legislature; nor do I believe that, was I so disposed, I could resign (saving the Impossibility of executing the Duties of my Office on account of ill Health) the Trust which the Legislature has reposed in me, excepting to the King himself. If I cannot resign my Trust, much less do I think I can resign it over to another Member of the Board, because I am responsible to the Legislature for the due Performance of it; and the Delegation of it to another Member would not only take from me the Responsibility, of which I cannot legally divest myself, but would alter the Constitution of the Council, by encreasing the Power of such other beyond the Bounds which the Legislature designed to give to each of them separately. My Opinion then is, that the Governor General and Council can neither extend nor contract their own Powers; and consequently I deem every Act illegal which shall take Powers from any one Member of the Council to give them to another, seeing that such Powers as were judged necessary for the Constitution of this Government were given collectively and inseparably to the whole Body of the Council. But if the Person to whom new Powers are to be given should happen to be the Governor General himself, who besides claims separate and distinct Powers inherent in him as President of the Council, the Danger to be apprehended would be thereby so much the greater, as it would unite in himself all the separate and independent Powers which he claims as President of the Council, added to those which are now unconstitutionally given to him by a Majority of the Board. I know that the Act of Parliament by which this Council is formed, directs that the Governor General and Council shall obey all Orders given by the Court of Directors, and that they are positively informed the Members of the Council subscribe their Names to all Letters written by the Direction of the Majority of the Board, notwithstanding any Contrariety of Opinion entertained by any of the Members on the Resolution which those Letters are to carry into Effect; but it cannot be supposed that this Order of the 17th of December 1765, previous to the passing of the Act of Parliament, can bind the present Members to sign Letters or Orders which they deem illegal, and consequently to authorize, by the Sanction of their Name, every illegal Act which the Majority may think proper to commit. Supposing, for Example, that by the concurring Votes of Mr. Barwell and the Governor General, the latter should be appointed to take Charge of all the Civil and Military Powers under this Presidency, and that Letters should be written to all the Company's Civil and Military Servants, directing them to obey him, and him alone; I would ask, whether the Refusal or Acquiescence to subscribe such Letters would be a legal or an illegal Act? As I consider the Circular Letters which are now before me are intended to require Obedience to the Orders which the Governor General may think proper to give to the Provincial Councils in his own Name, separately from the Council, and which may possibly have the Effect of repealing or abrogating all the Orders hitherto given by the Governor General and Council; or that, under the general Direction to Provincial Councils, in the Letter before me, to employ their Authority in every Instance in which it may be necessary to enforce official Orders of the Governor General, the present Mode of ordering and managing the Territorial Possessions and Revenues may be altered; for this and other Reasons I cannot, consistently with the Duty which I owe to the Legislature, to the Company, and to myself, set my Hand to the Circular Letter to the Provincial Councils, which has been brought to me by Mr. Sumner.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

Fort William, 9th December 1776.

To Richard Sumner, Esquire.

Sir,

My Objections to the Resolution of the 3d Instant have been already stated at large; the Ground however on which I rest my Refusal to sign the proposed Letter to the Provincial Councils, is this: The Law expressly vests the Ordering, Management, and Government of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues, in the Governor General and Council: This is a joint Trust, therefore, which I cannot not

not lawfully alienate or surrender, otherwise than by resigning my Place in the Council, to which I apprehend such Alienation or Surrender would in Law be deemed equivalent.

Under the Governor General and Council, and subject to our Orders, the Provincial Councils are, in the next Degree, entrusted with similar Powers in their respective Districts. Now the proposed Letter directs these Councils to employ their Authority in every Instance in which it may be necessary to enforce the official Orders issued by the Governor General alone. The Extent and Quality of such official Orders are not defined; nor, if they were, is there any Security on the Face of the Order, that it may not in Effect be applied to the uniting in the Governor General those Powers over the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues, which by Law are jointly vested in the Governor General and Council.

I am,

Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

(Signed) P. Francis.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 20th December 1776.

Governor General.—The Refusal of General Clavering and Mr. Francis to sign the Circular Letter to the Provincial Councils, and the Objections which are stated in their Minutes, force me reluctantly to continue a lengthened Controversy.

By the original Institution of the Office, its Functions are confined merely to collecting and preparing Materials; the Orders which are to be issued from it in my Name, are only such as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board. It is impossible clearly to define the Business of the Office, or to circumscribe its Authority with stronger Barriers. The Letter in question serves only to notify this Institution to the Provincial Councils. But by a Perversion of Terms, and a strained Construction, it is made to convey a Meaning totally foreign from the Subject. The Preparation of Materials for the new Settlement is declared to be equivalent to ordering, managing, and governing; and the issuing of such official Orders for collecting Materials as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board, is deemed to be the Exercise of an Authority which includes every Power of Government.

The Words of the Letter are as follow: "And as the Governor General, in whose Name the Detail of the Business (viz. preparing and arranging Materials for the ensuing Settlement) will be immediately conducted, will necessarily issue many official Orders; you are commanded to enter such on your Records, and employ your Authority in every Instance in which it may be necessary to enforce them."

The Word "enforce" clearly implies Orders given to others, and not to the Provincial Councils; and the Words "every Instance in which it may be necessary," serve to confirm this Meaning; because, if the Orders were issued to them, their Obedience would be necessary in every Instance without an Exception. The evident Design of the Letter was a formal Notification of the new Office to the Provincial Councils, which was indispensably necessary to prevent the Competition between their Officers, and those who might be immediately deputed from the Office at the Presidency. To this Letter General Clavering objects; alledging as a Reason, "that he considers it as intended to require Obedience to the Orders which the Governor General may think proper to give to the Provincial Councils in his own Name separately from the Council;" and Mr. Francis declares, that "the Board cannot safely delegate an exclusive Power to the Governor General, to send Orders to the Revenue Boards immediately subordinate to the Supreme Council, or that the Members of those Boards would be bound to obey them." Thus, by perverting the plain Meaning of the Words, General Clavering and Mr. Francis, in direct Disobedience to the Company's Orders, and in the Face of the late Act of Parliament, have refused to sign the Circular Letter to the Provincial Councils.

I never claimed the Power, nor had any Intention of issuing Orders in my own Name to the Provincial Councils. I did not even propose to issue any Orders whatsoever, but for the Execution of such particular Services as should first have received the general Sanction of the Board. When I deviate from these Principles, I may be charged with the Usurpation of undue Power. While I adhere to them, Mr. Francis himself must allow that, "for the Dispatch of a voluminous and intricate Business, I am issuing Orders purely of Detail, under the general Sanction of the Board," and as such ought to approve of his former Declarations.

In like Manner I correspond with the different Powers in India; I issue Orders to Cheyt Sing, to the Provincial Dewans, and to others, under the Company's Authority. In like Manner I issue Orders to the Troops at the Presidency; in like Manner General Clavering issues Orders to the Army. But was it ever objected to the Exercise of such an Authority, "that it may possibly have the Effect of repealing or abrogating all the Orders given by the Governor General and Council;" or, because the Extent and Quality of such official Orders are not precisely defined, that it may in Effect be applied to the Exercise of every Power of Government?

Upon the Whole, I am at a Loss to know in what Manner the general Notification could have been communicated to the Provincial Councils in a more regular and unexceptionable Form; in what Terms the Functions of the Office could have been better ascertained, or its Powers more distinguished distinguished from those of ordering, governing, and managing, than by the Words "preparing Materials for the ensuing Settlement;" or by what Expressions the Extent of the Orders to be issued in my Name could have been more clearly limited and defined, than by those of "Detail of Business," and "Official Orders."

(Signed) Warren Hastings,

December 12th, 1776.

General Clavering, in Answer to the Governor General's Minute on the 12th Instant.

On Mr. Francis and myself refusing to sign the Circular Letters which have been sent to the Provincial Councils, directing them to obey the Orders which the Governor General may send from his new Office, he has delivered in a Minute, dated 12th Instant, declaring that we have perverted the plain Meaning of the said Letter, and that our Refusal to sign it is a Disobedience to the Company's Orders, and a Violation of the late Act of Parliament.

In support of this Allegation, the Governor General sets forth, that the Sense of those Words in the Letter, "the Governor General will necessarily issue many official Orders, you are commanded" to enter such on your Records, and employ your Authority in every Instance to enforce them," is not to be understood to be given to the Provincial Councils, but to those Persons who are immediately to perform the Service required.

To elucidate this Assertion, the Governor General attempts to establish a Distinction between enforcing and executing, by saying, that enforce implies Orders given to others, and not to the Provincial Councils. If this Construction of the Sentence in the Letter were to be admitted, it would follow that all Responsibility is at once removed from the Provincial Councils, by their being no longer considered as the Executors of an Order, but the Channel of conveying it. But I apprehend that taking the Letter in this Sense would be a real Perversion of it. The Mode of Proceeding of a Provincial Council in a similar Case should be to record the Order, to deliberate on it, to issue it to the Farmers and Agents under their Controul, and finally to enforce it, in the same Manner as the Commanding Officer in the Field, who after receiving an Order of Government becomes answerable in every Instance for the full and due Execution of it, though he be in Fact only the Medium through which the Execution of the Order is to be enforced. If this Illustration of the Letter be just, I conclude, that when I asserted in my former Minute that I considered it as intended to require Obedience to the Orders which the Governor General might think proper to give to the Provincial Councils in his own Name, separate from the Council, and consequently refused my Signature to it, I did not pervert the plain Meaning of the Words, nor act in Disobedience to the Company's Orders, nor in Face of the late Act of Parliament, by withholding my Signature to a Letter that directed the Execution of a Measure which I then held, and still deem illegal.

I flatter myself that in the Decision of the Court of Directors in this Affair, I shall not meet with the same Fate that attended the Refusal of the Governor General, on the 17th March 1775, in withholding his Signature from Orders which he at that Time judged illegal; and I could wish that as he has found by a Declaration of that Honourable Court his Error in that Opinion, he would now well weigh the Possibility of his receiving another Censure for his carrying on a Correspondence with the Provincial Councils in his single Name, either under the Pretence of his acting by the general Sanction of the Board, or by virtue of his Prerogative as President of the Council.

In respect to the First, he cannot legally obtain it, even from the united Voice of the Board, as they can neither increase nor diminish the proportionate Powers allotted to each Member respectively; and to the Second, whatever he might have possessed under the former Government, he certainly does not now enjoy. Since the new Administration took place, all the Letters which have been written to the Maratta Chiefs, to the Viziers, to Nudjif Cawn, to Cheyt Sing, and even to Mahomed Reza Cawn, (not being complimentary) have been previously submitted to the Approval of the Board; no Comparison therefore can be drawn from the Governor General's Name being fixed officially to those Letters, any more than those which are written by the Commander in Chief to the Officers of the Army: As for myself, in that Capacity I disclaim all independant Powers of the Council; although receiving my Authority expressly from the Court of Directors, I think myself as much entitled to separate and independant Power, as the Governor General may do in his Capacity of President of the Council.

Upon the Whole of this Business, I will candidly confess that the deep Impression which I have of the Propriety and Necessity of a firm Union in Government, would have prevailed on me to have relinquished my Scruples on the Legality of the present Measure, could I have been convinced of the Efficacy of the Governor General's Plan in promoting the Welfare of the Country; but being persuaded that it is founded in private, not public Policy, and in its Effects threatening the Completion of the Ruin of this Country, I could not avoid opposing it. To what Degree this is already effected, the Court of Directors will be enabled to judge by the Valuation which the Natives now set on the Lands, exemplified by the Statement of the Sale of the Zemindarries, of Talooks, recorded in the Consultation of 10th December 1776; the View of which I hope will justify my Suspicion of Fallacy in Projects originating from the same Source from which the Country has been reduced to the Condition it too evidently appears to be in from the above Fact.

Governor General—As I think the Subject to which the General's Minute refers, is already exhausted, I shall only refer to my own Minute preceding it, for a Reply to the Arguments and Objections contained in it.

The Governor General lays before the Board a Report which he has received from Messrs. Anderson, Crottes, and Bogle, together with a List of Aumeens recommended to be deputed into the Districts. He requests the Board's Approbation of the temporary Establishment therein proposed; and he recommends that Letters be written to the Calcutta Committee, to the Provincial Councils of Moorshedabad, Burdwan, and Dinagepore, and to the Collector of Baughleypore, informing them of the Names of the Aumeens deputed into the Districts in their respective Divisions, and of the Purposes of their Appointment, and requiring them to afford the Aumeens every Assistance; according to the accompanying Draft. The Governor General also lays before the Board a Draft of the Instructions which he proposes to give the Aumeens.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General.

Honourable Sir,

Having duly deliberated on the most effectual Means of accomplishing the Objects of the Honourable Board, in appointing us to superintend an Office for collecting and arranging Materials for the ensuing Settlement, we are of Opinion, that in order to ascertain the real Value of the Lands, the Nature of the Ryots Pottahs in different Parts of Bengal, and to elucidate the other Points recommended in our Instructions, it will be necessary to depute Native Officers into the Country, for the sole and express Purpose of collecting such Accounts and Information as have a Reference to the Business of our Office.

We beg Leave therefore to enclose a List of Persons recommended by the Paischar, as well qualified to execute this Duty in the several Districts to which they are nominated, together with the Monthly Establishment proposed to be assigned them.

From the Vicinity of the Calcutta Lands, and the Hoodas of Houghley, we are of Opinion that the Accounts of these Districts may be collected by the Officers of the Sudder Sherista, without incurring any additional Expence: We therefore recommend that Neir Sing, who is already employed under us, be nominated to perform that Duty, assisted by some of the Mohrirs included under the Sudder Establishment.

There are a few other Districts for which our Paischar has not yet fixed upon proper Aumeens. We expect in a few Days to be able to address you concerning them.

We have the Honour to be, with Respect, &c.

(Signed) D. Anderson,
Chas. Crottes,
Geo. Bogle.

For Nuddea.

As it is necessary to ascertain the Huftabood of the Lands, you are appointed an Aumeen, for the Purpose of collecting the Accounts of the Pergunnahs of Aurah, &c. (the Zemindarry of the Rajah of Nuddea.) You will accordingly proceed to the Sudder Cutcherry; and upon your Arrival, you will demand from the Zemindar, the Kurkinnidars, the Etimaundars, and the rest of the Zemindarry Officers and People employed in the Revenue Business, the Accounts of the Jumma, of the Collections, of the Balances, of the Serinjammy, and other Expences incurred in the Collections of the Revenues, and the other Business of the Mofussil, from the Beginning of the Bengal Year 1179, or the Time of the Settlement made by the Committee of Circuit.

You will then demand from the Pulwarries of Two or Three Villages of each Division, held by Kutkinadar or Etmandar, the Accounts of the Ryots; and by comparing them, you will ascertain the Truth or Falseness of the Accounts delivered to you by the Etmandar or Kutkinadar.

In the same Manner you will checque what you may have received from the Zemindar, by comparing them with those of the Etmandars and Kutkinadars.

You will compare the Accounts of the Jumma of 1178 with those of the Jumma of 1179, and the subsequent Years, down to this Time, tracing the different Articles of Increase or Decrease. You will also procure the Accounts of the Chekerans Lands and Bauzee Zemcen.

You will send all the Papers above-mentioned to the Huzzoor, authenticated by the Seal and Signature of the Person from whom you receive them, and attested by the Deputies of the Canongoes.

You will ascertain the Nature of the Ryots Pottahs, the Manner in which they pay their Rent, and every Circumstance relative to the Nerrickbunde; with this View, in Districts which have been encreated, you will demand the Jummabundy Accounts of Three Villages, taken indiscriminately; and in Districts where the Accounts of the Measurement are not to be found, having enquired into Circumstances of the Land, the Jumma, the Dakhel, and Khairidge (or Annexations and Alienations) and having ascertained the State of the Nurrick in One or Two Villages, you will cause the Putwarries to form a Jummabundy Account of them for the Year 1182.

All the above-mentioned Accounts, as well as those of the Jummabundy, you will send down as soon as they can be got ready for the Inspection of the Huzzoor.

In the Course of this Business, if you should meet with any Obstructions, you will apply to the Chief of the Provincial Council, who will afford you every necessary Assistance. You must be particularly cautious and circumspect, and you must strenuously exert yourself to accomplish the Objects of your Appointment fully and accurately. If any of the Officers of the Zemindars, Kurkinadars, or Etmaundars, in furnishing you with Accounts attempt to deceive you, or are guilty of Neglect, or in any other Respect behave improperly, their Conduct will not escape the Observation of the Huzzoor; it will immediately be reformed: Whereas, on the contrary, if it appears that they act candidly and fairly, it will be for their Advantage. In Proportion as you discharge your Duty with Zeal and Integrity, your Character will be raised, and you will be entitled to the Favour and Consideration of Government.

You will regularly communicate to the Huzzoor the State of your Business, and represent such Matters in the Course of it, as require Orders: And you are in every Thing to be regulated by the Instructions of the Huzzoor.

D R A F T of Circular Letter to the Provincial Councils.

On the 3d Instant, you were informed of our having established an Office at the Presidency, to prepare and arrange Materials for the ensuing Settlement. In consequence of that Institution, the following Officers have been appointed to proceed into your Division, to collect from the Zemindars, Farmers, and Etmaunders, and the inferior Officers of the Collections, the Mutual Accounts of the past Collections and Charges, in order to ascertain the real Value of the Lands, as the Groundwork of a just and equal Assessment. They are also instructed to procure exact Information concerning the Nature of the Ryots Pottahs, and the Rates of Land in different Parts of the Country.

We direct you to grant them effectual Assistance in the Prosecution of the Business assigned them.

We are, &c.

Fort William,
the 10th December 1776.

Mr. Francis—I disapprove.

Mr. Barwell—I approve.

General Clavering—I disapprove.

Resolved, That the Aumeens, with their Establishments, and the Instructions proposed to be given them, be confirmed; and that the Draft of the Circular Letter be copied fair, and dispatched.

The Governor General and Mr. Barwell having thought proper to address the Honourable the Court of Directors, now deliver in a Copy of their Letter, dated 12th December.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for the Affairs of the Honourable the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

We were in Hopes that the Necessity of importuning you with Appeals from one Part of your Administration against the Acts of the rest, would have been long since removed by the decisive Interposition of your Authority, or have eventually ceased, on our Parts at least, when we became possessed of the constitutional Means of conducting your Affairs; and we have little personal Encouragement to renew this Mode of Address: But we should be wanting in our Duty were we to conceal from you the Difficulties with which we are threatened, or leave you to collect them as Occurrences from the ordinary Course of Business, from your Records at large, or from the miscellaneous and desultory Enclosures, with which each Dispatch has of late Years been improperly crowded.

You have been regularly advised by the public Letters written from the Revenue Department, of the the Office which has been lately created for the Purpose of collecting Materials for forming the new Settlement of the Province, after the Expiration of the present Leases, which will end in April next. This passed with the Opposition which we naturally expected: Mr. Francis simply objected to the Office, and to the conjectural Effects of it, but seemed to promise his Support in the Conduct of it: That we may not be suspected of a Misconstruction of his Words which imply such a Promise, we will add them as they stand in his Minute of the 5th of November: They are as follow:

“ I deem it my Duty in the first Instance to deliver my Sentiments freely on every Measure which has Relation to this important Subject; in the next, to assist even in the Conduct of Arrangements which I may not approve, and to promote their Success when once they are resolved on.”

General Clavering objected to the Office on Grounds of which we were not aware, pronouncing it illegal, and added, “ that he could not strain his Sense of Duty to promise, as Mr. Francis did, that he would support it when it was resolved to be carried into Execution.” We are at least obliged to him for this undisguised Avowal of his Sentiments, which sufficiently indicated a Determination to oppose the Measure in all its Operations: We think that Mr. Francis would have acted with more Propriety, if he had been as ingenuous; but to our Astonishment, his next Minute, dated the 23d November, contained a direct Retraction of the Promise made by him on the 5th, in the following Words:

“ I have at all Times been ready to contribute my utmost Endeavours to execute the Resolutions of Government, and to promote the general Dispatch of Business: While I have the Honour of holding this Station, I will not decline taking my Share in any of the Labours or Duties that belong to it: In the present Instance, I am not aware that my Assistance can be of any Service to the Governor General, since by the Plan of the proposed Office, the Business allotted to it is to be exclusively under his Direction; my Objections, whether weighty or not, were meant to include the whole Measure.”

Whether Mr. Francis had caught the Spirit of Hostility from General Clavering, or had hitherto thought proper to suppress it, or chose this Method of expressing his Relentment for the Intention of recalling Mr. Bristow from the Court of the Nabob of Owde, with which he was at this Time acquainted, we shall not in this Place examine: His Conduct since has been uniform with the Declaration of General Clavering. Instead of “ assisting in the Conduct of Arrangements which he did not approve, and of promoting their Success when they had been once resolved on,” he has opposed even the formal Notification of the new Office to the Provincial Councils, has protested against it on the Plea of Illegality, adopted from the General, of which there is not the most remote Hint in his first Minute; and both the General and Mr. Francis have repeatedly refused to sign the Letters which contain the Notification.

This brief Narrative will be sufficient to convey to you a general Idea of the Subject, and to connect the enclosed Minutes which have passed upon it, of which this Letter is chiefly meant as a Conveyance.

We must suppose that it will be the Cause of great Alarm to your Honourable Court, to hear that a Design of such Importance as that in which we have engaged, should not only have been opposed in its first Formation, but that it should have produced a Separation of the Powers of your Council, by the avowed Application of those possessed by one Part of it, to counteract and defeat those of the other, even in the regular and constitutional Acts of Government.

On this Occasion we hope we may be allowed to call to your Remembrance, the very different Conduct which we observed at the Time in which the other Members of the Board possessed the entire Rule of Affairs. Few of their Measures had our Concurrence, and many of them were strongly tinged with personal Animosity. Yet we never refused the official Sanction to them, which your Orders direct, nor opposed the subsidiary Acts which were necessary for their Support, when they had once received the Sanction of the Majority of the Board.

Neither was the Business which has drawn the present Opposition upon us, such as we voluntarily sought, but introduced by the unavoidable Necessity of your Affairs.

Some preparatory Means were undeniably necessary to the Formation of the future Settlement of the Provinces on the Close of the present. If the Council were not unanimous in their Choice of these, it was undeniably necessary that the Choice of that Part in which the constitutional Majority consisted, should prevail, and it is undeniable that the Acts of such Majority are the Acts of Government, and as such binding on the rest, by the express Words of the late regulating Act of Parliament. In refusing to be bound by an Act of Government thus passed, we conceive that General Clavering and Mr. Francis are guilty of a direct Breach of the Act of Parliament. In refusing to sign the Orders agreed on by the Majority, they are guilty of a Breach of your most positive Orders: By this Refusal they have proclaimed to the Servants of the Company, their Disavowal of a Participation in the Orders, and encouraged those to whom they were addressed to disobey them. But the Declaration of General Clavering, that “ he will, to the utmost of his Power, render every Person amenable for every Act done by them in the Management, Ordering, or Government of these Provinces, by virtue of an Order issued by the Governor General, as his own Act, independant of the Council,” is pregnant with the most dangerous Consequences; like the Trumpet of Sedition, it deters the Timid from their Duty, and excites the Disaffected to Rebellion.

It is true, that these Words seem to apply to the Exercise of an Authority of a very extensive Latitude; an Authority which the Governor General totally disclaims. He has no where solicited the exclusive Power of ordering, managing, and governing these Provinces; nor possesses any Delegation gation of such Powers. The Business of the Office is merely that of Preparation, which certainly is totally distinct from ordering, managing, and governing; and even the Orders, which for the Sake of Dispatch are to be issued from it in the Governor's Name, ~~are~~ only such as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board: But as the General's Protest is expressly made to the Circular Letter written to the Provincial Councils, notifying the Institution of the new Office, it can only be understood to apply to such Orders as are expressed in this Letter, and his Menace which I have quoted, can only be considered as a Denunciation of the severest Effects of his Power and Influence, against all Persons who shall dare to acknowledge a regular Act of Government.

Unfortunately, the Power which we possess is but accidental, and its Duration uncertain. The declared Expectations of Changes to take place in this Government with the Arrival of the Eagle Packet, favoured perhaps by the Severity of your late Censures on us, and the indulgent Sentiments expressed to our Opponents, tend to scatter Doubts and Distrusts on the Minds of the People, to weaken our Authority, and to justify every Opposition to it.

Added to these Disadvantages, your Honourable Court will well remember that the Provincial Councils were constituted of Persons chosen by General Clavering and the Members then forming the Majority of the Council, and our Recommendations, though in some Instances founded on yours, totally rejected. These are the Persons on whose Assistance we must principally depend for the Execution and Success of our Investigations, while they continue to hold their Offices.

Such are the Difficulties we have to encounter; to surmount these, we possess the Form and Effect of present Power, and the Choice of our Agents, aided as we believe by the general Good-will of your Servants, and by the Confidence of the Natives, arising by the Habits of official Interchange, and Length of Connection. With these Aids we shall not fear to prosecute the Work which we have begun; and though our Labour may be augmented, the Effect will be the same, as it will only stimulate us to a more earnest Exertion of the Powers which we possess, and which we have no Doubt of rendering effectual to your Service; still supporting our Minds with the Hope that this State of Indecision, if not already past, cannot be suffered to exist much longer; if it is, the Consequences may be beyond Retrieval.

Hitherto Mr Barwell has declined taking a direct Part in the Addresses which have been made to you by the other Members of your Council, conceiving it (as he has more than once declared) an Irregularity in any Member of the Board, the President excepted, to assume a separate Correspondence with your Honourable Court; but he has ever considered himself as virtually included in those of the Governor General, as being equally affected by the Subjects to which they related, and equally concerned in the Issue of them.

The Case is now of a different Nature. In a Measure of Government, of the highest Importance to your Interests and to the Welfare of this great Country, Two Members of the Council have in a Manner withdrawn themselves from the collective Body of it, and thus thrown him into a Party with the Governor General, with whom he feels himself involved in all the Consequences of the same Responsibility, by his joint Engagement in the first Formation of the Measure, and by Hostility denounced against it in all its progressive Stages by those whose Duty it was to have joined us in the Support of it.

We are, with the greatest Respect,
Honourable Sirs,

Fort William,
the 12th December 1776.

Your most faithful and obedient humble Servants,
(Signed) Warren Hastings,

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, the 27th December 1776.

The Secretary delivers in the following Copy of Mr. Francis's Letter to the Court of Directors, dated the 20th Instant.

Fort William, 20th December 1776.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors.

Honourable Sirs,

In a Letter, addressed to you by the Governor and Mr. Barwell, under Date the 12th Instant, and communicated to me this Day, considerable Pains have been taken to fix a Charge of Inconsistency on some Declarations made by me, relative to a Measure of great Importance, lately resolved on and undertaken by those Gentlemen. Through whatever Channel this separate Letter may have been conveyed to you, I trust you will not decide either on the Merits of the Measure, or on the Conduct of your Servants, without a View of every Part of our Proceedings which may have Relation to the Subject.

It seems unnecessary to answer the Terms in which the Charge is conveyed, or to disclaim the Motives imputed to me: Facts alone ought to appear before you; or, if accompanied with Arguments, they ought to be expressed with Moderation and Decorum. For the Substance of the Charge my Reply shall be short and in point.

I adhere

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

I adhere to the Declaration quoted from my Minute of the 5th of November: When Expediency alone is in question, and when no illegal Act is proposed, it is unquestionably my Duty to assist, even in the Conduct of Arrangements which I may not approve, and to promote their Success when once they are resolved on.

Whether this Declaration in its true Sense can either be particularly applied to an Act done a Month after it was made, or generally to any illegal Act whatsoever, are the Questions by which the Consistency of my Conduct must be decided. A general Offer of my Assistance was followed by a Resolution which excluded me from the Possibility of giving any Assistance whatsoever in the Formation of the ensuing Settlement; I mean the Institution of a new Office, under the sole Charge of the Governor General. I did not however object to the Measure on the Ground of Illegality. The Act which I deem illegal, and to which I have refused to sign my Name, was not introduced until the 3d of December: The Motion made by the Governor on that Day, was new and unexpected. My former Minutes undoubtedly did not contain the most remote Hint of the Illegality of a Measure which was not in Existence at the Time they were written.

In Consequence of the above Motion, an Order has been sent by the Governor and Mr. Barwell, to all the Provincial Councils (excepting Patna) commanding them to enter on their Public Records, and to employ their Authority in every Instance in which it may be necessary to enforce official Orders issued by the Governor General. The Reasons which induce me to think this Order illegal, are fully stated on our Proceedings in the Revenue Department: Deeming it to be so, my Refusal to sign it is neither inconsistent with my former Declarations, nor with the Duty of my Station.

Mr. Hastings and Mr. Barwell will not expect that their Authority should weigh with me in a Question of this Nature, against my own clear Conviction; when placing an unlimited Confidence in the Wisdom and Justice of the Tribunal to which I appeal, I am ready to declare, that if it were not indecent to suppose an Illegality in any Order or Instruction of the Court of Directors, I should deem it the strongest, because it would be personally the most hazardous Proof of my Duty to them, not to obey it.

In considering the Order in question, you will distinguish between the Terms in which it is expressed, or the Construction to which they are liable, and any personal Distrust of the Governor General. I look to nothing but to the Extent of the Power they convey; the Use which may be made of it, is uncertain. In all the Records of your Government here, there be an Example of such an exclusive Power assumed by any former President, and by his own Casting Vote, against that of Two Thirds of the Council; it ought, and I take for granted it would have been produced. The Fact would not prove the Right, but at least it would shew that the present Resolution is not totally unprecedented.

I would not be understood to appeal to the Conduct of the Governor and Mr. Barwell on any former Occasion, as an Example to justify my own; yet, since it is asserted that notwithstanding "few of the Measures" pursued by General Clavering, Colonel Monson, and myself, "had their Concurrence, they never refused the official Sanction to them, which your Orders direct, and which were necessary for their Support;" I beg Leave to solicit your Attention to our Proceedings in the Secret Department of the 19th of June 1775, in which you will find a Letter proposed and approved of by the Majority, in Reply to the Chief Justice, and that the Governor and Mr. Barwell disapproving of this Reply, declined affixing their Names to it. On the Day following, a Letter to the Judges, in Behalf of the Nabob's Vackeel, was agreed to by a Majority, but the Governor and Mr. Barwell refused to sign it.

On the Proceedings of the 21st March 1775, in the Revenue Department, you will find the following Letter from the Governor General to the Secretary.

" To Mr. Sumner.

" Sir,

" I shall not sign the Letters proposed to be written to the Board of Trade, to the Chief and Council of Burdwan, and to the Chief of Chittagong, with Yesterday's Date; because I do not acknowledge the Appointments notified in these Letters to be Acts of the Board, or legal; and I desire that you will record my Refusal.

" I am, Sir, &c.

(Signed) " Warren Hastings."

" Fort William,
" the 18th March 1775."

Yet it was not alledged or pretended in any of these Instances, that the Resolutions of the Majority were in themselves illegal. The Illegality alluded to in the Governor's Letter, relates solely to the Power of the Majority whom he did not then acknowledge to be the Board. But you will not permit so erroneous an Opinion to be pleaded in Justification of any particular Act which may be founded upon it.

* I have the Honour, to be, &c.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, December 27th, 1776.

The Secretary delivers in General Clavering's and Mr. Francis's Minutes, on his presenting the Circular Letter proposed in Consultation of 20th Instant, to be signed.

General Clavering—If an Office had not been instituted under the immediate Charge and Direction of the Governor General to act in it, independantly of the Council; with Powers assigned to it to depute Aumeens for occasional Investigation, to collect Accounts of the past Collections, to take Copies of the present Pottahs and of the Nerricbundy; and to correspond with the Governor General only, and to be under his sole Controul, I should not object to the Letters now presented to me to sign, to the Provincial Councils; but considering these Letters, as authorizing an Establishment which I have, on the most mature Reflection, deemed illegal, I cannot, without a Departure from the Principles on which I have acted, in refusing my Assent to the Institution, now consent to subscribe Letters which, though in Appearance they seem only to convey Information of its Operation, yet in Fact would amount to a Confirmation of the Establishment itself.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to record a Declaration, that, by signing this Letter, I do not mean to relinquish any of the Objections I have already urged against the Expediency of the Measures proposed in it. At the same Time, as the present Letter does not appear to me to convey any exclusive Powers to the Governor General, or to refer to any Orders to be issued in his Name, I think I am warranted in signing it by the Company's Standing Orders.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 10th January 1777.

The Governor General delivers in the following Report from Messrs. Anderson, Croftes, and Bogle; and additional Establishment, with List of Accounts required.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. &c. &c.

Honourable Sir,

In Addition to the Aumeens already appointed to proceed into different Districts of Bengal, for procuring Accounts of the past Collections, and other Materials of Information, we now submit to you a List of Persons recommended by the Pailhear, as well qualified to be sent upon the like Service into the remaining Districts, accompanied with the Establishment proposed for each.

As the Jumma Wafil Bakee Accounts, transmitted to the Presidency from some of the Divisions, do not distinguish the lesser Mahals, we beg Leave to enclose a Memorandum of Accounts which are wanted from the Provincial Councils of Moorhedabad and Dinagepore, and from the Collector of Bauglepore. These may be transmitted in Persian.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 10th January 1777.

The General delivers in a Letter to the Court of Directors, which he desires may be sent a Number in the Packet now under Dispatch.

Ordered, That it be accordingly sent a Number in the Packet, and that a Copy thereof be here entered.

To the Honourable Court of Directors.

Fort William, 9th January 1777.

Honourable Sirs,

The many Papers which have been written on the Establishment of the Office lately constituted, and now conducting under the immediate Controul of the Governor General, independant of the Council, would have rendered it unnecessary for me to trouble you any more on the Subject of that Institution if the Governor General and Mr. Barwell had not, by a direct Address to you on the 20th of last Month, endeavoured to impress you with the Idea, that because I refused to sign the official Letters to give Effect to that Office which I deemed illegal, and because I declared that I would, as far as lay in my Power, render those who acted under it answerable for the Consequences that might result from it; those Two Gentlemen have given a Flight to their Imagination, and very poetically have told you, that my Declaration "like the Trumpet of Sedition, deters the Timid from their Duty, and excites the Disaffected to Rebellion."

If Sedition and Rebellion were, as they represent, actually stalking forth, or existing in this Government, well might they be justified in suggesting the great Alarm that such Events would naturally occasion to your Honourable Court; but as I am inclined to believe that the Credit which those Gentlemen might formerly have with you, has suffered some Diminution since you have had Opportunities of comparing their former Representations with the State of Facts, I am willing to flatter myself that the India Stock will not be materially affected by this alarming Intelligence, communicated to you with so much Ostentation. In Truth, the Declaration I have made on your Records, that I would hold those Persons answerable for the Consequences of what I deem illegal Proceedings, is the only Foundation they have for attempting to give you this Uneasiness; and how groundless their pretended Apprehensions were, is evinced by the full Replies they now possess from all the Provincial Councils, containing Assurances of implicit Obedience to their Orders.

In short, nothing can more clearly prove the compleat Independancy of the Governor General's present Power, or the Non-existence of any Cause for Apprehension that he may be interrupted in the prosecuting his present Plan, than the total Ignorance that Government is actually in of his Correspondence with the Provincial Councils and Aumeens: Their Agents, who are already dispersed through the Districts, may assume whatever Power they please uncontrolled: Their Conduct cannot be checked in any Instance by the Provincial Councils, who are the only Delegates of Government in the Districts, seeing that their Instructions have not been communicated to them. Such uncontrolled Power and unlimited Dependence placed upon these Agents, would naturally suggest the Idea, that the Governor General's Confidence in them had been formed by the Experience that he had of their Services and official Probity; yet, if we look for his Opinion as it stands on Record, we shall find him on all Occasions expressing the utmost Contempt of their Character, and the Exercise of their Functions. I will take the Liberty to refer you to some of those Passages to prove the Truth of what I assert.

Consultation, 5th January 1773: "The Board suspecting Collusion between the Aumeen and Farmers," &c. Letter to Mr. Jacob Rider, Collector of Nuddea, entered in Consultation 22d January 1773; "The Hufstבוד, which has been made of the Talook Lands, has not answered the Intent of the Committee of Circuit, nor is there any Trust to be put in the Accounts delivered in by the Aumeens." Another Letter to Mr. Rider, 26th January 1773; "When we consider the Report you sent us of the Aumeens appointed to enquire into the State of the Lands held by the Talookdars, we are confident no Dependence can be placed on this Mode of Enquiry." Consultation 14th June 1775, the Governor General's Minute; "I confess I do not like the Deputation of Aumeens, because I think they are not to be trusted."

Whether any Inference can be drawn from the Governor General's present Intentions in employing Aumeens, from the Opinion he has constantly entertained of them, I will submit to yourselves, Gentlemen, to determine; but I must be permitted to say, that this bad Opinion would warrant any Conclusion that their present Appointment inculcated for the worst Purposes.

If it were further necessary to shew that the Mode of Enquiry by Aumeens, so particularly condemned by the Governor General on the 26th January 1773, is likewise disapproved by the Provincial Councils; I need quote only a single Instance, which will at the same Time point out that the present avowed Object of ascertaining the Value of the Lands is not prosecuted in the Manner which was deemed so requisite for that End; as the Instructions given to the Aumeens do not contain nor correspond with Circumstances of Investigation which are proposed for this Enquiry. Extract from a Letter from the Provincial Council of Muxadabad, of the 11th May 1775, entered on Consultations 13th June following: "In order to judge properly of the State of a Country and its Condition to pay the Revenues, it is requisite to know the Number of its Inhabitants, the Nature and Produce of the Soil, what Quantity of Land is cultivated or uncultivated, and what Improvements

"ments the latter is capable of. This Knowledge is only to be obtained from local Investigations & we are fixed to One Spot, and cannot make it ourselves, nor can we depute others to do it who can be relied on."

Upon the whole of this Business, whether I have acted legally or illegally, in refusing to acknowledge the independant Authority assumed by the Governor General, I shall submit to your Judgment.

If my Conduct has been irregular I will stand to the Consequences of it, without attempting to justify myself by their Example, or by denying, as they have done, their not having refused their official Sanction to the Measures of the late Majority, nor opposed the subsidiary Acts which were necessary for their Support. Surely these Gentlemen must have a very indifferent Opinion of your Memory, or are very little solicitous about their own Credit, when they appeal to you for the Truth of Facts which are so contrary to the Evidence on Record.

I cannot conclude without noticing another Fact, perverted in this Letter, because it seems expressly introduced to warrant the effecting of a Design to violate your Instructions, by further Instances in dismissing your Servants from their Seats in the Revenue Councils. It is asserted that the Provincial Councils were constituted of Persons chosen by the late Majority, and the Governor's Recommendation totally rejected. The Truth of this Assertion may be established by a Reference to the List of the Persons recommended by the Governor, by which it will appear, that out of Thirty-four to be named for Seats in those Boards, only Six were omitted; and further, that at present there are only Three in Office of that Nomination not recommended by the Governor himself, viz. Messrs. Goring, Rous, and Shore.

If I avoid further Notice of some other Misrepresentations in this Letter of partial Quotations, it is because I am unwilling to take up more of your Time by Repetition of what is so fully stated in the Minutes at length, which are referred to in it.

I am, &c.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 25th February 1777.

Extract of Letter from Mr. George Cumming, Collector of Ramgur, dated 12th February 1777.

In Obedience to the Commands of your honourable Board, signified to me in your Letter of the 31st ultimo, I herewith beg Leave to enclose the Jumma Waffil Baukee (in the Persian Language) of the Districts of Ramgur, Nagpore, Palamou, and Kendy, for the present Year, or Bengal Year 1183.

Governor General—I request that the Board will be pleased to give Orders, that the Payment of the Salaries allowed to the Aumeens, and of the Office superintending them, be issued from the Khalsa Treasury, according to the several Establishments.

Mr. Francis—I wish the Secretary to make out an Account of the Expence of the whole Establishment of the new Office, and of the Aumeens. The Salaries must of course be paid.

Mr. Barwell—I agree.

General Clavering—I agree.

Ordered, That the Secretary do direct the Payment of the Salaries accordingly.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, the 11th March 1777.

General Clavering—Understanding that Complaints are making every Day, of the Conduct of the Aumeens in many of the Districts into which they have been sent, I beg Leave to propose, that the Chief, or Acting Chief, should be ordered to enter on the Proceedings of his Council every such Complaint as shall be made to him, and transmit them to this Board.

Governor General—I fear the Consequences of recording every Complaint that shall be made to the Chief of the Provincial Councils; because, if it is publicly known that such is the Rule, their Consultations will be crowded with them. It will be impossible for them to enquire into every Complaint that is made to them; and they will of course stand as a Black List of Crimes laid to the Charge of the Aumeens; which, in these Times of popular Prejudice, and the Precipitation with which Reports to the Prejudice of Men's Characters are received at Home, will be all admitted as Truth, because unrefuted. I know very well, that a thousand Artifices have been used to throw an Odium on the Aumeens; and though the greatest Caution has been observed in the Choice of the Men, all of whom are by Education, by Profession and Practice, of approved Qualifications, yet it is impossible to guard so extensive a System against some Abuses, against Neglects or Misconduct; nor can I suppose that the Aumeens are exempt from the Failings incident to Mankind in general; yet I am persuaded, that few Instances, and none of any Enormity, will ever appear against them. I shall not object to the Motion; but I shall reserve to myself the Right of proposing, that the Order should be rescinded if it shall appear hereafter to be productive of a Stoppage of Business. In the mean Time, I consent to its passing.

Mr. Francis—The Prejudice against Aumeens is undoubtedly very great and general; and it appears to be no where so strongly established as in the Minds of those Persons who ought naturally to be best acquainted with them: I agree therefore with the Governor General, in thinking that Reports to their Disadvantage may perhaps be too easily credited. Supposing any Degree of Danger, however, of their suffering in their Personal Characters by vexatious Charges, I do not think it comparable to the Consequences which may follow to the Country in general, if the Provincial Councils and this Board were not entirely open to receive every Complaint that might be brought against them. The Chiefs of the Councils should not have a Power of distinguishing what Complaints they will receive, and which they will reject: They should receive none but what are authenticated, and such as the Complainants are ready to make good; under this Condition they should reject none. If any Complaints of particular Enormity should be preferred, we ourselves shall have an Opportunity of marking them from the rest, and sifting them to the Bottom. This I take to be as necessary for the Safety and Credit of the Aumeens, as for the Protection of the People; I therefore agree to the Motion.

Governor General—I would beg Leave to ask, and hope that my Question may be taken as a Part of the Proposition, Whether it is meant that the Aumeens shall be compelled to appear personally, and answer to all such Complaints as shall be regularly preferred against them?

General Clavering—By the Instructions given to the Aumeens, and the Orders that have been sent to the Revenue Councils, it does not appear that the former are subjected to any Controul whatever. They may commit whatever Enormity they please, and the Government, as it was composed by the Act of Parliament, cannot be informed of any of the Facts which have attended those Enormities. It is said, and I believe it may be proved, that several of the Farmers, or their Servants, have been confined, tied up, and flogged, by the present Aumeens, in order to compel them to give up their Accounts.

Nundololl, who is sent as Aumeen into the District of Dacca, is furnished with a Guard of 50 Sepoys; but by whose Order they were given him, I have not been able to ascertain. In the mean Time many Complaints of this Man's Conduct have reached my Ears; and as it is probable that one Day or another Prosecutions in the King's Court may be commenced against him, and the others, for their Violences, I thought it right that some Memorandum might be recorded of the Complaints which the Farmers shall make to the Chiefs of the Provincial Councils, in order that it may not be urged against them, that they never represented their Grievances. I believe that it may be true, that the present Aumeens have received a regular Education in this Branch of Business; for I understand that more than one of them was employed by Cossim Ally Cawn, during his tyrannical Government. I will leave it to the Governor General to determine on the Propriety of the Aumeens appearing personally before the Provincial Councils, to answer to any Complaints that may be made against their Conduct, or their sending some Person, properly authorized by them, for that Purpose, if he thinks that their appearing personally will be any Interruption to the Business on which they are sent.

Governor General—I must beg Leave to observe, that the Provincial Courts of Justice are already open to Complaints against the Aumeens, as against all other Persons, and it is to them that they are properly cognizable; to the Dewanny Courts if they are guilty of any Civil Offences, to the Foudzarry if they are Criminal, and to them they may answer by their Vackeels. How far these Courts may be disposed to favour or to pre-judge the Aumeens, I cannot say; but I have been informed of some Attempts which have been made to dispoise the Foudzarry Court of Dacca against the Aumeen of that District. The Particulars have been so indistinctly related to me, that I will not repeat repeat them; but desire that the acting Chief of Dacca be called upon to declare the Complaints which have been already preferred to him against that Aumeen, with such Circumstances relating to him as have come to his Knowledge.

I wait for the final Sentiments of the other Members of the Board, before I shall deliver mine upon the Question as it now stands.

Mr. Francis—The Object of the General's Motion seems to be to prevent the Complaints from being suppressed, or not to leave it to the Chiefs of the Councils to receive or reject Petitions at their Discretion. It does not propose any Mode of investigating such Complaints. I think myself, that calling the Aumeens before the Councils, upon Occasion of every Complaint that may be made, might be used as a Plea for neglecting the Business on which they are deputed. The Investigation, when necessary, should be made upon the Spot.

Mr. Barwell—There are proper Courts of Justice for redressing the Grievances of the Subject; to these the Aggrieved should apply. The Method that is proposed by General Clavering, appears, in my Opinion, not so much calculated for doing Justice between the Parties complaining and complained against, as to bring before the Board whatever Aspersions the Zemindars and Farmers of the Revenue may think proper to cast upon the Aumeens. They have an obvious Interest in calumniating an Officer of Government, whose declared Duty it is to investigate the Value of the Lands; and I make no Doubt they will use every Means in their Power to intimidate these Officers into a Compliance with their Views, or totally to remove them, if they find them not so compliant as they would wish. When the Aumeens were appointed, I understood them to be independant of the Provincial Councils, as far as related to the particular Investigation they were ordered to make of the Revenue. Could the General's Motion now be complied with, it will in fact render them immediately amenable to the Councils, and in fact, under an Influence that may counteract the Purposes of their Mission. I am against the General's Motion, because I think it unnecessary, while there are Courts of Justice to hear any Complaints that may be made against the Aumeens; and because, if it was admitted, it would, in my Opinion, render the Aumeens the Servants of the Provincial Councils, and defeat the End of their Appointment.

Governor General—I still assent to the Question in the Terms of it, but move this Addition to the Orders which may be sent upon the Subject, That the Provincial Councils be forbidden to take Cognizance of the Complaints themselves, referring them to the established Courts of Judicature.

Mr. Francis—The Aumeens are our Officers; if Complaints are made against them for Abuses in the Execution of their Office, they ought to be investigated by us, or by the Boards immediately subordinate to us: The Punishment which should follow Conviction is, properly, Dismissal from the Office, which it is not in the Power of the Dewannee Courts to inflict; I am therefore against this Addition to the Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I agree to the Addition proposed by the Governor General.

General Clavering—I agree to the Proposition, that the Provincial Councils should not take Cognizance of the Complaints, because I am convinced that under the present Influence in which those Councils are, they would not act with Spirit or Vigour to redress those that may be made against the Aumeens: In fact, what Satisfaction can be made to a Farmer, or Zemindar, who has been tied up and flogged for not giving his Accounts? It will be sufficient if the Chief records the Complaint, as proposed by my first Motion, and transmits it to this Board.

Mr. Barwell—The General is pleased to ask the following Question, What Satisfaction can be made to a Farmer, or Zemindar, who has been tied up and flogged for not giving his Accounts; a Question thus introduced appears to affirm a Fact, while it supposes the Case: I therefore should be glad to be informed by the General if he knows of such a Fact.

General Clavering—The Case I have supposed certainly does imply that such Facts have happened, and it is to ascertain the Truth of them that I proposed that all Complaints should be registered; but the Inhabitants of this Country, after the Examples that have been made of Rajah Nundcomar, and Coja Kaworke, who has Ten Actions now in the Court carrying on against him, most of them by the People, who the Dacca Council informed us in their Letter of 7th December 1774, entered in Consultations 10th January 1775, were confined by Order of the proper Power appointed at that Place, and not by the Authority of the Armenian, will rather chuse to be flogged Fifty Times than run the Risk of being hanged, or ruined by a Multitude of Suits commenced against him in the Supreme Court.

Mr. Barwell—I had flattered myself with receiving the Information I asked for. I am sorry I have as much to seek, to know what was the General's Design in introducing his Question, as if he had declined an Answer to my Question; for my Part, I know of no Instances of any of the Farmers, Zemindars, or their Agents, having been as yet punished with Stripes; but as I suppose the Farmers of the Revenue compellable to deliver their Accounts, the Means which are authorized by the Customs of the Country, will, I apprehend, be pursued, when any of the Zemindars or Farmers have the Hardiness to disobey any Orders that may be issued for delivering their Accounts, and by such Means attempting to preclude Government from a Knowledge of the Revenue of the Country.

Mr. Francis—The last Words of Mr. Barwell's Minute, I confess, surprize and shock me more than any Thing that has ever yet passed since I have been in Bengal; and I cannot sit at this Table with Peace of Mind, until they receive an Explanation, which I must beg of the Governor General to give. They seem to me to imply, that the Aumeens are vested with a Power of administering Corporal Punishment to the Zemindars, Farmers, and all other Natives whatsoever concerned in the Revenues, according according to their Discretion. I beg Leave to ask the Governor General, Whether he understands the Power to be vested in the Aumeens? From the Influence which they avowedly possess by the Power they have of making Reports for or against every Man from whom they are to demand Accounts, I forelaw Abuses enough, of Corruption on one Side, and Deception on the other; but I did not conceive that the Lives of the People, as well as their Property, were to be left at the Mercy of these Men.

Mr. Barwell—The Manner in which Mr. Francis is pleased to descant on my saying, that the Government must have the Means to enforce its own Orders, insinuates something so enormous in the Position, that I really thought I had committed some very great Mistake in delivering my Sentiments; and under such Circumstances, I should have been glad to have corrected any Error of Opinion, I was no less surprized than amazed, upon looking back to what I had asserted, that the great Enormity expatiated upon by Mr. Francis, consists simply in my affirming that the Government in delegating a particular Trust must delegate with it the Means of Execution, or else the Means can never prove equal to the End. I have no where said that the Aumeens are authorized to punish with Stripes the Zemindars, &c. Officers of the Revenue: All I have affirmed is, that I know of no Instances to authorize the General's Question, but that I suppose the Farmers of the Revenue compellable to deliver their Accounts by the Means which are authorized by the Customs of the Country. I see nothing shocking to Humanity in any Thing that I have advanced, or that subjects me to the Obloquy of having conceived a Thought so repugnant to my own Nature. If by the Customs of the Country, a Member of the Community is liable to Corporal Punishment for opposing an Ordinance of Government, I say, if it be so, the Assertion of the Fact will be no Impeachment of the Goodness of my Intention in affirming it.

Mr. Francis—The only Matter before the Board relates to the inflicting of Corporal Punishment by the Authority of the Aumeens; I submit to Judgment, whether Mr. Barwell's Opinion, as it stands expressed, does not suppose them vested with such a Power. I adhere to my Question, and beg Leave to submit it to the Governor General.

Governor General—The Aumeens have received no Authority or Warrant for any Part of their Conduct, but such Orders in Writing as have been drawn up by the Superintendants of the Aumeens Office, and have received my Signature; none of these invest them with the Power to inflict Corporal Punishment, nor have I ever yet heard, except from General Clavering, that they have assumed such a Power. It is not impossible but they may suppose themselves possessed of the same Authority as the Mogul Government formerly was used to delegate to Men entrusted with the same Office. It was not usual for that Government to commit difficult Duties to its Ministers, and to withhold from them the Means of discharging them. The Farmers are compellable by their Engagements to deliver to Government an exact Account of their Collections: All the Cutcherry Accounts, both Sudder and Motuffil, are the Property of Government, and the Attempt to suppress or withhold these from the Officers of Government, regularly appointed to demand them, is in my Opinion a high Crime against Government, and therefore liable to severe Punishment; but I do not wish to leave this Punishment to the Discretion of the Aumeens. If this Principle is not just in itself, or if it is not warranted by the immemorial Usage of the Country, I shall expect to hear it disproved.

Mr. Francis—As nothing is at present in question, but the Extent of the Power of the Aumeens, I am satisfied with the Governor's Explanation on that particular Point, and am happy to find that their Power does not reach so far as Mr. Barwell seemed to apprehend. As for the other Points touched upon in the Governor's Minute, I need not agitate them at present; contenting myself simply with saying, that I join issue with the Governor General, and that I do deny that such Powers as are now in question, and described in his Minute, were ever delegated by the Mogul Government to Aumeens, or any other Officers whatsoever, at any Period preceding the Subadary of Jaffier Cawn, or about the Year 1720. The History of Bengal since the Death of Suja Cawn, does not furnish any Example of a regular Government, such as I believe the original Mogul Government to have been.

Governor General—Mr. Francis may with great Safety send me back to the Times which preceded the Government of Jaffier Cawn, for the Evidence of the Practice which I described. I shall not waste my Time in the fruitless Search; but I will with Confidence affirm, that no Period of the Mogul Government in Bengal, that the History of no State in India ever produced a Character more exemplary for Method, Accuracy for Justice and Integrity, than that of Chain Roy, who held the Office of Roy Royan during the Administration of the Nabob Aliverdy Cawn Mohibut Jung. I understand from the Roy Royan now present, that Roy Munnohurdols, one of the present Officers of the Khalsa, held an Office under the Authority of Chain Roy, and will most probably be able to give Testimony to this Point. I know not the Man even by Sight; nor is it probable that he will be able to tell the Tendency of the Question if it is put to him. I desire that the Secretary will, so soon as the Council is closed, call upon the Man (I now, in the Presence of the Board, desire the Roy Royan to send for him for that Purpose) for a Definition of the Powers both of Sezawulls and Aumeens, both with respect to their immediate Duties, and the Means which they had of executing them. With respect to the Authority of Sezawulls, the Name of Rammaul Badry is so very notorious for the Severities exercised by him on the Zemindars, and other Persons entrusted with the Charge of the Revenue during the Administration of Jaffier Aliverdy Cawn, that I trust the Court of Directors will not want Evidence even in their own Body, that the Powers of Punishment were possessed, were exercised by these Delegates of Government, before the Commencement

Commencement of the Government exercised by the Company. I am sorry I have been led to bear a Part in a Discussion so totally foreign to the Point in question, since I have already declared, that the Aumeens are not in Possession of any Power to punish, and that I do not mean to propose that they shall be allowed it. Mr. Francis best knows whether his Opinion goes to the Denial of any Right of Government to punish such Persons as shall withhold the Accounts of the Revenue entrusted to their Charge.

Mr. Francis—As I have not affirmed that Violences, such as are now in question, may not have been exercised from the Time of the Usurpation of a greedy Cawn to the present Day, the Answer to be received from Munnohurdots, can bear no Relation to any thing I have said on the Subject of the Mogul Government.

General Clavering—Mr. Barwell having supposed that the Infimation I threw out, of Persons having been flogged by the Aumeens, was not well established, because I avoided producing the Authority for the Reasons which I assigned, I will now beg Leave to introduce to the Board the Person who gave me the Information; and desire that the Board will interrogate him on the Subject; and desire, that if on the one Hand his Information should prove true, the Board will take proper Steps to punish the Aumeen; and on the other, if the Information proves false, that my Informant may be punished as he deserves. I desire that the Vackeel or Rajeshahy may be called in.

Governor General—I agree that the Rajeshahy Vackeel be called in, to present his Complaint, and to deliver it in Writing; but I object to this Board entering into any judicial Enquiry.

Questions. I propose that the following Questions be asked the Vackeel.

1st. Whether he has been informed by his Principal, the Ranny, or Kajah Rankishin, that any of the Officers of the Zemindarry of Rajeshahy have been corporally punished with Stripes by the Order of the Aumeen? And,

2d. Whether he knows the Name of the Person or Persons so punished, and to mention their Names and Offices?

3d. Whether he can produce such Person or Persons at this Board?

Ordered, That the Secretary require his Answer to these Questions in Writing.

Governor General—I beg Leave to propose, that Ram Ram Chowdry, who is present, and likewise an ancient Officer in the Khalla, may be questioned to the same Points with Munnohurdots.

Ordered, That he be questioned accordingly.

Governor General—I gave the Effort of Sepoys to Nunduloll. If the Board should be of Opinion that I have exceeded the Constitutional Authority vested in me by the Company, I am willing to recall them; but if not, I have acted regularly. The Effort to Nunduloll was rendered necessary on account of his being obliged to travel through the interior Parts of the Country, where it is dangerous to remain without such a Guard.

Mr. Francis—Since I find that the Governor General has, by his sole Authority, and without the Knowledge of the Board, sent a Party of 50 Sepoys with one of the Aumeens into the District of Dacca, I must in my own Vindication against any Consequences that may ensue from this Measure, declare, that in my Opinion the Governor General has exceeded the Powers vested in him, and that the Measure itself is liable to many Objections. I am not a Party to it, and protest against it.

General Clavering—The Information I received of this Detachment was given me by the Returns; and having supposed that it might be done by the Commanding Officer on his own Authority, I wrote to him about Four Days ago to acquaint me by whose Orders this Detachment had been sent. As I do not know of any Instance of a Military Force being sent into the Districts since the new Government took place but by the Authority of the Board, I entirely agree with Mr. Francis in protesting against the Measure, as an Assumption of Power in the Governor General, in my Opinion totally illegal.

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to the several Provincial Councils and Collectors:

To the Provincial Councils.

( Circular. )

We desire your Chief will receive and enter on your Proceedings all Petitions of Complaint which may be presented against the Aumeens, and that you will transmit them to us.

You are not to take Cognizance of the Complaints yourselves, but to refer them to the established Courts of Judicature.

We are, &c.

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

Extract of Fort William Revenue Consultations, 14th March 1777.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Report :

I have the Honour to lay before the Board the following Answers received from the Mohrirs, whom the Board directed me to call upon last Council Day, for Information regarding the Power vested in Sezawuls and Aumeens: In Explanation of which I beg Leave to acquaint the Board, that on my finding the written Answer Nunnohur Dofs had given us in N° 1. did not contain what he told me on my first putting the Questions to him, I sent for him and Ramram Bose on Wednesday Morning, and asked them why they had not answered the Question put to them the Day before? Nunnohur Dofs answered, that he would give them to me. I told him it was by the Board's Order that I had put the Questions to him, and that it was necessary he should answer; upon which both Nunnohur Dofs and Ramram Bose wrote and gave me the further Answers, marked N° 2, 3.

Finding, when these were translated, that Nunnohur Dofs had not given an Answer as to the Aumeens, but only regarding the Sezawuls, I mentioned this Circumstance to the Governor General when I waited on him on Thursday Morning, and that the Answers were not so full as they had verbally given them to me. The Governor's Answer was, The Questions were not answered, or Words to that Effect; upon which I sent for Nunnohur Dofs, and told him he must answer the same Questions with respect to the Aumeens as he had done regarding the Sezawuls; which he did, as contained in N° 4.

I beg Leave also to lay before the Board the Paper from which the Questions were put to both Nunnohur Dofs and Ramram Bose, N° 5.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Sworn before me, the 15th March 1777,
(Signed) by R<sup>d</sup> Sumner.

N. B. This Affidavit was made for the Reasons assigned in the Secretary's Letter annexed to these Proceedings.

N° 1. Answer of Monohur Dofs.

During the Time of Mohaubut Jung and of the former Nazims, the Zemindars either paid their Revenue directly to Government themselves, or through Mutaheds or Mhalzamins, and for this Reason there were not Aumeens sent into the different Districts, excepting in case of the Revenue falling in Arrears. The Aumeens sent upon these Occasions, collected such Accounts as they had Orders to do from the Country, and transmitted them to Government through the Mutfuddies of the Khalsa. In case of any Zemindar neglecting or evading to deliver his Accounts, the Aumeen reported his Conduct to Government, and acted with respect to him, according to such Orders as he received in Answer.

Answer of Ram Ram Chowderry.

In the Time of Mohaubut Jung and former Nazims, the Zemindars either paid their Revenue directly themselves, or through Mutaheds and Mhalzamins; it was not therefore customary to send Aumeens into the Country: But when Aumeens were sent, their Duty was to collect exact Accounts. If any Zemindar neglected giving in his Accounts according to the Orders of Government, the Aumeen represented the Matter to the Ruler, and obeyed such Orders as he afterwards received with respect to exacting such Persons Accounts from him.

N° 2. Answer of Ram Ram Chowderry with respect to Aumeens.

During the Time of Mohaubut Jung, and other Nazims, and down to the Death of Jaffier Ally Khawn, it was not the Practice to send Aumeens into the Country, in order to make a Huftabood, because then the Zemindars either paid their Revenue directly themselves, or through Mhalzamins and Mutaheds. However, after the Marattas had ravaged any of the Rarah Districts (Districts lying to the Westward of the Ganges) a Sazahawul used to be appointed to the Aumeny of them; this Person had full Authority to collect the Huftabood Papers, and these he brought up to the Sudder, and then made a Settlement.

Answer with respect to Sazahawuls.

In the Time of Mohaubut Jung and former Nazims, it was usual to send Sazahawuls into such Mahals as had fallen into Decline, because their Commission was low, being only 2 per Cent. These went into the Country, and by encouraging the Ryots, brought them to cultivate their Lands. They

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

They made such an Allowance to the Zemindar for his Maintenance as they thought sufficient; and as was approved of by Government; and acted in whatever Manner they thought was most beneficial for the State. They scrutinized into the Papers for some Years back, and then made a Report of the Particulars of the Decline of the Muhal to Government. When their Authority was opposed, they had a Right to confine and inflict corporal Punishment.

N° 3. Answer of Monohur Dofs with respect to Sazahawuls.

It was the Sazahawul's Business to collect the Dues of Government, agreeable to the Sudder Kistbundee. He entered into a Kistbundee at the Sudder, and then went into the Country. If the Zemindar agreed to the same Settlement he had entered into, he took a Torahbundee from him on the like Terms, and left him in Possession of the Country; but if he failed in paying agreeable to these Terms, the Sazahawul made a Hustabood, and took Charge of the Collections himself.

The Sazahawul, in case of being impeded in this Business by the Knavery or Neglect of the Zemindars, used to inflict Punishment and to beat.

N° 4. Answer of Monohur Dofs with respect to Aumeens.

In the Time of Mohaubut Jung, and former Nazims, it was not customary, as the Zemindars either paid their Revenue upon their own Credit, or through Mhalzamins and Mutaheds, to send Aumeens into every Muhal. Aumeens were however sent into such Districts as had fallen into Arrears, in order to restore the Revenue. If the Zemindars attended on these Aumeens in a proper Manner, and delivered them the requisite Accounts agreeable to Custom, it was well; but if they made use of any Knavery, or evaded delivering these Accounts, the Aumeens, in order to execute the Business of Government with which they were entrusted, inflicted Corporal Punishment of every Kind, and reported the Circumstances of the Case to the Ruler.

N° 5. Questions first put to Munnohir Dofs and Ram Ram Bose.

What Authority was vested in Aumeens in the Time of the Nabob Aliverdy Cawn, or in preceding Times, and what was their immediate Duty?

What in Sezawuls?

What Means had they of enforcing that Authority?

Did they inflict Corporal Punishment?

Mr. Francis—It was the Order of the Board that the Questions should be put to the Mohrirs of the Khalsa in Writing, and that their Answers should be received in Writing. The Secretary was not authorized to hold any Conversation, or to put any Questions verbally to either of these Persons. The first Answer he received was strictly in point, but it absolutely denies any Power being vested in the Aumeens to inflict Corporal Punishment. This Answer it appears was not thought satisfactory, and another Answer was required. The Power denied in the First Answer is admitted in the Second. I shall make no Comment on this Transaction, because I think the Facts speak very plainly for themselves.

General Clavering—I think the Conduct of the Secretary in this Transaction totally inexcusable. Not finding the Answers turn out according to the Expectations of the Governor General, he carried to him, without any Orders of the Board, the Two Answers of Munnohir Dofs, and received his Orders to question him again on the Subject. In Reward for this Service the Governor General has, I suppose, made the Proposition this Day for the Augmentation of his Salary.

Governor General—The Secretary has in my Opinion acted regularly and according to the Orders of the Board. He received no Orders from me, at least I remember none that I gave him; when the Mohrirs eluded to give Answers to the Question put to them, it was the Duty of the Secretary to call upon them for their Answer, and to repeat the Demand till it was complied with, and completely.

The Insinuations with which the General has been pleased to conclude his Minute, I consider only as the Effect of the intemperate Spirit which I have experienced from General Clavering, in almost every Meeting of the Board in every Department. I shall therefore let it pass without a Reply.

General Clavering—If the many intemperate Proceedings that have been entered by the Governor General against Mr. Barwell, against Mr. Francis, and myself, in this and the other Department, in which he has taken Liberties with us all Three at different Times, were to be collected and compared with any Thing that I have written of him, it would be found that, considering the Provocation that he affords from the Violences with which he is carrying on this Government, and the Abuses which he is sanctifying by the Support he gives them, I have never trespassed so often as he has on the Respect which is due to the Station he fills, as he has done to me and others.

Mr. Barwell—As an Altercation has arisen on the Answers received from the Mohrirs to the Questions

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Questions proposed by the Secretary, and Motives are insinuated highly prejudicial to his Integrity on the taking of these Answers, as well as to an undue Influence used by the Governor General to obtain them, I move that the Secretary be called upon to recollect himself, and make a solemn Declaration, on Oath, to the verbal Answer delivered to him on the Questions, when he first put them to Monohir Dofs and Ram Ram Bose; as it is the only Means that, under the present Circumstances, is in my Opinion offered to him for vindicating him from the Charge of having acted under an improper Influence.

Mr. Francis—I object to putting the Secretary, or any Man over whom I have any Degree of Authority, to a Test which may perhaps compel him to accuse himself. I believe it to be illegal, I am sure it is unjust. The Secretary is at Liberty to state any Matter he thinks proper in his own Defence, and if he pleases he may do it on Oath, but this must be his own voluntary Act. I will never join in requiring him to do it, nor shall I think myself at Liberty, considering myself as a Judge of his Conduct, to draw any Conclusion to his Disadvantage from his declining to do it.

Mr. Barwell—I entirely acquiesce in Mr. Francis's Objections, and wave the Motion.

The Secretary—I beg the Board will do me the Favour to call Nunnohir Dofs before them immediately, who is attending, and take his Answer on Oath to the following Question: Whether on my asking him on Tuesday Evening, if the Aumeens did or did not inflict Corporal Punishment, which is the Fourth Question in the Paper I gave in this Morning, he did or did not declare that they used to punish and flog?

Governor General—I think it improper to commit the Credit of an Officer of such Importance as the Secretary of the Revenue Department, in a Contention respecting a Fact depending on their Veracity, with an inferior Bengal Officer of the Khalsa.

Mr. Francis—I am against it also, but for different Reasons.

Mr. Barwell—No Question being before me, and the Governor General thinking it improper to put one on the Secretary's Request, I acquiesce in his Reasons for declining to put the Question.

General Clavering—Seeing the Dependence which all the Officers of the Government have on the present Majority, who take all Occasions to hold out to the Natives what the Consequences must be of opposing their arbitrary Will, I think it is surprizing, that either one or the other of these poor Mohirrs should have had the Resolution to have delivered the unprejudiced Answer which it appears Mannohir Dofs gave in Writing, when he was questioned. I understand, when he was applied to the Second Time for another Answer, the Man at first refused it, and said, What can I do? I have given my Answer already. If Mr. Sumner had thought that these Answers had not been direct to the Questions which he had put to him, it was his Business to have taken the Opinion of the Board, and not to have run to the Governor General with them. The Governor General may illegally assume, as he has done in regard to the Office of the Aumeens, the whole Power vested by Parliament in the Council at large; but as long as I continue a Member in this Council, I will never tamely submit to acknowledge any Right in him, more than in any other Member of the Board, to decide upon the Resolutions of the Council.

Governor General—I desire the Secretary will bring me the Proceedings, and I will minute any Reply I may think necessary.

Mr. Francis—The principal Questions to the Mohirrs were, "What Means the Aumeens had of enforcing their Authority; whether they inflicted Corporal Punishments?" The first Answer, N<sup>o</sup> 1, is as follows: "In case of any Zemindar's neglecting or evading to deliver his Accounts, the Aumeen reported his Conduct to Government, and acted with respect to him according to such Orders as he received in Answer."

The Court of Directors will judge whether this Answer was or was not in point and compleat, and for what Purpose it could be necessary to demand any other Answer from them. It was given in Writing, and they were bound by it. I will make no further Observation on a Transaction, on which I conceive it is impossible for any Two unprejudiced Men to differ in Opinion.

Governor General—I desire that this Day's Proceedings, and those of the 11th, on the Subjects considered this Day, may be sent a Number in the Packet.

The Board having been pleased to assent to the Secretary's Letter of the 15th, on the foregoing Subject, being annexed to this Day's Proceedings, it is entered as follows, with the subsequent Minutes.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I beg Leave to circulate, for your Perusal, the enclosed Affidavits, and request the Favour of you to allow them to be recorded on the Proceedings of Yesterday.

I should be happy if the Board would examine Munnohier Dofs and Ramram Bos, on Oath, before them, in full Justification of what I have asserted, as Mr. Justice Hyde and General Clavering, to whom I applied last Night to, decline it.

I have the Honour to remain, with Respect,

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your most obedient humble Servant,

Calcutta, 14th March 1777.

Some of the Members of the Honourable Board having deemed my Conduct reprehensible, in the Mode of applying to Munonhier Dofs and Ramram Bose, for the Information which they directed me to obtain from them, regarding the Power formerly exercised by Sezawuls and Aumeens, I beg Leave to record my Affidavit, that the Report I made this Day to them is in every Respect, to the best of my Recollection, a true State of my Conduct on this Occasion; and that on my first verbal Application to Monnohir Dofs, on Tuesday in the Afternoon, in the Presence of Ramram Bose, whether Aumeens had formerly exercised the Power of inflicting Corporal Punishment? he answered, that they used to punish and flog Persons who refused Obedience to their Applications to them.

I beg Leave further to declare, that I thought I could not, consistently with my Duty and the Trust reposed in me by the Honourable Board on this Occasion, admit of their declining to assert in Writing the Purport of what they had declared to me verbally; that I was entirely guided by this Sense of Duty by the Second Application I made on Wednesday to them; and that I was actuated by this Sense, and the Governor's observing that the Questions were not answered, when I made the Application to Monnohir Dofs on Thursday for an Answer to that Part of the Questions which he had not replied to.

I hope Mr. Francis will allow me to observe, that it did not appear to me I was restricted by the Board's Orders from calling on them in any other Manner than in Writing, but that I was directed to obtain the Information; and for my own Justification thought it most advisable to take their Answers in Writing; and that I did not doubt but they had given their written Answers on Tuesday to the Purport which they mentioned to me, or I should not have omitted to have repeated my Application to them, had I seen the Answers before they left my House, which was whilst I was lain down, and they left them on my Table.

15th March.

Governor General—I agree that Mr. Sumner's Letter of this Date, with the Two Affidavits, be recorded: I do not agree to the Examination of Monohier Dofs or Ramram Bose, for the Reasons which I have already given at the Time in which the Secretary made a similar Request to the Board at the last Council.

Richard Barwell,
P. Francis.

21st March received the following Minutes:

Mr. Barwell—I make no Doubt that on the Face of the Proceedings, the Charge of improper Conduct brought against Mr. Sumner, will appear to every unbiassed Reader to be groundless, and that he will stand as much acquitted in the Opinion of others, as he is in mine, of an Imputation so injurious to his Character. The Secretary was particularly directed to ask, Whether the Aumeens inflicted Corporal Punishment? To this Question he solemnly declares, That Monohier Dofs replied, that they used to punish and flog Persons who refused Obedience to their Applications to them. Upon his receiving this Answer, it appears from the Secretary's solemn Declaration, that, fatigued with the Business of the Day, he retired to rest without minuting his Reply, desiring Monnohir Dofs to commit what he said to him to Writing. That upon his receiving the Translation of the Answer, and finding that so essential a Part of the Answer that had been given, had been omitted, and upon the Observation of the Governor General, that the Question was not answered, he had conceived it incumbent on him to send for Monnohir Dofs, and repeat the Question: What could have been the Man's Motive for eluding in Writing the Fact he had mentioned by Word of Mouth, is only known to himself: It is evident from what passed subsequently, that he wished to decline committing to Paper what he had spoken; and that when he did commit it to Paper, it was with Reluctance. This shews in a very strong Light that he was under the Influence of some Motives, little consistent with the Ingenuity and Candour he ought to have observed in delivering an Account of the Facts within his Knowledge. His being pressed to declare what to his Knowledge was the Usage of the Country, touching the Power of the Aumeens in former Governments, alters in no Respect the Fullness of his last Reply to the Question, or brings the Truth of it into question: He would, if it had been in his Power, have declared in the Negative to the Question: This is plain, from his Attempts to elude a Reply, and when he found he was not able to do it, attesting the Fact. I shall pass no Observations on the Reflections the General has thrown out, as I make no Doubt they will strike every Reader upon the first View of the Subject; and that the Secretary will in consequence stand fully vindicated in their Opinions.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Governor General—Left the Imputation which General Clavering has endeavoured to cast, both on Mr. Sumner and myself, in the following Words of one of his Minutes, entered in Consultation of the 14th Instant, viz. "In Reward for his Service the Governor General has, I suppose, made the "Proposition this Day for the Augmentation of his Salary," should injure the Credit of that Gentleman in the Minds of his honourable Employers, I think it necessary to declare that it is more than a Month, and I believe I might with Truth assume a much more distant Period, since I gave Mr. Sumner an absolute Promise that I would either propose to the Board to raise his Salary to an Equality with that of the Secretary of the General Department, or that I would assent to the Request, if made by himself in Form to the Board for the same Purpose. This Assurance I gave him equally from a Conviction of the Necessity of affording that general Encouragement to an Office of such Trust and Importance, and of the Justice which was particularly due to his acknowledged Assiduity and Abilities in the Conduct of it. The Court of Directors (if an Affair so little important to their Interests should ever attract their Notice) will judge whether it was probable that Mr. Sumner, in the precise Time in which he was preparing a Solicitation to the Board, effectual Success of which depended on its receiving their unanimous Concurrence, should have departed from that unbiassed Attention to his Duty, which he had ever before bestowed on it, and draw on himself the Resentment of Two Members of the Council by an Act adverse to them, of no Kind of Utility to me, and in itself dishonourable.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

General Clavering—I can neither admit nor deny the Governor General's Affirmation, that he had given Mr. Sumner an absolute Promise a Month ago, that he would propose to the Board an Increase of his Salary. The Fact, however, is, that the Proposition was never produced till Mr. Sumner's Activity had obtained the desired Answer from Monnohir Dofs: The Causes of Favour and Disfavour in this Government are assignable only to one Principle independent of the Merit of the Persons.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

Governor General—The greatest Part of this Morning being now elapsed, and this being probably the last Time in which the Board will meet before the Close of the last Dispatches of the Season, I therefore desire to record the following Minutes and Propositions, that the Resolutions of the Board may be taken upon them, and be sent Home in the Proceeding of this Department by the present Dispatch.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Letter and Enclosures from Ramram Bose, the Aumeen of Bettoreah, translated by the Interpreter to this Department.

Translation of a Perwannah, written by the Chief and Council of Moorshedabad, to Ramram Bose, Aumeen of Bettoreah.

The Arzee which you wrote came to Hand, and has been understood.

Intelligence has just been brought, that Maha Ranny Bowanny has represented to the Governor and Council, through her Vackeel, that you, upon your Arrival in the Country, summoned the Tahsildars, Currumcharies, Pautwaries, and other Officers of the Mofussil, in order to receive their Accounts, and now detain them about you: That, further, Aninderam Paisheer leaguering with Praun Bose, her confirmed Opponent, demands Jumma Kereche Accounts, which are not specified in your Instructions, and has disgraced the Amadeny Neeweefs, and other Officers of the Mofussil, by beating them: That the Collections are by this Means impeded, and that she will be unable to answer her Engagement, if her Officers who have the Charge of the Revenues are thus treated.

The Ranny having concluded with praying, that some Measures may be taken to prevent the like Impediments being thrown in the Way of the Collections in future, you are now written to, to send a List of the different Papers which you demand, as also a List of the Names of the Currumcharies and other Officers, said to be detained by you, and another of the Amadeny Neeweefs Officers and others, said to have been beaten by Aninderam: You will also report, whether any Evasions have been used by the Mofussil Officers, in delivering you the Papers specified in your Instructions.

Translation of a Letter from Ramram Ram Bose, in Answer to the Perwannah written him by the Chief and Council of Moorshedabad.

After the usual Beginning:

Upon my Arrival at the Sudder Cutcherry of Bettoreah, I first, agreeable to my Instructions, demanded the Sudder Hustabood and Jumma Wafel Baky Accounts, with their Subsidiary Papers, from

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

from the Zemindarry Officers; and I have already transmitted a List of the Papers which were delivered to me in consequence. I was next, by my Instructions, to apply to the Sudder Farmers. In these Districts there are no Farmers for the Pergunnahs; but the Collections, both of the Sudder and the Mofussil are carried on by the Zemindar; and I therefore required the Zemindarry Officers to make the Aumeeny Mohrirs of the several Pergunnahs attend me; however, to this Day, they have evasively only produced the Officers of 49 Mahals out of 68 (which is the whole Number including petty Mahals.)

Inclosed is a Copy of the List of Papers which I gave to such Mohrirs as have yet attended me. They have not yet given in many Papers which are necessary to check the Sudder Huftabood and Jumma Wafel Bakee, with their Subsidiary Accounts. Some say they will deliver them as soon as they can get them from the Country; but they have broke several Promises which they made to deliver them within a certain Time. Others alledge that there are none. Such are the Evasions of these People, and thus Delay is occasioned in checking the Accounts of the Sudder Officers.

I have never yet required the Attendance of the Tahfieldars, Currumcharries, Pautwarries, &c. from the Officers of the Zemindarry; nor have any of them attended at my Call. Aninderam Buckshy has neither demanded the Jummakoreche Accounts, nor ever summoned any of the Amadeny Nuwels Officers. I constantly attend myself at the Cutcherry, and do not neglect the Business, and leave it to a Paisicar. In order to check the Jumma Wafel Baky Accounts delivered by the Sudder Officers, Aninderam demanded the Seah Accounts of the Shoomar Neweels; and upon his making some Delays in delivering them, he reproved him; but how should he have thought of beating him?

The Huftabood and Jumma Waffel Baky cannot be satisfactorily ascertained without their Subsidiary Papers. It is necessary to use Rigour to make the Zemindar's Office produce the Mofussil Officers, and furnish the Papers; but, agreeable to my Instructions, I have never yet sent a Peon into the Mofussil.

The Zemindarry Officers procrastinate from Day to Day, although a Month and Ten Days are now elapsed since I arrived; all the Aumeeny Mohrirs have not attended me, nor have the Subsidiary Papers been delivered to me. It will be necessary afterwards to have the Kutkinadars of the Petty Farmers, and the Yatmaumdars of the Zubte and Muscoory Mahals, to attend me, in order to check the Sudder and Pergunnah Accounts; but when shall I be able to accomplish that? I have never yet required more than One Mohrur for each Pergunnah, which would never cause any Obstruction to the Collections.

Governor General—I move that the following Letter be written to the Chief and Council of Moorshedabad:

Complaint having been made by Ramram Bose, the Aumeen of Bettoreah, that many of the Zemindarry Officers refuse to deliver to him the Accounts of the Collections under their Charge, and in other Respects oppose him in the Execution of his Commission; we hereby positively direct, that on any Complaint being made to you, either from him, or any other Aumeens who have been deputed into the Division, you do immediately take the most effectual Means to support and enforce their Authority, by carrying such Papers of the Collections as they shall require, conformably to their Instructions, to be put into their Possession; by compelling the Attendance of such Revenue Mohrirs as may be required by the Aumeens to explain them; and by arresting and punishing those who shall dare openly to oppose or disobey the Orders of Government in these Instances.

Mr. Barwell—I agree.

(Signed) R. Barwell.

Extract

Extract of Mr. Francis's Opinion on the several Propositions of the Governor General.

I object to the proposed Letter to the Council of Moorshedabad, since, under Colour of the following Words, by arresting and punishing those who shall dare openly to oppose or disobey the Orders of Government in these Instances, the Council of Moorshedabad, or their Officers, may inflict Corporal Punishment ad libitum, by flogging, and other Modes of Torture. I do not myself possess, nor wish to possess, the Power of inflicting Corporal Punishment upon any Man at my own Discretion; of course I cannot delegate such a Power to another. As long as the Ranny of Radjeshy pays her stipulated Revenue to Government, we can have no Right or Pretence to interfere in the internal Management of the Zemindarry; nor of course to arrest, imprison, or punish her Officers and Servants for refusing to deliver up the Papers belonging to her Family and Estate. Besides that under Colour of demanding Papers, and a supposed Refusal to deliver them, I know not what Acts of Tyranny may not be exercised by a Set of the lowest Men, suddenly vested with arbitrary Power over the Persons and Property of a timid, helpless People. That they will tax the Country for their own Use, is one of the smallest Evils to be apprehended from the Establishment of the present Inquisition. When the Lash is once raised, when Tortures may be threatened and put in Practice at the Discretion of an Aumeen, what Consideration is to limit him to the Gratification of One Passion only? And whither shall the wretched Victim of his Cruelty fly for Protection, when every Thing he does is done in the Name and by the Authority of a Government, under which the whole Country trembles?

Great Pains have been taken to prove, that the Powers in question belonged to the Office of Aumeen under the Mogul Government. The Time spent in maintaining this Proposition would have been idly employed, if it was not meant to prepare Precedents for Practice. I neither admit the Existence of such Precedents, nor will I in any Shape be a Party to the Practice supposed to be warranted by them.

Proposition the Fourth.

A Letter to the Council of Moorshedabad, to punish the Officers of the Zemindarry of Radishaw, on the Complaint of the Aumeen and his Dependants.

This Letter, partly dictated by Mr. Hastings, and partly written with his own Hand, exhibits in so lively a View the State of Civil Society in Bengal, and particularly the Condition of the great Zemindars, that I most humbly intreat the Court of Directors to give it a few Moments of their Attention. They will judge whether the Supreme Court of Judicature, which Mr. Hastings has said was a Blessing to this Country, has had yet that Effect; or whether, in any Country where any Kind of Laws are existing, Men, and particularly the Officers of a great Zemindarry, may be taken up on the Complaint of a low Man (stiling himself an Aumeen, or the Delegate of an Aumeen) confined and flogged for not obeying Orders, of which he is entirely ignorant.

The Court of Directors know that the Instructions to the Aumeens were not even communicated to the Provincial Councils by Government; and, unless private Orders have been given to them by the Governor General in his new Office, by virtue of the Power which he has assumed of so doing, they too must be ignorant whether the Orders of Government are disobeyed or not, but must flog every one at the Discretion of the Aumeen.

The Court of Directors, I hope, will forgive me if I refuse fixing my Signature to this Letter. I will not authorize, with my Name, the Commission of the Enormities which it may produce; moreover, I consider it as owing its Existence to the same vindictive Spirit which is let loose on the Ranny of Burdwan, Mr. Goring, Mr. Roswell, Mr. Wordsworth, and Mr. Fowke. I apprehend, whilst the Zemindars and Farmers pay their Rents punctually, Government has no Right to interpose its Authority in the Management of their private Affairs, or their Zemindars. I consider therefore every Interposition of the Authority of Government with them, further than to compel them to pay their Rents, or for Purposes of Police, as so many Acts of Oppression and Tyranny; against the Exercise of which the late Act of Parliament was intended as a Relief; why it has not had this Effect, I most ardently hope the Legislature will investigate.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

To Mr. Edward Baber, Chief, &c. Provincial Council of Revenue at Moorshedabad.

Gentlemen,

Complaint having been made by Ram Ram Bose, the Aumeen of Bettoreah, that many of the Zemindary Officers refuse to deliver to him the Accounts of the Collections under their Charge, and in other Respects oppose him in the Execution of his Commission, we hereby positively direct, that on any Complaint being made to you, either from him or from any of the other Aumeens who have been deputed into your Division, you do immediately take the most effectual Means to support and enforce their Authority, by causing such Papers of the Collections as they shall require, conformably to their Instructions, to be put into their Possession, by compelling the Attendance of such Mohirers as may be required by the Aumeens to explain them, and by arresting and punishing those who shall dare openly to oppose or disobey the Orders of Government in these Instances.

We are, &c.

Fort William,
the 14th March 1777.

General Clavering—I have signed a Letter, of the Date of the 14th Instant, directed to Mr. Alexander Higginson, Chief and Provincial Council of Revenue at Burdwan, acquainting them that we have removed Mr. John Roswell, in Conformity to the Orders of the Court of Directors; but as he has not been summoned before the Council, nor any Copy of his Charge given to him, I protest against the Proceedings of the Board, and the Letter written in consequence of it.

I have signed, in Conformity to the Orders of the Court of Directors, a Letter, dated the 14th Instant, to the Calcutta Committee, acquainting them that we have vacated Mr. Goring's Seat at that Board. As I consider the Resolution on which this is grounded totally irregular, and contrary to the Orders of the Company, I protest against all the Consequences it may have.

I have signed the Letter, dated the 14th Instant, to the Council of Burdwan, authorizing that Council to place Bahadore Sing in the Consummation Department of the Rajah of Burdwan, in Conformity to the Orders of the Court of Directors; but declare I disavow any Right in the Governor General and Council to make this Appointment, and hold myself not responsible for the Consequences, for the Reasons I have given.

I have refused to sign the Letter to the Chief and Council of Moorshedabad *. My Reasons for this Refusal are stated at large: I do not hold myself responsible for the Consequences.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

Mr. Francis—I have refused to sign * this Letter.

Extract of the Governor General's Minute, in Answer to General Clavering.

4th. Whether the Measure of deputing Aumeens to investigate the Revenues of Bengal, was expedient or proper in itself, is a Point which the Court of Directors will determine. It cannot be disputed that it was a formal and constitutional Act of Government; and it is therefore the Duty of Government to support and give it its due Effect. The General might surely have spared the harsh Censure which he has passed on the Supreme Court of Judicature, for its supposed Forbearance or Inefficacy to check an Evil of such Enormity, if he had recollected the Power which has been given to the Aumeens, and which was no more than to demand the Papers containing the Accounts of the Public Revenue, which are the allowed Property of Government; and to require the Attendance of those who were in Charge of them, and who by the Laws of the Land, and the universal Sense of the People, will be adjudged to deserve a much severer Punishment than the British Government has yet inflicted on Offences of this Kind, for a Disobedience of its Commands, or an open Opposition to its Authority.

These Observations on the General's Minute having been drawn to a greater Length than I either intended or suspected, I shall forbear to make any particular Comment on that of Mr. Francis, to which I believe the same Arguments will serve equally for a Reply.

Extract of General Clavering's Reply to the Governor General's Minute.

4th. Till the Court of Directors have determined that the Aumeeny Office established under the sole Authority of Mr. Hastings, independant of the other Members of the Board, is a constitutional Act of Government, I shall not think it my Duty to support it.

I have repeatedly said, that the Members of the Government are totally ignorant of the Instructions given to the Aumeens. Their Correspondence with the Governor General has never been communicated to the Board. Besides, is it probable that they would dare commit the Outrages they have done, were they not authorized? Mr. Hastings himself mentioned a Fact at the Board, of a Man being brought dead, and laid at the Aumeen's Feet, in the Dacca District. He ought to know whether it be true that this Man had been punished, as it is reported, only a few Days before. In short, it is incumbent on him to lay a true State of the Affair before the Council. The Papers the Aumeens require do not belong to Government, they are the private Accounts between the upper and under Farmers, in which I conceive Government has no Property, particularly when they pay their Rents. I could not have imagined, that the humble Entreaty I made to the Court of Directors, to read Mr. Hastings's Letter to the Council of Moorshedabad with Attention, in order to inform their Judgments concerning the State of Civil Liberty in Bengal, and particularly to observe from those Orders how far the Establishment of the Court of Judicature has answered the Expectations of the Public in that respect, would have been deemed a severe Censure on the Court. But should Mr. Hastings's Conclusion be warranted by any legal Authority, then indeed a Prosecution for a Libel, or a Contempt of the Court, would fully complete the Picture of the State of Civil Liberty in Bengal.

Extract of Mr. Francis's Minute, in Reply to the Governor General.

3. "It cannot be disputed, that the Measure of deputing Aumeens was a formal and constitutional Act of Government."

When the Truth of this Position has not only been disputed, but formally and repeatedly denied, by Two Members of the Government, and when this very Point has divided the Opinions of the Council for some Months past, I know not in what Terms to answer an Assertion, that it cannot be disputed.

4th. "That the Papers to be demanded by the Aumeens are the allowed Property of Government."

The Governor is at Liberty to prove the Affirmative, if he can; but he has no Right to say, that the Point in dispute is allowed. The Accounts in question are not the Property of Government, nor can they possibly be obtained but by the Exercise of Powers, which (as the Governor General observes in * another Place) "the Mogul Government was formerly used to delegate to Men entrusted with the same Office;" and which, he says, it is not impossible the present Aumeens may suppose themselves possessed of; that is, of administering Corporal Punishment ad libitum. The Supreme Court of Judicature, I trust, will interpose between the Natives of this Country and the Exercise of such arbitrary Powers over them: It is not a Censure of any Act, or Omission of the Judges, but the Assertion of a Fact too notorious to be denied, that the Natives of Bengal have not only neither Liberty nor Property left, but that they have not even the Care and Protection which the most arbitrary Government, for its own Sake, ought to impart to its Slaves.

As this is the last Opportunity we shall have of addressing the Court of Directors for many Months, I beg Leave to remind the Board, that the Resolution of the 27th of September in the Revenue Department in which the Accounts of Cantoo Baboo's Farms were ordered to be made out on a Motion from the Governor, has not been carried into Execution; and that the Thirty Lacks of Rupees which were ordered on the 4th of November, have not been deposited in the new Fort.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Mr. Farrar's Opinion on the Legality of the new Office for obtaining Materials to serve as the Grounds of a new Settlement

The Office in question, I collect from the Governor General's Minute proposing it, is established for the avowed Purpose of obtaining accurate States of the real Value of the Lands, as the Grounds whereon to form a new Settlement of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues of these Provinces; and from

from the same Source, and the Resolution consequent thereon, I further collect, that it is to be put under the Conduct of One or Two Covenanted Servants of the Company's, assisted by a Dewan, and other Officers, either selected from the Officers of the Khalsa, or occasionally chosen for special Commissions: That for the Sake of Dispatch, all Orders issued from this Office, for the Execution of such particular Services as shall have received the general Sanction of the Board, are to be issued in the Name of the Governor General, and the Controul of such Office committed to his immediate Charge.

Such is the avowed Purpose of the Office in question, and such the Mode of conducting the same; and from what is avowed, I am for the present to consider, how far the Measure is, or is not, legal; as, should the Limits at present prescribed be hereafter exceeded, that would be an Abuse of the Authority, not a Proof of the Illegality of the Authority itself.

The Power thus given to the Governor General is divisible into Two Parts, each separate and distinct from the other: And accordingly, I shall consider it,

1st. How far it is legal for him to issue, or cause to be issued in his own Name, Orders to the Servants of the Company, or others, for their Government in the Company's Affairs, though such Orders have previously received the Sanction of the Board.

2d. How far the Controul of any Office or Body of the Company's Servants can be legally committed to his immediate Charge.

As to the First Part: It applies only to such Orders as shall have previously received the general Sanction of the Board; in respect to such, therefore, it is necessary to consider, what is requisite by the present Form of this Constitution, for the making them effectual. By a Standing Order of the Court of Directors, which, not being incompatible with the late Act of Parliament (13th of His Majesty, chap. 63.) I hold still to be in Force, all Letters and Orders consequent upon any Consultation of the Board, are expressly required to be signed by every Member present at such Consultation, even though he should have dissented therefrom; and by the said Act of Parliament, the Governor General and Council are required to pay due Obedience to all such Orders as they shall receive from Time to Time from the Court of Directors. Thus the Language of the Act of Parliament is positive; that of the Court of Directors general and explicit: There is no Opening for Discretion; and therefore, Arguments founded on Expediency (how easily soever retuted) do not apply, nor merit Consideration here, though ever so specious: For the Board, therefore, to make a Resolution, that all or any of their Orders shall be issued either from the Office in question, or any other, in the Name of the Governor General only, or any One Member of Administration, and not signed by the Members of the Board, or expressive of their Authority, is not only so far as the Case in question goes, directly contrary to the Standing Order before mentioned, and therefore in my Opinion an illegal Assumption of Power, but has moreover a direct Tendency, as I conceive, to an Usurpation of independent Authority: For, if the Board can, by their own Act, annul any One Order of the Court of Directors, they may, upon the same Principle, annul every one: The Servant may not only destroy the Power of the Master, but by his own Act, arbitrarily vest that Power in himself. On such a Doctrine it would be vain to comment.

I am therefore of Opinion, for these Reasons, that every Member of Administration concurring in the Resolution in question, acts illegally and at their own Peril; and that such of the Company's Servants as pay Obedience to Orders issued in the Manner proposed, do so likewise.

As to the Second Part: It invests the Governor General with the immediate Controul of the Office in question; that is, in all such Matters as he shall not deem it expedient to bring before the Board, for it is clear to Demonstration, by his proposing in his Minute, and carrying it by his own Casting Vote accordingly, that all Orders issued from this Office for the Execution of such particular Services as shall have received the Sanction of the Board, shall be written in his Name, that he does not mean that all Services indiscriminately shall be previously brought before, and receive the Sanction of, the Board: If not all, therefore, it can only be such as the Governor General, who has the immediate Controul, shall think proper to lay before them.

By Way of elucidating my Opinion on this Part of the Measure under Consideration, I must premise, that I lay it down as a First Principle, that the Governor General and Council can neither extend or contract their own Powers, such as they constitutionally possess, collectively as well as individually; such they cannot in any Degree do away by their own Act: The Powers vested in the Governor General by Law, they cannot increase; the Powers vested in like Manner in each Member, they cannot diminish; and so vice versa: To ascertain and define these Powers, Recourse must be had to the Act of Parliament above mentioned. It first, in general Terms, vests the whole Government of these Provinces in the Governor General and Council, and then directs, that in all Cases whatever wherein any Difference of Opinion shall arise upon any Question proposed in any Consultation, they shall be bound and concluded by the Opinion and Decision of the Majority of those present; which plainly implies, I conceive, that all the Measures of this Government shall be dependent upon, and decided by, the Governor General and Council, in Person, or by those subordinated to them, to whom they shall have previously delegated any Part of their Power, and who shall be immediately dependant upon, and amenable to their Authority—So far the Act of Parliament. As to the Measure in question, I hesitate not to declare, that in my Opinion, it militates the true Spirit of the Act of Parliament; and that, so far as it does, it is (independent of every other Consideration) clearly illegal. I here beg Leave to take a more comprehensive View of it, and its necessary Consequences: It establishes a temporary Office under the Company, and to the Discharge of all the Duties thereof, appoints Covenanted Servants of the Company: This new Office, from the general Idea given of the Business to be committed to its Charge, must necessarily be of the utmost Importance to the Company's Affairs: Its Operations are avowedly to serve as the Basis of the new Settlement; that is, of the Plan to be adopted for the future Management and Government of the whole Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues of these Provinces: Of the Office thus composed, and for these Purposes, the Controul is committed to the immediate Charge of the Governor General; that is, is put under the immediate Government, Power, Authority, or Restraint of the Governor General, (for the Word Controul, as here introduced, can bear no other Acceptation) and the Governor General is no ways amenable to the Board for his Conduct; and yet, notwithstanding, it is contended that all this no ways interferes or clashes with the Government of this Presidency, or the Ordering, Management, and Government, of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues thereof: Of those who thus contend, I would ask, whether the Persons who furnish the Materials, and build the Foundation of any Work or Plan, or those who only determine on the particular Mode in which such Materials shall be applied, and the Superstructure or Plan on such Data finished, bear the more important Part? or at least (which is all that is necessary to my Purpose) whether the former bear no Share at all in the Plan when accomplished? It surely cannot be answered in the Negative. To apply my Proposition then to the Subject under Consideration, the grand and primary Object is, the Formation of a new Settlement. A Number of People, partly composed of the Company's Covenanted Servants, partly of Servants pro hac Vice, under the immediate Controul of the Governor General, are to furnish the Data, and lay the Basis; and the Governor General and Council are afterwards, from such Materials, to fix on the Mode only in which the Object may be best accomplished. And thus, through the Medium of an independent Authority, Acts of the most essential Nature in the Management and Government of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues, may be done; and from such Acts, whether mediately or immediately done by any Member of Administration, or others, independent of the general Controul, I think the same Consequences result: And as the Act of Parliament (as before shewn) vests the general Government in a Majority of the Governor General and Council; and the Resolution of the Board now under Consideration (if it may be so called where the Member with the Casting Vote, sits, votes, and by the Casting Voice alone inclines the Balance, in his own Favour) vests a particular Part of it in the Governor General separately; I think the Board by such Resolution diminish their own constitutional Powers, by encreasing those of the Governor General's; and that in so doing they dispose of what they have no Right to give or to receive from any Authority, save the Legislative. To conclude; if under the Act of Parliament the Governor General did not possess the Power in question, nothing can be clearer in my Opinion, than that the Board could not confer it upon him; and it is plain that he did not, by his asking it of the Board.

I am therefore of Opinion, for the Reasons above contained, that the Power in question is wholly illegal. In any other Light, save as to its Legality or Illegality, it is not my Province to view the Measure.

Extract of General Clavering's Address to the Court of Directors, dated 10th May 1777.

The unbridled Sway with which the Aumeens have acted in the Districts, having been the Subject of much Controversy in the Council, and the Governor General in his Minute of 4th April, having sent you the Defence of the Aumeen in Radishai, I beg Leave to transmit for your Information the Deposition of Gungador Roy, a Writer in that District, in Contradiction to that Defence. If the Fact be true as he has stated it in his Affidavit, I trust, Gentlemen, you will think with me that the Interest of Humanity, as well as the Prosperity of this Country, is concerned in making him a public Example: With this View I carried him to Mr. Justice Lemaitre, where he underwent a most scrupulous Examination; and do propose to support him in a Civil Suit for Damages against the Aumeen, in order that the Fact may be fairly examined and tried.

I beg Leave likewise to transmit the Petition of a Zemindar against another of the Aumeens, who has been removed upon it, but no Punishment assigned him.

Gungador Roy, of Ragonot Poor in the Province of Bengal, Inhabitant, maketh Oath and faith, That he was, on or about the Month of Cottick, Bengal Æra One thousand One hundred and Eighty-two,

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Eighty-two, answering to the Month of October One thousand Seven hundred and Seventy five, appointed Mahory to Byrob Mozundar, who was Aumeen to Rajah Ramkissen, who was then the Izardar of the District of Dinapore; and that he, this Deponent, acted in that Capacity for Sixteen Months. And this Deponent further saith, That on or about the Twenty-seventh Day of Maug, Bengal Aera One thousand One hundred and Eighty-three, answering on or about the Sixth Day of February One thousand Seven hundred and Seventy seven, this Deponent was ordered by Rajah Ramkissen to carry the Papers of the Huftabood, which was in his this Deponent's Custody, to the said Shatabose, who was holding his Cutcherry at Batnagore; and as the said Ramkissen informed this Deponent, was appointed by Government as Aumeen to settle the Huftabood for the ensuing Year. And this Deponent further saith, That when he arrived at Batnagore, the said Shatabose demanded of this Deponent all the Papers of the Huftabood of Dinapore for Five Years preceding, to wit, from the Bengal Year One thousand One hundred and Seventy-eight to One thousand One hundred and Eighty-one; to which this Deponent answered, That he had only the Papers belonging to the Farm of Dinapore for the Year One thousand One hundred and Eighty-two; that Nurling Baboo, Cantoo Baboo's Brother, was the Farmer of Dinapore for the Bengal Years One thousand One hundred and Seventy-eight to One thousand One hundred and Eighty-one, his Servants therefore ought to be applied to for the Papers of those Years; that he, this Deponent, had them not; but that he, this Deponent, would deliver the Papers he possessed for the Bengal Year One thousand One hundred and Eighty-two, which was all he could deliver, he having only served the Office of Mahory for that Time. And this Deponent further saith, That the said Shatabose directed him, this Deponent, to give in Writing who was the Farmer of Dinapore for the Time he, this Deponent, could not give the Papers: This Deponent again informed the said Shatabose, That Nurling Baboo was the Farmer from the Year One thousand One hundred and Seventy-eight to One thousand One hundred and Eighty-one. And this Deponent further saith, That he was on or about the Twelfth of Faugon sent for to attend the said Shatabose, who insisted upon this Deponent's producing the Papers belonging to the said Farm of Dinapore for Five Years preceding this Deponent holding the Office of Mahory to the aforesaid Byrob Mozundar: And this Deponent again informed the said Shatabose, That it was utterly impossible for him to produce Papers that never were in his Possession. And this Deponent further saith, That the said Shatabose, on the Thirteenth of the said Month of Faugon, ordered his Jemindar Loll Mahomed to tie his, this Deponent's Hands, and beat him till he produced the Papers of Dinapore Farm for the Five preceding Years; which Order was accordingly put in Execution by the said Loll Mahomed, who also beat his Face. And this Deponent further saith, That the said Shatabose gave Orders to the said Loll Mahomed to bring Rattans; and gave Directions for Two Peons to beat him, this Deponent, severely with them; he accordingly received about One hundred Strokes with the Rattans on the Back, as nearly as the Pain would permit this Deponent to judge. And this Deponent further saith, That he was beat in this Manner till he fell down through the Violence of the Pain he had undergone: And further saith, That he was then suspended by the Orders of the said Shatabose by the Feet, from the Top of a Bungalow near the Cutcherry; and that in this Situation he received Twenty-five Strokes on the Bottom of his Feet, as nearly as his Situation, and the Violence of the Pain he this Deponent endured, enabled him to judge. And this Deponent further saith, That the said Shatabose then ordered him, this Deponent, to be taken down, and sent to Rajah Ramkissen with his Hands tied before him; which was accordingly done by Two Peons. And this Deponent further saith, That the said Shatabose is generally reported to act under the Orders of the East India Company; and verily believes that he exercised the above Cruelties over this Deponent as Aumeen, sent by the said Company to settle the Huftabood of the District of Dinapore aforesaid. And this Deponent further saith, That he saw the said Shatabose hold a Cutcherry at Batnagore aforesaid, receive Papers belonging to the different Farms in the District of Dinapore, punish Natives, and declare himself an Aumeen, come there to settle the Huftabood of the District aforesaid on the Part of the Company: This Deponent therefore verily believes him subject to the Jurisdiction of this Honourable Court; and that the said Loll Mahomed is a Servant of the said Shatabose, and, as this Deponent verily believes, employed in the Business of settling the Huftabood of the said District, and believes him also subject to the Jurisdiction of this Honourable Court.

From Rajah Gour Naut, Zemindar of the Nine Anna Division of Gora Gaur.

Ram Churnd Roy, Aumeen, having arrived at the Cutcherry of Gora Gaur, repaired to the House provided for his Reception; and I sent my Buxy, Bowanny Persaud, to him, with a Present of Fruit and other Things, as is customary. The Aumeen immediately ordered an Earthen Pot to be tied to the Neck of the Buxy; had him led in that Situation through the Bazar, and beat in a most unmerciful and cruel Manner. Agreeable to your Orders I delivered over to him the Mohuris, with their Papers; but he has not looked into a single Account of the Hushabood. He demands the Jumma Currutch for the last Five Years; and has treated Hur Goving Mohurir with great Severity, and has put him in Irons. He requires my own private Accounts; and has punished Bulleby Caunt, Naib of the Cutcherry, with a Corah with great Cruelty. He has also put Ram Gopaul, Shew Persaud, and others, Mohuris, in Irons; and has also ordered 25 Pair more of Irons to be prepared. He has placed on Breje Kithwur Coor, my Uncle, Ten Harcarrahs and Burcundaffes, and confined him in the Cutcherry. On the Arrival of the Aumeen I went to pay him a Visit; but he immediately confined me also, and has not permitted me to go Home to celebrate the Hooley. The Aumlah and Inhabitants are extremely alarmed at this Behaviour; the Collections are also at a stand; nor is there even the Appearance of a Light in the Cutcherry.

Copy of General Clavering's Protest to the General Letter.

I had expected, conformably to my Requisition to the Governor General, that he would have informed the Court of Directors in what Mode he proposes the future Settlement of the Lands in Bengal is to be made; in Seventeen Days the old Leases expire, and as yet the Council is entirely ignorant what Mr. Hastings's Intentions are concerning it. The General Letter can hardly be called an Index, as it neither relates nor refers to the principal Incidents which have happened since the Departure of the last Ship. The Refusal of Two of the Members to sign a Letter written in the Name of the Council, must be deemed of sufficient Importance to deserve to be noticed to the Court of Directors and the King's Ministers, as only Reasons of the most weighty Nature can justify the Measure. I therefore protest against the Letter from the Revenue Department, and particularly against the Insertion of the Two Paragraphs drawn up by the Secretary, mentioning the Increase of his Salary, and the Refusal of Mr. Francis and myself signing the Letter lately written to the Council of Moorshedabad.

Copy of Governor General's Minute, dated 26th March 1777.

Fort William, 26th March 1777.

Governor General,

It was not till after the Close of the present Dispatches that I could allow myself an Opportunity to read Mr. Francis's Minute, delivered to the Board on the 21st February. It has occupied a large Portion of my Time to read it with the Attention which was necessary to attain a clear Understanding of its Design, Connection, and Deductions. I shrink with Apprehension from the Idea of entering on a minute and formal Reply to it; and the more so, as I find by the Conclusion of One Paragraph near the End, that Mr. Francis considers me as fairly engaged with him in an indefinite Train of Controversy, than which nothing is more foreign from my Intentions (I may add) from the Duties of my Station.

But however disposed I might be to enter the Lists with him, I am in a great Measure precluded from it on this Occasion by the Manner in which he has thought proper to arm himself against me. He professes to introduce Thirty-eight distinct Propositions as mine, and marked as literal Extracts from my Minutes. I have no Doubt that they are faithfully extracted; yet as they stand, I confess that I scarce know many of them when I meet them. They are all stated as fixed and universal Maxims, though the greater Part were only relative Positions, and can only be understood by the Context, to which I have no Access, because I know not from what Parts of my Minutes they are taken, as there is not a single Mark of Reference annexed to any of them. If this be a fair Mode of Argument, it is not such as I should have thought myself at Liberty to use with any Opinions of Mr. Francis; and I hope that the next Time he may think it proper to combat mine, he will be pleased to inform me whence he has gathered them.

The Drift of the Minute (if I rightly understand it) is to prove that the Plan of Enquiry which I have recommended, is an Innovation unknown till the Government of Cossim Ally Khawn; and that it is my Design to raise the greatest possible Revenue from the Province, and to deprive the Zemindars of their Inheritance.

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

There are many other Propositions contained in the Minute, exclusive of the direct Details of those which he states as mine; but all these I regard as Points of mere Speculation, neither belonging to the original Question, nor perhaps applicable to any Purpose of real Use. For Instance, Of what Consequence is it to the Management of the Revenue of Bengal at this Time, whether the Jumma or Rent Roll of Bengal, which was formed by Rajah Toorul Mull 220 Years ago, continued inviolate till the Government of Jaffier Cawn, or whether it underwent many Changes in the preceding Period? Yet many Pages of Mr. Francis's Minute are filled with this single Subject. In Answer to some Observations of Mr. Francis in a former Minute, respecting the Validity of the Tumar, I had said, that it was grown obsolete. If what is now urged in Support of the Tumar be only intended as a Refutation of my Assertion, I must take upon myself the Charge of having furnished an Occasion of protracting the Debate to such a Length on so unprofitable a Subject; and that I may not be the Means of keeping it up much longer (as I cannot admit the Contradiction to be well founded) I shall only remark that if the Tumar is not obsolete it must at least exist, and it will rest with Mr. Francis to shew where it is to be found. It is not in the Records of the Canongoes, for that which they call the Tumar is the Aggregate of many Taxes added to the genuine Tumar, and differs essentially both in Forms and Amount from the Abstract of it, which Mr. Francis has borrowed from the Ayeen Akbaree, and for which I presume he would not have had Recourse to that Book, if he could have found it in any of the official Records.

If the Authority of the ancient Tumar is affirmed for any other Purpose, it must be either to recommend the Confirmation of it, or the Application of it at least, as a Basis to a new and permanent Settlement. But either of these Purposes would be contrary to Mr. Francis's Plan, long since recommended by him to the Court of Directors; for in this he proposes to levy a Tax on the Province, amounting, by my Calculation, to One-third more than the Sum of the Tumar Jumma, and instead of proportioning this Assessment to the Standard of the Tumar, he proposes to distribute it by the Medium Rate of the actual Collections of the last Three Years. (Vide Mr. Francis's Plan, Par. 50. and 51.)

I shall now reply to the Positions which I have stated as the material Objects of Mr. Francis's Minute.

1st. That the Plan of Enquiry which I have recommended is an Innovation unknown till the Government of Cossim Ally Cawn.

To this it might be sufficient to answer, that the Plan of Enquiry which I have recommended is exactly similar in its Nature and Design to the Plan of Enquiry first introduced by Tural Mull, on which he founded his Tumar. It is therefore no Innovation. The present Government of Bengal possesses equal Rights as a Government to those formerly held by King Acbar, and may with equal Justice cause a new Valuation of the Lands to be made on the same Grounds, and for the same Purposes as he did. This Example, if it be Authority, will justify it in the present Instance. This was an Act without Precedent or Law to support it, but his Will, which was absolute. It is in vain to look for the Constitution of a despotic Government in any other Principle. Yet, even in such a State, Interest and Convenience will always sanctify old and fixed Habits, because of the Respect which is paid to them by the Bulk of the People, and because the Advantages accruing from them are certain, and may be lost by the Attempt to substitute new Modes in their stead. It is therefore probable, that if the Company's Representatives in Bengal had found the Constitutions of Tural Mull in Force, and the acknowledged Standard of territorial Property in the Country when they took Possession of it in the Year 1765, they would have adhered implicitly to it, as their Guide in the Collection of the Public Revenue; nor would they or their Successors have had Recourse to temporary and variable Expedients of adjusting the reciprocal Claims of the Government and the People. Mr. Francis admits that the Constitution of Bengal has undergone many Changes, even from the Accession of Jaffier Cawn, which includes a Space of more than Half a Century. In so great a Length of Time, and under so many Revolutions as the Government of Bengal has suffered in the Course of it, it was not possible that the Constitution so early infringed should have recovered itself, or even that it should not have almost totally perished. In Effect, there are not now any Traces of it in the Practice of the Revenue, nor have been for a Number of Years preceding the Date of the Company's Acquisition of the Dewanny. The same Cause therefore which induced King Akbar to establish an equal and permanent Standard for the Collection of the Revenues in his Time, equally requires that the same, or other Means as efficacious, be employed for the same Ends in this.

Though this Reasoning appears to me conclusive to defend the Plan in question from the Charge of Innovation, yet as Mr. Francis has asserted that it was never once introduced till the Time of Cossim Ally Cawn, I shall examine how far this Assertion is supported by Facts subsequent to the original Investigation made in the Reign of King Acbar. I pretend to no Knowledge of my own; but for my Satisfaction on this and other Subjects, I have put sundry Questions in Writing to the Two Canongoes, which, with their Answer, I have subjoined as an Appendix to this Minute (N<sup>o</sup> 1). By these it appears, that a Hufstabood or Valuation of the Lands was made in some of the most considerable Districts of Bengal, so long ago as the Year 1123, or 1722 of our Era, in the Government of the Nabob Jaffier Cawn, and that the same Practice was repeated by the Nazims, who succeeded him.

I believe it would be no difficult Matter to prove, that this Custom was yet of much greater Antiquity. In a Persian Book entitled Remoojaul A theemgherec, which is well known, and in the Hands of many, many, I have met with a Firmaun from King Arungzebe to one of his Dewans; which appears to me so much in Point that I have annexed a Translation of it (N° 2).

But, were other Proofs wanting, Mr. Francis has furnished me with one, which, whether I regard it as valid or not, he is bound by his own Declaration to acknowledge as good Authority. His Words are, "Mr. Holwell affirms (Vol. I. Page 222.) that every additional Tax on Land above Three Sicca Rupees a Beega per Annum, is contrary to the standing Law of the Empire, which, until Alliverdy Cawn's Usurpations, had been held sacred and inviolable," &c. Mr. Francis adds, "If there be any Proof to invalidate the Evidence of these Documents, it ought to be produced."

If, as Mr. Holwell affirms, every additional Tax on Land above Three Sicca Rupees a Bega is contrary to the standing Law of the Empire, it follows as an inevitable Consequence, that every additional Tax not exceeding Three Rupees a Bega, is authorized by the same Law. This Inference, in the First Place, totally invalidates Mr. Francis's Doctrine of the Sanctity of the Tumar; and in the Second it proves both the Legality and Practice of Hustaboods or new Valuations formed on a Mofussil or local Scrutiny into the Collections; for it would be an Absurdity to authorize new Impositions on the established Tax, and to prohibit an Enquiry into the Capacity of the Lands to bear it; and it would be the Height of Injustice in the Representatives of Government possessing the Power of making such Enquiry to lay a heavy Tax on the Lands, without knowing if they were able to bear it. Now I have never heard of more than Two Ways of making a Hustabood, viz. either, 1st. By new Measurement and Appraisement of the Lands; or, 2dly. By an Investigation of the actual Collections made on the old Appraisement. The First of these is liable to great Expence and Delay, and under Cover of strict legal Right, to much Oppression. The latter is liable to neither of these Defects: It will always prove an Ease to the lowest Class of the People, who the Aumeens can neither favour by Collusion, nor oppress from Motives of Rapacity, because of the Multitude of People who would be privy to such Transactions, or Sufferers by them. The only Persons who would feel it as a Grievance would be such of the Zemindars or Talookdars as extorted a higher Rent from the Ryots than they could legally claim, or by Encroachments, or fictitious Pleas for Remission, paid a less Rent to Government than was legally due.

To sum up the Whole of the Arguments in a few Words. If it was lawful to levy new Taxes, it was lawful to ascertain the Means of levying and distributing them, and these Means were either proscribed or forbidden, or they were left to the Discretion of the ruling Power; it will not be affirmed, that any Law exists which either proscribes or forbids the Means necessary for this End; they are therefore left to the Discretion of Government; a Hustabood is therefore lawful, and is no Innovation.

2dly. Mr. Francis has laboured to prove, That it is my Design to raise the greatest possible Revenue from the Province, and to deprive the Zemindars of their Inheritance.

I have joined both these Propositions in one, because one very short Answer will serve as a Refutation of both. I declare, that I have no Design to raise the greatest possible Revenue from the Province, nor to deprive the Zemindars of their Inheritance. In making this Declaration, I am entitled to Credit, because, in the First Place, I am certainly the best Judge of my own Intentions; and in the Second, it would be the Height of Imprudence to make such a Declaration on a Point not ultimately depending on my Will, if I really meant to act contrary to it.

But I will not stop at this negative Declaration. It is my earnest Wish, and my united Object in the Enquiry which I have set on Foot, to establish an equal, an easy, and a perpetual Assessment of the Public Revenue; to collect it through the Medium of the Zemindars, where they are capable of the Charge, and to employ other Means, still reserving to the Zemindars a fixed Proportion of the Nett Revenue arising from their Lands, where they are not.

It was by no Means necessary for me to make these Declarations, or to avow my own private Wishes, at the Time in which I proposed the Institution of an Office for enquiring into the State of the Public Revenue, because those Wishes had no necessary or immediate Connection with it. Whether the Public Revenue was to be raised or diminished, whether the Mode and Amount of it were to be for a limited Time, or for Perpetuity, were Points which it rested with a higher Power than mine, or of the Board united, to determine. Upon the First, we are in a Manner precluded from an Option: The Orders from the Court of Directors invariably require, that the Revenue be kept up to its estimated Amount, and discourage the Allowance of Remissions. On the other Hand, it has been repeatedly recommended to them to allow of a general Abatement in the Rents; and their Decision upon this important Question may be expected by the first Dispatches from England, which, as no very urgent Cause requires it, it would be both imprudent and unbecoming to anticipate. As to a perpetual Settlement, we have no express Authority to make one, nor would it be valid until confirmed by the Court of Directors. My Design, therefore, was no more than what I have professed, to establish an equal Assessment. This will be useful to any Mode of Settlement, and is the only Basis on which a permanent one can be formed, either with a View to the lasting Security of the Public Revenue or of private Property. Until I hear a better Objection assigned against the Establishment of an Equality in the Assessment, than the short Argument opposed to it by Mr. Francis, namely, that "shifting the Disposition of the Burthen will not lighten it," I shall not offer to afford it any further Support, but leave it to stand by its own intrinsic Strength, as a self-evident Proposition.

N° 1. Questions put to the Naib Canongoes, and their Answers.

Question 1st. Is the Demand of the Sircar limited to the Toomar Jumma, or may more be demanded than the Toomar Jumma?

Answer to Question 1st, by Sirrinarain Mustapha, Naib Canongoe.

The Toomar Jumma is the first Rule; should it however appear, that any Place yields a Profit exceeding the Amount of this Jumma, and this Excess might be collected without afflicting the Ryotts, the Hakims may demand what remains of the Amount of this Excess after the Deduction of the Serinjamny Expences of the Zemindars.

Answer to Question 1st, by Gungo Govind Sing, Naib Canongoe.

In the Reign of Mahomed Akber, Todeul-Mul, who was Dewan of the whole Khalsa, formed a Toomar Jumma for all the Mohals of the Soubah, by establishing a varied Rate per Bega, and a Jumma on easy Terms. All the Hakims afterwards in every Reign till the Time of Kiffaier Khân, formed a Jumma bundy at a higher Rate, proportionably to the Profits, and increased the Jumma. The Jumma was afterwards augmented in various Jaghier Mohals, and as these were resumed, all the repeated Annexations to the Jumma, by the Means of which the Jumma had been raised to a considerable Amount, were in a Course of Time included in the Toomar Jumma, and became a Part of the Regal Revenues. While the Regal Authority existed, no one could remit these repeated Annexations; when the Regal Power declined, various Mahtoots, &c. were superadded, but not included in the Regal Jumma. Adverting to former Custom, both the original Toomar Jumma and the Additions appertain to the King, and the Toomar Jumma only does not limit the Regal Revenue.

Question 2. Is the Toomar Jumma designed for the Zemindar and Talookdar, or for the Ryots?

Answer 2d.

The Toomar Jumma is neither formed for the Zemindar and Talookdar, nor for the Ryots; but in order to state the annual Value of the Country, of which the Zemindar, Talookdar, and Ryots, pay the Revenue to Government.

Answer 2d.

A Toomar Jumma is settled separately for every Ryot in every Village, and for the Nankar Muckeedumay, and other Expences being deducted; a Bundoobust has been fixed for the Zemindars; the Toomar Jumma therefore is designed for both.

Question 3d. In what Year was the Toomar Jumma formed; in what Year did it become in Force; and how long did it continue in Force?

Answer 3d.

Raja Tode-ul Mul, one of the King's Mustedies, formed the Toomar Jumma in the Reign of Akber; and it prevailed in the Sherista of the Khalsa, and in the Tuncaws of the Jagheirdars, till the Time of the Nabob Jaffier Khan Nassary. In the Time of the Nabob Shujah ul Deen Mahomed Khan, a Tushkees Jumma was affixed in some Places, from a Review of the Jumma Wassil Bakee of the Ten Years preceding, because the Revenue had fallen into Arrears; and this Custom prevailed till the Time of the Nabob Jaffier Ally Khan's First Administration; but from the Time of Cossim Ally Khan, the Custom of the Toomar and Tushkees have been abolished, and the Custom of a Huftabood been substituted in its Place.

Answer 3d.

Raja Tode-ul Mul arrived with Muneem Khan Khan Khani, in the 19th Year of the Reign of Mahomed Akber, or in the Year 966, B. S. which is 218 Years before the present Date, and took the Country of Bengal from the Afghans. He afterwards applied himself to the Settlement of the Country, and in a Course of Time formed the Toomar Jumma. I do not know the exact Year when it was formed and became in force; but it remained in force till the Time of Jaffier Khan, or the Bengal Year 1133.

Question 4th. At what Times have the successive Mahtoots taken place?

Answer 4th.

In the Close of the Year 1133, B. S. in the Time of Nabob Jaffier Khan, the Articles were SEL. COM. REP. VI.

Answer 4th.

The Fielkhanna Article, and Mahtoot, and some other Articles, were fixed in the Time of Shujah fixed of the Sherishta Woojeaut Khafs Naveefy, the Mahtoots for the Wages of the Serishtadars, the Pooltabundy of Laalbaug, and the Kella of Mooshtedabad. Afterwards, from the Beginning of 1134 to the End of 1157, in the Nabob Shujah-ul-Deen, Mahomed Khan's, and the Nabob Seifras Khan's, and the Nabob Mahabet Jung's Time, there was a Mahtoot for the Fielkhanna, and other Cattle, &c. The fixed Mizerana, Munfoor Gunge and Gour Bricks; and afterwards, from the Beginning of 1158, the Mohrat-ta Chout, Chunam, &c. and afterwards from the Beginning of 1167, the Abwab of 1½ Anna Serf. and from the Year 1177, a Mahtoot for the Cost of Khelaats (which was before a Business that used to be transacted by Juggut Sect's House) and all these Articles were included in the Jumma.

Shujah ul Dowla, and the Chout, &c. in the Time of Mahabet Jung.

Question 5th. In what District was the First Huftabood formed after the Settlement of the Toomar Jumma; in what Districts were they afterwards formed; from what Place; and in what Year?

Answer 5th.

There is no Trace of the Huftabood Practice in the Time of the Nizamut of Jaffier Khan Nusseery. In the Beginning of the Year 1134, in the Time of the Nabob Shujah ul Deen Mahomed Khan, Allum Chund, Roy Royan, a Mut-feddy of the Khalsa Shereta, examined the Jumma Wafil Bakey Account of the Mohals of the Soubah for the Ten preceding Years; and in those Districts from which old and recent Balances were due, stationed Aumils, and formed a Tusk-kees Jumma of the additional Sum; which he discovered by the Huftabood Valuation, after the Deduction of the Nankar, &c. and the Serinjamy Expences. However, it appeared by this Mode that the Toomar Jumma was too high a Rate for the Chuckla of Houghly, Hidglee, Gowra Gaut, Jessore, &c. But Rajah Keerel Chund, a Mutledy of the Khalfah Shereefa, afterwards, in the Time of Mahabet Jung, or in the Year 1158, re-annexed the Abatement which had been allowed in several Districts, and made a Settlement for Two or Three Years; and the Collections were carried on accordingly to the Time of the First Administration of Jaffier Ally Khan. The Nabob Cossim Ally Khan formed a Zilla-bundee of the Mohals of the Soubah, deputed Aumils into the Purgunnahs Poornea, Badore, and Beerbhoom, Bishempore, Havelly, Pinjia, &c. and established the Sherishta of a Huftabood.

Answer 5th.

Birgey Bullub Crorey was appointed to the Office of Crorey of Pergunnah Ukra, &c. in the Time of Rogooram, Zemindar in the Year 1128. B. S. and to the Office of Crorey of the Chuckla of Houghly, in the Year 1130; who measured the Land, and settled a Jumtabundy, and formed a Huftabood. Ram Kishen Crorey and Mirtunjee Crorey, and others, also formed an Huftabood, in order to realize the Revenue of several Districts. The Custom afterwards commenced in the Time of Cossim Ally Khan.

Question 6th. Can the Hakim take the Authority from the Zemindar, and vest it in a Sezawill, or Muttahew, or a Farmer?

Answer 6th.

It is a Maxim confirmed by Custom, that the Appointment of a Muttahud, or Sezawal, or Farmer, does not divest the Zemindars of their Authority. Should the Zemindars act in Repugnance to Men stationed on the Part of the Government in the Business of the Country or Collections, the Hakims may certainly divest the Zemindars of their Authority, and vest in the Sezawal, Muttahud, and Farmer. But it is necessary that the Huzzoor should be informed, before the Disposition of the Zemindars constituted by Firmaun.

Answer 6th.

The Hakim may, when not satisfied (with regard to a District) place it under a Muttahud; and in case of a Failure in the Payment of the Revenue, or other Faults, may divest the Zemindar of his Authority, and vest it in a Sezawal or Farmer.

Question

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

Question 7th. Can the Hakims, agreeably to the Custom, issue any Order with respect to Encrease or Abatement of the Bund-oo-bust, or fixed Revenue of Ryots?

Answer 7th.

Should any Disproportion appear in the Revenue, on measuring the Lands and forming a Jumma-bundy, the Hakim can certainly raise or abate the Revenue above or below the Bund-oo-bust.

Answer 7th.

Should an Abatement be allowed to the Ryots of the Bund-oo-bust, it is the Loss of the Zemindar or Farmer; however they may allow it, in order to promote the Cultivation. In case they should affix an Encrease, and the Ryots complain, the Hakim may order it to be discontinued.

Question 8. Was there a Huftabood before, or has this Practice been adopted only from the Time of Cossim Ally Khan?

Answer 8th.

This Question has been answered before, in Answer to Question 5th.

Answer 8th.

It has been adopted before for the Sake of realizing the Revenue.

Question 9th. May the Zemindar raise the Revenue of the Ryots at his Pleasure?

Answer 9th.

Provided the Ryots have been used fairly and justly to pay their Revenue agreeably to the established Rates; was the Zemindar to demand more at his Pleasure, it would be a notorious Injury and Act of Oppression.

Answer 9th.

He cannot demand more than the full Jumma, and the Amount of the Engagement.

Copy of a Firmaun of the Emperor Auringzebe.

To the Promoter of Utility and Advantage, obedient to the true Faith, Risshuk Dofs, living in Hopes of the Bounty of the Empire, be it known, As all Our august Desires and Designs, elevated to the Sky, have for their Object the Increase of the Culture and Population of the Country, and the Happiness and Ease of the Ryots, the highest Trust of the Almighty Creator, the Idea of whose Dignity is immense; and upon Enquiry lately made into the State of the Affairs of the Pergunnahs of the Khalsa Shereefa, and of the Tavieldars, from the Ministers of Our Empire, it has come to Our sacred Knowledge, that People, such as Aumeens of the Pergunnahs in Our Dominions, adverting to the Amount produced in the most favourable Years and some late Years, and the Quantity of Land which will admit of Cultivation, the Ability and Circumstances of the Ryots, and other Objects of Moment, do in several of the Villages in the Pergunnahs fix the Jumma at the Commencement of the Year; and if any of the Ryots of the Villages do not consent to this Mode, they settle their Jumma at the Time of the Harvest by a Measurement of the Lands, or by Ascertainment of the Produce (Cunkote) and in many of the Villages, the Husbandmen and Tillers of which they know to be in a State of Poverty and Distress, they settle with such Men, by taking a Proportion of the Grain, either an Half, a Third, Two-fifths, or more or less, and at the End of the Year they transmit to the Royal Duffer, according to established Customs, general Accounts of the Specie realized, having first authenticated them; and these Accounts are also confirmed by the Crorees, and signed by the Chowdries and Canongoes, but no Account of the Lands in each Pergunnah, specifying the exact Produce of each, and distinguishing the different Articles of the Kurreef and Rubbee Harvests; viz. what Quantity of a superior Value, and what of an inferior, was produced in the last Year, and what Increase or Diminution in the present Year compared with the former, or an Account of the Number of Cultivators in each Village, distinguishing the Farmers, Ryots, &c. comes to the Royal Duffer; by which the State of each Mahal, and the Conduct of the Mutfeddies of such Mahal, with respect to the Deductions that have been allowed by them from the Jumma, as first settled on Account of Deficiencies in the Collections of that Mahal, proceeding from a Scarcity of Rain, a Severity of Cold, Cheapness of Grain, or such other Causes, do not clearly appear. If they make themselves perfectly acquainted with the State of the Cultivators and Produce of each Village, and act from a perfect Knowledge thereof, and take Pains in the Culture of Lands which will admit of Cultivation, and for the Improvement of Cultivation, in order to effect the Increase of the Revenue to its full Amount, the Pergunnahs will flourish and be in a State of Plenty, and the Condition of the Ryots will be happy; an Increase will also appear in the Produce: And in case of a Calamity, the Loss will be mitigated by the additional Cultivation. The Royal Order requiring the Obedience of the World, is issued, that you (Risshuk Dofs) make yourself acquainted with the Sta<sup>e</sup>

State of every Village in the Pergunnahs appertaining to your Dewannee and Aumeeny, informing yourself what Quantity of Land will admit of Cultivation; of this, what Quantity is cultivated, and what uncultivated; and how much is produced every Year of the superior Articles; and what is the Reason why the Lands have not been cultivated; you will also inform yourself what was the Usage with regard to receiving the Customs (Mahfool) in the Time of his Majesty, when Rajah Tooder Mull was Dewan: Also, whether the Rate of the Duties (Sayer) is the same as formerly, or whether they have been increased since the Commencement of our auspicious Reign; and also how many Villages are populous, and how many deserted, and what is the Reason of the Depopulation. After making yourself acquainted with these Particulars, you will apply yourself to the Promotion of an Increase of Population in the Villages which have been deserted, and to the Cultivation of those Lands which will admit of it by adhering to your Word, being just to your Engagements, and augmenting the Produce of superior Articles. You will also, where a Well shall have become unserviceable, put it in Repair, and dig other Wells, and fix such a Jumma for them, that the Ryots may obtain their Right, and the Revenue may be collected with Punctuality, and no Oppression may be exercised upon a single Ryot: You will also draw Accounts every Year of the Number of Cultivators in each Village, of the Land which is cultivated and uncultivated, and of the Wells; containing likewise Information regarding the Rain, the Articles produced, both those of a superior and those of an inferior Value; the Requisites for cultivating the Land which will admit of Cultivation, the Increase in the Produce of superior Articles, and the Population of the Villages which had been deserted during a Course of Years. You will also intimate the Particulars of what may have been settled exceeding the former Practice, specifying the Amount which may have been collected in the Course of the whole Year. You will consider the following Regulations, established from the Beginning of the Curreef (Harvest) in the 8th Year of the Reign, and put them into Practice accordingly; you will also direct the Aumils of the Districts, and the Jagheerdars, to observe them, viz. First; You will not give the Chowdries and Aumeels Admission to you in private, but make it a Rule for them to attend publicly in the Cutcherry, and when the lowest Ryots shall come to represent their Case to you, you will make them your Friends by shewing them Notice, and treating them with Kindness, that they may not have Occasion for the Patronage of another in order to express their Wants. Secondly; You will direct the Aumils to inform themselves in the Beginning of the Year of the Cultivators in every Village, the Number of Ploughs, and of the Portions of Lands; and should the Ryots remain, to admonish them (every Man according to his Condition) to sow more Seed, and promote a better Harvest than that of the preceding Year; also to shew such an Earnestness to cultivate Articles of a superior Nature in Preference to those of an inferior, as not to leave more Land which will admit of Cultivation uncultivated, than they can possibly avoid. But should any of the Men have deserted, the Aumils will then inform themselves of the Cause, and use every Means to bring them back to their former Habitation; they will also endeavour, by every satisfactory Assurance and Encouragement, to collect Husbandmen from the circumjacent Country, and dispose of the Land covered with Thickets, so as to cause it to be cultivated. Thirdly; You will direct the Aumeens of the Pergunnahs to act as follows: They will inform themselves in the Beginning of the Year of the State of the Produce of each Village, and the Quantity belonging to each Individual, and with the minutest Knowledge form a Jumma, having Respect both to the Advantage of the Government and the Ease of the Ryots: They will transmit the Doul Jumma without Delay to the Royal Duffore. Fourthly; After the Formation of the Jumma, you will be careful that the Collections be opened at the proper Time, and carried on conformably to the Kists which are established in each Pergunnah, and that the Persons be called upon who do not pay at the Time fixed. You will also every Week inform yourself, and issue your Injunctions that no Balance be left in Part of the Kist. However, if it should happen that Part of the First Kist should remain unpaid, be careful that it be noted to be collected in the Second Kist; but at any Rate that it be paid complete in the Third Kist. Fifthly; Settle proper Kists proportionate to the Condition and Ability of the Ryots for old Balances, and direct the Cories to collect the Amount agreeably to the Engagements, and yourself attend to the Completion of the Collections; and be careful that no Delay be occasioned by the Negligence of the Aumils. Sixthly; When you yourself investigate the State of the Pergunnahs, in whatever Village you may arrive, you will make yourself acquainted with the State of the Produce and Value, the Ability of the Cultivators, and the Amount of the Jumma. If upon separating the Jumma, it shall appear that the Proportion of every Ryot is just and equitable, it is well; but if the Chowdry, or Muckuddum, or Putwarree, should have been guilty of Oppression, you will encourage the Cultivators, and redress them, and take away from any Man the Profit which he may fraudulently have reserved to himself. You will immediately apply yourself with the greatest Care and Probity to the Formation of the Settlement of the present Year, and the Statement of the Particulars of the Balance in Hand, and transmit a circumstantial Account, that the official Knowledge of the Aumeens, and your own good Conduct may appear. Seventhly; Continue the Nankar and Enaum agreeably to the established Practice of the Khalsa Shereefa; you will learn in what Respect the Aumils of the Prince may have increased them, and resume them, assigning for your Reason, the Amount of the Balances which those Servants have left uncollected in the Jaghir since the Time it was granted to the Prince, and the Deductions which they have taken on the Plea of Failure of Produce and Accidents, and discontinue them in future; that when they shall restore these Pergunnahs to their original State, and the Circumstances be represented to the Huzzoor, every Man may experience Favour from the Huzzoor proportionably to the Degree of his Loyalty. Eighthly; Establish it as a Rule in the Fatakhkhanas, that that the Folahdars shall receive Siccas coined in the Reign of Allumguier : In case the Rupees of this Kind are not to be procured, they will take Shawjehanny Rupees, which are current in the Buzar, and settle a Batta so as to render them equal to Siccas ; but they will never admit into the Folahkanna Rupees deficient in Weight which are not current in the Buzar. If they should know however, that by returning these light Rupees they should retard the Collections, they will take from the Ryots a just and fair Consideration for the Exchange, and exchange them in their Presence. Ninthly ; should, which God avert, a Calamity from Heaven bring Distress upon the Land, you will issue the most positive Injunctions to the Aumils and Aumins, to watch the Produce with the greatest Care, and they will form a Settlement with the minutest Attention, agreeably to Hustabood ; and never allow a general Deduction so as to leave the Distribution of it in the Power of the Chowdries, Canongoes, Muckudums, and Putwarries ; that the lowest Ryots may obtain their Right, and be secured from Injury and Loss, and that there may be no Room for Imposition. Tenthly ; With respect to the Batta, and the Prevention of Expences, exclusive of the Revenue and the prohibited Taxes, which are a Grievance to the Ryots, having given the strictest Injunctions to the Aumeens, Aumils, Chowdries, and Canongoes, take Machulkas from them, that they shall never levy an increased Batta, or any Taxes prohibited or remitted by Our Court, from which Mankind find Protection ; and make it the Object of your constant Attention, should any one of them be guilty of any such Practice, and should not be restrained by Punishment and coercive Measures, write an Account thereof to Our Presence, that he may be dismissed from his Office, and another appointed in his room. Eleventh ; by Means of Persian Translations of the Hindoo Accounts, you will make yourself perfectly acquainted with the Particulars of the original Revenue, and the Taxes (Assul and Abaub) the Amount paid to Government, the extra Charges and the Fees, specifying what is received from each Individual : In short, whatever Sums are taken on any Account from the Ryots, and what Part of it is paid into the Fatakanna (Treasury) draw out an Account of the Remainder which has been embezzled by the Aumeens, Aumils, Zemindars, and others, with the Amount against the Names of each Person, and as far as possible, get together the rough Accounts of all the Villages of the Purgunnah and translate them. And if by the Absence of the Putwarry, or other Cause, you do not get Possession of the Accounts of some particular Villages, supply these Accounts by a Comparison of those of the Villages collectively, and insert them in the general Account. It is necessary that the Dewan, after the general Accounts are prepared, attentively weigh and consider them ; if they are drawn out conformable to Usage, let him keep them, and call upon the Chowdries, Canongoes, Aumils, Muckuddums, and Putwarries, for whatever Sums they may have appropriated to themselves, exceeding their customary Allowances. Twelfth ; Whoever of the Aumeens, Cories, and Fatahdars, conducts himself in his Post with Integrity and Zeal, and acts on all Occasions agreeably to the Rules abovementioned, performing good and faithful Services, of him write an Account, that he may reap the Fruits which he may merit by his Integrity and good Conduct : And if any one acts contrarywise, intimate the Particulars to Our Presence, that he may be discharged from his Office, called to an Account, and meet with the Punishment due to his Demerits. Thirteenth ; Collect the Accounts by Means of the strictest Injunctions at the proper Season. In the Mahal where you may reside, keep a Diary (Roshnamah) of the Collections on account of Revenue and Duties (Saier), and also a daily Price Current (Nerknamah) ; and with respect to the other Purgunnahs, furnish yourself with a daily Account of the Collections made ; and also, an Account of the Balance in Hand every Fifteen Days, an Athfuttah Account Current of the Cash in the Possession of the Fatahdar, and a monthly Jumma Wasseel Bakee ; a general Account of the Jumma, Mujmil, or Close of the Collections, Jummabundee and Jumma-kurch of the Money in the Charge of the Fatahdar ; all these Accounts take from the Aumils every Harvest (Fussil) and having examined them, whatever unauthorized Charges may appear, you will cause to be refunded, and remit them * to Our Royal Duster. Do not suffer the Accounts of Kurreef to be delayed till Rubby, nor those of Rubby till Kurreef. Fourteenth ; Having immediately obliged such Aumeens, Aumils, and Fatahdars as may be discharged from their Offices, to deliver up their Papers, scrutinize the Accounts, and cause such Articles as at the Time of their being audited were not admitted, to be refunded agreeably to the Usage of the Dewanny ; and transmit to Our Royal Cutcherry their Accounts, with the Particulars of the Receipts on Account of Articles which have not been admitted, that they may be by this Means acquitted from all further Demands from our Duster. Fifteenth ; Having prepared the Dewanny Proceedings agreeably to the usual Form, transmit them to Our Royal Duster every Fussil, under Our Seal and Signature.

Copy of General Clavering's Minute, dated the 31st March 1777.

31st March 1777.

General Clavering.

The Reply offered by the Governor General of Yesterday to the Minutes of Mr. Francis and myself, of the 25th and 26th Instant, is a Compilation of Words so desultory and vague, evading what it cannot defend, and misrepresenting what it aims to answer, that it seems equally calculated to bear any other Appellation than the one he has given it, of a Defence.

Notwithstanding however the Labour and Difficulty of restoring the Facts as misplaced and perverted by him; yet, left the Art with which it is drawn up, intended as it is to deceive those who have not Leisure to refer and compare the Grounds of the Charges as first stated, should throw a Veil over Facts which it vainly attempts to remove, I sit down at this late Hour of the Dispatch, to point out to the Court of Directors, that Mr. Hastings's Declarations, combined with his Conduct, do in fact amount to nothing less than a Subversion of the Government.

It was not a Denial by me, that the Acts a Majority should form the Resolutions of the Board, but the Abuse of it, by the Governor General, that I complained of, in his bringing Resolutions ready formed, and declaring that he would not wait for the Advice of the other Members; which the Act surely does not preclude their giving, although it vests the Resolution in a Majority. By the Words of the Company's Orders quoted by the Governor General, it is evident that the Resolution, in whomsoever vested, is supposed and must arise from the Debates of the whole Council; hence it is clear, that in whatever Way the Governor General may pervert the Argument, both the Act of Parliament and the Company's subsequent Orders, and even the very Form of the Constitution of this Government, points out, that the Resolution must be formed from the Result of the Opinions of the Members.

Nor do I admit that the Custom of this Government varies from this Assertion, by the Mode of taking Votes by circulating a Question; which by no Means as the Governor states, keeps each Member ignorant, whilst sitting in his Apartment, of the Sentiments of the remaining Members; for no Member gives his Vote without annexing his Opinion, which goes in Circulation for the Information of the next Member, and therein amounts to the obvious Meaning of the Act, the Company's Orders, and the Form of the Constitution of the Government; and had the Candour of the Governor General allowed him to see the Truth of this Statement in this simple Light, he could never have asked the Question, which would then, as it does now, stand self-answered, whether General Clavering is guilty of dissolving this Government by acting conformably to what he before avowed and stated to be the Meaning of the Act.

The Point of Fact that the Governor introduces, is the Application of a general Argument to answer a particular Circumstance at all Times inadmissible; it is concluding, that because Freedom of Debate may have appeared on former Occasions, therefore it must have existed in the present particular Circumstance, when he threw Four Resolutions, ready formed, on the Table, declaring afterwards, that he only meant to take our Opinions officially, "and that he shall think himself justified in choosing such Measures with the only Member of the Board on whom he can rely for Assistance, as shall appear to them most conducive to the Service, and carry them into Execution without waiting the Close of every Series of Argumentation with which the other Members of the Board may endeavour to protract it." I must here observe, that in the frequent Allusions to Custom and Privilege, he seems already to have forgotten his former Assertion, that the Custom in question does not exist.

Whatever Gloss the Governor General may throw over his Conduct of the 14th Instant, it is apparent from his subsequent Declarations already cited, that his Intention on that Day was really what I stated, the Abuse and Violation of the Act, amounting to a Dissolution of the Government.

The Attention the Governor now promises to pay to the temperate Opinions of his Associates in the Government, is too difficult to reconcile with his late previous Declaration, not to betray rather an Apprehension of an Impeachment by Parliament, than a Contrition for the Act itself, which he has committed.

To my Proposition for enforcing the former Order of the Board for closing the Collections, and recalling the Farmers on the Expiration of their Leases, his Condescension in not repealing a former Act of Government, is a Reflection he might have avoided throwing on himself, since it implies an Unwillingness to act conformably to what he now avows to be right, although he formerly dissented to it, when opposing the late Majority, because the Measure was proposed by me.

The Governor General is in Truth right in saying, that he is not reprehensible for what he can do, but for what he does do; it is a Claim, that all Mankind are equally entitled to; the Fact committed, did not indeed require his Confession to prove it, but nothing less than a Confession could have established, that he acted premeditatedly.

The Responsibility which Mr. Hastings would fain throw from himself for the evil Consequences that arise from maintaining a Division in the Council, by confederating with another, even in the Prosecution of Measures, upon which they had formerly vilified each other, must yet recoil on the Delinquency of his own Actions, which necessarily form the Division he complains of, as no new Members, even devoid of Honour or Sense of Duty to their Country, could possibly have co-operated in, to receive the Punishment for Crimes of which others had reaped the Benefit, unless he would stamp it on the Legislature that passed the Act, and the Directors that permit us to continue.

Upon the Question, whether Government has a Right to appoint a Servant to the Rajah of Burdwan's Household? the Difference between the Governor General and me is, that he assumes it in Opposition to the Inclinations of the Ranny, and that I conceive it to be only in Support of her Recommendations: On the 30th December 1774, the Date quoted by the Governor, my Answer is recorded, that I named Lolla Chund, and Rupnaram Chowdrie upon the Recommendation of the Ranny;

Ranny; I therefore cannot but persist in declaring, that we have no Right to interfere in the Nomination of a Servant to the Rajah of Burdwan: The Governor General desires me to support this by the Proceedings of either Council of the 30th December 1774, or the 13th March 1775. I will take both: In the First, the Ranny's Petition solicits the Dismissal of Bridge Kishow and Kissen Prawn Metre, and the Nomination of Two others; accordingly her Desire was assented to temporally. On the 17th March, the Proofs against Bridge Kissen, on which she grounded her Desire for his Dismissal, being compleated, he became finally dismissed; and the Board not deeming themselves entitled to the Right of Appointment, recommended the Two Persons who had acted under the temporary Nomination, to be now fixed by her, still leaving the Decision of the Appointment to herself: This Mr. Hastings calls waving a Right; so might every legal Act be deemed waving an Illegality.

My former Distinction between the Nabob and a Zemindar, remaining uncontroverted by the Governor, seems to require no further Explanation on my Side; yet could so plain a Case need Elucidation, it may be observed, that in all Countries the Power in the State, whether it be in Parliaments or Councils, take Charge of the Minority of the Prince, but never descend to the interior Management of the Affairs of Individuals. The Regulation alluded to by the Governor, of the Rajah's Accounts, was before explained by me: It was made by the late Majority: The Necessity of it sufficiently appears by the Statement of the Sums of which the Rajah had been plundered, and which nothing could prevent, but their being open to the Board. In calling for these Accounts, I have constantly joined with the Governor, and if they are not satisfactory, I am as ready to concur in enforcing the Mutchulca: It expresses the Penalty stipulated for any Non-compliance with the Obligation; and while we have this in Hand, I can admit of no Right, either in Law or Reason, for recurring to any other compulsive Means, nor can I perceive the Necessity of making ourselves liable to an Action, that will probably be brought against the Council, if any Violence is committed.

In saying that Bahadar Sing had been an Hircarrah, I have but done him Justice, as it is very well known to every Man in Bengal, as well as to the Governor General himself; nor can any subsequent Marriage of his Niece, who being but the Fourth Wife of the Rajah, is little better than a Concubine, alter his Condition at the Period I alluded to. The calling for these Accounts, it is well understood, had no other View than to introduce the Appointment of this Man; to make him the Instrument of the Governor's Vengeance against the Ranny, whose declared Enemy he is: However, other Purposes, equally flagitious, are now aimed; Motives are ascribed to her for the Refusal of the Accounts, and to Mr. Francis and myself for supporting her in it. After having joined the Governor in every Requisition for the Accounts, he asks, how it can be asserted that we are not competent, nay, that it is not incumbent on us to demand; and receive them? adding, "He will not trust himself to form Conjectures on the Causes of this Reluctance of the Ranny, nor on the Motives of those who so strenuously support her in it." The malicious View with which this Inuendo is thrown out, is only worthy of a Man who having disgraced himself in the Eyes of every Man of Honour both in Asia and in Europe, having no Imputation to lay to our Charge, has dared to attempt in the Dark, what Malice itself could not find Grounds to aim at openly.

The Court of Directors, whose Candour I claim on this Occasion, will perceive, that because I refuse to concur in a Measure which I deem illegal, I am subjected to the malicious Construction of an Imputation of withholding the Accounts, and that with equal Justice he may yet insinuate, that I have my private Reasons in Behalf of the Rajah of Radishai for refusing to join in a Letter to the Council of Moorshedabad, authorizing them to punish all the Officers of that Zemindarry on the Complaint of the Aumeens.

After having, with so little apparent Compunction, subjected a whole Province to Corporal Punishment, it is ridiculous to observe the affected Scruples with which he speaks of the Confinement of Ramcaunt for a short Time. The Right assumed by Government on that Occasion, I then, and now disclaim; but as a political Measure, I yet defend it. That Man, by obtaining Possession of many of the most lucrative Farms of the Province at an Under-value, having rendered it impossible for the Ranny to fulfil the Rajah's Engagements with Government, no Alternative was left at a very late Season, between relinquishing the Settlement which we had concluded, and taking him up. The Effect was immediate; his Farms were given up and re-let at an advanced Rate, since which the Monthly Kists have been paid up regularly to a Rupee.

In cases of Emergency, every Government may be driven to certain Stretches of Power, only to be justified by that Situation: Had Mr. Hastings seen the present Case in this View, it would not have hurt his natural Aversion to Despotism, and his delicate Feelings for the Rights of Men, and still less would it have afforded an Example for a like Exertion of Power without the Plea of Necessity to justify it. The compelling the Rajah of Burdwan to employ a Man in the domestic Administration of his Affairs, whilst the Governor possesses, in the Mutchulca, the legal Means of obtaining the very Ends he professes to aim at, surely cannot be said to favour of that Despotism which he so loudly exclaims against.

The only Point yet unnoticed by the Governor General's Minute, is upon the Subject of Aumeens; which he declares to be intended as a Reply to the former Minutes, and therefore shrewdly observes, that a minute Answer is unnecessary. My Work is thus rendered equally easy; however, I must remark, he has not ventured to contradict the Information he had given me of the dead Man being brought to the Aumeen's Feet, though he has endeavoured upon the ipse dixit of the Aumeen at Radishai, to controvert the Truth of the Complaints made by different People against the Aumeen.

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

It is true that these are yet the only Complainants on Record; but I fear, and have too much Reason to believe, that they will soon be followed by many others, attended with Circumstances of great Acts of Inhumanity.

When I enumerate the several Subjects of his Performance which the Governor General may perhaps deem a satisfactory Reply to the direct Charge brought against him; from his own Declaration, of his Usurpation of the Government; his Evasion of this Point, the Perversion of the next with regard to the Dismission of and Appointment of the Ranny's Servants; the misapplied and dissimilar Comparison between a Compliance with her Recommendation; and the compelling her to admit a declared Enemy into the interior Conduct of her Family; the dark and malicious Intimation that follows it; his affected Scruples on a Measure of Necessity; and, finally, his futile Evasion of the Charge against the Aumeens; when, all united, convince me of the Justness of a Remark made by an eminent Personage in England on reading his Defence of the Rohilla War, that the Arguments it contained would even have been unworthy of Mrs. Rudd.

Copy of the Governor General's Minute, dated the 30th March 1777.

Governor General—In the Minutes of General Clavering and Mr. Francis, of the 25th and 26th Instant, "I am charged with a Breach of the Act of Parliament, and an Usurpation of the Government. So harsh a Charge well deserves the Attention of the Company; and although I trust that the Proceedings and Arguments which have already passed on the Subject which has given room to it, contain a sufficient Refutation of so groundless an Accusation, yet I am now once more compelled to defend myself, although I must go over the same Ground.

The Act of Parliament prescribes the Constitution of this Government in the following Words: "And be it Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That in all Cases whatsoever wherein any Difference of Opinion shall arise upon any Question proposed in any Consultation, the said Governor General and Council shall be bound and concluded by the Opinion and Decision of the major Part of those present; and if it shall happen that by the Death or by the Absence of any of the Members of the said Council, such Governor General and Council shall happen to be equally divided, then and in every such Case, the said Governor General, or in his Absence the eldest Counsellor present, shall have a Casting Voice, and his Opinion shall be decisive and conclusive"

The general Regulations of the Company upon this Subject, which followed the Act of Parliament, are expressed as follows: "In transacting the Business of your Department, it is our Order that you enter with the utmost Perspicuity and Exactness upon your Consultations, or Minutes of Council, all your Proceedings whatsoever, and all Dissents, if such should at any Time be made by any Member of your Board, to be transmitted to us by every Ship."

General Clavering is pleased to assert, "That the Act of Parliament enjoined, that whenever there might be a Difference of Opinion, the Determination should result from a Majority of cursing Voices, given after every Information received by Argument on both Sides." Mr. Francis indirectly accuses me of departing from the regular Form of Debate, established by Custom hitherto unvaried, and confirmed by Law: He positively declares, "That the Council instituted by the Legislature does in fact cease to exist if the President collects only the Votes of the Members, without listening to their Advice; or if any Resolution of Consequence be taken without a previous Deliberation of the whole Board." And after repeating Two Sentences of my Minute of the 21st, he charges me with a Dissolution of the Government established by Law, and with having violated the Laws of my Country: And to render the Charge more complete, he observes, that it is accompanied with my own Confession.

Having searched in vain for the Grounds of these Opinions, I request General Clavering, or Mr. Francis, will point out to me the Clause in the Act of Parliament which enjoins that the Voices in Council shall be given after every Information received by Arguments on both Sides; that they will shew me where the Form of Debate is confirmed by Law, or where it is declared that no Resolution of Consequence shall be taken without a previous Deliberation of the whole Board: Until this is done, the Charge on the Score of Legality must appear to the whole World unauthorized and unsupported.

I shall next examine it according to the regular Form of Debate established by Custom hitherto unvaried. It is well known to General Clavering and Mr. Francis, that in the Dispatch of Business, important Resolutions of Council are often taken without the Information of Arguments on both Sides, or a previous Deliberation of the whole Board, but merely by collecting the Votes of the Members. This is done every Day, even without the Meeting of Council: The Secretary circulates a Paper or a Question, and each Member sitting in his own Apartment, and ignorant of the Sentiments of the remaining Members, minutes down his Opinion; and the Majority of such Opinions becomes a Resolution of Government. Within these few Days the Secretary, at the Desire of General Clavering, circulated some Letters from Captains Ash and Crawford, which contained Questions tions of no less Importance, than whether we should allow the former to commence Hostilities against one of the Chiefs of Ramgur, and authorize the latter to wage War with the Rajah of Tamar, stated to be an independant Prince, into whose Territories the Company's Arms had never penetrated? Is General Clavering then guilty of dissolving this Government? The Questions which I proposed were dictated to the Secretary, and moved at the Board. This Question and many others were proposed, decided, and passed into Resolutions of Government, without any previous Deliberations or Meeting of the Council whatsoever; and General Clavering, so far from protesting against this Practice, has uniformly countenanced it. Where then is this regular, established, and unvaried Form of Debate?

In Point of Fact the Minutes of the Council will best shew with what Justice it is asserted that Freedom of Debate is excluded, and that the President collects only the Votes of the Members, without listening to their Advice; the Resolutions of Council, instead of being concluded merely by the Opinion and Decision of the major Part, according to the strict Letter of the Act of Parliament, or formed of Proceedings and Dissents, are filled with Minutes dictated to the Secretary previous to the passing of almost every Resolution; the Length of these Minutes is arbitrary, and however I am sensible of the Delay and Embarrassment which in a divided Council are thus occasioned, I have never attempted either to interrupt or to limit the Exercise of this Custom. In my Minute of the 21st Instant I declare my Opinion in express Terms, that a Member of the Board undoubtedly possesses that Privilege of recording his Sentiments by Minutes dictated at the Council Board. The ample Opportunity of exercising this Privilege which every Member enjoys, will best appear from the frequent Meetings of Council. The Orders of the Company direct us to assemble in Council twice every Week; our Records will prove, that except at the Dispatch of a Ship I generally summon Councils Five Times a Week; and the Consultations will shew how much of the Four or Five Hours which we spend at the Board is taken up in dictating argumentative Minutes to the Secretary.

But although I approve and adhere to this Mode, from that Candour and Attention which I wish to shew to every Member of the Board, I insist, and I am supported in my Opinions by the Extracts of the Statute, and of the Company's Orders. by the established Practice of circulating and deciding Questions out of Council, and by Common Sense, that the Opinion and Decision of the Major Part of the Council, legally and constitutionally form a Resolution of the Government, whether the Arguments or Objections of every Member on the Question have or have not, at that Time, been formally taken down and entered on the Minutes of Council; were it otherwise, it would be in the Power of any Member totally to impede the Business of this Government, by lengthening Minutes on the most frivolous Subjects.

In my Minute of the 21st, I gave a full and particular History of the Manner in which I moved the Propositions in question. While the General and Mr. Francis were dictating Minutes to one Secretary, I employed the other in taking down the Motions which I had to make to the Board. It was the last Time we were to meet in Council before the Dispatch of the Ship, and I thought it proper that they should stand on Record, for the Information of the Company; for this Purpose I had only Two Ways to choose, either that which I adopted, of moving them at the Council Board, or to have sent them round for the Opinion of each Member separately in the Secretary's Box. I did both; I moved the Questions at the Board; but the Day was too far advanced for the Secretary to take down the Opinions from the Mouth of each Member of the Council; I reminded the Board of this, and therefore desired they would deliver their Sentiments upon them when sent in Circulation.

A Reference to the Records will shew how strenuously, though I confess ineffectually, I have endeavoured to reconcile the jarring Opinions of the Council, and to accommodate my Sentiments to those of the other Members. I always have and shall continue to pay Attention to the temperate Opinions of my Associates in the Government: It is impossible to give a stronger Instance of this than in the Assent which I gave to General Clavering's Proposition, on the 14th Instant, for recalling the Farmers immediately on the Expiration of their Leases. The Question was not only important, but was accompanied with a Confirmation of a Resolution of the late Majority, about the Period of settling the monthly Revenue, from which I had dissented, yet I agreed to the General's Question.

In what then is my Conduct in carrying on the Business of Council reprehensible? Is it because I have declared that I can "take the Opinions of General Clavering and Mr. Francis only officially?" This is a Necessity to which I have been long since reduced; our Communications are confined to Debates at the Council Board, and our Opinions are delivered in written, too often personal, Altercations. In this Situation, being deprived of their Aid in concerting the necessary Plans of Government, however desirous to avail myself of their Reasonings, and even to adopt and follow their Propositions, I am obliged to choose such Measures as appear to me most proper, "in Conjunction with the only Member of the Board on whom I can rely for Assistance." This is a Circumstance which required no Confession of mine to establish; it is the inevitable Consequence of that Faction which divides this Government; and whatever Evils it may create, those who first split this Council into Two Parties, and those who permit them to continue, must answer for them.

General Clavering is pleased to repeat his Declaration, "That we have no Right to interfere in the Appointment of a Servant to the Rajah of Burdwan's Household;" and adds "That the Proceedings of the 17th of March 1775, point out, that Lolla Koolshall Chund and Roopnarain Chowdree, so far from being appointed expressly by the Board, were recommended to it by the Ranny for “that Purpose.” But I must beg Leave to remind General Clavering, that those Persons were expressly appointed by the Board long before the Period he mentions, as will appear in our Proceedings of the 30th December 1774. The Ranny, in her Petition to the Board of that Date, requests that Bridge Kishore and Kishen Prawn Metre, the Rajah’s Servants appointed by former Administration, may be discharged, and that honest and upright Men may be appointed in their room. It was then moved by Colonel Monson, and agreed to by General Clavering and Mr. Francis, These Persons should be called to Calcutta, to answer to the Charge, and “that another Dewan and Guardian be immediately appointed in their room.” General Clavering upon this proposed Lolla Koosball Chund to be temporary Dewan, and Roopnarain Chowdry to be Paischae, and both of them Guardians to the Son: Colonel Monson being for the Persons named by the General, and Mr. Francis declaring that he could “have no Objection to the temporary Appointment of these Persons,” they were accordingly appointed. A Letter was at the same Time written to the Provincial Council of Burdwan, notifying the Appointment made by the Board in these express Terms: “And we further inform you, “of our having appointed Lolla Koosball Chund to be the temporary Dewan and joint Guardian, and “Roopnarain Chowdry, Paischae and joint Guardian, &c.” Will General Clavering, after so express and regular an Appointment of a Dewan, of a Paischae, and of Guardians to the Rajah, proposed by himself, persist in declaring, “That we have no Right to interfere in the Nomination of a Servant to “the Rajah of Burdwan?”

It is true, that on the 17th March following the Subject was again resumed, and Colonel Monson moved the Board, “That Bridge Kishore (whose Office had been already filled up the Council) be entirely dismissed the Rajah’s Service, and that the Ranna be permitted to appoint such Persons as she shall think proper, for the Education of the Rajah her Son, and for the Management of his Household,” and the Board agreed to the Motion, although they had expressly filled these Offices ~~near~~ Three Months before. The Young Rajah, being in waiting, was then informed “that the Board “had dismissed Bridge Kishore from all his Employments in the Rajah’s Service, that they had permitted the Ranny to name such Officers and Servants as she pleased;” and, to mark the unreserved Permission of the Board, and the free Choice left to the Ranny, the Resolution concludes with recommending, however, Lolla Koosball Chund and Roopnarain Chowdry to her Favour.

I will make no Comments on such Resolutions, and leave General Clavering to support, by the Proceedings of either Council, his present Opinion, that the Ranny has an indefeasible Right to appoint Servants, and that the Board cannot interfere. If he takes those of 30th December, they contain an express Appointment of Two Servants; if those of 17th March, they will prove an absolute Dismission of one Servant, and an implied Right in the Board to appoint others, which on that particular Occasion they were pleased to wave in Favour of the Ranny; for if the Board had no Right to interfere, then the Ranny possessed the Right of Nomination. But the Expression permitted in the Resolution above copied, plainly imports that she was left to name the Persons only by Sufferance, not of Right; and as the Board itself at the same Time name and recommend the Persons, this Permission is reduced to a mere Congé d’elire.

General Clavering is, however, of Opinion, that the Board have a Right to interfere in the Nomination of a Servant to the Nabob, because a Prince of the Country; the Company are his Guardians; “but it cannot be pretended that they are so to all the Zemindars of Bengal.” As I do not understand the Reason for this Distinction, I will not attempt to answer it. In the Settlement, however, which the late Administration made with the Rajah of Burdwan, it is expressly stipulated and agreed to on the Part of the Rajah, that Accounts of the Receipts and Disbursements of his Household should be delivered to the Board; for what Purpose was this Article inserted, but to enable the Board to controul and check the Conduct of the Rajah’s Servants during his Minority? The Board apply for these Accounts; a short Abstract is transmitted, and the Vouchers, or any Explanation of them, positively denied. The Dewan, by whom these Accounts had been kept, and the Disbursements made, in order to screen himself, resigned his Office. Upon this, the Board appoint the Father-in-law of the Rajah temporary Dewan, for the Purpose chiefly of receiving the Accounts, according to the Stipulation on the Part of the Rajah. From his intimate Connection with, and Interest in the Rajah’s Prosperity, he is surely best qualified to execute this Office. General Clavering, Mr. Francis, and the Ranny, indeed brand the Name of Hircarrah, a Man whose Niece by Birth, and Daughter by Adoption, will, if she survives her Husband, be the Ranny of Burdwan; and therefore, according to Mr. Francis’s Opinion, the First Woman in the Country.

After the minute Investigation made by the late Administration, into the Conduct and Accounts of the former Household Servants of the Rajah of Burdwan, and under an express Stipulation that the Accounts should be submitted to the Board, it can scarcely be asserted that we are not competent, nay that it is not incumbent on us to demand and receive them. The Ranny, however, persists in refusing them; vows, in a Letter to Mr. Francis, to resist the Orders of the Board; and declares, that her Reputation is at stake. I will not trust myself to form Conjectures on the Causes of this Reluctance in the Ranny to shew the Accounts of the Disbursements of the Rajah’s Household under her Charge; nor on the Motives of those who so strenuously support her in it.

As to the Imprisonment of Rani Caunt, the former Consumany Dewan, by the Orders of the Board, on the Motion of Mr. Francis, the General remarks, “that it cannot be justified by Right.” It was a political Measure, to prevent the Mischief he was doing. Mr. Francis observes, that he was confined on a Complaint or Suspicion of interfering in the Business of the Settlement. It is not my Province to defend the Imprisonment of a Man stated to be independant of the Board, on a private Complaint or Information given to one of the Members; or to reconcile to the Principles of Justice, a Measure founded on political Reasons, but which cannot be justified by Right. There is no Act of Despotism which such Principles, if admitted, could not authorize.

What I have already said, I consider as a complete Answer to the Observations on the Removal of Mr. Roswell and Mr. Goring, and on the Case of Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Francis insists, That the Deputation of Aumeens, was not a formal and constitutional Act of Government, because it has been disputed and repeatedly denied by Two Members of Government. In Answer, I have only to repeat the Words of the Act of Parliament quoted in the Beginning of my Minute :

" That in all Cases whatsoever where any Difference of Opinion shall arise upon any Question " proposed in any Consultation, the said Governor General and Council shall be bound and concluded by " the Opinion and Decision of the major Part of those present." Whatever Mr. Francis's Sentiments may be, the Deputation of Aumeens therefore is an Act of Government, by which he in particular, as a Member of the Governor General and Council, is bound by Statute.

As to the other Remarks on the Aumeens, contained in the Minutes to which this is intended as a Reply, the former ample Discussions on this Subject render a minute Answer in this Place unnecessary. I must observe, however, that their Instructions were formally laid before the Council; that their Correspondence with me is regularly kept, and is equally open to the Inspection of the Board as that of the Superintendant of the Offices, the Commander in Chief, or any other subordinate Office of Detail. I have a Right to dispute the Assertion of their having "committed Outrages," till it is supported by Proof or Probability. At present, the only Complaint of this Nature before the Board is that of the Ranny of Rajeshahy; and to shew that there is Reason to believe that it is totally false and groundless, I refer to the accompanying Translation of the Aumeen's Answer, and positive Denial of it.

The Conclusion of Mr. Francis's Minute informs the Court of Directors, that the Accounts of Cantoo Baboo's Farms have not yet been delivered in; and that the Thirty Lacks of Rupees have not been deposited in the new Fort, agreeable to the Orders of the Board. I have in consequence applied to Mr. Croftes, Accountant General and Sub Treasurer, to whom those Orders were issued, and now deliver in his Answer.

On the First Point I confess I am embarrassed how to act, or what further Steps to take. If I exert myself in bringing the Accounts of Cantoo Baboo before the Board for their Adjustment and Decision, General Clavering charges me with a Design of eluding the Orders of the Company; if I leave the Matter to take its Course, Mr. Francis indirectly taxes me with Negligence. I wait with Impatience for these Accounts, and still I hope to be able to transmit a clear Exposition of them in the Course of this Season.

TRANSLATION of the Charges exhibited by Maha Ranny Bowanny against the Aumeen of Bhettoruriah, &c. and the Aumeen's Replies, as transmitted by him to the Chief of the Provincial Council at Moorshedabad.

Charge 1st. He beat Humaut Chowdry, the Sudder Amidenni Navees, in order to make him produce the Jumma Kurch.

Answer 1st. I have before written to the Huzoor in answer to this Charge, that my Shumar Navees summoned this Man, in order to examine the Receipts of the Secah Shumar. I cannot satisfy myself as to the Authenticity of Accounts but by Reference to the Subsidiary Papers. I did not beat him.

Charge 2d. He beat the Mohurrer of Pergunnah Jellia, and placed a Peon Mohufful upon the Sudar of the Pykes, in order to make him produce the Kurrumcherry, &c.

Answer 2d. The Mohurrer of the said Pergunnah acknowledged that the Papers remaining to complete the List were in the Cutcherry, and promised to bring them. The Cutcherry being situated at the Distance of Three Cos from Natorra, I sent him thither with a Zemindarry Pyke: He had exceeded his Engagement a Day, and I therefore enjoined the Sordar Pyke. I have not in any other Respect placed a Mohufful upon him to make him produce the Kurrumcherry. The Mohurrer of the said Pergunnah has not, to this Time,

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Time, brought a single Paper; so far has he been from delivering what Papers were wanting to complete the List.

Charge 3d. He has beaten Paunchoo Bhud-dee, the Aumeen of the Sudder Daftar.

Answer 3d. He attended my Cutcherry with the other Mohurrers of the Aumeeny Duffer, Three or Four Days, on my first Arrival. I may have spoken to him Three or Four harsh Words, but I do not recollect; but I never beat him.

Charge 4th. He has summoned the Putwarry of Pergunnah Bundeanoon.

Answer 4th. I have not summoned the Putwarry of that Pergunnah, nor have I yet mentioned any thing on the Subject. When they have complained although I have not summoned them, will they not complain when I must summon the Etmaumdars and Kutkenadar, agreeably to my Instructions?

Charge 5th. He requires Two Accounts not mentioned in his Instructions; viz. the Jumma Kurch and Taxeem Papers.

Answer 5th. I have not required the Jumma Kurch; whenever I require Papers from the Officers here, I deliver a List. I have not yet required these Mofussul Accounts from the Mofussul Officers; from whom then can I have required the Jumma Kurch? The Taxeem Accounts are necessary, in order that I may be satisfied with respect to the Villages in each Pergunnah. I have not mentioned any thing on this Subject to the Zemindarry Officers, but mentioned it one Day to the Canongoe's Mohurrer.

Charge 6th. With respect to Anundiram Buckshy, and the other Mohurrers mentioned in the List, on the Part of Peraun Bose.

Answer 6th. Peraun Bose did not place those Mohurrers under me, nor did I myself entertain them in my Service: They belong to the Establishment in the Aumeeny Duffer at the Huzoor; they were appointed there, as I was.

Honourable Sir,

I have received the Honour of your Letter of this Date; and in Answer I take the Liberty to submit to you the Reasons why it has not hitherto been in my Power to comply with the Orders of the Board, for laying before them the Accounts of the Farms held by Caunto Baboo.

In my Office the Accounts of the Revenues are arranged under the general Heads of the Divisions; they do not particularize the Jumma Receipts or Balances of particular Farms: For this Reason I was obliged to apply for Assistance to the Provincial Councils. It was not till the Beginning of last Month that I received all their Answers; just at the Time I was much occupied in preparing and adjusting the Annual Books and Accounts of the Revenue Department, to be sent to Europe by the last Ship to be dispatched this Month. I notwithstanding endeavoured to obey the Orders of the Board, but found it impossible: The Accounts were all drawn out in so many different Forms, the Jumma stated for the whole Period of the Five Years Settlement, the Receipts stated only to the End of that Year, many Balances and Claims unadjusted, that I could not possibly find Means to throw the Whole into a general exact Account. I must have had a Second Reference to the Provincial Councils; and I conceived their Answers could not arrive, so as to give me Time to digest and close the the Accounts before the Departure of the Annual Ship; more especially as the Orders of the Board seemed to require the Accounts to the Conclusion of the Committee's Settlement, which does not expire till next Month. Until the Year 1783 is ended, the Receipts cannot be ascertained, nor can the Balances be adjusted; which renders it impossible to state with any Degree of Precision the Accounts between the Company and Cauntoo. The Year drawing now so near to a Conclusion, I hope soon to be possessed of the necessary Materials, and shall lose no Time in obeying the Commands of the Board, which I should not have neglected doing till now, had it been in my Power to form a complete Statement of Cauntoo's Farms, and such as I could have ventured to submit to them as an accurate one. With respect to the Orders for sending the 30 Lacks of Rupees to the New Fort, it was complied with the Moment I received it, as far as depended upon me; that Sum was immediately counted and put into Bags. As soon as this was done, which I believe was nearly Ten Days ago, I acquainted the Chief Engineer, and requested he would inform me when the Place and the Chests in which it was to be deposited would be ready to receive it. He returned me a verbal Answer, that as soon as they were prepared he would inform me of it. I only wait for his being ready, to send the Money to the new Fort.

Calcutta,

I have the Honour to be, with Respect,

Honourable Sir,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

Copy of Mr. Francis's Minute, dated 28th March 1777.

Fort William, 28th March 1777.

Mr. Francis—The Governor General's Minute, dated the 26th Instant, was communicated to me late last Night. If a formal Reply to it were necessary, the Dispatch of the Company's Packet, which I understand is to be closed To-morrow, would make it impossible. The Governor has had more than a Month to consider and digest an Argument which I must answer in a few Hours, if I answer it at all. Notwithstanding the wide Extent of his present and former Minutes, it seems it is equally foreign from his Intention, and from the Duties of his Station, to engage in an indefinite Train of Controversy. I do not perfectly understand the Meaning of this Language, since it is not so much to me as to the Honourable Court of Directors that he owes an unreserved Explanation of his Designs; but I perfectly comprehend the Use of it: Opinions and Propositions which will not bear an Examination in Detail, can only be safe when they are entrenched in Obscurity, or when the supposed Duties of a high Station make it unnecessary to explain or defend them. I am well assured, that in fair Argument the Course I have observed is the Test of Truth: It allows no Authority to Assertions, and reduces a desultory Discourse to such plain and determinate Propositions as cannot be qualified or evaded, and which every Man may understand.

I shall continue to follow this Course, in stating such Observations as the Governor's present Minute immediately suggested to me, and even now most willingly submit to Judgment, whether on one Side the Argument has been strict and in Point, and the Objections solid, and whether they have been answered or evaded on the other.

Remark.

Governor General—"I have no Doubt that the Propositions are faithfully extracted; yet as they stand I confess I scarce know many of them when I meet them. They can only be understood by the Context, to which I have no Access, because I know not from what Parts of my Minutes they are taken, as there is not a single Mark of Reference annexed to any of them."

I do not wonder that the Governor should disclaim all Acquaintance with many of these Propositions, wherever he meets them; yet they are all exclusively his own, both in Sense and Expression. The Extracts are taken from his Two last Minutes on the Institution of the new Office, to which mine was professedly an Answer, and they are quoted precisely in the Order in which they stand in those Minutes. Any one of the Quotations would have led him successively to all the rest; and I must still be permitted to express my Belief that they have not passed without a critical Examination, and that it would easily have occurred to the Governor's Observation if any Quotation had been falsely or unfairly stated.

Governor General—"Of what Consequence is it to the Management of the Revenue in Bengal, that the Settlement formed by Toorall Mull, 220 Years ago, continued inviolate till the Government of Jaffier Cawn, or whether it underwent many Changes in the preceding Period."

The Amount of Toorall Mull's Settlement shews how immoderately the Demand upon the Country has been encreased under the British Dominion, notwithstanding the manifest Decline of all its Resources during a long Succession of intestine Calamities. The unviolated Continuance of the same Assessment, during so long a Period, demonstrates the Justice, Lenity, and Wisdom of the Mogul Government, which contented itself with an unalterable Quit Rent, fixed once for all; such an Example, it is to be hoped, will e'er long be thought worthy of Imitation, and banish the shameful Practice of racking and harrassing the Country with Farming Systems and Annual Settlements. It is true, I do not propose to revert to the Amount of the ancient Assessment, because the present Government is bound by Facts which we cannot command, and by Abuses too long established to admit of perfect and entire Correction; but as far as those Facts will allow, I would give Relief to the Country, and revert, as nearly as possible, to the true Principles of that Government, whose Name and Example we are ready enough to quote whenever we wish to exercise the despotic Powers supposed to belong to it.

Governor General—"That the same Cause which induced King Akbar to establish an equal and permanent Standard for the Collection of the Revenues in his Time, equally requires that the same, or other Means as efficacious, be employed for the same Ends in this."

The Idea of reverting to the Example of King Akbar, must have occurred but very lately, probably within these few Days, to Mr. Hastings. In May 1772 he asserted that "the Mode of letting the Lands in Farm, was in every respect the most eligible;" and in April 1775, "that the Value of the Lands had been sufficiently ascertained." But now it seems, after such a Number of Experiments, we are to imitate King Akbar in establishing an equal and permanent Standard for the Collection of the Revenues, and this new Valuation is to be formed by a Mode of Inquisition which Mr. Hastings, and every Member of the late Administration, declare is not to be depended on—I mean the Deputation of Aumeens. They have said so repeatedly; and I have quoted their Words as they stand upon the Records.

The Governor's profound Silence on this, and many other Points equally urgent against him, makes it unnecessary to press the Argument any farther.

Governor General—"Mr. Francis has asserted, that it, (viz. a general Hustabood) was never introduced till the Time of Cossim Ally."

I have not denied that partial Hustaboods were sometimes made in Districts where the fixed Revenue had fallen in Arrear, in order to ascertain the Cause of the Deficiency, and to grant Relief when the Case required it. But the Question is, whether there ever was an Instance of a general Hustabood of the Provinces before Cossim Ally? The Governor will permit me to give the Answer in the precise Words of his Canongoe, Scerynarain.

Vide Answer 3d.

"But from the Time of Cossim Ally Khan the Custom of the Toonar and Tushkees have been abolished, and the Custom of a Hustabood been substituted in its Place." Again; in his 5th Answer, he says, "that the Nabob Cossim Ally Cawn formed a Zillabundee of the Mahals of the Subah, deputed Aumils into the Pergunnahs, and established the Sheristah, or Office of a Hustabood."

Even Gunga Govind Sing, to whose Evidence in any of the present Questions I think the Governor General should not have appealed, since he is in fact the Author of the Scheme, and the principal Instrument to carry it into Execution, is compelled by the Notoriety of the Fact, to acknowledge, "that whereas there had been Instances of a Hustabood in particular Places, in order to realize the Revenue of several Districts. The Custom afterwards commenced in the Time of Cossim Ally Khan."

In this Place I beg Leave to make a few Observations upon the Governor's Questions to the Canongoes, and on the Inconsistency of their Evidence.

1st. I apprehend that little Dependence is to be placed on Opinions given by Natives of Bengal holding Offices under Government, unless while they suppose the Issue of the Question to be indifferent to the ruling Power, and unconnected with their own Interests.

2d. I have already observed that Gungo Govind Sing is a Party to the present Inquisition, and a principal Actor in it; he is immediately interested in the Institution of the new Office, and the Person most likely to be benefited by the Prosecution of the Business.

3d. The Questions stated by the Governor himself, to prove his own Arguments, cannot be admitted as fair Questions, supposing the Parties uninfluenced; but their Answers being taken by the Governor's own Authority, without the Knowledge or Participation of the Board, or of the Time or Place where such Questions were put, must deprive them of all Weight and Authority in his Favour.

4th. I observe that the Two Canongoes contradict each other in several of their Answers, and that they do not perfectly agree in any Thing, except that the Plan of a general Hustabood was never attempted till the Time of Cossim Ally Khan.

In answer to the First Question, Scerynarain says, that the Tumar Jumma is the fixed Rule;

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

Gunga Govind Sing, that it is a varied Rule, and that all subsequent Governors increased the Jumma.

In answer to the Second Question, viz. Is the Tumar designed for the Zemindar, Talookdar, or for the Ryatt, Serrynarain says, "for neither, but to state the Annual Value of the Country." Gunga Govind says, "The Tumar is for every Ryott in every Village." An absolute Falshood and Impossibility.

But the Task of following these Canongoes is too toilsome to be continued, I shall therefore leave the Remainder of their Answers to the Inspection of the Curious.

Governor General—"In a Persian Book I have met with a Firmaun of King Aureng Zebe to one of his Dewans, which appears to me so much in point, that I have annexed a Translation of it."

I know not the Authority of this Book, nor can I pretend to judge of the Accuracy of the Translation: The supposed Firmaun is directed to Ruffick Dofs, but by no official Name. In the Body of it, he is styled both Dewan and Aumeen; but the Lands which he is to inspect are not specified, nor does it appear whether they are Crown Lands, Jaghiredarry, or Zemindarry Lands. It is plain, however, from the whole Tenor of the Firmaun, that the Object of the Enquiry was to grant Relief, and to promote the Recovery of a ruined, depopulated Country; not to encrease the Revenue of it. If this Paper contained any Evidence of the Existence of a general Hustabood in Time of Aurung Zebe, such Evidence would stand in direct Contradiction to the united Testimony of the Two Canongoes; and as for myself, I pay little Regard to either, I would not endeavour to reconcile them.

Governor General—"An Investigation of the actual Collections will always prove an Ease to the lowest Class of People, whom the Aumeen can neither favour from Collusion, nor oppress from Motives of Rapacity."

To nothing, but the Governor General's own Opinion: "I confess I do not like the Deputation of Aumeens, because I think they are not to be trusted" (Vide Revenue Consultations 14th June 1775;) and that of the late Administration, who say, "We are confident that no Confidence can be put in this Mode of Inquiry."

Governor General—"It is my Wish to collect the Revenue through the Medium of Zemindars, where they are capable of the Charge, and to employ other Means where they are not."

This discretionary Power being reserved to Government, the Question is, by whom, and what fixed Rule shall it be determined, which of the Zemindars are capable of managing their own Property, and which are not.

Governor General—"As to a perpetual Settlement, we have no Authority to make one, nor would it be valid, till confirmed by the Court of Directors."

I have hitherto understood that the Ordering, Management, and Government of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues were vested by Law in the Governor General and Council; even the late Government, whose Powers were not of the same Quality or Extent, thought themselves at Liberty to let the Country in Farm for Five Years certain, without waiting for the Sanction of the Court of Directors, who I presume were bound by the Act of their Servants. For my own Part, however, I shall be content to wait for their Approbation, because I am sure they will never refuse it to any Measure formed on the Principles of Justice and Lenity to the Natives of this Country, nor grant it to the Measures at present in Agitation.

Copy of Mr. Francis's Minute, dated 1st April 1777.

Fort William, 1st April 1777.

Mr. Francis—I have little Time to read, much less to answer the Volumes with which the Governor General is pleased to load the Consultations. In reply to his last Work, dated the 30th of March, I shall content myself with stating the Facts clear of all Explanation, and submit to Judgment on the Questions which arise out of them. Appealing, as I do, to the plain Understanding of Men, I cannot offer a stronger Proof of my own Conviction that Truth is of my Side, than by declining all further Arguments, and bringing the principal Points in Debate to a short Issue.

The

Vide Minute
21st March

1. The Charge against the Governor is for positively declaring, that he will resolve on Public Measures, and carry them into Execution, without waiting for Opinions of the Council. His own Words are, "I shall think myself not only justified in choosing such Measures in Conjunction with the only Member of the Board on whom I can rely for Assistance, as shall appear to be most conducive to the Service, and employ the constitutional Powers of this Government, while I can, to carry them into Execution; nor for this Purpose shall I deem it necessary to wait the Close of every Series of Argumentation with which the other Members may endeavour to protract it."

2. He is charged with a Breach of the Law, and of the Constitution of this Government, in making the preceding Declaration. The First Question is, whether de jure the Institution of a Council does not in its Nature imply Deliberation and Advice; and whether the Determination by the Majority of Suffrages alone, does not properly belong to a popular Assembly, and is no wise to a Council of State? The Second Question is, whether there be any Clause of the Act of Parliament which enjoins that the Voices in Council shall be given after every Information received by Arguments on both Sides. The Governor assumes the Negative, and desires me to point out such Clause to him. The Words of the Act are, "That where any Difference of Opinion shall arise in any Consultation, the Governor General and Council shall be bound by the Opinion and Decision of the major Part?" If Consultation supposes Debate; if Decision might be had by Vote alone, or by Ballot; and if Opinion be something distinct from mere Vote and Decision, it follows, that a Refusal to hear the Opinions of the Council, excludes one of the essential Properties of a lawful Resolution of Government, and proceeds to a Decision, which might possibly not be adopted by the Board, if all the Opinions were heard.

3. If the First and Second Question should be decided against the Governor, the Third will be of little Moment: "Whether a positive Refusal to hear the Opinions of the Council be a Violation of the regular Forms of Debate established by Custom?" I have a Right to suppose such a Custom, because my own Experience furnishes me with no Example to the contrary. The Court of Directors will judge, whether it existed here before the Commencement of the present Administration. The Circulation of Papers and Questions, in the Interval between the Councils, is used for the Dispatch of ordinary Business, and does not preclude but rather facilitate the Delivery of Opinions at large, if the Case appears to require it. No Resolution is, or ought to be taken in this Way, until every Member has seen every Opinion. The Governor General makes it a Question of wonderful Importance, whether Captain Ash and Captain Crawford should be prohibited from plundering the neighbouring Villages, or, as he calls it, commencing Hostilities.

4. Governor General—"I will not trust myself to form Conjectures on the Causes of this Reluctance in the Ranny, to shew the Accounts of the Disbursements of the Raja's Household under her Charge, nor on the Motives of those who so strenuously support her in it."

For my Part, the Governor General is at Liberty to form and give Utterance to any Conjectures he thinks proper; but when he does so let him avow it. Though I am not accountable to him for the Motives on which I act, I desire no better than to meet the Governor before any Tribunal, which has a Right to judge of our respective Conduct.

5. Governor General—"It is not my Province to defend the Imprisonment of a Mah, stated to be independant of the Board on a private Complaint."

The Complaint was Public, the Governor General was a Party to the Measure, and highly approved of it.

I think the Remainder of the Governor's Minute does not require an Answer. The Question of the Aumeens has been sufficiently discussed, and every other Subject of Controversy is lost in a Comparison with that Act and Declaration of the Governor, by which the Court of Directors are informed, that all future Measures will be chosen in Conjunction with one Member of the Council only, and carried into Execution without waiting for the Opinion of the other Two Members, who at present constitute Half the Council.

Copy of the Governor General's Minute, dated 31st March 1777.

Governor General—If Mr. Francis can afford Time to write a large Folio Volume upon an exhausted Subject, and extend it with foreign Matter, I know not what Duty requires that I should give up mine to a minute Refutation of it, or what Right he has to charge me with Evasion, for leaving any any Part of it unanswered. I have already given a full Explanation of my Designs to the Court of Directors, nor is it necessary to weary them with Repetitions.

I have complained of the Quotations of Propositions, stated as mine, without a Reference to the Passage from which they are taken. To this Mr. Francis replies, "That they are quoted precisely in the Order in which they stand; that any of the Quotations would have led me successively to all the rest, and he must still be permitted to express his Belief, that they have not passed without a critical Examination." I am not surprized that Mr. Francis should take upon him to oppose his Belief to my declared Knowledge of a Point, which I only can be certain of, because I have been accustomed to it. It is sufficient to affirm in Reply, that if the Extracts were taken from my Two last Minutes, I knew it not; I had no Mark to guide me to them. I looked into my Minute; I met with One, and I believe a Second Quotation, which being faithfully extracted, I concluded the rest to be so. I was tired with the Search, and sought no further, I neither knew that they were "quoted in the Order in which they stand in those Minutes," nor whatever Mr. Francis may believe, did I bestow on them "a critical Examination." I did not find Fault with the Extracts for being unfaithfully made, but for being quoted without the Context with which their Sense was necessarily connected, and which had been added, would as I believe, have rendered the Propositions so explicit, as to have required no other Reasonings to support them.

I do not see by what Connection the Amount of Tural Mull's Settlement "shews how immoderately the Demand upon the Country has been encreased under the British Dominion." Until it can be proved, that Money bore the same relative Value in the Time of Tural Mull that it now does, and that the Country of Bengal contained the same Extent of Land, no Conclusions drawn from the comparative Jumma of the Two Periods can be admitted, nor indeed is the Differences very considerable.

Mr. Francis on former Occasions has endeavoured to prove, that more was collected from the Country during the Administration of Mahomed Reza Cawn than in the Time in which I had the chief Management of it; and this is instanced as a Proof of my Misconduct. Yet though the Demand upon the Country had been thus "immoderately encreased under the British Dominion," as Mr. Francis states it, I found, when I took Charge, that the Sum produced by it fell so far short of the Exigencies of Government, that besides incurring above a Crore of Rupees of Debt, the Administration here has been obliged in the preceding Year to draw on the Company for almost another Crore. The Expences of the Government were reduced, their Debt cleared off, and there is a larger Sum of ready Money now laying unemployed in their different Treasuries than the Amount of their nett Collections made in any One Year since the Acquisition of the Dewanny. As in the Time of their Distresses I obeyed their pressing Commands in the Retrenchment of Expences, and the Enlargement of their Resources, so I shall now be ready to afford that Relief to the Country which it requires, by a Diminution of the Assessment of the Land Tax, and by contriving beneficial Means of returning the Specie of the Country into Circulation, if the Honourable Court of Directors shall be pleased to give their Authority to it; and if they should be influenced by Mr. Francis's Argument, to be contented with a Tribute in the Manufactures of the Country of 60 Lacks of Rupees, it will enable their Government to make this Relief most compleat, and I shall be happy to be an Instrument of their beneficent Commands. Hitherto I have been the principal Advocate for all the Remissions which have been made for the Relief of the Country, and have drawn on myself much Obloquy by it.

Mr. Francis says, That "the unviolated Continuance of the same Assessment during so long a Period, demonstrates the Justice, Lenity, and Wisdom, of the Mogul Government." I have endeavoured to prove (with what Success others will judge) that the Assessment did not continue for a long Time inviolate. As a Proof, I have mentioned the Abstract of it, copied by Mr. Francis from an ancient Book, written at the Period in which that Assessment was formed, in Default of an Office Copy, none now existing; that which is called the Toomar in the Khalsa, differing from the former (as I have said before) both in Form and Amount. To whom does Mr. Francis allude when he speaks of "the shameful Practice of racking and harrassing the Country with farming Systems, and Annual Settlements?" Not to me; I found the farming System already established through the Country; all the Orders of the Company, all, without Exception, enjoined it: I made it general, and received their Commendations for it; I lengthened the Period of the Leases, which before was Annual to Five Years. This was considered by many as a bold Innovation. If a perpetual Assessment shall ever be allowed to take place, I shall hope to be remembered as at least One of the first Projectors of it.

"The Idea of reverting to the Example of King Akbar must have occurred but very lately to Mr. Hastings." Mr. Francis has misunderstood me; I never entertained an Idea of reverting to the Example of King Akbar. Mr. Francis had taxed me with introducing Innovations: In Reply I quoted the Example of King Akbar, to shew that the late Investigation which I had recommended, was not an Innovation.

When I asserted in May 1772 that the Mode of letting the Lands in Farm was the best, I assigned the Reasons for that Opinion, which were applicable to the State of Bengal, and the Company's Affairs at that particular Period: I have also said, that it would prove a Means of ascertaining the Value of the Lands. This Opinion is triumphantly quoted by Mr. Francis as inconsistent with the declared Object of the new Office.

The Objection has been so fully and repeatedly answered, both in Mr. Barwell's and my Minutes, that I am surprized to find it again returned upon me: But whatever Mr. Francis may think, the Plan of a general Hufstabood, so far from being inconsistent with the Design of the Five Years Settlement, is a necessary and even essential Part of it. This will best appear by the following Extracts from the Cabooleats or Engagements executed by every Farmer and by every Zemindar entrusted with the Collection of the Revenue, when the Settlement was formed in the Year 1772.

The 16th Article of the Amulnamas or Leases (of which the Cabooleats are an exact Counterpart) entered in the Proceedings of the Committee of Circuit in June 1772, is as follows:

"A Mohrir having been appointed with you in Behalf of the Government, you are to suffer him to take comparative Accounts of your Sheristah; and by no Means make any secret or clandestine Collections: Should this be proved, you will not only have to pay what you have secreted to Government, but also be fined proportionably. Whatever Sheristahdar may be appointed by the Government, he will only take comparative Accounts of your Sheristah; he will have no Concern in the Management of the Business, or with the enforcing of Regulations."

The 20th Article stipulates and binds the Farmer as follows:

"Whenever you shall relinquish your Farm, you shall give in a Hufstabood of its then State, agreeable to the Rates of the Pottahs and Jumma at which you took it; you shall even give an Account of what Improvements you have made in Cultivation."

The very heavy Expence which would have attended the fixed Appointment of Mohrires in every Pergunnah, at a Time when the Finances of this Government were so low, prevented the Execution of the Measure mentioned in the First Clause, which I confess I have since more than once had Reason to regret. The Stipulation however marks the Intention of the then Administration, and establishes the Right of Government to collect the Accounts of the actual Collections of the Farmers and Zemindars.

In the Settlement formed with the Rajah of Burdwan, the Sunnud granted to him, and the Mutchulka or Obligations that he entered into, which was formed by Mr. Francis, and are entered in the Revenue Consultations of the 14th June 1776, contain Clauses dictated in the same Spirit, and serving to establish the Right of Government to demand the Accounts of the Mofussil or actual Receipts of Revenue. I shall here insert a literal Copy of them.

Article 1st. "A Dewan shall be appointed on the Part of the Company, in order that ~~the~~ Council may be informed of the State of the Country, and of the Settlement of the Revenue, and the Amount of the Mofussil Collections. Any Disputes which may arise between the Zemindar and his Cutkinnadars, shall be settled by the Dewan."

Article 9th. "Every Settlement which the Zemindar may make with his Agents, or with Farmers or Cutkinnadars, in the Mofussil, shall be registered in the Sudder Cutcherry at Burdwan, and an Abstract thereof entered by the Gentlemen of the Council at that Place in their Proceedings."

After this, is it necessary for me to defend the Propriety of my Conduct, when on a different Occasion my Opponents adopted Measures founded precisely on the same Principles which they now so industriously labour to condemn in mine? or were these Principles just when they possessed the entire Rule, and are they now become criminal only because I have adopted them? The last Clause of the Cabooleats of 1772, above quoted, was expressly intended to provide, at the Expiration of the Leases, compleat Materials for forming a general Hufstabood or Valuation of the Rents, throughout Bengal, as the Means of regulating the future Assessment. The Period is now come when those Materials are to be collected; and all that I have recommended and done, has simply this for its Object. Thus I have in Three Lines described the Principle, Origin, and End of a Plan upon which Volumes have been written. To collect the Accounts of the Rents, for the Purpose of proportioning the Land Tax, has been held forth as an Instance of unparalleled Tyranny; yet in the City of London, the Seat of Liberty, this is done every Day. The Assessment of the Land Tax is imposed according to the Rents of the Houses; and if a Landlord raises the Rent of his House £. 10 a Year, the Tax upon it is increased in Proportion.

Mr. Francis has remarked another Inconsistency in the late Institution with former Declarations made by me against Aumeens. It is true; that I never approved of Aumeens deputed on occasional Investigations into the Country, whether for the Purpose of ascertaining Pleas of Remission, or the actual Amount of Collections, because of the Interest which the Farmer or Zemindar had on such Occasions to purchase a favourable Report from the Aumeen.

In the present Case, however, there is not the same Temptation to Collusion. The Farmers are bound, by their Cabooleats or original Engagements, to deliver up the Accounts of their Collections at the Close of their Leases; and as they have no longer an Interest in their Farms, they have no Inducement, or at least no common Inducement, to suppress the Value of them, much less to pay for their Suppression. Besides, it was impossible to collect the Accounts but by Aumeens appointed either immediately by the Governor General and Council, or by the Provincial Councils. By having adopted the first Mode, we shall be furnished not only with States of the former Receipts of Revenue from every District, with the Opinions of the Provincial Councils and their Officers on the Value of the Lands, and the Revenue which they can yield on a fair and just Collection, totally unconnected with the Reports of the Aumeens; but the Provincial Councils and their Officers will serve to check and controul the Conduct of the Aumeens, of whose Authority and Interference

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 15.

Interference they must be naturally jealous. Lest the frequent Repetition of the Word Aumeens should give rise to a mistaken Notion that they are Persons of a separate Class or Profession, I must remark, that they take their Name merely from the Business which is committed to them, and that any Objection against them will equally be against every native Officer concerned in conducting the Business of the Revenue, or employed in any Place of Trust throughout the Country.

I do not remember the Distinction which Mr. Francis now alludes to, as made in his former Minutes, between partial and general Hustaboods, between Hustaboods made to ascertain the Value of Lands, and the Cause of Deficiencies. Understanding that he had denied absolutely the Practice of Hustaboods till the Time of Cossim Ally Cawn, I brought Proofs of the Practice having long before existed; but I will resume the Argument on his own Ground. If it was the Custom formerly to make partial Hustaboods, where (as Mr. Francis says) the fixt Revenue had fallen in Arrears, in order to ascertain the Cause of the Deficiency, and to grant Relief, this Admission is all that is required for the Purpose on which this Subject was first introduced. In a former Minute I had asserted, that "the Difficulties which Mr. Francis apprehended were not only surmountable, but such as had always yielded to the same Mode of Investigation; constantly and successfully practised under the Mogul Government." Mr. Francis, in Reply, denied that this Mode had been practised under the Mogul Government till the Time of Cossim Ally Cawn: He now admits, that it had been practised, but not generally; nor for the Purpose for which I had instituted the present Hustabood. But this was a Charge of the original Question; a Hustabood, whether general or partial, or whatever be the Object of it, requires the same Process; and if that Process has been practised formerly, there can be no Reason for condemning it as impracticable now. It is confessed that it has been practised formerly; my Conclusion therefore follows of course, that it is practicable now.

But as Mr. Francis has taken a wider Latitude, by affirming, that it was not the Practice to make general Hustaboods, I shall take the Liberty to controvert this Position also, by recurring to a single Fact, indisputable, and already instanced in my former Minute, as a Proof even of the general Practice. The Tumar of Rajah Toorul Mull was formed on a general Hustabood; and as his Example is perpetually appealed to, as of the most sacred Authority, I presume that Mr. Francis will not require that I should descend to Precedents of inferior Credit.

Mr. Francis has taken upon him to dispute the Answers of the Canongoes, which accompanied my Minute of the 26th, upon Two Principles: First, That they are influenced and interested to give Answers agreeable to the Wishes of the ruling Powers. Secondly, That their Answers are contradictory to each other. It will be difficult to support both of these Positions; for if they were influenced to give Answers agreeable to the ruling Power, then they certainly would correspond; and on the contrary, if their Answers do not correspond, it is a Proof at least, that they were not influenced. I leave it to Mr. Francis to reconcile this Difficulty.

The Contradiction which he remarks in the separate Answers to the First Question, arises from an Error in mistaking the Word First Rule, for Fixed Rule. The Word in the Persian is Mokudum, which signifies First, or Principal. I suppose Mr. Francis's Extract was taken from a faulty Copy. By a Reference to the Translation of the Canongoe's Answers, Mr. Francis will find the Words "First Rule," plainly written. He will also find, that he has mistaken the Words Varied Rate, in the same Paper, for Varied Rule: And as his Opinion of Inconsistency in the Answers of the Canongoes, in this Instance, is founded on an Error in Reading, it is needless to say more on the Subject.

In the Answers given by the Two Canongoes to the Second Question, there is certainly a Difference; but no Inconsistency nor Contradiction. The Question itself is not, perhaps, stated with sufficient Accuracy; for it is evident, that Serrynarrain understood it as respecting Persons, and answered accordingly, that "the Tumar was designed neither for the Zemindar, nor the for "Talook-dars, nor for the Ryots, but for the Value of the Lands." The other Canongoe, understanding it in another Sense, replies in Terms implying, that Tumar provided a Rule for every progressive Stage of the Collections, from the largest Zemindarree to the Land of the lowest Ryot. This Difference, however, is a Proof, that their Answers were not concerted.

If Mr. Francis can trust sufficiently either to his Information being more complete, or to his Experience and Knowledge in Points of Revenue more perfect than that of Native Officers, who have spent all their Life-time in the Khalsa, and whose Families have been in Possession of the Offices which they now hold for many Generations, as to affirm, that what they have declared is "an absolute Falsehood and Impossibility," he will excuse me if I cannot acquiesce in so peremptory a Decision: Every Officer of the Khalsa, and every Man who has had any Concern in the Collections, can inform him, that the Jumar ascertained the Original Rate of every Chuckla, Pergunah, Village, and Ryot's Land, in the Province.

As the Authenticity and Accuracy of the Translation of Aurang Zebe's Firmaun are doubted by Mr. Francis, I will furnish him with a Copy of the Persian Original. He may easily procure, however, the whole Book from almost any Library in Bengal. The Elegance of its Style, which is considered as a Standard in the Persian Language, serving not only to establish its Antiquity, but to preserve it. It appears plainly, that the Lands of which Hustabood is there ordered to be made, are Lands held by Jagheerdars and Chowdries, or inferior Zemindars. The Object of the Inquiry or Hustabood will appear, on a more minute Inspection, to be Twofold. "Not merely to grant Relief, and to promote the Recovery of a ruined depopulated Country," as Mr. Francis supposes; but also, "to increase the Revenue of it." If it had been confined, however, only to the first Object, Object; Mr. Francis and I are agreed in Opinion, that Bengal has suffered in its Population; and I believe he has frequently asserted, that it is a ruined Country; so that even on this Principle, it would serve to shew the Necessity of a Hustabood. As to an Increase of Revenue, I have repeatedly declared, that it is not my Object.

I repeat my Opinion, that an Investigation of the actual Collections will prove an Ease to the lowest Class of People, although Mr. Francis controverts it by again quoting a former Observation of mine, that "Aumeens are not to be trusted." I have already answered this Objection, I am sensible that they require Checks. The Observation applies equally to every other Officer of Revenue, and if it was to be therefore inferred, that they are never to be employed, the Management of the Territorial Acquisitions would be at an End, and every Department of Government would stand still.

I am at a Loss to judge whether Mr. Francis intends the Remarks which follow the Quotation from my Minute, where I propose "to collect the Revenue through the Medium of the Zemindars, where they are capable of the Charge, and to employ other Means where they are not," as an Objection. If he does mean it as an Objection I conceive it to be equally strong against the 56th Clause of the Plan, dated 22d January 1776, which he sent Home to the Court of Directors. He there expresses himself as follows: "As many of the Zemindars will at first be incapable of managing their Lands themselves, they should be obliged to retain a Dewan (or Steward) of sufficient Ability and good Character, who should be entrusted with the Management of the Lands, and be answerable for the Rent due to Government, without whose Approbation he ought not to be dismissed during Four or Five Years at least after the first Settlement." This Clause in my Mind evinces that Mr. Francis also is of Opinion, that it is necessary, where the Zemindars are incapable to use other Means; and he will excuse me if I here give him back his own Remark, "This discretionary Power being reserved to Government, the Question is, by whom, and by what fixed Rule shall it be determined, which of the Zemindaries are capable of managing their own Property, and which are not."

The Honourable Court of Directors only can determine whether Mr. Francis or I are best grounded in our Opinions, as they are contrasted with each other in the concluding Paragraphs of his Minute. According to mine "we have no Authority to make a perpetual Settlement, nor would it be valid till confirmed by the Court of Directors." Mr. Francis in Opposition to this remarks, "I have hitherto understood, that the Ordering, Management, and Government, of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues were vested by Law in the Governor General and Council; Even the late Government, whose Powers were not of the same Quality or Extent, thought themselves at Liberty to let the Country in Farm for Five Years certain, without waiting for the Sanction of the Court of Directors, who I presume were bound by the Act of their Servants."

I will not follow Mr. Francis's Reasonings, I will not presume to pass Judgment on the Powers of the Company, and I will not consent to the Formation of a perpetual and irrevocable Settlement of the Revenue of Bengal; ignorant of their Pleasure, a Proposition of such Magnitude I confess would have startled me at any Time, and under any Circumstances; but from Mr. Francis it fills me with Astonishment. When the Company have been expressly and repeatedly called upon for their Sentiments and Orders on this Subject, and when Mr. Francis himself has submitted to them a voluminous and regular Plan for the Settlement and Management of the Revenue, I should not have expected that Mr. Francis would have recommended a Measure, which if carried into Execution, would entirely defeat the Effect of their Commands, and at that very Instant too in which they ought to arrive. What then are his Plans, his Documents, and his lengthened Minutes, intended merely as the Amusements of his Leisure Hours, as Objects of Curiosity, or as Impediments to Business; and because I have on some Occasions refused to accompany him in this unprofitable Amusement, and declined to contest all his speculative Opinions, is he therefore privileged to construe my Forbearance into an Acknowledgment of their Truth, or an Inability to answer them?

I should here close my Minute, but though my Time will but ill afford to dwell longer upon it, I cannot pass unnoticed One Particularity in Mr. Francis's Writings, with which his last especially abounds.

The Authorities which he has Occasion to produce in Support of his own Doctrines, are introduced with a Pomp of Words and with Expressions of the most implicit Credit, and even of Veneration, while he affects the most supercilious Contempt and Disbelief of those who are opposed to them.

The Evidence of the Canongoes is obtained by the Influence of the ruling Power; it is inconsistent; it is false; it is impossible. Satisfied with these Conclusions, he rapidly leaves the Argument, and with Tone of Victory, which the temperate Reader will perhaps think not warranted by the Occasion, exclaims in the following Words:

"But the Task of following these Canongoes is too toilsome to be continued; I shall therefore leave the Remainder of their Answers to the Inspection of the Curious."

Of the Firmaun, which is added as an Appendage to my last Minute, he says, "I know not the Authority of this Book, nor can I pretend to judge of the Accuracy of the Translation;" and, refusing the Evidence of the Canongoes, for the Purpose of joining both in One common Censure. "As to myself (he concludes) I pay so little Regard to either, that I should not endeavour to reconcile them."

Had I been disposed to assume the same Liberty with his Authorities, I might have brought much stronger Objections against the Extracts, which he calls Documents, of the printed Book of Mr. Holwell and Mr. Scrafton, without injuring the Names of those Gentlemen by my Observations; and I might might have refused even to examine the Credit of the numerous Translations of Accounts which he has transmitted to the Court of Directors, and asserted to be authentic, although unaccompanied by a single Voucher or Evidence; but I was convinced that whether they were genuine or otherwise, Mr. Francis was satisfied with their Truth; nor should I have thought myself at Liberty to dispute it without assigning the fullest Reasons for my Want of Faith. Perhaps I might claim the same candid Indulgence from Mr. Francis, but I confess I do not expect it, since he has Twice refused to give Credit even to my own Assurances, on Points which could only be ascertained by my own internal Knowledge.

Copy of Mr. Francis's Minute, dated 1st April 1777.

Revenue Department, 1st April 1777.

Mr. Francis—At this late Hour, and immediately before the Close of the Dispatch, it is not to be expected that I can enter into a Refutation of the Governor's voluminous Minute, dated Yesterday. The general Drift of it is, if possible, to make the Honourable Court of Directors Parties against me, as if it were not my Object to make ample Provision for the Commercial Interests of the Company; or as if I had ever recommended the making a perpetual Settlement of the Revenues without their Authority. With respect to the Second Charge, I have only to say, that if I have ever recommended that Measure, my Words ought to be quoted. As a Matter of Fact, I deny it. The First Charge, fortunately for me, will admit of a positive Refutation. The Governor says, "If the Court of Directors should be influenced by Mr. Francis's Arguments, to be contented with a Tribute in the Manufactures of the Country, of Sixty Lacks of Rupees," &c. Now the Fact is, that the Estimate annexed to my Plan provides and allows no less a Sum than Ninety-two Lacks of Rupees for the Investment and Commercial Charges. Such is the Candour with which I am treated!

I see some other Points in the Governor's present Minute, which require an Explanation; but I fairly confess, that my Attention and Patience are exhausted. On these Points I trust that the Judgment of the Court of Directors will be suspended, until another Opportunity may offer of addressing them on the Subject.

2d April 1777.

Governor General—It is necessary that I should reply to Mr. Francis's short Minute of the 1st April, as it contains a Charge against me of having misrepresented Two Facts to his Disadvantage, in my Minute of 31st March.

Mr. Francis says, that "the general Drift of it (viz. my Minute 31st March) is, if possible, to make the Honourable Court of Directors Parties against me; as if it were not my Object to make ample Provision for the Commercial Interests of the Company, or as if I had ever recommended making a perpetual Settlement of the Revenues without their Authority. With respect to the Second Charge, I have only to say, that if I have ever recommended that Measure, my Words ought to be quoted. As Matter of Fact."

I shall first answer the last Question, Whether Mr. Francis ever recommended a perpetual Settlement without the Authority of the Court of Directors? It took its Rise from the following Passage in the last Paragraph but one of my Minute of 26th March:

"The Orders from the Court of Directors invariably require that the Revenue be kept up to its estimated Amount, and discourage the Allowance of Remissions. On the other Hand, it has been repeatedly recommended to them to allow a general Abatement in the Rents; and their Decision on this important Question may be expected by the First Dispatches from England, which, as no very urgent Cause requires it, it would be both imprudent and unbecoming to anticipate. As to a perpetual Settlement, we have no express Authority to make one, nor would it be valid until confirmed by the Court of Directors." Mr. Francis, in his Answer of the 28th March, quotes the last Sentence, with his Observations on it, in the following Manner:

Governor General—"As to a perpetual Settlement, we have no Authority to make one, nor would it be valid till confirmed by the Court of Directors."

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

“ I have hitherto understood that the Ordering, Management, and Government of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues were vested by Law in the Governor General and Council: Even the late Government, whose Powers were not of the same Quality or Extent, thought themselves at Liberty to let the Country in Farm for Five Years certain, without waiting for the Sanction of the Court of Directors, who I presume were bound by the Act of their Servants. For my own Part, however, I shall be content to wait for their Approbation, because I am sure they will never refuse it to any Measure formed on the Principles of Justice and Lenity to the Natives of this Country, nor grant it to the Measures at present in Agitation.”

I certainly understood this Passage as an Objection to the Opinion which I had declared, and which is prefixed to it, and I believe most People that read it will understand it in that Sense; for what other could it mean? If my Opinion was just, that we had no Authority to make a perpetual Settlement till confirmed by the Court of Directors, which Opinion made only Part of a Declaration to the same Effect, and Mr. Francis concurred with me in that Opinion, to what do all his Comments upon it tend? Why was I reminded that the Ordering, Management, and Government, of the Territorial Acquisitions and Revenues were vested by Law in the Governor General and Council, and informed that the Court of Directors were bound by the Act of their Servants, unless it was meant to induce me to carry into immediate Execution a Measure which I had declared my Resolution of suspending for the Orders of the Court of Directors? Even the Declaration made by Mr. Francis, that “ he shall be content to wait for their Approbation,” and the Reasons assigned for it, still support the Construction which I have put upon this Passage of his Minute, “ because (says he) I am sure they will never refuse it to any Measures formed on the Principles of Justice and Lenity, nor grant it to the Measures at present in Agitation:” The obvious Meaning of these Words surely is, that he is satisfied that the Court of Directors would never refuse their Approbation to a perpetual Settlement formed on proper Principles, and that his only Objection to it at the present Time is, that it would be formed by me, and on Principles which he disapproves: This might be a Reason for him to be content that the immediate Execution of a perpetual Settlement should be suspended; but it would be none with that Part of the Council who supported “ the Measures at present in Agitation;” and as the Passage states the uncommon Power vested in the Governor General and Council by Law, and the Position, that the Court of Directors were bound by the Act of their Servants, and all this in Answer to my Opinion, that we had no Authority to make a perpetual Settlement, nor would it be valid till confirmed by the Court of Directors; the Construction which suggested itself to me, that Mr. Francis recommended a perpetual Settlement, will not appear forced or unnatural.

I had other Reasons also to conclude, that in Mr. Francis's Opinion it was not necessary to wait for the Sentiments of the Court of Directors on the different Plans for the future Settlement which had been transmitted to them, or to suspend the Execution of so important a Measure till the Receipt of their Orders: In all the various and lengthened Discussions which have lately passed on this Subject, he has never, to the best of my Recollection, mentioned or alluded to the expected Orders of the Company. The following Quotation from his Minute of the 5th November 1776, in which he first objected to the Plan of a Valuation of the Lands, served to confirm me in this Opinion: Speaking of the Number of Accounts to be procured, he says, “ all this must be done some Time before April next, and Government is to be so well assured of the Accuracy of the Accounts, that we may safely make it the Foundation of our Settlement.” And in his Minute of 21st February he remarks, The Governor says, “ that if the Commands or Exigencies of the Company will admit of it, he shall be ready to join in lowering the Revenues;” the Relief of the Country then is deferred to a future Day.

The other Passage in my Minute of which Mr. Francis complains, is the following: “ If the Court of Directors should be influenced by Mr. Francis's Arguments to be contented with a Tribute in the Manufactures of the Country of 60 Lacks of Rupees, &c.” I shall be sorry if these Words shall be understood by the Court of Directors in the Sense in which Mr. Francis has taken them; I meant not to cast any Reflection upon him for having recommended the Reduction of the Investment to 60 Lacks of Rupees, although I will own that I had in my Recollection the Idea of Mr. Francis having somewhere made such a Recommendation: I am very ready to correct this Error, as I do conclude from Mr. Francis's Declaration, that it is one; but that the Court of Directors may understand the Sense in which this supposed Opinion of Mr. Francis was quoted, or at least that it was not with the oblique Design which he has attributed to it; I will add, that if it is not Mr. Francis's Opinion, that the Amount of the Investment drawn from the Resources of the Country alone, should be fixed to a moderate Amount, it is mine, and I am convinced that their Wisdom will, at some Period or other, adopt it.

Warren Hastings.

2d April 1777.

Governor General—I have read over Mr. Francis's Minute of the 1st of April, with great Attention. It does not appear to me necessary to follow Mr. Francis again through all the Divisions of the Question before us, having already very largely discussed them in my Minute of the 30th March. But as the Conclusion states as mine, a Declaration which I have never made, a short Reply will be necessary, necessary, to undeceive the Court of Directors, who may be misled by this Information. His Words are as follow :

“ I think the Remainder of the Governor's Minute does not require an Answer. The Question of the Aumeens has been sufficiently discussed, and every other Subject of Controversy is lost in a Comparison with that Act and Declaration of the Governor, by which the Court of Directors are informed, that all future Measures will be chosen in Conjunction with One Member of the Council only, and carried into Execution without waiting for the Opinion of the other Two Members, who at present constitute Half the Council.”

I have never made any Declaration, that I would carry into Execution all future Measures without waiting for the Opinion of the other Two Members, who at present constitute Half the Council. The only Proof that I can produce of this Assertion, and indeed it is impossible that it can admit of any other, is the Declaration itself, which I shall here quote at large.

“ When the General and Mr. Francis shall condescend to shew not that Respect which is due to the Head of that Government of which they were appointed joint Members by the King and Parliament of Great Britain, this I do not expect; but the common Forms of Civility which are mutually due from Men placed in an equal State of Society, when they shall receive my Opinions with Candour, and answer them from no other Impulse than a Desire of uniting with me in the Support of the Company's and National Interests committed to our common Charge, I shall not have a Wish to avail myself of the Constitutional Privileges, scanty as they are, which are annexed to my Station, and shall ever wait cheerfully for the Aid of their Judgment to determine my own.— But as this is impossible, I shall think myself justified in chusing such Measures, in Conjunction with the only Member of the Board on whom I can rely for Assistance, as shall appear to us most conducive to the Service, and shall employ the constitutional Powers of this Government while I can, to carry them into Execution; nor for this Purpose shall I deem it necessary to wait the Close of every Series of Argumentation with which the other Members may endeavour to protract it.”

In every Assembly or Body of Men, however formed, or by whatever Name, it is necessary that Questions brought before them should have some Point of Termination. If this Council were an Exception to the universal Rule and Practice, if no Question could be decided till the Close of every Series of Argumentation, then it would rest with any one dissentient Member to put an entire Stop to the Business of Government.

As to the General's Minute, it is beneath a Reply. He may continue to revile me with Language yet grosser, if grosser can be invented. This, with the other Evils attendant on my present Situation, while I continue in it, I must bear, and he knows it.

Extract of Fort William Consultations, in their Revenue Department, dated 11th July 1777.

General Sir John Clavering delivers in the following Minute :

General Clavering—The Steps taken by Mr. Hastings in the Month of November last, by the illegal Assumption to himself, independantly of the rest of the Administration of this Country, of the ordering and forming the new Settlement of the Lands, as they vested in him the entire Conduct of that Business, so they most certainly discharged the other Members who did not concur in it, of all the Responsibility resulting therefrom. Hence it is obvious, that it did not depend on me that a new Settlement was not made when the last expired on the 10th of April; and that I am not answerable in any Shape for the Detriment which must attend a late protracted Settlement, only to be felt when the Accounts of the current Year are made up. Three Months are already expired of the new Year; and from the best Information I can obtain, it will at least require Two more, supposing the Settlement should be immediately commenced, before it can be finished. I am sensible I may be told, that the Kists of the first Five Months are very light; and that no material Prejudice can be sustained by postponing the Conclusion of the Settlement so long. In answer, I must remark, that according to the accustomed Mode in which the Kistbundee of these Provinces is formed, the Demand of the first Five Months is precisely One-fourth of the Amount of the whole Settlement, be it what it may. In the mean Time, from the Disposition which has been made of the Lands, in placing them under the temporary Authority of Zemindars and Sezwalls, without establishing any Agreement or specific Engagement, by which a legal Demand can be made, either by the Collectors on the Ryots, or by Government on the Collectors, it is impossible to guess at the Difficulties that may occur from so unsettled a State. In this Situation of Things, I think it my indispensable Duty to enter this Protest against the Delay in forming a new Settlement, and against all the Consequences resulting therefrom.

General's Minute regarding the Settlement.

Governor General—I have taken some Pains to form the Plan of a new Settlement, grounded on the Orders lately received by the Egmont, and did hope to have been able to have produced it to the Board on this Day; but I find it a Work of so much Difficulty, that I have not been able to accomplish it in Time. As soon as it is drawn out I will send it in Circulation for the Inspection of the Members of the Board; who, I hope, will be pleased to give it their Attention, and be able to decide upon it, or to adopt any preferable Mode for securing the Collections of this Year, on the next Council Day.

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General, &c. Council of Revenue at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Some Disputes having arisen between the Farmer of the Kaus Tulloks and the Zemindar of Mahamedshahy, respecting the Villages of Jeel Jungle Dyah, Chunderporah, and Mynporah, said to be the Property of the former as Farmer, but usurped by the latter, who withheld from him the Rents of the said Villages; it was proposed to us by the Gentlemen of the Council at Moorshedabad, to appoint an Aumeen from our Division, to act in Conjunction with an Aumeen appointed by them, to enquire into and decide on their Disputes. We appointed an Aumeen in consequence for that Purpose, and they were proceeding in their Enquiries; but we have this Day received Advice from the Council of Moorshedabad, that a Summons has been served on the Aumeens, requiring their Attendance on the Supreme Court of Judicature the 4th of next Month. We beg Leave to lay before you Copy of their Letter to us, accompanied by the Address of the Aumeens to them, should you think it necessary to refer thereto for more particular Information. In the mean while we have thought it necessary to direct the Company's Attorney at Law to defend the Suit, which we hope you will approve.

To Mr. Charles Goring, Chief, &c. Gentlemen of the Committee of Revenue, at Calcutta.

Gentlemen,

We have received a very extraordinary Piece of Intelligence from your Aumeen and ours at Ucherra, of their being summoned by the Supreme Court, at the Complaint of Kissen Deo Bucksly; but for your more particular Information, we enclose you a Copy of their Letter to us.

There can be no Doubt of this being done at the Instigation of the Mahomedshahy Zemindar; and the only Reason we can assign for his Conduct is, that he has taken this extraordinary Method to get the Aumeen withdrawn, which confirms us in the Opinion we expressed to you, in our Letter of the 13th Instant, of his endeavouring to elude an Investigation, which he seems to apprehend his Conduct will not bear. It will be needless for us to comment on such Behaviour; the Impropriety of it, and the Consequences of the Zemindars applying to the Supreme Court, merely to avoid the Authority of the Councils under whom they are immediately placed, must be as evident to you, Gentlemen, as to us; and we will only add, that we flatter ourselves you will immediately lay the Matter before the Honourable Governor General and Council, or take such other Measures as you may think proper.

Arzee of Durrudgenarrain, the Aumeen, on Account of the Disputes in Bulbareah, in the Purgunnah of Mahomedshahy.

This Day, viz. Friday the 7th Moug, about Two Par, the Peons Coffim and Pertaub, brought (in consequence of the Complaint of Kissen Deo Bucksly, the Uncle of Doolaub Bucksly and Bundeeram) a Summons from the Supreme Court of Judicature in Calcutta, and delivered it to Azeem Ulla, and myself. We paid proper Respect to this Summons; the Contents of which in Bengal, was to attend on the 4th of February, at the said Court of Judicature. The Peons likewise, when they delivered the Summons, told us that if we did not attend on the Day specified, we must pay a Thousand Rupees.

We were ordered by the Huzzoor to examine into certain Rights which have been for a long Time in the Possession of the Khas Taluck Officers; these People have absented themselves these Four Months, and without going to the Gentlemen of the Zillah of Calcutta, or to you, have, by false Representations obtained this Summons, and put a Stop to all the Proceedings. If such Measures are permitted, how can Justice be done in any Affair? We have none but you to protect us, as we came here by the Order of the Huzoor. We have already made our Report regarding the laying up of the Paddy, &c. and the collecting of the Revenue, but have not been favoured with any Answer; at this Time the aforesaid Effects are in the Cutcherry, and the collecting of the Revenues postponed. It is impossible for us to remain here a Moment longer; we shall set off therefore on Saturday Morning, on our Return to the Huzoor.

Extract of Fort William Consultations, in their Revenue Department, dated 15th July 1777.

Governor General—Having promised that I would lay before the Board a Plan for the new Settlement, to be considered at this Meeting, I request, that previously thereto, the Letter which was written to the Provincial Councils on the 4th of April, containing the present Disposition of the Lands, and the 41st, 42d, 43d, 44th, and 76th Paragraphs of the General Letter from the Court of Directors, of the 24th December, may be read; after which, I shall desire that the Opinions of the Board may be taken upon some Points which are essential to the new Settlement.

Governor General's Minute regarding the new Settlement.

Read accordingly the Letter to the Provincial Councils of the 4th April, and the Muchulca.

Read also the 41st, 42d, 43d, 44th, and 76th Paragraphs of the General Letter of the 24th December last.

Governor General—I now submit the following Questions to the Decision of the Board:

1st. Whether in general the Lands shall be given to the Zemindars, where they will agree to the last Year's Jumma, or to a Rent which the Provincial Councils shall judge adequate to their Value?

Governor General's Questions.

2d. Whether sealed Proposals shall be received for the Remainder of the Lands?

3d. Whether Securities shall be taken from the Zemindars who hold their own Lands, or their Lands be subjected to Sale in case of Deficiencies?

4th. Whether the Salt for the ensuing Year be let to the Zemindars and Land Farmers, or new Contracts entered into for One Year, on the present or any other Plan?

5th. Whether the Settlement shall be left to be formed by the Provincial Councils?

Mr. Francis—The Subject of these Questions is of such Importance, that I should be cautious of giving a hasty Answer to them; nevertheless, I know the Time presses, and I should be sorry that any should be lost by my Fault. If the Governor General will agree to meet at this Board To-morrow, or on Thursday if To-morrow be inconvenient, I will come prepared with my Answer in Writing, and hope that the other Members of the Board will do the same.

Mr. Francis's Minute.

Mr. Barwell—The Object of these Questions has long been the Consideration of every Member of the Administration; and as the Questions themselves are not of a complicated Nature, I find no Difficulty in deciding upon them immediately. I mean not, by approving or objecting to any Parts of them, to decline giving my Assent to the Wish Mr. Francis has expressed, to be allowed Time to consider them. To the First Question, I answer, that in my Opinion the Lands should be given to the Zemindars, where they will agree to the last Year's Jumma, or to a Rent which the Provincial Councils shall judge adequate to their Value.

Mr. Barwell's Opinion.

To the 2d, That sealed Proposals should be received for the Remainder of the Lands.

To the 3d Question, I am of Opinion the Zemindary Lands should, by an express Engagement, be subject to Confiscation, to make up any Deficiencies in the Rents, and no other Security demanded from the Zemindars.

To the 4th Question, I answer, that the leaving the Salt with the Zemindars and Land Farmers is the most simple and compendious Method of drawing a Revenue from this Article; and as the Company's Exigencies do not demand this Article as a Trade, I approve of its being rated in the Jumma of the different Purgunnahs, at such a Sum as the Zemindars and Land Farmers may be induced to accept it.

To the 5th Question, I am of Opinion, that Directions should be sent to the Provincial Councils, to form the Settlement.

Mr. Francis—It is very true, that the Points in question have been long under Consideration; and

Mr. Francis's Remark.

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

- and I believe it will be found, that I have already delivered my Opinion upon most of them. I desire nothing but the Delay of One Evening, to draw it up and deliver it in Form.
- Governor General's Observations. Governor General—I should not have proposed these Questions for immediate Decision, had I apprehended any Difficulty in delivering Opinions upon Subjects which have already received the fullest Discussion of every Member of the Board upon them. But I very cheerfully acquiesce in Mr. Francis's Proposal, and consent to meet in this Department To-morrow, when I hope that we shall be able to conclude the Plan of the new Settlement. In the mean Time I think it necessary that the Provincial Councils should be made acquainted with our Intentions of proceeding immediately to the Settlement, and directed to cause the Pooneah to be held in the Mofussil, as this is a Ceremony held essentially necessary, and without which I fear the Collections may be at a stand. I beg Leave, therefore, to propose, that Circular Letters be written to this Effect.
- His Motion. Mr. Francis—I agree.
Mr. Barwell—I agree.
General Sir John Claverling—I agree.
- Resolution. Resolved, That Circular Letters be written agreeably to the Governor General's Proposition.
- Sir John Claverling's Minute. General Sir John Claverling,
I could wish that before I deliver my Opinion on the Five Propositions, that all the Letters which have been received from the Provincial Councils in consequence of the Orders given the 30th of August last, and repeated on the 30th of May, requiring them to form, upon the exactest Calculations of the Sudder and Mofussil Accounts, an Estimate of the Amount which each Pergunnah, or other District Mahl, is capable of yielding, from a fair and equitable Collection of the Rents, prefixing to each the Amount of the Jumma at which they are rated for the present Year; and accompanying the Whole with such Explanations as may be necessary to enable us to judge of the Amount and Conditions of the future Leases; may be read; and likewise, that the Accounts, which the Accountant to the Revenue Department was ordered to prepare on the 9th April, of the Cost of the Quantities of Salt, may be laid before the Board, which he was directed to furnish the Board of Trade with.
- Read accordingly the Letter from the Provincial Council of Dinagapore entered in Consultation 2d May.
- Ordered, That the Secretary do report what further Answers are received from the Provincial Councils, and what have not been received.
- Secretary's Report. The Secretary reports as follows:
I do not find any Answers from the Provincial Councils to the Orders of the 30th August, except the abovementioned Letter from Dinagapore, and one from Patna: The Councils of Moorshedabad and Dacca, in their Letters entered 30th May, apologize for not having complied with them, as they imagined the Orders of the Board had been superseded by the Appointment of the Aumeens, and promised to send them as soon as they could be prepared: Those from the Collectors of Chittagong and Boglepore have been received.
- (Signed) R. Sumner, Secretary.
- Sir John Claverling's Minute. General Sir John Claverling,
I think the Board has great Reason to complain of the Conduct of those Provincial Councils which have neither obeyed the Orders of the 30th August, nor those of the 30th May: Had they been complied with, the Board would have been furnished with the most exact Estimate that the Gentlemen of the Provincial Councils could have obtained, of the Value of each separate Pergunnah, to have regulated our Judgment by: I must now therefore content myself with desiring, that the same Orders be again renewed to those Provincial Councils which have not sent them, requiring them to send us an Answer within a Week after the Receipt of the Letter, and a Copy of their different Consultations held on that Subject.
- His Motion.
- Resolution. Agreed that they be written to accordingly.
- Circular Letter. Agreed that the following Letter be circulated to all the Provincial Councils (excepting Patna) and to the Collectors (excepting Ramgur).

Circular Letter to Provincial Councils and Collectors, except Patna.

Having resolved to proceed immediately to form the Settlement for the current Year, we direct you to cause the Poonah to be held in the Mofussil without Delay.

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to the Provincial Councils of Dacca, Moorshedabad, and Calcutta. Letter to Dacca, Moorshedabad, and Calcutta.

To the Provincial Councils of Dacca, Moorshedabad, and Calcutta.

Having great Reason to complain of your Conduct, in not having obeyed our Orders of the 30th August, or of the 30th May last, which if you had complied with we should have been furnished with the most exact Estimate that you could have obtained, of the Value of each separate Pergunnah, to have regulated our Judgment by; we now require your immediate Attention to these Orders, and that you will send us an Answer within a Week from the Receipt of this Letter, together with a Copy of your different Consultations held on the Subject of those Orders.

We are, &c.

Extract of Fort William Consultations, in their Revenue Department, dated 16th July 1777.

Sir John Clavering and Mr. Francis deliver in the following Minute:

Revenue Board, 16th July 1777.

Minute of Sir
John Clavering and Mr. Francis on the new Settlements

Previous to the particular Answers which we mean to give to the Questions proposed to us Yesterday by the Governor General, we beg Leave to offer One general Observation upon them, which we think the Circumstances we are in, and our Justification against the Consequences of any Resolution whatsoever taken at this late Season, demand of us.

In the Middle of July we are called upon for our Opinion, on what Principles and in what Manner the Settlement of the Revenues for the current Year shall be formed. We have yet had no Communication whatsoever from the Governor General, of the Materials collected by the Aumeens in the Course of the last Six Months; nor have the Provincial Councils of Bengal (except that of Dinagapore) obeyed the positive Orders of the Board, issued on the 30th of August last, and repeated in April, to furnish us with an Estimate of the Amount Revenue which the Districts under them might be fairly and equitably capable of yielding. If these Orders had been complied with in proper Time, we doubt not a Settlement might have long since been completed, on the only Principle on which a Settlement can or ought to be formed; we mean that of a fair and moderate Estimation.

In this Situation it is obvious, that if our Opinions were now of greater Weight at this Board than they have been for a considerable Time past, we should still be obliged to give them under particular Difficulties. At a Period, when no Time for Deliberation is left, we are compelled to chuse whether we shall undertake to make the Settlement at the Board without the necessary Materials or Information, or to entrust it to the Provincial Councils, to whose Disobedience or Neglect of Orders it is owing that we are not able to do the Business ourselves.

1st Question. We are of Opinion that the Lands should be restored to the Zemindars, whose unalienable Property they are, upon a reasonable Jumma: That of the last Year we deem highly unreasonable, and impossible to be collected; to continue it for the present Year, would be fallacious in the first Instance, as it would flatter the Company with the Hopes of a Revenue which we never should realize, and in the End be productive of real Loss; as we are convinced that immediate and unreasonable Demands not only create the Necessity of future Remissions, but furnish the Landholder with Pretences for paying less than he ought. In the present Circumstances, and under the late Orders of the Court of Directors to make the most advantageous Terms for the current Year, we think the safest Course will be to take an Average of the Nett Collections of the last Three or the last Five Years, and fix the nett Jumma of the present Year at that Amount, whatever it may be. We have Reason to believe that the Remissions and Balances on the Settlements of the last Five Years exceed the enormous Sum of Two hundred and Twenty Lacks of Sicca Rupees. If this be the Fact, we presume it requires no Argument to shew the Danger of following so fallacious a Guide as the Jumma of the last Year, which was the highest of the Five. We do not perfectly understand what is meant by a Rent adequate to the Value of the Lands, as the Proportion of the nett Produce to be left for the Support of the Proprietors is not specified: We yield, however, though with great Reluctance, to the present Necessity of having any Share in the final Determination of the Rents to the Provincial Councils. If the Average we propose be taken, it is not probable that many of the Zemindars will decline a Settlement on that Footing.

2d Question. We are of Opinion that the receiving sealed Proposals is fallacious, and gives a dangerous Opening to Collusion; besides that it would in effect be an Auction, which is positively prohibited by the Company's last Orders. There will not be many Competitors for Lands, which the Zemindars themselves will not engage for on reasonable Terms. We would trust the Disposal of such Lands, if any remain, openly, and without Reserve, to the Provincial Councils, under the single Condition so justly and wisely prescribed by the Court of Directors, "that a Preference be given, and every

A P P E N D I X, N° 15.

“ every Indulgence shewn, to the Natives resident on the Spot, and that no European, nor the Banyan of any European, be permitted to hold any Share therein.”

3d Question. The Rent being fixed on reasonable and moderate Terms with the Proprietors, we are of Opinion that the Lands themselves are the natural and proper Security for the Dues of Government. Intermediate Securities are only an additional Burthen to the Country, and contrived, as we believe, for no other Purpose than to dispossess the right Owners, by Degrees, of their Property: At least our Experience does not make us acquainted with any other Effect of that Measure. In the First Part of this Opinion we believe that our Sentiments do not differ from those of the Governor General. The Sale of the Lands must answer ultimately for the Payment of the Rents; but this we say upon the Supposition that the Rents are such as the Lands should justly pay; otherwise it would be in the Power of an arbitrary Government to alienate the whole Landed Property of the Country, by the unjust Act of making an unreasonable Demand upon it.

4th Question. In our Minutes recorded on the Consultations of the 24th of September last, we have given our Opinions at large, that the Salt Lands should be united with the Jumma of the respective Districts. We adhere to that Opinion without repeating the Reasons on which it is founded.

5th Question. If proper Measures had been taken in Time, it would not have been necessary to leave the Settlement to the Provincial Councils; we should have known at least by what Rules they meant to proceed, or have been able to bind them by strict and positive Instructions. In our actual Circumstances, we fear there is no Alternative, and that the Settlement must be left to be formed by them.

We have taken Notice of the enormous Amount of the Remissions and Balances on the Settlements of the last Five Years, and believe that our Information on this Point, though not precise, is nevertheless nearly accurate. To obviate any Doubts on this Head, and to give the Company a clear and incontrovertible Proof of the Effects of an immoderate and excessive Demand upon the Country, we desire that the Accountant of this Department may be ordered to make out and lay before the Board the Two following Accounts.

1st. An Abstract of Remissions and Balances for the Settlement of the last Five Years, distinguishing each Year.

2d. An Account, Demand, Receipt, and Balance for the Bengal Year 1183, and Bahar Year 1184.

Orders to Accountant.

Ordered, That the Accountant be directed to prepare the Accounts required in the above Minute.

Governor General's Minute.

Governor General—The Opinions delivered by Sir John Clavering and Mr. Francis, in the preceding Minute, differ so little from mine, that I shall without further Delay submit to the Board the Plan which I had prepared, and had brought for their Inspection Yesterday. It was solely from the Belief that our general Principles upon the Mode of forming the Settlement were the same, that I deferred to produce it Yesterday, and proposed the Questions on which the Propriety of it depended; wishing to avoid the Appearance of dictating to the Board a Measure which I hoped would receive the Concurrence and Assistance of every Member of it. I hope I shall be excused, if I decline to answer the Preface of the Minute just recorded. It would lead to an unprofitable, and to me, a painful Altercation. My own, I have been obliged to preface with a short Vindication, which the Protest recorded by Sir John Clavering on the 11th Instant rendered indispensable; any further Discussion I shall decline.

As I have professed in my Minute a Desire to profit by any Corrections which the other Members of the Board may think it proper to give to the Plan which I shall now lay before them, I should gladly adopt the Rule laid down by Sir John Clavering and Mr. Francis, in Answer to the First Question, to take an Average of the Nett Collections of the last Three or the last Five Years, or even of the last Ten, and fix the Nett Jumma of the present Year at that Amount; but that I think it will be more prudent to keep this Rule as a Reserve for the final Decision of the Board, upon the Settlements which may be formed by the Provincial Councils. There can be no Reason for lowering the Jumma of those Lands which the Zemindars are capable and willing to hold, at that Rate; but were it to be prescribed as a Rule to the Provincial Councils, that they should form the Jumma invariably on the Medium of the Collections for any Number of past Years, it would afford too great an Encouragement for every Zemindar, however profitable his Lands might be, to lay Claim to the Benefit of such an Indulgence. I shall therefore leave the Two First Propositions of the Plan as they stand, still subject, however, to the Correction of the Board.

The Business of the Huztabood is not yet finished. What might have been the Work of a very few Months under a settled Government, has been protracted by many Difficulties and Impediments, which I shall not here enumerate, to this Time. Most of the Accounts are finished, though not yet received. In some Places, from the Hardiness of the Zemindars, and the weak Influence of the Government, I despair of obtaining them. Such, however, as are ready, will be translated lated and digested with all possible Dispatch; but will prove of more Utility whenever a permanent Settlement shall be formed, than to the present. Many Accounts, however, are in the Possession of the Superintendants of the Aumeens, which will afford very useful and seasonable Assistance to this Board; particularly the Accounts of the Jumma Receipts and Collections of the several Districts of Bengal for the last Ten Years, and the principal Hustabood Accounts of the Districts appertaining to the Division of Calcutta, which will probably be finished in Time to be received with the Settlements proposed by the Provincial Councils.

The Governor lays before the Board the following Minute and Plan.

Fort William, 15th July 1777.

Governor General—While the Opinion of the Court of Directors, concerning the Mode of framing the new Settlement of Bengal, was either not known or only deducible from indirect Passages in their General Letters, I should not have thought that I had any Cause to complain of being left unsupported in the Duties of my Station, and charged with a separate Responsibility for the Suspension of the new Settlement, had the other Members of the Board then protested against it. But I confess my Surprise to read such a Protest at this Time, when the recent Orders from the Court of Directors not only justify the Delay, but demonstrably prove that they had not even a Suspicion of our venturing to engage in so important a Business without their special Orders for it. They had been repeatedly requested to furnish us with Instructions; they had promised us Instructions; and many laboured Plans, accompanied by every official Light that could be thrown on them, had been offered to their Choice. How then could the Board have formed the new Settlement, without waiting for the Authority which they had solicited, and expected as their indispensable Guide?

Governor General's Minute in Reply to General Clavering's, of the 11th Instant.

That Authority is now arrived, and is contained in the General Letter by the Egmont, which was not communicated to this Department till the 11th Instant.

The Court of Directors, when they framed these Orders, could not possibly have suspected that a Settlement would be formed before their Orders were received; for they have made no Provision for such an Event, nor intimated their Apprehension of it. They knew that their Letter, which was not dispatched till the End of December, could not well be received before the Month of July following; nor could they expect the Orders which it contained to be carried into Execution before they were received, which they must have been, had the Settlement been formed in the Manner prescribed by them before the Commencement of the new Year.

Whatever, therefore, may be the Effects of a late Settlement, I am no more accountable for it than I am for that of an Annual One, both equally depending on the Company's Orders.

I now submit to the Board, a Plan for the Settlement of this Year, formed on the present Disposition of the Lands and the Orders of the Company. I hope it will receive the Correction of the Board, to which I shall gladly assent, or even yield most cheerfully to any other Mode of Settlement which may be suggested, if it shall be more conformable to those Orders, and reducible to Practice.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

1st. That such Lands as are now in Charge of the Zemindars be left under their Management; if they will consent to hold them on the Jumma and Kistbundee of last Year.

Governor General's Plan of Settlement.

2d. That such Lands as are now in Charge of the Zemindars be left under their Management, although they shall refuse to hold them on the Jumma and Kistbundee of last Year, if they will consent to hold them for such a Rent as the Provincial Council of the Division to which they belong shall judge adequate to their real Worth.

3d. That no Malzamin or Security shall be exacted for such Lands as have been let in the Manner directed in the preceding Articles, which are either the entire Portions of single Zemindars, or being Divisions of a Zemindarry are so considerable as to have been let separately to the Proprietors, or being the Property of many Zemindars, who possess them in common and undivided, the Produce only being shared between them, have been let to all the Copartners, but the sole Management and direct Responsibility consigned by their Consent, expressed in their Cabooleat, to one of the Copartners.

4th. That for all Lands let to the Zemindars as above-directed, it be expressly stipulated in their Cabooleats, that in case of their falling in Arrears, they shall be liable to be dispossessed, and that their Zemindarries, or Portions of them, shall be sold to make up the Deficiency.

5th. That such Zemindarries as belong to many Proprietors in distinct Divisions or Shares, may be let in farm in the Manner hereafter mentioned, with this special Condition, that the Farmers shall exact the Rents due from the Zemindars or Talookdars; but shall not dispossess them or interfere in their respective Collections, without the Sanction of the Provincial Council of the Division to which they belong; which shall only be granted in the Case of their falling in Arrears.

6th. That if the Copartners of a Zemindarry cannot be induced to delegate the Charge of their Zemindarry to one of their Number, as provided in the Third Article, a Malzamin or Security be accepted in lieu thereof; but the Conditions of the Lease shall be the same as are expressed in the Third Article.

7th. That the Provincial Councils shall be directed to advertise for sealed Proposals to farm, this Year only, all such Lands as are not described in the preceding Articles; (that is to say, all such Lands as are at present under Charge of Zemindars who shall refuse to retain them on the Terms prescribed in the Two First Articles, or which are at present under Charge of the Naib Dewans of Se-zawels or Etmaundars) that the Advertisements be immediately published; that they shall express the Names of the Purgunnahs or other Divisions constituting each respective Farm; that they shall fix a Day for receiving the Proposals, not exceeding Twenty Days from the Publication; that they shall express, that the Farms shall be granted to those Persons who shall offer the most advantageous Terms, provided they are Men of Substance, and Residents of the District in which the Farms are situated; and that every Farmer shall give such Security for the Performance of his Engagements as the Provincial Council shall judge sufficient.

8th. That the Provincial Councils be directed to let the Salt Mahls in like Manner on the most advantageous Terms, with the Exception mentioned in the following Article, for a Ready Money Rent, including Duties; the Salt to be left to the Disposal of the Farmers; that no Advances shall be made to them by Government; and that they shall not make any Claims for Balances after the Expiration of their Leases.

9th. That a Preference be given to such Zemindars or Farmers as are willing to take the Salt Mahls lying within the Limits of their respective Farms, even though the Terms offered by them should be considerably lower than those of others.

10th. That the Provincial Councils shall be authorized and directed to receive Caboolets from the Zemindars and Farmers to whom the Lands shall be let in any of the preceding Modes, and to put them in immediate Possession, transmitting the Aumul-Namas for the Sanction and Ratification of the Governor General and Council.

11th. That all the Aumeens now in Office be directed to repair immediately with their Accounts to the Sudder Cutcherries of the respective Divisions in which they are employed to attend on the Provincial Councils, and furnish them with such Materials and Informations as may be required for the Formation of the Settlement.

Mr. Francis's
Opinion.

Mr. Francis—By the 1st and 2d Propositions, of leaving the Lands under the Management of the Zemindars, I understand, that all the Zemindars are meant, except those of the Twenty-four Purgunnahs. I do not think it necessary to make any particular Remarks on the Governor's Plan; he is now in Possession of the Opinion of every Member of the Board, and it is Time to come to a Determination to carry it into Execution. For this Purpose, I would beg Leave to recommend it to him to take into his Consideration the Minute delivered in by Sir John Clavering and myself, and to adopt or unite with his own Plan such Parts of it as he may think advisable: I shall make no further Exceptions.

Governor General's Reply.

Governor General—No Alteration immediately occurs to me as necessary to be made to the Plan. I will revise it at my Leisure, with the Minute delivered by Sir John Clavering and Mr. Francis, and if any Corrections shall appear to me necessary to make it more conformable to the latter, I will propose it; in the mean Time as the Delay of a single Day may be productive of bad Consequences, I hope the Board will agree to circulate this Plan to the Provincial Councils, with a Letter directing them to conform to it, and without Loss of Time to enter on the Business of the new Settlement.

His Proposition.

Mr. Francis—I agree.

Sir John Clavering's
Opinion.

General Sir John Clavering—Understanding with Mr. Francis that the 1st and 2d Proposition, of the Governor General's Minute, do mean to comprehend all the Zemindars without Distinction, excepting those of the Twenty-four Purgunnahs, I shall acquiesce to whatever Mode the Governor General may think proper to adopt, whether that of his own Plan, or as it is proposed to be qualified in the Minute delivered in by Mr. Francis and myself, leaving the Responsibility of the Variation with the Governor General. The Trust that will be reposed in the Provincial Councils, by the discretionary Power proposed to be given to them, to accept or refuse the Offers of the Zemindars, is greater than my Confidence in them would have allowed on a less pressing Occasion. The Inconvenience that may attend the Abuse of this Trust, would have been in a great Measure obviated, had they complied with the peremptory Orders of the Board, in transmitting to us an Estimate of the Value of the several Purgunnahs, in the same Manner that has been done by the Council of Dinagapore.

Resolution,
and

Agreed that the following Letter be circulated to all the Provincial Councils and Collectors, except to Ramgur and Patna.

We resolved to recall all the Farmers on the 13th April, and to put the Districts under the Charge and Management of the respective Proprietors, where they were capable, having previously taken from them a Muchulca, or Obligation to collect the current Revenues agreeably to Custom, and to keep the Amount in Trust, and to obey such Orders as might hereafter be issued, and to be accountable for any Neglect in the Business of the Collections. Where the Zemindars were incapable of managing, we directed that their Lands should be placed under the Management of the inferior Provincial Dewans, or to appoint Sezawuls where they might judge it necessary; but in every such Instance, they were particularly entrusted to describe exactly the State of the Zemindar, constituting the supposed Incapacity to manage the Lands.

7th. On the 15th July we took under Consideration the Orders contained in the 41st, 42d, 43d, 44th, and 76th Paragraphs of your Letter of the 24th of December last by the Egmont; and the following Day delivered our Opinions on the Subject of the Settlement of the Lands for the current Year.

We received your Orders per Europa on the 26th July; and as, from the 8th, 9th, and 10th Paragraphs of your Letter, it was evident that your Intentions were to afford an Indulgence to the Zemindars, and Relief to the Country, we immediately directed the Provincial Councils to form their Computation of the real Value of the Lands by the Medium Amount of the Nett Collections of the Years 1180, 1181, and 1182 (that is, the Sum actually received into the Treasury, exclusive of the Provision made for the Charges, Collection, and the Zemindars Subsistence) and make that the Standard of the next Jumma of the new Settlement, the same Amount to be received into the Treasury.

Having directed the Superintendent of the Khalsa Records to prepare Drafts of the Deeds to be granted to the Zemindars and Farmers, formed from those of the Committee of Circuit, and that granted to the Rajah of Burdwan, and the Orders received from you, with such Alterations or Additions as might appear necessary, on consulting with the Officers of the Khalsa, he delivered in his Report thereon; and having passed our Resolutions on the several Articles, we directed them to be prepared and drawn out, as entered at large in our Proceedings of the 5th September.

22d. 24th. Finding it necessary that some Means should be taken for the speedy Adjustment of the Balances or Arrears of Rent which were outstanding from the respective Landholders at the Close of the last Year, and having been furnished with your general Instructions on this Subject, in the 43d Paragraph of your General Letter by the Egmont, we delivered in our separate Opinions thereon, on the 22d July, and directed the Provincial Councils to exert themselves in enforcing Payment of the Arrears of Revenue due from the last Year (1183) and not to receive Proposals for farming from any Man not a Zemindar, until he should have paid up his Balances and adjusted his Accounts for the last Five Years. 22d July.

25th. We have also directed them to draw out separate States of the Balances outstanding on Account of the Revenue, of the Years 1179, 1180, 1181, 1182 and 1183, specifying the Names of the Persons from whom they are due, their Pleas of Remissions, and their own Opinion on the Justness of the Pleas, with References to all the former Proceedings on the Subject, and their final Judgment of the Amount justly due from each Person; accompanied with an Account of the Circumstances of the Farmers and their Securities, so as to distinguish such Part of the Balance as may be recoverable, of which Payment might be enforced from such as are irrecoverable and ought to be remitted, conformably to your Orders above-mentioned, and we have directed them to set apart the necessary Time every Week, and to transmit their separate Proceedings regarding them as soon as possible for our Determination. Ditto.

27th. We have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that the Amount Settlement for this Division has been nearly realized, but that all Endeavours to recover the Balances of former Years have been ineffectual.

28th. Accompanying the Letter from Moorsheadabad of the 8th May, you will find an Explanation of the Balances outstanding for the last Year. The Zemindar of Rajeshahy presented us Claims for Deductions, amounting to 53,547 Rupees; which from the Explanation of this Council, we have deemed inadmissible, except the Sum of 25,000 Rupees, which we unanimously resolved to allow her, in Liquidation of her Balances, and in lieu of all Demands for Remissions for the last Year. 20th May,

30th. Before the Formation of the Settlement of the Lands of Bengal in the Year 1179, the Committee of Circuit resolved on the Substraction of sundry Taxes from the Public Revenue, which were considered by them as impolitic and oppressive: These were comprehended under the following Names, 10th to 28th June 1779

Bazey Jumma, or Fines, &c.

And it was advertised, that these Taxes should be deducted from the Jumma of the preceding Year, which was made the Ground-work on which the Proposals for the Five Years Leases were to be formed, so that neither the Farmers should pay the Amount of those Taxes to Government, nor be allowed to levy them on the People. In some Instances, the Amount of the Collections made for these Taxes in the Year 1178, was ascertained, and the Deductions were made from the Jumma of the Year for the immediate Inspection of those who were desirous of becoming Farmers of the Lands, and made their Proposals accordingly; but in many Districts this was impracticable, and it was left to make the Deductions after the Leases had been granted. The present Claim is to be allowed those Deductions, and the Question is, whether such of the Zemindars and Farmers as have Claims to the Deduction of the Amount of these Taxes from their respective annual Engagements, shall be allowed the same, or whether they shall be bound to pay the specific Sums written in their Cabbuleats?

31st. The Council of Moorsheadabad say, the Zemindar of Jehanguirpore, Hattinda, &c. certainly has a Claim on these Accounts, and that he has preferred it regularly from the first Year of his Lease to the present Time. We could not however agree on a Decision of this Claim, and consented that it should remain suspended for your final Decision; but that the Matter should be discussed and concluded, as far as may be done by this Government, with such Reservation as may allow your Approbation or Disapprobation to operate upon the Decision. We have accordingly directed this Council 20th May. Letter to Moorsheadabad.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, of the 5th May 1775.

THE Secretary lays before the Board the Translations of Three Petitions of Cumal ul dien Cawn, which accompanied Mr. Joseph Fowke's Letter of the 25th April, entered in Consultation of the 25th April.

Translation of the Petition of Cumal ul Dien Khaun, Farmer, of the Hidgelee District.

About the End of the Month of Mang, of the Year 1181, Veylaytee, the Committee on the Part of the Company, let all the Tekah Collaries of the Purgunnahs of Kairoomall, &c. Motchf-amootah, &c. and Doorudumna, &c. Farm, to me, upon an Agreement of my engaging to provide a Lack of Maunds at the Rate of 100 Silver Rupees per Maund, to be delivered in Two different Payments. I received in Consequence 60,500 Rupees from the Committee in advance; out of which Sum, Dewan Gonga Govind collusively took 26,000 Rupees, engaging, in Consideration thereof, to cause whatever Quantity I could provide above the Lack of Maunds, to be passed, which I might sell wherever I chose for my own Advantage. Gonga Govind having made this Agreement with me, accordingly received the Sum of 15,000 in Gold Mohurs at One Time, in Part of it; but in the Month of Iyle, upon my applying to him to pass some Salt, he refused it, and notwithstanding exacted from me the remaining 11,000 Rupees, being the Balance due upon the above mentioned Agreement. Being thus rendered unable to complete the Advances to my People, they have set up a Claim against me, and now want to complain upon me to the Council. I have earnestly supplicated Gonga Govind upon the Subject, begging him, as I am a poor Man, and not able to afford to pay the above Sum, that he will relieve me from it; but he unjustly paid no Attention to what I said. Where have I this Money to pay? I am hopeful that you will be pleased to call Gonga Govind before you, and cause him to refund what he received from me, with Interest.

A true Translation.

Ordered, That Cumal ul dien Cawn be required to attend the Board.

Cumal ul dien Cawn being called before the Board, is questioned as follows:

Ques. Do you acknowledge these Three Petitions to be yours?

[Shewing him the Persian Petitions which accompanied Mr. Fowke's Letter.]

Ans. Yes—I gave them in, and hope for Justice—I only desired that this One (being the Arzee containing the Complaint against Mr. Archdeacon) might be delivered to the Board, but the other Two I desired Rada Churn would keep in his own Hands.

Ques. With what Intention did you deliver those Papers to Rada Churn?—

Mr. Francis moves, That Cumal ul Dien may be asked, if he has any Objections to swear to the Truth of the Three Petitions?

Mr. Barwell—I think he ought not to be sworn to any Petition unless the one he intends to prosecute.

The Honourable Mr. Monson—I think he may be asked if he is willing to swear or not.

General Clavering—I think he ought to be asked, whether he chuses to be sworn; because I cannot conceive that having written and signed the Three Petitions, and now acknowledged them all to be his, he did not intend to present them all to this Board; however, he may have been since warped from his original Intention by designing People, who for Purposes of their own, do not chuse that an Accusation of direct Corruption should be preferred against Gonga Govind Sing, the Dewan of the Provincial Council of Calcutta.

Governor General—I object to his being put to his Oath with respect to the Two Petitions which he declares he had no Intention of delivering to the Board. I see an Impropriety of swearing him to the Truth of the other Petition, because it has the Appearance of aiming at some partial Object; there being no Rule or Order of the Board, which requires that all Persons presenting Petitions should swear to the Contents of them; but I do not object to his swearing to the Petition he presents.

Mr. Francis—I beg Leave to observe, that Cumal ul dien Cawn, when he acknowledged the Petitions, said, I gave them in, and hope for Justice.—They contain Charges which I presume ought to be examined by this Board, and I conceive that the First Step to our doing him that Justice, which he says he hopes for, is, that he should give such Authenticity to the Papers signed and sealed by himself, as depends upon his Deposition.—He is at Liberty to decline taking the Oath if he thinks proper.

Resolved, That he be asked, if he has any Objection to swear to the Truth of the Three Petitions now shewn to him.

Ans. I only deposited those Two (shewing them)

The above Question repeated to Cumal ul dien Cawn;

Ans. I will swear to the Truth of this one (meaning the Petition against Mr. Archdeacon;) as to the other Two, I did not give them with an Intention of complaining; I only put them into Rada Churn's Hands, that he might inform the Maha Rajah of them, that the Matter might be amicably adjusted with Gonga Govind Sing upon Sudder ul Dien's Arrival, in which Case I would withdraw them; that I could in that Case give 4,000 Rupees to the Maha Rajah, and 2,000 Rupees to Rada Churn.—If it could not be settled in this Manner, I would then complain to Government.

Ques. Are the Contents of those Two Arzees true or false?

Governor General—I must beg Leave to enter my Objection to this Question.

Ans. They are true; but I only deposited them in Rada Churn's Hands.

General Clavering—I move that Rada Churn, and Gonga Govind Sing, may be directed to attend the next Meeting of this Board.

Agreed to; and Ordered, That the Secretary do summon them accordingly.

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department, of the 9th May 1775.

Resolved, That Rada Churn be called in, and seated.

He is accordingly called in, seated, and questioned as follows:

Ques. From whom did you receive these Petitions?

[Shewing him the Three Persian Petitions accompanying Mr. Fowke's Letter of the 25th, and entered in Consultations the 25th April]

Ans. They were either given in to Mr. Fowke or to me; I don't recollect which, as Cumal ul Dien wrote a great many Arzees, some of which he put into my Hands, and some into Mr. Fowke's.

General's Ques. Were they written in your Presence?

Ans. No: He brought them ready written.

Ques. Was the Seal upon them when they were delivered to you?

Ans. They were also sealed when he brought them.

Ques. Was Mr. Fowke with you when he brought them?

Ans. If Mr. Fowke happened to be at Home when Cumal ul dien Cawn called, he received the Arzees; if he was not at Home he waited till he came.

Question repeated.

Ans. He brought at different Times to Mr. Fowke's House to the Number of Six, among which Numbers were those Three, and I don't exactly remember whether he delivered those Three at One Time, or at different Times.

Ques. What did Cumal ul Dien say to you when he delivered the Two Arzees complaining of Gonga Govind Sing?

Ans. That having recovered the Money he might be enabled to make the Advances to the Molungees.

Governor General's Ques. Did Cumal ul Dien desire you to present those Arzees to the Council, or to keep those as a Deposit?

Ans. To lay them before the Council.

General's Ques. Are you sure he did not desire you to keep them as a Deposit?

Ans. Yes.

Governor

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 17.

Governor General. Did he desire that all the Three Arzees might be delivered to the Board?

Ans. Yes.

(Rada Churn withdraws.)

Gunga Govind Sing being called in, is informed that there are Two Petitions before the Board, signed by Cumal ul dien Cawn, complaining of him; both of which Cumal ul dien Cawn says are true.

[He is desired to read them]

General's Quef. Are the Contents of them true or false?

Ans. If you will demand of me the Particulars I can reply to them.

Quef. Cumal ul Dien alledges, that out of 46,500 Rupees advanced to him on Account of his Salt Contract with the Company, that you collusively took from him 26,000 Rupees; viz. 15,000 paid you in Gold Mohurs in the Month of Jeyl 1181, and 11,000 Rupees afterwards—Is this true?

Ans. It is false that I took those Sums collusively from Cumal ul Dien.

Quef. Did you receive the Money?

Ans. I did not take this Money myself; if you demand of me the Particulars I will relate them.

Quef. Who did take that Money?

Ans. Cumal ul Dien has charged me in his Petition with receiving collusively from him, at Two different Periods, the Sum of 26,000 Rupees; to which my Answer is required, and is as follows:— I never took any Money from him; let him prove the Claim he advances against me, and I shall then be in the highest Degree culpable; and the Gentlemen of Council being my Masters, are at Liberty to do with me as they please.—This is all I know regarding the above Money; namely, that when Cumal ul Dien took the Mahal from under the Management of the Under Farmer into his own Hands, he gave a Chelan for 14,000 Rupees in Part of the Balances of the Year 1180; but when the Time of Payment came, wanted that it should be discharged by Bussant Roy, and made Disputes about it; in consequence of which I took 12,000 Rupees, in Part Payment of it; from his Advances, and 2,000 Rupees on Account of Money due to Mr. Dacres; afterwards I took 9,379 Rupees more from his Advances on Account of the Revenue. The above making altogether 23,000 and odd Rupees, was taken without his Consent; but as to the Difference between this Sum and that mentioned by him, I cannot say any Thing, before I know from himself, and from examining my Hopes on what Account it is charged.

General Clavering—I propose that Gunga Govind Sing may be asked if he is willing to swear to the Truth of this Answer.

Mr. Francis, } agree to the Proposition.

Mr. Monfön, }

Governor General—I object to it, because I think it irregular to swear any Person with respect to Charges against himself.

Resolution, That he be called in, and asked, If he is willing to swear to the Truth of the Answer he has given in.

He answers—Let the Person who complains against me swear to the Truth of the Charges against me; a Defendant is put to his Oath when an Examination takes place, and both Parties are interrogated. The Gentlemen having been pleased to appoint me to an exalted Station, if they make me take my Oath, it will reflect greatly upon my Character.

General Clavering—Question. How much is due from Cumal ul Dien to the Company, on Account of his Salt Contracts; and his Land Farms?

Extract of the Proceedings of the Governor General and Council, in their Revenue Department of the 12th May 1775.

At a Council, PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
The Honourable George Monson,
Richard Barwell, } Esquires.
Philip Francis, }

Questions to Gunga Govind Sing.

Question. Do you hold a Farm in the Province of Pachet?

Answer. I hold no Farm, but I hold Two or Three Villages on a Dewattur Footing, or religious Endowment, to defray the Expenses of a Temple.

Question. Do you hold them, or your Brother?

Answer. I do now that my Brother is dead; I derived them from my Brother.

Question. What Rent do you pay to Government for them?

Answer. Nothing.

Question. When were they granted to your Brother and to you?

Answer. I don't recollect; but if you chuse to order me, I can deliver in an Account of every Thing relating to them.

(He is ordered to deliver in an Account accordingly.)

Question. How many Years ago is it since your Brother received his Grant?

Answer. About Six or Seven Years ago, to the best of my Recollection.

Question. Was Mr. Graham Chief of Burdwan at that Time?

Answer. I cannot say.

(He is ordered to withdraw.)

Question put, Whether the Facts alleged by Comaul ul Dien, particularly that of his having taken 26,000 Rupees from him collusively, is ascertained by the Answer made to it by Gunga Govind Sing?

Mr. Francis—He has acknowledged his having deducted 23,379 Rupees, from the Advances made to Comal o' Dien, on Account of the Salt Farms. Admitting that this Money was applied to make good a former Balance on Account of Rents due from Cumal o' Dien Cawn, for a Land Farm (which I by no Means believe to be the Case) still, I conceive, that his withholding any Part of the Advances was unauthorized, and must be highly prejudicial to the Company's Interest, as it tends to destroy the Source of future Production of Revenue; and I see no Relation between Comal o' Dien's Engagements as a Salt Contractor, and his Lease as a Land Farmer. The Rent should have been exacted as the monthly Kists became due.

Mr. Barwell—The Land Revenue and Salt is different at Hidgilee from any other Part of Bengal, and have been united for Ages. Whether the Government obliges a Man to pay its Due, by compelling them out of his Hands, or by stopping a Payment to be made to such a Debtor, I can conceive it is the same, and that no Public Interest can be sacrificed by it. The Claims are mutual, one demands one Account, the other another; and if the Revenue runs behind Hand, as it appears it has done, I conceive Gunga Govind Sing fully acquitted of any Charge against him on this Account. But I do not understand the Petition before the Board in the Light of a Charge against Gunga Govind Sing. It is brought before us against the Inclination of the Petitioner, of the Person whose Name is annexed to it, and his declared Opposition to its being carried before the Board; to enter into an Enquiry, or to take up Complaints that are dropt in my Opinion, must needlessly engage the Time and Attention of the Board, as well as carry with it any Appearance of some partial Aim. The Board, by adopting the Petition in the Manner they have, make it in fact their own; and they are equally the Prosecutors and Deciders upon the Points; for the Man whose Name is written at the Foot of the Petition, has positively averred he has no Complaint to make, nor did he ever authorize the Presentation of the Petition to the Board.

Mr. Monson—Gunga Govind Sing acknowledges he has withheld upwards of 23,000 Rupees for Advances due to Comol o' Dien Cawn, on his Tekka Collares; which Sum, he says, was due to the Company from the Farmer for his Malguzary Rent. By his having transferred the Company's Property in this Manner from one Account to the other, in order to make the Balances appear less on the Revenue Department, and to encrease them on the Salt Farms, is subjecting the Company to certain Loss; for unless the Additions are regularly made to the Salt Farm, it is impossible for the Farmer to deliver the Quantity of Salt which he has contracted for; by which Means a considerable Deficiency is made in his Deliveries, on which the Company are considerable Losers, and the Balances are irrecoverable; as is now the Case, with the Renter being in Arrears to Government on his Salt Farm upwards of 1,47,000 Rupees, as appears by the Account sent in by the Calcutta Committee. I think this Proceeding of Gunga Govind Sing deserves Reprehension and Censure. With regard to the Petitions now before us, by which this Transaction is made known, I think they come in a regular regular Method before the Board. Cumal o' Dien Cawn delivered them to the Person who sent them to the Board, with the Intention that they should come to the Knowledge of Government, as appears from the Evidence of Rada Churn, to whom he delivered them. The Motives that induced him to retract these Petitions, are best known to himself; but I have Reason to believe, that his Intentions were altered by having more flattering Prospects held out to him than the Recovery of so inconsiderable a Sum from Gongga Govind Sing.

General Clavering—I must confess I am very much distressed in forming my Opinion or Judgment on the Petition before us, and the Answer to it. The Petitioner Cumal o' Dien Cawn is a Man of desperate Fortune, whose Declaration before this Board has already been contradicted by Three positive Witnesses upon Oath. From the Accusations which he has separately brought against several Persons, and for some of which he is now bound over to prosecute at the next Assizes, it appears that he has changed his Profession from being a Salt Farmer to that of a more lucrative one, of becoming a public Accuser. With regard to what he has advanced against Gongga Govind Sing, I can therefore only admit it as far as it is confessed by the other Party; and as this Practice of deducting from the Advances of the Salt Farmers to benefit Persons in high Station in this Government, has been admitted, and proved by more than One Instance, I am rather inclinable to give him Credit for what he has therein said the most profligate Liars may sometimes speak the Truth. His Intention of presenting this Petition to the Board, has been confirmed by the Evidence of Rada Churn, and indeed it could not have been given to him for any other Purpose. On these Grounds I am of Opinion, that Gongga Govind Sing is guilty of the Charge brought against him.

Governor General—I do not understand that the Matter of the Petition in question has undergone such an Investigation as can enable the Board to pass any Judgment on the Charges contained in it.

Mr. Francis—I move that Gongga Govind Sing be dismissed from his Employment in the Company's Service. I pay little Regard to the Evidence of Cumal ul dien Caun: The Confession made by Gongga Govind Sing convicts him of a specific Offence, for which, in my Opinion, he ought to be dismissed from his Employment. His general Character, as I am well informed, is infamous in an uncommon Degree. That Reason alone, independant of any particular Charge, would induce me to exclude him from any Office of Trust in the Company's Service.

Mr. Barwell—During my long Residence in this Country, this is the First Time that I have heard the Character of Gongga Govind Sing being infamous. No Information I ever received, though I have heard many People speak ill of him, ever pointed to any particular Act of Infamy committed by Gongga Govind Sing. I have no intimate Knowledge of Gongga Govind Sing; what I understand of his Character has been from Natives as well as Europeans. I am against his Dismission.

Mr. Monson—Cumal o' dien Cawn I understand to be a Man of an equivocal Character; I therefore should not regard his Charge against Gongga Govind Sing, if I had not heard, since my short Residence in this Country, that Gongga Govind Sing is a Man of a most rapacious Disposition; which Character I think is confirmed by the Wealth and Affluence he now enjoys, being esteemed one of the most wealthy Inhabitants of Calcutta. I think a Person of an avaricious Disposition and high Ambition is not proper to be intrusted in the Company's Service, especially with that Degree of Influence which I am told he possesses over the Minds of many principal People in this Country. I therefore think he should be removed from his present Employment.

General Clavering—The Causes of the Decrease of the Revenue, and the great Increase of the Balances, I have endeavoured to account for in my Minute, on the Petition of the Rajah of Rajshahy. I should be wanting in the Performance of that Trust and Confidence which the Legislature placed in me when it appointed me one of the Council of Bengal, if I did not use my best Endeavours to remove those Causes to which the Company are to attribute the Loss they have sustained in the Revenue. A corrupt Dewan of the Province is the great Channel through which all those Evils have passed of which I have spoken; and I think it incumbent on me to declare, that in this Instance, and every other where I have either Proofs or Suspicion that a Dewan is corrupt, I will give my Vote to remove him. On the Evidence therefore before me, I think Gongga Govind Sing should be removed from his Place of Dewan of the Calcutta Provincial Council.

Governor General—I am against the Question, because I know of no Fault that he has committed, and have very good Reason to believe, that he by no Means merits the Character which has been reported of him to Mr. Francis. He had many Enemies at the Time that he was proposed to be employed in the Company's Service, and not one Advocate among the Natives who had immediate Access to myself; I think therefore if his Character had been such as has been described, the Knowledge of it could hardly have failed to have been ascertained to me by the specific Facts. I have heard him loaded, as I have many others, with general Reproaches, but have never heard any one express a Doubt of his Abilities.

Resolved, That Gongga Govind Sing be dismissed from his Station of Naib Dewan to the Provincial Council of Calcutta, and that they be advised accordingly.

Extract of the General Letter from Bengal, in the Revenue Department, dated 3d November 1772.

AS the Administration of Justice and the Collection of the Revenue are by far the most important Objects of Government, they certainly claim the first Attention of your President and Council, especially at a Time when so many weighty Matters, intimately connected with them, are intrusted by you to our Investigation and Judgment, and when the State of the Country requires timely, well digested, and spirited Measures. While the controlling and executive Part of the Revenue, and the Correspondence with the Collectors was carried on by a Council at Moorshedabad, the Members of your Administration had not an Opportunity of acquiring that thorough and comprehensive Knowledge of the Revenue, which can only result from practical Experience; but as your late Orders tend to establish a new System, enjoin many new Regulations and Enquiries, which could not properly be delegated to a subordinate Council; it became absolutely necessary that the Business of the Revenue should be conducted under our immediate Observation and Direction.

The Select Committee appointed to take into Consideration the State of the Administration of Justice in the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, and to report the same, as it shall appear to them, to the House, with their Observations thereupon; and who were instructed to consider how the British Possessions in the East Indies may be held and governed with the greatest Security and Advantage to this Country, and by what Means the Happiness of the Native Inhabitants may be best promoted;

HAVING, in the last Session of Parliament, made a Report to the House, of the Conduct of Lawrence Sullivan, Esquire, the then Chairman of the East India Company; and on the same being taken into Consideration by a Committee of the whole House, the said Committee came to sundry Resolutions; which Resolutions were afterwards, upon the Consideration of the Report thereof, agreed to by the House.

When Your Committee made that Report to the House on which those Resolutions were grounded, they were not then fully informed of the Extent of Mr. Sullivan's Neglect of his Duty as Chairman of the Court of Directors, nor of his Disrespect to a Committee of this House, in not only restraining Mr. Wilks, under Pretence of an Oath of Secrecy, from giving full Evidence to Your Committee, but limiting him to give such Evidence as must mislead Your Committee in a very essential Point of their Enquiry, and which in consequence induced them to make a Report to this House, very different from that which they should have made, but for such a Deception.

Your Committee beg Leave to observe to the House, That Twenty Months being elapsed since the Judicature Act was passed, and no Advice of its Promulgation in India having arrived, although Evidence had been given of its being sent on the 3d of August 1781; Your Committee thought it highly necessary to examine more minutely into all the Circumstances of the Transmission of that Act, by the Dispatch of the 3d of August; more particularly as the Evidence which had been given of this Dispatch, was very far from being satisfactory to Your Committee at the Time when it was given.

Your Committee directed the Secretary to the Committee of Secrecy at the India House, to lay before them, the Proceedings of the Secret Committee respecting the Dispatch of the 3d of August 1781.

Mr. Samuel Johnson, the present Clerk to the Committee of Secrecy, attending, according to Order, produced to Your Committee the following Extract, made by him from the Committee Book, of the Proceedings of the Secret Committee respecting the Dispatch of the 3d of August 1781:

" On the 27th July 1781, Lord Sandwich informed the Chairman, that Two Ships of the Line would depart for India in a few Days.

" On the 1st of August a Letter was signed by the Chairman (the Deputy Chairman being absent) to Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General of Bengal, which contained the following Paragraphs :

" On the Ship Deptford<sup>a</sup> was forwarded a Copy of the Report and Appendixes of the Select Committee, respecting the Bengal Judicature ; we now send another Copy of that Report, and of the Act passed, for your further Information."

" An Act of Parliament having also passed during the last Session; by which the Company's Charter has been prolonged for Ten Years, we transmit you Copy thereof, for your Information and Guidance, and enjoin strict Attention and Obedience thereto."

" On the Minutes of the Secret Committee of this Day, is the following Nota Bene :

" N. B. In the Duplicate Packet, dispatched to the Care of Philip Stephens, Esquire, 3d August 1781, Copies of Two Acts of Parliament were sent, but not in the Original, as they could not be procured in Time, the Regulating Act not being printed."

" Signed

" S. Wilks."

" The Packet of the 1st of August being closed, was delivered on the same Day by Mr. Wilks to One of the Clerks at the Admiralty, with a Note from the Chairman and Deputy Chairman to Mr. Stephens, requesting him to forward it by the First Opportunity.

" On the 3d of August, a Duplicate of the Packet of the 1st being prepared, the same was delivered at the Admiralty by Mr. Wilks, with a similar Note from the Chairman and Deputy Chairman to Mr. Stephens.

" By the List of this Duplicate Packet, it appears that it contained among other Things, "Copies of Two Acts of Parliament respecting the Prolongation of the Company's Charter, and the Regulation of the Bengal Judicature."

" On the 4th of August, a Note was received by the Chairman and Deputy, from Mr. Stephens, desiring to know whether the Packet delivered to him on the 3d, was intended to be sent by One of the Ships now going out, or to be kept for the next Opportunity.

" To which the Chairman and Deputy replied, by a Note written the same Day, that it was intended that the Original and Duplicate should be sent by the Ships now going out ; the Original by one Ship, and the Duplicate by another.

" On the 21st of November, the following Minute appears upon the Proceedings of the Secret Committee :

" Received back the Two Packets of the 1st and 3d of August ; and, by Order of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, wrote the following Letter to Mr. Stephens, transmitting, at the same Time, Three Enclosures to his Address :

" Sir,

" In Obedience to your Commands, signified to Mr. Richard Owen, I beg Leave to inclose Three Paper Packets to your Address, received this Day, with Two returned Packets, marked "W†R†T." which were delivered to you, by Order of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman of the East India Company, the 1st and 3d of August last.

I have the Honour to be, very respectfully,

S I R,

" East India House,

" 21st Nov' 1781.

Your most obedient, and most humble Servant,

(Signed) S. Wilks.

" Philip Stephens, Esq'.

" The Clerk requesting Instruction respecting the private Letters which were, by Permission of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, transmitted with their Packets of the 1st and 3d August, it was ordered, that Care be taken to send all such Letters, and the Packet, by the First Sea Conveyance."

" On the 4th of January 1782, the Chairman and Deputy Chairman signed a Letter to the Governor General of Bengal, which went by the Tryal Schooner ; an Extract of which is as follows :

" N. B. It was understood by the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, that the Captains of the Ships were not to be made acquainted with their real Destination at the Time of sailing ; therefore Mr Stephens was desired to give such Instructions as he should think proper to insure the safe Delivery of the Packets committed to his Care."

- " Our Governor General and Council have been informed, by our Letter of the 8th Ultimo,
 " that the Two Ships of the Line, which they had before been advised, would sail about
 " August, were at Home; by those Ships we dispatched Two Transcripts of a Letter ad" dressed to you, dated the 1st of August.
- " We have no official Account of the Names of the Two Ships in question; but we believe " them to have been the Agamemnon and Protheé. Some Time after those Ships had sailed,
 " they returned back into Port; and the 21st of November were received back from Philip
 " Stephens, Esq; the Packets which had been delivered to him to be forwarded to you. Copies " of the First and Second Reports of the Committee of Secrecy, and of the Appendix to the " Second Report, and of the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, to" gether with Five Copies of an Act, passed in the last Session of Parliament, for Prolongation
 " of the Company's Charter, and Five Copies of an Act for regulating the Bengal Judicature, " passed likewise in the last Session, were Numbers in the Packets above mentioned.
- " It was no small Concern to us to find, by the Return of these Packets, that our Endeavours
 " to communicate the above necessary Information to you so soon as possible, had been " frustrated.
- " Two Copies of the Appendix to the First Report of the Committee of Secrecy having been " sent on board the Tryal Schooner at the Close of August, in order to complete the Set " proposed to be on board the Protheé, we now forward the Packet which has been re" ceived back from Mr. Stephens; which contains the Reports, and Appendix to the Second " Report, and renders the Two Sets complete.
- " If this unforeseen Accident had not happened, the Act of Parliament which directs that the " Patna Magistrates be discharged out of Prison, would probably have been in Bengal in all
 " December at farthest; of course, the Native Magistrates, who had been imprisoned, would,
 " before this Time, have been liberated: Our Governor General and Council, and all Persons
 " acting under their Authority, would also have been relieved from the painful Apprehensions " of Inconvenience, on Account of Resistance made to the Execution of the Decrees of the " Supreme Court of Judicature. We can only repeat our extreme Concern at the un" fortunate Circumstance which has thus prevented the early Receipt of the Act of Parlia" ment at Fort William, and defeated our Intentions of affording you the necessary and
 " most speedy Information, on the Points above mentioned, in the Manner and by the Con" veyances of Two Ships of the Line, which had been ordered to sail for India at the Close " of July."

And Mr. Johnson being examined, he was asked, Whether there are any Documents on the Minutes of the Secret Committee, that shew when the Two Men of War failed? to which he said, No.—
 Being asked, Whether there is any Period between the 1st of August and the 21st of November 1781, at which it appears that they had not failed? he said, On the 6th of October the Secret Committee submitted a Plan to the Consideration of the Earl of Sandwich, in which is the following Proposition:

" That His Majesty's Ships Agamemnon and Protheé, which are under Orders to proceed to " India, shall sail to," &c. &c.

Being asked, By what Ship or Ships was the Judicature Act of Parliament, passed in the Session of 1781, sent to India? he said, per Tryal, Worcester, Calcutta, and Alfred, which sailed in February 1782, and by the Brilliant, which sailed in May 1782. The Judicature Act was sent on board the Tryal by the Court of Directors, in a Dispatch of the 29th August 1781. The Tryal sailed from Galway the 4th November 1781; put into Limerick, in Distress, the 7th November; sailed from thence 12th February 1782.—Being asked, What Dispatches were sent, by Land or Sea, from the 1st of August 1781 to the 12th of February 1782, describe each, and the respective Times of their Departure? He said, The Court of Directors Dispatches were as follow:

29th August 1781 }
 1st January 1782 } per Tryal, sailed 12th February 1782
 25th January }
 29th D<sup>o</sup> — } per Worcester, sailed in February.
 30th April—Brilliant, sailed in May.
 18th June }
 12th July } per several Ships, sailed in September.

The Secret Committee's Dispatches were as follow:

16th August }
 30th D<sup>o</sup> — } per Tryal, sailed 12th February 1782.
 6th October }
 8th December—per Tryal; and over Land by Messrs. Dunkin and Smart.
 4th January 1782—per Tryal.
 1st February 1782 } By a King's Messenger as far as Vienna, who set out 23d Fe-
 22d. As a Postscript } bruary.
 30th April—per Brilliant, sailed in May.

11th July } per several Ships in September, and by a King's Messenger 15th July.
12th D°

Being asked, Whether the Judicature Act was sent by Land to India between the 1st August 1781 and July 1782? he said, It does not appear that the Judicature Act was sent by Land to India between the 1st August 1781 and July 1782.—Being asked, When did Messrs. Dunkin and Smart leave England? he said, They signed their Receipt for their Packets on the 11th of December.—Being asked, What Persons in the Company's Service has he known to arrive from India between July 1781 to 3d August in the same Year? he said, Mr. Shakespeare delivered a Packet from Bengal on the 6th July.—Being asked, What Accounts have been received at the India House of the Patna Magistrates, since their being confined by Order of the Supreme Court of Judicature? he said, The Proceedings on the Subject, to the 25th February 1780, are already before the Committee; the Letters from Bengal, from that Time to the present, are silent thereon.

In the Appendix to the Revenue Consultations of the 6th March 1781, containing the Establishment proposed by the Committee of Revenue for the Chief of Patna, and which was approved by the Governor General and Council, is the following Article :

Law Charges.

	Sicca Rupees.
Allowance to the Family of Mufty Burket Ulla, Sicca Rupees —	— 100
D° of Golaum Muckdoom —	— 100
D° of Kauzee Saudee —	— 100
D° to Bonaum Beg, Son to Behadre Beg —	— 150
Total Law Charges per Month —	450

And in the Appendix to the Revenue Consultations of the 8th March 1782, containing the Establishment proposed for the Chief of Patna, the above Article in Law Charges is again repeated.

Your Committee having perused these Papers, must remark to the House the very different Manner in which the Committee of Secrecy mentioned the Two Acts; the Judicature Act, which, amongst other important Points, gave Relief to the Patna Magistrates, is sent for the Information of the Council General, without any Injunction of Obedience or Attention to it; but in the very next Sentence, when the Act for the Prolongation of the Charter is mentioned, then it is said to be sent, not for their Information only, but for their Guidance also, and strict Attention and Obedience is enjoined thereto.

It Report.

It appears in a former Report, that the Judicature Act passed in July 1781, and that in December 1781, Mr. Wilks, on being asked, "If he could inform the Committee, without specifying the Periods of Dispatch, how many Times Dispatches had been sent since the 16th of July?" he said, He did not think himself at Liberty to reveal how many Times the Committee of Secrecy have sent Dispatches since the 16th of July, but that he had no Objection to mentioning the Date of the First Dispatch since that Period.—And being asked, When that First Dispatch was sent? he said, The Letter was dated the 1st of August, and finally dispatched the 3d of that Month.—And being asked, That as that was the First Dispatch after the Bengal Judicature Act had passed in Parliament, was that Act transmitted by that Dispatch? he said, That Five Copies of the Regulating Act, and Five Copies of the Bengal Judicature Act, were inclosed in that Dispatch; he did not get the Acts from the Printer till the 2d; he received Six Copies of each, one he kept for Office Use, and the others he sent in that Dispatch.

"Mr. Wilks being desired to inform Your Committee of the Name of the Vessel by which he sent the Judicature Act to India, he again pleaded to the Committee, that it would be a Breach of his Oath to answer that Question. And being asked, Whether the Vessel that took that Dispatch (of the 3d of August) proceeded with it to the Tryal Sloop (then in Ireland) or to India? he said, He had no Knowledge of the Vessel that took that Dispatch having proceeded to the Tryal; and he added, that he humbly conceived, that he could not give a further Explanation to that Question. And being asked, Whether he conceived any Detriment could arise to the Company or the State, from informing a Committee of the House of Commons of the Name of a Ship, or the Dispatch of a Vessel, which sailed Six Months since with Dispatches to India? he said, Circumstanced as he is, he does conceive, that, without Instructions upon the Point in question, he was not at Liberty to judge, or to give an Opinion, whether Detriment might arise to the Company or to the State by such Disclosure. And being further asked, If the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, or either of them, assigned any Reasons why they gave him Leave to mention the Date of the Dispatch, and not the Time of the Vessel's sailing? he said, The Reasons which rendered it improper to mention the Circumstances attending that Dispatch were perfectly known to him."

Your Committee, from this, and other Evidence which had been given to them by Mr. Wilks, always understood that the Judicature Act had bona fide been sent to India by the Dispatch of the 3d of August; and they imputed the extreme Caution which in the Course of his Evidence so plainly appeared in all his Answers to this Point, to the Impression of the Oath of Secrecy he had taken; taken ; but they could not then imagine, that at the Moment he was informing the Committee of the First and only Dispatch of the Judicature Act, that he then knew the Dispatch, containing those Acts, had never been sent to India, but was actually returned to him at the India House on the 21st of November 1781.

Upon the Perusal of the Minutes of the Committee of Secrecy, Your Committee thought it highly necessary again to summon Mr. Wilks before them ; and being asked, Whether when he gave Evidence before this Committee, “ that the Judicature Bills were sent to Bengal in the Dispatch of the 3d of August,” he did not know that those Bills were never sent to India, but were returned to the East India House, from the Secretary to the Admiralty, early in the Month of November ? he said, He knew when he gave the Evidence, that the Bills had been returned to the India House, but he was not permitted to give further Explanation than what he had given. And Mr. Wilks being then asked, Who prevented him from giving that Evidence before the Committee ? he said, He believes the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James, he believes it was a Matter of Conversation between them, and he is not certain whether they did not go to Administration concerning it. And being asked, What Orders he received from the Chairman and Deputy Chairman upon this Subject ? he said, He received Instructions from Mr. Sullivan not to communicate the Channel of Conveyance. And being asked, Why, when he gave Evidence to make this Committee believe the Judicature Bills were sent on the 3d of August, he did not inform the Committee that those Bills were not sent to India, but were actually returned to the India House early in the Month of November following ? he said, He was not permitted to give that Information. And being asked, Who prevented him ? he said, The Chairman (Mr. Sullivan) ; he is sure he had the Orders from Mr. Sullivan directing him not to communicate it. The Whole of Mr. Wilks's Evidence on this Subject is inserted in the Appendix N<sup>o</sup> 1.

Mr. Sullivan having been made acquainted, by the Chairman of Your Committee, with the Evidence given by Mr. Wilks on the 7th of March 1783, respecting the Dispatch of the 3d of August 1781, and he having desired to be heard before Your Committee, attended according to Order ; and Mr. Wilks's Evidence being read to him, he was desired to inform the Committee what he had to offer to them ; to which he said, He begged Leave to observe, that upon this, and former Occasions, his Name has been singly brought forward, as giving Directions to Mr. Wilks ; but he declared, that in no Matter of any Consequence did he ever give any Order to Mr. Wilks, but what was first determined and agreed upon between Sir William James, his Deputy, and himself :—That he has now heard the Evidence of Mr. Wilks ; and upon that he now states to the Committee, That upon the first Consideration of this Subject, it was agreed and settled between Sir William James and himself, that Mr. Wilks should be permitted to mention to the Committee the Dispatch of the 3d of August ; but that he was not to say further upon the Subject, as they felt themselves in such a delicate Situation as to be under the Necessity of exercising that Caution ; and, consequently, it is true, that Mr. Wilks was not warranted to say, that the Dispatches were ever returned :—That feeling the Displeasure of this Committee fall heavy on him in particular, he thought it full Time to place the Justification of Sir William James and him in the Hands of those with whom the Secret originated : That Sir William James holding the same Opinion, they saw Lord North, the late Minister ; they stated to him their Conduct in withholding from the Select Committee every other Matter except the Dispatch of the 3d of August ; that it met with his Approbation ; and they then desired, that as this Subject would probably be agitated in the House of Commons, that his Lordship would be pleased to declare all or any Part, as he should see proper ; to which Lord North acquiesced.

Being then asked, Whether Lord North ever did desire him to give Mr. Wilks Directions to keep the Business of the Return of the Dispatch of the 3d of August a Secret from this, or any other Committee of the House of Commons ? he said, He did not ; nor is it usual or necessary for any such Intimations, because, where they are consulted, as they were in the present Instance, it naturally followed, that this was amongst many other Secrets that they were justified in concealing.—Being asked, Whether Lord North did give him any Directions of Secrecy whatsoever relative to the Return of the Dispatch of the 3d of August ? he said, He never did, nor to any Matter whatsoever that passed between the Secret Committee and the Cabinet Council.—Being asked, Whether he did consult Lord North before the Time of Mr. Wilks's first Examination before this Committee, concerning that intended Examination ? he said, He does not recollect that he did.—Being asked, Whether he did not know that Mr. Wilks's Evidence concerning the Dispatch of the 3d of August, without any Mention of its being returned to the India House, tended to impress the Minds of the Committee with an Opinion, that the Acts of Parliament sent by that Dispatch, were then actually on their Passage to India ? he said, Yes, for the Time it certainly must ; but he knew that the Whole would in a little Time turn out to be a very innocent and a justifiable Measure, which Necessity pressed them to take.—Being asked, What Danger could possibly arise to the State, if he had informed this Committee that an Act of Parliament sent on the 3d of August to India had been returned to the India House on the 21st of November ? he said, It was Matter of Opinion in the Committee of Secrecy, consisting of Sir William James and himself, that any Lights that might open to the Secret Destination of that Dispatch should be avoided, and therefore, informing this Committee of the Return of those Dispatches appeared to them improper.—Being asked, Why he did not inform the Committee, that at the Time of their Inquiry, the Act of Parliament was not sent to India by any Mode of Conveyance whatsoever ? he said, That in every Instance, except that of the Secret Dispatch, he apprehends they have given a full Answer.—Being asked, asked, Whether he imagines that any Danger could result to the State from informing this Committee in January 1782, that Dispatches which were intended to be sent on the 3d of August were returned on the 21st of November, more particularly as the Names of the Vessels were not required? he said, They were fearful that communicating the Dispatch sent, and afterwards returned, might possibly lead to a Discovery of the Ships which were intended for India, but did not proceed.—Being asked, Whether he knew that those Ships were to sail again to India? he said, He does not recollect, that he did know that.—Being asked, Whether he consulted the First Lord of the Admiralty, concerning the Danger of Mr. Wilks's giving a direct Answer about sending Acts of Parliament to India, before he instructed him upon that Subject? he said, They did not consult the First Lord of the Admiralty, or any of the Cabinet Council, with respect to the Secrecy they were to preserve, but acted upon their own Judgments.—Being asked, If the Matter upon which he desired Lord North's Opinion, subsequent to his and Mr. Wilks's Examination before this Committee, was, whether it was proper to conceal from this Committee, that an Act of Parliament which had been sent by a Sea Conveyance, did not actually go, but was returned to the India House? he said, His Memory does not serve him to speak positively, whether it did branch out into that particular Conversation.

Your Committee must observe, That Mr. Sullivan, in his Evidence, does not deny that Mr. Wilks was restricted from giving Evidence to the Committee; but he avers, that that Restriction was given as well by Sir William James as himself; and he declared to your Committee, that in no Matter of any consequence did he ever give any Order to Mr. Wilks, but what was first determined and agreed upon between Sir William James, his Deputy, and himself.

Your Committee find, That on the 4th of January 1782, the Committee of Secrecy (still being Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James) advise the Governor General and Council, that Two Ships of the Line, which they were before informed would sail about August, some Time after returned into Port, and that they received back the Acts of Parliament, &c. sent by that Conveyance: They add, "It was no small Concern to us to find, by the Return of these Packets, that our Endeavours to communicate the above necessary Information to you so soon as possible, had been frustrated. If this unforeseen Accident had not happened, the Act of Parliament which directs that the Patna Magistrates be discharged out of Prison, would probably have been in Bengal in all December at farthest; of course, the Native Magistrates, who had been imprisoned, would, before this Time have been liberated: Our Governor General and Council, and all Persons acting under their Authority, would also have been relieved from their painful Apprehensions of Inconvenience, on Account of Resistance made to the Execution of the Decrees of the Supreme Court of Judicature. We can only repeat our extreme Concern at the unfortunate Circumstance, which has thus prevented the early Receipt of the Act of Parliament at Fort William, and defeated our Intentions of affording you the necessary and most speedy Information on the Points above mentioned, in the Manner and by the Conveyances of Two Ships of the Line, which had been ordered to sail for India at the Close of July."

Your Committee think, that there cannot be a stronger Proof of the Expediency and even of the Necessity of sending, without Delay, not only the Acts of Parliament, but the Orders of the Directors for indemnifying the Patna Magistrates and others, than this very Letter of the 4th of January 1782; but Your Committee must remind the House, that this Letter was not wrote until after the Directors had been called upon by Your Committee, to lay before them the Measures they had pursued towards carrying into Execution the Judicature Act; and from the Date of this Letter it will appear, that more than Five Months elapsed before the Directors thought of sending Orders to Bengal for the Indemnification of the Patna Magistrates.

But it must be remarked, That the former Evidence given by Mr. Sullivan to Your Committee, militates directly against the Concern he expresses so strongly in the Letter of the 4th of January 1782:—He there states, "That only One single Conveyance to India had offered, since his pledging himself, with the Assent of the Directors, to indemnify and restore the Patna Magistrates. That this Conveyance was intended purposely for Secret Dispatches, but afterwards dispatched by the Court of Directors with Orders relative to the Company's Investment from Bengal;—That the Directors sent the Act of Parliament by this Vessel (the Tryal) with positive Directions to carry it into Execution;—That as this was no regular Dispatch, it did not at that Hour occur to carry into Execution the Remainder of the Orders relative to those People. And upon being questioned by Your Committee, Whether the Committee of Secrecy had sent any Advices over Land since the Agreement for Indemnification was made? he said, There had been One Dispatch. And being asked, Why was not the Act of Parliament, and the Company's Orders for indemnifying, sent by that Dispatch? he said, The Court of Directors sent no Letter by that Dispatch, and it went without their Knowledge, and he did not think, as One, that it was incumbent to send it by any Conveyance but that of Sea."

It appears to Your Committee, That the Dispatches which were sent over Land by Messrs. Dunkin and Smart, are dated the 8th of December, and their Receipt is signed the 11th.

The Date of this Dispatch is Seventeen Days after the Secretary of the Admiralty had returned the Packets to the India House; which Your Committee was made to believe were dispatched for India on the 3d of August, and but Two Days after Your Committee had directed the India Company to lay before them the Orders they had sent the Governor General and Council of Bengal for the Relief and Indemnification of the Patna Magistrates; so that Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James knew

knew when Messrs. Dunkin and Smart left England, that neither the Act of Parliament, nor any Orders from the Directors for the Relief from Prison, or the Indemnification, of the Patna Magistrates, were actually on their Passage to India, for the Tryal Sloop which sailed in all October, had returned to Ireland dismasted; and yet Mr. Sullivan (notwithstanding his Expressions of Concern in his Letter of the 4th of January 1782) did not send this Act, or any Orders, by Messrs. Dunkin and Smart; and the Reason he assigns for it is, that, as One of the Directors, he did not think it incumbent on him to send it by any Conveyance but that of Sea.

Mr. Wilks, some few Days after his Examination, having stated to the Chairman of the Committee, that he had forgot to mention a Circumstance that might be thought important in this Enquiry, and attending Your Committee according to Order, he informed them, that after his First Examination before them, having Reason to think the Committee were not satisfied with the Evidence he had given, he had drawn up a Paper, which he delivered to the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, and which was, to the best of his Recollection, nearly in Substance the same as that which he then delivered in to the Committee.

Mr. Wilks then delivered in the Paper mentioned by him; which is as follows:

“ That the Committee’s Packet of the 3d of August, containing Copies of the Act of Parliament relative to the Bengal Judicature, sent to the Secretary of the Admiralty, to be forwarded to the Governor General of Bengal, by a secret Dispatch of Two of His Majesty’s Ships, then on the Point of Departure for the East Indies, being received back from the Admiralty in consequence of the King’s Ships having been prevented from pursuing their intended Voyage to India;”

“ Quere,

“ Is it proper to communicate the above Circumstances to a Committee of Parliament ?”

Mr. Wilks being then asked, What Answer he received to his Quere? he said, The Chairman and Deputy Chairman informed him, that it was not proper to communicate this Intelligence without consulting the King’s Ministers; and his Orders were, not to acquaint the Committee of the Dispatch being received back from the Admiralty.—Being asked, Whether he had those Orders in Writing? he said, No.—Being asked, Whether it was not his Custom to enter on the Minutes of the Committee of Secrecy, all Papers whatsoever that had any Reference to the Subject of Deliberation? he said, Yes.—Being asked, Whether this Paper and the Quere were so entered? he said, No.—Being asked, Why it was not entered? he said, It did not occur to him as a Paper necessary to be entered.—Being asked, When he was ordered not to give Evidence to a Committee of the House, on certain Points, the Object of their Inquiry, but to give a partial Evidence, which he knew would mislead the Committee, whether he did not think it necessary to have some Record to prove at least that he had received such Orders from the Chairman and Deputy? he said, It did not occur to him that it was necessary; he supposed they would avow the Orders they had given him.

Your Committee not being yet satisfied with the Evidence of Mr. Wilks, directed Mr. Johnson, Secretary to the Committee of Secrecy at the East India House, to produce the rough Minutes of their Proceedings of the 1st and 3d August, and all other Papers that had Relation to the Transmission of the Acts of Parliament by the Dispatch of the 3d of August.

Mr. Johnson accordingly produced the following Papers:

“ Original List of Packet, dated the 1st August.

“ Duplicate List of Packet, dated the 3d August.

“ Foul Draft of the Letter from the Committee of Secrecy to the Governor General, dated the 1st August 1781.

“ Original Letter of the 1st August 1781, signed by Laurence Sullivan, Chairman.”

Upon a careful and accurate Examination of these Records, Your Committee entertained Suspicions, from the Manner of blotting out and effacing, so unusual and so unnecessary, when nothing more than a mere Alteration of Words was to take place. They thought they could discover the Meaning of a whole Sentence to have been perverted, so as to convey a Construction totally different by the Alteration of Two or Three Words; and when they recollected the extreme Reluctance with which Mr. Wilks delivered his former Evidence, and that whenever he was closely pressed to any Point of real Information as to the Dispatch of the 3d of August, that he had always taken Shelter under the official Oath of preserving the Company’s Secrets; Your Committee once more ordered Mr. Wilks to appear before them; and, in order to afford the House the best Materials whercon to form their Judgment, Your Committee have entered his Examination verbatim, as follows:

Do you know of any Alteration of any Record that was under your Custody, relative to the Transmission of the Judicature Act of Parliament which passed in July 1781, to India?

The Letter, I believe, was altered, and the Addition was made to the List of the Packet.

By whose Orders?

There were no Orders given for it; there was an Error in the Paragraph relative to the Acts of Parliament.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the foul Copy of the Letter of the 1st of August 1781, and the Alteration in the Fourth Page of the First Sheet, he acknowledges, that under the words Act passed, the Word Appendixes stood originally; and that the Word Information was wrote instead of the Word Accommodation, as it stood originally; and he said, that the Alterations were made by him, and are in his Hand Writing; and that the blotted Part below, he believes, contained the very same Words that stand inserted above.

If that Obliteration contained the very Words as they now stand inserted, Why were they so effectually blotted out, as to be totally illegible?

I recollect no Reason for it; I believe them to be the same Words as those inserted.

The next Paragraph being then read to Mr. Wilks, he was asked, Who made all the Blots in that Draft?

He said, I did.

What was contained in the Blot that appears before the Words an Act of Parliament, which now begins that Paragraph?

I do not know.

Who made that Blot?

I believe I did.

Why did you make it?

I do not recollect why.

Why was the Pen drawn through the Words an Act, and the same Words inserted above, in your own Hand Writing?

I recollect no Reason; the Blot after the Word having in the same Paragraph, covered the Word also, and the Blot over which the Word also stands, covers the Word being.

What was contained in the blotted Line, being the Line above the last in the Page?

I cannot tell.

What was contained in the Blot in the last Line after the Word you?

I apprehend it to have been a Figure of 5.

What was contained in the Blot next after that Figure?

I cannot tell.

What does it stand now; is it Copy or Copies?

I really cannot tell.

Did not you make it?

I did.

Then the last Paragraph of that Letter being shewn to Mr. Wilks, he was asked, What Word was contained in the Blot in that Paragraph after the Word this?

The Word Intelligence.

What was the Word that was erased above that Blot?

The Word Information.

Why was Intelligence first blotted out to introduce Information, and Information afterwards erased to introduce Intelligence again?

I suppose I thought Information a better Word, but upon observing the Word Information just above, that I re-inserted the Word Intelligence.

Why was the Word Intelligence carefully and effectually blotted out, and the Word Information only with the Pen run through it?

I cannot tell.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the Paragraph in the Third Page, was asked, What was under the Blot at the Beginning of the Third Paragraph?

They seem to me to be the same Words as are inserted above, you must take special Care that.

What was under the Blot in the First Side, at the Beginning of the last Line but One?

The same as inserted above, must. I also apprehend the Words that were contained in the Obliteration in the Second Page, co-operate effectually, to have been the same Words as are inserted above.

What Reason had you for blotting out all those Words?

As they were all the same, I cannot tell.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the List of the Packet, was asked, Who wrote the List of Packet dated 3d August 1781?

My Son William Moreton Wilks, except the Paragraph N<sup>o</sup> 7. at the Top of the 2d Page, and the Alterations, which were written by myself.

Who scratched out the Figure 7, at the Bottom of the First Page of that List of Packet?

I believe I did.

Why did you do it?

I apprehend it was to introduce N<sup>o</sup> 7. on the other Side of the Sheet.

Is it usual in making Lists of Packets to be sent to India, to interline the List, or is it usual to add it at the Bottom, where there is any new Matter to be added to it?

This was a List of Packet intended to be sent to India, but was rendered unfit by the Alterations made in it.

What was under the Erasure of the Words of Parliament, in the First Line of the 2d Side?

The Words on the, which were afterwards introduced at the Beginning of the Second Line.

Why

Why were the Words of Parliament put at the End of the First Line?
As descriptive of the Committee mentioned in the Paragraph.

Then why was that Description obliterated?
I do not recollect.

Being asked, How the 10th and 11th Articles of the List of Packet stood in the Original?
It stood Copies of Acts of Parliament.

Was all the rest written afterwards?

Yes, except the Signature of my Name for Authentication, which was written previous to the Addition.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the List of Packet of the 1st of August, was asked, What was under the Blot in the First Side of that List?

I cannot tell.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the Nota Bene at the End of the List, was asked, How did the Words Copies of Two Acts of Parliament stand in the Original?
It stood Copies of an Act of Parliament.

Why did you make that Alteration, from Copies of an Act of Parliament to Copies of Two Acts of Parliament?

Upon opening the Packet received back from Mr. Stephens, I found Five Copies of each Act: I made the Alteration in consequence.

At what Period of Time did you make that Alteration?

It was about the Time of the Receipt of the Committee's Order to enquire into what had been done respecting the Patna Magistrates, or about the Time of Mr. Sullivan's Examination.

Were all the Alterations in the Lists of Packets, and in the Letters, made at the same Time?

To the best of my Knowledge they were.

The intended Dispatch by the Men of War being of a secret Nature, and you being Secretary to the Committee of Secrecy, was it not your Custom to sign the List of Packet?

It was.

Must you not have known if any Thing was sent in that Packet?

I made the Packet up myself.

As you made up the Packet, did you know that the Judicature Acts of Parliament were sent in that Dispatch to India before you opened the Packet which was returned from the Admiralty to the India House?

Until I opened the Packet which was returned, I was not certain of it.

What Inducement had you to alter the Records of the India Company committed to your Trust?

I found that I had been guilty of a very great Error in not stating in the Letter the Particulars respecting the Judicature Act; and as the Acts were really sent by that Conveyance, I made the Alterations in the Letters and Packets which rendered them what they ought to have been before. I called upon Mr. Sullivan, and told him the Judicature Acts had been sent; he knew the Packets were come back; he directed me to bring the Letter, which I did, before there was any Alteration made in it; he said he observed there was no Mention made of the Judicature Act in the Letter. This is the Substance of what passed between us.—I made the Alterations without any Instructions from any Person:—My Inducement to make the Alterations was to have it known, that the Bengal Judicature Acts were sent; and therefore I took that most unwarrantable Step to cover such Design.

Where you had received no Orders to transmit those Acts of Parliament, and consequently no Blame could be imputed to you, why should you think it necessary to take such (as you call it) an unwarrantable Measure, that of altering the Company's Records?

I really did conceive, that my Negligence in wording the Draft of the Letter had involved the Chairman in much Distress.

Did you omit any Part of what you had Orders to insert in that Letter?

Certainly not.

How long had the returned Packet from Mr. Stephens been in your Possession before you opened it?

From the 21st of November till after the Receipt of the Order of this Committee to enquire into what had been done respecting the Patna Magistrates.

Why did it occur to you to open the Packet that you had had in your Possession near Three Weeks, just at the precise Time that an Order from this Committee, to enquire into the Relief given to the Patna Magistrates was sent to the India House, when, by a Reference to the Minutes of your Committee of Secrecy, you could always know the true Contents of that Packet?

I opened it at that Time, because I had an Idea that the Judicature Acts were in it, though not mentioned in the Letter to the Governor General.

Mr. Wilks being then shewn the original Letter, signed "Laurence Sullivan, Chairman," directed to Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General of Bengal, dated London, 1st August 1781; he was asked, Was this original Letter ever sent to India?

It is the very Paper that went in the Packet of the 1st of August.

Did you alter that Record after its being returned to the India House?

Yes; I did;—and he then pointed out to the Committee the Alterations made by him in that original Letter.

N. B. This Order was dated the 6th Dec 1781.

Vide Original Letter, Appendix, No 2.

Why

Why did you not make these Alterations previous to your Conversation with Mr. Sullivan ?

It was upon Mr. Sullivan's Observation, that there was not a Word about the Judicature Act in the Letter, that caused me to see the Impropriety of having sent such a Letter, when the Acts had really been sent, and struck me with the unhappy Idea of making those Alterations.

Why did you shew to Mr. Sullivan a Letter which, as you have stated, tended to bring Blame upon yourself ?

When I went to Mr. Sullivan, and told him the Acts were sent, he ordered me to bring the Letter.

Why did you not shew the Papers, after the Alterations were made, to Mr. Sullivan ?

I did not do it.

Your Committee, for the further Satisfaction of the House, have, in the Appendix N<sup>o</sup> 2, inserted the rough Draft of the Letter from Mr. Sullivan to Warren Hastings, Esquire, the Governor General of Bengal, with the Obliterations and Alterations mentioned in Mr. Wilks's Evidence; also the original Letter, signed by Mr. Sullivan, with the Erasures and Alterations, also mentioned in Mr. Wilks's Evidence; and also the Two Draft Lists of Packet of the 1st and 3<sup>d</sup> of August, with the Erasures, Obliterations, and Alterations, also mentioned in Mr. Wilks's Evidence.

Your Committee must remark, That in the Secret Committee's Minute Book, the List of Packet of the 3<sup>d</sup> August 1781, is entered, and it agrees exactly with the rough Draft of the same List, as altered by Mr. Wilks, and which Mr. Wilks declared was not altered until the Month of December 1781.

The fair Copy of the Letter of the 3<sup>d</sup> August 1781, corresponds with the Alteration of that Record made by Mr. Wilks in December 1781, so that it is evident that the Minute Book of the Committee of Secrecy, or Part of it, must have been wrote over again, in order to make it correspond with the Alterations of the Records; and to prevent any Appearances of Erasure or Alteration.

Your Committee must observe in this last Evidence of Mr. Wilks, he has acknowledged the Alteration of Records, but alledges, in Mitigation of his Offence, that he made those Alterations that the Records might correspond with the State of the Fact, namely, that of the actual Transmision of the Statutes in question by the Dispatch of the 3<sup>d</sup> of August. Your Committee thought it expedient to enquire how far the State of the Fact corresponded with those Alterations in the Records; and accordingly examined Mr. Owen, whose Evidence is as follows :

Mr. Richard Owen attending, according to Order, was asked, In what Employment he is? he said, He is a Clerk in the East India Company's Secretary's Office.—Being asked, Whether he brought any Packet from the Admiralty to the India House, on or about the 21st of November 1781? he said, He brought a Packet from the Admiralty he thinks about that Time.—Being asked, Whether he was at any Time called upon by Mr. Wilks, to see a Packet opened by him? he said, He was.—Being asked, About what Time? he said, About the latter End of the Year 1781, or the Beginning of the Year 1782.—Being then asked to relate the Conversation Mr. Wilks had with him upon that Occasion, he said, Mr. Wilks came into the Secretary's Office where he was employed, and desired him to go with him; he went with him into his own Office; there he saw a Deal Box nailed down. Mr. Wilks opened the Box, and took out several Agreement and Judicature Acts of Parliament; Mr. Wilks desired him to take Notice that those Acts were in the Box, observing to him that he might be called upon to prove the Acts being there.—Being asked, Whether the Packet he saw opened by Mr. Wilks, was the same he brought from the Admiralty? he said, He does not believe it was.—Being asked, Whether the Packet he saw opened by Mr. Wilks, had the same Appearance as a Packet made up in the Secretary's Office usually has, when delivered from that Office? he said, Certainly not; because it is usual when Box Packets are made up from the Secretary's Office to be sent to the East Indies, to cover the same with Canvas, to seal them with the Company's Seal, and to nail a Direction upon the Box.—Being asked, Whether he was ever called upon before or since to be present at the Opening of any Packet? he said, He believes not.—Being asked, In what Part of the Box those Acts of Parliament appeared upon the Opening of it? he said, He believes at or near the Top of the Box.—Being asked, Whether the Nature of his Employ at the India House, leads him to any Intercourse in Business with Mr. Wilks? he said, He has frequently been ordered by the Secretary at the India House, to follow any Instructions he might receive from Mr. Wilks.—Being then asked, When Mr. Wilks desired him to take particular Notice, that those Acts of Parliament were then taken out of that Box, assigning as a Reason, that he might be called upon to give Evidence upon this Point, what was his Opinion of the Transaction? he said, It was his Opinion, that it was a Packet intended to have been sent to India, but had been returned to the India House.—Being asked, Whether the Box opened by Mr. Wilks appeared to be of the same Size as that which he brought from the Admiralty? he said, It did not; the Packet he brought from the Admiralty was larger than that opened by Mr. Wilks.—Being asked, Whether he made any Memorandum upon the Subject of Mr. Wilks's Caution to him? he said, he did; He has made diligent Search for it, but cannot find it; he remembers having noticed some Letters wrote upon the Box W R T.—Being asked, Whether he has had any Conversation with Mr. Wilks on this Subject since the the Transaction? he said, He believes not till this Morning : Mr. Wilks sent to him this Morning desiring he would call upon him; he called upon him; and Mr. Wilks said, Having received a Paper (which the Witness then delivered to the Committee) being a Bill of Mr. Strahan, the King's Printer, he thought it right to return it to him, and desired he would lay it before this Committee: After this Mr. Wilks entered into Conversation with him relative to the Box he brought from the Admiralty, and the one he saw opened in his Office, and asked him if he remembered seeing the Box opened that he brought from the Admiralty? he told him he did not see that Box opened, nor did he know what it contained: He observed to Mr. Wilks, that he remembered seeing him open a Box in his Office, and taking out several Agreement and Judicature Acts of Parliament; and he further mentioned to Mr. Wilks, that he had made a Memorandum on the Subject, but he could not find it. Mr. Wilks said, he thought that he the Witness had noticed in Writing the Time of the Box being opened, whilst he was in his Office. He told Mr. Wilks he did not recollect having made the Memorandum in his Office, but he did recollect that he had made a Memorandum: He mentioned to Mr. Wilks that he thought the Box was marked W R T, and asked him if it was marked so; to which, he thinks, he replied it was.

Being asked whether he has had any Conversation relative to this Matter with any other Person? he said, Previous to his attending the Committee Yesterday, Mr. Sullivan being at the India House, sent for him to come to him into a private Room. Mr. Sullivan mentioned, that he understood from Mr. Wilks, that he had some Knowledge of the Packet which was returned from the Admiralty, and also of the Packet which was opened by Mr. Wilks, and which contained the Acts of Parliament: He then informed Mr. Sullivan generally what he has stated to the Committee respecting the Two Boxes. Mr. Sullivan asked him, If he knew whether the Packet which he brought from the Admiralty was the same that he saw opened in Mr. Wilks's Office? he told him, He did not believe it was. Mr. Sullivan said, That he understood from Mr. Wilks, that when the Packet was opened there was a Memorandum made, and that Mr. Wilks and he, the Witness, had both signed their Names to it. He told him, No; he had made a Memorandum of the Circumstance, but that he could not find the Paper.—Being asked, Whether those Acts of Parliament that he saw taken out of the Box were bound in marbled Paper? he said, They were not.—Being asked, Whether he was restrained by Mr. Wilks, in any Manner or Degree, from communicating the Circumstance of opening this Box? he said, He does not recollect that he was.

The Records of the Committee of Secrecy prove, that Mr. Wilks was in Possession of the Packet from the Admiralty on the 21st of November, and his own Evidence endeavours to prove, that this Packet so returned was not opened until he called upon Mr. Owen to be present: Mr. Wilks does not state the precise Day; but says, it must be after the Order was sent from this Committee to the Court of Directors, to enquire what had been done respecting the Patna Magistrates; that was the 6th December 1781, and Mr. Owen's Evidence confirms it as to the Point of Time.

It appears by a Letter from Captain Caldwell, Commander of His Majesty's Ship Agamemnon, dated Spithead, 10th November 1781, (Appendix N<sup>o</sup>. 3,) that upon Receipt of the Orders of Mr. Stephens, Secretary to the Admiralty, he returned the Company's Packets in a Box, which was made by his Orders expressly for that Purpose; this Box was sent to Mr. Stephens; and it appears by the Proceedings of the Committee of Secrecy, that Mr. Stephens sent this Box to the India House by Mr. Owen, desiring that the Packets belonging to the Admiralty might be returned. The Receipt of this Box is acknowledged by Mr. Wilks on the 21st November, and in the same Letter he mentions to Mr. Stephens, the Return of Three Paper Packets to his Address, which were that Day received, with Two returned Packets, marked W. R. T. sent to him by Order of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman of the East India Company on the 1st and 3d August; consequently Mr. Wilks must have opened the Box brought by Mr. Owen from the Admiralty on the 21st November.

It also appears from Mr. Owen's positive Evidence, that the Box which he saw opened, was not the Box he brought from the Admiralty; nor does it appear to be one of the Packets sent by Mr. Wilks, on the 3d August, because it had not any of the Properties of a Packet, such as is usually made up for Dispatches to India in the Secretary's Office, not covered with Canvas, nor sealed, but a plain Deal Box. And in Mr. Stephens's Letter to Captain Caldwell, of the 4th August, (Appendix N<sup>o</sup>. 4,) the Packet which he sends from the Secret Committee of the East India Company, is described to be a large sealed Packet, marked W. † R. † T.

Your Committee cannot avoid remarking, that Mr. Wilks, by his own Evidence, has given much Ground for Suspicion. He has stated, That the Packet had been more than a Fortnight in his Possession; that he did not know what was in the Packet until he had opened it, although he himself had made and signed the List of Packet, yet he sends for Mr. Owen, to be present at the Opening of this Box, in order that he might be a Witness to Papers which were found in it when so opened, and which Papers were not specified in the List of Packet.

Your Committee must now state to the House, not only the Prevarication but the positive Contradiction in the Evidence of Mr. Wilks.

" He had given Evidence to Your Committee, That he had received Orders from Mr. Sullivan, the Chairman of the India Company, to transmit the Judicature Acts by the Dispatch of the 3d August.

" That the Acts were mentioned in the Advices sent by that Dispatch.

“ That he recollects the Close of One Paragraph in the Letter of the 3d August, enjoining strict Obedience thereto.

“ That he does not positively recollect whether Orders were given in a Committee (of Secrecy) to transmit the Acts of Parliament lately passed, or whether by the Chairman alone; but he would not have transmitted those Acts on his own Authority, much less would he have inserted a Paragraph in a Letter signed by the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, which mentioned those Acts of Parliament.

“ That he is authorized by the Committee of Secrecy to inform this Committee of that Part of the Dispatch which mentioned the Acts of Parliament.

“ That the Chairman of the East India Company certainly knew of the Transmission of the Judicature Act by the Dispatch of the 3d August.”

Mr. Wilks has now acknowledged to Your Committee, That he has altered the Company's Records; and, not only from his own Confession, but from the Alterations on the Records, it evidently appears, that no Mention whatsoever had been made in the Letter of the 3d August 1781, of the Transmission of the Judicature Act, so that the Evidence he had before given to this Committee relative to the Orders for the Transmission of this Act, appears to be a complete and absolute Falshood.

Your Committee must remark, That Mr. Sullivan, in Exculpation of himself, states in his Evidence, “ That since the passing of the Act, and his pledging himself those Orders should go, there has not been a single Conveyance to India, except a small Vessel (the Tryal Sloop) intended purposely for secret Dispatches.

“ That no Vessel has been sent from this Country to India since the passing of the Act of Judicature (to December 1781.)

“ That as the Dispatch of the 29th August was no regular Dispatch, it did not at that Hour occur to carry into Execution the Remainder of the Orders relative to those People (the Patna Magistrates.)”

But it must be remarked, that the Dispatches of the 3d August, sent by the Agamemnon and Prothée, did actually sail for India, and had on board Packets from the Company.

Mr. Wilks appears to be so sensible of this, that he has altered the Company's Records, to prove, that there were Orders sent to India by this Conveyance. Mr. Sullivan, in his Evidence, takes no Notice of this Conveyance to India, although by those Men of War he had sent a Packet of such Importance, that, by Instructions from the Secretary of the Admiralty to the Captain of the Agamemnon, it was ordered to be thrown overboard in case of Necessity, to prevent its falling into the Hands of the Enemy.

Your Committee, therefore, think that Mr. Sullivan's Evidence was not founded on Fact, and had a natural Tendency to make your Committee believe, that no other Vessel (but the Tryal Sloop) had been dispatched to India since the passing of the Act of Parliament.

Your Committee thought proper to call upon Mr. Thomas Moreton, First Clerk of the Secretary's Office, to enquire of him, whether the Dispatch of the 29th August 1781, was a regular Dispatch to India; who being asked, If he remembers the Dispatch to India of the 29th of August 1781? he said, Yes.—Being asked, Whether it was a Dispatch on a particular Point only, or a regular Dispatch to all the Settlements of India? he said, It was a regular Dispatch; there was a General Letter to Bengal, wrote on various Subjects; there were General Letters to Madras and Bombay also.

Your Committee must remark, that Mr. Sullivan has attempted to apologize for a great Omission of his Duty, by a Declaration, that the Dispatch of the 29th August 1781, was not a regular Dispatch; and that Mr. Moreton has proved it to be not only a regular, but a general Dispatch, for it contained a General Letter from the Court of Directors to Bengal on various Subjects, as also General Letters to Bombay and Madras.

Your Committee must state to the House, that after Mr. Sullivan's First Examination before them, they thought it necessary to direct, that the proper Officer at the East India House do lay before this Committee, a Copy of the Order sent to the East Indies by the Dispatch of the 1st August 1781, relative to the Transmission of the Judicature Act, passed in the last Session of Parliament.

This Order was complied with on the 26th of December 1781.

In Mr. Wilks's Evidence, it appears that the Alterations he made in the Company's Records was betwixt the 7th and 22d December 1781.

From the Evidence of Mr. Robert William Fitzhugh, one of the Clerks from the India House, who attends this Committee, as also of Mr. Johnson, Secretary to the Committee of Secrecy, it appears, that it is the constant Usage at the India House, when Orders are sent from a Committee of the House of Commons for any Papers, or Copies of Papers, that the proper Officer waits upon the Chairman or Deputy Chairman of the India Company, to receive Instructions; and that the Orders so received from from a Committee of this House, are read and minuted by the Court of Directors at their next Meeting.

The Letter to Bengal of the 3d August, was in the Department of the Committee of Secrecy; Mr. Wilks must therefore have received the Orders of the Chairman, Mr. Sullivan, or his Deputy, before he could send the Extract to this Committee, relative to the Transmission of the Judicature Act.

Upon this Point Your Committee must remark, that in Mr. Wilks's Evidence it is stated, that he shewed the Letter of the 3d August, after it was returned from the Admiralty, and before any Alterations were made in it, to Mr. Sullivan; who observed to him, that there was no Mention made of the Judicature Act in the Letter; so that it is evident the Chairman, Mr. Sullivan, or his Deputy, Sir William James, or both, must have given Permission to the fictitious Paragraph of the Letter of the 3d August being presented to Your Committee as the real Paragraph of the Letter of the Committee of Secrecy of that Date, and that notwithstanding Mr. Sullivan had signed the original Letter of 3d August.

It becomes necessary for Your Committee to inform the House, that whilst they had under their Deliberation such Resolutions as were fitting and proper for them to offer to the Consideration of the House, on the Matter contained in their First Report, they thought it necessary to examine Sir William James, a Member of their Committee; and he in his Evidence declaring, he certainly never gave any Orders or Opinions to Mr. Wilks, not to give Information to this Committee that he was present at a Conversation between the Chairman and Mr. Wilks, when the Matter of the Dispatch of the 3d of August was talked over; and without meaning the least possible Disrespect to this Committee, or to dispute its Authority, and not knowing what had passed in the Committee with respect to Mr. Wilks's Answers, he acquiesced in an Idea, that it was improper to mention the Circumstances of that Dispatch, as it had been confidentially committed to them by the Cabinet as a Secret of State; and he did not think the Committee, under such Circumstances, would insist on its being revealed.—This Evidence is inserted at large in the Appendix, N° 5. but could not be inserted in the former Report of the Committee on this Subject, not having been given until some Time after that Report was delivered to the House.

Mr. Sullivan points out to the Committee, that upon this, and former Occasions, his Name has been singly brought forward, as giving Directions to Mr. Wilks; but he declared, that in no Matter of any Consequence did he ever give any Orders to Mr. Wilks, but what was first determined and agreed upon between Sir William James (who was then his Deputy) and himself.

Mr. Wilks has given Evidence, that after his First Examination before Your Committee, thinking it necessary to have clear Instructions for his Conduct, he delivered in a Paper to Sir William James, and submitted to him a Query, "Whether it was proper for him to communicate the Circumstances mentioned in that Paper, to a Committee of Parliament."

It does not appear to your Committee, that there was any Difference of Opinion betwixt Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James, concerning the Instructions they should give to Mr. Wilks, on the Subject of the Dispatch of the 3d August.

Sir William James, a Member of Your Committee, being present, that Part of Mr. Sullivan's Evidence which respected him, was read; he was then asked, Why, being a Member of this Committee, and knowing that the Evidence given by Mr. Wilks of the 3d of August 1781, was fallacious, and intended to convince the Committee, that the Act of Judicature for the Relief of the Patna Magistrates was sent on that Day, when, as Deputy Chairman of the East India Company, he knew they were returned to the India House on the 21st of November, he did not think it necessary to give the Committee that Information? he said, In his former Evidence he has stated exactly what he considered, respecting the Circumstances of that Dispatch, as prudent to be kept secret; he did not then exactly recollect what Mr. Wilks's Evidence was, not having been able to attend this Committee so often as he could wish.—Being asked, If he imagines that any Danger could result to the State from informing this Committee in January 1782, that Dispatches, which were intended to be sent to India on the 3d of August, were returned on the 21st of November, more particularly as the Names of the Vessels were not required? he said, He could conceive no other Danger to the State than that it would have let the Enemy know the Method by which they had intended to re-inforce the Fleet in India.—Being asked, Whether he, as a Member of this Committee, did think it proper that the Committee should remain misled respecting the Dispatches of the 3d of August? he said, Certainly he did not think it necessary, nor would he on any Account be accessory to the misleading the Committee; he did not particularly attend to Mr. Wilks's Evidence, nor did he consider it in that Light.

Vide 1st Report.

This Examination of Sir William James was taken previous to the Discovery of the Alteration of the Company's Records: It appears by his Evidence, that the Circumstances of the Dispatch of the 3d August were withheld from Your Committee under an Idea that it was a Cabinet Secret; but from Mr. Wilks's last Examination, and from a Comparison of all those Circumstances, Your Committee mittee are strongly induced to believe, that the Matters were withheld for the Purpose of covering a Neglect of Duty.

Your Committee must remark, that this Transaction, which, for Reasons of State, was to be kept a profound Secret from Your Committee, was communicated in Part by Mr. Wilks to Mr. Owen, a Clerk in the India House, but not in his Office: So those Circumstances which Your Committee were not permitted to know, namely, the Return of the Packet of the 3d August, was known to Mr. Owen, who was fixed upon to be present when it was opened, because he might be hereafter called upon to authenticate some Matter relative to it.

Your Committee, when they moved those Resolutions which were afterwards agreed to by the House, did not include Sir William James's Name in those Resolutions; for, although they did not consider him as totally free from Blame, yet they did not consider him in any Degree so culpable as Mr. Sullivan.

But Your Committee must now state to the House, that, besides his Restriction upon Mr. Wilks not to give Evidence to this Committee on certain Points, Your Committee find that Sir William James, one of their own Members, permitted, without any Explanation on his Part, the Evidence of Mr. Wilks to mislead Your Committee, and in consequence to make this House believe, from their Report, that to be a Matter of Fact, which has appeared to be the direct Reverse; namely, that the Judicature Act was not on its Passage to India by the Agamemnon and Prothée, although stated by Mr. Wilks to have been so dispatched on the 3d of August; and Sir William James ought, in his official Capacity, to have known, that at the very Time this Evidence was given, which was near Six Months after the Act had passed, that it was not then actually on its Way (the Tryal being returned) either by Land or Sea; and yet on the 11th of December, when the Dispatches were sent over Land, by Messieurs Dunkin and Smart, neither the Act, nor any Orders for the Relief of the Magistrates from Prison, did form any Part of that Dispatch.

Sir William James has stated in his Evidence, that he did not exactly recollect what Mr. Wilks's Evidence was, not having been able to attend this Committee so often as he could wish.

Your Committee having referred to their Minute Book, they find the following Entry of the 31st of January 1782.

“ Richard Smith, Esquire, in the Chair;

“ P R E S E N T,

“ Sir William James,
“ Mr. Pitt,
“ Mr. Pelham,
“ Mr. Boughton Rouse,
“ Mr. Long,
“ Mr. Burke.

“ Committee proceed further in settling their Report.

“ Mr. Wilks's Evidence again read.

“ Committee deliberate.”

So that it appears, that Sir William James was present at the Deliberation on the Report to be made to the House; on which Occasion the Evidence of Mr. Wilks was again read.

Your Committee must observe, that it appears to them, that a fair Copy of the Letter of the 1st August has been converted into a foul Copy; and that some Signature had been made to that Letter, which has been since erased. The Names of Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James are wrote over the Erasure by Mr. Wilks, intending to convey the Idea that the fair Copy of this Letter was signed by those Persons. Sir William James does not recollect having signed that Letter, and the Office Indorsement on the Back of it seems to confirm that Assertion, being as follows:

“ 1st August 1781.

“ Letter from the Chairman to the Governor General of Bengal.”

Your Committee will close this Report, with observing, That the Act of Parliament which released the Patna Magistrates, &c. from Prison, passed the 18th of July 1781, and the Orders for the Indemnification for their Losses, and for Restoration to their former Offices (which was agreed to by the Company) ought to have been sent with the Act as soon as possible—That the Act was not sent by Sea until the latter End of October, by the Tryal—That this Vessel being dismasted, returned returned to Ireland, and did not ultimately sail from thence till February; that it was only when the Tryal failed in February, that the Directors sent their Orders for the Payment of the Indemnification, and for the Restoration of the Patna Magistrates to their former Offices; and that this Order was sent in consequence of Instructions from your Committee, for the Directors to lay before them their Proceedings on this Subject. That neither the Act, nor any Orders relative to it, were sent by any Land Conveyance whatever, notwithstanding that other Dispatches were sent by Land, particularly by Messieurs Dunkin and Smart, who arrived at Bombay on the 20th of May last; and finally, that although it is now upwards of Twenty Months since the Act was passed, no Account of its being arrived at Bengal has yet been received by the India Company.

John Ibbetson, Esquire, Deputy Secretary at the Admiralty Office, attending according to Order, was asked, Whether he knows, if the Packets which were sent by the East India Company to the Admiralty, to be forwarded by the Agamemnon and Prothée, were covered with Paper or Canvas; and if sealed? he said, He really cannot tell whether they were covered with Paper or with Canvas, but they were covered and sealed; the latter is expressed in the Letter from the Secretary of the Admiralty to the Captain of the Agamemnon: He cannot pretend to speak with Certainty at this Distance of Time, but from the Conversation he has had with Mr. Stephens, and his own Recollection, he is rather inclined to think they were covered with Canvas. And being asked, Whether those Packets were made up in separate Boxes, or only contained in a Paper or Canvas Covering? he said, It is impossible to answer this, as they were covered; but they appeared to be made up in Boxes, or something else very strong and stiff.

MR. Samuel Wilks attending according to Order, was asked, Whether he did not know when he gave Evidence before this Committee, that the Judicature Bills were sent to Bengal in the Dispatch of the 3d of August, that those Bills never were sent to India, but were returned to the East India House from the Secretary to the Admiralty, early in the Month of November? he said, He knew when he gave the Evidence that the Bills had been returned to the India House, but he was not permitted to give further Explanation than what he had given.—Being asked, Who prevented him from giving that Evidence before this Committee? he said, He believes the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, Mr. Sullivan and Sir William James; he believes it was a Matter of Consultation between them, and he is not certain whether they did not go up to Administration concerning it.—Being asked, What Orders he received from the Chairman and Deputy Chairman, upon this Subject? he said, He received Instructions from Mr. Sullivan, not to communicate the Channel of Conveyance.—Being asked, Why, when he gave Evidence to make this Committee believe that the Judicature Acts were sent on the 3d of August, he did not inform the Committee that those Acts were not sent to India, but were actually returned to the India House early in the Month of November following? he said, He was not permitted to give that Information.—Being asked, Who prevented him? he said, The Chairman, Mr. Sullivan; he is sure he had the Order from Mr. Sullivan, directing him not to communicate it.—Being asked, Whether he assigned any Reasons to him why he should not communicate it? he said, He does not recollect the Particulars of the Conversation.—Being asked, Whether he made no Remonstrance to him upon the Danger of his prevaricating before a Committee of the House of Commons? he said, He believes he did not make any Remonstrance at all; it did not occur to him at the Time as a Prevarication.—Being asked, Whether at the Time he gave Evidence to this Committee on the 20th of December 1781, when he stated the Judicature Act to be sent to India by the Dispatch of the 3d of August, he knew that any Judicature Act, or any Orders upon that Subject, were actually on their Passage to India? he said, To the best of his Recollection, he did not know that there was.—Being asked, If he knew whether the Judicature Act, which was passed in July 1781, was actually sent to India before the 12th of February 1782? he said, He does not know that it was.—Being asked, Whether if it had been sent from his Department, he should not have known of it? he said, If the Committee of Secrecy had sent it, he certainly should.

Vide 1st Report of last Session.

Then Mr. Samuel Johnson, the present Clerk to the Committee of Secrecy, attending according to Order, produced to Your Committee, the Book of the Minutes of the Committee of Secrecy at the East India House.

And the Proceedings of that Committee of the 1st of August being read, and being shewn to Mr. Wilks, he was asked, Why in the Minutes of the 1st of August, there is a Nota Bene, dated the 3d of August 1781, relative to the Transmission of the Copies of the Judicature Act of Parliament? he said, This Nota Bene must have been added afterwards, no Doubt.—Being asked, Whether it is usual in the Proceedings of the Committee of Secrecy at the East India House, to insert Matters of a subsequent Transaction in the Minutes of a former Day? he said, It is not usual.—Being asked, Whose Duty it is to enter the Minutes of the Committee of Secrecy? he said, It was his Duty, whilst he was in that Office, so see them entered.—Being asked, Whether he was in that Office on the 1st of August 1781? he said, He was.—Being asked, Whether he was the Person that entered those Minutes? he said, They were entered under his Care.—Being asked, Who they were entered by? he said, William Moreton Wilks.—Being asked, Whether he is the only Person who enters Minutes of the Committee of Secrecy, besides himself? he said, Thomas Wilks has entered many; both of these are his Sons.—Being asked, Whether they are both of them sworn to Secrecy as well as himself? he said, Yes.—Being asked, Whether there is any other Person who has entered the Minutes of the Secret Committee? he said, He is not certain whether his youngest Son, Samuel Charles Wilks, has entered any; he was also sworn to Secrecy.—Being asked, When the fair Copy of the Proceedings of the 1st of August were entered? he said, He cannot recollect.—Being asked, Who inserted the Nota Bene at the End of the Proceedings of the 1st of August? he said, He dared say it was inserted by his Authority.—Being asked, Who desired him to have it inserted? he said, He does not know that he had any Authority for it besides his own.—Being asked, Whether he had any Conversation with the Chairman upon the Subject of his Examination before this Committee, previous to his entering that Nota Bene? he said, He does not recollect any thing respecting it.

And it being stated to Mr. Wilks, That the foregoing Question implies, that he made this Nota Bene subsequent to his Examination before this Committee, he was asked, Whether there is an Error in that Implication? to which he said, He is sure he cannot tell.

Being asked, If he remembers Messieurs Dunkin and Smart being dispatched over Land to India? he said, Yes.—Being asked, At what Time? he said, The 11th of December 1781.—Being asked, Whether they carried with them the Judicature Act, or any Orders for the Relief of the Patna Magistrates, then confined in Prison? he said, They did not, from the Committee of Secrecy.

A P P E N D I X, N° 2. (A)

To the Honourable Warren Hastings, Esquire, Governor General of Bengal.

YOUR Letter per Mr. Shakespear was received the 2<sup>d</sup> ultimo.—The Contents are truly disagreeable and alarming; yet, as we trace no Marks of Despondency, we must conclude that every possible Exertion has been and will be made, to reverse the Scene; and we are induced to hope that your Endeavours for that Purpose will be attended with the desired Success.

In regard to the Stoppage of the Company's Investment, upon the most mature Deliberation it is agreed, for many Reasons, if possible, to prevent it. The Manufacturers in all Events must be employed; otherwise, we fear, the Manufactures may be lost:—Goods must be imported from Bengal, or the Revenue in Britain must greatly suffer. In short, the Consequences would would be very pernicious, and the Extent of the Evils unknown.

In order therefore, to the utmost of our Power, to obviate such Inconveniencies, it has been determined to authorize the Governor General and Council to draw Bills of Exchange upon the Court of Directors, to the Amount of 40 or 50 Lacks of Rupees, for the sole Purpose of providing a well-chosen Investment for the ensuing Year.

And we hope this Advice will reach you in Time to enable you to <sup>co-operate effectually</sup> with our Views in this Respect, as the Measure has been adopted by the Court, and you will therefore proceed, and take the necessary Steps accordingly.

We also inform you, that so soon as the Amount which you shall be authorized to draw for, shall have been received into the Company's Treasury, but not before, the Company's Servants are then to be permitted to load on board the Company's Ships, any Quantity of Raw Silk, of the Growth, Produce, and Manufacture of Bengal only, upon the Terms and Conditions allowed to the

the Commanders of our Ships in their private Trade.

You must take especial Care that the Bills of Exchange to be drawn as aforelaid, have an optional Clause, whereby Payment may be postponed for One Year, or more, if found necessary by the Company, upon allowing the Bill Holders a reasonable Rate of Interest for all the Time beyond 365 Days Sight.

As we expect that the Goods so purchased will be sold, and the Amount of the Sales be realized in England before the Bills of Exchange become due; so must we also depend upon your strict Attention to the Quality and Price of all Goods so provided, in order to insure a Commercial Profit thereon to the Company.

We do not at present enter upon the Consideration of Measures which have been productive of Circumstances so unusually distressing in Bengal;
but when it became a Question, Whether the Preservation of our Possessions, or the temporary Provision of an Investment, should be the First Object of Attention; we must allow, that unless both were practicable, the former had an indisputable Claim to the Preference,

A P P E N D I X, N<sup>o</sup> 5.

SIR William James, a Member of your Committee, was then asked, Whether he at any Time restricted Mr. Wilks, the Clerk to the Committee of Secrecy, from giving Information to this Committee? to which he said, He certainly never gave any Orders or Opinions to Mr. Wilks not to give Information to this Committee: He was present at a Conversation between the Chairman and Mr. Wilks, when the Matter of the Dispatch of the 3d of August (by which the Acts of Parliament had been sent) was talked over; and, without meaning the least possible Disrespect to this Committee, or to dispute its Authority, and not knowing what had passed in the Committee with respect to Mr. Wilks's Answers, he acquiesced in an Idea, that it was improper to mention the Circumstances of that Dispatch, as it had been confidentially committed to them by the Cabinet, as a Secret of the State; and he did not think the Committee, under such Circumstances, would insist upon its being revealed.—Being asked, Whether he (being a Member of this Committee, and not having attended it at that Time) did confer with any other Member of the Committee concerning the Subject Matter of the Examination of Mr. Wilks, and the Points to which he was to be examined? he said, He did not.—Being asked, What Reason he had to imagine, that the Committee intended to examine Mr. Wilks concerning any of those Matters which His Majesty's Ministers desired to be kept secret? he said, He had no Reason; but that at the Conference between Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Wilks, he understood that the Enquiry was in respect to the Dispatch of the 3d of August.—Being asked, Whether he ever heard that there was any Examination of Mr. Wilks, further than to state the Time and Conveyance, and Place of Departure of the Vessel which conveyed the Acts of Parliament? he said, He understood by what passed at the Conference above mentioned in his Presence, that he had been, or was to be, examined with respect to the Conveyance which carried that Dispatch, which was of the secret Nature he has before alluded to.—Being asked, Which of the King's Ministers it was who restrained him from communicating any Matter to this Committee, which might be the Subject of their Enquiry? he said, No one Minister positively restrained him.—Being asked, What Minister did, in any Degree, restrain him? he said, In confidential Communication with His Majesty's Ministers, upon Force or Protection to be sent to India, he considered it his Duty to keep it a Secret.—Being asked, Whether any of the King's Ministers did in any way restrain him from making that Communication? he said, They did not.—Being asked, What Number of Dispatches were sent to India by Sea and Land, between the 15th Day of July, and the 7th of December 1781, he said, He cannot say positively, but he believes there were Three, One by Land, and Two by Sea.—Being asked, What he understood by the Expression he has used in his former Account, of "the Circumstances of the Dispatch?" he said, He alludes to the Ship or Ships by which it was sent.—Being asked, Whether in acquiescing in the Idea of the Impropriety of disclosing the Circumstances of the Dispatch, he conveyed to Mr. Wilks the Idea that his Oath of Secrecy was binding on him on the Occasion, he said, He did not say any thing to him on that Subject.—Being asked, Whether the Idea conveyed to Mr. Wilks in that Conference, by Mr. Sullivan, and acquiesced in by him, was, to state to the Committee, the Impropriety of disclosing the Circumstances alluded to, and leaving it to their Discretion whether he should answer or not, or positively to refuse answering? he said, He did not understand that he was directed positively to refuse answering.—Being asked, Whether Secrecy was enjoined to Mr. Wilks, any further than respecting the Circumstances of the Dispatch of the 3d of August? he said, At the Conference alluded to, the Circumstances of the Dispatch of the 3d of August was the only Subject under Consideration.—Being asked, Whether at that Conference any Thing passed, with his Acquiescence, to restrain Mr. Wilks from informing the Committee when, and in what Manner, the Acts of Parliament were transmitted to India? he said, No, except respecting the Ship or Ships that carried them.

S E L E C T C O M M I T T E E,

Appointed to take into Consideration the State of the Administration of Justice in the Provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Orissa, and to report the same, as it shall appear to them, to the House, with their Observations thereupon; and who were instructed to consider how the British Possessions in the East Indies may be held and governed with the greatest Security and Advantage to this Country, and by what Means the Happiness of the Native Inhabitants may be best promoted.

IN the last Session of Parliament, the Secret Committee, in their Fifth Report, entered into some Detail of the Origin of the Rohilla War; and the House, in Consequence of that Report, came to a Resolution, reprobating that War in very strong Terms. See Journal, 28th May 1782—8th Resolution.

Your Committee, in the Course of their Examination into the late Proceedings of the Governor General in the Province of Oude (which will form the subject Matter of a future Report) have had Occasion to peruse the Records of the Company relative to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, one of those Rohilla Chiefs who was dispossessed of his Territories by the late Vizier Sujah Dowlah, but with whom a Treaty had been made, under the Sanction of the Commander in Chief of the Company's Forces in Bengal, and certain Districts were yielded to him by that Treaty: Your Committee think it their Duty to report this Case to the House.

It appears to Your Committee, that the English Army under the Command of Colonel Champion, was cantoned in the Rohilla Country after the Campaign of 1774; and that in the Midst of the Rainy Season, the Vizier, without consulting the Commander in Chief, and even against his Advice, put his own Army in Motion against Fyzoolah Khan, a Rohilla Chief, who had collected together the remaining Wealth and Strength of the Rohilla Tribe, and who had taken an advantageous Post at Lall-Dang, the Extremity of the Rohilla Country.

Colonel Champion, in his Letter to the Secret Committee of Bengal, dated the 24th of July 1774, writes, "That as his Excellency was so very desirous of his taking the Field, and as he has the sole Authority of prescribing the Service to be undertaken, and has quoted the President's Advice, I am constrained to break Ground with all the Sepoys of the Brigade and the European Grenadiers."

Your Committee further find, That Colonel Champion having joined his whole Force with the Vizier's, and after reducing some considerable Fortresses in the Rohilla Country, they advanced within within a Mile of Lall-Dang, where Fyzoolah Khan was intrenched with his Army in a very strong Position.

On the 13th of August 1774, the Vizier wrote to Colonel Champion, desiring him to offer Fyzoolah Khan Peace, upon certain Conditions—In consequence whereof a Negotiation commenced; and

On the 6th of October, Colonel Champion wrote from Camp to the President and Members of the Select Committee at Calcutta, as follows:

“ I have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that the Vizier and Fyzoolah Khan have this Day agreed upon Terms of Peace. Fyzoolah is to have a Jaghire of Fourteen Lacks Seventy-five thousand Rupees per Annum in the Rohilla Country, with Liberty to keep 5,000 Men in Arms; in Consideration whereof he is to give the Vizier Half his Treasure. When the Agreement has gone through the usual Formalities, I shall do myself the Honour of transmitting a Copy of it to you; in the mean Time I beg leave to congratulate you on the Conclusion of the War.”

On the 8th of October, Colonel Champion also wrote from the Camp within Four Cofs of Lall-Dang, to the President and Committee, as follows:

“ Under Date of the 6th Instant, I informed you that the Vizier and Fyzoolah had come to an Accommodation; and I have now the Honour to transmit Copies of the mutual Engagements entered into between them, as drawn out by his Excellency the Vizier, and sealed and sworn to by him and the Rohilla Yesterday, in my Presence.

“ The Vizier has drawn off his own Army, and To-morrow I shall, agreeably to his Request, follow with the Company's Troops.

“ As Fyzoolah Khan is restricted to a small Body of Men, such of the Troops disbanded by him, as the Vizier does not chuse to entertain, are to cross the Ganges without Delay.

“ I know not well, why his Excellency has not inserted in Fyzoolah's Agreement, the Obligation to deliver up Half his Treasure. I remarked this seeming Omission to his Excellency before the Agreements were signed; he only answered, that whatever Fyzoolah's Effects might be, he would be contented with Half, and the other promised to give a faithful Account of them.”

The following are Copies of the Treaties inclosed in the above Letter:

“ A Friendship having been entered into between me and Fyzoolah Khan, I have agreed to give him the Country of Rampore, and some other Districts dependent thereon, producing altogether an Annual Revenue of 14,75,000 Rupees; and I have stipulated, Fyzoolah Khan shall retain in his Service 5,000 Troops, and not a single Man more: I therefore give this written Engagement, that I will at all Times, and on all Occasions, support the Honour and Character of Fyzoolah Khan, and will promote his Interest and Advantage to the utmost of my Power, upon the following Conditions—That Fyzoolah Khan shall enter into no Connection with any Person but myself, and that he shall hold no Correspondence with any Person, except the English Chief—That he shall consider my Friends as his Friends, and my Enemies as his Enemies; and, That with whomsoever I shall make War, Fyzoolah Khan shall send Two or Three thousand Men, according to his Ability, to join my Forces, and if I march in Person, Fyzoolah Khan shall himself accompany me with his Troops; and if on account of the Smallness of the Number of the Forces he is to retain in his Service, he is not able to accompany me, I will then appoint him Three or Four thousand more Troops, that he may accompany me with a good Army, and I will be at the Expence of supporting them.—Upon the Performance of these Conditions, I have agreed to give the said Countries, at the aforementioned Revenue, to Fyzoolah Khan, and to promote his Interest and Advantage to the utmost of my Power.—If Fyzoolah Khan fulfils the Articles of this Treaty, and adheres steadily to it, I will not neglect whatever may be for his Advantage.

“ He shall send the Remainder of the Rohillas on the other Side of the River. I have sworn on the holy Khoran, calling God and his Prophet to witness to the Performance of these Articles.

" A Friendship having taken place between the Nabob Vizier Ul Mult Behadar and me, and the Nabob Vizier having been graciously pleased to bestow on me a Country, I have sworn on the holy Khoran, calling God and his Prophet to witness to what I engage—That I will always whilst I live, continue in Submission and Obedience to the Nabob Vizier—That I will retain in my Service 5,000 Men, stipulated by the Nabob Vizier, and not a single Man more—That with whomsoever the Nabob Vizier shall engage in Hostilities, I will assist him; and, That if the Nabob Vizier shall send an Army against any Enemy, I will also send Two or Three thousand of my Troops to join them; and if he goes in Person against any Enemy, I will personally attend him with my Forces—That I will have no Connection with any Person but the Nabob Vizier, and will hold no Correspondence with any one (the English Chiefs excepted)—That whatever the Nabob Vizier directs, I will execute; and that I will at all Times, and on all Occasions, both in Adversity and Prosperity, continue his firm Associate.

" I have sworn on the holy Khoran, calling God and his Prophet to witness to the Performance of these Articles.—May God and his Prophet punish me, if I act contrary to them."

And Your Committee further find, That the Vizier Sujah Dowlah faithfully discharged his Part of the Treaty, by giving Fyzoolah Khan the actual Possession of the District of Rampore very soon after the Signature of this Treaty.

And Your Committee observe, That in the Month of February 1778, Mr. Middleton, the English Resident at the Court of Azoph ul Dowlah, the Son and Successor of Sujah Dowlah, sent Mr. Daniel Barwell, a Servant of the East India Company, on a Deputation to Fyzoolah Khan. As the Object of his Mission is explained by Mr. Middleton, in his Letter to the Supreme Council of the 25th of February 1778, and in his Letter to Mr. Barwell of the 4th of March following, and as it appears, that the Guarantee of the Company arose out of this Deputation; Your Committee have thought it necessary, in this Place, to insert these Letters at large, together with Mr. Barwell's Report in his Letter to Mr. Middleton of the 26th of March 1778.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Governor General and Council; dated Lucknow, 25th February 1778.

" The Reports which have for some Time past prevailed, of Fyzoolah Khan's raising and maintaining a large Force, contrary to the Tenor of his Treaty with the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah; his giving Protection and Encouragement to the Fugitives of Zabita Khan's defeated Army; his secret Correspondence with that Chief and his Followers, who are leagued with the Seicks, and who no doubt would eagerly embrace any Opportunity which might in Appearance afford them even a Chance of recovering their former Possessions, or of contributing to the Relief of their present Necessities; seem to demand the immediate Attention of this Government. I confess, I have hitherto given very little Credit to these Insinuations, under the Belief that Fyzoolah Khan's own Prudence and good Sense, would naturally suggest to him the bad Policy of engaging in any wild or doubtful Enterprizes, while he considered his present Establishment permanent and secure: But alarmed as he has been, by the Nabob's Resumption of a Number of Jaghires granted by his Father to different Persons, and the Injustice and Oppression of his Conduct in general; and at the same Time entertaining Doubts as to the Part our Government would take in the Case of any Attempt being made by his Excellency to deprive him of the Rights he holds by virtue of his Treaty with the late Vizier; it is not impossible but he might be induced to form Connections, and to engage in Schemes, incompatible with his Duty and Allegiance to the Vizier: Nor will the Honourable Board be surpris'd, after the Representations I have lately had Occasion to make to them of the Conduct of the Nabob, that the Rohilla Chief should place so little Reliance on the Faith of his Excellency's Engagements—For these Reasons, I think it highly necessary, that the Situation and Views of Fyzoolah Khan should be minutely enquired into; that if he really harbours any Designs hostile to this Government, they may be crushed before they have acquired sufficient Maturity to affect either the Interests of the Vizier or the Honourable Company; or, on the other Hand, that if his Conduct has been in no Respect exceptionable, he may have an Opportunity of clearing it of Suspicion.

" A late Application from Fyzoolah Khan, to obtain the Guarantee of the Honourable Company to his Engagements with the Vizier, and his urgent Solicitations to get this effected with all possible “ possible Haste, plainly evince his Suspicions of the Vizier, and afford the fairest Opening for an Enquiry into the Truth of the Reports circulated to his Prejudice, without directly alarming him; I have therefore taken upon me to depute Mr. Daniel Barwell, who is now with me, upon a Visit, and who, as he concurred with me in the Propriety of the Measure, and had no Affairs of Consequence to demand his Presence at Benares, has been kind enough to accept the Commission, to proceed immediately to Fyzoolah Khan, to make strict Enquiry upon the Spot into the past Conduct and apparent Views of that Chief, that he may at once either be cleared of Suspicion, or punished by the Vizier, if it shall appear that he has infringed the Articles of the Treaty. —Admitting that the Rohilla Chief's Designs are friendly, his extraordinary Solicitude to obtain the Guarantee of the Company is consistent, and the Reason obvious—having heard of the Reports circulating to his Prejudice, and of the Acts of Injustice and Oppression which the Vizier is constantly exercising upon those who are wholly at his Mercy, he is apprehensive lest his Excellency, desirous of seizing his Country and involving him in Ruin, should avail himself of these Reports to execute his Purpose. For these Reasons, and as the Treaty between Fyzoolah Khan and the late Nabob was made under the Sanction of the English, I hope the Honourable Board will approve of the Step I have taken, as it will be the Means of obviating any Disputes between the Vizier and Fyzoolah Khan, and in Case of the latter's acquitting himself, will give him a Confidence in the Company, which may induce him to look up to that Influence as the surest Defence against any Invasion of his Rights, and thereby render him a faithful and perhaps a useful Ally upon some future Emergency.—If therefore, after the Investigation made by Mr. Barwell on the Spot, it shall appear, that the Reports spread to the Prejudice of Fyzoolah Khan, are without any just Foundation, and that he has not in any Shape swerved from his Duty and Allegiance to the Vizier, I request to know, whether the Honourable Board will be pleased to grant me Permission to comply with his Request of the Company's guaranteeing his Treaty with the Vizier, that I may instruct Mr. Barwell, either to encourage or wholly suppress any Negotiation that may have this Tendency.

“ As there appeared to me an immediate Necessity to depute some Person on the Part of the Honourable Company, to search into the Truth of these Reports, in order to prevent the instant Effect of any Alarms which the Vizier's Conduct may have given to Fyzoolah Khan, I hope the Propriety of the Measure will excuse my having availed myself of Mr. Barwell's Abilities and Knowledge of the Persian Language in this Business, as Mr. Chandler, my Head Assistant, is fully employed in assisting me in the Accounts, and other current Business of my Office; and Mr. Bathurst is not returned from his public Mission with Mirza Saudut Ali.

“ I entreat the Honourable Board will be pleased to favour me with as speedy an Answer as possible, as Mr. Barwell will necessarily be detained with Fyzoolah Khan until it arrives.”

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to Mr. Daniel Barwell; dated at Lucknow, the 4th of March 1778.

“ Reports having for some Time past prevailed, of Fyzoolah Khan's raising and maintaining in his Service a larger Force than the Conditions of his Treaty with the late Nabob Sujah Dowlah allow him; of his giving Protection and Encouragement to the Fugitives of Zabita Khan's defeated Army; of his holding secret Correspondence with that Chief, his Followers the Seicks, and other Powers disaffected to the Vizier's Government; I have thought it necessary, for the Security of our Ally and the Honourable Company's Interest, to make a strict Enquiry into the Situation and Views of the Rohilla Chief, that if he really entertains any Designs hostile to the Vizier's Government, they may be effectually crushed before he has acquired sufficient Strength, or formed Connections, which would enable him to make Resistance. To effect this important Object, it appears to me indispensably necessary that a Gentleman, on whose Report entire Reliance may be had, should proceed immediately to the Capital of Fyzoolah Khan, to make particular Enquiry on the Spot, into the several Heads of Complaint which have been alleged against that Chief; and as I have no Assistant at present with me but Mr. Chandler, or any other Person sufficiently acquainted with the Languages of the Country to take upon him such a Commission, I avail myself of the Permission you have given me, to make Use of your Services; and now trouble you with the following Instructions for your Guidance in the Execution of this Trust.

“ You will proceed with all convenient Speed to Rampore, the Residence of Fyzoolah Khan, and deliver to him the inclosed Letter from me, which serves as a personal Introduction to him, and also as an Intimation of the Purposes of your Mission.

“ You will be pleased to acquaint him with the Particulars of the Reports which have been circulated to the Prejudice of his Character and good Faith; and impress strongly upon his Mind, the Necessity of his acquitting himself of them, if he wishes to continue upon Terms of Friendship with the English, or preserve the Alliance of the Vizier. You will please to have his Army mustered before you, or ascertain, by any other Means which you may best approve, the exact Number of Troops he retains in his Service, and in what Manner they are employed; you will also endeavour to discover with whom he holds Correspondence, what is the Nature of it, and through what Channel he carries it on.

" You will further make particular Enquiry into the State of the Country, its Defences; and its annual Revenue; these are the Objects which I have particularly to recommend to your Enquiry, and to request your Observations upon; but I should be glad you would communicate to me in general, any other Discoveries you may make during your Residence with Fyzoolah Khan, which you shall judge worthy the Notice of the Vizier's, or our own Government.

" I have addressed the Honourable Board upon the Subject of your Mission; and for your further Information, now inclose you a Copy of my Letter, from which you will perceive, there is a Possibility of your being entrusted with the Management of further Negotiations with Fyzoolah Khan: I must however request, that you will confine yourself wholly to the Enquiries above recommended to you; and even should the Rohilla Chief clear himself of all Suspicion to your Satisfaction, you will carefully avoid giving him any positive Assurances of the Company's Guarantee to his Treaty with the Vizier; but should he urgently and repeatedly require it, you will not wholly repress all Hopes of the Kind, but make yourself acquainted with his Motive for such Requisition, and leave it in Suspence until the Pleasure of the Honourable Board shall have been formally signified to you.

" I inclose you a Copy of the Treaty entered into between Fyzoolah Khan and the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah; which will enable you the better to judge how far the former has adhered to his Engagements with this Government."

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Daniel Barwell to Mr. Middleton; dated at Rampore the 26th of March 1778.

" The Evening of my Arrival at Rampore, the Capital of the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, I waited on him, and delivered to him your Letter of Introduction, which intimated to him the Intent of my Mission.

" The Day following he returned my Visit; when I separately explained to him the several Reports that had been raised to his Prejudice, by accusing him of having broken many Articles of the Treaty granted him by the Indulgence of the late Vizier Sujah-ul-Dowlah: In each particular of these Reports, he replied in the fullest and most satisfactory Manner. Not thinking it proper to trust to his bare Affirmation on Points which, for his own Preservation, he would naturally deny, I requested him to issue immediate Orders for the mustering of all his Troops; for as that was the grand Point which would evince his Intentions, if hostile or friendly, it was necessary, I told him, I should arrive at a Certainty as to their Number and Strength, by the most expeditious Means; that therefore he must not put any unfriendly Construction on my Requisition, as, if he were conscious of not having broken his Treaty in this Respect, a fair Opportunity was now afforded him to wipe off the Stain of ill Faith; with which general Report had marked him, and to clear his Character of all Suspicion.

" With this Declaration he seemed well pleased; and the next Morning gave Orders for all his Troops to be summoned from the different Quarters of the Country: No sooner were they assembled, but I had them instantly mustered before me, when, instead of finding them to exceed the Number specified in the Treaty, I found, on the contrary, they rather fell short of it; upon enquiring of him the Cause of this, he informed me, that he did in Reality maintain in his Service Five thousand Troops, agreeable to his Treaty, and that the small Deficiency which appeared upon the present Muster, arose from some few being in distant Parts of the Country, who were not as yet come in. He further informed me, that he had scarcely Occasion for all the Troops he had in his Service, as a smaller Number would serve for his Collections, in which Business they were alone employed, but that he entertained them merely because that Number was expressly specified in his Treaty, lest he should be unexpectedly called on by the Vizier to assist him, when, if his Troops should be found to be incomplete, it might afford a Pretext for the Vizier's Displeasure. He then proceeded to tell me, that it must be evident to all, and I must be sensible, that these Troops were insufficient for any hostile Purposes, when the whole Power of the Rohillas had been with Ease subdued by the Vizier and his Ally the Company, and that therefore those who accused him of such Intentions, at the same Time accused him of Insanity, of which his Actions in general would sufficiently vindicate him; that, as for his holding a secret Correspondence with Zabita Khan, and others disaffected to the Vizier's Government, he offered to swear in the most solemn Manner, that such Assertions were utterly false; and observed, that they would not bear a strict and just Examination, for that a Correspondence of that Nature could not benefit him, while it might involve him in Troubles to his Ruin; it was therefore absurd to suppose he should enter into Connections, which must inevitably draw on him the Repentment of the Vizier, and in consequence of our Government, and in the End, Extirpation from his Country, without the smallest Appearance of Advantage to himself.

" After having endeavoured, by every Means in my Power, to discover if he did or did not keep up a Correspondence with any Chief disaffected to the Vizier's Government, that could lend him Assistance in Time of Need, and not being able, by the strictest and most diligent Enquiries, to trace any Thing of the Kind, I assured him, that I was conscious Report had wronged him, and that he had preserved every Article of his Treaty inviolate; indeed the Arguments he has offered in his Defence, carry great Weight with them, and shew a Justness and Deepness of Policy, arising from

“ from Consideration far superior to that of the Princes of India in general. If he has had a Communication with Zabita Khan, or other Powers that are at Enmity with the Vizier, it has been carried on in so occult a Manner as to defy Detection, for even his very Enemies cannot bring the Accusation home to him; it is therefore but just to suppose his own good Sense and Reflection have pointed out to him the Folly of engaging in Pursuits, to which he might have been courted, and that, strongly as he might be inclined to aid and assist his dispersed Countrymen, a Conviction that all his Endeavours would prove ineffectual of the End proposed, and draw down certain Ruin on himself, has led him to break off all Connection with them and their Party.

“ No sooner had I expressed myself satisfied as to the Unjustness of the Reports, than Fyzoolah Khan instantly informed me, that he had already made Application to you for a Renovation of his Treaty with the late Vizier, and the Guarantee of the Company, without which he affirmed he could not look upon himself as secure in his present Possessions. When I asked him his Reasons for these Fears, and for the Earnestness he expressed to obtain the Guarantee of the Company, he began to enter into a long Detail of the Vizier's Actions of late, and particularly mentioned his Resumption of several Grants made by his Father; and declared, that in so fluctuating a Government as the Vizier's, in which no Treaty was regarded as binding, he was under continual Fear of being oppressed by Violence and Injustice, and deprived of those Possessions he now held by virtue of his Treaty; that his Enemies had raised these Reports with a View to his Ruin, which upon the strictest Investigation had proved to be false and injurious; that from this, the Disposition of the Vizier's Court in general towards him was obvious; that it was at all Times in their Power to circulate Reports of this Nature, and that the Vizier, without enquiring into the Truth or Fallacy of them, might, under Pretence of Justice, dispossess him of his Country; that the Company were the only Power in which he had Confidence, and which he could look up to for Protection; that as they were the Allies of the late Vizier Sujah ul Dowlah, they were in a Manner bound to defend the Treaty made by him; that he, Fyzoolah Khan, had till lately imagined his Treaty had been granted to him under the Sanction of the Company, from Colonel Champion's affixing his Signature thereto as a Witness; that he therefore relied upon the Justice of the Honourable Board, the Representatives of the Company, to effectually prevent all Encroachments on the Part of the Vizier, as long as he should be observant of every Condition stipulated in his Treaty, by allowing it to be guaranteed in the Name of the Company, or by entering into a separate Agreement for his Defence and Protection.

“ If the Honourable Board have not already given you the provisional Power to grant the Guarantee of the Company to this Treaty with the Vizier, you will be pleased to transmit to them my Letter, that being made acquainted with the Unjustness of the Reports, and the Nabob's Motives for soliciting the Guarantee, they may determine on the Propriety of granting or withholding it.

“ Agreeable to your Injunctions, I have avoided, as much as lay in my Power, giving Fyzoolah Khan any positive Assurances of his Application for the Guarantee of the Company being complied with; though, from his assuring me his Continuance in his Dominions entirely depended on it, and that he should regard a Refusal as a tacit Order for him to withdraw to some other Country, I have been under the Necessity of encouraging him with Hopes of Success. I request you will favour me with your Instructions on this Point with all Haste, that my Stay here may not be longer than what is absolutely necessary.”

And Your Committee find, That Mr. Middleton having communicated the Proceedings on this Subject to the Council General at Calcutta, the Council General, on the 9th of March 1778, upon the Motion of the Governor General, approved of his having deputed Mr. Daniel Barwell to Fyzoolah Khan, for the Purposes represented in his Letter, and authorized him to grant the Company's Guarantee to the Treaty subsisting between the Nabob and him, provided he met with the Nabob's Concurrence; but if any Objection should be made to it, he was immediately to advise the Council General on the Subject, before he proceeded any further in that Negotiation — Which Concurrence your Committee find was given by the Vizier, and that the Company accordingly became Guarantees to the Jaghire granted by the Nabob to Fyzoolah Khan.

But this Act of Council did not pass without Opposition; for Mr. Francis, in a Minute delivered at Council, declared, “ that nothing is more notorious, than that the Nabob of Oude has no more Power in his Dominions than I have.” Mr. Francis disapproved of the whole Proceeding in very pointed Terms, and particularly referred it to the Consideration of the Company; a Copy of the Proceedings of the 9th of March 1778, Your Committee have thought proper to annex in the Appendix N<sup>o</sup> 1.

Your Committee cannot avoid stating to the House, a very extraordinary Circumstance which occurred in the Course of this Negotiation: When Mr. Middleton transmitted the Instrument which guaranteed the Treaty, it was signed by himself, and sealed with his Seal; the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan represented to Mr. Barwell, that the Guarantee which he had chiefly requested, and on which all his Dependence was placed, by not having the Seal of the Company, was not what he had from the Beginning so earnestly desired, and that nothing less than renewing the Guarantee, with the Company's Seal affixed to it, would convince him, that in Case of an Infraction of his Treaty on the Part of the Vizier, he should be befriended by our Government.

And Your Committee find, That when Mr. Barwell reported this Matter to Mr. Middleton, he was excessively displeased that his Powers and Authority should be called in question. His Letter of the 20th of April 1778, to Mr. Barwell, which Your Committee have thought necessary to insert in this Place, will fully explain his Ideas of his own Consequence.

“ I have received your Letter of the 14th Instant, acquainting me that Fyzoolah Khan had declined the Acceptance of the Honourable Company's Guarantee to his Treaty with the Nabob Azoph ul Dowlah, under the Sanction you offered it to him; and inclosing me a Letter from that Chief to you on the Subject. As I consider the Doubts and Suspicions Fyzoolah Khan has thought proper to manifest, and indeed to declare, of my being duly authorized to act in this Business, as a personal Insult to myself, and as the highest Indignity to the Authority I have the Honour to represent; it is therefore incumbent upon me, as well in Justice to my own Feelings, as in Support of the public Authority vested in me, to insist upon his receiving the Guarantee in the Form, and under the Sanction, it has been transmitted to him, or upon your putting a Stop to all further Negotiation with him, and immediately withdrawing yourself from his Court. I cannot, consistently with my Duty and the Dignity of my Employers, assent to any other Alternative; for, to gratify Fyzoolah Khan in his present Demand, would not only be to deviate from an invariable Practice of the Service, and tacitly to submit to the Insult he has offered to my public Character, but would also be admitting a Precedent which might, and certainly would, be fraught with Consequences entirely destructive of that decisive Conduct on many Occasions expected from me, as well as allowing him to dictate to the Honourable Board, and in fact to arrogate to himself, the Right of prescribing the Terms of their Indulgence.

“ I shall not pay so bad a Compliment to the Honour and Integrity of Colonel Champion, as to yield to the Belief that Fyzoolah Khan would artfully attempt to impose, of the Colonel's having signed the Treaty with Sujah Dowlah as a Surety on the Behalf of the Honourable Company; the Tenor of the Treaty itself certainly justifies no such Suspicion; and if Fyzoolah Khan really believed that Colonel Champion's Signature made the Honourable Company Arbiters between him and the Vizier in case of Disputes, why should he for these Twelve Months past, with such earnest Solicitude, have been urging me to procure him the Guarantee of the Company? The Truth is, I do not believe he had even an Idea that the Signature of Colonel Champion, under the Circumstances it was affixed, in any Respect whatever involved the Company. I was upon the Spot when that Treaty was concluded, was privy to every Circumstance regarding it, and I never myself supposed, or heard it suggested, that the Company were understood to be Parties in it. Moreover, a Man of Fyzoolah Khan's Cautionness and Knowledge of Business, had he understood the Company's Guarantee to have been annexed to his Treaty with Sujah Dowlah, cannot be supposed to have suffered, on an Occasion of such Moment to himself, the Omission of that Sanction which alone could prove such Guarantee, which was in the Nature of Things necessary thereto, and the never-failing Custom of the Country require; I mean, the expressing in direct Words, that the Party signing his Name is become Guarantee for himself or Principals to the Convention bearing his Signature. I cannot therefore admit the Plea upon which Fyzoolah Khan grounds his Exceptions to the Guarantee now offered him; nor can I allow the unworthy Insinuations he has thrown out against Colonel Champion, to be either decent or justifiable. I entirely agree with you, that it is highly necessary for my Honour, to convince Fyzoolah Khan that I have not acted in this Business without a legal Sanction, and I am persuaded you have employed every Argument which the Subject would naturally suggest, to enforce that Conviction; but since those have failed, I cannot approve of the Expedient you propose, nor can I think of soliciting the further Interference of the Honourable Board in a Matter they have empowered me to conclude, and upon which they have long ago given me their final Instructions: I shall however duly transmit them a Copy of your Letter and its Inclosure; and acquainting them with the Steps I have taken in consequence, leave it to them to pursue such further Measures as to their Judgment shall seem meet. In the mean Time, I think it necessary to observe, that you will by no Means wait for the Receipt of my Answer from the Honourable Board, but immediately deliver to Fyzoolah the accompanying Letter (a Copy of which for your Perusal is also inclosed) requiring an explicit Answer from him, Whether he will or will not accept the Guarantee as already transmitted to you, and lodge with you a Counterpart of the Vizier's Treaty as sent from hence? and in case of his Non-compliance, return with all possible Expedition.”

Your Committee observe, That on the Conclusion of this Negotiation, Fyzoolah Khan paid a Lack of Rupees to the Vizier, as an Acknowledgment to his Superior; he also presented a Lack of Rupees to the Company, as a Testimony of his Gratitude for the Obligation he had received from the Company by their Guarantee.—Mr. Francis objected to the Acceptance of the Lack of Rupees for the Company; he thought it beneath the Dignity of their Government to accept it, and that it would discredit them in the Eyes of the Indian Powers; but the Majority of the Council were of a contrary Opinion, and agreed to accept the Present to the Company; and, in consequence of the Governor General's Motion, it was agreed, that he should write to Fyzoolah Khan to confirm the Obligation of the Company as Guarantee to the Treaty, which, he adds, “ will be equivalent in its Effect, though not in Form, to an Engagement sent him with the Company's Seal affixed to it.” And in Order to give the House the fullest Information upon this Subject, Your Committee think it proper to insert in the Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> 2, the Letters inserted in the Proceedings of the 4th and 21st May

May 1778, and the Council General's Proceedings thereupon, except such as are herein before inserted, and also Extracts from the Secret Letters from Bengal, of the 20th of March and 25th May 1778.

Your Committee find, That Mr. Middleton, the Resident at Oude, in his Letter of the 5th of December 1778 to the Governor General and Council, informs them, That on the Rupture with France he had suggested to Fyzoolah Khan, the Loan of Two thousand Horse, to serve under the Company's Orders during the Continuance of the War; and with a great Degree of Satisfaction he acquaints them, that he had received from Fyzoolah Khan a formal Offer of the Assistance suggested to him, and that this Offer was made without any apparent Reluctance on his Part, or the smallest Efforts on Mr. Middleton's Part, incompatible with the Dignity of the Company; that on the contrary, Fyzoolah Khan received the Proposition through his Vacqueel at the Court of Oude with an apparent Satisfaction, that convinced him that he was not only pleased, but highly flattered with the Idea of so close an Union of Interests as this Measure must necessarily establish between him and the Company. Appendix N° 3.

Your Committee having perused the Letter from the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan to Mr. Middleton, upon that Subject, and by him transmitted in the abovementioned Letter to the Governor General and Council, think it necessary to insert it in this Place.

" I learn that War has broke out between the illustrious English Chiefs and the Chief of the French Nation. I have no Connection with any Person in the World, except the Honourable English Company and the Gentlemen of the illustrious Council, and consider the Friends of the Honourable English Company as my Friends, and their Enemies in like Manner as mine. It is my Wish to perform such Services to the Honourable Company as may be a convincing Proof, to all the English Chiefs, of the Sincerity of my Attachment, and that the Warmth of my Zeal to execute their Pleasure, is the first Wish of my Heart; and I regard my Prosperity or Adversity as inseparably attached to their Fortune. In this Portion of Land which I enjoy through the Bounty of the English Chiefs, I am fixed securely, and am thankful for their Kindness to me, the Acknowledgment of which is my constant Employment as well by Night as by Day. Amongst the Five thousand good Troops which I retain in my Service agreeably to Treaty, are 2,000 Cavalry, which shall be sent to the Presence without Delay or Excuse whatsoever, whenever they are desired: Should it be the Pleasure of the English Chiefs to keep them with themselves, under their own Command, they shall, by the Blessing of God, remain with them agreeable to their Wish, and be employed on any Service they may think proper to direct them.

" As long as I live I will not deviate a Hair's Breadth from the Duties of Fidelity and Obedience to the English Chiefs; of this being perfectly assured, let me frequently experience the Pleasure of hearing from you."

And Your Committee find, That on the 28th of December 1778 (Appendix, N° 2.) the Council General of Bengal agree, not only to accept the Offer of 2,000 Horse from Fyzoolah Khan, but they desire him to hold them in Readiness for any Service that may be required; and at the same Time they return him the Thanks of the Council for this Mark of his faithful Attachment to the Company; and the Governor General was requested, by the Council, to write to Fyzoolah Khan; which he accordingly did on the 8th of January 1779, as follows:

" I have been favoured with your Letter, offering a Body of 2,000 Horse for the Service of the Company; and in my own Name and that of the Board return you our warmest Thanks for this Instance of your faithful Attachment to the Company and English Nation. We accept with Pleasure of your Offer, and request that you will keep the Horse in Readiness for any Service that we may have Occasion to require of them. Knowing me anxious for your Welfare, let me frequently have the Pleasure to hear from you."

And Your Committee find, That before the Resolution of the Council was known, the Resident wrote to the Council General on the 26th of December 1778, as follows:

" I have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, upon an Application made him by Lieutenant Colonel Muir, very readily furnished him with 500 of his best Cavalry."

And in his Letter to the Council General of the 26th of January 1779, he writes,

" It affords me particular Satisfaction to find that the Honourable Board's Wishes, respecting a Part of this Force, have been anticipated, as they will have learnt, from my Address of the 23d of December, that a Body of 500 Horse was sent by Fyzoolah Khan to the Assistance of Lieutenant Colonel Muir, in repelling the late Invasion of the Seicks."

And Your Committee further find, That the Council General of Bengal, in their Letter to the Court of Directors of the 1st of February 1779, give the following Account of this Transaction:

" We lately received Intelligence, that several Parties of the Seicks had crossed the Ganges, entered Rohilcund, and begun to commit Depredations in that Country, but they were soon repulsed by some small Bodies of the temporary Brigade, immediately detached to the Gaits for that Purpose.

" We

" We thought this a fit Occasion to avail ourselves of a voluntary Offer made by the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, on hearing of the French War, to maintain a Corps of 2,000 Cavalry, which should be always ready for the Service of the Company when they might be demanded, and therefore requested the Aid of such Part of it as he could immediately spare to repel the Seicks. We have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that he, without Hesitation or Delay, supplied 500 Men, who marched to join and co-operate with the Forces employed on that Service."

Your Committee having observed in the Bengal Secret Correspondence, a Letter from Fyzoolah Khan to his Vacqueel Bucktawa Sing, that describes not only the Manner by which he was prevailed on to make the Offer of 2,000 Horse, but also his Readiness to carry it into Execution, under certain Restrictions; and also a Letter from him to the Governor General, descriptive of his own Situation, Your Committee have thought proper to insert the same in this Place.

Copy of a Letter from Fyzoolah Khan to his Vackeel, Bucktawa Sing.

" Every one of the English Gentlemen and Officers of the Army residing in this Quarter, write to me respecting the Business in Hand, and other Matters, as it seems best to him. If I comply with every Thing which each of them writes or says to me, they are pleased; if I act otherwise, they are angry, and shew their Resentment by Accusation and false Charges against me: In this Dilemma, I know not how to act. Do you represent these Matters to the Governor, and state to him, that I can act under the Orders of One Person, but not under a Number; and write me Word, what Answer he gives. Further, prevail on the Governor to write me a Letter with the Name of the Gentleman I am to attend to, and send it to me, that I may act accordingly, and disregarding the Orders of every one who chuses to direct me, may not trouble myself whether they are angry or pleased.

" Mr. Middleton wrote me, that a War had broke out between the English and French, and desired that I would send him a Letter agreeable to a Draft he inclosed me; and I accordingly wrote to him and the Governor agreeable to the Draft, the Contents of which you may learn from a Copy of it. The Case is, that my Horse are ready to go any where, and upon any Service they may be desired, and will act with Vigour and Spirit on all Occasions; but they will not learn the English Exercise, or be subject to the Subaltern Officers of the Army, such as Adjutants, &c. Make a Representation of this Matter, which is highly necessary; for should they be expected at the Time of Action to perform the English Exercise, it would occasion a Disappointment, which would be very improper."

Copy of a Letter from Fyzoolah Khan to the Governor General.

" I have been honoured by your very friendly Letter, under Date the 29th of Rubbe Assanie (17th May) which afforded me the utmost Pleasure: In your Favour I know my Happiness to depend, and to that I constantly look, and pray for the Increase of your Power and Riches. You must well know, that I hold no Connection with any one but yourself, and that I consider the Success of my Affairs as entirely dependent on your Kindness. The gracious Orders you were pleased to send me, to transact all my Affairs through the Resident at Lucknow, I regard as a striking Instance of your Friendship; and by the Blessing of God, I shall invariably conduct myself agreeably thereto; and I am hopeful, that should other Gentlemen, in consequence of my not suffering them to meddle with my Affairs, be displeased, and write you any Thing to my Prejudice, you will regard it as proceeding solely from Disappointment of their selfish Views.

" Regarding me as submissive on all Occasions to your Pleasure, and firmly attached to you, I hope for the Continuance of your Favour. For further Particulars, I beg Leave to refer you to my Vackeel, Roy Bucktawa Sing."

Your Committee having examined the Bengal Secret Consultations of the 30th of October 1780, find therein, a Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Stibbert to the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated Fort William, 28th October 1780; in which is the following Passage:

" I presume, that on a Perusal of the Major's Letter, the Necessity of pressing both the Vizier and Fyzoolah Khan to contribute effectually to the Protection of the Rohilcund, will not fail to appear to the Board."

The Letter mentioned as above, appears, by the above Consultations, to have been from Major Brisco to Lieutenant General Sir Eyre Coote, dated Daranagur, October 1st 1780; an Extract of which is as follows:

" On my being appointed and taking the Command at Daranagur, I was not honoured with any Instructions from you, regarding the Nabob at Rampona. Fyzoolah Khan's Troops, I have only 500 of his Horse; and the Nabob in his Agreement with Government, is obliged to keep up 5,000 Troops, for assisting in the Defence of Rohilcund. A few Months ago, Three Battalions were “ were stationed here with Colonel Muir, besides a Body of the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan's Cavalry, and they were well employed, and had enough to do in protecting the Country from Invasion. The Command is greatly reduced, One Battalion taken away, and Fyzoolah Khan has not afforded more than 500 Men since I have been here, which is a great deal too small a Force from him, as I acquainted you in my former Letters, Two Battalions was too small a Command to defend Rohilcund from Invasion. I want a large Detachment from the Nabob.

“ I understood you intended ordering the Nabob to furnish 1,500 Men when you recalled the Battalion; and it is absolutely necessary that he should, as they are very much wanted on the Frontier Stations, where I have my Detachment.

“ I hope to be honoured with your Directions relative to Fyzoolah Khan's Troops, as soon as convenient; I wait the Honour of your Instructions.”

On the 2d Day of November 1780, the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Department, agreed, “ That the Governor General be requested to write to the Nabob Vizier, recommending to him to require from Fyzoolah Khan the Quota of Troops stipulated by Treaty to be furnished by the latter for his Service, being Five thousand Horse, to be put under the immediate Command of Lieutenant Colonel Muir, commanding at Futtu Ghur.”

In consequence of which, the Governor General, on the same Day, writes to the Nabob Vizier, desiring him to require from Fyzoolah Khan the Quota of Troops stipulated by Treaty to be furnished by the latter for his Service, being Five thousand Horse, to be put under the immediate Command of Lieutenant Colonel Muir, commanding the Detachment at Futtu Ghur.

The Governor General and Council, in their Secret Letter to the Court of Directors, of the 29th of November 1780, Paragraph 36, thus say;

“ We have also strongly recommended to the Nabob Vizier to require from Fyzoolah Khan the Quota of Troops consisting of Five thousand Horse, stipulated by Treaty to be furnished by the latter; and we do not doubt of his ready Obedience to the Requisition.”

The Nabob Vizier having received the Governor General's Letter, he wrote to Fyzoolah Khan accordingly, and received his Answer thereto; which Letter and Answer, with other Papers, were sent as Enclosures in Letters from the Nabob Vizier to the Governor General, and were read in the Secret Council the 15th of February 1781, and are as follows:

Copy. Translation of a Letter from the Nabob Vizier to the Governor General; dated 21st January 1781.

“ I have been honoured by the Receipt of Two Letters from you, desiring me to write to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, to lose no Time in sending to Colonel Muir, the Commanding Officer at Futtu Ghur, Five thousand Horse, agreeable to his Engagement with me. As I am from my Heart attached to the English Company, to you, and to the Gentlemen of the Council, therefore, knowing this Matter to be necessary, I wrote to Fyzoolah Khan, directing him to send the Five thousand Horse to Colonel Muir. A Copy of that Letter I now enclose for your Information, and Copies likewise of all the Engagements entered into by the late Nabob, and by me, with Fyzoolah Khan (although you most likely have got Copies;) from those you will learn all the Particulars of his Engagement. I, who am from my Heart attached to the Company, and to you, am ready in all Times of Need; and it is necessary that the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan should send, without Delay, the Five thousand Horse. Should he mention any Thing of the Tenor of the Treaty, the first Breach of it has been committed by him, in keeping up more Men than allowed of by the Treaty: I have accordingly sent a Person to settle that Point also. In case he should mention to me any Thing respecting the Treaty, I will then reproach him with having kept up too many Troops, and will oblige him to send the Five thousand Horse; for if, when the Company's Affairs, on which my Honour depends, require it, Fyzoolah Khan will not lend his Assistance, what Use is there to continue the Country to him? I therefore write for the Information, that in case of any Delays on the Part of Fyzoolah Khan, I will settle the Company's Matters with him.”

Copy. Translation of a Letter from the Nabob Vizier to the Nabob Fyzoolah; sent as an Enclosure in the above Letter.

“ The ancient and firm Friendship subsisting between me and the Company, and the Nabob Amaud ul Dowlah, Governor General, Mr. Hastings, Jolladut Jung, is well known to be on such intimate Terms, that I consider all the Company's Concerns the same as my own; between me and you likewise there is a Friendship, with equal Connection and Similarity of Interest. At this Time, that Assistance is required for the Company's Army, I have received a Letter from the Nabob Governor, directing me to call upon you for Five thousand Horse, to be stationed with Colonel Muir, who commands the English Troops at Futtu Ghur, and to be employed for the “ Company's

“ Company’s Service as he shall think proper. I therefore write, that you, without Delay, send Five thousand Horse to Colonel Muir, that they may act for the Company as he shall direct; this will give Increase to our Friendship, and Satisfaction to the Nabob Governor. I am from my Heart ready to exert myself for the Company’s Interests, and it is necessary that you likewise unite yourself to them. Let there be no Delay in this, but send the Five thousand Horse to Colonel Muir with all Expedition.”

Copy. Translation of a Letter from the Nabob Vizier to the Governor General.

“ I enclose the Original of the Answer which Fyzoolah Khan has sent to the Letter which, agreeable to the Orders, I wrote to him, requiring Five thousand Horse to be sent to Colonel Muir. My Connection in all the Company’s Interests, and my Resolution to remain connected, has been often made known to you; that to the Risk of my Life and Possessions will exert myself for their Interests; will now write to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, and make him act as you shall order me. From the Distance between us, a long Time is lost in sending Letters and receiving the Answers, but I hope the Answers to my Letters on Points of this Importance will be sent with all Expedition, and that I may be informed of all your Sentiments on these Matters, that I may execute them accordingly.”

Copy. Translation of a Letter from Fyzoolah Khan to the Nabob Vizier.

“ I have been honoured by the Receipt of your gracious Letter, and understood the Contents. You mention, that between your Highness and the Company, and the Nabob Governor Mr. Hastings, and the Gentlemen of Council, there is no Distinction, but all the Affairs and Concerns on both Sides, which may occur, are the same; and that you are so favourably and amicably inclined towards me, that the Interests of your Highness’s Circar and mine are the same; that at this Time, when the victorious Army of the Company is engaged on all Sides, it is incumbent on me to furnish Assistance, and that on this Subject you have likewise received a Letter from the Nabob Governor, directing you to write to me about the sending a Body of Horse to join Colonel Muir, who commands the English Troops at Futty Ghur, and about the ordering them to employ themselves in the Company’s Service, according to the Colonel’s Orders: The Contents of this convinced me of your Favour and Affection for me; in Return for which, may the Almighty grant you his Protection. The Case is this, that in the whole World I have no Connection with any Power, except your Highness’s House and the Nabob Governor, and consider my whole Advantage and Happiness in giving Satisfaction to your Family, and to the Honourable English Gentlemen; and in consequence of that, I am at all Times ready to perform your requisite Services.

“ It is well known, that Five thousand Men have been allowed me, and the Assignments made for their Expences, since the Time of the Treaty of Loll-Dong; these consist of Two thousand Horse and Three thousand Foot, which, in consequence of our intimate Connection, are equally yours and the Company’s. Of these Two thousand Horse in my Service, One thousand are stationed at Duranagur, under Major Briscoe, and are employed Day and Night according to his Orders; the remaining Thousand Horse in my Service are with me. Should the Thousand Horse at Duranagur not be wanted there, then the whole Thousand shall be sent to Colonel Muir at Futty Ghur; or in the other Case, the remaining One thousand, which are with me, shall be sent to Futty Ghur whenever you require it, that they may there, under the Orders of Colonel Muir, perform the Duties of Bravery in the Service of the Company. The Three thousand Foot are for the Management of the Concerns of my Jaghire, and without them the Collections can never be made in Time; accordingly, very lately, in the Mahals of your Highness’s Circar, Cashypore, Roderpore, and the other Hill People, and Rebels of the Atreery and Bhokfa Casts, who reside under the Protection of the impenetrable Junghill on the Hills, began Hostilities, and I, at the Desire of your Highness’s Naib, on Account of our Intimacy, sent immediately a Body of Foot, and settled the Affairs of these Mahals; doubtless you will have heard of this, so that there was no Necessity for my mentioning it. In short, that I am obedient to the Orders of your Highness, and of the Nabob Governor, and the Honourable Gentlemen of Council, and shall not vary a Hand’s Breadth from them; but consider my Honour, Reputation, Security, and Advantage, to consist in performing them implicitly. I am hopeful that, considering me as a faithful Subject, you will honour me with frequent Letters. Further Particulars you will learn from Alif Khan, my Vackeel at your Presence.”

After which the Governor General, in his Minute entered in the above Consultation, says,

“ It appearing from the above, that the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan has evaded the Performance of his Part of the Treaty between the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah and him, to which the Honourable Company were Guarantees, and upon which he was lately summoned to furnish the stipulated Number of Troops which he is obliged to furnish on the Condition by which he holds the Jaghire granted to him.”

Upon which the Governor General moved, " That a Deputation be immediately recommended to be sent to him from the Nabob Vizier, accompanied by an Agent from Mr. Middleton in Behalf of this Government as Guarantees, and that, in the Presence of proper Witnesses, they do unitedly insist upon the following Clause :

" That he shall consider the Vizier's Friends as his Friends, and all his Enemies as his own ; that with whomsoever the Vizier shall declare War, Fyzoolah Khan shall join with his Army Two or Three thousand Men, to the utmost of his Ability ; and that if the Vizier marches against any Enemy in Person, he shall then bring his whole Army to join him ; and if he is unable to join him, because the Number of 5,000 Men, to which his Standing Army is limited, are too few, in such Case he shall have Leave to raise 4,000 more, that he may then join him with a sufficient Force, and these Expences shall be defrayed."

" Demand immediate Delivery of 3,000 Cavalry, and if he should evade or refuse Compliance, that the Deputies shall deliver him a formal Protest against him, for Breach of Treaty ; and return, making their Report to the Vizier, which Mr. Middleton is to transmit to the Board."

" In the Case of Compliance of Fyzoolah Khan, by the Delivery of the Horse required, Mr. Middleton should be directed to establish some Mode of securing a Fund for the regular Payment of them, that they may not, from want of Pay, become troublesome instead of useful, or the Company run the Risk of being involved by the Necessity of making Advances to them."

Which Motion of the Governor General's was ordered accordingly ; and Instructions were sent to Mr. Middleton, the Resident at the Vizier's Court, to the Effect abovementioned ; and the Governor General and Council, in their Secret Letter to the Court of Directors, of the 27th of April 1781, advise them of their Proceedings respecting Fyzoolah Khan, in the same Terms as are expressed in the Instructions to Mr. Middleton.

And Your Committee having perused the Bengal Secret Consultations of the 4th of June 1781, find therein Two Letters from Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated at Lucknow, the 13th of April and the 5th of May 1781, with several Enclosures ; and as the above Letters, with the Enclosures, contain a full Account of the Mission to Fyzoolah Khan, in consequence of the above Instructions, Your Committee thought they could not better explain that Transaction, than by inserting the same in this Place.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Governor General and Council of Bengal ; dated Lucknow, 13th April 1781.

" Having, agreeably to your Instructions, proposed to the Vizier, that a Deputation should be sent to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, to demand the stipulated Number of Troops which he is engaged by Treaty to furnish at his Excellency's Summons, but which, on a former Application, he had evaded complying with ; and informed the Nabob, that I should appoint Mr. Richard Johnson, my Head Assistant, to accompany the Agent he might select for the Execution of this Commission, in Behalf of the English Government, as Guarantees to the Treaty subsisting between him and Fyzoolah Khan ; his Excellency thought proper to give his Nomination also to Mr. Johnson ; who accordingly left Lucknow the 26th ultimo, with a Copy of the Instructions I was honoured with from the Board for his Guidance.

" I have the Honour to lay before you, a Copy of the Vizier's and my Letters to Mr. Johnson and the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, on the above Subject ; and I shall not fail to communicate to your Honourable Board the earliest Information of the Result of this Mission, that you may adopt such further Measures as you may deem expedient."

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Nathaniel Middleton to the Governor General and Council of Bengal ; dated the 5th of May 1781.

" In my Address of the 13th April, I did myself the Honour to inform you, that in Obedience to your Orders of the 15th February, I had deputed Mr. Richard Johnson, my Head Assistant, to Rampore, the Capital of Fyzoolah Khan, and that the Vizier had likewise appointed that Gentleman on his Behalf.

" I have now the Honour of laying before you, Copies of the Letters written to me by Mr. Johnson during this Mission, with a complete Account of his Proceedings, ending with the Protest which he found himself obliged to make upon the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan's Refusal to grant the Three thousand Cavalry demanded by the Vizier.

" The Nabob Vizier has on his Behalf written to the Governor General on this Subject ; upon which there remains nothing for me to add, having, as I trust, executed the Commands I was honoured with. It now rests with the Board to take such Measures as they may deem fit, to bring the Matter to a Conclusion."

The following Letters were sent as Enclosures in the above Letter of the 5th May 1781.

Copy of a Letter from the Nabob Vizier to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan ; dated the 18th Rubbee Ulawul 1195.

“ Respecting the Demand of Troops for the Company’s Service, which was before made from “ you, you wrote, that you would supply Two thousand Horse ; the Answer to this, with all the “ Negotiations necessary for the settling this Point, which will be made known to you by Mr.
“ Johnson, who is going to you on the Part of the Governor and Council, of me, and Mr. Mid“ dleton. It is incumbent on your Friendship to grant whatever Mr. Johnson shall ask for the Ser“ vice of the Company, and to give him Satisfaction.”

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Middleton to the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan ; dated 30th Rubbee Ulawul.

“ Before this, a Letter was written to you by his Excellency the Nabob Vizier, agreeable to the “ Directions of the Governor General, respecting Five thousand Horse (Tooock Sawars) for the Com“ pany’s Service ; in Answer to that, you mention Two thousand Horse (Sawars) which appears to “ his Highness the Governor General to be contrary to the Terms of the Treaty, and to be an “ Evasion on your Part : The Governor General and Gentlemen of the Council have therefore, after “ mature Consideration, been pleased to order, that a Person of Trust be sent from hence to you, to “ explain and adjust this Breach of Treaty ; accordingly Mr. Richard Johnson has been deputed to “ you on the Part of his Excellency and on mine ; he will acquaint you with all Particulars, and “ will receive your Answer.”

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Johnson to Mr. Middleton ; dated Rampore 1st April 1781.

“ I have now the Honour to inform you of my safe Arrival here : I have been received with every “ becoming Attention, from which, arguing upon the Opinion I have imbibed from the Informations
“ I gathered at Berelly, I am unwilling to draw any favourable or flattering Inferences relatively to
“ the Object of my Mission ; however, without prefaging, as the Event is so near, I shall content “ myself with informing you, that having received the Visit of Ceremony this Morning, To-morrow “ Evening is fixed upon for returning it, when I shall deliver my Credentials ; and appoint a Time for “ the further Discussion of what I have to say ; in the mean Time I beg Leave to trouble you with “ Information of such Circumstances as have come to my Knowledge by being upon the Spot, and “ are relative to the present Business.

“ The Jaghire itself is, what the Whole of Rohiltund was, under the Government of the Robillas, a “ Garden without an uncultivated Spot ; and at the Time that it was assigned, under certain Stipula“ tions, to Fyzoolah Khan, as an Income of 14,75,000 Berelly Rupees, it yielded a Revenue of “ between Twenty and Thirty Lacks, but as he himself was the Chooser, so he was the Appraiser ;
“ none of the Vizier’s or our People at that Time knowing, or having had Opportunity to know, any “ Thing of the Value in Detail of the Rohilla Lands ; so that this Chief, from receiving and “ collecting about Three Lacks under his Countrymen, was raised to Ten Times his then Condition, “ Power, and Wealth, by being defeated by the English. However, that Piece of Luck is out of the “ question, while the Fraud of the mistated and concealed Value of the Jaghire is more deserving “ of Notice ; and so far did the Artifice and Cunning of Fyzoolah Khan carry him, that, to hide the “ Overplus, he complained that his Jaghire did not yield the Amount for which it was granted ;
“ and in Consideration of this Complaint, received an Order upon the Aumil of Rohiltund, for an “ annual Payment of Four thousand Rupees : Not even satisfied with this, he again complained, that “ he had not sufficient Influence with the Aumil to obtain regular Payment, and therefore requested
“ to have Lands granted him for the Amount ; which being also acquiesced in, he found Means to “ get Lands for double the Sum. The Aumil, at this Moment, receives Credit, or a Deduction “ from the Circar for 4,000 Rupees, whilst he gives the Farmer of the Pergunnah from which “ these Lands are severed, Deduction for 8,000 Rupees ; and what is more remarkable is, that “ the Allowance for a Deficiency is continued while a public Treaty exists, giving up the Surplus “ Revenues of the Jaghire to Fyzoolah Khan. And here it may be proper to explain, that the Treaty “ for giving him up the Excess of the Collections above the stipulated Revenues, granted to “ Fyzoolah Khan, is under the Name of Towfier, which means, an Increase of Revenue by Increase “ of Cultivation since the original Grant—the very Reverse of the Fact with regard to Rampore, as “ Fyzoolah Khan’s Excess of Revenue lays in a fraudulent Valuation at the Time of the Grant ; that “ Treaty is therefore of itself null.

“ Nor is the original Treaty to which the English are Guarantees less trespassed upon ; one most “ pointed Part being, that no one Man more than 5,000 Rohillas shall be allowed to remain
“ on this Side of the Ganges ; whereas, at this Moment there are not less than 20,000 Rohilla “ Soldiers in the District of Rampore alone, to say nothing of the immense Numbers in Pellubear ; “ Clentah,

" Clentah, Amoah, &c. which latter it is not so much in Fyzoolah Khan's Power to prevent. Upon this Clause the Grant runs, and is of course forfeited.

" I have thought it incumbent upon me to furnish you and his Excellency the Vizier with this Information, authenticated from the Spot, that the Parties may know the respective Ground they stand upon.

" I shall do myself the Honour of addressing you again after my next Meeting.

" P. S. I may add to the above Information, a Remark, that could not fail striking me the Moment I entered this Country, that it will be but a small Loss indeed should the Nabob continue to refuse the Cavalry demanded of him; for in the Course of my Life, I have never seen or heard of any Thing less like a Trooper or a Soldier, than is so called Cavalry or Infantry."

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Johnson to Mr. Middleton.

" I had Yesterday the Meeting mentioned in my last Address to you, when I delivered my Credentials from you and his Excellency the Vizier; and this Morning was appointed for the Explanation of what I further had to say. The Nabob Fyzoolah Khan came to my Tents; our Conversation, to my no small Astonishment, was short to a Degree, for I had no sooner stated the Claim for 3,000 Cavalry, to which I was to require his Answer, than he gave me a flat Refusal, which he told me he meant to abide by; and having repeated my Question, offering him Time to consider upon his Reply, as I was in no Hurry, he declined the tendered Delay, repeating his absolute Refusal.

" I therefore had no Option; but, in Compliance with the Orders of the Board, received through you, I drew and delivered him my Protest, witnessed by Major Balfour, who came with me from Berelly for that Purpose, and by Mir Mahomed Hussain, who wrote the Paper, an authentic Copy of which, in the Hand Writing of the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan's own Moonshiee, I have the Honour herewith to transmit to you, together with a Memorandum of a palliative Offer made by the Nabob, as he said conformably with the Treaty, which I put down at his particular Desire, but otherwise useless, as my Orders were not to receive any Palliation, but a Negative or Affirmative.

" Having nothing further to do here, I shall proceed To-morrow Morning with the utmost Dispatch for Lucknow."

A Copy of the Translation of the Protest mentioned in the above Letter.

" Having, agreeably to the Orders of the Honourable Governor General and Council, under Date the 15th February 1781, and the consequent Commission of the Nabob Vizier, and Nathaniel Middleton, Esquire, demanded from the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan to deliver to the English, in Conformity to the Treaty and Treaties preceding this Date, by which he holds his Jaghire, a Body of Three thousand Cavalry, to be employed whenever the Exigencies of the Service may require; and also, conformably to the above-mentioned Orders, having further demanded Assents for the Payment of such Troops;

" The Nabob Fyzoolah Khan, in Reply, agreed, that he would, in Compliance with the Demand, and in Conformity to the Treaty, which specified no definite Number of Cavalry or Infantry, only expressing Troops, furnish 3,000 Men; viz. he would, in Addition to the 1,000 Cavalry already granted, give 1,000 more when and wheresoever required, and 1,000 Foot—That with regard to Pay, he would give the Whole 3,000 One Year's Pay in Advance, and if the Exigencies of the War should require their Absence for a longer Time, he would furnish Mr. Middleton, or whomsoever may be properly authorized to receive it at Lucknow, further Funds for the Continuance of the Pay of the said 3,000 Men, as long as the Duration of the War might require it."

[Copy. Translation of a Letter from the Nabob Vizier to Mr. Hastings.

" I once before had the Honour to address you upon the Subject of Fyzoolah Khan, stating the Injury and Irregularity in the Management of the Provinces bordering upon Rampore, arising from that Chief having the uncontrolled Dominion of that District. I also before represented to you, his Refusal of your First Demand, through me, for Cavalry; and I learn, by Letters from Mr. Johnson, whom I lately deputed, in consequence of your and the Board's Desire, to authenticate the Answer from Fyzoolah Khan, that he has again repeated that Refusal, in direct Breach of the Treaty: It would therefore now seem no more than just, intirely to resume the Grant, and leave the Nabob Fyzoolah Khan to join his other faithless Brethren that were sent across the Ganges; but knowing the great Lenity and Delicacy with which you treat even those who offend you, and willing that a Treaty to which the English are Guarantees, should, even when broken, bear Marks of the honoured Stamp it has once received; I propose to stop the Evil first above alluded “ alluded to, that the Lands be resumed, and the Amount stipulated in the original Treaty be, through the Mediation of the English, continued in ready Money Payment from the Treasury, under the Deductions also stipulated in the Treaty for the furnishing a Body of Troops from Three to Five thousand, which, at the Rate of their own established Pay, I shall be very happy to see transferred to the English, to assist further in defraying the Charges of the present War; and I may safely presume, that the Money will be of much more Use than such Troops, by what I have seen of them myself—an Opinion now strongly confirmed in Mr. Johnson’s Letter.

“ A Treaty broken in One Instance need not require proving a Second to render it null, or I might inform you, that the fundamental Clause upon which the Grant turns, which is, that not One Rohilla above 5,000 shall be permitted to remain on this Side the Ganges, has constantly been from the First, and continues to the present Moment, infringed in the extremest Degree, by the Multitude of that Cast now in Rampore and Rohilkund.

“ I trust you will also think, that whatever Fyzoolah Khan’s private Feelings, as a Man ever fond of being vested with Power, may suggest, that in fact changing his Jaghire for a Pension, received through the Medium of the English, must, in Reason and Fact, be an Advantage to him in point of Money, as it is cleared of the Deduction of Charges of Collections, which he must now incur by holding Lands as the Medium and Mode of receiving his stipulated 14,75,000 Rupees; and as for any Surplus Money he may collect above that Amount, he never can legally hold forth his Right to it, for the Treaty granting him Towfier will in no Shape support it, as it is proved to Demonstration, that his Excess of Collections, instead of arising from an increased Cultivation, is in fact a Fraud in the First Valuation.

“ Upon the Whole, I flatter myself with your Consent to a Measure by which my Government will be eased of an immediate Evil, relieved of a Cause of constant Apprehension in the Event of an internal Commotion or Invasion, at the same Time preserving the English Honour as Guarantees, and also yielding an Advantage to the Company in assisting in the Charges of the War.”

In the above Consultation, the Governor General and Council, after reading the last-mentioned Letters and Inclosures, agree (without any Debate) “ That a final Resolution on the Subject of the above Letter, and the Papers accompanying it, be suspended to another Occasion.”

And Your Committee further find, That within a few Weeks after this Resolution had passed the Council, the Governor General proceeded up the Country, where he staid some Time; during which, on the 19th of September 1781, he entered into an Agreement, on Behalf of himself and Council, with the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah; the Third Article of which, as it relates to the before-mentioned Transaction, Your Committee think necessary to insert, with the Governor General’s Remarks on it.

Copy of the Third Article agreed to by the Governor General, on Behalf of himself and Council, at the Representation of the Nabob Asoph ul Dowlah, on the 19th Day of September 1781, with the Governor General’s Remarks on it.

Article 3<sup>d</sup>.

That as Fyzoolah Khan has, by his Breach of Treaty, forfeited the Protection of the English Government, and causes, by his Continuance in his present independent State, great Alarm and Detriment to the Nabob, he be permitted, when Time shall suit, to resume his Lands, and pay him in Money, through the Resident, the Amount stipulated by Treaty, after deducting the Amount and Charges of the Troops he stands engaged to furnish by Treaty, which Amount shall be passed to the Account of the Company during the Continuance of the present War.

Governor General’s Remarks.

The Conduct of Fyzoolah Khan, in refusing the Aid demanded, though not an absolute Breach of Treaty, was evasive and uncandid; the Demand was made for Five thousand Cavalry, the Engagement in the Treaty is literally for Five thousand Horse and Foot; Fyzoolah Khan could not be ignorant that we had no Occasion for any Succours of Infantry from him, and that Cavalry could be of the most essential Service. So scrupulous an Attention to literal Expression, when a more liberal Interpretation would have been highly useful and acceptable to us, strongly marks his unfriendly Disposition, though it may not impeach his Fidelity, and leaves him little Claim to any Exertions from us for the Continuance of his Jaghires. But I am of Opinion, that neither the Vizier’s nor the Company’s Interests would be promoted by depriving Fyzoolah Khan of his Independency, and I have therefore reserved the Execution of this Agreement to an indefinite Term, and our Government may always interpose to prevent any ill Effects from it.

And in order to shew to the House in what Light the Court of Directors considered the Proceedings respecting Fyzoolah Khan, Your Committee think it necessary to add the 62d, 63d, and 64th Paragraphs of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, of the 12th of July 1782.

" Par. 62.—From the Appearance in the Correspondence on your Secret Consultations of 14 June 1781, between Mr Middleton, our Resident at Oude, and Mr. Johnson, who was sent to Fyzoolah Khan, a Rohilla Chief, to require from him the Quota of Troops with which by Treaty he was bound to furnish the Vizier, we cannot but be under some Apprehensions for the Event.

" Par. 63.—It is exceedingly proper that your Government should see that Fyzoolah Khan fulfils his Engagement with the Vizier, according to the Treaty guaranteed by the Company; but we wish rather to be considered as the Guardians of the Honour and Prosperity of the Native Powers of India with whom we are in any Degree connected, than as the Instruments of Oppression; we hope and trust therefore, that no hostile Steps have been taken against the Rohilla Chief.

" Par. 64. —To procure and maintain the Peace of India—to quiet the Fears of the neighbouring Powers, who from the Conduct of our Servants have had too much Reason to be jealous of our Encroachments—to adhere strictly to Treaties, and never to be the Aggressors—to secure to the Natives under the immediate Government of the Country, the undisturbed Exercise of their Religion and Customs, and to encourage Cultivation, Manufactures, and Commerce—are the Means by which we hope to regain the Confidence of the Native Princes and the Attachment of the People; by such Means, and by such alone, we may hope to see our Affairs once more flourishing, and Permanency again given to the Company's Possessions in the East Indies."

And Your Committee find, That the Court of Directors did resume the Consideration of this Subject in February 1783. They have investigated it with a Degree of Accuracy and Precision, not usually to be found in the Course of their Proceedings; and they have agreed to Resolutions, highly proper for the Court of Directors to adopt upon a Point of so much Importance as the due Observance of a public Treaty. Your Committee will here state them at large, as follows:

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal, dated the 14th February 1783.

Vizier.

" With respect to the Third Article *, regarding Fyzoola Khan, the Rohilla Chief; before we could form an Opinion upon it, we were led to an Examination of such Parts of your Records as in anywise related to him.

" We found, that at the Conclusion of the Rohilla War in 1774, a Treaty was made between the late Sujah Dowlah and Fyzoola Khan; whereby the latter, on certain Conditions, was put into the Possession of Rampore, and some other Districts in the Rohilla Country. Though it does not appear, upon the Face of the Treaty, what Equivalent was made to the Vizier; yet we find, by a Letter from Colonel Champion, entered on your Consultations of the 31st October 1774, that Fyzoola Khan was to give the Vizier Half his Treasure.

" On the 9th March 1778, a considerable Time after the Death of Sujah Dowlah, you were informed, by the Resident at the Vizier's Court, that there were Reports of hostile Intentions in Fyzoola Khan. The Resident added, That the Rohilla Chief might be justly alarmed by the Nabob's Resumption of a Number of Jaghires granted by his Father, and by his oppressive Conduct in general. You were likewise informed, that Fyzoola Khan was solicitous to obtain the Guarantee of the Company to his Engagements with the Vizier; and the professed Motives of the Resident, for sending a Deputation to Fyzoola Khan, were, " That in case of the latter's acquitting himself, it would give him a Confidence in the Company, which might induce him to look up to that Influence as the surest Defence against any Invasion of his Right, and thereby render him a faithful and perhaps a useful Ally upon some future Emergency." On a Motion of the Governor General, the Resident was authorized to offer the Company's Guarantee for the Observance of the Treaty; the Governor General at the same Time observing, that the many Letters which he had received from Fyzoola Khan, at various Times, proved the Necessity of such an Intervention.

" On the 4th May following the Resident acquainted the Board, that Fyzoola Khan appeared in no Respect to have violated the Treaty; transmitting at the same Time a new Treaty under the Guarantee of the Company.

" We find, that Fyzoola Khan declared to the Person who negotiated this Matter with him on the Part of the Company, " That without the Guarantee of the Company, he could not look upon himself secure in his present Possessions; that the Company were the only Power in which he had Confidence, and which he could look up to for Protection." There never was perhaps a Treaty concluded with more Solemnity. According to the Report of Mr. Daniel Barwell, entered on your Consultations the 21st May 1781, it was signed in the Presence of the greater Part of his Subjects, in order to establish a firm Conviction in their Minds, " That it was an Act fully authorized by the English Government, which was now become bound to exact with Impartiality a strict Observance of each Article of the Treaty." This Business was finally settled, by the Governor General being desired by the Board to write to Fyzoola Khan, confirming the Obligation of the Company as Guarantees, and by your Acceptance of a Lack of Rupees, on Behalf of the Company, as an Acknowledgment from Fyzoola Khan.

In

" In November 1780, upon receiving Information that the Seiks and Goodies were committing Depredations in Rohilkund, we find that the Board agreed to apply to the Vizier, to require from Fyzoola Khan his Quota of Troops: In consequence of which, the Governor General wrote for 5,000 Horse.—But judge of our Surprize to find by the Treaty, that whenever the Vizier declared War, Fyzoola Khan was to join with only 2 or 3,000 Men, unless the Vizier had marched in Person! Where then was the Justice of this Demand? Fyzoola Khan replied, as appears by your Consultations 15th February 1781, that he would send 2,000 Horse, which were all the Cavalry in his Service; that the 3,000 Foot kept up by him were for the Management of the Concerns of his Jaghire, and that without them the Collections could not be made.

" We cannot here avoid remarking, that at the very Time of your making this improper Demand, 500 of Fyzoola Khan's Troops had actually joined our Forces; though he was under no Obligation to furnish the Company with a single Man, but had granted this Supply, merely to shew his Attachment to the English.

" The foregoing Answer from Fyzoola Khan, was immediately followed by a Minute of the Governor General, declaring, That he had evaded the Treaty; in consequence of which, it was instantly resolved to send a Deputation, to insist upon its being complied with, and to demand the immediate Delivery, not of 5,000, but of 3,000 Horse. To make so hasty and peremptory a Demand for Three thousand Horse, after you had been positively assured that he had but 2,000 in his Service, carries with it the Appearance of a Determination to create a Pretext for depriving him of his Jaghire entirely, or to leave him at the Mercy of the Nabob; and all the subsequent Proceedings seem to confirm us in this Idea.

" Notwithstanding it is stated, on Consultation 4th June 1781, that a flat Refusal was the verbal Answer to this Deputation with respect to 3,000 Horse, yet we find at the Conference, Fyzoola Khan willing to agree, " That in Compliance with the Treaty, which specified no definitive Number of Cavalry, he would furnish 2,000 Horse and 1,000 Foot; that he would give them One Year's Pay in Advance, and furnish further Funds during the War." On the very Day you received an Account of the Result of this Deputation, 4th June 1781, a Letter is read at your Board from the Vizier, proposing to resume the Grant, " and leave the Nabob Fyzoola Khan to join his other faithless Brethren that were sent across the Ganges," and in lieu thereof, to pay him the Amount stipulated by Treaty, after deducting the Pay of 5,000 Troops;—and shortly after, the Governor General proceeded up the Country.

" We do not find any further Mention of this Business, until we read the following Article of the new Treaty with the Nabob of Oude, which was executed on the 19th September 1781; viz. 3dly, " That as Fyzoola Khan has, by his Breach of Treaty, forfeited the Protection of the English Government, and causes, by his Continuance in his present independent State, great Alarm and Detriment to the Nabob, he be permitted, when Time shall suit, to resume his Lands, and pay him in Money, through the Resident, the Amount stipulated by Treaty, after deducting the Amount and Charges of the Troops he stands engaged to furnish by Treaty; which Amount shall be passed to the Account of the Company, during the Continuance of the present War."

" The foregoing Article is expressly said to be founded on a Breach of the Treaty by Fyzoola Khan; and yet, in the Observation which the Governor General has made upon this Article, he acknowledges that the Conduct of Fyzoola Khan was not an absolute Breach of Treaty, though evasive and uncandid. We confess ourselves of Opinion, that his Conduct was neither evasive nor uncandid. But admitting the Fact, Does it furnish a justifiable Ground for breaking through a most solemn Engagement? Was it a Time to seize slight Pretences for evading a Treaty, when the most alarming Confederacies were formed against the Company?

" We fear, that by observing such a Conduct as this, few of the Country Powers of India will in future adopt the Sentiments of Fyzoola Khan, " in considering the Company as the only Power in which they have Confidence, and to which they can look up for Protection."

" We do not only arraign the Justice of the Measure, but its Policy also:—And if we wanted an Argument upon this Occasion, the Governor General, in his Observation upon this Article of the Treaty, has furnished us with an unanswerable one: " I am of Opinion," says he, " that neither the Vizier's nor the Company's Interest would be promoted by depriving Fyzoola Khan of his Independency, and I have therefore reserved the Execution of this Agreement to an indefinite Term; and our Government may always interfere to prevent any ill Effects from it." We have thus agreed to commit an Act of Injustice, by which neither the Vizier's nor the Company's Interest will be promoted; and yet, if we do not suffer this Injustice to take place, we shall be guilty of a Breach of Treaty with the Vizier.—It is not by such a Policy as this that we can ever hope to break the Confederacies, and regain the Confidence of the several Powers of India.

" In our Letter of the 12th of July last, we expressed our Apprehensions for the Event of the Deputation sent to Fyzoola Khan; and we are sorry to find that those Apprehensions were too well founded. Fyzoola Khan had Reason to expect other Treatment at the Hands of the Governor General; for did he not, at the breaking out of the War with France, to shew his Attachment to the Company, make a voluntary Offer to maintain 2,000 Cavalry for our Service? The Resident at the Vizier's Court writes, under the 5th December 1778, that he found such a Promptness in Fyzoola Khan to render the Company any Assistance within the Bounds of his Finances and Ability, as even surpassed his own Expectations: And did you not resolve, in Consultations 28th of the same Month, " That the Thanks of your Board be returned to him, for this Mark of his faithful “ faithful Attachment to the Company ?” In the Governor General’s Letter to Fyzoola Khan upon this Occasion, are the following Words ; “ In my own Name and that of the Board, I return you our warmest Thanks for this Instance of your faithful Attachment to the Company.” And you yourselves have acquainted us, in your Secret Letter of the 1st of February 1779, that on requesting the Aid of Part of the offered Assistance, “ he, without Hesitation or Delay, sent 500 Men to co-operate with our Forces.”

“ Thus, in March 1778 you pledge the Company’s Faith for the Performance of the Treaty between Fyzoola Khan and the Vizier—In December following, the Thanks of your Board are given to him for his Attachment to the Company, in sending Troops to their Assistance on the breaking out of the War with France—In November 1780, you make an unwarrantable Demand upon him, which, it not being in his Power to comply with, furnishes a Pretext for depriving him of his Lands ; and in September 1781, a Treaty is finally concluded, by which his Territory is wrested from him, and given to the Vizier.

“ Fyzoola Khan’s Merits with the Company on the one Hand, and the Governor General’s Treatment of him on the other, must be known to all the surrounding Powers ; and if such singular Marks of Attention to the Company’s Interest and Government are to be thus required, we have Reason to dread future Combinations against us, which may end in the utter Extirpation of the English from Hindostan. It is only by a strict Regard to Justice, Moderation, and good Faith, that we can hope to maintain our present Footing in India.

“ As we can no where discover that Fyzoola Khan has been guilty of a Breach of Treaty, and thereby forfeited the Protection of the Company ; and as the Governor General has informed us, that he has reserved the Execution of the Agreement contained in this Article to an indefinite Term, and that our Government may always interfere, to prevent any ill Effects from it ; and as Fyzoola Khan appears to have had great Merit with the Company, in the particular Instances above referred to, we direct that that Article be not carried into Execution, and that you obtain the Consent of the Vizier to Fyzoola Khan’s continuing in the Possession of his Jaghire unmolested.”

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, of the 9th March 1778.

GOVERNOR GENERAL—I move, That the Board approve of the Deputation of Mr. Daniel Barwell; and that the Resident be authorized to offer the Company's Guarantee for the Observance of the Treaty subsisting between the Vizier and Fyzoolah Khan, provided it meets with the Vizier's Concurrence; but that if any Objection should be made to it on the Part of the Nabob, he advise us thereof, and wait our further Orders for the Conclusion of this Negotiation.

Mr. Francis—Mr. Barwell has an Appointment at Benares, and when he left Calcutta last, he assured me that he was going to that Place to remain there. I must desire to be informed by what Authority he left his Station and went to Lucknow, as it does not appear that he had the Orders or the Permission of the Board for that Purpose.

Governor General—I must beg Leave to answer this Question. Mr. Barwell required no other Authority to quit his Station but the Permission of his Principal, Mr. Thomas Graham.

Mr. Francis—I do not admit that Mr. Graham's Permission is any Authority for Mr. Barwell to quit his Station, contrary to the Appointment of the Board; but if it were, I desire to see at least that Mr. Graham gave him such Authority, and for what Reasons. If the Circumstance is mentioned in any Letter from Mr. Graham, it ought to be before the Board. I will not however take up any further Time in Enquiries which I am sure are useless. The Court of Directors will of course make their own Observations upon the Fact; it is one of the grossest that I have been Witness to, though I have seen many extraordinary Things since I sat in this Place. Mr. D. Barwell quits his Station, and goes to Lucknow, without Leave; Mr. Middleton immediately discovers that Fyzoolah Khan is carrying on some Designs prejudicial to the Interest of the Nabob, and that the Nabob gives great Reason for such Designs by his Treatment of his Subjects; at the same Time I believe that nothing is more notorious, than that the Nabob has no more Power in his Dominions than I have. To put a Stop to the Effects which the Jealousies on both Sides may produce, a Treaty must be made, the Guarantee of the Company must be given, and Mr. D. Barwell finds himself very opportunely at Lucknow, ready to execute the Commission. These Facts, I apprehend, speak for themselves. With respect to the Approbation proposed to be given to Mr. Middleton, I can by no Means consent to it; because, setting aside all other Considerations, Mr. Middleton had no Right to employ Mr. Barwell in this Manner, without the previous Consent of the Board.

Governor General—I shall forbear at this Time answering the Charges implied in the preceding Minute, against whomsoever they may be levelled. The Measure is a public one, the Objections are personal. The many Letters which I have received from Fyzoolah Khan, at various Times, will prove the Necessity of such an Intervention, and to these I shall refer. I would propose to insert Extracts of them in this Place, but I know not to what Length they might extend, as the Subject is of a very distant Origin, and has been frequently repeated.

Mr. Wheeler—If a Deputation be judged necessary, it is a Matter of the greatest Indifference to me, whether the Appointment falls to the Share of Mr. Barwell, or to any other Gentleman in the Service that shall appear equally qualified; but whether Mr. Barwell has quitted his Station without first obtaining Mr. Graham's Permission, or whether it rests with Mr. Graham to grant him that Permission, are Points necessary to establish for the Regularity of the Service. I should suppose, if any Gentleman cannot quit his Station at this Presidency without the Permission of the Governor, he cannot quit a more subordinate, without the Permission of his Chief; therefore, when this Point is cleared up, I shall give my further Opinion as to Mr. Barwell's intended Appointment.

Mr. Barwell—In a political Question, such as the present, I am sorry to see the Introduction of Personalities; the Argument must be weak that requires the Aid of Insinuation to support it. I shall not myself reply to Mr. Francis; the Public will judge how far the Appointment of Mr. D. Barwell is a Measure gross in itself, and extravagant beyond all extravagant Acts in the Recollection of Mr. Francis. I am very glad, for my Part, that Mr. D. Barwell is engaged in a Line of Service, where his Knowledge of the Language may be of Service to the Public. I agree in the Governor General's Motion.

Mr. Francis—Mr. Barwell attributes Words to me which I have not made use of. With respect to the Charge of mixing Personalities in a Consideration of a public Measure, I am not conscious of it, and on that Point submit to Judgment. It is not a personal Reflection, nor an Insinuation, to say, that Mr. D. Barwell has quitted his Station without Leave. If the Measure of forming a Treaty with Fyzoolah Khan had been regularly introduced at this Board, and resolved upon, perhaps I should have had as little Objection to employing that Gentleman as any other. My Objection is plainly this, that all the Steps preparatory to the intended Treaty, are taken, that the Person intended to conduct it, is sent up to Lucknow, and that he receives his Appointment there, without the previous Consent or even Knowledge of the Board.

Mr. Barwell—I should be sorry to pervert, by my Interpretation, the declared Object of Opposition to any particular Measure; and as it should seem, from the subsequent Explanation of Mr. Francis, that I am in some Degree mistaken, I will endeavour to correct the Idea I had formed of his Objections.

The Governor General's Proposition being resolved in the Affirmative, the following is an Extract of a Letter written to Mr. Middleton:

"We approve your having deputed Mr. Daniel Barwell to Fyzoolah Khan, for the Purposes represented in your Letter of the 25th; and we authorize you to grant the Company's Guarantee to the Treaty subsisting between the Nabob and him, provided it meets with the Nabob's Concurrence; but if any Objection should be made to it on his Part, you will immediately advise us, and wait for our Orders on this Subject before you proceed any further in that Negotiation."

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 4th May 1778.

READ the following Letters and Enclosure from the Resident at the Nabob's Court:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have been duly honoured with your Commands of the 9th March; and have the Pleasure to acquaint you, that after being fully assured by Mr. Barwell of Fyzoola Cawn's neither keeping up any considerable Force, holding improper Correspondence or Connections, or appearing in any Respect to have violated the Engagements he entered into in his Treaty with the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah; I communicated to the Vizier the Honourable Board's Permission to me, to guarantee, on the Part of the Honourable Company, the Treaty subsisting between him and Fyzoola Cawn, provided his Excellency should give his Concurrence to that Permission.

The Nabob having approved of the Purposes of Mr. Barwell's Mission, and being assured, from his Report, and other concurrent Circumstances, that Fyzoola Cawn's Conduct furnished no Grounds of Accusation by which he could be justified in an Infringement of the Rights confirmed to him by Treaty, readily, and without Hesitation, consented to a Renewal of the Treaty under Guarantee of the Honourable Company, only signifying his Expectations that some complimentary Present, conformable to constant Custom, and suitable to his Rank, should be made him by Fyzoola Cawn on the Delivery of the Khelaut.—As I could not entertain a Doubt, from Fyzoola Cawn's Anxiety for the Completion of this Business, under the Sanction of the Honourable Board, but that he would of his own Accord be ready to shew the Vizier such Marks of Gratitude and Respect as would manifest his due Consideration of the great Obligation conferred on him, I presumed to assure His Excellency he might certainly expect to receive on the Occasion an Acknowledgment not disparaging to his Rank and Dignity, nor betraying in Fyzoola Cawn a deficient Sense of the Benefits he derived from an Alliance with His Excellency.—From what I was able to discover in my Conversation with the Vizier, I have Reason to believe he looks not to any Sum which could be considered as a pecuniary Acquisition, but confines his Expectations merely to such complimentary

Nuzzers

Nuzzers as are usually offered in Token of Respect by a subordinate to a superior Power, on similar Occasions.—I have therefore taken upon me to desire Mr. Barwell to represent this Matter in its proper Light to Fyzoola Cawn; and I have no Doubt but that Chief's Concurrence in whatever may be reasonable and proper; will close the Negotiation in a Manner entirely satisfactory to the Vizier.

I have the Honour to enclose for your Perusal, Copies of the Vizier's Treaty with Fyzoola Cawn, and of the Obligation which I have entered into, in consequence of the Authority you were pleased to delegate to me, on the Part of the Honourable Company; and for your more particular Information I must also beg Leave to trouble you with a complete Transcript of my Correspondence with Mr. Barwell, on the Subject of his Mission, commencing with my original Instructions; which I hope will meet with the Honourable Board's Approbation.

Extract of Correspondence between the Resident at the Vizier's Court and Mr. Daniel Barwell, agreeable to their respective Dates.

Sir,

I arrived at Rampoor, the Capital of the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn, this Morning. Pursuant to your Instructions, I shall make all possible Haste to enquire, if the Reports circulated to the Prejudice of Fyzoola Cawn, have any Foundation in Truth, or have been merely raised by his Enemies, to create Animosities between the Government of the Vizier and his Government. To-night I shall do myself the Pleasure of waiting on him, when I shall deliver to him your Letter of Introduction on the Part of our Government, to explain to him the Nature of my Mission; and also unfold to him in the fullest Manner, the Particulars of the Reports that accuse him of having broken every Article of Consequence of the Treaty granted him by the Indulgence of the late Vizier, Sujah ul Dowlah, that he may have a fair Opportunity allowed him of acquitting himself to the Satisfaction of our Ally, or be reduced to the Necessity of avowing his Intentions, whatever they may be.

As soon as a short Residence at this Place has enabled me to gather Information on the other Particulars recommended to my Enquiry, I will instantly communicate to you all that may appear to me worthy of the Notice of the Vizier, or our Government.

I am, &c.

Rampoor,
the 18th March 1778.

(Signed)

Dan<sup>l</sup> Barwell.

To Mr. Daniel Barwell.

Sir,

I have been duly favoured with your Letter, under Date the 18th Instant; and am glad to hear of your safe Arrival at Rampoor, and that you are proceeding without Delay to enter into the Business of your Mission. In the Conduct of this Negotiation, I am confident you will exert your best Efforts to ascertain, from every likely and creditable Information, the Truth or Falschood of the Reports which have prevailed, as to Fyzoola Cawn's keeping up an improper Force, or entertaining Ideas or Designs unfriendly to the Vizier's Government; and I am happy in the Conviction, that your Abilities and Attention will equally enable you satisfactorily to investigate these Points, notwithstanding the Artifices which Fyzoola Cawn, on the Supposition of the Reports being in any Respect founded on Truth, will no doubt make use of, to conceal and keep at a Distance from you, Circumstances which cannot but injure him with the English Government, and entirely defeat his Wish of their becoming Guarantees to a Treaty between him and the Vizier.—I hope soon to hear from you, the Result of your Interview with Fyzoola Cawn; and am, &c.

Lucknow,
the 24th March 1778.

(Signed)

Nath<sup>l</sup> Middleton.

To Mr. Daniel Barwell.

Sir,

I have been duly favoured with your Letter of the 26th ultimo; and am happy to find the Result of your Explanation with the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn has proved so satisfactory. I own, the Arguments he alledged, to prove to you that he must have been grossly blind to his own Interests to have adopted a Mode of Conduct in any Degree similar to that his Enemies have accused him of, always occurred to me as so palpable, and of such Force, as to render the Truth of the Reports, to my Judgment, in the highest Degree improbable. The particular Character and Circumstances of Fyzoola Cawn also, ever led me to consider him as the most unlikely Man in Hindostan to entertain Views precarious, to say the best of them, in their Consequences, at the Expence of Security and Prosperity on the most easy and obvious Terms. His Character is that of a Man of Sense, but extreme Pusillanimity, nimity, a good Farmer, fond of Wealth, but not possessed of the Passion of Ambition, had he even Spirit or Courage to support it. As to his particular Circumstances with respect to the other Rohilla Chiefs, it is certain that the Extent of Country he holds, is a mere Consequence of the late Vizier's Indulgence to him, and by far greater than the Rohilla Chiefs consider him as entitled to hold, supposing them to be restored to their respective former Possessions: It is evident therefore, that, on the Supposition they could recover such Possessions, they would look with the most envious Eye to Fyzoola Cawn's Dominions, and wish to strip him of them; which, as he is known to be no Soldier, they would easily effect. In every Light, therefore, in which I can view this Matter, I am led to concur in the Conviction you entertain, that the Accusations against Fyzoola Cawn, as to Designs hostile to the Vizier's Dominions, are groundless; and as he is avaricious, I cannot conceive he would, without such Intentions, keep a uselessly expensive large Body of Troops. The only Grounds on which I ever entertained any Idea of Fyzoola Cawn's keeping up an improper Force, or forming Correspondences and Connections with the avowed Enemies of this Government, were the Suspicions and Doubts which I was convinced he entertained of the Vizier's Observance of the Treaty subsisting between him and the late Nabob Shuja-ul-Dowla. He had, I am sorry to say, had too many Opportunities of seeing that his Excellency was not scrupulous in adhering to those Ties and Obligations which should, and will ever bind the ingenuous Part of Mankind, when he could, by violating them, obtain any lucrative Acquisition; and as the improved State of Fyzoola Cawn's Country, from his own Prudence and Attention, had increased the Revenue thereof beyond the Amount specified in Shuja-ul-Dowla's Grant, he might with some Reason suspect that the Vizier would avail himself of that plausible, however really unjust, Pretext to strip him of at least a Part of his Country, if not distress him, by robbing him of the greatest Part of the Wealth he may have acquired, under the Pretence of claiming Arrears of past Years Improvements. With these Apprehensions, and under a total Uncertainty how far, and whether the Company would at all interfere, I did think it possible he might have maintained a Force, and kept up a kind of Correspondence, though not formed any real Alliance, with the Enemies of this Government, as defensive Preparations in case of his Rights being invaded by the Vizier.

His Readiness, however, in calling his Troops before you; and the Assurance you entertain, that such as appeared were nearly all in his Service, as well as that the Reports of his holding improper Correspondences were utterly false, seem to evince, that his Hopes of the Company's using their Influence in supporting his acknowledged Rights, had counterbalanced his Apprehensions of the Vizier, and led him to apply for the Interposition of that Influence previous to his taking any other Steps for his own Security.

By this Mode of Conduct he has certainly shewn his good Sense and sound Policy; as, by an opposite one, which must have been in Violation of the Treaty with the late Vizier, he would have rendered it equally unjust and impolitic in the Company to have interfered, either as Principals or Guarantees, in any new Treaty with the present Nabob.

I have the Pleasure to inform you, that in consequence of my Application to the Honourable Board, they have been pleased to give me their Permission to grant the Company's Guarantee to the Treaty subsisting between the Vizier and Fyzoola Cawn, provided it meets with his Excellency's Concurrence; I shall therefore, without Delay, proceed to induce him, by every Argument in my Power, to consent to a Renewal of the Treaty entered into by his Father, under the Guarantee of the Honourable Company; and in case of his Concurrence, which I hope to obtain, the Treaty and Guarantee shall be forwarded to you with the utmost Expedition.

To Nathaniel Middleton, Esquire, Resident at the Vizier's Court.

Sir,

The inclosed Letter I received from the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn this Morning.—Though its Purport is sufficiently explained in the Letter I did myself the Honour of addressing to you Yesterday; yet, that you may be acquainted, under his own Hand, with his Motives for so earnestly soliciting the Renewal of his Treaty by the Vizier, with the Guarantee of the Honourable Company, I send it you for your Information, that, if necessary, it may be transmitted by you to the Honourable Board. In the latter Part of the Nabob's Letter, you will observe, he particularly mentions the Form in which he requests the Guarantee, if granted, may be expressed.—Though the Signature of the Honourable Company, if permitted to be affixed to his Treaty, infers all he desires, yet, without an Explanation of this Kind in Writing, it will be impossible to raze from his Mind those Doubts which have been occasioned by his wrongfully imagining that Colonel Champion formerly witnessed his Treaty, not as a private Person, but in the Name of the Honourable Company. Should, therefore, the Nabob prove successful in his Application, made through you, for the Guarantee of the Honourable Company, you will judge of the Propriety of rendering it as satisfactory and full as is requisite, to convince him that he will meet with Protection from the Honourable Company, as long as a strict Adherence on his Part to his Treaty with the Vizier shall entitle him to it.

To Mr. Daniel Barwell:

Sir,

I did myself the Pleasure to address you on the 3d Instant; since which, I have the Satisfaction to inform you, that I have obtained the Vizier's Consent to a Renewal of the Treaty entered into by his Father with Fyzoola Cawn, and to the Company being Guarantee thereto. The Treaty and Guarantee are inclosed herewith, and I trust will prove entirely satisfactory to the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn. The Guarantee is as full as he appears himself to have wished; and the Treaty referring to, and avowing, that Guarantee on the Part of the English Company, must, I think, erase from Fyzoola Cawn's Mind, every Suspicion of this being an Act unavowed, or not fully sanctioned by the English Government.—The only Difference I know of any Kind between the Terms of the inclosed Guarantee, and those specified by Fyzoola Cawn himself, is the Omission of the Words, "Heirs and Successors."—It is not customary in this Country for a Prince to bind his Heirs and Successors: Nothing of this Kind was expressed or implied in Shuja-ul-Dowla's Treaty; nor could I properly urge the present Nabob to the inserting them in the new one, and of course, not being included therein, they could not be comprehended in the Guarantee.—I think this can be no reasonable Foundation of Discontent or Suspicion to Fyzoola Cawn, as the Readiness with which the Company have interfered on the present Occasion, can leave no Doubt that they would be as ready, in case of the Nabob's Demise, and his Conduct should furnish no Cause for their withholding their Support, to use their Influence in procuring a Treaty of the same Nature from whoever might be the Successor to this Government.—I must observe to you, that his Excellency, when he agreed to the Terms of the inclosed Treaty, promised, that he gave his Consent thereto, taking it for granted, that on Fyzoola Cawn's receiving the Treaty and Khelaut, he was to make him a Return of the complimentary Presents usually offered on such Occasions, and of such an Amount, as should be a Manifestation of Fyzoola Cawn's due Sense of his Friendship, and suitable to his Excellency's Rank to receive. As such Presents are the never-failing Custom of this Country on similar Occasions, and the Omission of them would, in the present Instance, be in the Eye of the World highly injurious to the Dignity of the Vizier's Government, I made myself in some Measure responsible for their being obtained; and I must therefore request, that you will not neglect to represent this Matter to Fyzoola Cawn in such a Manner, that he may fulfil the Vizier's Expectations, and do Credit to the Part the Honourable Board have been pleased to take in a Matter so nearly and highly concerning his permanent Interest.

From what I could learn from the Vizier's Conversation, he looks not to a Sum which could be considered as a pecuniary Gratification, but merely to such complimentary Nuzzers as are usually made by an inferior to a superior Power, in Token of Respect or Gratitude upon any particular Favours or Benefits being conferred.

I scarce need add, that previous to the Delivery of the inclosed Treaty and Guarantee, you will obtain from Fyzoola Cawn, a formal Obligation, solely and publicly ratified by Fyzoola Cawn, and attested by yourself and One or Two of the most respectable Men about Fyzoola Cawn's Person, to observe inviolable on his Part, the Conditions stipulated as the Foundation of the Vizier's Treaty with him.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I am sorry to acquaint the Honourable Board, that some unexpected Obstacles have occurred, to the immediate Conclusion of Mr. Barwell's Negotiations with Fyzoola Cawn, originating from Doubts and Suspicions which that Chief pretends to entertain of the Validity of the Powers by which I have acted in this Business.—As I could not but consider this Proceeding as an Insult to the Station I have the Honour to fill, and at the same Time tending to establish a Precedent which would, in its future Operation, be entirely destructive of that decisive Line of Conduct the Honourable Board may on many Occasions expect from their Representatives at this Court, I have thought it necessary, as well to manifest the Sense I feel of the Indignity offered my public Character, as in support of the Authority which the Honourable Board have been pleased to annex to it, to insist upon Fyzoola Cawn's Acceptance of the Guarantee under the Sanction it has been offered to him; or upon Mr. Barwell's putting a Stop to all further Negotiation with him, and immediately withdrawing from his Court.

For your more particular Information, I beg Leave to enclose Copies of Mr. Barwell's Letter, covering Fyzoola Cawn's Address to him, and of mine to that Gentleman and Fyzoola, in reply.

To Nathaniel Middleton, Esq; Resident at the Vizier's Court.

Sir,

I have duly received your Letter of the 8th Instant, enclosing the Treaty between the late Nabob Shuja ul Dowlah and Fyzoola Cawn, renewed by the present Nabob Asaph ul Dowlah, with the separate Guarantee of the Honourable Company. Immediately upon my Receipt of the Treaty and Guarantee, I transmitted them to Fyzoola Cawn for his Inspection, to know if they were in every Respect satisfactory, and such as he solicited. With the Treaty renewed by the Vizier, he expressed himself highly satisfied; but declared, that the Guarantee which he had chiefly requested, and on which all his Dependence was placed, as it did not bear the Seal of the Honourable Company, it was not what he had from the Beginning so earnestly desired.—Though I have used my utmost Endeavours to create a Conviction in his Mind, of the Authority that had been delegated to you by the Honourable Board, to grant the Guarantee of the Company, and that your Seal was equally binding with that of the Company in the present Case, as you acted in their Name; yet all my Efforts to produce this Belief have been of no Avail.—Still entertaining Doubts and Suspicions of your actually possessing such a Power, he positively asserts, that no Assurances on your or my Part, will be able to remove them; and that nothing less than receiving the Guarantee with the Seal of the Honourable Company affixed to it, will convince him, that in Case of an Infraction of his Treaty on the Part of the Vizier, he will be befriended by our Government.

After finding all Arguments I offered to his Consideration fruitless, and that they rather served to increase than dispel his Doubts, I desisted from pursuing the Subject any further, and ended by telling him, that as the Guarantee had been granted at his most earnest and repeated Solicitations, to protect him from all Encroachments that might be made on his Rights, it was meant he should be fully convinced of its Authority, that I did not therefore hesitate to assure him that he need be under no Apprehensions of its not being granted in the Manner he desired, with the actual Seal of the Company affixed to it—not your Seal on their Part.—That the only Reason for your signing it on the Part of the Company, was to prevent unnecessary Delays; but that since his Fears were so strong as to render him distrustful of your having such a Power vested in you, it was now become requisite for your Honour, as well as that of the Company, to evince that you acted by the Orders and Directions of the Honourable Board, by having the Guarantee ratified by them.

I enclose you a Letter I have received from Fyzoola Cawn on the Subject. By it you will see the Suspicions that have found Entrance into his Mind, originated from the Idea he entertains, that the Signature of any Person, in whatever public Capacity he at present appears, will not be valid and of Effect as soon as some other shall fill his Station; and that this Conclusion, however absurd, has been occasioned by his former Treaty being witnessed by Colonel Champion, whose Signature he declared he regarded at that Time as given under the Company's Sanction, and which making them privy to the Transaction, rendered them the Arbitrators between the Vizier and himself in case of Disputes.

You will be pleased to inform the Honourable Board without Delay, of the Doubts and Suspicions entertained by Fyzoola Cawn, and of this his particular Request, as also to transmit to them a Copy of the Guarantee, that if they think proper it may receive the Seal of the Company and their Signature.—Till I am informed of the Will of the Honourable Board, I shall not deliver to Fyzoola Cawn the Treaty renewed by the Vizier, as it partly includes the Guarantee.—I request you will be as expeditious as possible in obtaining me a Reply from the Honourable Board, that I may be able to remove all Suspence from the Mind of Fyzoola Cawn; and having compleated this Business, return to my Station.

Governor General—I recommend, that we approve of Mr. Middleton's Proceedings in the Negotiation with Fyzoola Cawn.—As I perceive that no positive Order has been sent to Mr. Middleton, to transport the Treasure designed for the Service of Colonel Leslie's Detachment to the Place of its Rendezvous, although implied in the Order already written upon that Subject, I move, that he be now directed to send it to Colonel Leslie.

Mr. Wheeler agrees.

Mr. Francis—I disapprove of the whole Transaction with Fyzoola Cawn. The Reports to his Disadvantage, which Mr. Daniel Barwell was sent to investigate, appeared to Mr. Middleton himself to be in the highest Degree improbable; the Enquiry therefore seems to have been superfluous. I believe the Guarantee tendered to Fyzoola Cawn to be equally unnecessary, at least I see no Advantage the Company gains by it.—I agree to the Second Motion.

Mr. Barwell—I approve of the Negotiation entered into by Mr. Middleton with Fyzoola Cawn, and all the Proceedings in consequence. This Government was in Fact engaged by Colonel Champion's Signature being to the Treaty made with that Chief. I think Fyzoola Cawn has been used rather with Harshness by Mr. Middleton, in his refusing to tell him that he should be satisfied of the Powers that were vested in him by the Board. In the present State of the Negotiation, I do not see that there can be the least Occasion for Mr. Daniel Barwell's being detained from his Station; any Thing further that may be necessary, must now rest totally with the Resident at Oude; and I therefore move, That Mr. Daniel Barwell be immediately ordered back to his Station at Benares.—I agree to the Order to Mr. Middleton to send the Treasure to Colonel Leslie.

Agreed to both the Governor General's Motions.

Mr. Wheler agrees to Mr. Barwell's Motion.

Mr. Francis agrees.

Governor General—I cannot object to the Motion made by Mr. Barwell, still hoping that Mr. D. Barwell may have accomplished his Commission before our Order for his Recall can take effect.

Agreed to Mr. Barwell's Motion.

Resolved, That the following Lett<sup>r</sup> be writt<sup>n</sup> to Mr. Middleton.

Sir,

We have received your Letters of the 20th March, 4th, 10th, and 20th April; and think it proper to express our Approbation of your Proceedings in the Negotiation with the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn: But as we do not conceive there can be any further Occasion for Mr. D. Barwell's Stay with that Chief, we desire you will signify to him our Orders for his immediate Return to his Station at Benares.

We desire that you will immediately dispatch the Ten Lacks of Treasure, which you have been ordered to reserve for the Use of the Detachment under Colonel Leslie, to him, with a proper Guard to escort it.

Governor General—I move, That the last Letter received from the Nabob Mobaruck ul Dowlah, may be entered in this Place, and that the Board do agree to comply with the Requisitions contained therein; but as it is too late to consider this Question To-day, I desire that it may remain till the next Meeting of the Board in this Department, and that in the mean Time the Nabob's Letter be sent round to the Members of the Board.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 21st May 1778.

Read the following Letter from Mr. Middleton.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I had the Honour to address you under Date the 20th Instant, relative to some Occurrences which then appeared to obstruct the immediate Conclusion of Mr. Barwell's Negotiations with Fyzoola Cawn; since that Period, however, I have received Two other Letters from Mr. Barwell, acquainting me of his having prevailed upon Fyzoola Cawn, under the Promise of procuring for him the formal Ratification of the Honourable Board, to receive the Treaty and Guarantee in the Manner they have been already transmitted to him; of his having accordingly delivered them in due Form, and received from Fyzoola Cawn, in Exchange, a Counterpart of the Vizier's Treaty, to be presented to his Excellency; also of the Rohilla Chief's having, upon the Receipt of the Treaty, delivered him a Nuzzer of One Lack of Rupees, with Horses, Elephants, &c. for the Vizier; and of his having offered the same Sum, in Token of his Gratitude and Respect, to the Honourable Company. The latter, however, Mr. Barwell thought proper to decline the immediate Acceptance of, having no Authority from me for that Purpose; but, as the absolute Refusal of it seemed to afford Fyzoola Cawn Matter of Concern, he consented to receive a conditional Obligation, subject to the Approbation of the Board, for that Amount, Copy whereof I do myself the Pleasure to enclose; requesting to be favoured with your particular Instructions for my Guidance in this Matter, as I consider it a Point of too delicate a Nature for me to decide upon.

It appearing from Mr. Barwell's Letters (Copies of which, for the more particular Information of the Honourable Board, I have thought it necessary to enclose) that he left Rampore before the Arrival of my Letter to him of the 20th Instant, no new Consequences could of course be produced by it; it must therefore now rest with them to determine how far it may be proper to comply ply with the Requisition so strenuously urged by Fyzoola Cawn, which becomes a Matter of more Moment, since Mr. Barwell has been induced to pledge his Faith for its being granted.

After expressing my entire Approbation of Mr. Barwell's Conduct in his Negotiations with Fyzoola Cawn, I must submit to the Honourable Board the Propriety of his Claim to such an Allowance as may reimburse him the extra Charges he has necessarily incurred in the Execution of his Commission.

To Nathaniel Middleton, Esquire, &c. &c.

Sir,

I did myself the Pleasure of addressing you the 14th Instant, to inform you of the Doubts and Suspicions Fyzoola Cawn entertained, in regard to the Authenticity of the Guarantee granted by you on the Part of the Honourable Company, and witnessed by Mr. Chandler and myself—since this, I have had frequent Communication with him and his Ministers. By repeatedly exposing to them the Impossibility of its being an Act unauthorized by the Honourable Board, and pointing out to them, in the most accurate Manner I was able, the wide Difference between the present Guarantee and the former Treaty merely witnessed by Colonel Champion, I have at length removed all Doubts and Suspicions from the Mind of Fyzoola Cawn, and fully convinced him, that while he preserves every Article of his Treaty inviolate on his Part, he will meet with Protection from the Honourable Company, in case any unjust Attacks should at any Time be made upon his Rights by the Vizier.—But notwithstanding Fyzoola Cawn professes himself perfectly satisfied, and thoroughly convinced of the Favour conferred on him by the Honourable Board by their ready Compliance with his earnest Solicitations, and of the Guarantee's being granted by their express Directions, yet he informs me, his Subjects, who attend to mere External, will not believe his Solicitation for the Guarantee has met with Success, unless they see the actual Seal of the Honourable Company affixed to it; that therefore he requests you will make Application for that Purpose to the Honourable Board, that when the Guarantee has been ratified by them, he may receive it, and return that which at present bears your Seal on their Part. As the Propriety of this Request spoke for itself, I did not scruple to give him the most positive Assurances of its being complied with. I told him, the Intent of the Guarantee was to remove all Dread from his Mind, which the Reports which had been circulated so injurious to his Character and good Faith, might have occasioned, and that therefore he might rely on the Guarantee's being granted him in such Manner as was most satisfactory to himself, and most conducive to the Quiet and Welfare of his Country. Confiding in these Assurances, and convinced, on mature Deliberation, of the Authenticity of the Guarantee, he has requested I will publicly present him with it, and the Treaty renewed by the Vizier, that his Subjects may no longer remain in Suspence as to his Continuance in his Dominions.—Immediately I receive the Khelaut with which I am to invest him on the Part of the Vizier, I will deliver to him the Treaty and Guarantee in the most public Manner, so as, if possible, to create a full Belief in the Breast of all his Subjects and Adherents, that the Company will protect him as long as he strictly adheres to the Letter of his Treaty, and that the Seal of the Honourable Company is mere Matter of Form in the present Case, as yours on their Part is equally binding. I shall be extremely careful in acting in such a Manner as to induce Fyzoola Cawn to shew a Sense of the Obligation he has received from his Excellency. After I have compleated this, as no further Business will delay me here, I shall return with all Haste to my Station, unless I receive your Directions to the contrary.

To Nathaniel Middleton, &c.

Sir,

This Morning I presented Fyzoola Cawn with the Treaty renewed by the Vizier, under the Honourable Company's Guarantee, together with the separate Guarantee of the Honourable Company, preserving all the Ceremony on the Occasion necessary to establish firm Conviction in the Minds of all his Subjects, of its being an Act fully authorized by the English Government, which was now become bound to exact with Impartiality a strict Observance of each Article of the Treaty, both on the Vizier's and on his Part. I explained to Fyzoola Cawn the Nature of a Treaty of Guarantee in the fullest Manner, that, should his Fears of the Vizier ever be justified, he might be led to make his Appeal to the Honourable Company, rather than to his own Strength; for that they would ever guard his Rights from Infringement or Violation, so long as his Duty and Allegiance to the Vizier remained unimpeached.

When Fyzoola Cawn had received from me the Treaty on the Part of the Vizier, and the Guarante on the Part of the Honourable Company, he presented me with a Nuzzer of Two Elephants and Horses, and a Lack of Rupees, as if to the Vizier. Not being authorized by you to accept any pecuniary Consideration, I at first refused the Lack; but upon Fyzoola Cawn's urging to me, that upon such Occasions it was the invariable Custom of Hindostan, and that it must on the present be expected, as it had been formerly the Case, and that my Refusal of it would carry an Appearance Footing, I judged the Acceptance of it both necessary and proper; but the Reason that more especially induced me to it was, that the Nuzzer of the Elephants and Horses would not have been becoming the Dignity of his Excellency to accept, without this Addition. By the Desire of Fyzoola Cawn, I shall bring his Present with me, in the safest and most convenient Manner I am able, that you may deliver it in his Name to the Vizier, as a Pledge of his Duty and Allegiance.

After this Fyzoola Cawn, in the Presence of the greatest Part of his Subjects, who were assembled, expressed the highest Sense of the Obligation conferred on him by the Honourable Board, by their ready Attention to his Solicitation for the Guarantee of the Honourable Company; which, he said, by giving Permanency to his Treaty, had frustrated the malicious Aim of his Enemies, who, by raising false and injurious Reports, had endeavoured by these Means to bring about his Ruin: That now, secure in his Possessions, he should not suffer the Whispers and Insinuations of Malevolence to alarm him, but, relying entirely on the just and impartial Interference of the Honourable Company in all Disputes and Jealousies which might in future arise between him and the Vizier, he should most scrupulously adhere to the Letter of his Treaty, which would always entitle him to the Protection of the Honourable Company, in case unjust Attempts were at any Time made to oppress him: That his whole Study would now be to improve the Cultivation of his Country to the utmost, as he was certain of enjoying the Fruits of his own Industry and Labour without Molestation, and that for this Benefit he regarded himself as indebted to the Honourable Company. He then desired he might be permitted to make some Acknowledgments for the Obligation he received; and offered me, as a Testimony of his Gratitude, a Lack of Rupees for the Honourable Company, in the same Manner as he had just before done for the Vizier. I told him, that the Guarantee had been granted at his most earnest Request, with the free Consent of our Ally the Vizier, to disappoint the Malignity of those who, by circulating Reports prejudicial to his Character and good Faith, wanted to create Differences between the Vizier and himself, and not with a View or Expectation of the Honourable Company's reaping any pecuniary Advantage thereby; that I was not therefore empowered to accept of any Thing of the Nature, but that I would signify his Intentions to you on this Point, who would immediately acquaint the Honourable Board with them; and that in the mean While I would take an Obligation from him for the Amount, which would be returned the Instant the Honourable Board had intimated to you their Refusal or Acceptance of it. I inclose you the Obligation. You will be pleased to inform the Honourable Board of this Offer made by Fyzoola Cawn.

I herewith enclose you the Treaty given on the Part of Fyzoola Cawn, formally and publicly sealed by him, and attested by Two of the principal People of his Court, and myself.

Having now fulfilled the Investigation and Negotiation with which you encharged me, on the Part of the Vizier and Honourable Company, and not having received any further Directions from you that render my Stay at the Capital of Fyzoola Cawn necessary, I shall take my Departure from it Tomorrow or next Day.

When you address the Honourable Board, I must request, if my Conduct from the Beginning to the Conclusion of this Negotiation has been such as to gain your Approbation, you will signify as much to them, and at the same Time desire to be informed what Allowance they will be pleased to make me. The unavoidable Expence I have been put to in travelling, in Tents, and preserving that Consequence necessary to give Weight to my Mission, calculated upon the narrowest Scale, amounts from Ten to Twelve thousand Rupees. Whether, upon your Representation, the Honourable Board will be pleased fully to reimburse me for this Expence, incurred in the Execution of my public Commission, or not, I flatter myself my Conduct, through the Whole of it, will meet with their Approbation, and render me worthy their Attention.

I am, &c.

Governor General—I move, That in Reply to this Letter, the Board do express their Approbation of the Treaty, and of the Conduct of Mr. D. Barwell; that we authorize Mr. Middleton to accept the Offer made by Fyzoola Cawn, to the Company, of One Lack of Rupees; that a Letter be written to Fyzoola Cawn, from myself, confirming the Obligation of the Company as Guarantee to the Treaty formed between him and the Vizier, which will be equivalent in its Effect, though not in Form, to an Engagement sent him with the Company's Seal affixed to it; and that Mr. Daniel Barwell be directed to lay before the Board, through Mr. Middleton, an Account of his Expences.

Mr. Wheeler—I assent.

Mr. Francis—I adhere to the Opinion I have already expressed of this Transaction, but I have nothing to object to Mr. D. Barwell's Conduct in it. I think our accepting of the Lack of Rupees, as a Recompence for our Interposition, is beneath the Dignity of this Government, and will discredit us in the Eyes of the Indian Powers. If the Measure was right, it became us to adopt it without such a Consideration. I agree to the proposed Letter to Fyzoola Cawn.

Mr. Barwell—I cannot regard the Compliment offered by Fyzoola Cawn in the Light in which Mr. Francis is pleased to view it. I do not think we can, with Propriety, decline benefitting the Company on the present Occasion. It is not beneath the Dignity of the Vizier of the Empire to receive a similar Compliment; and the Relation in which the Company stand to him, if the Offer of Fyzoola Cawn was refused by this Government, might afford Matter for Speculation. By the Customs of India, the Refusal might here be regarded as a Mark of Indisposition on our Government to Fyzoola Cawn, and in Europe it might be interpreted a Loss to the Company for the Benefit of some Individuals. I am therefore for accepting the Present on Behalf of the Public, and agree to the rest of the Governor General's Propositions.

Agreed to the Governor General's Propositions.

Extract of the Secret Letter from Bengal, dated 20th March 1778.

We formerly reported to you the Suspicions which were suggested to us by Mr. Middleton, as harboured by the Nabob, of disloyal Intentions to his Government in Fyzoola Cawn, a Rohilla Chief, whose Country was confirmed to him by a Treaty with the late Vizier. Some late Occurrences having impressed these Facts more strongly in the current Opinion, and Fyzoola Cawn, aware of the little Dependence to be placed on the Nabob's Justice, from the numerous Instances he had heard of his arbitrary and oppressive Conduct to other Jaghierdars, solicited Mr. Middleton's Intercession to obtain the Company's Guarantee to his Treaty. This Overture afforded Mr. Middleton a good Opportunity, as he thought, of discovering the Truth of the Reports circulated against that Chief, and therefore induced him to depute Mr. Daniel Octavus Barwell, who was on a Visit to him at Lucknow, to Fyzoola Cawn, to ascertain the Facts, and to inquire into his present Views in desiring our Guarantee. In the mean Time, Mr. Middleton has applied to us for Orders, and we have authorized him to comply with the Request of Fyzoola Cawn, if it shall be agreeable to the Nabob. We beg Leave to refer you to our Proceedings for the Minutes entered on this Occasion.

Extract of the Secret Letter from Bengal, dated 25th May 1778.

We have before informed you, that in Compliance with the particular Solicitations of the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn, we empowered the Resident at Oude to grant the Company's Guarantee to the Treaty subsisting between the Vizier and that Chief. The Vizier having readily consented to this Measure, and accordingly renewed the Treaty which had been concluded with his Father, the Guarantee of Mr. Middleton, on the Part of this Government, has been affixed to it. Mr. Daniel Octavus Barwell, who was deputed to Fyzoola Cawn by the Resident on this Service, as well as to make local Enquiries into the Truth of Reports which had prevailed to the Prejudice of the Fidelity of that Chief, has reported them to have been raised entirely without Foundation.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 28th December 1778.

RECEIVED the following Letters from Mr. Middleton:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Upon the first Information I received of a Rupture with France, it occurred to me that a favourable Opportunity now presented itself to the Nabob Fyzoola Cawn, to testify the grateful Sense which he had so repeatedly declared he entertained of the Honourable Board's Indulgence to him in guaranteeing his Treaty with the Vizier; and having indirectly founded his Inclinations, I had the Satisfaction to find a Promptness in him to render the Company any Assistance within the Bounds of his Finances and Ability, even surpassing my own Expectations. I could not therefore, consistent with the Duty I owe you and my Honourable Employers, neglect what appeared to me so favourable an Occasion of extending the Influence of the Company, and in some Measure strengthening the Ties by which they hold their valuable Possessions in India. Knowing, or at least believing, that a respectable Corps of Cavalry has long been an Object of your Attention, as the only Addition wanting to compleat your Military Establishment in every Essential, I suggested to Fyzoola Cawn the Loan of Two thousand Horse, to serve the Company in such Manner as the Honourable Board might might prescribe, during the Continuance of the present War with France. And it is with that Degree of Satisfaction which I shall ever feel in endeavouring to promote the Interests and Security of the Company, that I now acquaint you I have received from Fyzoola Cawn, a formal Offer of the Assistance I suggested to him, and that too without any apparent Reluctance, or the smallest Efforts on my Part, incompatible with the Dignity of the Honourable Company, to influence his Conduct. Indeed, he received my Proposition, through the Medium of his Vackeel at this Court, with an apparent Satisfaction, that convinced me he was not only pleased, but highly flattered with the Idea of so close an Union and Connection of Interests as this Measure must necessarily establish between him and the Company; and I am persuaded he will cheerfully accede to any Stipulations or Arrangements which the Board may be pleased to prescribe for the Regulation of this Corps, so as to make it effectually answer the Purpose it is meant to serve.

I do myself the Pleasure to enclose to the Honourable Board, a Copy of the Letter I received from Fyzoola Cawn; and have also, by this Dawk, forwarded one from him to the Governor General, on the same Subject: And I have only further to add, that what is now offered to the Consideration of the Board, is only the Outlines of a Measure, which it is left to them to bring to Perfection, by such Amendments or Alterations as to their Wisdom shall seem meet.

It will afford me particular Satisfaction to find that my Conduct in this Negotiation has met the Approbation of the Honourable Board; in which Hope I subscribe myself,

Lucknow,
the 5th December 1778.

With the highest Respect, &c. &c. &c.
(Signed) Nathaniel Middleton,
Resident at the Vizier's Court.

Agreed, That the Offer of Fyzoola Cawn, to entertain a Body of Two thousand Cavalry for the Use of the Company, be accepted; and that he be requested to hold them in Readiness for any Service that may be required; and that the Thanks of the Board be returned to him for this Mark of his faithful Attachment to the Company.

The Governor General is accordingly requested to write to Fyzoola Cawn.
